UIC Benefits for Disenfranchised Sabbathkeepers: A Government Provision

by D. Douglas Devnich, Ed.D., Director, Department of Public Affairs

God has promised the faithful Sabbath observer fullness of life. Isaiah spoke of it in these terms:

"I will make you ride upon the heights of the earth; I will feed you with the heritage of Jacob . . . for the mouth of the Lord has spoken." Isaiah 58:14 RSV

The title of this article is not to indicate that automatically a Sabbath observer is assured economic security, but it is set out in order to report a significant provision by the Government of Canada on behalf of Sabbath observers who may have lost their jobs by reason of religious conviction.

Several months ago, Frank Thompson, a newly baptized church member of Victoria, British Columbia, left his employment with Metro Transit Operating Company because of an unresolved conflict over his requirement for Sabbath time off. His application for regular Unemployment Insurance Benefits was denied. This meant that he would have to wait an additional six weeks beyond the normal two weeks before he could obtain payments.

The reason given for the suspension of benefits was because the decision of the Unemployment Insurance Commission held that he had left his employment "without just cause." Thompson subsequently appealed the decision before the Board of Referees. This Board considered all of the available facts, noting that Thompson "had indeed undergone a conversion which has had a drastic effect upon both his present and continuing life, and his motivation is obviously of the highest order." As a result, the Board rescinded the decision previously made and allowed the appeal.

One would think that would have been sufficient to resolve the issue. However, the Unemployment Insurance Commission announced that it had to power to withhold the implementation of the Board's decision by appealing that decision to an Umpire. Again, it appeared that Thompson would be denied benefits on the regular basis.

Brother Thompson, a man of conviction and not easily intimidated over religious liberty principles, in consultation with Elder A. Lennox, Director of Public Affairs/Religious Liberty for the British Columbia Conference, contacted his Member of the Legislative Assembly, Charles Barber of Victoria. Mr. Barber sensed that this was indeed a bona fide issue respecting freedom of religion and conscience, so he sought the assistance of the Honourable Ed Broadbent, MP. Mr. Broadbent and his staff appealed directly to the Minister of Employment and Immigration in Ottawa, The Honourable Lloyd Axworthy, MP, and the outcome gives cause for rejoicing on the part of Seventh-day Adventists and other Christians who are keenly interested in religious liberty.

Mr. Axworthy's letter to Mr. Broadbent explicitly states: "It is an established principle that religious convictions honestly held constitute just cause for leaving one's employment for unemployment insurance purposes." The letter closes with a more personal reassurance: "In closing, you may assure Mr. Thompson that a claimant's religious beliefs will not be held against him with respect to his unemployment insurance claim."

In our view, this provision elucidated by a government Cabinet Minister is not only precedent-setting, but indicative also of the willingness of current elected government officials to uphold the principles of religious freedom. In a subsequent visit with Mr. Broadbent on July 13, I discovered him to be a man motivated by sincere respect for individual rights and freedoms. He has invited further dialogue with himself respecting our unique concerns pertaining to Sunday legislation and labour union relations. His special assistant is currently exploring the possibility of inserting the Axworthy statement on religious convictions and UIC benefits into the official guidelines of the Commission.

A New Service for Ontario Adventists

The Adventist Family Counselling Service has been in operation in Oshawa and Toronto since January of this year. Kurt Cao is the director and primary counsellor. Approval for such a service was obtained by the Ontario Conference, which is anxious for more Seventh-day Adventist related counselling to be available to its members, and as a community service to non-members. The primary areas of service are personal, marriage, and family difficulties.

The goal of the Adventist Family Counselling Service (AFCS) is to provide confidential help for persons and families who are hurting enough, confused enough, or honest enough to know that they cannot make the usual answers fit or focus on their difficulties. In a Christ-centered way, the counselling service will help establish sensible solutions or strengthen weak or difficult areas. The primary objectives are to re-establish the sacredness and joy of the family circle, and of each child of God.

Reaching Canada as Never Before!

by Martin Butler

"The Voice of Prophecy was born in an effort to send the message of God's love through the medium of radio," says H.M.S. Richards.

His first thought of speaking to millions by radio came one evening while he was living and working in Ontario. Since then, Elder Richards' life and ministry have reflected the motto "Forward in Faith."

Canada is definitely special to the Voice of Prophecy! That's why we were thrilled two years ago when the opportunity came for us to air over the CKO All-News Radio Network. This was another step "Forward in Faith" for Elder Richards, because there simply was no money budgeted to purchase time on an entire network of stations!

But as a result, never in the history of the Voice of Prophecy have we been reaching more people in Canada. Residents of Calgary, Edmonton, London, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, and Vancouver are all being blessed as the love of Christ is shared with them daily on the CKO Network.

One of our listeners in Toronto told us: "After the day's hectic routine, it just soothes me to lie down and hear your wonderful messages. It's part of my evening meditation. Life moves for me at a hit-and-run pace, so I'm glad the VOP is on the air to slow me down!"

Another listener told us that for him the broadcast is "an oasis." That's a nice thought. It reminds us how important it is to continue sharing the Fountain of Life throughout Canada!

In recent weeks, as we have been forced to talk about cutting station coverage in Canada because of decreased income, concern has been expressed that we must do everything possible to keep our programs on the CKO stations!

If there were another area in our Canadian budget to cut back, we'd consider it carefully. Currently 82 percent of all funds given by our Canadian friends goes into buying radio time. The remaining 18 percent is used for issuing receipts, caring for listener's requests for broadcast offers, and for mailing out the Bible lessons. So you see, there is really nowhere to trim except from the radio-time budget.

We do feel it's important to continue sending Bible School lessons into homes. The combination of the broadcast and the Bible lessons working together makes a soul-winning team!

The impact of the Bible lessons was reflected in a recent letter from a New Life student in Canada who said: "I can't wait for my lessons to arrive each week. My husband is now very interested in the Bible, and he has also begun keeping the Sabbath with me!"

What a privilege it is for the Voice of Prophecy to be sharing God's last-day message with people in Canada! And we want to invite you to go "Forward in Faith" with us as together we do our part to finish the work.

Your liberal offering on October 9 – Voice of Prophecy Offering Day – will help strengthen the financial base for the CKO stations, as well as for our other broadcasts in Canada. Your gift that day will make a difference in keeping the Voice of Prophecy on the air!

October 9 – Voice of Prophecy Offering Day

Prayer is a very important part of every day for a faith ministry like the Voice of Prophecy. Thursdays are particularly special because at 8 a.m. staff members hold the Worldwide Prayer Circle to pray for the hundreds of people who send in prayer requests every week. Similar services are held by more than 100 overseas VOP offices.

Every student in the Voice of Prophecy Bible School has the same instructor throughout an entire course. More than 2,000 test sheets are graded every day by the school's 10 instructors. The Bible School, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary this year, has graduated over three quarters of a million students since its founding in 1942.

Ontario Camp Meeting

Ontario Camp Meeting '82 was conducted on the campus of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario. Meeting at a public university was a "first" for our members. Though we are accustomed to having our own camps or institutions there were some things about McMaster University (air-conditioned rooms, etc.) that were much appreciated.

In the 1890's the Ontario-Quebec Conference conducted long weekend general meetings. Beginning in 1928 Oshawa, Brantford, Toronto, back to Oshawa, and Camp Ferndale at Port Carling have been our camp meeting sites.

The accompanying pictures of Camp Meeting 1982 at McMaster University tell some of the experiences of fellowship, learning and spiritual blessings enjoyed by many. The perfect site and ideal conditions we look for will not be realized on this earth.

May camp meeting continue to be a time of blessing and commitment that will further prepare us for the greatest convocation ever held, after the coming of Jesus.

A Family Life Seminar was conducted by Pastor and Mrs. Robert Taylor of Sacramento, California.

A highlight of camp meeting is a baptism. Soul winning was one of the central themes at camp meeting.

A Funny Thing Happened at Camp Meeting

by G.D. Strunk, Director, Adventist Health Ministries

It is often said that no matter what the individual church member may do, the church itself should hold the highest standard. In my home I may eat meat, but the church's potlucks should be meatless. Our schools should have even higher standards than our homes for they represent the church. And there the future generation is molded to a higher image than the past generations. The institutions of the church should be models not just for the world but for the church members themselves. The institutions should exemplify the highest standard available.

The 1982 Ontario Camp Meeting was conducted in the commodious facilities of McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario. Serving as a conference centre, the University became our host. They accepted with excitement the challenge of preparing a vegetarian cuisine for this unique body of conferees.

In setting out the guidelines for the food service, I simply laid down some principles, provided some recipe books and allowed them the opportunity of creating their own menus and entrees. One of the guidelines was to prepare the entrees without eggs but to serve eggs one morning on the line as boiled eggs, poached eggs, fried eggs or however they chose. I suggested that they provide a menu that served no more than two eggs per person per week, which in effect meant only once or twice during the nine days. This guideline was based on the following evidence.

Two medium eggs provide 550 grams of cholesterol. In their remarkable document, "United States Dietary Goals," the 1977 Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs recommended a diet that provides not more than 300 milligrams of cholesterol per day. This recommendation is for the average citizen in North America who also eats milk, meat, cheese, and other animal products. If a person were to eat one egg a day, he has nearly met his requirement and should not therefore drink any milk, eat yogurt or any other animal substance unless it were pure skim milk. If one were to eat two eggs for breakfast, the rest of his foods for the remainder of the day should be without eggs.

The "Prudent Diet" adopted by the Anti-Coronary Club of the New York City Health Department in 1957 recommended not more than two eggs per week. The American Heart Association recommends not more than three eggs per week. Mrs. White warns against the use of many eggs especially for youth. This warning is usually grossly ignored in our schools where our students should enjoy the greatest protection and where they should be able to trust that the policies follow the guidelines. Hirayama's epidemiological studies reveal that breast cancer is three times as frequent in women eating eggs daily as compared to those who eat eggs less than once per week. Scharffenberg, Problems with Meat, Woodbridge Press Publishing Company, Santa Barbara, CA., 1979. Food spoilage and salmonellosis infection are greatly reduced with the elimination of eggs and milk in food preparations.

In spite of recent reports circulated widely by the poultry industry who encourage us to "get cracking," eggs in the diet do affect the level of cholesterol in the blood. This was demonstrated by comparing breakfasts with eggs as opposed to breakfasts where the eggs were replaced by cereals. Barbaniak, J.J. Breakfast Menu and Blood Lipids, Journal of the American Dietetic Association, Volume 49, 204, 1966. Especially during camp meeting where we should be setting the pace for our own people as well as keeping up with the wise in the world and where we should be eating the diet that promotes both health and spirituality I recommended a dietary of not more than two eggs per week. Seventh-day Adventists really should be the pace setters for the world, and on matters of health and temperance we should be in advance of all other people. Our standards should actually be higher than those of the world.

Now what is the funny thing that happened at camp meeting? It was Sunday morning and the people were coming through the breakfast line. There were no eggs on the line. One of the ladies asked in a demanding tone, "Where are the eggs?" The serving lady responded, "We don't have eggs this morning ma'am." The other lady demanded, "I want eggs! Eggs is the one thing we can have." But the serving lady responded, "But ma'am, we aren't supposed to have eggs every morning." The complaining lady, visibly upset and in a voice much higher than before said, "We can't have meat, but eggs are one thing we can have." At which point she became so irate that she left the Adventist line and went over to eat the meat being served in the non-Adventist line. Isn't that funny!? Please say it's funny! Otherwise we have to classify it as tragic. Do you get the picture? Seventh-day Adventists are so deprived that "eggs are one thing we can have."

This scene was quite distressing to the food-service supervisor on the floor that morning. They are trained and were emotionally prepared to please in every way. They can't stand to have their customers upset. When the food service director arrived a few hours later, she went running to report the episode and asked, "What shall we do? The people want eggs!" The food service director, after some consideration, in which I was not consulted said, "Then let them have eggs." She wasn't prepared of course to be placed in a position to discipline spoiled adults throwing tantrums at the table because they don't get what's not good for them. I wish I had been on the floor that morning.

The food service people had gone out of their way to bake special breads just for Seventh-day Adventists, special salad dressing, vegetarian entrees, and even homemade granola according to a recipe that sounded good to them. There were fresh strawberries, melons, bananas and oranges. The food was delicious! And they were all set to be appreciated for their efforts. And what do they hear? This one disciple of the murmuring mixed multitude who revealed her nature over the absence of the "one thing Seventh-day Adventists can have" and who in her state of discomfiture went over to slurp from the fleshpots of Egypt. Isn't that funny!? I think that's funny!

Under the circumstances the food service did the best thing to preserve harmony having never been confronted with such an outburst before. They were momentarily intimidated by the clamour of the clamorous. But as the week proceeded they had a chance to hear the praise from the less vocal majority who repeatedly expressed their gratitude. Even the kitchen help became enthused over what they were serving. Then they started testing it and recommending it to us.

As Seventh-day Adventists we really are fortunate you know. We have been given the freshest produce of the land, the most life-preserving diet available and the light of healthful living well before science recommends it for the world's inhabitants.

Elder George Wilson - Publishing Director for British Columbia

Elder George Wilson served with us here at the Ontario Conference Publishing Department as one of the district leaders in the Literature Ministry. Before he left us in early July to take up his duties as the new Publishing Director for the British Columbia Conference, he planned a rally at the Kingston S.D.A. Church on June 26-27 for the Literature Evangelists in his district.

The Literature Evangelists utilized their talents and shared their rich experiences as they led out in the Sabbath School and church service. The fellowship and blessings they experienced from these services was heightened during the potluck dinner provided by the church membership.

On Sunday, the Literature Evangelists tested their athletic skills against that of the Kingston Church members as they engaged in an exciting game of baseball.

One of the highlights of this rally was the presentation of a silver serving dish to Elder George Wilson and his wife and family.

Newspaper Publisher Awarded Community Service Plaque at Toronto Japanese Church

On June 19, a Community Service Award plaque presentation service was held at Toronto Japanese Seventh-day Adventist Church. Mr. Yoriki Iwasaki was honoured to receive the plaque for his outstanding contribution to the progress of Japanese-Canadian communities through the newspaper work. He was the publisher of the Continental Times, a local Japanese-Canadian newspaper in Toronto for 23 years. Before that, he had published the same in Vancouver, B.C. for 14 years. His aim was to help Japanese Canadians become established in Canada as good Canadian citizens and to enable them to be of service to the Canadian culture with Japanese heritage.

Kurt Cao, 35, is a graduate of Loma Linda University, with an M.A. in counselling. Over the last 13 years, he has served as dean of men and teacher in Adventist schools, dealing with a variety of personal and family crises with students, parents, and staff. More recently, he has been working as a family counsellor with the Durham Region Social Services Department, and now also, with the AFCS. He and his wife, Anne, and their daughter, Carys, 4, reside in Oshawa.

It is hoped that individuals or families will not give up on themselves or their loved ones, realizing that change is possible, indeed, probable, for "I can do all things through Christ, who strengthens me."

New Life in Corner Brook

Bob Sparenberg and his New Life Crusade team brought an action-packed gospel series to Corner Brook, Newfoundland. For six weeks in May and June the gospel was preached, sung, studied and televised with great gusto both in studio as well as in church. As a result of the team and the church all working together, revival came to Corner Brook and in its wake, baptisms.

There was great rejoicing on Friday night, June 11, when six young people took their stand for the Lord in a public way by becoming new members of our church. Two of them had anticipated problems with employers over Sabbath privileges. However, when it came to the point where their respective bosses recognized there could be no compromise, both honoured the unwavering stance of these two faithful ladies by granting them Sabbath privileges.

It was also a grand occasion for Tracy and Bethamy Brant, Debbie Kaczmarek and Roland Temple as they joined the other members of their families in the fellowship of Corner Brook Adventist Church.

As a result of Pastor Bob's powerful gospel presentations, the song of scintillating soprano Alise Schram and the public relations of Oyeman Mitchell, who has a charisma all of his own, the Word both sung and spoken has testified to the fact that there is still plenty of new life in the old, old story.

Newfoundland on the Move New Life Crusade Expands Its Outreach

New ways and means of reaching the worldly younger generation has been a burden for several years on the heart of New Life Crusade Evangelist Pastor Bob Sparenberg.

The New Life Crusade Anti-drug and Alcohol Campaign is a pilot program founded by Pastor Sparenberg to attract the younger generation. The focal point of the campaign is a replica of a 1927 Ford Roadster powered by a 650 H.P. racing engine. The car was designed and built by Virgil Grecian of California, an experienced drag racer and car builder now living in St. John's, Nfld. and a member of the St. John's S.D.A. Church. Brother Grecian has spent nearly four years designing and building this special automobile.

It was about a year ago that Pastor Bob, a former car assembly worker and racing enthusiast, heard about the car and contacted Brother Grecian concerning this special youth outreach. Pastor Bob, Virgil and his wife, Dianne, had special prayer over the project and a fund raising campaign was organized by Pastor Sparenberg. About $2,500.00 was needed to complete the project. Pastor Bob and Virgil visited the business people in St. John's and explained the special community outreach program. On the first day of the campaign, $500.00 was donated to the project in just over an hour. To date over $6,000.00 has been donated in cash, parts and custom paint job. When finished, the car was brought to the Federal Building in St. John's where Premier Peckford tried out the cockpit and kicked off the program. The task force which works with the car is clad in special T-shirts which identify with the car. Special literature on the dangers of drugs and alcohol are available at the display along with a video program and films. Hundreds of people visited the display at a local mall and picked up over 1,000 pieces of literature. Pastor Bob was thrilled with the results of this pilot program as many young people and parents enthusiastically asked questions about the program and the church.

The car will be displayed 10 days before each main evangelistic campaign as public relations for the New Life Crusade team. During the next two years the car and task force will be working together with the New Life Crusade Team to cover the entire island.

Please remember the church in Newfoundland in your prayers.

Youth Baptism at Victoria, B.C.

An unusual baptism was held recently at Victoria Church, Vancouver Island, on June 26, when several young people of Victoria and Juan de Fuca churches went forth to publicly declare their decision to follow Jesus, and live for Him.

Pastors Lynn Baerg and Gerald Haeger joined their services in baptizing these young people into their respective churches. Ayese Schulz, joining her mother in the Victoria Church, also Mark Domke and Heidi Domke, children of Dr. and Mrs. Herb Domke of Victoria, and Sharon Oakley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ed Oakley of Juan de Fuca, and Margaret Brousson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brousson, also of Juan de Fuca.

It was a beautiful service, full of promise and looking forward to a life of training and usefulness in the service of the church and its Leader, and the uplifting of mankind.

Bowmanville and Peterborough Ontario Have Unique Approach to Soul Winning Activities

Mark Johnson, who recently became pastor of the Bowmanville and Peterborough churches, has swung into soul-winning activities with enthusiasm.

One of his initial projects has been the production of a tract entitled The International Outlook which depicts the tension in today's world and the imminence of Christ's return. This is the forerunner of a set of twelve that will present topics of salvation-interest to the public. Johnson conceived this idea because of the need for up-to-date, inexpensive literature that can be read quickly and will present the doctrines in a specific way.

The tract has been distributed by church laymen in the towns of Bowmanville, Cobourg, Peterborough, Pontypool and Port Hope. A number of interesting contacts have been made as a result of the response coupon on the back of the literature. One man who wrote in requested a quantity of the tracts to assist in distribution. He has now visited the Bowmanville Church and plans to fellowship there regularly.

Cleve Gallagher, local elder of the Peterborough Church, recently conducted Friday night meetings, using the Encounter filmstrips for Bible studies. At the conclusion of those studies, Pastor Johnson conducted meetings two evenings per week, and church services were changed from morning to afternoon on Sabbath so he could be there every week, and the members could distribute tracts and visit interested persons on Sabbath mornings.

Three people have joined the church in Peterborough during the past month - Jennifer Mewett, Margo Lehman, and Marianne Creighton - and more are planning to join. Mark Adema was baptized in the Bowmanville Church recently. These folk are enthusiastically active in sharing their faith.

Pastor Johnson plans to conduct evangelistic meetings this fall and next spring and would like to receive information about any Adventist people or friends of the church who are not attending, in the Bowmanville and Peterborough areas.

Television Programs Win Souls

Marie came from an Adventist home but had become careless in her relationship with her Lord and the church. She and her husband moved to Williams Lake, B.C. In Haney, B.C. she had a sister who invited her to watch the It Is Written program.

As she began to watch Pastor Vandeman on the IIW program, the question came to mind "what am I getting out of life?" She lived near the Adventist Church so decided to go to church. A few members took an interest in her and she continued to attend and was soon baptized.

May I ask you, "What are you getting out of life?" May I suggest two ways of getting the most out of life? First, strengthen your relationship to Jesus Christ by more prayer and Bible study. Second, share your faith through service for others.

I would further suggest that your life can have greater fulfillment by making friends of IIW viewers who are not Adventists. Just be the best friend these wonderful people ever had and they will begin to ask about Jesus Christ. You will be thrilled by your new friends.

Thank you for your wonderful support. Your monthly donations keep the program on the air. We need $2,000 every mail day to keep the program on present stations and supply books and services for the viewers. Thank you and God bless you.

It Is Written

Brother Emil Krajcar used to watch many religious T.V. programs on Sundays until he came across one program in his own Yugoslavian language, entitled "Glas Nade" - Voice of Hope. He became very interested in the Sabbath truth. He went to his priest to find out what he had to say about the Sabbath. As they studied, the priest could not find any verses in the Bible, to support Sunday as being the day of worship. Brother Emil then began studying the Bible correspondence course sent to him by the Yugoslavian church. In the spring he attended the evangelistic meeting held in Toronto by Pastor Manestar. It was then that Brother Emil decided to follow his Lord. On Sabbath, April 3, 1982, Brother Emil Krajcar was baptized by Pastor Slavko Manestar in the Toronto Yugoslavian church. He lives in Cambridge, Ontario and is now a member of the church in Cambridge.

Corkum Brothers' Crusades Meet with Success in Fredericton, N.B.

Fredericton's second evangelistic crusade in less than a year came to an end on Sabbath, June 12. The "It Is Written" Prophecy Crusade was conducted by Glen Corkum, full-time evangelist in the Maritime Conference and a former pastor in the Fredericton area. Glen's brother, Don, conducted the first series in November; both met with equal success.

Prior to the ordinance of baptism on the final Sabbath of the series, six children were dedicated to the Lord. Barry and Susan Thompson, themselves baptismal candidates, presented daughters Julia and Andrea; John and Wanda Ramsdell, who recently moved to Fredericton from Nova Scotia, had newborn daughter Jana-leigh Gayle dedicated to Christ; David and Kathy Green presented daughters Jessica and Abigail, and Annie Bishop brought her grandson Shawn before the Lord.

Seven baptisms and one profession of faith completed the morning's worship. Baptized were Dale Carter and Crystal Donnelly, both of whom attended both crusades regularly. Christina Foster, David Green (whose wife Kathy had been baptized at the end of the previous series), and Heather Sandilands, a fourth-year Arts student at St. Thomas University, made their public commitments to Christ. Barry and Susan Thompson, who had earlier dedicated their children to Christ, were also baptized together. Finally, Annie Bishop, a former Adventist, rededicated her life to Christ and was accepted into the fellowship of the nearby Minto Church.

This is the last evangelistic series to be held in Fredericton until the fall of 1983, but the work will not stop here. Many outreach programs are planned for the upcoming year, and new members and old alike ask for your prayers as the Gospel of our Lord Jesus is spread throughout the city.

"Coffee House" Program at Vancouver Church Attracts Youth

Saturday night, good music, herb tea, candlelight, and good friends created the atmosphere of the "coffee house" held at the Vancouver Central Church. Advertising in newspapers, radio, and church bulletins brought out approximately 150 young people to hear North American folk music, presented by Julian Gray, Chris Harter, Dave Gustafson, Tom Klassen, Laurie Kiefiuk, and Jenneth Sawchuk. A good portion of the songs had a gospel orientation.

The evening was a very effective outreach, attracting youth who hadn't been attending church, non-Adventist friends, and even strangers who came as a result of advertising.

Youth of Warburg, Alberta Baptized

Outreach Achieved Through Vancouver Child Care Centre

The Oakridge Child Care Centre has recently opened in the lower level of the Vancouver Central Church. It is a non-profit society in which each member of the church is also a member of the society.

Connie Zubke, administrator and teacher, creatively decorated the area. The parents of the 17 three to five-year olds are very happy with the facilities and Christian principles. Health principles are emphasized, Bible stories are being introduced, and the children are saying "thanks" for their food. Undoubtedly both children and parents will be influenced for eternity.

Youth Day of Prayer

by Lloyd E. Janzen, Director Adventist Youth Ministries, Canadian Union Conference

Campus Ministries has initiated a call of concern for the youth of Canada. These are challenging times for Canadian young people. Questions like these are on the minds of our youth:

1. What shall I do with my life?
2. Can I serve the Church? Are opportunities limited on denominational payrolls?
3. How can I afford to go to one of our schools?
4. How do I know what God's plan is for me?

If you should desire to help specific youth attend a Christian school, your financial support can be made available to them through the Canadian Union Conference Youth Department.

Please join us as we pray for God's special blessings upon the youth of Canada. Help us find ways to encourage more youth to go to an Adventist school.

Please Pray

I want to come home—I am homesick—I don't like the food—I'm lonely—Math is too hard!—The deans are too strict—I've got too much homework—I don't have enough work—My teacher says my spelling is terrible.

These were perhaps words in the first letter I wrote home from the dormitory.

The challenges of providing and obtaining a Christian education are great. To meet these challenges and to recognize the needs of students in our educational institutions, the youth of Canada have set aside a Day of Prayer on September 11, 1982.

On this day, prayer will be offered in every church in Canada for:

- a) Spiritual strength
- b) Preparation for service
- c) Access to opportunities for these students enrolled in every educational institution. We believe and are counting on your prayers. Thank you.

Trio of Three for Youth

North American Youth Ministries and Sabbath School leaders have a new trio of publications especially tailored to help high school and college-age youth grow spiritually.

Cornerstone Connection is a novel approach to Sabbath School study. It contains a graphically interesting quarterly for students, an audio cassette with supplementary stories and materials, and teacher/leader helps, including a Youth Ministries Resource Magazine for each quarter. Other bonuses include things like "The Great Judgment Game," a large poster that can be used as a board game to reach the points of the judgment. Cornerstone is just what you need to reach high school age young people.

Collegiate Quarterly is going into its fifth year of outstanding service to the college-age student. With Doug Stouva as student editor and Doug Morgan as editorial director, Quarterly has a circulation of 33,000 and grows stronger with each issue. It's helpful to the post-college young adult as well, grappling with the tough issues facing Adventists and all Christians today.

College People is the new baby on the collegiate publication block. With student editor Melody Hubbard, and also Mr. Morgan as editorial director, College People is a monthly during the academic year, packed full of provocative articles on education, mission, leisure time, travel, prayer, sexuality, depression—it runs the gamut of interests.

College People and Collegiate Quarterly are produced under the overall direction of Larry McGill, Chaplain at Union College. The campus ministries offices of all SDA colleges in North America work closely in writing and editing as well as providing campus correspondents for these publications. Both College People and Collegiate Quarterly are fully recognized and approved by the NAD Church Ministries Department. Cornerstone Connection is similarly approved, with editorial preparation done at Concerned Communications in California. To order any of these publications write to North American Youth Ministries Distribution Center, 3800 South 48th St., Lincoln, NE 68506.

A New Rest Haven Returns to the Peninsula

It was with sadness to Adventists in the Vancouver Island area, that the doors of the old Rest Haven Hospital were closed for the last time, and the place where it stood, has become just a hole in the ground. However, a new complex of buildings have taken shape. Rest Haven returned to Sidney and opened its doors on July 5 to its first residents, not an acute care hospital, as was the old Rest Haven, but a seventy-four room Intermediate Care facility.

The "Lodge," as it will no doubt come to be known, is located at 2281 Mills Road, just off Resthaven Drive, a very easy place to find, as it stands three stories high, above its surrounding buildings. This 3.3 million dollar structure is one of the few buildings to be completed under budget, states Administrator Dan Rippin.

This very modern building with curved glass has thermostatically controlled sun-rooms, large comfortable residents' rooms, each having its own bathroom facilities, and some double rooms, which will serve as quarters for married residents, in a bedroom, sitting room arrangement.

Corridors are brightly lit with skylights running the entire length of the ceiling, door dividing corridors are to be kept open, but will automatically close in case of fire. Nursing stations with room to room contact and modern equipment make it easy for nurses to be available immediately when need arises.

The stainless steel kitchen will adequately provide for a large or small number of people without congestion. The adjoining dining room is designed to be set up in sections, or as one large convention-type room. An activity room for functions, and teaching hand crafts, to be directed by Glen Stansal, also has a hideaway kitchen facility in two areas for special occasions, or for teaching a class in foods.

Director of Resident Care, Heather (White) Switak, will supervise a staff of ten regular nurses, and twenty nursing assistants.

Although the old Rest Haven Hospital has gone, and is now just history, another Seventh-day Adventist Care Institution has arisen, and will serve the Community of Sidney in providing much needed health and tender loving care in a home-like atmosphere, and it is hoped that time will prove this new Rest Haven Lodge, will replace the old with the same nostalgic affection.

Groundbreaking in Beauvallon

On Sunday afternoon of camp meeting in Beauvallon on July 18, 1982, the sod was turned to inaugurate the construction of a new church for the Pobida (Victory in Ukrainian) Congregation of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Mr. Walter Verenka, Reeve of the County of Two Hills, was on hand to wish success to the parishioners. Councilman Fred Hasiuk of Beauvallon assured the congregation of the county's support. Elder Herb Larsen, president of the Alberta Conference led out in the groundbreaking ceremony. A large crowd responded spontaneously to the challenge and praised God for His blessings.

This new church has been under consideration for many years. It will meet the needs of a growing congregation with modern facilities and comfortable space for all age groups. Already nearly half of the total cost of the building has been raised by the local congregation.

In 1920, a log cabin church was erected on the same grounds. It was replaced by the existing chapel. Sam Samograd of Innisfree, at ninety-one years of age, is among a handful of pioneers still living in northeastern Alberta who were involved with the initial start of the Pobida congregation.

The estimated cost of the new church is $280,000. Built in a diamond shape it will seat a total of 220. Modern nursery as well as classrooms for the youth and children will make the new structure very functional.

Our desire is to build this new sanctuary to the glory of God and for the benefit of the sons and daughters of the pioneers who have entrusted us with a blessed heritage.

Daniel Rebsomen, Pastor

New Church for Winfield, B.C.

Children and Money

by Parry A. Parks

Part of the work of parents is to teach their children how to handle money and how to assume responsibility. The attitude that our children have toward money will, to a large degree, be formed by what they see and hear demonstrated in the home.

We need to be aware of the message that we pass on to our children about money. If Dad and Mom are always quarrelling over bills and the lack of money, the children may get the message that it's all because of them. They might even get the impression that they are a burden to the home. This is the wrong impression. It destroys feelings of security and real belonging, and we lose a wonderful opportunity to help them understand money and its true value.

I would like to suggest three things that will help our children have the proper attitude about money:

1. Teach children the dual partnership concept:
  - (a) "God and I are partners." God's part can be explained to children as soon as they can count to ten on their fingers. At home they learn to return God's portion first from their allowances or earnings. This includes tithe and offerings.
  - (b) "The family and I are partners." Every family member has responsibilities. According to his or her level of maturity, each participates in family life, goal setting and financial planning.
2. Children should have an allowance: An allowance is a symbol of belonging. Every member of the family should receive an allowance, including parents, because each is a member of the family. The allowance should be a set amount and given on a regular basis. It should not be used as a tool for reward or punishment. A regular allowance will teach our children the three major uses of money:
  1. Giving
  2. Saving
  3. Spending
3. Have a weekly "family sharing time." This will provide an opportunity to go over family finances, discuss plans and assign chores or responsibilities.

As children grow older, the allowance should cover many of their needs. Older children should also be given greater freedom in decision-making, setting their own goals, and planning for their personal needs. Avoid directing children through gifts and indulgences.

To train our children about the importance and use of money is very vital. Like other things, the best method is by our own example. They also will want to budget their money and put God first in all their giving.

From the book Adventist Home, page 387, we have this good counsel:

"Money which comes to the young with but little effort on their part will not be valued . . . How much safer are those who know just where their spending money comes from, who know what their clothing costs, and what it takes to purchase a home!"

Missions Extension Offering Will Supply Literature for the Masses of Europe

Making a list of issues confronting people who want to spread the gospel in Europe isn't hard. Any list will contain this item: The hold of secular thinking on the minds of Europeans.

It shows in a number of ways: church attendance has fallen to single figure percentages in many countries; the ministers of the dominant churches question such fundamental beliefs as the incarnation of Jesus, His resurrection, the divinity of Jesus Christ and the need for church attendance; lack of interest in religious issues.

What should the Adventist church do to meet this challenge?

Now comes an exciting new project. Northern Europe (the Nordic nations, Poland, Holland, the British Isles) is creating a brand new approach in literature. Heavily illustrated and telling the whole gospel message, this literature will meet secular man at his thought level. It will introduce him to Bible truths in a way that will captivate because it will have the kind of illustrations and writing style that will match his interests.

Full message books written to attract the ordinary man in the street are already appearing in a few European countries. Now we plan in Northern Europe to create even more attractive literature. Both literature evangelists and newsstands will use these books and magazines.

Often the special offerings of the church focus on institutions. This year the Missions Extension Offering will zero in on a specific evangelistic project — literature for the masses of Europe. We can promise you that this project will put the message of Christ in front of the people of Europe in a new and challenging way. We can also promise you that evangelistic contacts and results will multiply over and over.

September 11 is the date. The Missions Extension Offering the opportunity. Literature for the masses of Europe, the project. Forty-five thousand Adventists in Northern Europe face the prospect of evangelising 126 million people. It doesn't daunt us. God has given us a message. He has given us His Son. He has given us the brothers and sisters of His church. He has given us the Spirit. He has given us books and magazines. We are going forward to give what we have in Europe. And your gifts will stand beside those God has given and what we in Europe will also contribute.

W.R.L. Scragg, President
Northern European Division

Radio Spots to Create Favourable Image of Adventists

"People Helping People" is the theme for a set of 12 public service radio spots being released by the Voice of Prophecy in September. The spots will be sent to every radio station in the United States and Canada.

Each spot portrays someone in a service occupation going the extra mile to help others. Professions featured include teaching, dentistry, medicine, police work, nursing, and physical therapy.

At the end of each message, the announcer says, "A People-Helping-People message from this station and the Seventh-day Adventists." The singer of the background musical jingle then adds, "People just like you."

The resulting image: "Seventh-day Adventists, people just like you." John Robertson, who is in charge of radio spot production at the Voice of Prophecy, explains, "This is as directly related to the church as we can come without having to buy commercial time from the radio stations."

"A Celebration of Marriage" to be held at Andrews University

"A Celebration of Marriage" is the theme chosen for the marriage strengthening conference to be held on the weekend of September 10-12, 1982, at Andrews University.

The conference, sponsored by Adventist Marriage Enrichment, is designed to be both an enriching experience for couples and an opportunity to enhance leadership skills for couples interested in strengthening the Christian home.

A five-day training event for leadership certification in Adventist Marriage Enrichment is also scheduled on campus for September 16-20.

Interested participants in the conference will find a wide selection of informational and experiential sectionals on various topics, good fellowship, a rich spiritual experience, and a time for recommitment and making plans for the future.

All are welcome. For additional information regarding registration, low cost housing and meals, and seminar fees, write "A Celebration of Marriage," Home and Family Service, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20912.

Good Reading for the Children!

Did you ever stop to look at the array of magazines in your home? How many appeal to your child? If you have an average type home, your magazine rack carries very few magazines geared to your child's interest. As an Adventist adult you probably have the Review, These Times, Signs of the Times, Life and Health, Liberty, Listen, Insight, and Guide. But the younger members of the family have only Our Little Friend and/or Primary Treasure, papers given out at Sabbath School. Good papers, of course, and they fill a need.

But now there is something new. Rainbow Friends, published by Pacific Press, is a highly illustrated magazine for children from 6 to 12. Its 32 pages are filled with character-building stories, biographies, marvels of nature, practical features on health, nutrition, and hygiene. There are quizzes, poems, and songs, as well as skill developing activities — to name a few of the things contained in this new quarterly magazine.

Rainbow Friends is ideal not only for Adventist children but for the non-Adventist as well. There's no better gift idea for evangelistic or Vacation Bible School purposes or for just plain giving. A year's subscription, which is four eye-appealing issues, will be sent to the address you desire for only $7.55 Canadian — anywhere in Canada. A single copy is $1.90. Order through your Adventist Book Centre.
