A Handbook For Lay Evangelists

by S. F. Monnier, *Associate Director,
Lay Activities,
General Conference of S.D.A.*

We all like to hear cheering experiences about the progress of what we call the "work" of God. And when the word "progress" is mentioned, our first thought is about increases in membership and baptisms.

In what parts of the world is the work of God growing the most rapidly? We could mention Inter-America, South America, Africa and the Philippines, among others. And then a question comes to mind, Why are there so many baptisms in these areas? The answer is certainly that in those places our church members are deeply involved in sharing their faith, multiplying personal contacts and giving Bible studies in the homes of the people. And then—here is another secret of their success—a number of laywomen are holding public evangelistic meetings.

Now let's avoid a misunderstanding. A lay evangelistic campaign does not always mean an attendance of 80, 100, 200 or 500 people. A successful campaign may have an attendance of only two or three Adventists, 10 to 20 friends and neighbors—people with whom these two or three members have had contact.

To be a lay evangelist, it is not necessary to spend months and years training as a preacher and an orator. One needs only to:

- (1) Live in close communion with his God.
- (2) Know his Bible.
- (3) Get from his pastor a minimum of training on how to make a call and how to preach successfully.
- (4) Have faith, the courage to start, and perseverance to keep going.

One day a layman came to visit me in my office. At the time I was president of the French West Indies in the Guyana Mission. He told me that the Lord had spoken to him and told him to hold an evangelistic campaign.

He sold a piece of land in order to rent a hall that seated 100 and to buy a piano. I told him, "But brother, in the town where you are planning to present these meetings we have no Adventists. Did you first visit the people in their homes? Are you engaged in giving dozens of Bible studies? Are you sure that people will attend your meetings?" Our good brother smiled and said, "But pastor, you are forgetting something. The town where I intend to hold the meetings is where I was born. I know everyone and everyone knows me. They all will want to come and listen to me. Attendance will be no problem!" "Well," I said, "you realize that you are not following the blueprint and plans of the church. I wish you success and will pray for you, but—" We prayed together and he left.

After spending a lot of money on advertising, the first meeting was held. A dozen people attended. At the second meeting there were eight people; and the third, four. At the fourth, his wife and daughter were present—no one else. The wife was to usher the people in and the daughter played the piano. Our lay evangelist asked what he should do. The wife said, "See, I told you you shouldn't spend your money this way. You were too bold. Why did you not start more humbly?" The daughter said, "Father, I heard you as you were practising your sermon for tonight in your bedroom the other day. It is a good message. Let's pray together and, father, go ahead and preach." "Thank you," said the father. They prayed and he started his sermon. He preached with power, full of God's Spirit, to a hall with only two seats occupied.

A man passing on the sidewalk heard a few words. He looked through the back windows and didn't see anyone. He came back and looked through the door and saw the preacher and two ladies. Looking closer, he smiled and said to himself, "Well, not too much success. The two listeners are his wife and daughter." Then suddenly something the preacher said struck his heart and he stood outside against the wall listening.

Our brother and his wife and daughter didn't know he was there. At the end of the sermon the preacher made a call, as he was supposed to do, and asked the people to raise their hand, manifesting in this way their decision. Outside on the sidewalk the man shamelessly raised his hand and suddenly realizing what he was doing brought his hand down and said to himself, "I am ridiculous." Then he heard the preacher announce the next meeting. He decided to attend. He came, bringing three people. A week later 13 were present, then 20, 25, 30.

Yes, God performed a miracle. About a year later it was my privilege to baptize 13 people—the first souls won in this town as the result of the evangelistic campaign of this courageous and persevering lay preacher. Among the 13 was the man who had stopped on the sidewalk, his wife, two of his children, his brother, his brother's wife and one child.

This lay evangelist walked with God. He knew his Bible. He trained himself by reading and praying, with much seriousness and repetition. He had the courage to start and even to preach to empty chairs. He persevered and the Lord blessed him. In this town today we have a church of over 100 members.

In order to help our dedicated laymen around the world, the General Conference Lay Activities department has prepared a manual entitled, Lay Evangelist's Handbook. Here are the chapter titles in this manual.

Alberta's Lay Preachers' Seminar

L. A. Shipowick, Director Lay Activities Department
Canadian Union Conference of S.D.A.

At the Lay Preachers' Seminar in Alberta, approximately ninety laymen from all over the province came to Foothills Youth Camp for a weekend of spiritual instruction and inspiration.

Ralph Thompson, Vice-President of the General Conference, really challenged our laymen to a finished work. He brought us a world report that explained how the lay people in many countries are working together, with their pastors, to see that the work is accomplished. The number of people that are being baptized in Inter-America, through the faithful efforts of the lay people, is an inspiration.

Samuel Monnier, of the General Conference Lay Activities Department, gave outstanding help during his instructional periods. His words made a lasting impression on the delegates. His main thrust was to witness to our relatives first; then our neighbors, and then branch out from there.

During Sabbath School, Lewis Shipowick instructed the delegates on how to use the Sabbath School class as a witnessing band. He chose various delegates at random to show us how a model Sabbath School class should be conducted. The questions were placed and the students responded. The Sabbath School members gave a brief report on what had been happening as they witnessed for the Lord the previous week.

One of the Seminar's highlights was the testimony meeting lead by Norm How, Canadian Union Conference Secretary. In one of the testimonies, a delegate stated that for many years she had lived right across the road from one of our churches. She prayed that someone

A Measurable Blind Spot

by G. D. Strunk, Director
Adventist Health Ministries

This article is not for wide distribution among non-S.D.A.s!

At the recent Ontario Conference Camp Meetings, about 200 Seventh-day Adventists were screened by Fit-Test; a mobile fitness testing van sponsored by the Ministry of Culture and Recreation. The test measures strength, flexibility, percent body fat, Forced Vital Capacity (a lung function test) and especially an electro-cardiogram-monitored step test to examine certain heart responses under exercise conditions. We didn't do too well!

The norm or standard for the test is 1,000 persons taken at random from Toronto. We did not compare well! The individuals being tested either did quite well as if they had been caring for themselves or they did quite poorly as if they had been neglecting themselves. There were very few who were average. And there were more below average among the females than above average.

Now isn't that interesting especially for Seventh-day Adventists. I thought we always showed well when compared to the average population. That depends on the kind of test being run.

The health reform emphasis for so many years has been diet, diet, diet. So that if blood tests are taken Seventh-day Adventists run lower cholesterol and triglyceride readings and have a lower heart attack rate than the average. They also experience less cancer that is related to diet. This has brought favorable recognition to Seventh-day Adventists for their longer life and less sickness.

There are some factors other than diet of course that contribute to their well being such as trust in God and an orderly life.

But the counsel, the inspired instruction, the requirement, the command to exercise regularly has been strangely and perhaps deliberately ignored. And our blind spot is statistically and measurably evident when tested for physical fitness. Admittedly a camp meeting audience may not represent a true cross section of Seventh-day Adventists. But if we were to take tests that compared their nutrition benefits with the general population, they would compare favorably so it is obvious they are overlooking the exercise requirement, especially if they are below the general population. This is more so with the female population than with the male population.

Does the Lord really place that much emphasis on this subject?

Please notice that EXERCISE is listed in Ministry of Healing, page 127, among the eight natural remedies along with diet, trust in God, air and others. Then to leave us without doubt we are told:

"The health cannot be preserved unless some portion of each day is given to muscular exertion in the open air." Fundamentals of Christian Education, p. 146.

Notice the words "each day" and "open air". Usually we find time to eat and to sleep each day and to make money as many days as possible because we see the necessity. Could it be that we eat and sleep and make money because we feel the need to and not because God says to. But since we don't feel the need to exercise we don't exercise even though God says to. Those who obey God and maintain an exercise program daily for a few years are the first to feel the need of exercise when they miss it just as much as missing eating or sleeping. . . and more than making money because it gives them a freedom from stress known only by those who exercise.

It's possible that we don't recognize invalidism. We may consider an invalid someone who is confined to bed or wheel chair. But many are invalids when it comes to climbing a hill or performing heavy physical taxation. The effect from such morbid conditions of body on the brain and spiritual life will be declared in the judgement for exercise is a religious duty.

"The chief if not the only reason why many become invalids is that the blood does not circulate freely, and the changes in the vital fluid, which are necessary to life and health, do not take place. They have not given their bodies exercise nor their lungs food, which is pure, fresh air; therefore it is impossible for the blood to be vitalized, and it pursues its course sluggishly through the system. The more we exercise, the better will be the circulation of the blood. More people die for want of exercise than through overfatigue; very many more rust out than wear out. Those who accustom themselves to proper exercise in the open air will generally have a good and vigorous circulation. We are more dependent upon the air we breathe than upon the food we eat. Men and women, young and old, who desire health, and who would enjoy active life, should remember that they cannot have these without a good circulation. Whatever their business and inclinations, they should make up their minds to exercise in the open air as much as they can. They should feel it a religious duty to overcome the conditions of health which have kept them confined indoors, deprived of exercise in the open air." Testimonies, Vol. 2, p. 525, 526.

Where Have The Fathers Gone?

by John and Millie Youngberg
Directors of Family Life Workshop
Andrews University

How much time do fathers spend with their sons? A group of 300 seventh- and eighth-grade boys logged accurately the time their fathers actually spent with them over a two week period. The majority of them only saw dad at the dinner table. Some never saw their father for days at a time. In this particular sample the average time father and son were alone together for an entire week was 7½ minutes! (1)

Where have the fathers gone? They have gone many places. But what concerns us here is that they have gone out of the everyday involved lives of their children.

Books on motherhood and child rearing abound, but until recently there have been scarcely any books available on fatherhood. Biller and Meredith in their book Father Power point out that more than 10 percent—about 8 million—of the children in the United States live in fatherless homes at a given time. Three times this number are fatherless for a significant part of their childhood. In some ghettos more than 50 percent of the children are fatherless. However, the most widespread problem is father neglect where fathers live with their families but have lost close, regular contact with their children. (2)

A father and his young son were walking through the woods. In places the terrain was open and the little fellow ran ahead or found his own way around obstacles. But after awhile they came to a place where there was considerable undergrowth of brush and blackberry bushes. The boy had missed the path and soon found himself entangled. "Daddy, my legs are getting scratched!" Dad lifted him out of his plight and said, "Son, take my hand and step where I step." Within a few minutes they had crossed the thorny place and arrived where they were going. In life happy is the child who when his "legs are getting scratched" can find guidance and support from a wise father. Such a father doesn't just tell the child what to do but models in his own life the better way and can say, "Here son, step where I step." A strong warm father model in childhood can save children from many of the thorns of the way.

Father Deprivation and Offspring Adjustment

Psychiatrist Irving Bieber of the New York Medical College who with his colleagues ran a nine-year study of homosexuals undergoing psychotherapy, declares that he has never interviewed a homosexual who had a close and warm relationship with his father. (3) Psychologist Henry B. Biller says that studies of the family backgrounds of both male and female homosexuals uncover a very high occurrence of father-deprivation. (4)

Biller and Meredith point out that father presence or involvement tends to have positive effects on their daughters' relationships with boys. Girls deprived of a father because of divorce are more likely to become "boy-crazy" as they mistakenly seek appreciation from a father figure. Girls whose fathers have died may tend to avoid boys. (5)

A lack of father involvement with the child tends to decrease the child's analytical ability and his ability for productive thinking (translating great plans into appropriate action). (6)

Certainly there are some wonderful fatherless or father-neglected families where sons and daughters have been successfully reared to form happy well-adjusted homes of their own. However, this task is made so much easier and more delightful when father is a strong, dynamic figure in the everyday life of the children.

The Father's Role

The spirit of prophecy years ago gave us sound considered guidance on how to prevent a myriad of problems which today are associated with low father image. In 1905 Ellen G. White wrote: "The father should enforce in his family the sterner virtues,—energy, integrity, honesty, patience, courage, diligence, and practical usefulness. And what he requires of his children he himself should practice, illustrating these virtues in his own manly bearing." But assertiveness is not enough, for the statement goes on to say: "Combine affection with authority, kindness and sympathy with firm restraint. Give some of your leisure hours to your children; become acquainted with them; associate with them in their work and in their sports, and win their confidence. Cultivate friendship with them, especially with your sons. In this way you will be a strong influence for good." (7)

A study among Seventh-day Adventist families has found that the greater the encouraging role of the father, the lesser the negative roles of the children. This inverse relationship was not nearly so strong when comparing the encouraging role of the mother with the negative roles of the children. In other words, in the sample studied, father encouragement, when moderate and not overdone, was of premium value in family interaction. (8)

Fun Fatherhood

Fathers who take initiative in developing "familiness" enjoy a variety of relationship activities with their sons and daughters. One father who travels considerably takes his sons with him on his business trips. A truck driver has as his traveling companion a different child each week during summer vacation time. These children begin to see the world and the world of their father as well.

In one home a visitor might hear father singing—"Don't sit under the apple tree with anyone else but me," as he and the 4-year-old daughter crouch under the make-believe apple tree (the grand piano). Hide and seek, a bumpy camel ride on dad's back, special stories with all kinds of strange sound effects, are part of this daughter's exciting childhood. Father is a very important person in her life.

One father and teen-age daughter have a close relationship in their physical fitness program. Not only do they play tennis together but football as well. Sunday afternoon is their special afternoon together. Sometimes they watch their favorite ball game on TV. During the commercial time they rush outside to kick a few balls and throw a few passes. In the evening father, mother and daughter talk naturally about spiritual concerns and at times join in a lively discussion on politics.

A ride to the junk yard looking for parts to be used on the old jalopy is an important event for one son. Soon four legs are seen from under the old car as they work together on "their" project of

by Bill Edsell, Youth Director,
Canadian Union Conference

Tire off the pole.

Alberta camp meeting hosted the first family-youth program of its kind in Canada. One-half day was set aside for family-youth togetherness. Fifteen hundred family members began the afternoon with a community sing on the spacious lawn in front of the auditorium.

The group was divided into three smaller units which were appointed a separate location to team up with fellow group and family members for an afternoon of recreation and fun.

The time was spent in group activity relays, softball, football, earthball, with a confidence course that challenged the team spirit of each group.

Three times in the afternoon a signal was given for each group to advance to the location of the previous group, so all in attendance would experience the fun and advantages of the complete afternoon.

A watermelon feed closed the recreation period and all attended the evening family meeting conducted by H. M. S. Richards, Jr. and the King's Heralds of the Voice of Prophecy.

"We hope this has started a tradition for our camp meeting."

"I came early to be with my family just for this."

"It was welcome exercise in the middle of the week."

"What a wonderful time for my family."

People just overflowed with excitement and praise to the Conference planners for this family program.

The president, Elder Jim Wilson, and the camp meeting recreation committee under the youth director, Elder Leslie Neal, are to be complimented for their planning and implementing of this fine family-youth event.

"Looking and Hastening" Theme at Alberta Camp Meeting

The beautiful setting of Foothills Camp was the location for Alberta's 1979 camp meeting.

The camp meeting theme, "Looking and Hastening" was well presented by the guest speakers.

Dr. & Mrs. A. O. Mazat presented a practical Family Life series daily at 9:00. Elder N. R. Dower shared "Vital Lessons from the Sanctuary" daily at 10:45 and Elder C. Coffman presented an indepth study of the "Three Angels' Messages" nightly at 7:30.

Wednesday afternoon was Family Day. All types of old-time picnic fun was had by all — young and old.

Norm Matiko from the Voice of Prophecy and Pastor Elmer Koronko highlighted each evening's song service. Elder R. L. Osmunson brought an exciting series to the senior youth, "Positive Dimensions of Christianity" and "Journeys Through the Gospel of Mark."

The camp meeting came to an exciting climax with the ordination of four men: Pastors D. Braun, St. Clair Kydd, Bill Wigley and Wayne Culmore.

Edmonton Baptism

On June 23, a baptism was held in the Edmonton Ukrainian church where Don Nicholat surrendered his heart to the Lord and accepted Jesus as his personal Saviour.

Don was well known by his pastor while yet a young boy. The pastor's parents used to visit the Nicholat family many years ago.

Don has a number of relatives who joined the remnant church several years ago and now Don also decided to give his heart to the Lord while still a young man. May the Lord bless him as he serves his Master.

Vegreville Seniors' Day

March 17 was a special day in Vegreville. It was Pioneer's or Senior Citizen's Sabbath and the senior members shared their experiences of 40 to 50 years ago when they became Seventh-day Adventists. They recalled how they met under trying circumstances, sometimes in members' homes, under machine sheds or beneath the shelter of trees.

Elder and Mrs. Hillock visiting from the conference office, added to the service with their children's story and well-illustrated lesson.

After a fellowship dinner the Hillocks shared their experiences from the mission field.

The Vegreville church school students presented a program under the direction of Mrs. Kay Dorchuck, the Home and School leader, recently.

The musical program was greatly enjoyed and was highlighted by an interview with pioneer, Mrs. Proskiw, who remembered the hardships her family endured when they accepted the Advent message.

Maranatha – Nelson Project – Fast Progress

Coming from as far away as Takoma Park, Maryland, and Carson City, Nevada, as well as many points in British Columbia and Washington, some 70 volunteers helped Nelson Seventh-day Adventists accomplish a task that would otherwise have taken years.

"It was only in February of this year that the two-acre property was purchased; and since then it's been an active time for our small congregation," reports Pastor Zinner. Plans were drawn up and approved by committees and government officials. Excavation and progress was steady until June 17 and 18 when dozens of volunteers swarmed in to assist in the erection of the new Nelson Seventh-day Adventist Church.

On the first day alone of the "Maranatha Workbee", the four main walls were erected as well as construction of 50 trusses. The next day the trusses were put into place on the roof. The third day the roof was put on — fast progress.

In mid-May one local resident was a bit skeptical upon noticing a sign announcing the official opening for June 30, but as the Big Day was approaching, he became excited and convinced that it could happen. And true it was as over 125 individuals gathered for special all-day services on June 30 to commemorate the official opening.

Assisting Pastor Zinner and the local congregation were: Glen Maxson, president of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in B.C.; and W. W. Rogers, president of "Maranatha" and building development director for the S.D.A. Church in B.C.

On site a fully functional kitchen served as headquarters for the four full-time volunteer cooks. Meals were served three times daily in a large circus tent to the 30 or 40 volunteer workers.

All was made possible by the faith of the local congregation and donations, — most of the lumber being supplied by Jacobson Brothers Lumber of Williams Lake; over 4,000 board feet of cedar siding from Starline Cedar Mills of Lac La Hache; much of the paint donated by Glidden Paint Company of Vancouver and Irving Toombs, painting contractor of Prince George; approximately $1,000.00 worth of cereals, flours, and pasta products from Rogers Wholesale Foods of Armstrong, B.C.; much of the electrical supplies donated by Max's Electric of Salmon Arm; as well as numerous donations of funds and supplies by other individuals and companies, including assistance from many local firms.

A Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic was held Friday, June 1, 1979 from 11:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the College Park Seventh-day Adventist Church in Oshawa. Many new friends were made including members of the community who saw the sign in front of the church advertising the clinic. It is hoped that in the future more volunteer blood clinics will be held at the College Park Church as a service to the community.

Mr. C. Corbin, a Lay Preacher from the Toronto Parkdale Church, with the support of other laymen, recently conducted a series of evangelistic meetings in the home of S. Headlam. Several non-Adventists attended. The meetings continued for over three months. The people faithfully attended each week. It was a real joy to our laymen when three individuals took their stand for the Truth and were baptized.

Mr. Milton Perkins and Mr. Horace Alexander, two outstanding laymen, conducted a crusade in the Dundas area. They were supported by the pastor and members of the Hamilton Mountain Church.

On May 20, 1979 the Toronto Perth Avenue Church held their Pathfinder Investiture Service. Pathfinders from the other Toronto area churches were on hand to participate in this service. Guest speaker for the occasion was Pastor Wintley Phipps of Washington D.C. The theme of his message was "What Am I Among So Many?"

Pastor Gordon Pifher presented the charge to the Pathfinders and conducted the investiture. He presented 5-year service pins to leaders J. Walker and N. Haughton and a 3-year pin to Sister E. Edwards, present Pathfinder leader.

The total Pathfinder membership of the Perth Avenue Church stands at 55.

newfoundland Special Day at Lethbridge

May 19 was a special day for the members of the Lethbridge, Bonavista, and Come-by-Chance areas as they came together for a day of fellowship in the Lethbridge church. During the morning service, Angela Sharlene Boutcher was dedicated to the Lord. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Boutcher. Following the morning services a fellowship dinner was enjoyed by all in the school hall.

A special Mother's day program was presented in the afternoon by the children and young people under the direction of Marion Stanley. With poems and songs the young people honored mothers for their love and care. Each mother in attendance was given a flower, with a special gift to our youngest mother, oldest and the mother with the most children.

manitoba- saskatchewan Vita Company Growing

Another dark area is being lit up by the light of the Advent message, and this time it is the south eastern part of Manitoba.

Several of the local ministers are acquainting their people with the Seventh-day Adventists, and what they stand for.

On December 9, 1978 our believers met with Elder W. G. Soloniuk and the writer to form a new company of believers in the Vita area. The Zhoda Community Hall was used for the historic organization into the South-Eastern Manitoba Seventh-day Adventist Company, with Brother David Rogge as leader.

Although the company is limited in members and funds, they have set their aim high as they move forward. A certain amount is being set aside for future plans. Two of these are a place of worship, and the realization of Christian education for their children.

June 16 was another happy day for the group, as Brother and Sister Vernon Teichroeb presented their daughter, Heidi, for dedication to the Lord. Heidi was the first to join the group since it was organized, and represented growth to the ones that gather at the Rogges from Sabbath to Sabbath.

We know that the Lord wants others to join this company in this area, and pray that His coming may be hastened.

Seminars Scheduled For Autumn

I have been visiting camp meetings in eastern Canada and have found our people excited about It Is Written and the results from the interests.

It Is Written Seminars will be held early in October in Halifax, Sydney, Moncton and Saint John. Already the people are working to build the attendance. Invitations were distributed at the Maritime camp meeting. We expect a good series with follow-up plans underway.

If any readers have friends or relatives in the above areas to whom you would like an invitation sent, please send the names and complete address to Maritime

Conference of S.D.A. Church, 451 St. George St., Moncton, N.B. E1C 1X9.

Permit me to share a note from a couple who attended an It Is Written Seminar in B.C. "We thank Pastor Vandeman for the Seminar that was held here in Vancouver recently. It was an educational experience. We thank the Lord God especially to give us such an opportunity."

Please pray for the Seminars this fall. Besides the Seminars to be held by Pastor George Vandeman and Lonnie Melashenko, others will be held across Canada. New advertising brochures for local pastors and conference personnel are available from It Is Written.

The people who have their It Is Written Heritage Bibles are very pleased with them. These Bibles are still available as a gift to you for a donation of $100 to It Is Written in Canada. Please contact me for particulars.

Thank you to all of our people for making It Is Written a real success in Canada. It would not be possible without you. God bless you.

Philosda Camp Meeting in August

The third annual "all singles" camp meeting will be conducted at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, August 16-25, 1979 by the International Philosda Club. The club, sponsored by the General Conference Ministerial Association, was established to provide spiritual and social fellowship for single, widowed, and divorced Seventh-day Adventists. At last year's camp meeting, held at Keene, Texas, the club registered singles from 36 states, 5 provinces of Canada, and 2 foreign countries.

The purpose of the meeting is fourfold: 1. To aid single adults in preparing for the second coming and to assist them in becoming better witnesses for the Lord. 2. To provide a spiritual and educational atmosphere for the single adult geared to their specific needs. 3. To bring courage to the single adult by providing a program for them within the church structure which will help to maintain their relationship to the church. 4. To provide an opportunity for the single adult to associate with Christian singles of the same status.

Classes and workshops will be conducted covering many varied subjects with messages that are designed for the singles. Some of the speakers include:

Roland Hegstad from the General Conference Religious Liberty Department; Pastor Morris Venden from the Pacific Union College Church, James Hayward, Secretary of the Michigan Conference; Winton H. Beaven, Vice-President of Education at Kettering Medical Center; W. B. Quigley, Director of PREACH in the General Conference Ministerial Department; and Robert Zamora, a Theology Professor at Columbia Union College. Classes on preparation for marriage will be conducted by Elder and Mrs. Ted Wick, Associate Pastor of the Pacific Union College Church.

making their pride and joy run. When it's time to join in some missionary endeavor there is no hassle. It's just another fun time when the family shares with others.

Jesus in Mark 9:12 spoke of the Elijah prophecy referring to John the Baptist and said that this work "restoreth all things". It must restore fathers to an active, involved, even powerful, position in the lives of their children. How else can Mal. 4:6 be fulfilled—"And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers."

From The Raindas in New Guinea

Dear friends in Canada,

I realize time flies everywhere, but it seems it's been racing by with the speed of light in this country. We've been here for almost two years.

In January we flew south to Australia for a five week holiday. It was the peak of summer down-under so we enjoyed swimming on a few of the hundreds, yes thousands of miles of white sandy ocean beaches. We are so grateful for God's leading, and the kind generosity of one of our Australian surgeons who provided us with a lovely camper van.

During the past month the highlands have seen a lot of tribal fighting. The people seem to look for things to fight about. To them its like a good old football game back home. No fooling! If a white man drives along a road (the natives love to fight near or across a road) both sides will stop shooting and chat with the driver. Then when he is past they resume the battle. They all fight with bows and arrows and spears — all made of wood. Many are killed — but many more are wounded. There have been several tribal battles near here, and the wounded were brought in by truck loads. We worked day and night at a new game called "Hunt the Arrow". We extracted arrows from heads, arms, chests, legs and abdomens.

I want to especially thank all our dear folk who've been knitting bandages. They're a real blessing and so very much appreciated. Also, thanks for all the parcels, donations and prayers. How I wish I were a journalist or author to portray the tremendous needs of these dear people, but I'm no writer — so will just continue to pray to God our Wonderful Heavenly Father, "Who is able to supply all our needs". And you can all share in the blessing of sharing. We just love these people — they're God's Black Diamonds. We actually felt a little strange when we went to Australia, to see so many pale faces.

Please continue to pray for us, as our task is very difficult. Please write and may your hearts and lives be lead by Our Father's sweet Spirit.

Lovingly,
The Raindas

The Review and Herald did a remarkable job in presenting this handbook in a very modernistic and unique square format. It is available now from the Adventist Book Centres.

This manual should help our ministers to know better how to train their talented elders, deacons, deaconesses and other church members to be involved in lay evangelism. It should help men and women all around the world to organize and lead better lay evangelistic campaigns.

It is time for our ministers to understand that dedicated members who are chosen by God are able to stand up and preach the gospel before a few listeners or before hundreds. Thousands of our members should preach and give their testimony.

"Not upon the ordained minister only rests the responsibility of going forth to fulfill this commission. . . It is a fatal mistake to suppose that the work of soul-saving depends alone upon the ministry. . . . God will send forth into His vineyard many who have not been dedicated to the ministry by the laying on of hands." Acts of the Apostles, p. 110.

would visit her. When the day came that someone finally did visit, she accepted the Lord. She is now a baptized member. This shows that there are people waiting for this truth. We must be willing to let others know what we believe.

As the Seminar came to a close, many said they had been spiritually refreshed. Many asked for similar meetings to be held in their own churches.

In the Calgary Central Church members were inspired to such an extent that there are over thirty laymen giving Bible studies every week on a regular basis. I'm sure that there will be tangible results from these meetings. I hope their example will permeate all our churches in Alberta and further.

I trust that as God blesses our laymen, they will continue to witness and attempt great exploits for Him.

New Industry For Kingsway College

Little Lake redwood outdoor furniture

The Little Lake Industry, a subsidiary of Amcord Inc. plans to open a branch plant on the Kingsway College Campus. This industry will be in full production before school begins in September.

The Management feels it will be possible to employ 40 students during the school year. The College Administration is very pleased that this industry can take the place of the Golden Rule bindery. Mr. Guenin, the Business Manager said that this is an answer to prayer.

This industry has been in operation in Toronto and Montreal and is now pleased to be a part of Kingsway College. It will produce Patio furniture and will be serving the chain stores across Canada. While in operation in Toronto and Montreal the industry enjoyed a well established market and the management feels that with this market the goods produced will have an excellent outlet.

With this industry on the Kingsway College campus our students will have more work opportunities and it will help them meet their financial commitments.

L.L.U. Hosts Seminar on Fats

by Stoy Proctor

You can know the truths regarding visible fats in your diet, if today's rumors have you wondering.

Do free fats or saturated fats cause cancer, heart disease and hosts of other problems, not to mention extra pounds?

Some reasonable answers will be shared during a comprehensive seminar on fats (lipids), November 14-18 at Loma Linda University.

Internationally known research scientists such as William Castelli, head of the Framingham study, and William Connor—co-author of The Alternative Diet and professor of cardiology, metabolism, and nutrition at the University of Oregon—head the list of speakers.

George Christakis, principal investigator for the "Mr. Fit" heart disease prevention program, and Dorothy Rathmann and Robert Landers, noted for their studies in food chemistry and toxicology—are also scheduled.

Church researches include Mervyn Hardinge, former editor of Life & Health and dean of Loma Linda University School of Health; and U. D. Register, chairman of the Nutrition Department, Loma Linda University School of Health and others will bring scientific and inspired data for consideration. Drs. Hardinge and Register have done more than any others to make the world aware of the soundness of vegetarianism and the superior health practices of Seventh-day Adventists.

This seminar, which offers category one and two credit for physicians and continuing education credit for dietitians and nurses, is open to laymen as well.

For more information, call 805-497-9457 and ask for Health Services.

Seminar co-sponsors are the General Conference Health Department, Andrews and Loma Linda Universities, and the Health Department of the Pacific Union Conference.

Love. Trust. Innocence. These are the qualities of childhood that a school should develop. But for a teacher to instill these Christian principles in the minds of children, a sound Christian background is essential.

If guiding young hands and training young minds is your goal, accept the challenge. Write the Division of Education, Canadian Union College, College Heights, Alberta T0C 0Z0 for information on a career in teaching.
