Voice of Prophecy

Public Relations Director

HAVE YOU ever wondered what happens on the inside at your church's Voice of Prophecy broadcast headquarters? Ever wondered what a day is like at 1500 East Chevy Chase Drive in Glendale, California?

Assume that for one day—just for today—you are the general manager of the Voice of Prophecy. Here is the way your day would probably go:

Today is Thursday, and it is 7:15 when you park your Volkswagen beside the headquarters building. As you leave your car, you glance over at the Lemmon Memorial Building which houses the presses, other printing equipment, and the foreign language Bible correspondence schools. You can hear the low-throated beat of one of the large presses, already pumping out copies of the 240,000-circulation Voice of Prophecy News.

Today, you

At the door of the headquarters building, as you put the key into the lock, you suddenly remember a fact you have calculated scores of times, trying to find a way toward savings: "It will cost $10,000 to open and operate this plant for just this one day," you repeat. And a prayer goes up, "Lord, send us funds from Thy faithful people, so we can continue to go forward in faith for Thee."

A stack of letters, requisitions, proposals, and service reports await your attention on the desk in your office. But there is only time to attack one problem—or opportunity, depending on which way you look at it—before worship begins. A highly productive Nite Owl broadcast has just been put off the air in the southwestern United States. What can be done to restore this program to the millions of people awake through the night hours in the vast area covered by this station?

The broadcast's time-buying agency says an opening can be obtained on station XELO, El Paso, Texas, with 150,000 watts of power which will reach across all of America and into Canada. But the cost per program will be about $15 more than that of the station from which the broadcast has been dropped. Can we afford this increase of some $5,400 per year?

The question resolved (to go on the new station in faith), you walk to the Voice of Prophecy chapel for the Thursday morning Worldwide Prayer Circle, a feature of the broadcast for many years. During the next 30 minutes you feel the sorrow, share the joy, and sense the trust in united prayer represented by the hundreds of prayer requests, many of which are read aloud to the entire broadcast staff of some 165 workers. Three fervent prayers by staff members close this always-enriching service.

Back in your office by 8:35, you talk with two workers about their personal problems. Then you review finished artwork for the 1971 Voice of Prophecy calendar, a new format chock full of staff activity photographs.

As you study the calendar page devoted to the recently formed Voice of Prophecy Evangelistic Association, you quickly review where the evangelists tic team members are on this day. VOPEA Evangelist Fordyce Detamore, along with musicians Gordon and Phyllis Henderson and organist Norm Nelson, will begin a campaign in Eureka, California, in just three days. Evangelist Daniel Guild is preparing for a three-week Bible crusade in Jackson, Tennessee. Evangelist Byron R. Spears is currently in a crusade in Bermuda. And Pastor H. M. S. Richards, Jr., who serves as evangelist in addition to his many duties as speaker-director of the radio-broadcast, is gaining background for future evangelism while traveling on his vacation through the reformation lands of Europe.

The review of the proposed calendar completed, you contemplate a box containing expensive silver just donated by a listener to the radio ministry. You decide which of a list of helpful appraisers available to you should recommend a sale price for the gift.

With the morning racing rapidly toward noontime, you go upstairs from your office to the main Bible correspondence school offices to check on an installation to combat the hot, smog-filled air of late summer southern California. Entering the large room where many Bible instructors are busy grading lessons, you think of the scope of this important, soul-saving work.

During the last month alone, you recall, a group of 324 persons were baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist faith as the result of Voice of Prophecy Bible schools. You know, of course, that this is not the entire total; for many with a Voice of Prophecy background in terms of listening to the broadcast, being enrolled in a Bible course, or attending a Voice of Prophecy Bible crusade, don't have their names listed at broadcast headquarters.

Also last month, you remember, the Bible instructors in this room, along with instructors in the other offices, graded more than 72,000 lessons. Nearly 5,000 new students were enrolled in the schools last month, and more than 1,200 diplomas of completion were awarded Bible course students.

Noontime crowds in as you leave the Bible school offices. You eat lunch at the nearby Glendale Adventist Hospital cafeteria, then return to your desk to attack a stack of letters and notes.

The hours pass quickly as you review requests for various members of the Voice of Prophecy's 21-member group who take assignments in the field. Suggestions for changes in radio stations broadcasting the various Voice of Prophecy programs take both study and much faith, especially where cost increases and significant differences in numbers of listeners are involved.

Here is a "Box Score" look at what the Voice of Prophecy broadcast ministry did with your help in just one recent month:

Persons baptized into church fellowship .....	324
Potential "radio families" of V.O.P. stations .....	61,419,830
Hours broadcast .....	1,927
Daily broadcasts .....	1,426
Once-a-week broadcasts .....	2,428
Broadcast tapes produced .....	6,119
Pieces of mail received at broadcast headquarters .....	39,450
Pieces of mail sent from broadcast headquarters .....	410,623
Bible school lessons graded .....	72,479
Bible course enrollments .....	4,837
Bible school diplomas awarded .....	1,229

At 4:35 you push away from your desk and head for the press to discuss a printing job you requested several days ago. As you open the door to the pressroom, the heavy, pounding beat of the big, two-color press and its other one-color companions fills the room with sound. Dropping out from under one of the spinning cylinders of the first press are bright blue sheets—foldouts for the new youth outreach. "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," the pieces read as they pile up in a stack that will help meet the requests from some seventy thousand youth who have written to Wayout since March of this year.

Another press is printing covers for the broadcast's popular books-for-the-month, while a third machine adds the final color to the new, full-color Focus on Living Bible course.

Your discussion with the manager of the press goes smoothly. Then, on impulse, you walk upstairs to look in on the foreign language Bible correspondence schools—Russian, Hungarian, German, Spanish—where you chat briefly with the supervisors and some of the other workers.

Midway through your last visit the chimes ring, ending the work day. But you know a number of the workers will ignore the signal, staying at their tasks without pay because they want to do something extra in the soul-saving work of the Voice of Prophecy.

It is nearing 5:45 when you return to your office desk. Coming back from the Bible schools, you have stopped briefly in the studios where you have watched Elder H. M. S. Richards finishing a broadcast in one studio, while Del Delker and the King's Heralds recorded a new song in a second studio. The words and the music brought renewed inspiration to your heart, and you thanked your heavenly Father for the privilege of a place in this special ministry for Him.

The clock in the office reads 7:18 when you finally leave for home, your briefcase bulging with work you didn't have time to get at today. You are tired; the day has not been easy. But it has been a rewarding day—as everyone here at broadcast headquarters is. You have been cooperating with heavenly agencies in helping tell the plan of salvation to men and women, yes, and young people, too, wherever radio's magic fingers reach. And that is a rewarding task indeed!

The father-son speaking team of Elders H. M. S. Richards, and H. M. S. Richards, Jr., now present the weekly and daily radio programs of the Voice of Prophecy on some six hundred fifty stations throughout North America. Often presenting exciting question and answer sessions on the air, the team of speakers is proving successful in its mass audience appeal for Christ.

Speakers and musicians of the Voice of Prophecy get together in an informal songfest in a corner of the broadcast studios. Del Delker, the King's Heralds (composed of Bob Edwards, Jim McClintock, Jerry Patton, and Jack Veazey), and Elders H. M. S. Richards, and H. M. S. Richards, Jr., sing along with Brad Braley at the organ.

Prayer and precision are fused in production of Voice of Prophecy radiobroadcasts. Here Russian broadcast speaker George Melashenko carefully and prayerfully records a radio message which will be beamed across North America, and also into Russia from an overseas transmitter.

Some 240,000 names flash through the Voice of Prophecy's heat transfer process, being transferred from computer printout to envelopes going to readers of the monthly "Voice of Prophecy News." More than 75,000 new names have been added to this growing print witness during the past year.

SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Department Heads Enjoy Weekend Retreat

Over one hundred department heads and family members from Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital spent a weekend of spiritual refreshment and fellowship at the Wisconsin Conference camp meeting grounds in Portage, September 18 to 20.

It was the first retreat of its kind to be sponsored by the san.

According to William H. Wilson, administrator, the purpose of the weekend was to provide a setting away from telephones and split-second schedules so that participants could dwell on spiritual themes and become better acquainted with one another.

Visiting from the General Conference was Harold Johnson, assistant treasurer, who presented the Sabbath morning sermon and a talk in the afternoon about the changing role of the missionary. Elder Johnson has served 20 years in the mission field, most recently in the Far Eastern Division headquarters office in Singapore.

Also a guest at the retreat was Elder F. W. Wernick, president of the Lake Union and chairman of the hospital's board of trustees. Elder Wernick addressed the group Friday night at their opening meeting.

Roger W. Schmidt, center, executive secretary of the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health, discusses the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking with Chaplain Willis C. Graves, left, and Dr. Charles L. Dale, both of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. The three were in San Diego attending the first National Conference on Smoking and Health. Also at the conference was Dr. J. Wayne McFarland, originator of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, who gave a 30-minute presentation at the conference, explaining the techniques and successes of the Seventh-day Adventist approach to help people quit smoking.

Conference Reports 29 Million Quit Smoking

The message that smoking may be hazardous to health is getting through to people.

This is the word brought back by Willis C. Graves, chaplain at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, who attended the first National Conference on Smoking and Health in San Diego, September 9 to 11, as did Dr. Charles L. Dale, chief pathologist at the san and recently retired medical director of the hospital's Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

At the conference Graves learned that 29 million Americans have quit smoking in the past six years. "This was probably the most outstanding news of the session," he said. "I remember when we first started giving the Five-Day Plan in the Hinsdale community, we were telling folks that there were 70 million smokers in America. Now there are only about 45 million."

Further encouragement was given at the conference in the report that one-third of all men who were smoking in 1966 have now quit, and 25 percent of all women.

However, the picture is not completely rosy. Among teen-agers, Graves reported, the number of smokers is not decreasing. "We are making almost no headway getting through to teens on the dangers of smoking," Graves said.

The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking received official commendation by the council in the form of a 30-minute presentation to the conference by originator of the plan, J. Wayne McFarland, M.D., a resident of Philadelphia. "This is a real breakthrough for the Five-Day Plan," Graves said. "It was the strongest vote of confidence ever given to the Five-Day Plan by government agencies concerned with smoking."

The conference was sponsored by the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health and supported financially by the United States Public Health Service, the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, and the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

The 51st Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking to be conducted at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital was held in Hinsdale, October 4 to 8.

NEW EMPLOYEE GROUP

A large group of new employees at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital receives specific information about the hospital during employee orientation September 8. Since the twice-monthly orientation meetings had been discontinued for the month of August, the September 8 group was larger than usual, with a total of 66 employees. Information about jobs now open at the hospital is available from the Personnel Department, Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois 60521. (Photo by Jesse Pendleton)

PICTURE NEWS NOTES

Myrna Baker, Vera Johnson, and J. T. Smith were the panel members at a human relations discussion in Niles, Michigan, recently. Present for the discussion was a group from Andrews University studying human relations.

Elder W. C. Mills, right center, directs a baptismal service at the swimming pool at the campground. Assisting him are Pastors Edward Avinger, E. S. Dillet, and Harold A. Lindsey.

During camp meeting this man made an unusual entry into the youth tent at Cassopolis in order to give a more dynamic testimony up front.

23 Baptisms Are Evangelism Firstfruits

Elder Ronald Smith, pastor of the Saginaw Flint District, reports 23 baptisms as the first results of a summer evangelistic campaign. In Saginaw, church members divided into special prayer groups, praying around the clock for the success of the meetings.

Further, members talents were harmonized with the pastor's efforts so as to make the campaign a full pastorality venture. Assisting Pastor Smith were R. Rittenhouse, Miss E. Mitchell, Mrs. B. McCloud, Mrs. J. Folds, and Mrs. John Bennett.

The congregation follows Elder Smith in their Bibles.

A family of new believers wait their turn in the pool as Elder Smith baptizes a little one.

RETIREE HONORED BY FELLOW EMPLOYEES

Mrs. Edith Bagby recently retired from Harper Hospital in Detroit after 14 years of service. Mrs. Bagby, an L.P.N., has worked continually five days a week so that she might have Sabbath off. Mrs. Bagby plans to retire on some northern acreage in Michigan.

She was honored by her fellow employees for her faithfulness to duty and for a winsome personality.

RETREAT TO BE HELD IN GALESBURG

The teachers of the Lake Region Conference will convene October 5 to 7 at Good Samaritan Retreat Center in Galesburg, Illinois. These 40 acres will afford not only adequate housing and meeting facilities, but also an unrivaled opportunity for outdoor activities.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss new trends in education, job security for teachers, mental health, Christian recreation, and problems related to the classroom.

Elder Reginald Barnes, educational superintendent for the Lake Region Conference, has announced the personnel as follows: Dr. T. S. Geraty and Dr. W. S. Liske of Andrews University; Dr. David Glenn of Benton Harbor, Michigan; Dr. Andrew Leonie of Macomb, Illinois; and Pastors J. R. Wagner, M. C. Van Putten, and T. M. Kelly of the Lake Region Conference.

TEN BAPTIZED AT ALTON

Ten individuals baptized August 29 at the Alton church were the first fruits of the Search and Discovery evangelistic meetings.

The Illinois Conference evangelistic team, Roland Lehnhoff and David Peterson, worked with Pastors John Graham and Richard Meier of the Alton-East St. Louis District along with faithful members in this outreach for souls.

The meetings were well attended through the five-week duration. Many nights the non-Adventist attendance was over 50 percent of the audience.

Most of the non-Adventists came into contact with our message for the first time at these meetings. A follow-up Bible class on Tuesday evenings and Sabbath mornings will be conducted by Pastor Graham, as well as personal studies to prepare interested individuals for baptism.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A Sabbath School birthday party in the Yugoslavian church, August 8, inspired all these young people.

Mrs. Zivko Maras, leader for the one and only children's division, is working hard, along with her associate and teachers, to encourage youth to live for Christ.

The main church sanctuary was almost full of people speaking in a tongue not understandable by the writer.

We are proud of our language work in this great city of Chicago. Greater blessings are in store for these people as they witness for Christ in this crowded city of vice and poverty.

E. L. Allen

Olive and Brad Braley, right, receive $25 for the Voice of Prophecy from Mrs. Roy Reynolds, a visitor and friend who came to camp meeting to see and hear them.

CAMP MEETING HIGHLIGHTS SAVORED

The summer would not be complete without our Little Grassy Camp Meeting. So, on Wednesday, August 12, the first meeting began. And would you believe it—Brad and Olive Braley, Del Delker, and Elder Guild were there to present two programs packed with music and good, advent preaching.

Did the Braleys see people they knew? After all, they spent many years right here in Illinois, traveling around the state, plus teaching in our own Broadview Academy. Yes, among their many friends, a former Adventist, Mrs. Ray Reynolds from Marion, came to a meeting to renew acquaintances. She presented the Braleys with $25 for the Voice of Prophecy.

Elder and Mrs. N. R. Dower of the Ministerial Department of the General Conference brought real inspiration. Elder Dower exercised pulpit power, seemingly from the days of Pentecost, stimulating a deep, spiritual awakening among the group attending the meetings. Outside of the pulpit, his friendly attitude encouraged a spirit of unity among the brethren. Mrs. Dower devoted most of her time to telling the children stories, and on one occasion spoke to the adults.

Mrs. Marilyn Bauer from Andrews University directed a fine Sabbath School. The attention of everyone perked up as a Lebanese family of five came to the platform, displaying their native costumes. It was the family of Elder and Mrs. George Khouri. Elder Khouri told of their home—a place where our mission dollars go from time to time.

Elders P. M. Matacio, W. A. Nelson, C. B. Guild, and Miss Del Delker

Elder and Mrs. George Khouri and family

Our Lake Union president, Elder F. W. Wernick, spoke at the eleven o'clock hour. Each thought was packed with new meaning for the Christian preparing for Christ's advent.

Others participating in the program were Elder Euel T. Atchley, General Conference; Elder A. W. Bauer, Lake Union; and local members and pastors.

The children enjoyed the excellent programs and campfires provided by their leaders, Mrs. Roberta Marsmaker and Mrs. R. G. Meier.

We need your attendance at camp meeting, if you wish this conference to continue to provide the good help at each convocation. Meetings cost money. You are the key to their success.

Eston L. Allen

Feeding fish is one of the pleasures of camp meeting.

SIX TO BE BAPTIZED

As a result of an evangelistic effort and of reading the monthly "The Bible Says" articles in Logansport's newspaper, six people are preparing for baptism.

The articles' impact upon the public has been noteworthy. Several people have informed us that they have clipped them for rereading.

We solicit everyone's prayers that we "Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables [in the newspapers], that he may run that readeth it." Habakkuk 2:2.

E. W. Dirksen, Pastor

CHURCH CELEBRATES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Fifty years of witnessing will be celebrated by the Cicero Seventh-day Adventist Church on October 17. This anniversary homecoming marks the organization of the church on October 18, 1920. The only two living charter members, Laura Possman and Sarah Nash, plan to be present.

Elder G. R. Nash, recently of the General Conference Sabbath School Department, will be the speaker at the eleven o'clock service. Elder L. L. Murphy, who served for many years as pastor, will present the evening vesper message. Under the direction of James Woods, the Indiana Academy Choralans will present musical features during the worship and vesper services. John Herr and C. E. Perry, former pastors, will take an active part in this historic service.

All former members of the church are cordially invited to return and worship on this Sabbath. Those coming will be responsible for their own housing and food. If further information is desired contact Elder S. D. H. Seltzer, Route 1, Box 158, Cicero, Indiana 46034.

CONSTITUENCY VOTES TO REBUILD I.A.

Two hundred twenty-two delegates, plus 73 delegates-at-large, attended an all-day emergency constituency meeting at Cicero to study the needs of Indiana Academy. Years of discussion and planning preceded this session. Now everyone present felt the time for action had come.

The dormitories each year are getting older. The school plant is aging and like everything else requires upkeep and replacement. Like Topsy, we have expected our academy to grow on its own. Like the proverbial ostrich we have sought to hide our eyes, hoping that if we did not see the needs or were not aware of some of the problems, they might eventually go away.

Now, at last, the Indiana constituency, the academy board, and the school administration are alert. After discussion, planning, and committee work, the constituency has been given the choice to either rebuild and maintain a modern and adequate school plant or to close down Indiana Academy.

In the simplest of terms the question resolves itself with the answering of this query, "Does Indiana believe in Christian education?" If our answer is positive, this raises the further question, "Do our people in Indiana feel strongly enough about it to support it?"

The entire morning session was given over to a review of the history of the academy and to reports as to the studies conducted in understanding its needs. After lunch an unhurried question and answer period was conducted in which R. L. Dale, president of the Indiana Conference and chairman of the academy board, patiently answered all questions submitted by the constituency.

Fred Came, a long-time member of the Indiana Conference, stood and presented the following motion:

That we look with favor in rebuilding the physical plant at Indiana Academy, that we authorize the Indiana Conference Executive Committee to implement the drawing up of a master plan, and that we proceed in obtaining necessary funds as recommended by the committee.

Harold Rigsby, president of H and R trucking lines, seconded the motion. The delegation was then polled by ballot. The motion carried 251 to 4 in favor of raising the required funds to rebuild the academy.

Sunday, September 20, was a historic day. Delegates from every section of Indiana came, studied the needs, understood the problems, endeavored to solve the situation, and voted to support Christian education. The education of Seventh-day Adventist young people is our most important business!

CICERO FAMILIES ATTEND FAMILY CAMP

Six families from the Cicero church spent a week's vacation at Timber Ridge Family Camp, along with others from all over Indiana, and even some from out of state. Every day was filled with enjoyment, from Morning Watch around the flagpole to campfire at night. The woods rang with music and laughter as some twenty families displayed their talents on family talent night. Horseback riding, canoeing, swimming, water skiing, softball, horseshoe, crafts, hiking, and eating were available—all for one money!

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jansen

ADELPHIAN HAS VERSATILE DEAN

Jack M. Jansen, new Adelphian Academy boys' dean, together with his wife Stephanie, greeted the residents of East Hall as the 1970-71 school year began.

Mr. Jansen brings to his task a bachelor's degree in theology and minors in history and secondary education. Both he and his wife graduated from Southern Missionary College, with Mrs. Jansen's emphasis having been along medical-secretarial lines.

Dean Jansen has a background which includes printing, teaching at Boulder in Colorado, and being dean of boys at Sunnydale Academy in Missouri. He taught history, Bible, English, and physiology, as well as conducting choral groups.

The family's outside interests are many and varied. Mr. Jansen plays trumpet and baritone, sings in quartets, and enjoys choral directing. Photography is another of his hobbies. He is fascinated by flying, especially gliding, and has had a strong interest in all sports.

Mrs. Jansen collects stories and poetry, sews, and plays the piano. She shares her husband's interest in water-skiing, canoeing, and camping, but is more than content to watch the dean's flying activities from the ground.

Conscientious Objector to Teach in Viet Nam

Andrews University graduate Tom Gammon, who received his master of arts degree in religion recently, has left for Viet Nam to teach instead of to fight.

Gammon, in lieu of serving in the army, will spend two years teaching English in DaNang as a member of the Adventist Volunteer Service Corps (A.V.S.C.). The selective service system requires conscientious objectors to fulfill their obligations in jobs contributing to the national health, safety, or interest.

"My main reason for wanting to go there," said Gammon, "is to do something positive in that country. I have always wanted to learn the Far Eastern culture, but it seemed like a selfish motive unless I could do something positive at the same time. My job in DaNang gives ample opportunity for fulfilling both desires.

"I saw the A.V.S.C. as the way in which I could best fulfill my obligation to my country," he said.

The A.V.S.C. consists primarily of a working situation where the A.V.S.C. member pays his own transportation to a mission area, and the local church unit pays for his room and board and furnishes a minimal amount of spending money during his stay. Volunteers receive no salary as such.

Gammon's first choice of a location in which to work was DaNang, a city of 228,000 people, located in the northern part of South Viet Nam.

In addition to his teaching responsibilities, Gammon will be in charge of obtaining building materials for construction of Seventh-day Adventist churches and schools that are desperately needed in the area.

Gammon was born and raised near Portland, Oregon, and received his bachelor of arts degree in history from Pacific Union College, Angwin, California.

Robert Warner, Adelphian Mill's general manager, and Elder Stephen Young, new principal of Adelphian Academy, check blueprint details for the latest addition to the mill.

ADELPHIAN MILL EXPANDS

Rising from the campus of Adelphian Academy, massive concrete footings adjoining the east side of Adelphian Mill attest that something important is going on.

Robert Warner, general manager of the Adelphian Mill, outlined details of this latest addition to Adelphian's plant, revealing that it will add an urgently needed 34 percent to the present 50,000 square feet of floor space.

The 90-by-60-foot unit, comprising three stories, will house the assembly-production area for redwood items on the first floor, storage of finished parts on the mezzanine, and storage of finished goods on the top floor. Plans include the erection of an additional 60-by-21-foot section for use as a paint room. The trellis assembly area will expand to take over the space presently utilized by the redwood assembly, resulting in the doubling of the current assembly space.

According to Mr. Warner, a 27 percent increase in sales over the past four years makes this expansion imperative. He stated that the increase in the plant will allow for continued growth in sales, reduce the necessity for a heavy, finished-goods inventory, and provide for an anticipated augmenting of the working force. Mr. Warner revealed long-range plans for construction of warehouse facilities on the west side of the plant to eliminate rental of warehouse space.

Representing the Hoffman Construction Company of Kalamazoo, 1961 Adelphian graduate Robert Hoffman is overseeing erection of the $100,000 addition.

Asked how soon after the proposed completion date of December 1, 1970, the new facilities would be usable, Mr. Warner replied with a twinkle in his eyes, "December 2, 1970."

REVAMPING BRINGS RECORD ENROLLMENT

The highest enrollment in the history of Cedar Lake Academy is reported by Elder Donald E. Wright, principal. He credits the student increase to the overall rebuilding program of the school.

According to Elder Wright, another factor may well be the addition of the Dakota Bake-N-Serv frozen dough industry. The current construction of the building is presently three weeks ahead of schedule, and the railroad siding is expected to be completed very soon.

By the end of the regular registration days, 276 students—an even distribution of boys and girls—had enrolled. This was unusual, but with the enrollment of four more students the boys had taken the lead, which, according to Elder Wright "has been virtually unheard of in our academies."

The class with the largest enrollment belongs to the juniors, with 85 students, while 70 seniors are looking forward to graduation in the spring.

PRINCIPAL PROVES NO NEOPHYTE

Elder Stephen Young, veteran secondary school principal, and most recently president of Malamulo College in Africa, is now principal of Adelphian Academy. He arrived on campus recently with his wife, Bonnie Louise, and daughters Joy, Twyla, and Gay.

The Youngs bring a wealth of educational background with them. After graduating from Walla Walla, Elder Young received his M.S. in secondary school administration. Mrs. Young also received her B.A. from Walla Walla.

The new principal's 19-year educational background consists of service as principal of Kansas City Junior Academy, teacher at Sunnydale Academy, principal of Battle Creek Academy and Walla Walla Academy, and a four-year tour of duty at Malamulo. He also served the Missouri public school system as a district superintendent.

Mrs. Young has taught church school on the secondary level. She has been a girls' physical education instructor and assistant girls' dean, and has taken advanced study in secondary education and home economics.

When questioned regarding his plans for Adelphian, Elder Young indicated the need to push the industrial arts program and to further development of the science department, with emphasis on computer education.

His hobbies include gardening and (he says with a grin but a serious glint of the eye) work. The principal seems committed to a program guided by the Spirit of Prophecy. Early observation suggests a steadiness of purpose and devotion to duty destined to give strength to the school.

Missionary Tour Planned to South America

Another mini-missionary tour for Michigan Adventists is being planned with Colombia-Venezuela the goal.

According to Dr. Fred Sherman, project director, the mini-missionaries will be involved in construction as well as medical and dental services.

The project calls for a two-week tour starting December 20 and returning January 6. The cost to each individual will be $250. Particularly needed are carpenters, masons, plumbers, physicians, dentists, and nurses.

All those who are interested in this project should write to Dr. Sherman in care of the Warren Seventh-day Adventist Church, 12100 Thirteen Mile Road, Warren, Michigan 48093. He may also be reached by calling (313) 754-5454. It is important that definite plans be made early enough to ensure flight reservations during this busy time of the year.

Dr. Sherman grew up in the mission fields of South America and is well acquainted with the area to be visited.

CLOTHING DRIVE TO START SOON

The dates of the conferencewide fall clothing drive are November 1 to 4. This advance information should enable all members throughout the conference to assist their local community services leaders by bringing clothing to their community services centers. As much time is needed to properly process and pack clothing for disaster use, the sooner clothing can be brought to the centers, the less pressured leaders will be. Michigan Adventists should round up all useful clothing no longer needed by them and turn it over to their local center at once.

The detailed pickup schedule will appear on the Herald Bulletin Board toward the end of October. With the exception of Berrien Springs, all pickups have been scheduled for a week day. Therefore, we appeal to every church to see to it that clothing is delivered to the station nearest on the Sunday before the scheduled time of collection.

Conference officials sincerely appreciate the enthusiastic support and cooperation which Michigan Adventists have always given to the spring and fall clothing drives. They urge each member to continue to support this excellent community service project and make the fall clothing drive the most successful yet.

Fairgoers sign up for "Wayout" at Michigan State Fair.

4,000 SIGN UP FOR "WAYOUT"

Nearly four thousand young people attending the Michigan State Fair at Detroit signed up for the Voice of Prophecy's Wayout magazine.

According to word received from Elder Leslie Neal, coordinator of the Detroit Area Youth Council, Adventist young people signed up 3,860 other youth, many of whom were nonchurchgoers. A number of them requested that their copies be sent to them at the schools they are attending this fall. Some of the young people were from places as far away as Ireland and England.

The cylindrical display, as seen in the picture, featured a self-contained public address system which aired spot announcements every 45 seconds. A number of copies of Wayout had been fastened to the surface of the display. Young people from the council mingled with the youthful fair attendants, inviting them to sign up for the new evangelistic material which has been geared to today's youth.

PUBLICATIONS SUBSCRIPTIONS SOLICITED

The school newspaper, titled the Wisconsinian with a circulation of approximately 2,500 subscriptions, and the academy yearbook, called the Badger, are both financed from the student-sponsored campaign. The students are enthusiastic and confident they will gain another victory by reaching their 2,000-subscription goal, a victory that has never been lost during 22 years of publication. Subscriptions to either academy publication may be obtained by writing either to the business office or to any student presently enrolled at Wisconsin Academy.

INGATHERING GOAL SURPASSED

Wisconsin Academy ingathered $3,518.50 on their September 22 field day. The students, manifesting a fine spirit, were assisted by the academy faculty, staff, and by conference workers. This amount was over $400 more than last year, which was a record year.

A.S.B. CREDITED WITH ACADEMY SUCCESS

One of the keys to much of the success experienced this school year at Wisconsin Academy can be credited to the extraordinary work being accomplished by the Associated Student Body. Active both in social and spiritual activities, the A.S.B. is responsible for the publications campaign, spiritual emphasis week, a Christmas victory banquet, skip day, and events such as class competitions, corn roasts, and melon feeds.

A.S.B. officers for the 1970-71 term are: Dan Ringwalski, president; Connie Eiken, vice-president; Sue Spatch, secretary; Tim Ruskjer, pastor; and Marty Castleberg, parliamentarian.

Ph.D. Joins Engineering Staff

William W. Davidson, Ph.D. in civil engineering, will be joining the staff of the Andrews University engineering department in September. Dr. Davidson comes from Ohio University, where he has been teaching in the civil engineering department. Previous to this he was on the faculty of Pennsylvania State University, where he also earned his doctor's degree. Dr. Davidson will be teaching courses in structures and engineering mechanics.

The addition of Dr. Davidson to the teaching staff will enable Andrews to fully implement the engineering science program, a flexible curriculum, offered entirely on the Andrews University campus and leading to a bachelor of science in engineering degree.

Harold H. Lang and Albert A. Meaney, who have been on doctoral-study leaves in mechanical engineering and electrical engineering respectively, will be returning to Andrews to teach during the coming school year.

STUDENTS AID PEOPLE IN NEED

The two anecdotes following illustrate what A.U. students often do when they discover people in need.

THE TOMATO CRISIS

Through a story hour project on Sabbath afternoons, some Lamson Hall girls met a family whose tomato sorter and washer had been stolen. The girls enlisted other students, and in less than 24 hours five carloads of young people were out picking and packing tomatoes while they sang camp choruses together in the field.

Commented one of the pickers, "We were out there, and there was such a unity, a bond that drew us together—I can't explain it, but it was just great!"

Commented the mother of 12 children who were dependent on the income from the tomato crop: "I've never seen a group of kids like you before—and you kids think picking tomatoes is fun? You must be weird."

BABY SITTING PLUS

Six dormitory girls from Andrews were asked to help in the nursery at the First Church of God in St. Joseph, Michigan, so that all the members of the church might attend the last service to be conducted by their pastor who had served there for 12 years.

Arrangements were made by a member of the church who became very ill the day before the service and was taken to the hospital. Her husband drove the girls to and from the church. The follow-up story is told by him in a letter to the university:

"That night upon returning home, I found on my porch a complete meal ready to cook for my four children and me, with a note attached on how to finish preparing the food and assuring me of their prayers and concern for my wife. The note was signed, 'The Andrews Baby Sitters.'

"This was only the beginning. Since then the girls have brought food to us almost every night and have offered to baby sit or do anything else they could to help in this difficult time.

"Words just can't begin to express the gratitude my wife and I have felt for this help. I wish so much that Christian witnessing such as these girls have shown would make the headlines in our newspapers and on radio and TV instead of the violence that only a small handful of radicals cause."

PEDIATRICIAN JOINS STAFF

Dr. K. Robert Lang, left, director of Andrews University medical center, confers on an electrocardiogram with Dr. Herald Allen Habenicht, Jr., assistant director.

Dr. Habenicht has recently joined the Andrews staff. Besides assisting in the medical center he will also be assistant professor of health education in the Seminary. He will teach classes concerned with the relationship between the physician and the minister in the mission field.

An alumnus of A.U. in 1954, he graduated from Loma Linda University School of Medicine, where he specialized in pediatrics. (Photo by Kurt Ebeling)
