INDUS. SCHOOL ANNOUNCEMENT

PURPOSE. - The object of this school is to educate youth for the practical duties of life, and to do so under such influences that they will choose to become christian workers in some field of usefulness.

PROSPECTIVE.-The outlook for the opening of the school is good. The new buildings are not ready for occupancy, but arrangements have been made for temporary quarters that are very comfortable and well adapted to school purposes. The young ladies will room in one building under the care of the preceptress, while the young men will room in a cottage near by and be under the care of the principal. All will take their meals together in the house occupied by the ladies.

The buildings will be furnished very simply, but all necessary articles have been ordered and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the opening.

LOCATION.—The academy grounds are located three miles southwest of Boggstown, but until the buildings are ready for use the school will be held in the village. Class recitations will be conducted in the S. D. A. church building.

WHO ADMITTED, - Not all young people would desire entrance into such a school as it is hoped this will be, nor would the school wish to receive all who might apply, therefore in harmony with the principles and regulations of this announcement and ference worker.

There may be some exceptions.

SCHOOL HOME.—The work required in preparing food and in caring for the cottages, school room, etc., will for anything, but sometimes the mabe done mostly by the students, each terial for which the money is to be one giving two hours of his time expended can be used as a substitute. bed. that much attention will be given to different industries as soon as arrangements can be made for so doing. No great variety of work can be offered in this line for the first few months, but probably there will be plenty to do in connection with the building, furniture making, Bring any tools you may have.

STUDIES. - The industrial schools are expected to give instruction on such subjects as are commonly taught in the seventh grade and above of the public schools. Additional work will be given in special lines, and all the teaching will be in harmony with the principles of christian education.

Perhaps some who have never done the work of the six grades will wish to enter the school this fall. The doors will be open to such if they are of sufficient age and have no church school privileges at home. Let no one remain away because of a lack of education.

Music.-Those who wish to take lessons on the piano or organ will be accommodated. The expense will be room.

Expenses.—Until the school moves into its own buildings, it is thought best and most economical for the students to have the expenses met on the "club plan." That is, all the expense of running the school will be summed up monthly and divided among the students equally, with the exception that the food will be served only those will be admitted who are on the European or order plan, in which case each student will pay for the number of dishes he orders, bring with them a recommendation whether they be few or many. INDUSTRIAL WORK.-It is intended and dried fruits, fuel, etc. Let all such write for particulars.

> FACULTY.-For the present the faculty will be Prof. B. F. Machlan, principal and preceptor; Mrs. Kinner, matron and preceptress. As more teachers are needed, they will be supplied.

> REGULATIONS .- True ladies and gentlemen govern themselves in accordance with true principles and accepted regulations. The regulations of this school are as follows:

- 1. Waste no time, but use it profitably.
 - 2. Be neat, orderly, quiet.
- 3. Obey orders promptly and willingly.
- 4. Indulge in no bad habits, such as tobacco using, swearing, cardplaying, etc.
- 5. Leave no class without permission from the principal.
- 6. Render an excuse for all absence and tardiness.
- 7. Receive permission from the principal or preceptress for all absence from the school homes or class
- 8. Be prompt in attendance at all religious exercises connected with the school.
- 9. Do unto others as you would be done by.

POSTPONEMENT.

Just before going to press we received this telegram: "Impossible to begin school before the 29th." signed B. F. Machlan. We are sorry for this delay of one week, but it will give all more time for preparation. instead of the 22d. I. J. Hankins.

If you are a subscriber to Our Little Friend during the coming year. Miss Olive Henton will tell you about some of the things she saw in Alaska. She will also show you some of the pretty pictures she took while there.

Grown people and children in China, Japan, Australia, Islands of the ocean, Africa, Mexico and other countries, will also tell you about the strange people they know in those far-away lands. Order through your State Tract Socy.

S. S. OFFICERS ATTENTION

Some still do not know that we no longer require the payment of postage on the lesson quarterlies. The postmaster at Indianapolis has recognized our right to pound rates on them, so please remember this, and also tell your church librarian to remember it; or if there are any others that you have allowed to send for the quarterlies, please instruct any such ones and have them save the extra postage that was required for several months on account of the postal rulings of last year.

-- BOOK WORK --

OPEN THE CAMPAIGN ANEW.

Brethern and sisters, we must now open the Object Lesson campaign anew. Last spring the busy season overtook many before the work of selling this book was completed, but now the work of making the crop for the season is done and we must hasten to finish the good work which has been so well begun. Sufficient work has been done in the matter of preparing buildings upon the college site, at Berrin springs, to enable the school to proceed with comfort, but the assembly hall has not yet been erected. We must renew the work of selling these books now and proceed as rapidly as possible until we dispose of the entire number. We have learned that the territory which has been canvassed is about as good ground to work as any other, until the people have bought the book. A number who have re-canvassed territory say they succeed quite as well the second time. A few books sold in a neighborhood help to sell other books. Some cities which have been canvassed twice have furnished more customers for the second working than they did for the first effort.

Are there not many who have sold their full quota of books, who will go right on selling more? Not only should much territory be canvassed, but new places should be entered that the people may have the oppretunity of obtaining this excellent volume. Let the churches speedily organize for work. If the books are not already on hand, order them from the Tract Society at an early date.

Isolated members have an excellent opportunity to work. No one need be afraid to offer Christ's Object Lessons to a customer. The more there is known of this book, the easier it is to sell it. Let every one read the book. Tellthem all about it. Inform them fully about the purpose for which it has been published, and tell all about the missionary spirit which has characterized its immense sale.

There is really a very remarkable read and studied. history connected with this enter-

THE MESSAGE AND MESSENGERS.

When an important message is placed in the hands of a messenger he is expected to go at once and deliver God has placed a that message. message to the care of his people desiring that they should be faithful messengers. Man can give a message but cannot give grace and power to deliver it. God not only gives us a message, but also gives grace and power to deliver that message. The Lord imparts a fitness for the work to every man and woman who will co-operate with devine power. All the requisite talent, courage, perseverance, faith and tact will come as they put the armor on." Man. for Can. p. 68.

Gods' message is even written so that many can give it in that way, who could not preach it. Where are those who will place themselves in the ranks of the faithful messengers and carry the printed pages laden with the precious truth to the world?

Wonderful privileges are ours if we only take them. Just now golden opportunities are before us. Who will improve them? J. E. DUNN.

WHAT SHALL WE SEE?

There are many things we ought to see. We ought to see a whole denomination brim full of faith, courage, perseverance and zeal in carrying the last message of mercy to the world in every way it can be carried. It certainly is not saying too much to say the whole denomination ought to have faith, courage, perseverance and zeal when all these are gifts from God. The weakest can posess these traits as well as the strongest, as each must get them from God.

We ought to see hundreds of people entering the field as regular workers, selling our large books and then many more doing all they can in selling whatever they can to their neighbors and friends, thus the printed pages will be scattered like the leaves of Autum and the truth will be work, and, while in ourselves, all of us are inefficient to fill such positions, it is a blessed privilege to labor with and under the directions of a great leader and commander, who is able and efficient for the work. We want to see our brethren and sisters all over the state co-operating with us and praying for us, and giving themselves to the work in such a way as evidently God wants it done, Will we see J. E. TO S. S. SECRETARIES

(From Pacific Union Recorder.)

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much."

To many it seems that the matter of sending quarterly reports to the state secretary is a very small thing, and so it is. But it is careful attention to the little duties of life which make the whole life a success.

Now it is the duty of the secretary of each local school to send a report at the close of each quarter to the state secretary, and the state secretary is, in turn, to report to the secretary of the General Conference Sabbath-school Department. There is a definite time when all these reports should be sent, and it is evident to all that if the local secretaries are negligent about their reports, they compel the state secretary to be late with This causes confusion all hers. around.

It is often the case that the state secretary writes two or three times to a school, after waiting at first till after the report should have been received, and then fails to get a report after all that effort. This makes her report late, and also incomplete. It is a very unusual thing for a state secretary to get a report from every school during any quarter, so that the reports, as published, are never complete. Why is this so? It certainly is not necessary. If each secretary would feel that he is responsible for his school, and attend carefully to all the details of the work, all this trouble might be avoided.

There is one quite common cause of confusion, which many, perhaps, have not thought of. A secretary goes away from the school, either permanently or for some weeks, leaving the work in the hands of the assistant secretary. No one notifies the state secretary of this change, so she continues to send all communications, as well as report blanks, to the old address of the absent secretary. Of course the mail either lies in the post-office or is forwarded to another place. The acting secretary receives no blanks and therefore gives no re-they write for them. This always encourages the state secretary, for it shows faithful co-operation on the Sparks, J. E. Collins, U. S. Anderson, part of the workers.

Let us all work together, and see if we cannot have full, complete, and prompt reports from every school, no matter how small the school may be. We are just as anxious to hear from each little family school as we are to hear from the schools that are larger. In fact, the small schools are the ones that need help the most, and we can not help you unless we can keep in touch with you by correspondence. So please let us hear from all promptly after the close of each quarter. C. R. K.

CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS.

9. We recommend that the constitution be so amended as to provide for five members on the Conference Committee instead of seven.

10. Inasmuch as the Lord is calling for our ministers to leave the churches to do the work in their respective communities, and that they devote their energies to work in new fields where there are no representatives of the truth, therefore, as churches, we pledge ourselves to encourage them to do this, and to take up our God given work and do it, thatevery part of the field may hear the glad tidings of the soon coming Savior.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: For President, I. J. Hankins. Executive Committee, L.J. Hankins, R. S. Donnell, C. H. Bliss, J. C. Harris, A. L. Miller.
