From Tripoli to Tehran

By D. L. Chappell, Publishing and Sabbath School Secretary, Middle East Division

IMAGINE that you are a reporter for your home-town paper. Your editor, who was befriended by an Adventist missionary while on a recent world tour, walks into your office and says, "Jim, I want to know more about these mission-minded people. Here is a plane ticket which will enable you to spot check on their work from Tripoli, Libya, to Tehran, Iran. I will be waiting for your report and pictures."

Before you realize it, the time has passed and your trip has ended, and your summary report appears in your daily newspaper. This is what your readers read:

Beginning my tour of the Near East in Tripoli, I learned that in all of the oil-booming, desert kingdom of Libya, the Seventh-day Adventist Church has but one mission station in the form of a small hospital and a sixty-member church, both of which operate in rented quarters. Within two years, however, their million dollar hospital, now being constructed on a nicely situated lot in Benghazi, will be completed—thanks to ESSO and other oil companies for their generous contributions for the project.

I further discover that the loving ministry of the hospital staff is having its telling influence for Christianity. For example, the son of a prominent Libyan patient told Doctor Clifford Ludington, "I want to take the medical course and return to this hospital to help you minister to my people."

While more than a third of the membership of the Middle East Division is in Egypt, shortness of time permitted me to visit only the Cairo Evangelistic Center at Rameses Square. I had the privilege of meeting six of the forty-seven fine looking people who were baptized at the Center in 1965. I did not see them, but I was told that the Adventists have a modern training school and a new orphanage home near Cairo.

It seems that the Adventists have found that the center-type building is more practical in the Middle East territory than is a regular church edifice. I was pleased to see the newly-acquired one in Jerusalem.

Later I visited those in Beirut, Damascus, and Tehran. The one in Tehran offers various types of services for the Moslems, such as stop-smoking clinics, English language classes, lectures and films.

In Jerusalem I was interested to learn that the Adventists provide the lights for the big tree at Bethlehem every Christmas. They also play carols sung by their famous King's Herald Quartet of the Voice of Prophecy radio program, near the Church of the Nativity.

During my brief stop over in Beirut, Lebanon, I visited the Middle East College, the only Adventist college in that division. The instruction is given in English, meaning that students from the various countries must spend a year or more studying the English language before they can begin their regular classes. This institution, now under the leadership of Kenneth Vine, Ph. D., is affiliated with the Adventist Loma Linda University in California. The Adventist workers kept telling me that their need is for more elementary and secondary schools in the different countries. Truly they need to feed this growing college.

With these appeals still ringing in my ears, I boarded the Pan Am plane for Iran, the land of Queen Esther. Adventist missionary Kenneth Harding met me at the airport and took me to see the Tehran Center, the Adventist Medical Clinic, and the newly constructed Armenian Church.

Next we went to see the elementary school being operated in a rented building, which is far inadequate for even the present enrollment. While there, I met Shahrzad Toghrai the nine-year-old Moslem girl who memorized the Ten Commandments, and recited them at a special program in the Adventist Church.

I visited the Iran Adventist Academy at worship time and discovered that more than half of the students, who were singing the gospel songs, were Moslems. I then understood better why Adventists operate schools in mission fields. I also realized the desperate need for the proposed new, enlarged elementary school in Tehran as a feeder for the academy.

The principal told me that an earnest appeal has been made to Adventists all over the world to give a special offering next June 25 to help build the new elementary school in Tehran as a feeder for the academy, and to improve the facilities of the academy. I am confident that these mission-minded Adventists all will respond wholeheartedly to the appeal of their brethren in old Persia, one of the many interesting Bible lands which I visited on my assignment.

West Indonesia

Progress Highlights*

By W. L. Wilcox, President
West Indonesia Union Mission

IN spite of many difficulties but by God's help the year 1965 was the greatest year in soul-winning in the history of the West Indonesia Union Mission. Evangelism has been the keynote.

A service building at the Bandung Sanitarium and Hospital, including the laundry, generator, dining room and kitchen, was completed in 1965. A home for one of the teachers at Indonesia Union College was also completed.

THE headquarters for the West Indonesia Union have been moved from Bandung to Djakarta and are located in the new Evangelistic Center. An apartment building and overseas homes are now in the planning and these will be completed in the near future.

TWO hundred workers from the East and West Indonesia Unions attended the Andrews University Extension School at Indonesia Union College. The school began June 1, 1965, and some workers were out of their fields for from two to four months. It was feared that evangelism would suffer but on the contrary there was an increase of 80 percent in baptisms over that of 1964. The first Laymen's Training School followed immediately after the extension school.

THE General Conference Publishing Rehabilitation Committee and the Far Eastern Division made possible the purchase of color separation equipment and also a beautiful new Heidelberg offset press. During 1965 the second volume of Desire of Ages was published and the first volume of The Adventist Home.

A recording studio is now being completed at the Djakarta Evangelistic Center for the use of the Radio-TV department. Already most of the radio stations in Indonesia are carrying our programs.

THE year 1965 was our best year in the number of baptisms among the Moslems. In all 562 took their stand for Jesus as their Saviour.

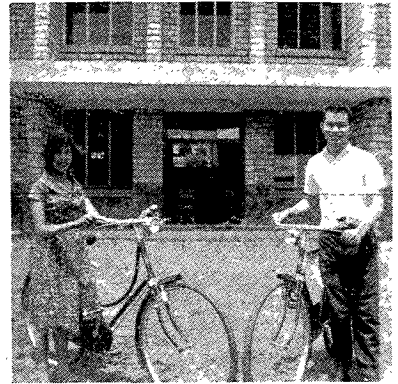

WE have had political upheavals, financial crises and persecution. At least two of our Adventist members were killed and one of our young workers was severely beaten. Many of our dear members were severely persecuted. In spite of this, God's work has progressed by His help. He is leading His people.

*Excerpts from the report given by Pastor Wilcox to the delegates who attended the recent biennial session.

Two Student Colporteurs Awarded Bicycles

DECEMBER 16, 1965, was a high day in the history of Indonesia Union College, Bandung, Java. Two good quality bicycles were given to two students who made the highest scores during the vacation period. The awards were presented by the West Indonesia Union publishing department as a token of appreciation for the hard work done by the two young people during the summer. The two winners were James Mambo and Ruth Maruru. The former scored 111.77 points and the latter 55.97 points.

Pastor A. M. Sitompul, assistant publishing secretary of the union, and Pastor Ringoringo, local mission publishing secretary, both made speeches of appreciation. Both of the award winners worked in the West Java Mission and their secretary urged other colporteurs to work hard this summer and awards will be awaiting them.

M. S. Mangunsong, assistant principal of Indonesia Union College, was in charge of the chapel program on this memorable day. Words of encouragement were also spoken by the writer. He expressed the hope that many students would work hard for scholarships this coming summer. The awards were then presented, and G. Fisher, principal of the Indonesia Union College, offered the closing prayer.

This group of students from Indonesia Union College spent their vacation this past summer selling our literature.

Pastor Pangarisan Sitompul, evangelist in the West Indonesia Union, and his wife, Gladys, have been studying in Beirut, Lebanon, for the past few years. Pastor Sitompul has been studying in the Near East School of Theology and Mrs. Sitompul in the National Conservatoire of Music of Beirut, where she is now a senior student. Mrs. Sitompul gave a recital at our Middle East College on Saturday night, January 22. Six members of the Indonesian Embassy, including the Ambassador, were among the many officials, guests and friends who attended the recital. The Sitompuls are now busy preparing for their finals. They plan to return to Indonesia in a few months' time. In the above picture Mrs. Sitompul is performing at the piano, and at the right Miss June Soper, head of the music department at the Middle East College, congratulates Gladys on her performance.

A Providential Evangelistic Opportunity

By D. Batoebara

AN evangelistic opportunity which is truly providential has been opened up to us in the Simalungun area of North Sumatra.

Thousands of people involved in the communistic foul coup of September 30, at which time seven top generals of the Indonesian Army and many officials were victims, have either been duly punished or put in detention camps for further investigations and, some who were not so heavily involved, are allowed to do their daily business but they have to report on certain days in the week for indoctrination. State policies according to the Pancha Sila are presented. The first Sila—belief in God—is especially emphasized, and all religious groups are invited to take part in these. These people are gathered together in large halls on a certain day and time once a week for each religious group to explain its doctrines and beliefs. They can then make comparisons and make their choice as to the religion they wish to embrace.

Our turn comes on Wednesday afternoons in one town and on Thursday afternoons in another town. Herman Purba, our ministerial intern in Simalungun, assisted by R. A. Nainggolan, mission MV secretary, and two literature evangelists, are doing all they can to bring the message of mercy to these disillusioned people. These efforts have now continued for several weeks and with growing interest. It is wonderful to see so many people turn to their Bibles for the texts read by our men. Bibles and truth-filled literature have been sold in large quantities to these people by our literature evangelists. Many are taking the Voice of Prophecy correspondence course. Our men have been called "men with the Word of God" because their statements are always based on the Bible.

We cannot tell what the result of this indoctrination will be. Several of these people are now attending services in our churches. We are told that these people come from every corner of the districts in which the indoctrinations are being held. Some come as far as 15 kilometers and they come on foot through ricefields and plantations—places that it would be very difficult for us to reach. It is the Lord's doings and we are glad. We hope and pray that a large ingathering of souls will result from this providential opportunity of giving the message in these indoctrination centers.

Central Philippines

Field School of Evangelism

By L. E. Montana, Ministerial Secretary, Central Philippine Union Mission

OUR major evangelistic campaign in Dumaguete City began as a field school of evangelism last May 30, 1965. Our evangelistic team was composed of the following: Bernabe Atiteo, now teaching at MVC, Ulyses Camagay, ministerial intern from Western Mindanao Mission, Adriano Aguirre, Jr., ministerial intern from Southern Mindanao Mission, Adelaido Menatad, ministerial intern from Central Visayan Mission, Eliseo Doble, Helen Zamora, Pastor A. B. Savilla, the writer and his wife. Giving excellent support was Pastor A. V. Dick from Mountain View College, who provided the scholastic instruction to the members of the field school who still lacked some units of the government requirements for graduation.

At the close of the field school, fifty-seven souls were baptized which included a nurse working at the Silliman University Mission Hospital, Miss Adelona Pakilit. She is now working at Temple University Hospital in Pennsylvania and plans to transfer to our New England Sanitarium and Hospital. Two of our ministerial interns left for their mission assignments and two remained to assist in our meetings. Early in September 107 souls were baptized. The remainder of the evangelistic staff continued with the meetings and at the close of the year, prior to the biennial session of the Central Philippine Union Mission, a total of 209 souls were baptized.

The former church building which housed 68 members can no longer accommodate the large new membership. A building project is now on. Dumaguete City is known as carry on our "Time for Singing" program on a sustaining basis. It is aired at a power of 10,000 watts, making it one of the most powerful radio stations in the southern Philippines.

The influence of our major evangelistic campaign in this city will be felt for several years to come. We are confident that many souls will join the church in the future as a result of their attendance at the meetings.

The writer is now preparing for another major evangelistic campaign to be conducted at this time in Palompon, Leyte, in the territory of the new East Visayan Mission. We are praying that the success we

Reclaimed after Nineteen Years

By L. E. Montana

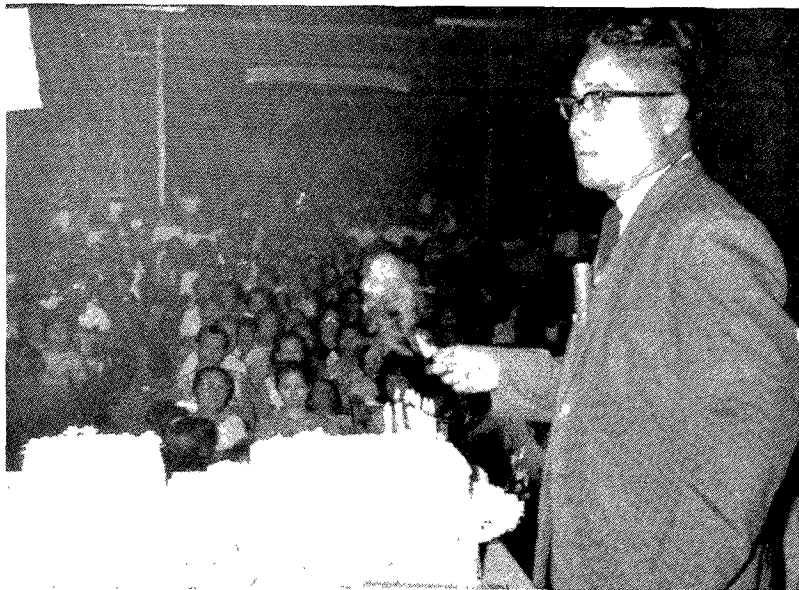

SOLEDAD Tan is the daughter of a rich Chinese business man in Manila. When she married a Chinese before World War II, her husband took her to the mainland of China. Upon arriving at her husband's place, she soon discovered that she was the secondary wife, her husband already had a wife on the mainland. She came back to the Philippines and later on was in contact with our people and our message. Her marriage was annulled and she joined our church.

After her baptism, she located near Philippine Union College and had a small business to earn a living. She was a faithful Adventist for ten years, participating in all of the church activities.

Later she met and married Dr. Diogenes Santillan and they settled in Dumaguete City. Her husband, now a lawyer and being a strong Catholic, pulled her away from the church. For nineteen years they accumulated material things and participated actively in the political, social, and civic affairs of the province and the city. Politicians running for provincial and national positions always made it a point to seek their support.

When we started our major evangelistic campaign in Dumaguete City, Mrs. Soledad Santillan and her children began to attend our meetings. The husband also attended once in a while. The Holy Spirit began working on the heart of Mrs. Santillan and she felt that she should be rebaptized and prepare herself for Christ's second coming. She brought with her to our meetings also Mrs. Leonora Alvarico, the wife of the provincial assessor. This lady also became interested.

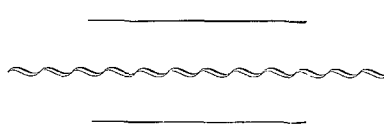

Last October, Mrs. Santillan invited many of the VIP's of the province and city to a birthday party on her farm. Before the assembled guests, she stated that this might be the last time she could entertain in this manner for she was joining the Seventh-day Adventist church. When we planned for a baptism in the natural swimming the "cultural center of the southern Philippines" because of the influence of the Protestant Silliman University. Its strong Protestant influence has permeated the lives and thinking of the people so that this city is sometimes called "the city of gentle people." True to its name, the Protestant church in the city proved gentle to us, not even making any opposition when many of their members attended our meetings and some of them were baptized into our church. Until now Radio Station DYSR and DYH4, which is a member of the National Council of Christian Churches Broadcasting Network in cooperation with Silliman University, still pool on her farm last November 7, she foresaw the opposition of her husband to her baptism. She therefore decided to be baptized earlier that Sunday morning while her husband was still in the clinic in the city. The other eighteen candidates were baptized later.

Dr. Santillan arrived on their farm with some guests, which included the wife of a Congressman, in order to witness the baptism of the eighteen candidates and also to attend the baptismal party to be given in honor of those baptized. After the baptism, the doctor with the Congressman's wife and the wife of another doctor, joined the line of those who congratulated the newly-baptized members. He did not know that his wife had been baptized early in the day. Mrs. Santillan was very happy for among the candidates were her son, daughter-in-law, grandson, six other workers in her household and on the farm, and the wife of the provincial assessor whom she had brought to the meetings.

Due to persecution by her husband, Mrs. Santillan was forced to leave her home with her two children and they are now living with her son on the farm. Her husband has made several overtures to her to return to the city and renounce her faith. But she has stood true to her conviction. She is determined that nothing shall deter her from loving and following her God.

Korea

Servicemen's Retreat in Korea

By Robert L. Sheldon, Manager
Korean Publishing House

IN Seoul, Korea, high on a hilltop overlooking the broad Han River, the Eighth U. S. Army has established a Religious Retreat Center. A beautifully landscaped campus; a dining room tastefully decorated; comfortably furnished double bedrooms with innerspring mattresses; and a lovely chapel provide an ideal setting for a religious retreat.

On Friday afternoon, February 11, twenty-nine Seventh-day Adventist servicemen, all stationed in Korea, converged on this hilltop center for a weekend of reconsecration and spiritual refreshing. Pastor Adrian Zytoskee served as retreatmaster, assisted by guests from the Far Eastern Division—Pastor C. D. Martin and T. V. Zytoskee. Members of the Korean Union staff also participated in the services.

A full, yet well-balanced program, was planned starting on Friday evening with sunset worship and ending with a rousing volleyball game on Sunday morning. Sabbath was a cold day but the sun came up bright and shinning over the barren Korean mountains. A stimulating song service conducted by Pastor R. S. Watts, opened the Sabbath school. At the worship service, Pastor Martin challenged everyone to get better acquainted with God, the author of the greatest book, the Bible. His appeal was climaxed with a duet sung by Pastors Martin and Watts, "How to Be Like Jesus."

Following lunch in the cheery dining room and a short rest, there was an interesting panel discussion. Several of the young men in attendance were not members of the Adventist church and their questions helped each one present to bring into focus his beliefs and why we believe as we do.

A quiet vesper service of music and appropriate thoughts by Pastor T. V. Zytoskee brought to a close the Sabbath. A MV social entitled "In the Footprints of the Pioneers," was held in the Retreat Center's Day Room. Mrs. Adrian Zytoskee had ingeniously planned several games incorporating "footprints" and "pioneers." A color film on the life of Martin Luther brought the evening to a close.

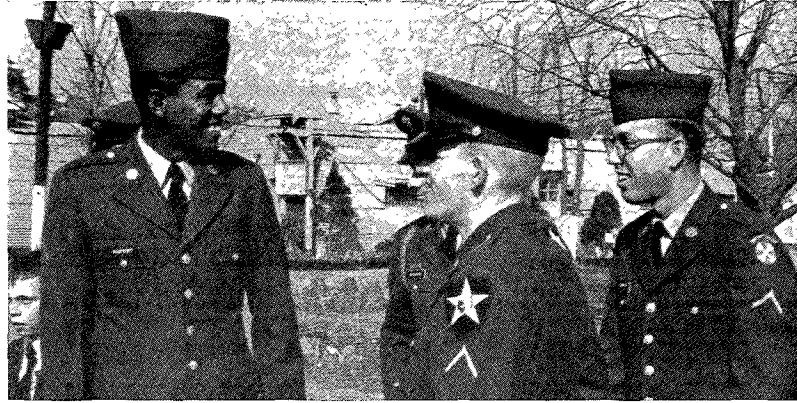

Sunday morning Pastor Martin spoke at the concluding service. He stressed the importance of resisting temptation and gave seven timely tips for combating evil.

Pastors Adrian Zytoskee and T. V. Zytoskee of the Korean Union and the Far Eastern Division, respectively, greeting the retreat-bound servicemen.

The fellowship afforded is part of the joy of attending a Servicemen's Retreat.

A stimulating volleyball game and later a lunch brought the retreat to a close. Everyone was hesitant to leave the spiritual atmosphere that had prevailed over the weekend. Each one in attendance agreed that a very special spiritual blessing had been received. One young man, not a member, made his decision to join the Adventist church during the meetings.

Better Living in Korea

By R. F. Waddell, M. D.
Division Medical Secretary

THE Korean Union medical department, under the direction of Dr. Clarence Lee, has developed a dynamic "Better Living Campaign." This is an all-out effort on the part of the church to bring the principles of true healthful living to its membership and then to the communities in which our people live. The program is based on a series of 24 health lessons and is offered as a correspondence course. A text has been prepared by medical personnel of the Seoul Sanitarium and Hospital consisting of 24 lessons that cover the entire field of personal and community health hygiene.

The program was announced through the Compass, the union mission's official publication, and launched on December 10, 1965. One hundred students have enrolled thus far. More applications are being received each week. To date sixteen have completed the course and successfully passed their final examinations. Neat and attractive diplomas and lapel buttons have been awarded those who have completed all requirements. The enthusiasm of our people is running high for the information that the course provides. Many are asking for more. An advanced course is being planned in which additional information and methods will be presented.

It is believed that when similar programs are developed and promoted in all overseas fields the church will have a powerful tool with which to make our health message a vital force in preparing the world for Christ's return. Union offices may appropriately serve as program headquarters. Local mission offices or hospitals make ideal regional offices. Each church through its medical secretary may organize classes and encouragement be given to all members to join. As our people thus meet together, study together and plan together, they effectively implement the admonition "The work of health reform is the Lord's means of lessening suffering in our world and for purifying His church."—Vol. 9, pp. 112, 113.

Korean Union College Dateline

● On December 18, 1965, Korean Union College Corporation was granted accreditation to expand the secondary school offerings to include grades 7 to 9 (Middle School). Thus Korean Union College now offers a complete 16-year educational program. Thirty schools applied for permission to offer middle school work but only five were permitted to do so.

● Plans have been approved for the first stage of the college cafeteria building. The Far Eastern Division granted US$10,000 for this project. It will be a one-story, fire-proof building with modern food preparation facilities.

● The Ministry of Education has granted principal certification to the new Korean Union College Academy principal, Lee Kyung Ill, and the elementary school principal, Lee Sun Hie (Mrs. Lee Key Ton).

● The 25th graduation of Korean Union College was held on December 24, 1965. Thirty-three students graduated with Bachelor of Arts degrees, and 28 students received junior college diplomas. Twenty-one of the 33 senior college graduates majored in theology, and 12 in education. Of the theology majors, two plan to go on to a graduate school, two are being called into the army, and 17 are being given ministerial internships. Three students graduated with honors. Top honors went to Kak Chong Ki, winner of the 1965 Korean Bible Contest.

● Pastor Im Pyung Wee, business manager of Korean Union College for the past six years, has been elected president of the Middle East Mission. Pastor Im received his Bachelor's degree at Philippine Union College in 1959.

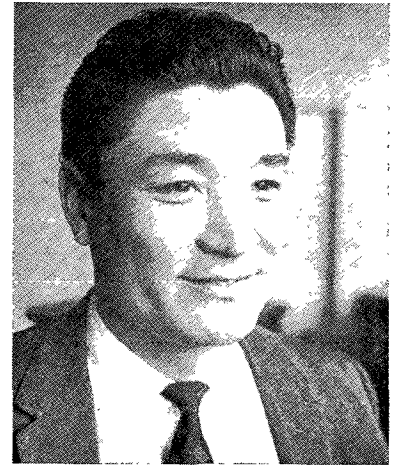

● Kim Chong Wha and Lee Kyung Ill, academic dean and academy principal of Korean Union College, respectively, were ordained to the gospel ministry at the 22nd biennial session of the Korean Union Mission. Dean Kim received the Master of Arts degree at Philippine Union College in 1963. Principal Lee received the Master's degree in Korean language.

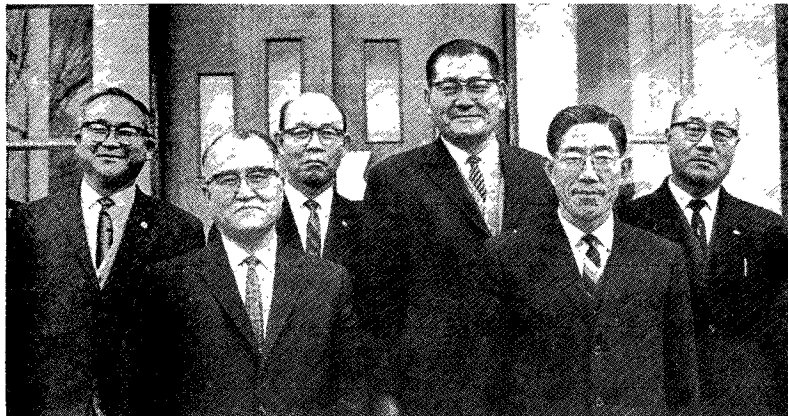

A spirit of unity was evident at the 22nd biennial session of the Korean Union Mission. As a fitting climax to this meeting, nineteen men were ordained to the gospel ministry at the closing Sabbath service. Seated from left to right: Moon Yo Sik, Oh Keun Suk, Chung Byung Yun, Kim Wha Soo, Chung Han Yung, Son Eun Soo, Kim Chung Hi, Lee Chin Ho, and Kim Chong Hwa. A Little Child Shall Lead

By C. S. Fallan, Educational Superintendent, Davao Mission

FATHER, let us go to church. This is the Sabbath day and Jesus will be happy if you will come to church with me today," urged little Rachel as she addressed her unbelieving father, words which finally brought conviction to his heart.

Arsenio Leluna was a man of the world with no interest whatsoever in spiritual things. His wife had studied the Adventist doctrines and had accepted the truths. This made Arsenio furious, and he made life miserable for her. But God loved Arsenio Laluna, and He was trying to reach him through various ways. In fact, He performed miracles on his behalf, such as saving him from a tragic death by accident while working one Sabbath day, and also by healing him from a very serious illness. But Arsenio's heart remained as hard as stone.

To keep the children from the corruptions of this world, Arsenio's wife sent them to the Banga church school. After several weeks, the children began holding impromptu programs at home by means of finger plays and songs. After coming home from hard work on the farm, Arsenio was delighted to hear these and learned to love the songs. Little Rachel would sit on his lap and invite him to go to church with the rest of the family on the following Sabbath. Did her words fall on deaf ears?

One Sabbath morning, Rachel held her father's hand more tightly, and with love shining in her beautiful eyes, she pleaded, "Father, please come with us to church today. We will have a nice program and I want you to hear it. Will you not be happy to see your little Rachel lead the children's choir? Jesus will be happy to see you in church today."

Arsenio could not think of any reason just then why he could not go. So he went, to the great joy of his wife and children. Arriving at the church, he was touched by the friendliness of the people. He chose to sit in the rear part of the church so that he could observe all that transpired. The Holy Spirit worked upon his heart and he was greatly impressed and inspired by the parts rendered by the church school children. And how happy he was when he saw his daughter directing the children's choir! Tears rolled down his cheeks as he listened to the children sing praises to God. Arsenio's heart melted and a conversion took place. He was baptized in January, 1964. Later his sons and daughters followed his example. Rachel was baptized in March of 1965.

Having been brought into the truth through the influence of the church school, it is not surprising that Brother Laluna, now elder of the Banga Seventh-day Adventist church, is a strong advocate for Christian education. Two of the younger children are still in the church school; a daughter is at Mountain View College; and two sons are attending Philippine Union College.

Again we thank God for Christian education which protects our children from the corruption of the world and prepares them for citizenship in the heavenly country.

Week of Prayer Results

THE second semester Week of Prayer at Northern Luzon Academy has just been concluded and it resulted in the baptism of 12 students. Pastor Juan Bangloy, the outgoing mission president, conducted this week of spiritual refreshing February 18-26. This brings the total number of baptisms for this present school year to 32. The students baptized faithfully attended the baptismal class organized early in the year and taught by the writer. It has been my privilege to sponsor the baptismal classes for three years. According to our records, the peak year in baptisms was the year 1964. That year 58 students were baptized. In 1963, twenty-nine students were baptized and in 1965 thirty-two.

More than 60 delegates from the North, Central and South Philippine Unions attended the Philippine Publishing House Council, held in the House auditorium, Manila, February 14-16, 1966. The council was chaired by E. A. Brodeur and J. T. Mason, Division publishing secretary and assistant publishing secretary, respectively. All 14 missions were represented by their respective publishing secretaries and assistants, and BPA managers. The union presidents and many local mission presidents were also in attendance. Timely discussion was given to many problems mutual to the Publishing House and to the field. We believe the three-day session will result in a more positive and forward looking publishing program in the Philippines.

Pastors E. A. Brodeur and J. T. Mason conducted a "Five-day Plan" to ensure better leadership in the publishing field. Shown in the picture are the publishing men, BPA managers, and magazine leaders of the five missions of the North Philippine Union who attended the Leadership Training School held at the Philippine Publishing House from February 16-20, 1966.

The Products of One Church

HAVE you ever heard of a church which produced four mission presidents? There is such a church in the Philippines and it is in the town of Cuyapo, province of Nueva Ecija. But that is not the complete record. This church has also given to our organized work two other ordained ministers, a union publishing secretary, five teachers, a college treasurer, and a union office secretary. The total years of service of the four men who served as presidents is 103. All in all, the service record of the 14 workers produced by this church is more than 250 years.

To begin this story we go back to the year 1922 when Gaviou Sandida, a student colporteur of the Pasay Academy (now Philippine Union College), sold the book, The World and Its Perplexities by Pastor A. G. Daniells to Victor C. Medina, now a retired minister. He was then a public school teacher in Cuyapo. So impressed was he by the exposition of Daniel 2:44 that he felt he must be ready for the second coming of Christ.

Eager for more light, Victor C. Medina went to see a Seventh-day Adventist minister, the late Pastor Leon Z. Roda, who was then preaching in Rosales town, 15 kilometers north of Cuyapo. After a thorough study of the book Daniel and the Revelation which the minister had loaned him, Victor C. Medina was baptized. But first he must resign as a public school teacher and also sever his connection with the Legionaries del Trabajo, a secret organization, both of which he did.

With no employment after his baptism in 1923, Brother Medina decided that he should attend to his two-hectare farm. Then came a letter from Pastor W. B. Ammundsen, president of the Northern Luzon Mission, urging him to do colporteur work, and instructing him to see Tito Atiga, Sr., mission publishing secretary, for instruction and assignment.

After successful stints in several towns, Medina visited his home town where Pastor Roda was preparing to hold an evangelistic effort. Medina was asked to help, and later he was made tentmaster. Included in the team was Auspicio Rapacou, now a retired worker. The Lord blessed abundantly this effort with more than 100 souls. The Cuyapo church was organized by Pastor S. E. Jackson. A semi-concrete chapel was built, 8 x 12 meters. That was in 1924.

Four mission presidents who came from the Cuyapo church. Beginning third from left: A. A. Damocles, J. O. Bautista, J. C. Medina, and V. C. Medina. Their total service record is 103 years. Others in the picture are G. D. Mostrales, Mrs. V. C. Medina, and C. O. Bautista—all from the Cuyapo church.

One of the original members of this church was Pastor Jose O. Bautista, currently Sabbath school and home missionary secretary of the North Philippine Union. He has been president of four different missions and at one time was the vice-president of the North Philippine Union. Pastor Jeremias Medina, younger brother of Victor C. Medina, who was baptized in 1936, is now president of the Mountain Province Mission. Alfredo Damocles, now dean of Philippine Union College, was president of the above mentioned mission before Pastor Jeremias Medina took over. Pastor Victor C. Medina was president of the Northern Luzon Mission when the war broke out in 1941.

The Cuyapo church was the last church to be raised up under the leadership of Pastor Roda, whose son is now president of Philippine Union College. Pastor Victor C. Medina attributes his conversion and his zeal to the inspiration he got from the books, The World and Its Perplexities, and Daniel and the Revelation. Truly the promise is sure that God's word will not return unto Him void. This statement has found abundant fulfillment in the Cuyapo church and the 14 workers it has contributed to the cause of God, including four mission presidents.

Introducing New Secretaries

By J. C. Medina, President
Northern Luzon Mission

AT the tenth biennial session of the Northern Luzon Mission, held in the Northern Luzon Academy church auditorium, February 8-12, 1966, two men were elected to serve as departmental secretaries. Pastor Bernardo Malquod, evangelist and minister for almost 30 years and currently district leader of southern Isabela of said mission, was elected home missionary and Sabbath school secretary.

Victormio A. Arreola, who is at present head of the elementary department, boys' dean, MCC commandant, and sponsor of the baptismal class of Northern Luzon Academy, was asked to serve as educational, MV and temperance secretary of the mission. Brother Arreola has been teaching for the past 14 years, largely within the elementary field. In all his years of teaching, he has promoted the MV work well. He has attended most of the MV camps that have been held, and also been active in Pathfinder work. He has organized three clubs in the Northern Luzon Academy. He is also commandant of the academy MCC with more than 100 girls and boys enrolled.

May the Lord bless these men as they enter upon their new assignments.

A New Guest House on the NPUM Compound

By B. B. Alsaybar

PHILIPPINE hospitality, like Ba-taan Corregidor and Manila hemp, is, they say, known far and wide, if not the world over.

Designed to give accent to this desirable trait with us in the North Philippine Union is the new guest house, the latest evidence of growth on the union compound in Pasay City.

Built by Ar-Mon Construction firm, the neat, two-story, permanent type-edifice has 3,808 square feet of floor space. On the ground floor is a two-bedroom apartment, one guest room—all with complete kitchen and toilet facilities, and a utility and laundry room. The one-room school for the overseas children on the compound is also on this floor with toilet, bath and storage facilities.

The second floor features also one complete apartment with a maid's room, which could be converted into a guest room, and three big bedrooms, each with complete facilities and with one common kitchenette. Hot and cold water is provided.

It is the good fortune of Manila to be so strategically located that it is literally the “crossroad of the nations” for tourists, visitors, and missionaries in transit. Officers from other union fields find themselves in Manila every so often on important business. Then, too, returning Philippine missionaries from other lands, of which more than 100 have been sent out since 1933, find themselves sometimes in need of temporary overnight stop.

To them especially, the NPUM guest house spreads the royal mat of welcome and says, MABUHAY!!

Ogden L. Aaby, business manager of Philippine Union College, recently received his diploma as Fellow of the Royal Society of Health in London. He has had 20 years of denominational service, 13 years in the Orient. He became a member of the Royal Society in 1959 and has just been made a Fellow in recognition of his many years of hospital administrative work.

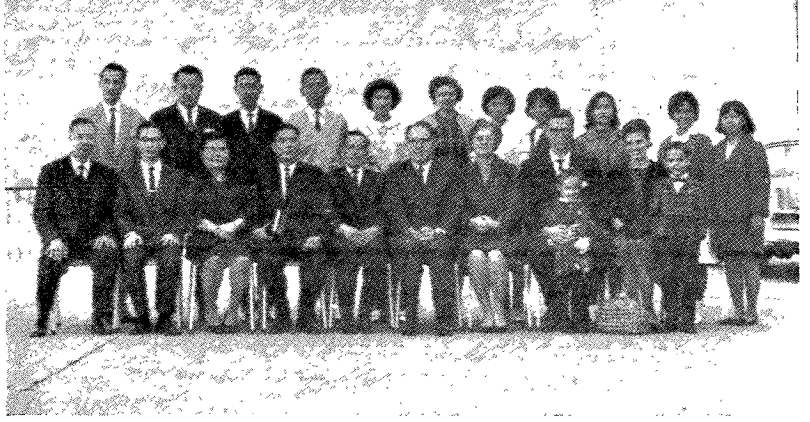

Eleven evangelists of the North Philippine Union Mission passed the century mark in baptisms in 1965. Under the blessing of the Lord, these men led 1,389 souls into the watery grave. Their combined efforts for the 1964—1965 biennial period resulted in 2,534 baptisms. Left to right: R. C. Williams, ministerial secretary of the Union; B. T. Castillo, Southern Luzon; I. D. Hospital Church Organized

JANUARY 1, 1966, was a happy New Year's Day at the Hong Kong Adventist Hospital in Tsuen Wan for on that day the new hospital church was organized. For several months the group has been meeting as a Sabbath school and worship group. Each Sabbath sixty to seventy staff members and patients have gathered for the services. Dr. Roger Heald, medical director of the hospital, and Pastor Philip Tan, business manager, have led out in the services.

Pastor Andrew J. Robbins and Pastor L. S. Chan, president and secretary-treasurer of the Hong Kong-Macao Mission, respectively, represented the local mission at the organization service. Following an inspirational message by Pastor Robbins, Pastor Chan read the names of the persons who were to become charter members. The mission committee has appointed Pastor Philip Tan to be the pastor of this new church.

Officers for the new mission for 1966 were nominated and approved by the church and one deacon was ordained to this sacred responsibility. After the benediction, the entire group was invited to a Christian-fellowship luncheon provided by the hospital.

Your prayers are solicited for God's special blessing upon this newly organized church.

By Daniel R. Guild
Union Ministerial Secretary

"CHRIST the Son of God hath sent me o'er the widespread lands. Mine the mighty ordination of the pierced hands." In the Southeast Asia Union the church recently recognized Christ's call to three men and ordained them to the gospel ministry.

Since graduation in 1943 from the Vietnam Training School conducted by Pastor A. V. Bentz of France, Do Binh has been a literature evangelist, the pastor of two churches, and since 1960 the publishing secretary of the Vietnam Mission. Since 1958 Wong Yew Seng of Penang, Malaya, has been engaged in pastor-evangelistic work as a missionary to Sabah on the island of Borneo, to Cambodia, and now to Cholon, Vietnam. He is a graduate of the ministerial course of the Southeast Asia Union College. Recently he completed a very successful effort in the Cholon, Vietnam Chinese church of which he is now the pastor.

After graduating from our junior college in Indonesia in 1959, R. I.

Mamora came as a missionary to Malaya. For several years he has served successfully as pastor of the Kuala Lumpur church. Recently he accepted a call to Thailand where he is the Bible teacher at the Ekamai English school and pastor of the school church. He holds a B.A. degree from Philippine Union College.

News Notes

DR. Harry W. Miller spent several days on the MVC campus recently. The new food factory is nearing completion and Dr. Miller had come to demonstrate and instruct the workers on how to prepare a new health food. Soy milk and tokua are routine products of the MVC food factory, Dr. Miller having introduced these foods to the college some years ago. Now he has brought to us a new type of corn and soy bean breakfast food and a new supplementary gluten and soy bean health food. As MVC moves forward in the area

On March 12 Pastor P. P. Ramos, radio and TV secretary of the South Philippine Union, conducted the graduation service for 70 academy and college students who had completed the VOP Bible correspondence course.

All hearts rejoiced as Pastor P. T. Reyes, treasurer of the South Philippine Union, stepped forward to shake the hand of one of the young men who was graduating. Then he told the story of this boy who had been sent to us by his Catholic brother who had given up all hope of saving the lad. Many prayers had been offered for him and now he was graduating from the Bible course—a living testimony to the power of the word of God to change lives.
