Medical Work — A Great Asset

by JERE D. SMITH, President
Lake Union Conference

The time has come once again for us to take an offering for our medical college. This offering will be taken on April 11, and we are urging our people throughout the Lake Union to be very liberal and generous in this matter.

We are all aware, of course, that it has finally been settled definitely that the medical college is to have the full years of training on the Loma Linda campus. There are several reasons why this seems to be the best, and our people generally are in full and complete harmony with this plan. Because of this move, and because of a recent million-dollar fire, which will be only partially taken care of by insurance, it is extremely important this year that we show a great spirit of liberality.

Our medical college has meant a great deal to our entire world-wide program through the years. Many graduates of this institution have gone out to foreign fields as medical missionaries, and many have remained faithful and loyal in their church connections and financial aid in the homeland.

This institution is a godsend and a blessing to the denomination, and we must always remain faithful to it.

Thirteenth Sabbath Offering For North America

The American Indians were the first people to live in North America. They were here centuries before Christopher Columbus reached the Western Hemisphere.

These aborigines, figuratively speaking, have been pushed into the background and almost forgotten. Yet, "If a red man . . . gives his heart to God in obedience and faith, Jesus loves him none the less for his color. He calls him His well-beloved brother."—Christian Service, p. 218.

We are happy to announce that the General Conference Committee has voted to allocate the 13th Sabbath overflow for the second quarter of 1964 to the "Red Indians" of North America. Our projects are: (1) The up-grading of the Navaho Mission School in Arizona; (2) The purchase of a medical boat for the coastal Indians of British Columbia, Canada; (3) The erection of a new school for the Indians in the northern section of the Carolina Conference.

All will be pleased for this announcement, but perhaps some will wonder why it is necessary for a 13th Sabbath overflow to go to a home base like North America.

The facts are that most Indians live in territories where our conferences are small and do not have funds to carry on this mission work. Thus little has been done—except in the Pacific Union—during the past 100 years or more.

The 1960 Decennial Census enumerated 523,591 Indians in the United States. In addition, over 28,000 Eskimos and Aleuts were enumerated in the state of Alaska. Of the 552,000 Indians and Alaskan natives in the United States, it is estimated that about 345,000 live on reservations or similar jurisdic-

Capitol Flag Now Waves Over Church School

The church school at Bloomington, Ind., purchased a new U.S. flag which had been flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., on January 15.

Principal of the school, Mrs. Ralph Marlette, arranged to buy the flag through Honorable Vance Hartke, senator from the seventh district of Indiana.

After some delay, the flag arrived with a letter from architect of the Capitol, J. George Stewart, verifying the date it had flown in Washington.

tional areas of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, with about 207,000 living in other parts of the country.

Following the discovery of America by Columbus, the number of Indians gradually decreased from about 846,000 until, in the latter part of the nineteenth century, the estimated Indian population was approximately 243,000. Since then the number has increased steadily.

There is a great work to do in foreign fields, but there is also a work to do in North America for these needy Indian people. The souls of our North American Indians living within the shadow of our own doors are as precious as are the souls in far away Africa, India, and the islands of the sea. The appeals of these, our neighbors, for our help must not go unheeded.

The gospel must go to all the world—to every nation, kindred, tongue, and people. Therefore, we plead for a most liberal overflow this coming 13th Sabbath, March 28, 1964.

HINSDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Week of Prayer Brings Spiritual Blessings

Employees and students at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital dedicated themselves to be channels of light and life and blessing to others at the conclusion of their spring week of prayer March 21.

Speaker for the week was Elder D. A. Delafield, associate secretary of the Ellen G. White estate, who presented deeply devotional messages filled with illustrations from the life of the Lord's messenger, Mrs. White.

Because healing of mind, soul, and body all come from the same Source, he pointed clearly to the need for helping our fellow men to become whole mentally, spiritually, and physically, and to teach people separated from God by sickness because of sin to place their hand in Christ's for full healing.

"Every person in our medical institutions," Elder Delafield declared, "is an integral part of its soul-saving objective. The people who sterilize surgical instruments, prepare clean uniforms, keep the buildings in good repair, or

In his visits to patients at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital during spring week of prayer, Elder D. A. Delafield brought words of encouragement to Homer Irwin, an electrical department head who has been temporarily hospitalized. With them is an attendant, Aubrey Stephan.

Elder D. A. Delafield, associate secretary of the Ellen G. White estate, exhibited several of Mrs. White's manuscripts and early publications during the spring week of prayer for Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital and the Hinsdale Church. Mrs. Violet Trenchard, a San employee, takes her turn at feeling the weight of a Bible owned by Mrs. White.

directly treat the sick are equally important in fulfilling that objective."

Those who do not come directly in contact with the patient may do their part by acts of kindness, consideration, and courtesy to those with whom they work, he explained.

In evening meetings conducted at the Hinsdale Church, Elder Delafield discussed trends in the world of religion in light of the Spirit of Prophecy. Special meetings for employees were held each morning and for students each afternoon.

Advertising Budgets Sponsor V.O.P. Daily Broadcasts

One Sunday morning last July, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Starkey of Chattanooga, Tenn., were returning to their home from a business trip to Pensacola, Fla.

About halfway between Birmingham, Ala., and Rome, Ga., they tuned in a Birmingham station to hear the Voice of Prophecy broadcast. After only a few minutes, however, it began to fade out as they drove along, and finally they lost the contact entirely. Anxious to hear the rest of the broadcast, they tried to pick up the program from a Rome, Ga., station. They could not find it, and for a very good reason—because the broadcast was not then on any station in Rome, Ga.

During the remainder of their trip home, they talked together several times on how much they wished they could do something more worthwhile for the Voice of Prophecy. But, having just paid a heavy pledge to the church, with another coming due early in 1964, they felt they could do no more at that time.

OFFICIAL REPORT ON WORLD MEDICAL WORK

LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY

LOMA LINDA, CALIFORNIA

APRIL 1964

President Reports Risley Hall Fire

Friends of Loma Linda University will be reassured to know that the recent fire which handicapped our basic science departments here on the Loma Linda campus did not damage the spirit of our institution. Adjustments have been made in the use of various existing buildings to care for displaced classes and laboratories. The faculty is courageously reorganizing its work, and by working early and late is carrying on with little break in pace. The students, after giving a fine performance in saving equipment, material, and animals from the fire, have turned their enthusiasm to carrying forward a strenuous scholastic program in spite of difficulties. Everywhere there is an excellent spirit of cooperation and adjustment to changed conditions which gives us pride in the resilient spirit of our institution, its faculty and its students.

Loma Linda University is looking toward the future with courage. It has confidence that the opportunities before it for growth and development will be realized, and that it will be able to contribute much to the work of the church and the welfare of mankind in the days that are given to us to finish the work that has been given us to do.

GODFREY T. ANDERSON, President

June 7 Groundbreaking Set

The Story of the Year

President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan said, "I have heard nothing but good reports of your work."

The president of the Pakistan Medical Association spoke of the "miraculous success of the project."

President Lyndon B. Johnson told Heart Mission members that the nation viewed with pride the work they had done in Pakistan, and that he was proud to have had a small part in such a program.

This was the Loma Linda University story of the year in 1963. A story of a team of faculty and alumni who GROUND WILL BE BROKEN in Loma Linda June 7 for Loma Linda University's new medical center. President Godfrey T. Anderson set groundbreaking the Sunday of commencement weekend at the University. The new groundbreaking date is accelerated more than three months from the September date originally scheduled.

Architects are rushing completion of plans for the huge medical facility, according to planning committee chairman Robert L. Cone. Clinical science teaching space and patient facilities will be built simultaneously, says Mr. Cone, who is Vice President for Financial Affairs at the University.

united their efforts to bring open heart surgery to Pakistan, India, Thailand, and Taiwan. A story that showed the cooperative effort of the church's largest medical institution, mission hospitals, and the Signs of the Times.

The Heart Mission was a story of "six who served." Four physicians, a nurse specialist, and a technician who left Loma Linda University to spend a month in Pakistan, and another month in three other Asian nations doing heart surgery. It was the story of fifty-five patients provided with one of the most complicated types of modern surgery without cost.

The team of Ellsworth E. Wareham, M.D., chief surgeon; C. Joan Coggin, M.D., cardiologist; F. Lynn Artress, M.D., anesthesiologist; Wilfred M. Huse, M.D., associate surgeon; Lavaun W. Sutton, R.N., post-operative nurse; and Lester H. Gibson, M.S., heart-lung machine technician, brought the first open-heart surgery ever performed to Pakistan. Traveling at State Department request, and on government funds, the heart team operated in three Seventh-day Adventist mission hospitals and one interdenominational Protestant medical school.

It was a story of loving dedication to their patients, the majority of them children. A story of long hours, and unusual strain. A story of anxious parents who did not speak the same native tongue as the team members. It was a story of modern medicine under unfamiliar conditions. And it was a story that was to be told and retold countless times in countless places. The Heart Mission was to be the subject of stories on both major wire services, AP and UPI, it was the subject of hundreds of stories in United States newspapers, Pakistani newspapers, Indian newspapers, Thailand newspapers, Taiwan newspapers. It was to be the subject of countless talks to churches, schools, service clubs. Television audiences from coast to coast and in Taiwan heard the story.

It was a story you shared. A story of Seventh-day Adventist medical work in modern dress. A story you shared through the contribution of your homes, your resources. And though it was dramatic and impressive, it was only one of the thousands of similar stories of loving devotion told in the lives of Loma Linda University alumni and faculty last year. It was one chapter of a continuing story told over and over again in the lives of University graduates who served "to make man whole."

The eight-story hospital structure will have a normal capacity of about 320 patients, with room for accommodation of up to 368 should it be necessary. Its most striking outward feature will be three large circular towers in which patient rooms are to be arranged around a central nursing station on each floor.

When completed, the Loma Linda development will reportedly be the only complete university-related medical center between Houston, Texas and Los Angeles.

April 11, 1964

You Have a Part

The General Conference has selected April 11 as the date for the yearly offering to support the medical work of the church. With the consolidation of the School of Medicine of Loma Linda University on one campus, the need for additional staff and new buildings has become increasingly acute.

There are many whose only contact with living Christianity will come through someone in the medical or paramedical professions. Thus, the expansion of the educational program of the University is an essential and vital element in the church's effort to reach today's world.

Each church member has an important place in fulfilling the commission of the Seventh-day Adventist church. For some it is to serve actively in one of the numerous mission fields. For others it is to actively support this service.

On April 11 assume your share and continue to support the medical work of Loma Linda University. If each family in the North American Division could make an offering of $3.00 to $5.00, this year's offering commitment would be met.

President Lyndon B. Johnson with Heart Team.

Church Officers Guide Trustees

Thirty-nine prominent church leaders, alumni, and businessmen make decisions which affect the future of Seventh-day Adventist medical education. They are the Loma Linda University Trustees, the governing board of the University. Among them are representatives of the General Conference, every union conference in the North American Division, and alumni. Maynard V. Campbell, Vice President of the General Conference, serves as chairman of the Trustees. Other leaders from church headquarters who serve as Trustees include Reuben R. Figuhr, Theodore Carcich, Walter R. Beach, Chester L. Torrey, Ole O. Mattison, Erwin E. Cossentine, and Theodore R. Flaiz.

The president of each union conference in North America is a voting member of the University Trustees. He travels regularly to the meetings of the board at Loma Linda and participates in making decisions affecting the medical work of the church in his union and in the world field.

Major decisions, likely to influence the church as a whole, are routinely referred by the Trustees to the General Conference for approval. This assures that no decision will be made which is contrary to the best interest of the world church work to which the medical school and its alumni make a dedicated contribution.

University Newspaper

Loma Linda University Scope, a weekly tabloid newspaper, was launched in September to fill the need for regular communication of the growing faculty staff and student body of Loma Linda University as well as with its alumni and constituents.

The newspaper is designed to keep the publics of the Seventh-day Adventist church's largest single institution aware of University growth, problems, and commitments in the dynamic years ahead.

The Cost Increases As Value Increases

Colleges and universities across the nation are facing growing pains of major proportions. Loma Linda University and its School of Medicine are no exception. Today as never before, education is big business, and a very costly big business.

Like other private universities, only one-third of the operating expenses of the University can be shouldered by student tuition and fees. This means quite naturally that another two-thirds must come from other sources. The Seventh-day Adventist church, with each member dedicated to education and the medical and paramedical professions, has traditionally provided a large proportion of the necessary additional funds.

Remember

April 11

CBS television personality Art Linkletter listens as Loma Linda University's Dr. Harrison S. Evans, professor and chairman of the department of psychiatry, tells why people smoke, and gives advice on stopping. Last year the University had news and features on every major television network, AP, UPI, radio. Newspapers and magazines carried 3,059 stories and 1,310 pictures measuring 37,870 column inches "into all the world."

University Students Are From Forty-five Nations

From Argentina to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics come 207 foreign students representing 44 nations outside the United States.

Among Loma Linda University admissions were 67 students from Canada, 18 students from China, 17 students from the Philippines, 6 from the United Kingdom, 3 from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, a student from Iceland, 7 from India, 7 from Indonesia, and scores of other students from scores of other nations.

Nearly 20% of the student body of mission-oriented Loma Linda University comes from countries outside the United States.

Summer Missionaries

This summer twenty-nine Loma Linda University students and staff members held a three-week medical and dental clinic in Chiapas, Mexico.

This was the sixth year that the governor of Chiapas, Mexico's southernmost state, had invited the University to send its medical-dental team. The group traveled almost 3,000 miles by bus and train to Chiapas, where they set up clinics in the state's jungles and highlands. The clinics are set up in the best available space in each village, that often being little more than a veranda, shady tree, or the village square. The entire population watches the medical-dental team arrive by bus, truck, jalopy, or burro, and lines up to be cared for.

On last summer's expedition, 910 dental patients were seen and 1,632 medical patients were cared for. During all six trips Chiapancos have been relieved of nearly 20,000 aching and abscessed teeth. The dental work done has been mostly surgical rather than restorative, with an average of four extractions per patient. This year 2,407 extractions were recorded and 588 teeth filled.

Classes Continue in Spite of Fire

Students pictured above continue their classes virtually uninterrupted in spite of the fire February 12, 1964, that all but destroyed the University's Risley Hall. Faculty, students, and staff made radical readjustments to carry on the work of the departments of biochemistry, pharmacology, and physiology in temporary quarters.

A Full Stomach

If you will, I would like for you to come on an imaginary visit to the Indiana Academy campus. We are showing a prospective student his future four-year home.

Patsy Perkins

First, we visit a very important building, the Administration building, and as we walk through the halls of knowledge we can hear the broken strains of "The Holy City" as a student tries to master the art of music.

We visit both dorms and the gym and then, all of a sudden, we hear a bell and many voices. Everyone seems to be going the same direction. Our prospective student is quite puzzled, but he soon finds himself going in the same direction as the crowd. It is just the normal place to go three times a day.

The cafeteria is filled to the brim with seemingly starving students. Since this is the noon meal we can see, after waiting our turn in line, that this is the plate lunch meal. Everyone has a balanced meal consisting of entree, potatoes, a vegetable or salad, bread and butter, and milk. Of course there are other foods that can be used as substitutes or to add to the meal. Salads, cottage cheese, desserts, and jelly and peanut butter make up substitutes or additions. As we leave the deck we are directed to a table where three students are waiting to hold our trays. The three gentlemen seat the ladies and we bow our heads in thankfulness to God for our food.

Our visitor finds his first meal very delightful. And so he decides to come to I.A. and be a regular member of the crowd that automatically comes to the cafeteria three times a day with an empty stomach and leaves with a full one. PATSY PERKINS, Junior Student

Prayer

A few months ago the newspapers brought us the story of three men trapped in a mine in Pennsylvania. Our interest grew as rescue work began, especially when a shaft was drilled to them. Their lives became dependent upon this lifeline for food, water, clothing, and encouragement in the days that followed until they could be rescued. Had this been stopped up in any way, it would have meant their lives.

Kenneth Oliver

To a literature evangelist, prayer is just such a lifeline. Without it, our work is ineffectual and without meaning as is our life. Prayer must be the life of each worker for God.

The opening of this lifeline brings confidence to the soul as we realize that our sins are forgiven and the Holy Spirit fills our heart. It is a wonderful privilege to have the communion with God that comes as we are conscious of this life-giving power. It is through prayer that we become co-workers with God.

As literature evangelists we need to ask as did the disciples, "Lord, teach us to pray." We should not think we are asking too much of God. We ask too little. Let us learn to ask large requests of God. Jesus said in Matt. 21:22 "And all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."

In true prayer a person longs for the will of God to be done. Our effective prayers are the ones we can honestly pray for Jesus' sake and not ours alone.

For this lifeline of prayer to be kept open, we must feel obligated to help answer our prayers as far as we are able. Divinity steps in when humanity reaches an extremity. Abraham Lincoln once said that he prayed as though everything depended upon God and worked as though everything depended upon Lincoln. We must pray and work—then work and pray.

To make prayer a soul-saving lifeline, our prayers need to be specific. We should pray in a definite way for the people we are to meet. God knows their needs and hearts. We do not. Through asking for His Holy Spirit to speak to our hearts, we can in turn reach the hearts of others with the love of Jesus. In this way we truly become laborers together with God. We should ask that the name of Jesus be glorified in the homes of the people. Then our prayers become His will not ours.

When this lifeline is fully open, thankfulness wells up in our hearts. First we are thankful for the real privilege of knowing that Jesus is living in our hearts and then we have a knowledge of sin forgiven for which we should always thank God. Our thankfulness should be expressed even before we see fulfillment to our requests. Faith should find expression in a thankful heart.

Let us make our prayers a real lifeline to heaven so that the power of God can fill us for the finishing of this great work.

*KENNETH OLIVER
Literature Evangelist*

LAKE REGION

New Addition to Personnel

The 1964 "Operation Great Lakes" program moves forward with enthusiastic support and positive momentum as Elder J. Malcolm Phipps, previously conference evangelist for the South Atlantic Conference of the Southern Union, accepts a call by the Lake Region Conference Executive Committee as Lake Region Conference evangelism secretary.

Elder Phipps, a native of Camden, New Jersey, and son of the late Elder Fred C. Phipps and Ethel M. Phipps of Cincinnati, Ohio, is not unfamiliar with the Lake Region Conference, having graduated from Emmanuel Missionary College in 1953 with a B.A. degree in religion. The Lord has blessed him greatly in his ministry in the Southern Union with an abundant harvest of souls in the several districts in which he has labored in South Carolina, North Carolina, and Florida. He was made conference evangelist of the South Atlantic Conference in 1961, and in that same year baptized 209 souls as a result of his evangelistic campaign conducted in Charlotte, N.C.

Elder J. Malcolm Phipps

Elder Phipps is married to the former Leola M. Lewis of Gainesville, Fla., and has two children, Malcolm, who is seven years old, and Donna, who is five years old. We are extending in behalf of the entire Lake Region constituency a most hearty welcome to Elder and Mrs. Phipps and family as they take up their new duties here among us, and we solicit your prayers for him that the Lord will abundantly bless his ministry here in our part of the vineyard.

CONFERENCE P.R. SECRETARY

1964 Lake Region Camp Meeting

Now that spring is here it would be a wise move for each one to start making plans, if you have not already made them, for attending the 1964 Lake Region Camp Meeting which will be held June 18 to 27 at our conference camp ground, Cassopolis, Mich. No one will want to miss the lively and inspiring programs that are being planned for the spiritual benefit of all those who will be in attendance. Camp meeting time is a special time when special blessings are in store for those who attend.

If you want to be sure of having a cabin for camp meeting this year, you will be pleased to know that your conference has a ten-year cabin lease plan which is now operating, and there is still a little time left for you to secure your cabin for 1964. However, you will have to act immediately because the applications for these cabins, which will cost $500, and your lease payment of $500 must be in the hands of the conference treasurer on April 1. In any event, if you are sincerely interested in the cabin lease plan contact the conference treasurer without delay.

April—"These Times" Month

For many years the month of April has been set aside by General Conference Committee action as the time when special emphasis and promotion is given in all of our churches throughout the Eastern United States for enlarging the circulation of our missionary journal, These Times.

Just recently, three very successful and inspiring These Times organizational meetings were held throughout Michigan by Elder R. J. Christian and Elder Vernon Flory of the Southern Publishing Association and the Lake Union Conference respectively. In each of these meetings many helpful suggestions were presented, ideas and thoughts related among our workers as to the possibilities for enlarging the soul-winning ministry of every church by greatly expanding the circulation of These Times in the missionary territory of our churches for 1964.

At these meetings, two thrilling and recent stories were related to us by R. J. Christian that drive home with fresh force the soul-winning influence and ministry of our missionary journal, These Times. They are as follows:

1. In the 1963 December issue of These Times, a special coupon was inserted as a convenience for subscribers to order These Times as special Christmas gifts to send to their special friends. You can imagine the surprise of the periodical department when an order was sent for six Christmas gift subscriptions for These Times by Mrs. Alta Faubus, the wife of the governor of Arkansas, Orval E. Faubus of Little Rock.

Since that time, the minister of our Little Rock S.D.A. Church was invited to a City Civil Defense Rally where a number of government, state, and city officials were assembled and as providence would have it, sitting across the table from our Little Rock pastor was none other than Mrs. Orval E. Faubus, the governor's wife.

Upon making his acquaintance at the table she politely excused herself and walked completely around to the other side of the table and sat down where our minister was seated and started talking to him about the wonderful magazine she is receiving in the mail called These Times. She said, "You know, my husband and I think so much of this magazine that we send it out to our special friends as Christmas gifts. And that isn't all, you might be surprised to learn that my father living here in Little Rock also receives These Times and he firmly believes that the seventh day is the Sabbath. In fact, he has talked to us about visiting the Adventist church sometime." Then our Little Rock pastor was quick to reply and said, "Why, Mrs. Faubus, didn't you know that your father has been attending the Adventist church in Little Rock for the last three weeks and has stated his desire to join our church by baptism." Now the end result of this story is this: The father of Mrs. Orval E. Faubus, wife of our Arkansas governor was baptized on Sabbath, March 14, 1964, as the direct result of the soul-winning ministry of These Times, our missionary journal!

2. Now listen to this: Early this year the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association invited Elder Kenneth J.

Holland, the editor of These Times, to spend a week in Minneapolis, giving devotional messages on the "Belief and Work of Seventh-day Adventists." Apparently, these messages were very well received by Billy Graham and his evangelistic company, for just recently a request came to Elder Holland from Billy Graham's personal secretary expressing their thanks and appreciation for Elder Holland's devotional messages and then requesting Elder Holland to be so kind as to send to Billy Graham three bound volumes of These Times for the years, 1961, '62, and '63, as Billy Graham desired to use them in connection with working over his evangelistic sermons preparatory to his London-England Evangelistic Crusade that is now in progress.

After hearing these thrilling stories presented by Elder R. J. Christian at our These Times meetings, our workers were so enthusiastic and thrilled that almost the entire conference working force stood up, declaring themselves in favor of accepting the 1964 These Times goal for the conference and for each church of two per member. The special crusade rate during April, May, and June is $2.25 per subscription.

The month of April should be devoted to a total commitment during the missionary service, of every member in our conference in behalf of These Times. Then allow the months of May and June for the pledges and funds to come in on sponsored subscriptions.

Remember, MORE These Times in MORE HOMES in 1964 will mean MORE SOULS in the kingdom.

Park Falls Meetings

For the past two weeks I have been assisting L. A. Bierlien in a reaping effort in Park Falls which is a town of 3,000 in northern Wisconsin where we had no believers. Our attendance was not large but the interest has been good from the first and the attendance steady.

These precious souls seem to be hungering for these wonderful truths that are held so dear. We have started a Branch Sabbath School and Mr. Bierlien is continuing the meetings. Please pray that these dear souls may accept all the message and that we may have a church in this northern city.

"These Times" Crusade

The time is here for us to formulate enthusiastic plans for the annual These Times soul-winning endeavor. The General Conference has designated the month of April for the presentation of These Times appeals to all the churches east of the Mississippi and the month of May to follow up all commitments made in April.

The special campaign rate through June 30 is $2.25 per single subscription. However, the publisher has notified us that due to increased cost in paper and other materials in producing this beautiful These Times, the missionary rate will be increased as of July 1, 1964. The minimum personal goal is two subscriptions for each church member.

These Times comes out in a most attractive form. The front cover has no equal, and page by page its captivating contents present the message in a way that will awaken interest. The members who have sent this journal out to those not of our faith have found that there were other types of literature rejected but These Times were accepted and eagerly read.

Let us as ministers, missionary officers, and laity promote this great soul-winning endeavor with fervor every Sabbath during April and May. These Times wins souls! Keep them going to the interested to keep a steady stream of souls coming into the church.

Book and Bible House Notes

There will surely be a sizeable bookstand at the Mississippi Valley Youth Rally to be held in the Moline High School on Sabbath, April 18. Arrangements have been completed for use of the same convenient space occupied by the Book and Bible House two years ago.

This occasion will be a day of Christian fellowship long to be remembered. Our bookstand will place before you a 60-foot display of books, Bibles, records and tapes, Bible and nature games, song books, and other items. Of course there will also be the usual bargain table of extra-special offers, and camp meeting prices will be in effect on all items for this one evening.

Be sure to watch for future rally and bookstand announcements regarding the special features planned for the Mississippi Valley Youth Rally at the Moline High School on April 18.

"See you at the bookstand."

V.O.P. Advertising

Then a happy thought struck them. Let the Starkey Printing Company sponsor the Voice of Prophecy broadcast and charge it to advertising!

They immediately contacted the Voice of Prophecy, as well as WROM, the best radio station in Rome, Ga. Arrangements were quickly made, and the weekly broadcast went on the air the following Sunday over WROM.

But the Starkeys felt that once a week was not enough. Having heard of the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast plan, they became enthusiastic about getting the program released every day over WROM.

Through a telephone conversation with the station manager of WROM, they were informed that all religious broadcasts had been taken off the air during weekdays—Sunday was the only time available for religion. This was disappointing news to the Starkeys, but they did not give up. About two months later the station manager found it necessary to be on duty on a Sunday morning, and he listened to the Voice of Prophecy program as it was released from his own station. Its quality and content impressed him, and he continued listening every week to the Sunday morning broadcast!

During the latter months of 1963, Mr. Starkey called the station manager on several occasions, urging that time be made available for the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast. At first the answer was, "No." A little later it was, "I'll see what can be worked out, but this is not a promise." A third telephone call brought encouragement—"I am trying to work it out." Mr. and Mrs. Starkey had been praying all through the months he had been listening to the Sunday broadcasts, and the Spirit of God was definitely working on his heart.

Then, early in December, the Starkeys went to see WROM's manager in person, to receive his final answer. And this time it was, "Yes!"

Now, February, 1964, the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast is heard at 1:30 every afternoon, Monday through Friday, over WROM, 710 kilocycles; and on Saturday and Sunday mornings at 7:30.

"May the cost of sponsoring the Daily Broadcast be charged off as advertising and deducted as a business expense for income-tax purposes?" is a question now being asked. We have word that if an announcement is made both at the beginning and at the close of the broadcast, giving the firm's name and stating its sponsorship of the program, this constitutes legitimate business advertising expense, and may be deducted as such.

The Royal Cake Company of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, is sponsoring the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast on a chain of stations in North Carolina in this same way.

Here is a feasible plan and opportunity for business establishments throughout the United States and Canada to open the channels of radio daily for the proclamation of vital Bible truths! Elder H. M. S. Richards is speaker on the Daily Broadcast series. With him are heard the King's Heralds, Del

Delker, Brad Braley, and occasional guest artists.

To call attention to the Daily Broadcast, the Starkeys mailed more than 23,000 localized radio logs, which included the printed titles of the 156 sermon-topics to be heard throughout the six-month period. An application blank for enrolling in one of the free Voice of Prophecy Bible courses was also a part of the "Occupant" mailing piece.

Any business executive who desires further information about the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast Plan, is invited to write to Elder I. E. Gillis, manager, The Voice of Prophecy, Box 1511, Glendale, Calif., 91209.

OBITUARIES

SHADEL, Bertha Maude Phelps, was born in Edgerton, Wis., Jan. 9, 1883, to Royal A. and Evelyn Phelps, and passed away Feb. 21, 1964, at the home of her sister Amy Phelps, Milton Junction, Wis.

After attending school at Milton and Milton Junction and college at Berrien Springs, Mich., she taught school at Graysville, Tenn., Madison, Wis., and was dean of women at Holly, Mich., and Bethel Academies.

A lifelong member of the Milton Junction Seventh-day Adventist Church, she has been active in many areas of the work.

Surviving are a sister, Amy Phelps, Milton Junction; her brother, Timothy Phelps, Albion, Wis.; 2 stepsons: Stuart Shadel, Milton Junction, and Professor Willard Shadel, Bellevue, Wash.; 3 stepdaughters: Mrs. Olive Foote, Battle Creek, Mich.; Mrs. Violet Serns, Milton Junction; and Mrs. Betty Flemming, College-dale, Tenn.; several nieces; nephews; and grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday, Feb. 24, 1964, at the Milton Junction Seventh-day Adventist Church with G. C. Sherman officiating.

G. C. Sherman

SHIPPY, Julia Lucile Herrmann, was born at Polar, Wis., April 12, 1917. Her parents, Charlie and Nellie Herrmann, while she was still a small child, moved to Clearwater Lake, Wis.

In 1942 she was united in marriage with Thurlow Hagenson, in Milwaukee. Shortly after their marriage he was inducted into the military service and lost his life overseas.

In 1948-49 she taught church school at Poy Sippi, Wis., where she met Wilbur Shippy, whom she married, June 8, 1949, at Fort Wayne, Ind. They established their home at Berrien Springs, Michigan, where they have continued to live until her death, Feb. 25, 1964.

She is survived by her husband, Wilbur Shippy, of Berrien Springs; her mother, Mrs. Nellie Herrmann, and a brother, Clarence, both of Rhinelander, Wis.; two sisters, Lois (Mrs. Floyd) Olsen of Las Vegas, Nev., and Gertrude (Mrs. Steven) Matakovic of Milwaukee.

Funeral services were held Friday, Feb. 28, in the McLauchlin Funeral Home, in Berrien Springs, Mich. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer, who was assisted by Elder George Coffen, pastor of the Village Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Burial was made in Rose Hill Cemetery in Berrien Springs. James H. Rhoads

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY

SCHOOLS: EMMANUEL MISSIONARY COLLEGE
SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDIES
SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Alumni Homecoming Scheduled for May 1 to 3, 1964

Classes ending in 4, 1914 to 1964, will be honored at the Andrews University Alumni Week End, May 1 to 3, announced Alumni Association President Leonard Hill, '44.

Celebrating its 50th Anniversary this year, the association will coordinate week-end programs beginning with the Friday evening worship and including the Sabbath School, church, and vesper services. On Saturday night all alumni are invited to attend the Aprilliad, a yearly student production featuring students' original musical and literary compositions.

Prior to the business meeting scheduled for 10:30 Sunday morning, tours of the campus will be conducted. The banquet, at which alumni scholarships will be awarded, will begin at 12:30 p.m. At the banquet, an association golden anniversary history compiled by Irma Berner Lidner, '34, alumni historian, will be distributed.

Included in the guests this year will be the first president of the Alumni Association, W. H. Wineland, '14. "Last year between 300 and 400 alumni attended homecoming. We hope to see even more graduates and their families this year," Hill added.

Kubo Receives Doctorate From the University of Chicago

Sakae Kubo, assistant professor of Biblical Greek, became the newest Ph.D. on the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary faculty March 13

when he completed his examinations at the University of Chicago.

"It's a relief to know that it is finished," said the 1947 graduate of Emmanuel Missionary College. "For a long time a person always faces the tests and professors and it is a good feeling to know that this is it."

The fact that his final examination came on Friday the 13th didn't seem to bother Dr. Kubo when he met the professors at the University of Chicago.

His 278-page thesis, A Comparative Study of P⁷² and Codex Vaticanus was ample preparation to meet the occasion. Dr. Kubo will officially receive his Ph.D. in New Testament and Early Christian Literature June 12.

Before joining the staff of the Seminary, Dr. Kubo spent three years in Hawaii as a pastor and teacher. From 1950 to 1952 he served as pastor of the Los Angeles Seventh-day Adventist Japanese Church. After three years of study at the Seminary Dr. Kubo received a B.D. degree and taught at Emmanuel Missionary College from 1955 to 1960. Since then he has been with the department of New Testament at the Seminary.

The aim of Dr. Kubo's study for the doctoral degree was to compare the Third Century Greek manuscript P⁷², containing I and II Peter and Jude, with the Fourth Century Greek manuscript Codex Vaticanus to determine which had the better Greek text in Peter and Jude. "Most of the study, taking about a year, was done at Andrews," said Dr. Kubo.

As a result of his study Dr. Kubo concluded that the earlier text, P⁷², is closer to the original than the Vaticanus text.

FABIAN MEIER HALL PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

By recent action of the Executive Committee of Andrews University, the new men's residence hall was officially named Fabian Meier Hall in honor of the late Dr. Fabian Meier; vice-president of Andrews University from 1959-1962.

The building is progressing rapidly toward next September's deadline. Besides the student suites of rooms the plans include a chapel seating 550 men and lounges for each floor, the main lounge containing a large stone fireplace, which will lend a homelike atmosphere. The basement of the commons area will include a gym and storage space.

Scholarships To Be Awarded Academy, High School Seniors

Fourteen $75 scholarships will be awarded to outstanding Lake Union academy and high school seniors at the annual Andrews University College Days April 14, 15, 21, and 22, announces Academic Dean W. E. McClure.

One scholarship will be awarded for every 30 seniors (or major fraction thereof) in each academy. Two high school seniors selected by the academic dean will receive scholarships after registration in the fall. Selection of candidates is based on character, scholarship, personality, and promise of future leadership. The $75 scholarships to be awarded this year represent a $25 increase over those given last year.

Peru Expeditions Backed By National Geographic

The Andrews University biology research team has received a National Geographic Society grant amounting to one third of the budget for its summer expedition to Peru, announces Dr. Asa Thoresen, biology department chairman.

Under the leadership of Dr. Don Seidel, assistant professor of biology; Merlin Tuttle, junior zoology major; and Dr. Thoresen, the ten-member team will carry on four research projects in Peru: (1) a study of the change of total environment in varying altitudes (2) a comparison of the population density of mammals in several zones, (3) a study of the population of bats, and (4) a study of groups of birds common to the area.
