A REVOLVING FUND for the Lake Union

For several months the officers of the Lake Union and its local conferences have been studying the possibility of establishing a Revolving Fund. We are pleased to announce that the Lake Union and General Conference committees have approved this plan and we are now ready to begin its implementation. Several other conferences in North America have been operating Revolving Funds for some time and they have been greatly appreciated by their constituents.

The Revolving Fund is a plan whereby any church member or organization in the Lake Union, having funds that they wish to invest in the Lord's work, may make loans to the Fund which will then be loaned to churches or organizations for building projects. The loans to the Fund will be on a note basis for one to five years at the interest rate of 5 1/4 percent, the same as is paid currently on Revocable Trust Agreements. However, if persons need their funds before the maturity of the note, they may withdraw them at any time after a 30-day notice. The interest will be calculated semi-annually and paid either in cash or added to the principal, according to the mutual agreement of the investor and the officers of the Fund.

The accumulated investments of members and organizations will be available to churches or organizations of the Lake Union according to the ratio of each conference's percentage of the total union tithes. Loans will be made on notes for periods of one to five years at the interest rate of 6 1/2 percent. The 1 1/4 percent difference in interest rates is needed mainly to cover the brief periods of time between the receipts and investment of Revolving Funds when they will not be earning interest. No charges will be made to the Fund for salaries or other office expenses.

The original and principal amount of the Revolving Fund has been set at $1 million. We feel that the Revolving Fund can be a double blessing to God's work in the Lake Union, as it will make funds available to our churches and organizations at lower interest rates and members will have the satisfaction of knowing that their funds are working for the Lord. A 1974 Annual Council action specifies that denominational organizations discontinue the practice of borrowing funds directly from church members for any purpose. This has emphasized the need for a Revolving Fund in the Lake Union.

We are hoping that many members in the Lake Union will make use of this new investment vehicle. Anyone interested in making a loan to the Fund, please write to: The Revolving Fund, Lake Union Conference of S.D.A., Box C, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49103, for more information.

The Taj Mahal is a symbol of India. One of the wonders of the world, this magnificent edifice was built to immortalize an emperor's love for his wife. Ironically, the emperor was dethroned by his son and was imprisoned in his own red fort palace, a few miles away. His son permitted him to live in a room from which he could view the Taj Mahal and reflect on his past life of splendor. Cover photo by Gordon Engen. See story on pages 4 and 5.

UNITED WAY HAVING SECOND THOUGHTS REGARDING UNION DEAL

Publicity over the secret agreement between the United Way of America, a community-type charitable organization, and the AFL-CIO, in which the United Way agreed to patronize only union made goods and services whenever possible, has caused the United Way to take another look at the AFL-CIO agreement. This agreement was reported to have been made in response to offers of contributions from labor union organizations to the United Way.

GUARANTEE RIGHTS OF PERSONS OPPOSED TO UNION MEMBERSHIP

Manitoba's provincial government has been asked by the Mennonite Central Committee to guarantee the rights of persons who are opposed to membership in labor unions for conscientious reasons. The provincial labor board has been turning down all applications for exemption, although the law appears to contain provision to permit individuals to opt for non-membership. Under the law a person may be excluded from membership in a union if "by reason of his religious beliefs he is by conscience opposed to joining a union and paying dues to a union."

ADVENTIST HEART TEAM REVISITS SAIGON

Seven Vietnamese having serious heart defects were successfully operated on by an American open-heart surgery team. The team from Loma Linda University of California performed the operations during their first week of work in Saigon. The Seventh-day Adventist team is fulfilling a promise it made six months ago when in Vietnam to come back to help more Vietnamese. To date 65 Vietnamese heart problem patients have been assisted by the Loma Linda team.

FETUS HUMAN BEING AS FAR AS FOOD STAMPS ARE CONCERNED

Whether or not the decision will have implications on the humanity of a fetus remains to be seen. But in what was regarded as a landmark decision, a U.S. District Court has granted food stamp rights to an unborn child of an eight-month pregnant Daly City woman. Under the judge's ruling, the unborn fetus is to be treated as a separate, living human person. Mrs. Pamela Hickman of San Francisco is entitled to obtain food stamps for two persons instead of one.

RELIGION MENTIONED IN NEW CHINESE CONSTITUTION

Freedom to believe or not believe in religion is granted in the new Chinese constitution. So is the right to "propagate atheism." The previous 1954 version of the constitution said simply that "citizens... of China enjoy freedom of religious belief." While both constitutions speak of the freedom to "believe in religion," neither say anything concerning the rights of religious practices.

ADVENTIST COLLEGES ABROAD

Adventist Colleges Abroad regrets to announce the suspension of its five overseas study programs in France, Austria, Spain, Argentina, and Hong Kong. Students wishing to study at S.D.A. schools in those countries for the 1975-76 school year should apply for admission on their own, says John T. Hamilton, director of A.C.A. When A.C.A. operations will resume will be decided by the A.C.A. Executive Committee, whose chairman is Dr. John W. Cassell, when it meets this June.

Mounting difficulties in the operation of the A.C.A. program include overly restrictive regulations governing charter flights (and the rising cost of the flights themselves), raises in school charges in Europe, the growing uncertainty of dollar exchange rates, and rising administrative costs. All these have made the decision to suspend the A.C.A. program inevitable, says Mr. Hamilton.

All inquiries for French, German, and Spanish study abroad should now be directed to the modern language departments of the various colleges.

Opportunities Abound in Southern Asia

by Gordon Engen, Editor

The grandeur, beauty, and captivating mystery found in the territory of the Southern Asia Division envelop any visitor to that part of the world as they did me on my recent photo tour to three countries of that division for Mission Spotlight.

Superlatives abound in the countries of Southern Asia. There I found the world's tallest mountain, Mount Everest, and the building many believe to be the most beautiful in the world, the Taj Mahal. As for people, I saw more there than I have seen in any other part of the world. Riches and poverty also abound in superlatives, without a significant middle class.

Countries of this division also abound in needs, needs that seemingly cannot be satisfied. Take new churches, for instance. In 1972, a new company of believers was established at Umarpur with 37 members. Since then another 40 have been baptized. Members of this new church meet in beautiful homelike, natural, air-conditioned surroundings. You see, all of these people worship under a tree in the courtyard of a village home. W. F. Storz, Sabbath School secretary of the Southern Asia Division, commented that this is not an isolated situation. More than 650 other churches and companies similarly situated.

Global inflation has not passed them by. Yet, despite the increased costs of building, a new church can still be built for about $1,500. Because land is becoming scarce, land on which to build a church may cost several times the actual cost of the church itself.

Of interest to the Seventh-day Adventist Church is another superlative of that part of the world. It is an area of opportunity as great as, or greater than, can be found anywhere in the world. Until you are confronted with the masses of human beings, you will find it difficult to comprehend the gigantic task of breaking through the life style which envelops them to bring them face to face with Christianity.

Elder Storz has developed a method of doing something about this task on a personal basis. Whenever he travels by train, he takes a packet of Voice of Prophecy enrollment cards with him. As the train rolls along the countryside, he strolls up and down the aisles and into the various coaches passing out envelopes with brief messages printed on them, inviting the readers to enroll in a free Bible correspondence course. After giving the passengers an opportunity to read the material, he picks up the envelopes. On some trips he picks up several hundred enrollments.

The overflow from the Thirteenth Sabbath Offering to be taken on March 29 has been designated for two major areas—education and evangelism. India has many Adventist church schools. I visited many of them and was astonished to discover that these schools are often attended mostly by non-Christian children. In some areas of the country, little children, even in the elementary grades, attend boarding schools operated by the church. Non-Christian parents consider it to be a privilege to have their children enrolled there.

It made chills go up my spine when I heard little Hindu and Buddhist children singing, "I'll take Jesus as my Saviour, you take Him, too," and "I want to be ready when Jesus comes." One Hindu girl insisted on saying grace at home before meals "just like the teacher does at school."

In the high schools and in college where students come from Adventist homes, competition for space becomes more acute. How would you like to be faced with the dilemma of choosing which young person would be denied the privilege of a Christian education? This is what many of the more advanced school administrators have to face. What makes it hurt more deeply is that many of these students come from good, honest, hardworking Seventh-day Adventist homes. The students have struggled hard to be successful in gaining an education so as to be of greater use in helping to finish God's work in their own homeland. When they cannot find admission in any S.D.A. school, they have little alternative but to go to outside schools which operate on Sabbath and give their examinations on Sabbath as well.

A sizeable portion of the overflow offering this quarter is earmarked for Spicer Memorial College located in Poona, India. Here are some of the vexing problems faced by President M. E. Cherian and his associates.

The girls' dormitory was built to accommodate 120 girls, but the last enrollment revealed 212 girls housed there. The boys' dormitory, including the new building started by the Thirteenth Sabbath overflow in 1972 but not completed due to lack of funds, was planned for 250 young men. Although the ground floor is occupied, the latest figures indicate that there are 450 young men vying for space in the building.

The cafeteria must operate up to two hours per meal in order to accommodate a continuous flow of students. The library should contain 100,000 books based on student enrollment, but it contains only 20,000 volumes, many of which are old and outdated.

Despite these handicaps, Spicer College has grown and progressed. What it could do with adequate facilities is obvious! This Thirteenth Sabbath presents an opportunity for us to help provide them with the means to supply the proper setting for Adventist young people to be trained to help finish God's work in areas where more and more dependence must be placed on the national workers to carry the gospel to their fellow countrymen.

Gail P. Pelley, R.N.

A paper on how nurses at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital participate in an ongoing nursing evaluation program will appear in a spring issue of Hospitals magazine, a national journal for the hospital industry.

Gail P. Pelley, R. N., assistant director of nursing, authored the report dealing with nursing audit procedures followed in the hospital. The procedure involves the review by nurses of patient charts while the patients are hospitalized in order to improve the notes nurses make regarding the progress of patients. These notes are vital not only to the quality of nursing care but also in helping the physician evaluate the hospitalized person's progress and in prescribing further tests or treatment.

The program came to the attention of officials from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals at their routine visit to the hospital a year ago. At that time J.C.A.H. officials were so impressed by the nursing audit program at the hospital they suggested that the nursing service department prepare an article for national distribution.

Before coming to Hinsdale, Mrs. Pelley served as director of Saigon, Vietnam, Adventist Hospital School of Nursing and as assistant professor at the Loma Linda University School of Nursing. Her master's degree in nursing is from Loma Linda University and her bachelor's degree in nursing is from Columbia Union College, Washington, D.C. She is president of the Lake Michigan Chapter, Association of Seventh-day Adventist Nurses and a member of the Illinois Nursing Association and the American Nursing Association.

RADIO ANNOUNCER PROMOTES DIAL SERVICE

An unusual use of the hospital's popular Smoker's Dial has come to the attention of Gordon Hewlett, chaplain and speaker on the dial.

Gene Lyle, a radio announcer for station WJBC in Bloomington, Illinois, called Hewlett to report that he regularly calls the dial and plays the message over the air for listeners. Already more than 34 people have quit smoking as a result, and Lyle is planning a "cold turkey banquet" as a celebration.

A 15-minute live radio interview with Hewlett was conducted by Lyle and aired on the Bloomington station February 12.

Smoker's Dial was called more than one hundred times a day during January for a total of 3,885 calls. Slim Line, another dial service operated by the hospital, was called 3,357 times in January.

EMPLOYEES GIVE 835 YEARS

One hundred eight employees accumulated 835 years of service at Hinsdale San and Hospital during the past 25 years and were honored at this year's annual awards banquet held Sunday, January 26.

Keynote speaker for the event was Dr. G. Howard Glassford, a member of the hospital's surgical staff.

Doris Gutsche, head nurse on 5-North, earned the highest award for the year and received a 25-year pin from administrator William H. Wilson.

Marie Potenza, 2-North, and Mary Yamazaki, central service, were recognized for 20 years employment.

Eight others were recognized for 15 years service to the hospital: Rose Adams, environmental services; Margaret Brooks, nursing service float; Hoy Brown, kitchen; Marjorie MacKenzie, medical records; Esther Merriam, kitchen; Buddy Rhicard, carpentry; Jacob Richardsen, physical therapy; Vaughn Smith, paint shop.

Employees honored for 10 years service numbered 29 and 68 earned five-year pins.

HINSDALE'S PRACTICAL NURSING STUDENTS SCORE HIGH

Twenty-nine student practical nurses recently made the transition to licensed practical nurses (L.P.N.'s) by successfully completing their state boards with the second highest score in Illinois.

The new L.P.N.'s began their education September 24, 1973, and were graduated September 8, 1974.

A new class of 30 full-time and three part-time students are presently enrolled in the one-year course with graduation scheduled for September 7, 1975.

NEWS NOTES

• The entire book of Hebrews is being memorized by the South Side congregation. During the month of January the first chapter has been memorized. Every four weeks an additional chapter will be memorized. The prayer meetings have featured the study of this matchless book of the New Testament.

• A seven-hour prayer service hallowed the Sabbath, January 25. Each one-hour period was under the direction of a layperson from the South Side or Chapel West Church. Each approached from a different standpoint the subject of the Holy Spirit. Earnest prayers, testimonies, and songs brought the participants close to their Lord. Decisions for Christ were noted. On Sabbath, February 1, a morning testimony period informed more of the church family of the joy and hope of serving the Saviour.

Doug English spoke at the Columbus Church.

YOUTH TEAMS SHARE THEIR FAITH

On Sabbath, January 11, Indiana Academy sent out five seminar teams in the conference.

In each team three youth presented the sermon and others gave the special music. Several men from the conference office along with some teachers, took the youth out on that Sabbath to the churches.

Elder Duane Ferguson, head of the academy religion department, arranged for the day's activities. It gave the youth some wonderful experience in sermon preparation and presentation. For the churches, it was a real blessing to hear the youth share their message and to be favored with some beautiful special music.

BOB LARSON MEETS WITH I.A. STUDENTS

Bob Larson, former rock entertainer and composer of 100 rock songs, spoke to the students of Indiana Academy on the evening of January 28 at the academy gym. Many people from the community and throughout the state also came.

over the world talking to the youth concerning the eminent return of Jesus. His main emphasis is on rock music and what it has done to the young society. In his message he exposes the life style of the rock performers and how the devil is using music to destroy the spiritual lives of many youth.

At the end of his message he made an appeal for the youth to surrender all to Jesus. A number of the youth came forward. The pastors who were present met in a side room with those who made their decision and had prayer and counseled with them concerning their new life in Jesus.

SCHOOL RAISES MONEY FOR TEXTBOOKS

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sargeant, teachers in the Richmond, Indiana, church school presented Elder Cliff Hoffman of the Indiana Conference youth department a check for $80 to be used to provide Bible textbooks for overseas European church schools.

The school of 15 pupils sold Sylvania light bulbs as their project to raise the money.

Elders Hoffman, Harry Sackett, and Jerry Lastine of the Indiana Conference were guest speakers during the morning worship service and again in the afternoon on Sabbath, February 1.

EVANSVILLE CHURCH ORDAINS ELDERS

The Metropolitan Church in Evansville, Indiana, vowed to make the year 1975 a time to spread the advent message to all the city.

On Sabbath, January 11, two comparatively new members of the church body were ordained as elders by Pastor Franklin S. Hill, III. They are Percy L. Person and Charles Fuquay whose past experiences in positions of responsibility will be valuable assets to this office.

Before uniting with the Adventist Church, Person served as a trustee of a large Baptist church for 15 years and Fuquay had served as ministerial servant to the Jehovah Witness congregation.

Your prayers in their behalf are desired. May they be granted wisdom, knowledge, faith, and courage as they fulfill their duties in this part of God's vineyard.

PHIPPS TO HOLD CRUSADE IN VIENNA

Elder J. M. Phipps

The Lake Region Conference considers itself privileged to have as its conference evangelist J. M. Phipps. Elder Phipps came from South Atlantic Conference to Lake Region in 1964.

His first evangelistic effort was on Chicago's west side. Since that time he has conducted evangelistic crusades in the major cities of Lake Region as well as South Bend, Indiana; Pontiac, Michigan; East St. Louis, Illinois; and Flint, Michigan.

The establishing of the Detroit Center Church came about following evangelistic meetings conducted by Phipps in 1969 and 1970. Recent evangelism in Milwaukee resulted in 115 persons becoming members of the new Sharon Church.

Vienna, Austria, is the site of the General Conference session for 1975. In order to enhance the witnessing appeal of its churches in Vienna, the Austrian Union sent a request to the General Conference for an evangelistic crusade to be conducted there.

The unusual occurred when their request specifically called for a black evangelist to conduct the six-week crusade beginning March 1. Elder Phipps was chosen to conduct the meeting.

Elder Phipps was asked why the appeal specified a regional worker. He commented that it seems to have been the feeling of the conference in Austria that this is an opportune time for evangelistic activities, and the attitudes in Vienna are of such a nature, the officials felt that a black preacher would have great attraction in the proclamation of the gospel.

Despite the language difference, Viennese speak German, Phipps is expecting no difficulty will occur in the transition of interpretation. Elder H. Knott, president of the Swiss Union, will act as interpreter during the six-week crusade. Vienna, a center of music and culture, has a population of 1.7 million of which 90 percent is of Roman Catholic heritage.

During eleven years of preaching the gospel in the Lake Region, Phipps has come to be known for his powerful, dynamic, and spirit-filled preaching. This venture is indeed a new and different challenge, but as God's man with God's message, he will go and preach and the Holy Spirit, who is not limited by any barrier of language or race or distance, will do His work and in the end God's name will be glorified.

COMMUNICATIONS DEPARTMENT BROADCASTS

In 1975, the Lake Region communication department is seeking to make a real breakthrough in radiobroadcasting. The Adventist truth is being broadcast in three areas of the conference. From left, Elder P. W. Jenkins broadcasts The Voice of Hope over station KUXL each Sunday morning in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area from 10 to 10:15; Elder J. P. Lewis broadcasts Your Bible Speaks over station WBOW, Terre Haute, Indiana, each Sunday morning from 8 to 8:15; and Elder T. M. Kelly broadcasts each Sunday morning from 7:30 to 7:45 over station WBFJ in Detroit.

NEWS NOTES

- Recently six women, three men, and three children of Bristol met together and while the men worked on making hymnbook racks for the pews, the women put together 12 plates of fruit and cookies, and two food baskets. The plates were taken to the nursing homes and older people in the community living alone. The food boxes went to families. Each gift was accompanied by a copy of The Great Controversy so each recipient was doubly blessed. The three children, Carol, Brenda, and Brock Arms went with Mrs. Joan Wicks to deliver the plates to the nursing homes, and the older citizens enjoyed visiting with the children.

- Recently the Berrien Springs S.D.A. Church offered a seminar in Christian growth directed by Elder Don Jacobsen of Andrews University. The seminar was a detailed study of progressive Christian growth based on well-known examples from the Bible who suffered the same experiences with which people are confronted today. During the entire course the auditorium often filled to near capacity.

- When Gerald Malcolm Kelly died recently, the Otsego District Public Library where he had served as custodian was uncommonly touched. He had kept the library building, inside and out, so fastidiously clean that it was not unusual for first-time visitors to the library to remark on such a beautifully kept structure. Also a book lover, Kelly was a faithful patron of the library, and frequently anonymously donated books to the collection. So when Kelly, a member of the Allegan Church, died recently the library staff decided it was their turn to donate. They choose a graceful bass fish carved of Michigan oak by Michigan craftsmen to be placed on display in the library as a permanent memorial to him. The Otsego Union Enterprise ran a three-column story entitled "Tribute to G. Malcolm Kelly" acclaiming him as a "book lover, nature lover, library caretaker, and real friend of the library."

- Friendship with a Dowagiac Methodist pastor resulted in the invitation for Pastor Abraham Terian, local Adventist pastor, to preach on two different occasions in the Methodist Church. On the last such appointment Terian was asked to preach on stewardship and his message was taped for use by shut-in members of the church.

- Members of the Troy Church are currently planning a $1 million fund-raising campaign for construction of a new 10-grade school in Troy. Site of the school will be in the vicinity of Eighteen Mile and Livernois roads where 16 acres of land were purchased recently for approximately $110,000. According to a newspaper report, the new school is necessary because the present Northfield Junior Academy can now accommodate half its student enrollment of 90, with the other half meeting in the church building one mile away. Alvin Astrup, Northfield principal, said Phase I construction (classroom facilities) is expected to start later this year with projected move-in date set for within the next two years. Phase II of the building program will include a gymnasium and auditorium, he said.

- A recent party held at the new Community Services Center in Jackson assisted 25 needy children and their families. Chosen from the center's records, the families were treated to supper, witnessed "Pepe," a performing poodle owned by Mrs. Camille DeMan, and were told the story of Christ's birth illustrated by colorful felts by Mrs. Gloria Kidder. Following the breaking of a pinata loaded with gifts and candy, each child received a hat, mittens, and a Bible story book. In addition to those attending the party, 28 families received food baskets and 25 fruit plates were delivered to the sick and shut-ins.

NEW PHARMACY ALMOST COMPLETE

A new $50,000 pharmacy at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital is scheduled to be completed sometime during the first part of February.

Currently located on the first floor of the fieldstone building, the pharmacy will be moved to the new Jeffrey Building on the ground floor, a more convenient location for serving out-patients and the nursing units.

The most salient feature of the hospital's new pharmacy is maximum space utilization, facilitated by the installation of two movable shelving units. Mounted in cabinets that extend above the dropped ceiling, the shelves move vertically up and down, giving the units 10 times more storage capacity per square foot than other conventional cabinets.

Dean J. Friesen, Pharm. D., director of pharmaceutical services, explained that when finished, the storage capacity of the new 1,000-square-foot pharmacy will be equal to a pharmacy with 1,800 square feet. But, according to Dr. Friesen, efficient storage is not the only reason for cutting down on space. Less space means less steps and less steps means greater speed in filling prescriptions.

Just another metal cabinet? This and another Sperry Rand unit will make the hospital's new pharmacy one of the most efficient space savers in the area. With shelves which move around on electrically operated belts, the units, which store medications, require a minimum amount of floor space and save the pharmacist an average of 110 steps for each filled prescription, according to Dean J. Friesen, Pharm.D., above, director of pharmaceutical services.

Dr. Friesen said that in a conventional hospital pharmacy, a pharmacist would need an average of 150 steps from the time he receives a prescription to the time he fills it. In the San's new pharmacy, this same operation will require only 40 steps. With the new storage units, the medications will come to the pharmacist from the movable shelves rather than the pharmacist having to go to the medications.

Already installed in the department is a new airflow hood that filters out bacteria and particle contaminants while the pharmacist prepares sterile solutions. Major items yet to be installed are work cabinets, carpeting, wall coverings, and office furniture.

SMOKING PROGRAM HELD AT PUBLIC SCHOOL

A new high—or perhaps a new low, at least in age level, was reached when a Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking was held for ninth graders in the Newhall Junior High School of Wyoming.

In a report to the conference office, Elder Paul Penno, Sr., local pastor who conducted the plan, reports that the program during the last week in January was held from 8:30 to 10 each morning.

Twenty-five students had the desire to break their habit. Twelve of them indicated they had stopped smoking by the end of the week. Several students said it was difficult for them to stop smoking while their parents were still smoking. However, some parents were trying to quit as the result of the influence of their children in the class during the program.

The Wyoming public schools are considering more Five-day Plans to help the students quit smoking. Administrators and teachers are very concerned over the growing number of young people who are taking up the smoking habit. The 25 students out of an enrollment of 750 in the Newhall Junior High School is just a small percentage of young people who are using tobacco in this one school.

A second Five-day Plan is scheduled in the same school for March 10 through 14.

MICHIGAN REACHES RECORD HIGH IN LITERATURE SALES

Nearly $500,000 worth of Adventist literature was sold last year by Michigan's top 25 literature evangelists! When the sales of the other regular and part-time workers were added the total passed the $820,000 mark. This was an all-time high for the conference and may well prove to be another world sales record for a local conference.

Leading out in individual sales was Laurin Garrison of Detroit as the assistant field secretary in charge of a new sales district, the sixth in the conference, covering southwest Detroit.

The awards evening was held January 11 in the banquet hall of a local Lansing cafeteria. It served as the conclusion of a special literature evangelist rally day which started in the local church with the morning sermon being given by Elder James W. Proctor, director of the Lake Union publishing department. After a potluck luncheon, soul-winning experiences highlighted the afternoon symposium.

Special guests at the evening awards program, besides L. M. Mohns, Dale L. Thomas, and James W. Proctor, local and union conference departmental leaders, were Elders R. D. Moon, Charles Keymer, and Jonathan Hamrick. Elder Moon spoke words of appreciation and encouragement while Elders Keymer and Hamrick provided special music. Moon, Mohns, and Proctor took part in the presentations as the names and achievements were announced by Doug Anderson, Adventist Book Center manager, and Jack Von Stiegel of the home health education service.

Other leaders in the over $30,000 club who were given special trophies were William L. Thomas, Springport, $61,165 and Harry Brown, Allen Park, $32,454.51. Catherine Ashbaugh, Port Huron, who has been named "Colporteur of the Year," qualified for the over $25,000 trophy with yearly sales totaling $26,603.

A husband and wife team were included in the group whose sales totaled more than $20,000. William and Linda Zacharias, Flint, had a total of $22,654.63. Others in this category were Joseph Whitaker, Charlotte, $23,146.71; Frank Worcester, Lansing, $23,666.65; and Benjamin Lewis, Berrien Springs, $24,441.03.

Three literature evangelists who ended the year with sales over the $18,000 mark were Arthur Leavitt, Burton, $19,018.35; Edward Pomeroy, Chesaning, $18,445.65; and Clyde Brooks, Eagle, $18,296.

In the over $15,000 group were Ronald Silvernail, Vassar, $17,795.29; Jon Gilham, Berrien Springs, $17,044.73; Mark Sherman, Detroit, $17,034.32; Walter Leist, Carp Lake, $16,965.30; Jim Risk, Lake City, $16,536.48; Larry Hubbell, Holly, $15,956.68; Ingrid Kincaid, Port Huron, $15,567.96; and over the $12,000 sales figure, Japeth Agboka, Detroit; Phil Edgar, Troy; Tracy Gunneman, Lansing; Arthur Doornbos, Clarksville; Burniece Goetz, Union Lake; Argial Collins, Nunica; and Arthur Metzger, Bloomington.

Leonard Cooper, an assistant field secretary for the department, who directs the Northeast Detroit sales district, with his team of eight regular and a number of part-time literature evangelists led Michigan's sales districts with a year-end total of $160,965.60. Plaques of recognition for "dedicated leadership" were awarded to Cooper and the other four assistant field secretaries: Wayne Johnson, Southwest Detroit; Louis Olivio, Flint and the Thumb area; Paul Adams, Southwest Michigan; and Carl Riebow, whose territory is the upper half of the state.

Two district directors of the Community Action Crusade (C.A.C.) were also publicly recognized for their success during 1974. They were Harold DeWitt and Louis Reed. Betty DeWitt was also honored for leading the C.A.C. group which achieved the highest sales during the summer months with a total of $24,681.50. The C.A.C. groups feature special literature dealing with drugs, disease, and delinquency and utilize many students during the vacation period.

Catherine Ashbaugh, Michigan's "Literature Evangelist of the Year" receives her trophy and congratulations from Elders Mohns, Proctor, and Moon.

Among the award winners present who had also reported known baptisms as a result of their work were Catherine Ashbaugh, Wayne Johnson, Walter Leist, Art Leavitt, Art Metzger, Jim Risk, and Ron Silvernail. Michigan's literature evangelists lived up to their title by leading the North American Division in Bible school enrollments having signed up 43,807 of their customers. They also left in the homes they visited 74,363 pieces of free literature, found the opportunity to pray in 12,390 homes and gave 1,046 Bible studies.

At the conclusion of the evening's program the literature evangelists announced their goals for 1975. This included a total sales figure of over $1 million and 250 reported baptisms. Readers of the Lake Union Herald who might like to become a part of Michigan's team of literature evangelists can find out more about the program by contacting the local conference publishing department. Either call (517) 485-2226 or write the Michigan Conference, Box 900, Lansing, Michigan 48904.

WAY TEAM WITNESSES FOR CHRIST

Members of the Rhinelander, Crandon, and Clearwater Lake churches fellowshiped with 11 students from Wisconsin Academy and three staff members at Rhinelander on January 22. The WAY team enjoyed staying in the homes of various church members on Friday night and also getting better acquainted Sabbath.

The team's theme thought in Sabbath School was prayer, and the church sermonettes centered around how Christians can avoid depression.

The team is one of four of the academy's WAY teams.

They each have a different Sabbath School program and church service. The teams have appointments in various Wisconsin churches throughout the balance of the school year.

Their hope is that they might share their love for Christ with others in a meaningful way.

MILWAUKEE CENTRAL HOSTS STEWARDSHIP SERIES

"Systematic Benevolence" was the topic of a stewardship guidance series held the first three Sabbaths in January at the Milwaukee Central Church.

Elder M. L. Mooers, Wisconsin Conference stewardship secretary, directed the series in which he emphasized the importance of "planned systematic giving" rather than casual or emotional giving.

He stressed the blessings that God will pour out upon us if giving is planned freely from the heart.

A time was reserved for questions and answers following the program each week.

HASEL
ENLARGES BOOK, HAS

FOR NEW ONE

Gerhard Hasel

Sales of a book by A.U. Professor Gerhard Hasel have taken Eerdmans' Publishing Company by surprise. The company didn't expect to sell more than five thousand copies of the short, but highly technical work, said Hasel. But stocks dwindled at twice the expected rate, and publishers have asked for an expanded edition—and another book like it.

In less than one hundred pages the book, Old Testament Theology: Basic Issues in Current Debate, analyzes a variety of current approaches to the discipline of theology and faults each approach on its own terms.

Since the book was published in 1972, reviewers and prominent theologians have admitted that its criticisms are on the whole valid. One theologian, Walter Harrelson, dean of the School of Divinity at Vanderbilt University, said, "The positions reviewed are treated fairly and aptly criticized."

Theological schools across the country are using the book, and some are listing it as the basis for seminars.

The new edition will contain one new chapter and additions to previous ones, an increase of 50 pages. Hasel is now preparing for Eerdmans' a similar book on New Testament theological methods.

The first book grew out of a paper entitled "The Problem of Methodology in Old Testament Theology" which Hasel delivered at the national annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature and the American Academy of Religion. It was well-received, Hasel said, and an Eerdmans' editor asked for the book on the spot.

It has since brought him many speaking appointments at theological conventions, including a meeting, February 13, at the Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, Deerfield, Illinois.

He directed a panel discussion there on "The Cutting Edge of Biblical Theology," and delivered two lectures, "The Center of Old Testament Theology," and "Contribution of the Remnant Theme."
