Too Busy

Too busy to read the Bible,
Too busy to wait and pray,
Too busy to speak out kindly
To some one by the way!
Too busy with care and struggle
To think of the life to come,
Too busy building mansions
To plan for the heavenly home!

Too busy to help a brother
Who faces the winter blast,
Too busy to share his burden
When self in the balance is cast!
Too busy for all that is holy
On earth beneath the sky,
Too busy to serve the Master,
But—not too busy to die!

ROBERT HARE

A Call to Prayer

"Prayer is the opening of the heart to God as to a friend. Not that it is necessary, in order to make known to God what we are, but in order to enable us to receive Him. Prayer does not bring God down to us, but brings us up to Him.

"Our heavenly Father waits to bestow upon us the fulness of His blessing. It is our privilege to drink largely at the fountain of boundless love. What a wonder it is that we pray so little! God is ready and willing to hear the sincere prayer of the humblest of His children, and yet there is much manifest reluctance on our part to make known our wants to God. What can the angels of heaven think of poor helpless human beings, who are subject to temptation, when God's heart of infinite love yearns toward them, ready to give them more than they can ask or think, and yet they pray so little, and have so little faith? The angels love to bow before God; they love to be near Him. They regard communion with God as their highest joy; and yet the children of earth, who need so much the help that God only can give, seem satisfied to walk without the light of His Spirit, the companionship of His presence.

"The darkness of the evil one incloses those who neglect to pray. The whispered temptations of the enemy entice them to sin; and it is all because they do not make use of the privileges that God has given in the divine appointment of prayer. Why should the sons and daughters of God be reluctant to pray, when prayer is the key in the hand of faith to unlock heaven's storehouse, where are treasured the boundless resources of Omnipotence?"—Steps to Christ.

At one time the disciples came to Jesus with this request, "Lord, teach us to pray." If ever the church should earnestly petition God for faith, for grace, for power to live the victorious life, for a passion for the souls of lost men and women, it is now.

The greatest thing that one can do for lost humanity is to pray. Remove the hindrances to answered prayer, and pray. The moment that a sincere prayer reaches the throne of God, that moment are set in motion His agencies for answering that prayer. It may take days, months, years. Pray on, hope on, have faith in God, and trust. Don't hang up the receiver until you get the reply.

Many prayers are never answered because the conditions for answered prayer are not met. "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." "He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be an abomination." The conditions are plainly laid down in these and many other scriptures. Those to whom definite promise of answered prayer is made are clearly indicated in such phrases as this: "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you."

In that inspirational little book, "Real Prayer," by Courtland Myers, is told an incident illustrating the application of this text. A minister of the gospel called upon a lady who had once been active in church work, but who had given up her church relations and had announced herself an unbeliever in God and the Bible. When asked why she had severed her connection with the church, she replied, "Because I do not believe the Bible." Asked why she did not believe the Bible, she said, "Because I have proved that its promises are untrue." Said the minister, "What promise did you ever put to the test and find untrue?" She replied, "Does it not say, 'Whatsoever things ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them and ye shall have them?'" The minister replied, "It says something that sounds like that." "Well," said she, "my husband was sick; he grew worse. I earnestly sought God that he might be spared to me, but he died. God's promise was not fulfilled and I refuse to believe and trust one who makes promises and then does not fulfill them." Said the minister, "Are you sure that that promise was made to you?" Wonderingly she replied, "Was it not made to all professing Christians?" "No, certainly not," he replied. "God states very clearly to whom He makes such sweeping promises," and then he repeated the text previously quoted, "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you," and, he continued, "Are you sure that you were one of the 'ye's'? Were you one to whom the promise was made? Were you living to the glory of God in all things? Were you abiding in Him and were His words abiding in you?" She acknowledged that she was not, saw the point and returned to God.

If we meet the conditions, God will give to us either the identical thing for which we ask, or something better than this, for, "No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly."

Many definite answers to prayer were experienced in our work for the young people at the camp meetings. Bands for prayer, Bible study, and personal work were formed. An earnest endeavor was made to reach in a definite personal way every young person upon the grounds.

Since the close of the series of camp meetings, a definite call has come in from the members in one of our Indiana churches for special prayer in behalf of a young girl who is facing bitter and most determined opposition from her parents. She is too young to be free from them, but feels that she must obey God rather than man. Will not those who know what it is to pray through, join us in seeking the throne of grace in behalf of this dear girl? Pray that the hearts of the parents may be softened by the tender influence of the Holy Spirit and that they may be turned toward the truth.

Influenza—Cause, Prevention, and Cure

The influenza epidemic of 1890 recurred for three years with somewhat diminished virulence. The records show that at least fifty per cent of the population were affected and there was a great increase in the number of deaths from pneumonia during these seasons. Therefore, we may be sure that the epidemic of last winter will be repeated and it is very important for us to acquaint ourselves with the nature of the disease and with the methods of prevention and treatment.

It most frequently affects people between the ages of from twenty to forty years, and during the months of September, October, November, of 1918, four hundred thousand deaths were directly attributable to the epidemic. Besides this hundreds of thousands have been partially incapacitated due to various complications, such as pleurisy, etc. This means a great economic loss and therefore I propose to take up as thoroughly as possible the disease in all its phases.

The curious thing about the late epidemic was that in every severe or fatal case, the influenza bacillus was not the predominant one. Other bacteria, such as the bacillus causing one of the types of pneumonia and various pus organisms, seem to be responsible for most of the complications, such as pleurisy, pneumonia, and phlebitis (inflammation of a vein). Therefore it seems to be established that the primary symptoms only of the trouble are caused by the influenza bacillus. The influenza toxins are exceedingly virulent, rapidly lowering the resistance to such an extent that the other bacteria readily find an entrance into the body, causing the various complications which are responsible for the high mortality.

The incubation period of influenza, that is, the time which elapses between the exposure to the disease and the first symptoms, is from one to two days. The infection travels with exceeding rapidity. There is a sudden flaring up of cases all over the community usually within a week from the time the first case breaks out. Last winter the presence of influenza bacilli in the nose and throat was practically universal. It has been thoroughly established that the nose and throat are always first attacked and that the contagion passes from the nose and throat in some manner. It was almost impossible to distinguish between an ordinary cold or some fulness in the nose or rawness of the throat and what is ordinarily termed influenza. There is no dividing line. If a person has a certain amount of immunity, he will simply feel a little stuffiness of the nose and rawness of the throat, but he will be just as capable of carrying the infection as one who is severely ill, and this is the reason why it is so difficult to check the spread of the disease or to quarantine it.

We may decide to quarantine those people who are sick enough to go to bed and who plainly have the disease, but there will be just as large a per cent who have it so slightly as to hardly complain, while capable of carrying the bacteria to others, and the late epidemic has taught us that the bacteria are carried from nose and throat in some manner. When a person coughs or sneezes, the droplets are carried through the air and are taken into the nose and mouth of those who may be near by. The hand is also one of the most frequent means of infection. The almost uniform habit of holding the hand to the nose and mouth when one has to cough or sneeze is responsible in a large measure for the rapid spread, as the hand becomes contaminated. One boards the car, grasps the hand rail and straps, and in many other ways one is continually touching things others have handled, such as door knobs, dishes, and so on in a dozen different ways. The mouth to the hand is an important means of communication.

Dishes and cooking utensils are also very important. At some of the big cantonments, it was found that the disease spread much less rapidly and the mortality was much lower if the men were furnished with ordinary table ware which was scalded with boiling water after each meal. Whereas if the man used the ordinary mess kits, the virulence of the disease was greatly increased. So we know the bacteria are carried from the mouth to the dishes and the infection may be transmitted through the dishwasher. The influenza bacillus is not only present in the nose and throat, but is associated with other strains of bacteria, which are known technically as the bacillus pneumonias streptococcus hemolyticus, etc. This is the reason why vaccines have been so uncertain in their results, because in one case one kind of infection predominates and in the next case, another kind, and the vaccines which immunize one person will not prove effective in another case, because in the other case another kind of bacteria may be associated with the influenza bacillus and cause the chief symptoms. Having discussed influenza in a general way, I wish to take up that most important subject, prevention.

First, it is necessary to increase the resistance of the body by simple, plain diet, plenty of fresh air daily, and by deep breathing exercises. It is essential that one have a certain amount of exercise in the out-of-doors every day, otherwise there develops a hair-trigger sensitiveness of the skin, which leads to easy and frequent chilling. The chilling of the body lowers the resistance and the influenza bacilli find a ready entrance. We should, therefore, not accustom ourselves to the overheated air of the modern steam-heated flat. One must accustom the skin to the winter air, of course, taking care to dress warmly and thus avoid chilling.

Next, we should consider various means of breaking the channels of communication, that is, preventing the spread of infection. During times of epidemic, avoid all crowds and gatherings. Whenever possible, walk instead of using the street cars. Postpone all journeys, because the train is a fruitful source of contagion and cannot be made otherwise. Wash the hands before eating, because one never can tell what contaminated objects he has come in contact with. Dishes should always be scalded after eating, especially if some member of the family has a cold. If influenza does break out, a paper cone or bag should be pinned to the side of the bed so that when the patient coughs and expectorates, or if there is any nasal discharge, toilet paper may be used, or paper napkins, which after using may be deposited in the bag, which should be burned up each day. Careless expectoration is a most dangerous and filthy habit. The custom of using a handkerchief to the nose and then tucking it under the pillow or laying it here and there is a source of contagion. Keep the hands away from the nose and mouth. At epidemic times especially, the common drinking cup should not be used. Schools should be discontinued and no public meetings held so that close contact in crowds of people may be avoided. Do not kiss. It is always wise for those waiting on the sick to wear a mask, for though the mask is not a sure prevention, it will at least prevent the entrance into the nose and throat of the contagious droplets. It is well to oil the floor, for in this way the dust is kept down and dust is a source of contagion. The nurse only should be allowed to go into the sick room and she should always wear a gown over her uniform or outer garments. It is natural for the relatives to wish to visit the sick person, but while this may be kind to the patient, it is cruel to others to whom the contagion is carried. When the patient has recovered, the bedding should be washed and well sunned. Everything in the room should be scrubbed with soap suds and water and sunned and aired. Health officer's statistics have shown plenty of soap and water, sunning, and airing, are quite as effective as most of the disinfectants. However, towels, bedding, handkerchiefs, etc., should be disinfected by allowing them to soak for a few hours in a 2 per cent lysol solution or in a 1 per cent formaldehyde solution. The thermometer should always be disinfected every time after it is used. When one is sick or indisposed, he should stay at home and not infect others. Vaccines have an important use, for while they may not prevent an attack of influenza, they do very much to diminish the more important complications. Plenty of sleep and physical exercise are also essential as preventative measures.

Before taking up the treatments, a few words in regard to the symptoms. The onset is usually very sudden. There is usually a running at the nose, patient feels tired, head aches, back aches, and a fever ranges from 100 degrees to 105 degrees F., pulse from 100 to 120. Patient says he feels as if he had been beaten with a club. At some stage of the trouble, there is usually chilling and sweating. The cough is rarely ever present at the first, but develops after two or three days. A marked feature is the extreme prostration. Weakness, mental dullness, and apathy rapidly develop. In some cases there is nausea, vomiting, pains in abdomen, and bloody sputum. The disease usually lasts from one to six days. If it is protracted beyond six days, there is usually pneumonia present. The convalescence is marked by unusual prostration and weakness.

We now come to the treatment. A great many drugs have been recommended by various doctors from time to time, but the late epidemic demonstrated conclusively that drugs are of little or no value. As in most other diseases, we must rely upon simple treatments and careful nursing. The corner stone of the treatments consists of keeping the patient warm in bed. If the patient becomes chilled from exposure or any other cause, pneumonia is very liable to develop. As the tendency of the patient is to have chills and sweating, care is required, changing the garments and bedding often, and keeping it dry without unduly exposing the patient. The patient should have water to drink every half hour. This flushes out the kidneys and increases elimination. The patient will eat little or nothing the first day, but following this a fairly nourishing diet should be given, such as fruit juices, flakes and milk, puree soups, cream toast, prune whip, etc. The bowels should be kept open daily. Perhaps as good a laxative as any is magnesium citrate, using on the average one-half a glass early every morning, although some patients require more than this.

In the average army hospital, 18 per cent of those who were admitted died. Throughout the country as a whole, mortality was about 5 per cent, 14 per cent of all cases developed pneumonia, but in those institutions where hydrotherapy was carefully and scientifically carried out, reports show that the mortality was less than 1 per cent. It is important to keep the patient warm and maintain a good circulation in the skin and extremities, thus preventing internal congestion. For this purpose a hot full pack is an excellent treatment, combined with ice compresses to the head and neck. While in the pack, the patient should drink hot lemonade. After perspiring freely for twenty minutes, or so, the patient may be taken out of the pack with cold mitten friction or cool sponging, or if the patient chills easily, simply an alcohol or witch-hazel rub is efficacious. One limb or one part of the body must be cooled off at a time to avoid general chilling. As stated before, chilling antagonizes the development of immunity and leads to pneumonia. If for any reason the hot pack cannot be carried out, the patient should be put into a hot bath and kept there to the point of free perspiration, after which he should be wrapped quickly in blankets and allowed to perspire for an hour longer in bed. The patient may be taken out of the dry pack just as from the wet pack, cooling off one limb at a time with an alcohol or witch-hazel rub or cool sponging, drying the part thoroughly. If the patient perspires afterwards, the nightgown must immediately be changed, as one wrapped in a wet gown loses heat far faster than if naked. Or if there is no bathtub in the house, the patient may be given a hot foot bath and surrounded by hot water bottles. In the initial stages a thorough sweat is a most important procedure. After a couple of days when the cough develops, fomentations to the chest, front and back, combined with hot foot bath is the next procedure. This maintains a good circulation in the lungs and prevents pulmonary complications. Finish off this treatment as the others with cool sponging or witch-hazel or alcohol rub. If the patient develops pneumonia, a good treatment then is to keep an iced compress to the chest (a compress wrung out of iced water), changing every fifteen minutes. These compresses should be protected by a large piece of oiled linen to prevent the bedding from becoming wet. Every four hours a hot hip and leg pack should be given. This draws the blood away from the lungs and relieves congestion there. If the hot hip and leg pack is difficult, a hot foot bath may be substituted. In those cases in which backache and pains in the limbs predominate, hot fomentations to the back, followed by cold mitten friction or alcohol rub is a good procedure. The room should be well ventilated. The temperature should range from sixty-five to seventy degrees. Plenty of fresh air is essential, especially if pneumonia develops. If the temperature gets above 102 degrees or 103 degrees F., a large cool enema, temperature about 80 degrees, is very helpful in reducing the temperature and clearing the bowels. Nearly all cases suffer severely with headache and the ice bag to the head or ice compresses frequently changed are very helpful. If the patient is weak and exhausted and cannot drink water freely, water in the form of a saline solution may be given through the rectum. The method of procedure is as follows: Tie off the enema tube with a piece of tape so that the water comes from the tube drop by drop in a fast drip. When water is taken into the bowels in this manner, it is rapidly absorbed into the system and helps greatly in sustaining the patient. Salt may be added to the water in a ratio of one level teaspoonful to a pint of water. Alkaline sprays and gargles are also helpful, perhaps more so in prevention than in actual cure after the disease has gotten a hold.

The Academy

The locating committee for our academy met Sunday, July 13, according to appointment. We looked at a number of farms south of Indianapolis, going as far as south Martinsville. Monday the committee investigated farms at Fisher's, Oklandon, Fortville, and Ingalls; on Tuesday, farms around Anderson, Middletown, and Frankfort. We had fully intended to make this the final meeting, but on account of the absence of Elder Guthrie, president of the Union Conference, the committee felt that we should not make the final selection. Elder Guthrie was not able to meet with us on account of the serious illness of his mother. It was therefore decided to have another meeting when all could be present. This meeting is to convene Monday, July 28. We hope that in the next issue of the HERALD we shall have some definite information with reference to the location of our academy.

It is no small task to secure a good farm. Our investigation convinces us that it is almost impossible to get the combination desired. As one real estate man said: "I have no power to create; the thing that you desire is hardly in existence; the Lord has not made such a farm." We have been seeking a farm that has good soil, a beautiful grove for a building site, a stream running through it, also having springs of water: this farm is to be located near an interurban and steam railway (that transportation may be convenient), near the center of the state—within a radius of about twenty-five or thirty miles of Indianapolis. Our investigation proves that we must abandon one or more of these specifications. The size of the farm is a perplexity. We can hardly handle, financially, a farm of more than eighty acres. You can understand that the committee has a real task. But we have a few places under consideration that have met with favor, and we believe that we can select a farm that will meet the favor of the constituency of Indiana.

Wabash Valley Sanitarium

I have just visited the sanitarium, and found that we are still crowded with patients. The sanitarium is receiving a splendid patronage. Several buildings are being erected. A cottage for the manager is practically completed, and another building of eight rooms is being erected for the housing of helpers and for such other purposes as may be necessary.

I enjoyed a visit with the Rochester church on Sabbath. Most of the members live in the country, and have for two years been meeting in private homes in the country, but a few weeks ago they decided to again hold their services in the church building in the town of Rochester. I was very much pleased with the interest there, and the number present—about thirty-five the day I was there. They have decided to continue their services at this place, and I believe the Rochester church has an excellent future before it.

It was also my pleasure to visit the tent effort at Monticello. I was glad to see the good interest manifested here. Brethren Williams and Bish are doing an excellent work. The Sabbath is just being presented, but there is every indication that souls will accept the message. We hear excellent reports from all our efforts, and I am sure that souls will be saved as a result of the endeavors being put forth by our faithful workers. Let us pray for these workers, that they may have continued strength and Heaven's benediction resting upon their work.

Home Missionary Notes

I spent a recent Sabbath with the Mt. Zion church. This is one of our oldest churches, as most of its members were brought into the truth by ministers who are now at rest. The company plans to make some minor improvements in their church property in the near future, as they are looking forward to the time when a worker shall be sent to spend two or three weeks with them. No promise of a worker has been made as yet, but they are praying that one may come soon. There are members of this church that need spiritual help, and they ask that you pray for them.

A truth that has stood the test of time is that "An honest confession is good for the soul." The week that has just passed was the "big week" in our publishing department. This phase of our work looks different to me now, not because it has changed, but because of a new and enlarged vision that has come to me. Days spent in the field selling our books have given me a new sense of the opportunities for Christian helpfulness, and of the strength which we may receive because of being driven through personal weakness to a closer communion with God. I shall always be glad for this experience.

The "big week" was concluded by a visit to the company of workers at Princeton. They are delightfully situated just one block from the courthouse. The neighborhood is a good one, the Presbyterian church being located just across the street. Brother Hofstra, who is leading out in the work, has made good use of free space in the daily papers, and because of this a local Christian preacher is giving a series of sermons on the law. One week ago his subject was the Sabbath, and today (July 20) he spoke on "The Law of Moses Versus the Law of Christ." Brother Hofstra, Brother Maris and I were there, and in return for an invitation to the tent meetings, he announced Elder Hofstra's subjects for the coming week from the pulpit. We felt God's hand was in this. When you read this Brother Hofstra will be in the midst of the Sabbath question, and will need your prayers that God may have His way in the hearts of the people.

A Call to Service

"The only life that counts is the supremely unselfish life of Jesus Christ." There can be no other truly Christian life. Our lives, if we truly follow Him, will be lives of service. Eagerly we will look for opportunity to do His will. Constantly we will seek for an opportunity to spread the gospel of the kingdom. We will work to save perishing souls in and out of the church. The task, however great it may be, of arousing our sleeping brethren, will be gladly taken up. Our ears shall always be turned to catch the command of our Lord.

Seventh-day Adventists generally speaking are this sort of Christians. It is their joy to carry the light to those who are in darkness, and to support at least by counsel and encouragement and if necessary in a more tangible way those who are weak in the message. Has the Lord been using you for this work? Does there seem nothing that you can do? Perhaps He wants you to go to your brother in the truth, who is not a member of the Review and Herald family, and take his subscription, thus securing for him the blessings that come to us each week through reading of our church paper. Pray over this. We need about 150 subscriptions to reach a one hundred per cent goal. Will you help to reach this goal? There are only a few days left to get the paper at the reduced rate. Jesus says, "Go ye." Brethren, shall we go?

The Work at Walderly

Last week I had the privilege of visiting Walderly and noticing the progress that is being made on the addition to the ladies' dormitory. The work is going steadily, and by the time that this is read the frame of the building will be erected. I was much pleased with the work that is being done and wish that all our people in the conference could see what is being accomplished and what is needed.

There is one thing that rests heavily upon my mind, and that is the fact that the money is not coming in fast enough to complete the building this fall, and unless more comes in, the work will have to stop before the building is fully completed. We have quite a number of pledges that are due this fall and winter. If the larger amount of these pledges could be paid now, it would be a great help to the academy. I presume that the most of our people are so situated that they cannot very well pay their pledges before they are due, but if anyone can possibly do so we would be glad to have you send the money to the office at once, as the money is very greatly needed.

Walderly Notes

Every one at Walderly is busy as usual. The work of the different departments of the school is going along nicely.

Edward Durbin of Houghton, Mich., came July 17 to work this summer. He will attend school the coming year.

A letter from Howard Carpenter states that up to July 12 he had sold $556.50 worth of books, and that he hopes to reach $800 before he makes his delivery. Howard states that he is enjoying his work. We are all glad to hear this good news from our faithful student colporteur, for there is no greater work for one who is taking training in one of our schools than that of selling our good books during vacation. This is the kind of vacation that pays in more ways than one.

Miss Bessie West when sending in an article for the midsummer issue of the Walderly Echo says she hopes to be back in school this fall.

Some alterations and finishing touches are being given to Homestead Cottage this week. It is planned to have several teachers live in this building the coming year, owing to lack of accommodations elsewhere.

Those of us who have lived in the South the greater part of our lives can say with a great deal of pleasure as well as authority: "How exceedingly beautiful and wonderfully delightful is summer in north Wisconsin."

"Boost for Walderly," and be here ready for school September 15 if you are a student. If not a student, just boost anyhow.

street and in the homes. They all seem to enjoy missionary work. A priest's housekeeper promised to buy a copy of the Marked Bible from the children." Surely such items are encouraging and we are glad to pass them on for the benefit of those who are wondering if they can do missionary work in their own town.

We have just received word from the publishers that beginning October 1, Present Truth will be sent out to a new list of names. This series will consist of numbers one to forty-eight with the exception of five war numbers. One paper will be mailed each week until the whole set has been received. The cost of this set complete is only thirty cents. Orders for this set may be sent in at any time from now until October 1, but should specify that this is for the weekly set.

A Call for Workers

The times in which we live should serve to stir to the depths of our hearts, all who know the message and the need of laborers at this late hour. It is plainly pointed out in the spirit of prophecy that one of the most effective means of carrying the message to the world and finishing the work is through our canvassing work. We need many recruits for this important work in West Michigan. I am sure that there are men and women who could devote themselves to this important branch of the cause and prove successful in taking the message to many who might otherwise remain in darkness. There is much territory unworked in our conference. We are carrying on work in two northern tiers of counties of Indiana. We need men and women of good judgment who love the truth and who will prepare themselves for successfully carrying the warning message to the homes of the people.

Any who are impressed with the thought that God would have you enter this important cause should write to our field missionary secretary, Mr. Fred Kaufman. We would also be glad to have officers of our churches or any other persons send names to Brother Kaufman of those whom he should see in reference to this work. We ought to have at least twenty-five strong, successful colporteurs constantly out in the field in this important territory.

Belding

We are glad to report that the work is again onward in Belding. It has been many years since a public effort has been held in this city. At present there is not so much as a Sabbath school here, but we have every reason to believe that we can soon organize one.

The Lord has richly blessed in the effort thus far. We have secured a beautiful site on the main street of the city just at the end of the business section. From the first the attendance has been good. It certainly is cheering to see the tent filled night after night with people not of our faith. In response to the little cards handed out, over fifty of the ones most regular in attendance gave in their names for additional reading matter. We are handing out a large number of the

News Notes

About a year and a half ago, Brother George Halvorsen who was working in the tract society office was called by the Government to defend our country. When he left we secured Brother Einar Johanson of Superior to take up the work. Brother Johanson has now decided to enter the canvassing field to earn a scholarship so that he can attend college this coming year, and Brother Halvorsen is again in his accustomed place.

Tuesday evening, July 15, the Ashland church members gathered at Lake Park in honor of Brother and Sister Colton who expect to leave this field soon. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

We are in receipt of a letter from Ironwood, Michigan, which although not intended for publication, seems too good to omit. "We are doing good missionary work these days. Four of our company started out last Wednesday, with a number of small foreign magazines and the Marked Bible. We sold over $20 worth of literature in seven hours time. One of the girls who joined our band since camp meeting, and who had never been out before sold $8.85 worth. She is anxious to go again. We have been getting the children interested. Two of our older girls and one of our boys have started selling magazines on the Present Truth at the close of every meeting, and thus far we have sold many of the small books.

While this city is one of the strongholds of the papacy, still, we have every reason to believe that God has some here who are praying for light, and who will recognize in this message an answer to their prayer.

We trust that the readers of the HERALD will join us in prayer that many may be brought out of darkness into this marvelous light.

Change of Date

The union meeting will be held at Cedar Springs August 9 instead of August 20.

Sabbath School Notes

For promptness the following forty-four Sabbath schools are given special honor as their reports were in before July 10: Albion, Allegan, Alledale, Bangor, Battle Creek, Bauer, Bedford, Benton Harbor, Berrien Springs Village, Brookfield, Carlton Center, Charlotte, Clifford Lake, Dimondale, Douglas, Eaton Rapids, Emmanuel Missionary College, Fenwick, Frost, Glenwood, Gobleville, Grand Ledge, Grand Rapids, Hartford, Hastings, Holland, Homer, Ionia, Kalamazoo, Kent City, Lacey, Mendon, Monterey, Muskegon, North Liberty, Nunica, Portland, Paw Paw, Quincy, South Bend, St. Joseph, Three Rivers, Union City and Wright.

Our Thirteenth Sabbath Offering was $1,072.79 while the entire quarter's offerings were $4,831.87 which is $600 larger than any ever before given by this conference. While we rejoice in this we are anxiously expecting to reach our goal of $5,500 every quarter in order to meet the needs of the mission fields. West Michigan is too much interested in her young people in distant lands to leave them without support.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. Alfred Steinel, sixty-nine children in the primary division of the Battle Creek Sabbath school gave $87.25 as their Thirteenth Sabbath Offering for the Philippines and $147.90 for the whole quarter. The children earned the money by sacrificing, by running errands and by digging dandelions from lawns at one cent per dozen.

Union Meeting

The union meeting of the churches of Allegan, Gobleville, Kalamazoo, Monterey, and Otsego will be held at Monterey Sabbath, August 2. Good speaking, good music, good meeting. It is desired that all Sabbath-keepers in this vicinity who can will attend this meeting and thus give an inspiration to the Monterey church.

Sheboygan

We are in the second week of our tent effort at this place. Never before during my seven years of experience in tent work has the first week been attended with so many discouraging circumstances as our first week this year has been.

The instruction given by the servant of God in "Gospel Workers" has been of a great encouragement to us. "Small beginnings end with large results." "Work in a way that will cause hope to spring up in the place of despair." We are thankful that we are now able to report that the tide has turned, and that our attendance is on the increase to such an extent that our seating capacity is really inadequate.

We have a good corps of workers connected with the effort. Brother Schuster assists in the speaking, while Sister Schuster assists in the Bible work and acts as pianist. Sister Wagner is ever seeking the homes of the honest in heart. Brother Passer is our faithful tent-master. He uses every spare moment selling our small books, in order that he may get acquainted with the people. In this way he enters many homes every day.

We solicit an interest in the prayers of all the brethren and sisters in the Lake Union.

W. H. WESTERMEYER

News Notes

Elder G. P. Gaede, assisted by Brother Dollinger and others, opened his tent effort Sunday night, July 13, with an attendance of nearly two hundred. The location is at Greenfield and 15th Avenues.

If no change was made in Elder Ferris' plans, he began his effort at Fort Atkinson early last week. Brother and Sister Worrell were called to Reedsburg more than a week ago to assist Elder A. F. French in his summer effort.

Elder W. H. Westermeyer, assisted by Brother A. E. Schuster, is holding an effort in Sheboygan.

Elder Bristol went to Beloit a week ago Sabbath. He found the new seats all in place, also that our people there are fixing up the basement of their pleasant new church building, getting it in readiness for the church school they are planning for next year.

In our report of the camp meeting we incorrectly stated that one sister had given $500 for the Educational Fund. The amount should have been stated $700, and this has already been paid in.

Brother King spent the Big Week in the field with "Practical Guide." He reported fair success and good experiences. Last week he was out a portion of the time with new colporteurs.

Last Monday Miss Bell returned from a week-end visit at Fond du Lac, bringing a good report of work being done there.

Many of our readers will remember Elder E. F. Peterson, formerly president of the Southern Illinois Conference, who attended our Fond du Lac camp meeting.

few years ago. He is now stationed at Lima, Peru, as superintendent of the Inca Union Mission. A few extracts from a letter written recently by him to Elder Bristol will be of interest. We quote:

"On my trip to Bolivia and Lake Titicaca we held several home missionary and colporteur institutes which took considerable time. Our work is carried on here much the same as in the homeland, only of course adapting ourselves to different conditions. On April 8 I had the privilege of helping to baptize forty-nine Aymara Indians at Umuchi Station in the Moho District of Lake Titicaca. We have two hundred to three hundred more candidates awaiting this ordinance, as soon as it can be arranged, in two or three different places in the field.

Our work in Bolivia has always gone hard, but is now developing rapidly. From all parts of our field come reports of live interest; our workers are pressing in. We are looking for a good harvest this year. We are in desperate need of additional help from the States. Word has recently come to us of families on the way, and you need not be surprised to receive a call from the Mission Board for some of your young, strong workers one of these days.

"We have just started a union training school here, which we hope will prove a great help to us in providing workers for the needy fields. We have a good class of students who give promise of development for the future; however, we shall always need additional families from the States to supervise and lead out in the work of training the natives.

"Brother and Sister Varney seem to be happy in their work. We are pleased to note a good spirit in the College and the Union in general."

Let us ever remember our work and workers in the home and foreign fields.

Applied Christianity

There is a great dearth in the world today. Not for doctrine or theology but for applied Christianity. Thousands of men and women today are sad and discouraged. Keen and bitter disappointments have made their hearts heavy and the world in its mad pursuit for wealth and pleasure heeds not the cry of the broken-hearted. Nor is this all.

The professed followers of Christ Jesus are cold, selfish, and indifferent. They pay tithe and attend Sabbath school. So did the men who crucified the Son of God. It is not hard to have a form of godliness, but it is a great task to live out the principles that Christ enunciated.

It makes my heart ache to find in our churches men and women who are indifferent to the needs of their fellow-men. Men and women who take no interest in the salvation of their neighbors, yes or even their children.

We bemoan the lack of growth in our churches, but they will never grow until the spirit of love, self-sacrifice, and service takes the place of the altogether too common spirit of criticism and coldness. Men may argue that the church should grow because it holds the true doctrine, but true doctrine minus the spirit of living service is dead.

Love wins. It is an irresistible force that breaks down every barrier and even triumphs over those who would be our enemies. Let us ask Jesus to fill our lives with the spirit of living service, so that we may be willing to deny and inconvenience ourselves for the welfare of others. It doesn't cost much to speak a kind word or do a kindly deed but the results of it will be known only in eternity. A kind word of encouragement has often changed the destiny of a soul. We all appreciate kindness and sympathy. Human nature is the same the world over. Then why do we not take a greater interest in the salvation of those about us?

The human heart craves love and sympathy. Not long ago one of our young women went to work in a factory in one of the cities of central Michigan. She was given the Sabbath off, and looked forward with joy to meeting with those of like faith, for she was a lonely girl in a strange city. She attended church. No one spoke to her. None invited her to go home with them. She was ignored. She came a few times again and was given the same cold reception. She had always had the idea that Seventh-day Adventists were a hospitable and kind-hearted people for she had been isolated most of her life. Now she was disappointed, and discouraged. She left the church and sought companionship among the young people of the world. What a tragedy that our young people must go to the world for the love and companionship that their hearts crave!

I have long since ceased to wonder why so many of our churches have lost most of their young people. It is because the older members have failed to take an interest in them. No one has endeavored to direct their feet in the right way and they are gone, many of them lost, eternally lost.

Shall we not ask God to open our eyes that we may see the need of living a life of Christian service both in our homes and our community?

News Notes

Miss Sweet, one of the stenographers in the conference office, has been to the sanitarium for a week receiving medical attention.

Miss Volbrecht of Durand has connected with Adelphian Academy. She will do the work in the office.

A Rally Day program was held at Holly, July 19, in the interest of the Sabbath school work. An all-day session was held which proved both pleasant and profitable.

Elder Westworth spent Sabbath, July 19, with the Detroit No. 2 church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Murray is a sister to Mrs. Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Murray have accepted a call to South America and are now on their way to New York, preparatory to sailing.

The work on the new conference office is progressing nicely. The building is all enclosed and we trust will be ready for occupancy before many weeks.

Remember the special offer for the Review and Herald. If your subscription or renewal reaches us during July, your paper will be extended fourteen months, for the price of a year's subscription, $2.50.

Brother Flick has spent the past two weeks in the field in the interest of the colporteur work. The prospects for this branch of the message in East Michigan are bright. He reports that several are planning to enter the work soon.

Let us all plan to make next Thirteenth Sabbath a real dollar day in East Michigan. Begin to plan for it now.

floors at all. The fairground is a long distance from the lumber yard and it will be necessary for us to receive all orders for floors in advance, so we can make sure to have the lumber on the ground. If therefore you wish a floor in your tent or a half floor, or possibly only a few boards, you should notify the office in Springfield at once, telling Brother Moon just how much floor, if any, you desire in your tent.

We find that cots will cost more than last year, because we have to order a large number in Peoria, and canvas cots will cost the conference 75 cents apiece; it will therefore be necessary to charge this price for cots. We have also inquired in Springfield and other places, and this seems to be the best we can do.

Camp meeting prices are as follows: Tents, the same as last year—12x14, $3; 12x16, $3.50; 14x18, $4; single bed springs or cots, 75 cents; chairs 15 cents or 2 for 25 cents; tables, 25 cents; lumber cut, 2 cents a square foot.

We look for a large camp meeting this year and with the help of the Lord we hope to make it one of the largest and best ever held in the state of Illinois.

W. H. HOLDEN

Springfield and Moline

On Sabbath, July 12, a missionary rally was held at the Springfield church and a good interest was manifested. Brother McConaughey, the home missionary secretary of the Lake Union Conference, and Elder W. H. Holden were present and gave valuable assistance. The whole church is organized into missionary bands with leaders, ready to do definite work for the Master.

On Sabbath, July 19, Brother McConaughey and the writer met with the Moline church. The first meeting was held Friday evening. We found the Moline church already doing work along home missionary lines. They have distributed many thousand of the Present Truth, sold several hundred copies of "World's Peace," are giving away the Signs, and selling the monthly magazines. This church is now organized into bands to work more definitely for their neighbors.

The willingness to work that our people are showing is a sure evidence that God is finishing His work. May He bless all our good people in all of our churches in their efforts to help finish this great gospel call. Our courage is good and we are pressing forward for the finishing of the work.

Mounds Tent Effort

After seven weeks' faithful effort in Cairo, we have moved our tent to the little city of Mounds. Although none have been added to the church in Cairo, ten have manifested a desire to keep the Sabbath, and we are conducting a Sabbath school with these every week.

We arrived at Mounds July 7, and we feel we have made a splendid beginning. Although the place is smaller than Cairo, we are having a much better attendance than we had there. A police magistrate, an alderman, a physician, and one of the leading merchants are regular attendants at the meetings, and have lent their influence to interest the public in the work. We thank God that the better class of colored people are attending, and we earnestly pray that many of these precious

Camp Meeting Notice

As has previously been announced, the Illinois camp meeting will be held in Peoria on the fairgrounds, August 28, to September 7. As we have searched for grounds on which to pitch our camp, we have also tried to find a place where we could get lumber cheap, but failed to do this wherever we have looked. The lumber will cost $3.25 for a full floor in a 12x14 foot tent; this includes the 2x4's under the lumber.

I wish to say that there is a good sod on the fairground and it seems to me that it would be advisable in most cases where floors are ordered, to order only half floors, and in some cases we can get along without souls for whom Christ died may be gathered into the kingdom.

Dear readers, pray for us that God will give us the victory this summer.

Chicago Intermediate School

On Thursday evening, July 17, the Chicago intermediate school board met in the conference office to lay plans for the coming year. The meeting was characterized by a spirit of unity and a determination to provide a place of Christian training for the young people of Chicago who are now in high school or not in school at all.

This determination resulted in the decision of the board to give the tenth grade in the intermediate school. In order that credits issued by the school may be accepted by Fox River Academy and Emmanuel Missionary College, it was voted to give a full forty-five minute recitation period to each study each day the same as is done in those institutions.

Such a program makes it impossible for one teacher to handle the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. It was therefore voted that the seventh and eighth grades should go back into the local church schools. Thus, under the new arrangement, only the ninth and tenth grades will be given in the intermediate school, and the same work will be given in these grades as is given in any of our academies.

The tuition was set at $2.50 a month for the ninth grade and $3 for the tenth grade. This is only a slight increase above last year and is low enough so it ought not to keep anyone out of the school. It is the purpose of the educational department that the training given the young people of Chicago shall meet the standard God has for this work.

The Sabbath of the educational rally, August 16, ought to witness a great awakening to the task of saving the children and youth within our ranks. Let us all resolve that on that day we will begin a work which shall go on until it saves completely all our children and youth.

News Notes

Elders A. G. Daniells and William Guthrie met with the committee in an important meeting Monday, July 21.

Brother C. H. Nielson, former secretary of the tract society, called at the office recently.

Prof. M. E. Kern stopped at the conference office on his way through Chicago.

Brother Harris was not able to secure a location for his tent at Momence and has pitched it at Harvey.

Brother H. K. Presley, the Lake Union, auditor spent the week of July 21 auditing the conference books.

The Hinsdale Sanitarium has broken ground for the new addition which is to be built to the sanitarium. When the building is complete it will afford many opportunities that the institution has not been able to offer in the past.

Misses Lois Christian and Edith Peterson have joined our number of colporteurs since camp meeting and are nicely located at Rock Falls. They are doing good work.

Mr. Floyd Baldwin of California also has taken up the canvassing work and is located with Mr. James Popick at Dixon.

Miss Carmen Perkins has taken up the colporteur work with "Bible Readings" and is located in Chicago working Du Page County.

College Items

A workers' meeting was held in the College chapel on the morning of July 21. President Griggs addressed the employees of the institution. His message was that the Lord's work has many branches, and that we are all workers together with Him. He further emphasized the fact that the College is training manual workers to go out into the field as well as educational workers. The heads of the departments also spoke to the workers.

Miss Boyer of Wolf Lake, Ind., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hile, who live in the College community.

Carl O'Reilley of Onaway spent Sabbath, July 19, at the College.

Miss Bertha Allen and Mrs. Hall are spending a few days at the Hinsdale Sanitarium.

The farm department is presenting a registered Holstein sire to the Cedar Lake and Fox River Academies.

The evergreen trees on College Avenue have been trimmed, and the grass beneath them is being mowed. This adds much to the beauty of the College grounds.

Will Curtis, recently returned from fourteen months' service overseas, visited his mother Mrs. L. K. Curtis last week.

The new Domestic Arts building is being rapidly erected just south of the printing office. The building will be thirty-six by forty-two feet in size.

Loren Beatty, Archie Nelson, and Elmer Marsh have returned from their canvassing work in Kentucky and are employed on the College farm.

Miss Lorraine Fankhouser and Mr. Eli Lane, both well known here, are late arrivals at summer school.

A very interesting lecture was given in the chapel Saturday evening by President Griggs, the subject being "India and its Needs." On Saturday evening August 2 Julian Arnold will lecture on "The Awakening of the Dark Continent."

Miss Bess Dexter has returned to Chicago after a week's visit with Miss Emma Erickson and other friends in the vicinity.

The College threshing was done July 27. In general, the crops are very satisfactory. The second cutting of the alfalfa was in progress last Wednesday and Thursday. Picking is in progress on the early tomatoes. There are four acres of these, and they are bringing twenty cents a pound. Since our last report the College has unloaded four more cars of coal, making sixteen in all.

Professor Kern spent a few days at the College recently. His talk in church Sabbath, July 26, was much enjoyed by all present.

Brother H. E. Moon of the Illinois Conference was a pleasant caller at the College last week.

The summer issue of the Student Movement is being prepared and will soon be in the hands of the printer. The College is also preparing a picture bulletin, which will be distributed later in the summer.

Have You Finished?

"I finished reading the Testimonies through last Sabbath," said a young lady a short time ago, "and I am really sorry that I have finished them, as they have been almost companions to me. The plan of Christian living outlined in these books is wonderfully simple, and yet beautifully written. I know I have been strengthened in reading the books. It took me one year, three months, and five days. I have read at all hours, from 4:30 A. M. to midnight, but I believe this has been the most profitable reading of my lifetime. I want to study now along special lines, but plan to read the volumes again."

What an excellent testimony on the value of this reading course launched by the Missionary Volunteer Department January 1, 1918. Others, too, have expressed themselves in a similar way about the reading of these precious volumes. We have already received the names of several who are entitled to the gift book promised to those who complete the nine volumes in two years or less. There are yet five months before the first two-year period is up. Have you finished the four thousand eight hundred twelve pages in the Testimonies? If not, can you do so by January 1, 1920?

One of our young people recently purchased a set of the Testimonies bound in red leather. He had always wanted them, but had thought it to be too great an expense. "You can't imagine how rich I felt when I left the tract society with my four leather-bound treasures under my arm," he said, in telling a friend of the experience. "I wouldn't take any price for those books if I knew I couldn't secure another set. Everything I read in them seems to have been written especially for me."

If you haven't yet commenced the systematic reading of the Testimonies, begin today. Read carefully and prayerfully. As some new ray of light shines across your pathway, walk in it, and you will find that God will daily reveal new light to you. Next to the Bible these volumes will help you more in your daily Christian living than any other books in the world. Can you afford to neglect reading them?

Those who finish the Testimonies Reading Course should send their names to the conference Missionary Volunteer secretary that there may be a permanent record of all who have completed this work, and in order that the gift books may be presented when the time comes.

Notice

The College has on hand a supply of "Christ's Object Lessons" the covers of which are slightly shelf-worn and faded, but the books themselves are otherwise in splendid condition. They will be found invaluable in the study of the present Sabbath school lessons. Price postpaid, while they last, fifty cents. Address College Bookstore, Berrien Springs, Mich.

"Not more surely is the place prepared for us in the heavenly mansions than is the special place designated on earth where we are to work for God."

"Think a little less of your sorrows and more of your joys: for the joys will make you grateful, and gratitude in itself is one of the most beautiful pleasures of the soul."—Brooks.
