Featuring Home Health Service of Canada and Literature Evangelism

Home Health Service of Canada

by R.L. Juriansz, Manager, Home Health Service of Canada

Although the office of the Home Health Service of Canada, situated on the campus of Kingsway College, has been in operation for a number of years, there are many who do not fully understand what its function is in connection with the Publishing program of the Church. We would, therefore, like to give the readers of the Canadian Union Messenger an opportunity to get better acquainted with the purpose and operation of this organization.

It was established as a marketing facility for literature printed by our Publishing Houses particularly for the public. This type of literature is specially produced to be sold to the public by Literature Evangelists and is priced so that they could devote their full time to this form of evangelism and provide for themselves an adequate livelihood in so doing. We believe that the plan was divinely provided so the Church could fulfill the twofold objective set for herself of presenting the Gospel to the world: 1) By the preaching of the Word and 2) By the distribution of the Word on a one-to-one basis, from house-tohouse. Ellen White wrote "When church members realize the importance of the circulation of our literature, they will devote more time to this work ... The church must give her attention to the canvassing work. This is one way in which she is to shine in the world." Manuscript 113, 1901. On another occasion she wrote "The lost sheep of God's fold are scattered in every place, and the work that should be done for them is being neglected. From the light given me I know that where there is one canvasser in the field, there should be one hundred." Testimonies, Vol. 6, page 315 (1900). She also stated that the work of that other Angel as portrayed in Revelation 18, represents to a large degree the Literature Ministry of the Church and holds out a challenge to those in the Church who want to have an active part in the finishing of the work.

The Home Health Service organization was set up to provide the public the opportunity of purchasing Gospel literature on a credit plan, thus making it possible for more homes to receive the Message. It has been duly registered with the Office of Consumer Affairs of each province and is also a member of the Better Business Bureau.

All sales contracts are submitted to the office and the Literature Evangelists are paid their commission cheques each week. In addition, full-time Literature Evangelists receive cheques for rent & travel, medical, educational and cost of living allowances. Full-time Literature Evangelists also have their auto insurance paid and are covered for accident and disability insurance. Literature Evangelists are Conference employees and the Conferences are responsible for training them and supervising their program in the field.

As the sales volume increased over the years it became necessary to use computer facilities and so the Canadian Union established a computer centre, which is also serving the needs of the Ontario Conference, It Is Written and other users. Not all of the operation of the Home Health Service office is computerized, but when all of the programs have been implemented it will make the organization more effective in keeping pace with the rapidly expanding work of the

During the last quinquennial perio $8,955,911.00 worth of gospel literature ha been placed in thousands of homes in Canada From time to time individual Literatur Evangelists have delivered over $5,000.0 in a single month. It is not uncommon for single family to pay as much as $500.00 cas for Seventh-day Adventist literature. New work has been started in Labrador as a resul of the sale of over $50,000.00 worth c gospel literature by one lady Literatur Evangelist in nine weeks time. Another lad Literature Evangelist is rejoicing in the fac that 39 of her customers have been baptized Surely, the Lord is using the Literatur Ministry to help prepare for the great harves of souls that will soon join the church. Elle White writes, " ... More than one thousan will soon be converted in one day, most c whom will trace their first convictions to th reading of our publications." Review d Herald, Nov. 10, 1885.

Around 700 accounts are paid off eac month and all of these homes are sent a invitation to take the Voice of Prophec lessons. The names and addresses of all th paid-up customers are sent to the Conference Presidents each month so that they ca follow up the interest created by our literature. Church pastors testify that they fin these names most fruitful to work with.

Literature Evangelism is a seed-sowin work. The Holy Spirit waters the seed an prepares the harvest. The Church must gathe in the harvest. The Literature Evangelist include in their unit of sale, Spirit of Prophec books, such as Great Controversy, Desire of Ages, Acts of the Apostles, Patriarchs of Prophets, and Prophets & Kings. They als include subscriptions to the Signs of th Times and the Listen journals. Truly thes seeds of Truth will bear fruit and usher in th last great harvest of souls. He has sent forth His angels with the message of mercy; but, as if they did not speed on their way fast enough to satisfy His heart of yearning love, He lays on every member of His church the responsibility of proclaiming this message. Stewardship of Money by Perry A. Parks, Director Stewardship and Development, Canadian Union Conference

Someone has said that the most sensitive nerve in the human body is the one that runs from the brain down to the pocket book. Money becomes a very delicate subject to most people. It has been the cause of wars, broken friendships and broken homes. Some people have sold themselves, body and soul, just to have a little bit of it. Others have committed crimes of theft, or even murder, to get more of it. I have personally seen two men fighting over a debt of twenty-five cents. They actually pounded each other to physical exhaustion.

Some have reported that money is the cause of all our troubles and the root of all evil. However, the Bible text does not say that money is the root of all evil, it states that the love of money is the root of all evil. I Tim. 6:10. There is a big difference between having money and loving money. Unfortunately many people, and some of them Christian people, put money at the very top of their priority list. The rich young ruler did that, and as a result he turned his back upon Jesus and went away sorrowful.

It is not wrong to have money. The important thing is our attitude toward it, and how we use it. What is the proper attitude toward money and material possessions as far as the Christian is concerned? Like everything else in his life, the Christian must release ownership of his money and all his possessions to God.

A steward is one who manages the things that belong to someone else. God is the owner of everything, and we are to manage what He has entrusted to us according to His plan. All of the promises that God has made regarding His blessings in this area are predicted on the principle that we relinquish ownership, and a Christian who refuses to do this can never really experience completely God's plan for his finances. As a consequence, his life will be one of frustration and worry in the area of money. So our attitude toward money should be to seek God's purpose for that which He has entrusted unto our care, be that a large amount or a small amount, it all belongs to Him.

Many well-meaning people have misconceptions of religion and money. I will list three that may be of interest to you:

1. Poverty is next to spirituality. This is wrong. There is no virtue in poverty. Some people who are rich are dishonest, and some people who are poor are dishonest. Here again, it is our attitude toward our wealth or our poverty that can determine our spiritual condition. Some of the most spiritual people I have known have been well-to-do financially. Abraham was called "a friend of God," and he was very rich. On the other hand, I have known some very spiritual people who wer poor in the things of this world.

2. Money brings happiness is the nex misconception that we will look at. There i absolutely no relationship between mone and true happiness. Many wealthy peopl have died seeking happiness. In the New International Bible, I Timothy 6:17-19 ex presses it very well: "Command those wh are rich in this present world not to b arrogant nor to put their hope in wealth which is so uncertain, but to put their hope i God, who richly provides us with everythin for our enjoyment. Command them to d good, to be rich in good deeds, and to b generous and willing to share. In this wa they will lay up treasure for themselves as firm foundation for the coming age, so that they may take hold of the life that is truly life

3. To be wealthy is a sin. Having money is not a sin. Many times when God find people with the proper attitude He will bles them with abundance, knowing that they will use that wealth to glorify His kingdom Remember when Solomon prayed for wisdom to lead the people of Israel, God also granted him wealth.

God is always concerned with attitude. I we will recognize his ownership and b faithful stewards of the money He has en trusted to us, He will entrust unto us the tru riches.

An Appeal

I am sure by this time we have all heard of the disastrous fire at Canadian Union College on the night of January 8, 1981, as reported in the Messenger of February 5.

In that fire, besides the barn, feed and equipment, were 90 head of dairy cattle (mostly milk cows) that perished. The college is in danger of losing their milk quota unless they are back in production soon, although the authorities have graciously extended it for one year.

Since the time of the fire several friends of the college have offered to help reduce the lost herd, which was one of the best in Alberta. Walla Walla College, Pacific Union College, Loma Linda and Andrews have each offered 6 bred heifers. Several Adventist, and some non-Adventist, farmers have offered one or more from their herds.

We are wondering if there might be some readers of the Messenger who would like to be included in this group and wish to dedicate one or more good animals to help replace the college dairy herd.

If you feel you would like to be included please contact Dr. N.O. Matthews, President, Canadian Union College, College Heights, Alberta, Canada TOC 0Z0, Telephone (403)782-3381.

Just a Taste in Your Mouth

by G.D. Strunk Adventist Health Ministries

Two years ago a lady made a passing emark which became to me a profound piece of home-spun wisdom. Her comment has become a piece of armour that keeps me out of trouble. Here it is: "It's just a taste in your nouth."

We were talking about all the goodies vailable to be eaten; goodies eaten between neals, after meals, while shopping, while triving and all for what? It's just a taste in your mouth.

Why does a person eat a piece of candy ike a melt-away chocolate bar? He carelessy rolls it over his tongue and sometimes quishes it around his teeth. His eyes go lightly closed. Available sights and sounds are screened out. All attention is in his nouth. This is his moment of pleasure! He olls it over his tongue one more time then radually lets it slide down over his tonsils past the throat and into the stomach, and it is tone.

It was just sugar, fat, flavouring and a few tabilizers. There was no real nourishment. The essential vitamins and minerals to suport life, the nerves and the co-ordination of train and body weren't there. It was just a aste in his mouth. And then it was over! It's wer, just over!

But the effects are not over. If the sticky, ooey residue sticks around it becomes food or bacteria that attack the teeth's enamel. Of ourse if we brush our teeth immediately, as we should, then it's really over. The little articles that linger in the crevices of the eeth to help produce an after taste are washed nd scrubbed away. And it's over. It was just taste in the mouth.

But the effects in the stomach aren't over. Eaten in too large a quantity or taken on an mpty stomach, these substances that are ust a sweet taste in your mouth paralyze the white blood cells making a person vulnerable o infectious diseases of colds, flus, and sore proats. There's often a slight sickish feeling. Or for someone else a feeling of stimulation blowed by an unwelcome sag or sleepiness. For others it's allergies.

No, it's not over even when it's swallowed. For a conscientious person, there is a feeling f guilt for the money spent for such a emporary pleasure. Time and health were ot benefited either by this moment of leasure.

When a pleasurable sensation is experienced in the body, tiny electrical impulses are generated, measured in milli-volts of power that are sent to the brain and there registered in a portion of the hypothalamus gland. These electrical impulses are interpreted as pleasure. A needle called an electrode can be inserted into the pleasure centre of the hypothalamus. Connected to the needle is a wire leading to a little bar that can be tripped by the fingers. Each time you press the bar a tiny electrical impulse is generated and sent to the pleasure centre of your brain. "And it feels so good to press the bar." It doesn't have to be something we eat, something we see or something we touch. It only has to be something to send an electrical impulse to that spot in the brain.

Monkeys are used in this kind of experimentation and they quickly learn to press the bar. Whenever they want a good feeling they will simply press the bar. You can offer them good food, but instead they sit there pressing the bar. They can be offered toys, sexual pleasure or even danger to their young, but they just sit there pressing the bar. Oh how they enjoy pressing the bar. It's a taste in the brain.

Sweet little goodies on the tongue generate the same electrical impulses to the hypothalamus. That's all it is -just a temporary electrical impulse being sent to the brain from the tongue and from the nose as we savour its aroma. It really doesn't do the body any lasting good. It's just pressing the bar.

Since it is just a taste in your mouth and it's actually harmful for the body thereafter, may I suggest that the next time you are tempted to eat something that is worse for you than it is good, that you go ahead and eat it. Chew it up well, roll it around over your tongue, squish it between your teeth if you like, extract from it all the taste and flavour and aroma and pleasure that you can possibly get from it. And then spit it out! You will have enjoyed the taste in your mouth but will not have done the damage to the body ... or the brain.

It takes a while to learn to prize the good feeling of good health more than the "good" feeling of just a taste in your mouth.

Lest I sound too severe and unrealistic let me hasten to add. There is a place for desserts. When eaten as a dessert the effects of some sugar are diluted by the rest of the meal.

There is a place for sweetening. "My son, eat thou honey, because it is good; and the honeycomb, which is sweet to thy taste." (Prov. 24:13) Sweetening enhances the flavour of some foods and increases their palatability. We can tolerate 5 to 7 teaspoons of sugar per day, usually without ill-effect. Good taste and palatability should complement nutritious quality. But if our choice of eating is only for a taste in the mouth and not for its health benefits, then we should challenge its merits. Some items should be discarded entirely from the Christian's life. We should always choose our food and drink so that we will feel physically better for having eaten them, rather than worse.

The concepts of "just a taste in your mouth" and all that I've described above has helped me a great deal to pass by some things that I used to waste time, money and health on. I think that if the Bible were being written today, it could well contain a new proverb, "My son, eat thou for strength and not for a taste in your mouth."

Does Your Church Need You?

Why do choirs rehearse? Why do skiers train? Why do teams practice? Simply stated; to perform. The choir that never performs soon stops rehearsing. The skier who never competes in a race stops serious training. And a sports team that never plays in a real game stops practicing.

How is it in your church? Are there more spectators than participants? Do you find members who want to be a part of the team, but are content to sit on the bench game after game? Occasionally one hears of professional hockey players who, after spending much time sitting on the bench, demand to be traded to another team where they can be an active player.

Obviously, the comparison of the church with a professional team which is paid for service, breaks down somewhat. Nevertheless, there are lessons to be learned.

In recent months there has been a growing awareness on the part of our church to by Gerry Karst, President, Newfoundland provide opportunity for the utilization of vast, untapped resources within the congregation. People are always happiest when they have a sense of self-worth and satisfied accomplishment. To feel needed, and to feel one is making a contribution is a wonderful motivating force.

Have you ever stopped to observe the intensity of emotion, excitement, and happiness demonstrated by a group of Ingatherers who have just returned from their territory, counted their money, and exchanged experiences over a cup of hot chocolate?

Often times members feel frustrated, unfulfilled, and dare I say, even guilty, by just warming benches week after week. The church has seen many fine training programs. Seminars have produced lay-witnessing graduates all across our Union. Our witnessing choirs have rehearsed. Our teams have practiced. It's time now to perform. The quality of the rehearsal can only be tested by the performance.

It is obvious that talents within the church vary, and that each person should exercise the talents which God has given him or her But it should always be kept in mind tha Bible Studies = baptisms. I know of no other formula. Now it may be that a 5-Day Plan, a loaf of bread, a pot of soup, and a subscription to Life and Health are necessary before Bible Studies can be given, and that a variety of people with different gifts are involved ar each stage of development. Nevertheless, the Bible Studies are the target of the team effor and result in baptism.

As pastors, let's provide opportunities for our team members to perform. When they are actively participating and know they are needed, we will find healthy, happy, growing churches. Besides, a person who is riding in the boat, is less likely to shoot holes in it.

Missionary Family Needed for Labrador

Any Seventh-day Adventist family connected with the Canadian Armed Forces and interested in contributing to the development of the work in Goose Bay, Labrador is requested to contact Gerry Karst, President of the Newfoundland Conference at 106 Freshwater Road, St. John's, Nfld. A1C 2N8, or Pastor Terry Robertson, 515 Hudson Drive, Labrador City, Nfld. A2V 1L8.

Also, any other self-supporting families with a frontier spirit to do mission service in Labrador, should make their interests known to either of the above individuals.

The work in Labrador now has a beginning, and is very encouraging. However, additions to the working force in this new frontier are needed.

A Tribute to Miss Hilda Knee

Over $3,300.00 of Ingathering funds were recently presented to Pastor Brian Juriansz and lay activities leader, Lloyd Robinson at the Kingsview Village Church by Miss Hilda Knee. Miss Knee is a faithful member of the church and a dedicated Ingathering worker, who annually in door-todoor solicitation raises the second highest amount of any single individual in all of Ontario. It is estimated that this committed worker for God contacts 2,500 homes each year leaving a piece of Adventist literature in most of them. The Ontario Conference joins Pastor Juriansz and his church officers in expressing sincere appreciation to Sister Knee for her faithful service.

We have the blessing of the General Conference, the Canadian Union, and the Ontario Conference as we move forward to the realization of this vital dream. In the past we have lost as many as 50% of our grade ten students to the public schools, and as we all know this is a most critical age for our young people to enter into worldly social interaction. We have felt for many years the need to have education up to grade twelve level right here in Toronto to preserve and encourage our youth.

It is our sincere hope and prayer that we may indeed build a school of which we all can be proud.

New Program Launched 2-5-4 Smoke No More

In his home church in Bowmanville, Ontario, on January 13, 1981, Pastor Gary Strunk, director of Adventist Health Ministries for Ontario, launched a "2-5-4 Smoke No More" program which he designed and is testing for possible wider use throughout the denomination. He reports that 22 people have paid an "incentive deposit" of $50.00, which will be refunded at the end of the program, if they attend three of the last four sessions, whether or not the participant is successful in giving up the habit.

The plan provides for two initial meetings to help enrollees decide if they want to stop and to help them prepare to stop smoking. This is followed by a regular Five-Day Plan. Four succeeding sessions give continued support to those who have stopped smoking. In these sessions they realize their need of continued contact and learn of additional health programs.

One important key to the success of the 2-5-4 program is the use of counsellors. The counsellor places his own name and phone number in the control booklet that is given to the participant. He obtains the phone number of each participant in his group and phones him at an appropriate time each day to give encouragement and makes himself available to be called.

During the Five-Day Plan, Pastor Strunk and the counsellors began calling on participants in their own homes. Pastor Strunk had taken materials to the home of one man who registered by phone because he could not come to the preliminary meetings. "If anyone cares enough about me to call me at home, I'll quit!" the man declared, and quit he did, even though he had been smoking a pack a day.

"The purpose of the '2-5-4 Smoke No More' program is to offer much more toward restoring people than just stopping smoking," states Pastor Strunk. "Those who wish to stop are usually looking for far more than simply cutting out cigarettes, but they see stopping smoking as one step to reaching their goal. God is impressing them to seek more, whether they know it or not. We need to be prepared to help them in their search. It is a gentle process starting in the dark of night, leading gradually to the prophecies of Scripture, which ultimately leads them to the dawning of day and then to noonday brightness."

Assisting with lectures in the program were Pastor Jack Friesen, Dr. Don Gregg, Dr. Roy Jones and Dr. Keith Madgwick.

Baptisms Recorded in Three Churches

Halifax baptism group-Elder E.V. Richards, Mrs. Joy Murphy, Jeffery Slawter, Mrs. Marion Bower, Doris Etinoff and Gary Geddes.

On January 17 one of the worst winter storms in 20 years hit the Halifax area; but having made their decisions, undeterred by the raging storm outside, five candidates were baptized into God's family.

Several relatives and friends — some attending an S.D.A. Church for the first time — witnessed the candidates being buried with their Lord, and rising to walk in newness of life.

Pastor Richards, in his message, admonished the candidates and all present, that once committed to Christ, there should be no turning back, and that in Christ there is unlimited power available to keep each one faithful to the end.

british columbia Religious Liberty Conference Held at Hope

Group who attended B.C.'s Religious Liberty meetings are seen at Camp Hope. The late Elder Darren Michael, O.C., centre, made several presentations at the conference which were among his last contributions to the work of Religious Liberty in Canada. Shortly after his return to Oshawa, Elder Michael suffered a severe heart attack from which he did not regain consciousness. He passed to his rest in January. The Lord used him abundantly in making persons in legislation aware of church and state issues.

George Egolf and Ken Van Ochten, barristers, gave timely counsel on Labour Unions and Politics and Seventh-day Adventists.

Presentation Made at V.O.P. Jubilee

Ron Milne, resident of Vancouver area, and active member of the Vancouver Central Church, was specially honored at the Voice of Prophecy Golden Jubilee in New Westminster. Ron has worked faithfully for many years picking up the mail from the V.O.P. postal address and forwarding the same to the V.O.P. A special plaque was given to Ron to demonstrate the gratitude of the V.O.P. for his faithful service. Ron is seen in the centre of the picture with H.M.S. Richards, Jr. to the right and, to the left, Vern Bretsch, formerly of the Voice of Prophecy staff. Friends of the V.O.P. from Fraser Valley, the Island and Vancouver areas filled the auditorium to capacity.

Ann Saunders accepts award from Alex Ramsay.

Ann Saunders, Communication secretary for the Aldergrove Seventh-day Adventist Church, was recently presented with the "Communication Secretary Award for Excellence." The award was given by Alex Ramsay, Communication Director for the British Columbia Conference.

"Ann has worked with skill and diligence in preparing articles for a weekly paper for the area," says Ramsay.

The award was also given in consideration of Ann's work in the Conference office.

Communication Award Goes to Ann Saunders

She has also served as secretary in the Communication Department. "But she has been more than a secretary," said Ramsay. "She has shown particular interest, enthusiasm and personal initiative for this aspect of God's work. This is well-evidenced in Highlights and Camp Meeting's Today paper, both of which have been largely Ann's work."

"Ann has recently retired from her work in the Conference office, but I trust that her zeal in the communication work of the church will continue." concluded Ramsay.

Kingsway Choir and Band Combine in Montreal Concert

The auditorium in the centre of Parc Lafontaine was the setting for a sacred/secular concert put on by Kingsway's Concert Band and Symphonic Choir. It was the first time in Kingsway's history that the band and choir performed together.

The hundred young people played to a capacity audience of seven hundred. The English only program was well received by the largely French audience. Ralph Juriansz, public relations director for the school, says that next year there will be a more concerted effort to witness in Quebec in both official languages.

This year Kingsway draws about ten percent of its enrolment from Quebec, but hopes to increase the number through more attractive French programs and high standard of curriculum. Appearances such as the recent concert will most certainly encourage parents and young people alike to obtain a Christian education in our schools.

James Mays

C.U.C. Teacher, Boris Pache, Authors Book on World War II Adventures

Boris Pache, an instructor at Canadian Union College, wrote down his recollections of God's leading through repeated World War II crises, solely to encourage his own heart. "I never intended my story for publication, but close friends urged me to prepare it in book form," confides Mr. Pache.

As he relates events that led to his escape from Nazi captures in the tense closing days of World War II, he recalls, "I got right into their hands – God got me out in a beautiful way." There's no preaching in Pache's story, but when you read the chapter Caught by the Nazis, you see God's deliverance repeated, almost as definitely as in Daniel's escape from the lions' den.

Born in Bulgaria, Mr. Pache recounts how God providentially guided him, not only to a new life in the West but also to freedom in Jesus Christ. His book, By Ways I Knew Not, is published by the Review and Herald, and edited by Canadian author Thomas A. Davis.

You'll almost feel that you are there in Austria where, without money and struggling with a new language, Boris earned a degree in architecture.

Boris Pache, right, presents an autographed copy of his book, By Ways I Knew Not, to Keith Clouten, Canadian Union College librarian. A copy has also been provided for the Kingsway College library. Mr. Pache served at Kingsway College for fourteen years.

How he, after the war, as a person without a country, was able to get to France at the last possible moment, is recounted in his book. After six years at the French Adventist Seminary, he migrated to Canada.

In Canada, Mr. Pache, as a literature evangelist, delivered books in Quebec, under the scrutiny of often-jealous religious leaders. During his fourteen year stay at Kingsway College, Mr. Pache taught Modern Languages, and led the school choir, at the same time earning a Masters degree from McGill University.

After a two-year teaching assignment at Kiva College, Zaire, Africa, he transferred to Canadian Union College in 1974. At CUC Mr. Pache teaches French, and is active in design of display items and publication preparation. One of his recent accomplishments has been the creation of the official Canadian Union College flag. (Mr. Pache's book By Ways I Knew Not, is available at your Adventist Book Centre. Write for your copy today by enclosing $5.20 plus $1.00 for postage and handling to ABC Mailing Service, Box 398, Oshawa, Ont. L1H 7L5.)
