The Song That the Spirit Sings

L. D. SANTEE

There are deeps in the heart's dim chambers,
That the cold world never knew,
There are thoughts too sacred for strangers,
There are loves too pure for the few.
Each heart has some sweet ideal
That will fill the heart with tears;
For, toned on the shores of the real
Is the song that the spirit hears.

We visit that "holy of holies,"
Stainless as childhood's prayer,
And we bow there, humble and lowly,
For the loves of our life are there.
Where a light not of earth is shining,
And time measures not by years,
Where the myrtles of love are twining,
Is the song that the spirit hears.

Time's wheels tarry not in their turning,
But my spirit is strangely light
For the fire on Love's altar is burning,
Though hidden deep out of sight;
And though upon earth but a stranger,
The haven of rest is near,
And sweet in the heart's pure chamber
Is the song that the spirit hears.

And soon shall a glad evangel
Ring clear through the courts of heaven,
And the harping of the angels
Shall welcome souls forgiven.
And there, with no tinge of sadness,
Where death enters not, nor tears,
Will be sung, with untold gladness,
The song that the spirit hears.

What Others Are Doing

It is not alone to Seventh-day Adventists that the present war has brought new burdens and perplexities. Twenty-five of the London Missionary Society's missionaries are prisoners of war. Fourteen in German East Africa have been completely cut off from all communication with their friends for many months. In Palestine six Church Missionary Society missionaries have been under restraint, Dr. Sterling of Gaza being kept in prison for several days. In Turkish Arabia five men and women workers have been detained by the Turks. The German missionary work in British territory has also been greatly hindered by the war. Not only have the Germans been unable to obtain funds from home, but many of them were arrested and interned as prisoners of war. In India 70 German missionaries, representing various societies, have been placed in a military camp. The Kamerun German Baptist Mission before the war comprised 6 stations and 49 branch stations with 23 missionaries in charge. The British of the Kamerun border have defeated the German troops, and the German missionaries were sent to England, and from there were transshipped to Germany. The Moravian Church has 40,000 members in the homeland and 96,459 in the mission fields. In Germany every fourth male communicant over seventeen years of age of the Moravians is now in the army. In 1913 the entire annual budget for the Moravian missions was $500,000. Seventeen per cent of this came from Great Britain and twelve per cent from the continent. The Moravian Mission Board faces an appalling deficit. The missionary societies of the various churches are putting forth most energetic efforts to solicit funds in this country as Europe is entirely unable to help. Some members of these churches are responding nobly to the appeal for help.

Now and then we talk as though it is only Seventh-day Adventists whose institutions or conferences are involved in debt. We doubt if there is a church on earth, unless it be the Catholic, that is troubled less with indebtedness than Seventh-day Adventists. But at the present time a strong movement is on foot among various churches to pay off their indebtedness. A year ago the Northern Baptist Union had a debt of $276,000. Some months ago they planned a strong campaign to pay off this heavy obligation. When the Baptists met last May at their large convention in Los Angeles they reported that they would come to the "May Anniversaries" with clean sheets which it is believed will not be soiled again with debts for many years. Two years ago the Disciples of Christ inaugurated a "Men and Millions Movement." They proposed to raise a two-million-dollar-fund for home and foreign missions. The laymen of the churches found this too limited and exclusive. The need of the colleges made a compelling appeal to business men. They decided to work for a six-million-dollar goal, which later was broadened to include the enlistment of a thousand volunteers for fields at home and abroad. This campaign, thus balanced, has met with astounding success. Already $2,250,000 has been secured. We know of one large denomination which had a school that did not pay expenses. Owing to this the board of managers closed the school until they could raise sufficient funds to get it on a safe foundation. Of course, we do not mean that we should follow in the wake of these other churches. Our work is different, and the methods we employ must of necessity be different. Still it is well worth while to see what the others are doing. When they get debts they pay them, and they work hard for large sums and small sums, and never let up until the debts are paid. This is a good principle, and one that we should follow in the Lake Union Conference. We are very glad to inform the readers of the HERALD that there is a very strong movement on foot in this Union to pay off our debts. Our mission funds are increasing, and we hope they will increase yet more. The Lord has given us peace in this country. This year appears to be a fairly good year. We believe that our brethren everywhere are in favor of making a supreme effort this year to increase our mission funds and to pay off our debts. At a union meeting of the Chicago churches, June 5, some needs of God's cause were presented. In the course of a few moments the brethren gave nearly $2,5000. We have found the same ready response in other places. If the other churches will sacrifice and give, how much more should we, who believe the end of all things is upon us. L. H. CHRISTIAN

"Elmshaven"

During the last few weeks, I have not written you about Mother, because there was not much change for better or for worse. She seems to be slowly failing in strength, and peacefully nearing the end of her life. She says from time to time that she has no desire to live except for service, and she feels that her life-work is done.

Thursday, June 3, she could not eat; and since then she has been able to eat only a small amount of food.

During the last week she has not been comfortable in the wheel-chair, and the only change of position has been from the bed to the big reclining chair in the bay window.

Thursday, June 10, Elder and Mrs. Daniells came, and although very weak that day, she smiled when she saw them, and said, "I am very glad to see you, but others must do the talking." Elder Daniells told her in a few words how richly the blessing of God was resting upon the workers in Australia, India, and China, and that our people in all these places sent greetings to her, and were praying for her. She nodded and smiled her gratitude, but did not try to speak. After this, Elder Daniells prayed for her, and then said good-by. Half an hour afterward Mother spoke thankfully regarding this visit.

Today, on my return from a four-days' trip to Los Angeles and Loma Linda, I found Mother sleeping after a restless night. When she awoke she said she was suffering less than yesterday. After I had prayed for her, she prayed, "Lord, I thank Thee that it is as well with us as it is. I will serve Thee to the best of my ability. Amen." This prayer was in harmony with her attitude during all her days of sickness, expressing gratitude to God, and a desire to be of service.

Early Observations—No. 24

God Answered Prayer

More than thirty years ago one Sabbath when our people at New London, Ind., were meeting to conduct quarterly services, a brief letter was received saying that my wife's sister, Mrs. Morrison, who was at Terre Haute attending school, was in a dying condition and no hope of recovery was entertained. The letter said that her four physicians all said she must die and that an undertaker had been engaged to bring her home for burial after her decease. The writer, her husband, requested the church to pray that she might die in hope feeling her acceptance with God. Elder J. M. Rees, who belonged to our church, and some visiting brethren with us, held a council and we decided to pray for her recovery to health, and that she might become an accepted laborer for God.

Having this agreement, we went into the church with the congregation to pray. Before we prayed we sang,

"What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear,
What a privilege to carry
Everything to God in prayer."

We felt as we sang that we had hold on God's throne, and when we prayed we felt sure that God was answering our prayers. Our sister was one hundred miles away from us when we prayed, but we were so sure that God had answered our prayers that my wife and I hurried off to get the next train at Kokomo, ten miles away. When we reached the station the train was there but we did not have time to buy tickets. When we reached the Union Station at Indianapolis two trains were standing on their respective tracks ready to start for Terre Haute, scheduled to leave at the same time and to arrive at Terre Haute at the same time in the night. We were not then acquainted at Terre Haute and so had to be guided by Providence in selecting the train. We were getting ready to ride on one but then some impression said, "This is not the right train for this time. Ride on the other," so we changed. When we arrived at Terre Haute near midnight we could tell the stage man the name of the lady where sister had been rooming, but could not give him the number. "But," said the man, "you are all right because I know just where to take you. Get in and go with me." We had been on the right train and its station service put us where we wanted to go. The other train service would not have done this for us. Well, we were soon at the home where sister was, but found all so sound asleep that it took loud knocking to arouse the inmates. But when they did awake my wife's mother, who had gone some days before, came out with a wonderful story of glorious victory to tell. When we knew that God had answered our prayers, we retired with the promise that all would be told in the morning. And we did hear it told.

The disease was erysipelas of a malignant type. It had covered her whole head, face, nose, eyes, ears, and mouth, and for five days and night she had been taking nourishment through a straw. And during that time she talked only in a whisper to some one who was very near. And this was her condition at the time we met to pray for her at New London. She had heard that our quarterly meeting was to be held and so she advised with her husband that we pray that she might die accepted of God. But when we sang at New London she arose in her bed at Terre Haute and sang the same words that we sang and at the same time. And then about the same moments that we were pleading for her restoration she asked her physician to let her get out of bed and walk and praise God for victory. This alarmed the physician for he thought she was dying and of course he forbade her walking. But he told her she could remain in bed and praise the Lord. So she sat in bed and filled with the Spirit of God, gave an uplifting talk which convinced all present that God was speaking through her.

She suffered no relapse and the physical ravages which the disease had made about her features soon disappeared and she was well. And after this experience, the Lord did use her to an excellent advantage for a number of years in the Sabbath school work. She and her husband went around the world, she to instruct in Sabbath school interests and he in the circulation of our books.

Thus our prayers were answered both with reference to her healing and her work.

WM. COVERT

Significance of the Ordinances

The baptism by John in the wilderness was a type of the burial and resurrection of the coming Messiah. Jesus' baptism was a confession that the sins of the world were upon Him, and that God's righteous law demanded His death, and consequent burial. Thus He fulfilled, in figure, all righteousness by endorsing the full demands of the law. His rising from the watery grave, and the descent of the Holy Spirit upon Him, was a type of His resurrection, and the consequent overshadowing glory of God. See Rom. 6:9, 10.

Christian baptism differs only from that of John's in that it is a memorial, and not a type.

The ordinance of humility, primarily, is not an expression of our personal humility; but it is a memorial of Christ's humility. See Phil. 2:6-8.

Since God has ordained that His people shall observe these ordinances, it is implied beyond question that they shall not only share with Jesus in His earthly sorrows, but also in His everlasting triumph over sin, death, and the grave. See Phil. 2:5-11; 1 Peter 4:12, 15; Rom. 8:15-17.

ADOLPHUS SMITH

Cooperation Between Teacher and School Board

To insure pleasant relations between the teacher and the school board and to attain the greatest degree of success in the church school, a generous spirit of cooperation should actuate all persons concerned. The Father of light is ever ready to bless our schools, through the sweet influence of His Holy Spirit, with the wisdom and guidance needed by their consecrated leaders, but one essential to the achievement of success in the Christian school, as in all other kinds of Christian endeavor, must ever be remembered, namely, mutual cooperation.

Please observe the word, "mutual." The teacher should not feel that all the cooperation must come from the board, neither should the board feel that all cooperation must come from the teacher, but each should manifest this spirit toward the other, the teacher cooperating with the board and the board with the teacher. From time to time, each will have plans for the successful operation of the school requiring the assistance of the other to make them effective. Such assistance should be most cheerfully given. The purpose of our schools—to train children for an inheritance in the kingdom of God—none of us should ever forget. Everything that makes for the fulfilment of this purpose in each school among us should be done by all related to the school in any capacity, whether teacher, parent, or board member.

As a rule, our teachers are employed away from their homes. It becomes incumbent upon the school board, therefore, first of all to see that a pleasant place to room and board is provided. The best home where such provision can be made should not be considered too good for the earnest, Christian teacher. The more satisfactory the environment in the home life of the teacher the better the service that will be rendered, other conditions being equal. Hence, school boards should realize that an important factor in making the school satisfactory is a congenial home for the teacher.

School boards should help to make teachers feel at home in the churches where they are to labor. They, on the other hand, should not be unduly timid in making themselves acquainted and taking an active interest in church affairs. It is well to remember that those who would have friends must show themselves friendly.

School boards also have dealings with teachers in a financial way, for upon them rests the duty of setting the amount of the teachers' wages and the responsibility of paying them. In determining the amount to be allowed in any instance, the experience and circumstances of the teacher and the size and location of the school are to be considered. Let the spirit of liberality prevail. A commendable effort is being made to raise the average wages for this class of workers, for they have been grossly underpaid in past years. After deciding upon the rate, the board should raise the money and pay it promptly at regular intervals, monthly unless otherwise agreed.

All interested in the school, but particularly members of the board, may, in a limited measure, express their satisfaction with the teacher's work, being careful to avoid over praise or anything bordering on flattery, but in the final analysis, the prompt payment of the monthly wages is more substantial evidence of appreciation and is most highly prized. But the failure to make proper financial provision for hard-working teachers, in spite of words of praise, has often depressed them and unconsciously affected their school work, wherefore we place strong emphasis upon the duty of the school management to cooperate with the teacher in payment of wages.

This much will suffice for the relation of the school board to the teacher outside the schoolroom. Now we may deal directly with the operation of the school itself.

It is the duty of the board to provide all necessary supplies and all the conveniences possible for the church school. To some the equipment desired and required for our schools today may seem somewhat elaborate; at least, it is more than our fathers enjoyed when they went to school; but in this progressive age, when knowledge of all kinds is to be increased, we need to supply every possible advantage for the education of our youth.

Although Seventh-day Adventists as a denomination have built a beautiful educational structure in a remarkably brief period of time, in itself a tremendous accomplishment of far-reaching significance, let us not be content with having our standards only slightly elevated above those of the world around us, but let our never-ceasing effort be to improve every facility and to attain even loftier heights of educational altitude, even in the primary school, that no dissatisfaction may inadvertently enter to hinder the progress, the prosperity, and the happiness which our heritage should enjoy. Therefore, in complying with the requests of teachers for supplies and helps, school boards are accepting another opportunity to cooperate with the teacher.

The best way to understand the needs of the school, and to be informed as to its manner of operation is to visit it. In this, also, there should be mutual cooperation between the teacher and the board. The teacher should invite and urge the members of the school board to visit the school often and the board should feel itself remiss in an important duty if such invitations are not accepted. Indeed, it is proper to visit the school without such invitations, but the average member of a school board does not care to seem to be prying into the affairs of a school if he is not even requested to come.

In dealing with the children in the school, the teacher should keep the board informed as to any undesirable tendencies or actions on the part of any pupil which may eventually lead to expulsion. While it is not the prerogative of the teacher to expel a child, if the pupil is not submissive to discipline, after proper efforts have been made by both teacher and board to secure the child's obedience, without success, the board may expel such a pupil. If private arrangement for the withdrawal of undesirable children can be made, no action for record need be taken by the board. This fact merits emphasis,—the teacher should not be obliged to have in the school anyone who persistently declines to obey, for the evil influence of such disobedience will permeate the entire school and lead others to similar misdeeds.

We have now considered the relation of the church school teacher to the school board in seven particulars; let us briefly summarize.

First. Mutual cooperation is essential to success in the Christian school.

Second. An agreeable home should be provided for the teacher.

Third. A spirit of neighborliness is to be encouraged in both teacher and school board.

Fourth. A liberal financial policy should be observed by school boards in dealing with teachers.

Fifth. Supplying up-to-date equipment in our schools contributes to the satisfaction of both teachers and pupils.

Sixth. Invitations to visit the school are to be given by teachers and accepted by school boards.

Seventh. Conditions in the school are to be reported to the board, the teacher being strongly supported in the effort to maintain perfect order.

While this consideration of the topic is by no means exhaustive, if the principles set forth are carefully observed, many of the difficulties in managing and much of the dissatisfaction concerning our schools would vanish. May the Lord impart to us all the wisdom to enable us to relate ourselves aright to church schools.

Mulberry Grove

We have had a varied experience since coming here. We had two severe storms after we pitched our tents before we began meetings. We have a good interest, about one hundred fifty attend—all we can comfortably accommodate. The people eagerly receive our literature.

The heavy storm of Sunday night, June 20, struck us so suddenly that we had not time to lower the tent. Some remained in the tent until it went down. Our living tents were all destroyed and our belongings scattered. We escaped with a few bruises.

The people of the town were very kind to us and provided us with lodging and dry clothing. We have been invited to continue our meetings in the Christian church until we can secure a new tent top.

We believe good will come out of this trouble, and we earnestly ask the prayers of the HERALD readers for the work in this place.

C. A. CURTIS
J. O. FERRIS

News Notes

Brother Hugh Stearns just heard of a family keeping the Sabbath as a result of reading a book he sold them.

The tent efforts are well on the way. The one at Mulberry Grove reports an average attendance of one hundred fifty. The one at Springfield started with an average of one hundred.

A severe storm at Mulberry Grove tore up the tents quite badly but new material was sent by express so the work will be delayed but a short time.

Mrs. F. H. Johnson was employed by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association during the state legislature.

Mrs. R. A. Logan, our stenographer, is taking a two weeks' vacation.

The first Springfield church school just closed, and from its grades made it appears that Sister Ada Tuttle is a very efficient teacher.

Brother E. N. Sargent has arrived in our field and will connect with the Danville effort this summer. His wife was ill and it was thought best for her to stay in the West for a time.

Brother Ray Logan is making his home with Elder Ferris and family this summer while earning a scholarship by canvassing.

The Signs Weekly will contain for three months articles and photographs of Elder Daniell's trip. Do not forget that the profits made on this paper come back to us to be applied on the Twenty-cent-a-week Fund. We received a check not long ago for $20 as the profits on the Signs weekly subscriptions from this conference in the year 1914. Do not let your subscription run out, or if it has already, renew at once. One subscription for 6 months 65 cents; two subscriptions to one address for 6 months $1.20.

Terre Haute Young People's Society

Our society is composed mostly of new members who have accepted the truth within the last year. We are preparing for a great summer's work. Fifteen have pledged to pay $2.50 to missions; some have already paid, others have theirs nearly paid. Several are studying to take the Standard of Attainment examination this fall. A number are also reading their Bibles through this year.

We are sending a copy of "Daniel and Revelation" to an African missionary who was once a public school teacher here. She has written to friends stating her belief in the prophecies. We pray God to bless the reading of the book. We also have a number of prospective Beechwood students.

Our junior society is doing excellent work. The attendance is twenty-five or thirty, very bright, energetic children who are eager to learn the truth. Four or five of the children have already turned in their trees filled. Here is how one little girl filled hers—55 cents for selling greens, 38 cents for picking peas, 12 cents for helping mamma, 5 cents for writing letters.

We are praying and working hard for a church school this fall. Pray for us here.

Church Organization at Hartford

Sabbath, June 19, saw the organization of a new church as Hartford. For many years Brother A. B. Castle and family and a few other faithful souls have held up the light and have called earnestly for help. Over a year ago Brother U. S. Anderson conducted a series of meetings which resulted in additions to the company. This spring Brother B. A. Hamilton and family moved there and Elder R. U. Garrett held a short series of meetings for the strengthening of the work. On Sabbath, June 12, he baptized six. Twenty-one joined the new organization and there are at least a few more who will unite later. One very hopeful feature is the number of faithful young people who give promise of being not only a strength to the Hartford church, but of becoming workers in the cause at large. Elders Anderson and Garrett were present to assist as were also visitors from Berrien Springs, Covert, and Paw Paw. C. F. McVAGH

Battle Creek

This has certainly been a good week. We had excellent meetings, and profitable visits. Orders taken amounted to $165.78, and I am not through yet. It will take four more days, at least, here in Battle Creek. Bedford is my next place, following that Grand Rapids.

I hope to see you all at the Charlotte camp meeting in August.

I trust the Lord will abundantly bless and prosper you all, both in basket and in store, and in things of heaven. E. I. BEEBE

Hartford

It has been my privilege to spend some time in Hartford holding a series of meetings. The interest was very good from the first. Sabbath, June 12, was a good day for the little company when they gathered upon the banks of the Paw Paw River to witness six dear souls follow the Lord in baptism. Of this number was a young man and his wife who came to a knowledge of this truth by reading "Great Controversy," sold to them by Brother O. A. Palmiter. They seem to be so happy in the precious truth, and are passing it on to others.

May this encourage our canvassers to be faithful in their work, for eternity alone will reveal the results of the work of our faithful brethren and sisters who are carrying the printed page.

Before this reaches the readers of the LAKE UNION HERALD, we expect to begin our labors in the city of Albion, our new field, and we ask the prayers of our brethren and sisters that the honest ones may be sought out and be prepared for the soon coming of our Saviour. R. U. GARRETT

News Notes

Elder N. M. Jorgenson has been visiting the churches at Monterey, Allegan, and Otsego.

Elder W. C. Hebner will conduct quarterly meeting at Carlton Center and Shelby.

Sister Prescott, a Bible worker from Iowa, is visiting her sister at Bangor.

The Bangor church building is being reroofed and repaired, preparatory to reopening. The work is reviving.

Have you read Elder W. W. Prescott's personal appeal in behalf of the Protestant? Everyone should read the Protestant. Only sixty cents a year in a club of five or more.

Elder A. G. Daniells is beginning a very interesting series of articles in the Signs Weekly. It is a good time to subscribe. All the profits on the Signs go to missions.

News Notes

Most of our student canvassers are now in the field, and God is blessing their efforts. When we look at their weekly reports on the last page, let us not merely look at the amount in dollars and cents, but remember that these represent hundreds of pages of our truth-filled literature that are to be placed in the homes to preach the message. We should remember these workers in our prayers that God may give them success.

The July number of Health and Temperance magazine is now ready. Our agents will find this a very easy number to sell. This magazine is a home magazine in every sense of the word, and is especially adapted to make Seventh-day Adventist homes what God intended them to be. Have you subscribed yet?

The little company at Wolverine, where we recently organized a Sabbath school, is steadily growing. Several have taken their stand for the Lord, and the interest is growing. Thus, here and there, without the continual presence of a worker, souls are taking their stand and are being led to study the truth by association with our people. As representatives of the Master, we should live such lives as to lead souls to yearn for the Christian experience.

S. E. KELLMAN

Study to be quiet. The lesson may be hard to many of us, but it is well worth the cost of learning. Speech is good, but oftentimes silence is better. He who has learned to hold his tongue is a greater conqueror than the warrior who subdues an empire. The power to be silent in the midst of danger and alarms is the power of the noblest, royalist.—Dr. J. R. Miller.

The Uncrowned Hero

We've praise for the man at the top—

We laud him up to the skies,
But have but little thought for him who fought,
And fell battl'ing for the prize.

We have garlands for the chieftain
Who rides from the field of fray;
But who will tell how hard and well
He fought who lost the day?

Not written among the great?
Unknown to the ranks of fame?
If the heart was true, and he dared to do,
He was a hero just the same.

True merit often limps afoot,
While fraud rides high in the van.
To do one's best is the royal test
Of a true and valiant man.

Then hail to the uncrowned hero!
Let's toast in a fitting way.
With water clear and hearty cheer,
Let's drink to his health today.

College

Professor Graf, Miss Kellogg, Doctor Cooper, and Professor Russell have returned from the convention at St. Helena and are taking up their duties in summer school. They report the best educational convention ever held.

It has been a very quiet place around the College for the past few weeks and the stir of activity in College and dormitories is a welcome sound.

The mosquitoes, which usually annoy us so much, have caused us very little disturbance this summer, due probably to the oil which was put on the pond below the carpenter shop.

Mr. John Hicks has entered the canvassing field in Northern Illinois.

The first crop of alfalfa has been cut, and is being stowed away in the big red barn.

The extension of the sewer to the river has been completed.

After relating experiences of what would seem to us a difficult week in the canvassing field, Mr. Ennis Moore adds: "But I would not quit for anything. I enjoyed every bit of it. It has meant a great deal to me as a Christian young man."

Mildred Shaw.—"The Lord has greatly blessed, and I have had some splendid experiences."

Mr. Tait Buck sends in a subscription to the LAKE UNION HERALD from a young man who accepted the truth last year as the result of reading "Great Controversy," sold to him by Mr. John Hicks.

Mr. Fred C. Phipps.—"I have been giving house-to-house studies, and one family, husband and wife and three little ones, have begun to keep the Sabbath. Pray for me that I may be an instrument in God's hands for the salvation of many souls."

Lucene Wright.—"I am enjoying the canvassing work. I think I shall set aside the last week in July for the College debt."

H. W. Denton.—"I have found many young people who ought to be in academies as well as college. The LAKE UNION HERALD has more interest for me than ever before."

F. Enos Parish.—"I was unable to be with you last winter, but my interest in E. M. C. is none the less because of it. The longer I stay away the more I want to return. As to the debt, I will do all that I can."

Edna Fitton.—"My first week's orders amounted to $40.00, and that is pledged to E. M. C."

John T. Worrell.—"Thursday night I stayed with a family who are deeply interested in the truth through reading a few Signs sent by an Adventist lady. The wife says that she believes the seventh day is the Sabbath and that people ought to keep it."

Hila A. Shepard.—"I made about $30 for the College debt. Let the good work continue."

The Student Movement

Just at this time when all our students are scattered over the Lake Union, and before the camp meetings are called, we need a word of encouragement to keep our spirit of loyalty to our school alive. Let us remember that the God who was with us in our work at the College last year, is with us in our work wherever we may be at this time. If it is our lot to be cast upon some shoreless sea this summer, where we think nothing can be accomplished, there, shut out from all else, we can at least pray for the success of the work. And if in our enthusiasm we are brought face to face with difficulties, let us be too brave to give up. God has more than the students who are working for the school, but it rests on us who have been primarily benefited to show first interest in the work.

Let each one of us set aside a little time each day to pray for the success of the Student Movement. The Lord speaks to us, "Go in this thy might, and surely I will be with thee."

"Coward and wayward and weak,
I change with the changing sky.
Today so eager and brave,
Tomorrow not caring to try;
But He never gives in,
So we too shall win—
Jesus and I."

I have had some good experiences this week. I am praying for the success of the work.
