ADVENTURE IN FAITH

The Adventist family in the Lake Union Conference are participating Sabbath, April 26, in an Adventure in Faith when they give for world evangelism. We are praying that God will bless each member so that this will be the largest offering in our history. The times in which we live demand unusual sacrifices for God's cause.

Think of what opportunities for evangelism exist today and also the evidences that soon many of these opportunities many close. We are saddened by the problems our workers in Vietnam are facing because of the war. When I was there in 1972, we still had many literature evangelists and a strong church program. Now, the way will be much harder and some areas may be closed to our workers. This has happened in other lands in the past and will, no doubt, happen in the future.

We must think also of our own great cities and the many smaller ones where we need to have a strong work. Many towns have no church and some not one Adventist. Now is our most opportune moment to enlarge our endeavors. This is why we are anxious for a large offering April 26.

This offering will be divided 70 percent for our local conferences and their evangelistic program, and 30 percent for overseas work.

The personal objective for many is one week's income. Many workers and church members are planning to give this much. Others will give lesser amounts, but God blesses each giver equally. You will be interested in knowing that the Lake Union Conference staff as well as our local conference staffs are planning to participate to the best of their ability. Many are giving a week's income. Some will pay these commitments over the next few months and you may also wish to do this.

Won't you pray for guidance as to what you should give? The Lord loveth a cheerful giver. We can make it a true Adventure in Faith Offering on April 26.

Lake Union Conference*

MISSIONARIES MISSING IN SOUTH VIETNAM

There are still some missionaries missing in South Vietnam. The Christian and Missionary Alliance has not heard from one couple in Dar Lac Province since March 24, and has lost contact with three persons assigned to Ban Me Thout. Wycliffe Bible Translators have had no word on a couple earlier reported to have joined the three Alliance missionaries in Ban Me Thout. Wycliffe presumes that those uncounted for have been taken captive by North Vietnam.

NORWAY PROVINCE ASKS ADVENTISTS TO HELP HEALTH SITUATION

Because the Seventh-day Adventist way of life reduces the risk of coronary heart disease, the Finnmark province of Norway has asked Adventists to run its provincial coronary program. In addition to organizing and conducting anti-smoking clinics, the church has prepared courses dealing with other known risk factors relative to coronary heart disease. To make sure they stay healthy, those attending anti-smoking clinics organize themselves into nonsmoking clubs several times throughout the year. Since the dietary program of cholesterol control went into effect, sales of skimmed milk in the province have increased by 80 percent.

HOUSESTAFF GROUP MOVES TOWARD NATIONAL UNION

The Physicians National Housestaff Association (P.N.H.A.) moved a step closer to forming a national union for interns and residents at the group's second annual National Assembly in Kansas City on October 4 to 6.

Delegates voted to appoint a task force to study the formation of such a union, but struck out a reference committee recommendation to officially endorse the concept.

The language of the resolution was carefully tailored so that local housestaff groups who are not union oriented could still be full affiliates of P.N.H.A.—and also so that the word “union” and its implications would not scare away potential new members.

“We call ourselves a ‘collective bargaining unit,’” one California delegate said. “If we use the word ‘union,’ a lot of our people will be turned off—even though that’s what we’re really doing.”

BAPTISMS CONTINUE IN SPITE OF ROCKETS

In spite of rockets fringing the Phnom Penh airport the treasurer of the Southeast Asia Union Mission flew in to baptize 12 Cambodians. The candidates for baptism had accepted Christ as a result of the church’s mission work in the beleaguered city. All Adventist missionaries have now been evacuated from Cambodia. Most were evacuated to Bangkok, Thailand, temporarily. If after a month the situation in Phnom Penh is not resolved, they will be assigned to other posts in the Far East.

Replacing the Betty Crocker coupon project at the Voice of Prophecy is a new drive to collect Bonus Gifts coupons such as those above. These are found on products made by many different companies and are generally blue or pink.

BONUS GIFTS COUPONS LATEST ADDITION TO V.O.P. FUND-RAISING PROJECTS

Bonus Gifts coupons can now be converted to cash for the Voice of Prophecy radiobroadcast, according to David N. Hartman, treasurer.

The coupons are fairly new and are found on many grocery and household products made by a variety of companies. Regular coupons are usually blue; “extra bonus points” coupons are generally pink. Size of individual units varies widely, and point values range from one to ten or more.

The new project to collect Bonus Gifts coupons takes the place of the previous Betty Crocker coupon project, which ended in December when rising costs forced General Mills to discontinue all club group projects nationwide.

Trading stamps from most major companies are still valuable to the Voice of Prophecy. These, however, should be pasted into the correct trading stamp books before they are sent to the V.O.P.

Other fund-raising ideas are always welcomed by the radiobroadcast team, said Hartman. Among the few coupon items which cannot be redeemed by the V.O.P. are the “cents-off” coupons found in newspapers and magazines or received in the mail. “We have checked with several companies,” explained Hartman, “and they tell us it would be fraudulent for us to redeem these for cash through stores or clearing houses. Therefore, church members should not send ‘cents-off’ coupons to the V.O.P.

“Because the Betty Crocker coupon project has been terminated; we are also advising that these coupons should no longer be sent in.”

For mailing Bonus Gifts coupons, books of trading stamps, and other gifts to the broadcast, the address is: The Voice of Prophecy, Box 55, Los Angeles, California 90053.

This passage, 1 Corinthians 7:36 from the Greek New Testament, is an example of one of the very few instances where scholars are not sure what the original author was trying to say. And the topic here is no less consequential than when to get married. The first word underlined is variously translated as "daughter," "partner in celibacy," "fiancee," and "betrothed." The words underlined next are also open to debate. The Revised Standard Version says, "If his passions are strong;" the New English Bible, "If, that is, his instincts are still strong for him;" and the King James Version, "If she pass the flower of her age." The problem arises partly from the middle word in the expression; it is simply a third person singular, and means he, she, or it. How the verse is ultimately translated, then, might depend on the translator's own ideas about when one should get married.

HOW TO CHOOSE YOUR BIBLE FROM . . .

So Many Versions

by Randolph Neall

Till about 1940 choosing a Bible usually meant deciding between a leather or cloth cover, small type or large. Whatever the binding or trim, the version was the King James, monarch of English Bibles for over three centuries.

Now the King James is just one among many, and choosing means second-guessing hundreds of scholars and translators. And no thorough, up-to-date consumer guide has been available to make that guessing any easier or more intelligent.

By this coming June, however, Zondervan Publishing House will issue—for pastors, youth, anyone—just such a guide, prepared by two New Testament professors from Andrews University.

In the book entitled So Many Versions? the authors, Dr. Sakae Kubo and Dr. Walter Specht, devote some 200 pages to evaluating a score of the most widely used modern versions. A concluding chapter gives specific guidelines on how to choose.

The authors are specialists in biblical languages and translation. Both analyzed Greek biblical manuscripts for their doctoral dissertations at the University of Chicago. Since then Kubo has written a Greek-English lexicon, and Specht has taught a class in Bible translations and manuscripts at Andrews for eight years.

In addition to his doctorate, Specht holds a master's degree from Andrews in biblical languages. Both professors are members of the Society of Biblical Literature.

Among the translations they analyze are the New English Bible, Good News for Modern Man, Phillips' Translation, the New American Standard Bible, the Living Bible, the Modern Language Bible, the Amplified Bible, and the Revised Standard Version.

Each version is given a close-up inspection with numerous sample texts comparisons, and even statistics.

In general the authors regard one-man translations (Phillips, Barclay, etc.) as inferior to the committee versions (the Revised Standard Version and others).

They also see as inferior versions those that try to make the English read like Greek or Hebrew (the New American Standard Bible they place somewhat in this category). Good, readable English won't do that, they point out. They say such versions are usually unreadable, unclear, and often inaccurate.

The authors are just as critical of versions that go to the opposite extreme, the paraphrases. These, the authors say, "are particularly liable to substitute the modern writer's own opinions for the actual teaching of the sacred Scriptures." Of this the Living Bible is especially guilty, according to the authors.

Their standard for each version specifies that the translation should stay as closely to the letter of the original as direct, simple English will allow, English that "grips the heart."

Essentially, then, the professors run a double test on each of the versions they evaluate, one for accuracy, the other for literary grace and readability.

Part of accuracy, they say, is the use of the best ancient manuscripts. This can be something of a problem particularly for New Testament translators, who must choose among 5,000. Translators must also be abreast of linguistic advances revealing new meanings for ancient words.

Specht and Kubo say that both improved manuscripts and linguistic discoveries have to some extent rendered the King James Version obsolete. But in an interview, Specht said that William Tyndale, the principal translator of the King James, would have agreed with competent modern scholars on both choice of manuscripts and meanings for nine verses out of ten.

This means, both authors said in interview, that there is actually little conceptual difference between the King James and any of the good modern versions. The difference is more in wording than meaning, Specht said. "You can get the gospel out of any of them."

For the most part then, the problem is not understanding Peter, Paul, or Moses, but saying it in clear English. And what is "clear" depends almost as much on the reader as the century.

That reader may be a teen-age rock artist or a graying minister. And neither one, Specht and Kubo say, is speaking the 1611 English of the King James.

According to the authors, this, more than anything scholars have learned about manuscripts or meanings, has brought about the proliferation of modern English versions. Beyond the 20 versions they analyze, the authors list 130 others in an annotated bibliography.

Which of the modern versions is best, the authors say, depends on who's reading and why. At any rate, they see no strong contender for the official throne of the King James. The authors show that the best versions each have special strengths—and weaknesses.

Some examples from the chapter on how to choose include:

—The New American Standard Bible, one of the more literal translations on the market, is good for private study, but with its stilted English, poor for pulpit use.

—Kenneth Taylor's Living Bible, written in colorful, easy style, might be great for youth bored with traditional religion, but bad for shaping one's theology.

—The Revised Standard Version, for church use, is the best successor to the King James. It merges historic Protestant traditions with modern vocabulary and the latest in biblical scholarship.

Dr. Walter Specht, above, and Dr. Sakae Kubo of Andrews University have evaluated a score of modern English versions of the Bible in an upcoming book for laymen and ministers.

Specht and Kubo predict that the translation that will come closest to being an all-purpose Bible among Protestants is the New International Version, published in New Testament form in 1973. They say it is generally accurate and its language simple, clear, and dignified.

But, they add, no version, however clear and accurate, can be considered final. With continual changes in our language and advances in scholarship, this must, they say, remain the age of multiple translations.

HOSPITAL LEADERS LOOK AT SPIRITUAL PRIORITIES

Physicians, departmental leaders, head nurses, and administrators met on Sabbath afternoon, April 5, to discuss basic purposes for operating a Seventh-day Adventist hospital.

Some of the comments made during the meeting illustrate the variety of viewpoints and the common concern for enhancing the spiritual impact of the hospital's presence in the community.

"Individually we have to be sure we have within us the inspiration of God from daily communion with Him. Then others will see something that they want," said one Adventist physician.

A nurse commented, "We don't necessarily expect everything to go better here. Things will go wrong. But in our reactions to what happens there should be a difference." An administrator agreed. "As a Christian your manner of dealing with people who make mistakes is different. You take time to understand the other person. There is no way to love someone who is doing wrong other than to know Christ and thus to forgive."

A caution that well-meaning people can be overzealous in their approach to others was sounded by one doctor. "We need to be careful that we don't seem to be trying to make everyone a Seventh-day Adventist. Everything must be presented in an atmosphere of love." A nursing instructor said that students sometimes want to preach a sermon quoting chapter and verse, not realizing that everything they do preaches a sermon. Even simple deeds can convey loving concern for others, she said.

A personnel administrator observed that the strong emphasis on a spiritual witness turns some away from seeking employment at the hospital, while others want to work here because of this emphasis.

"We not only allow our employees to pray with patients," one administrative member said, "We encourage them to do so." There are many hospitals, he added, where this is not permitted.

A suggestion that similar discussions be conducted to involve all employees in the hospital was made. Department heads were also encouraged to take time in departmental meetings to discuss spiritual priorities as they relate to the day-to-day operation of that department.

RADIO CITIZENS OF THE WEEK

Three members of the Rockford Seventh-day Adventist Church have recently been cited by the Byron,

From left, Cecil White, Mrs. Dodd, and Dr. W. D. Dodd are honored as "Citizens of the Week" in Rockford.

Illinois, radio station WYFE as "Citizens of the Week."

Ron Millard of that station routinely selects an individual who has contributed outstanding service to the community and pays tribute publicly to that individual on the air.

Dr. W. D. Dodd, Mrs. Dodd, and Cecil White have been recently chosen as "Citizens of the Week." They are all members of the Rockford Church.

Dr. Dodd was selected for his outstanding humanitarian service. The town of Byron has always gone to bat for their doctor, and when he was scheduled to go to military service, the community rose up and appealed to the government. He did not have to go. Their doctor means a lot to this community.

Mrs. Dodd was saluted for her generosity and gracious hospitality in hosting Byron's foreign exchange student for many months, Paulo Marinho from Puerto Rico.

Cecil White was honored for his progress in the C. White Produce Company from one pickup truck and an idea in 1971 to the present 21 employees and 8 large trucks in 1975. Mention was made that he habitually gives one-tenth of his income to the church and has God as his silent partner. Surely this company cannot fail.

What a refreshing service Ron Millard renders in an era of mass reporting of shocking and horror items which seems to get the most attention. We salute WYFE and Ron Millard for this service.

VISITORS' DAY CELEBRATED AT ROCKFORD

If you had visited the Rockford Seventh-day Adventist Church on March 15, you would have been greeted by five-year-old Gregg Smith who would have given you a beautiful rose or carnation.

Although this was a designated visitors' day, according to Mrs. Joyce Friestad, communication secretary, every Sabbath is visitors' day in the Rockford Church.

Throughout the year a number of special programs are planned to which the public is invited. According to Joyce, the news media is anxious to give excellent coverage to the programs.

Rockford Pastor John Ford and the church members are anxious that the community think of their church as a friendly one. The welcome sign in front of their church is not enough to express their feeling, but the warm smiles and handshakes tell the story as you enter the doors of the sanctuary.

A trio of B.V.A. Gymwits performed for the Rockford Church.

BROADVIEW ACADEMY GYMWITS VISIT ROCKFORD

Broadview Academy Gymwits, tumbling and acrobatic team, visited Rockford on Sabbath, March 8. The group gave an inspirational vesper service at 6:30 p.m. in the church.

Six of the top tumblers from the Rockford Seventh-day Adventist day school joined the B.V.A. group for the evening performance. They were chosen to join the group by merit of accomplishment. The 20 Rockford elementary "Tumble Bugs" are directed by Clyde Whitting, principal.

Along with the tumbling and acrobatic feats there was also a trampoline artist.

The Rockford audience was thrilled with the Gymwits' dexterity and precision in every number. Mr. and Mrs. Burke, directors of the B.V.A. group, are to be commended for their fine leadership.

Hats off to Rockford's Clyde Whitting too, for a job well done.

ROCKFORD SABBATH SCHOOL HAS NEW OUTREACH

The Rockford Sabbath School under the direction of Mrs. Ray Davis is working enthusiastically to create a more meaningful school—one in which the entire Sabbath School membership can feel personally involved. Mrs. Davis also feels a responsibility to the community around the church and has an outreach program of arts and crafts classes each Wednesday that is free and open to the community.

Audrey Wenck, activities director, has many unique plans for the class. Nearly all of the items made by the members are given to the lay activities leader, Dick Karp, to be distributed by the Sunshine Band to the nursing homes that they visit at least once a month.

The class is also taking a survey of the ten nursing homes in the area to determine the number of patients who have no families to provide incidental items for them. Bedroom slippers are being made by the class and donated to these people.

Mrs. Wenck states this is one of her favorite classes. "The atmosphere is happy with a sense of service for others," she said.

TWO PASTORS RETURN FROM SEMINARY

Two pastors have recently returned from the Seminary where they received the M.Div. degree.

Pastor Marlyn Kurtz is the new pastor in the LaPorte district. Before going to the Seminary, he was pastor in the Vincennes district for one year. During his leadership there the new Vincennes Church sanctuary was constructed.

Pastor Kurtz is originally from Bakersfield, California, and his wife Betty Jo was born in Ringgold, Georgia. They have two daughters—Marla, 11, and Esther, 8.

The Vincennes district's new pastor is Albert I. Williams. He was associated with Elder Bill Hawkes in the Columbus district before going to the Seminary.

Pastor Williams was born in Midland, Texas, and comes from a long line of ministers. His wife Sharon was originally from Battle Creek, Michigan.

In 1974 Pastor Williams served on the chaplain's staff at Kettering Hospital while taking clinical pastoral education.

We welcome these two young men and their families back to work in the Indiana Conference.

SOUTHSIDE CHURCH HOLDS FAMILY LIFE CONFERENCE

In cooperation with the Greater Indianapolis Adventist Ministerial Association, the Southside Church has recently been host to visiting ministers with special emphasis in different areas of Christian living on Sabbath afternoons.

On February 22, Elder A. W. Bauer, Lake Union lay activities secretary, presented a film "It's a Great Family" with emphasis on our Christian witness.

On March 1, Chaplain Richard Stenbakken, U.S. Army, presented a marriage enrichment service, "Hot Line," dealing with communication skills.

On March 8, Dr. George Akers, Andrews University, dealt with "Our Schools—Cities of Refuge of our Youth."

These programs formed an introduction to a series of Family Life Conferences held each Sunday evening from March 9 to 30. Keynote speaker on March 9 was Elder Morgan, new conference president. His subject, "Religion in the Home" dealt with counsel on family worship, making the Sabbath a delight, problems when the spouse is not a believer, etc.

A discussion period followed where congregational questions were handled by a panel dedicated to the strengthening of the home. Pastor S.D.H. Seltzer moderated these panels.

Elder Harry Sackett and Elder M. L. Nickless get organized for a visitation program in preparation for the upcoming meetings.

RICHMOND MEETINGS COMING SOON

Elder Harry Sackett, lay activities secretary for the Indiana Conference, will be holding a series of meetings in the Richmond S.D.A. Church, April 26 to May 17.

Elder M. L. Nickless, local district pastor, will be assisting Elder Sackett in these meetings.

If anyone knows of former members or other interests which should be invited to the series, please get the names and addresses to Elder Nickless immediately. His address is: Rt. 1, Box 17 F, Centerville, Indiana 47330.

GYMNICS THRILL KOKOMO

The Gymnic Team of Andrews University presented "Physical Panorama 1975," a program of intricate acrobatics, gymnastics, and tumbling, in the Haworth High School Auditorium at Kokomo on February 16.

During the afternoon, prior to the 90-minute evening program at the high school, the troupe gave two mini-performances in the corridors of the Markland Mall, the largest covered shopping center in the Kokomo area. These mini-shows were advertising efforts for the evening performance.

Mrs. Barbara Crawford, promotion director for the mall, estimated that over 300 persons viewed these free performances.

Following the spectacular, evening program at the high school, this fine group of energetic, Christian youth endeared themselves to the Kokomo audience by staying for another hour, inviting the youth of the audience on stage, where they held a full-scale workshop with the children going through the paces of learning to tumble, balance, handspring, and many other such antics.

From those associated with the Gymnics during their Kokomo stay the unanimous cry was, "We want them back next season."

COL. LEONARD JOHNSON SPEAKS FOR TEMPERANCE DAY

Colonel Leonard W. Johnson, Jr., of the U.S. Air Force Medical Corps challenged the members of the City Temple Church, Detroit, to better living as he addressed them on temperance day.

He stated in his discourse that our loving Father made man in His image and placed into his head the world's greatest and most sophisticated computer which, if it were to be housed by a man-made device, would require the Empire State Building to contain it.

Dr. Johnson received his medical degree from Howard University at the age of 23. He has been in continuous active duty with the United States Air Force since 1958. He has served in Texas, Germany, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, the Philippines, and Alabama.

In June of 1971, after only 12 years and 10 months of active duty, he was promoted to the rank of full colonel, becoming at that time the second youngest full colonel in the U.S. Air Force Medical Corps.

He holds a master's degree in public health from Harvard University. Also he holds membership in several professional societies.

Dr. Johnson has received many military awards and decorations. Among them are the Legion of Merit, which is the nation's seventh highest military award, and the Joint Services Commendation Medal for aeromedical management of the P.O.W. program. He holds the aeronautical rating of chief flight surgeon, the highest flying rating for a physician in the Air Force. He also holds a commercial pilot's license and has accumulated more than 3,500 hours of flying time in over 70 different types of aircraft in the past 15 years.

It is a credit to all young people to have such a distinguished and dedicated gentleman always willing to share his time and experience to the church he loves so much.

AN UNUSUAL INVESTMENT PROJECT

Raymond Cantrell, a member of the Burns Avenue Church in Detroit, has been in the funeral business for ten years. Six years ago he moved the family into the funeral establishment making their home on the upper level.

Eleven months after moving on the premises, the mother of a friend of the family died. His usual hair stylists were occupied and he asked his wife Allene to style the lady's hair. The family was so pleased, Mr. Cantrell decided to ask his wife to style the hair of all his female customers. She consented and was impressed to use this work as her Investment project.

Several years her personal Investment has exceeded $280. Last year she was able to report $150. Thus far this year she has reported $77 for Investment and prays that God will bless her efforts to help hasten the gospel to all the world.

EACH HAS A PLACE

The Lake Region youth department is interested in the affairs of its young people. Particularly is this of importance when it comes to their involvement in church affairs.

As I travel about the conference, I am encouraged when I see the youth, young adults, and even the Pathfinder-age persons being utilized in the church program. It is a wise pastor who recognizes the potential of his under-30 membership and plans and recommends their involvement in church activities.

Recently while at the Detroit Better Living Center Church, I was delighted to see youth involved in the treasury department. Felton Craig, treasurer, appreciates the work of three young ladies who were appointed as his assistants. They are Veola Covington, Joya Jones, and Donna Phipps. He states that he has found them reliable and willing to tackle this type of responsibility.

Daniel Oglesby is another young adult who is serving as treasurer of the Bethel Church in Grand Rapids. There are other youth and young adults who serve regularly as elders, deacons, ushers, and officers in other departments. "The church is organized for service, and in a life of service to Christ connection with the church is one of the first steps . . . There are many lines in which the youth can find opportunity for helpful effort."—Messages to Young People, p. 219.

ORATORICAL PROGRAM PRESENTED IN BENTON HARBOR

Nathaniel Walton, third from right, temperance secretary for the Main Street Church in Benton Harbor, Michigan, has put together an oratorical program which he plans to present throughout the city. Recently the temperance program was given at the Pilgrim Rest and St. Mark Baptist churches. Walton believes the programs will be beneficial to the church and the community. Assisting him are from left, Festus Valentine, James Lee, Theresa Lee, William Freeman, Jr., Russell Tynes, and Willis Epps.

INVESTMENT GOAL SET AT $2,750

The Investment program for the Independence Boulevard Sabbath School in Chicago got off to a good start. The theme for the year based on Psalm 122:1 is "Come and See." The Investment song is "I Will Not Work Half-Hearted for the Lord."

Every division of the Sabbath School is involved with an Investment project and has set a goal it hopes to reach with the help of God. The church goal for Investment for this year is $2,750.

DISTRICT FOUR NEWS NOTES

District Four under the leadership of Elder Don Eckenroth has started a newsletter. It will hopefully serve to unite the 17 churches of the district into a more aggressive witnessing program and bind together members of the various congregations in Christian fellowship. This first newsletter lists the following happenings within the district:

- An all-day program on "Music and Salvation" was presented by Dr. and Mrs. Norman Moll assisted by their six-year-old violinist daughter Susan. The Molls conducted the regular morning service, an afternoon program, and an evening meeting.

- Construction on the new Cedar Lake Church is scheduled to start in July. The new structure will be located directly across Academy Road from the new administration building. Seating capacity is estimated at 800 which will accommodate the many visitors who are on campus for numerous special events during the school year.

- The Reed City Church has a lovely new front entrance and foyer. The new carpeting for it and the sanctuary was donated by Mrs. Ivy Nedel in memory of her husband Louis.

- The Evert Church recently installed new draperies at the windows and on each side of the rostrum.

- Riverdale recently completed the interior sanctuary of the church with new paneling, light fixtures, pews, and chancel furniture.

- The Twin Cities Church at Alma has a new electronic Allen organ. It is a gift from Dr. and Mrs. V. Lowell Sheline and Mrs. Sheline, Sr., in honor of the late Mr. Sheline. A new public address system has also been installed.

- A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking is being scheduled in Chippewa Hills for April 7 to 11. Dr. Gordon DeVries of Stanton, Dr. V. Lowell Sheline of Ithaca, and Dr. Ray Davis of Ferris State College will lecture. Dr. Davis, not an Adventist, is in charge of the college's Campus Health Center.

- Another Five-Day Plan is scheduled for Ferris State College April 14 to 18. It is being sponsored by the Adventist-oriented on-campus club, "Experience a New You." This was started two years ago by Don Freeman for the express purpose of evangelistic projects. Seventh-day Adventists keep the club going with a lot of help from Dr. Davis and Elder Roscoe Nelson, the local pastor.

- Elder John Loor, of the conference ministerial department, held a successful series of evangelistic meetings at the Riverdale Church March 10 to 14. Several nights he spoke to a "full house."

- A series of evangelistic meetings began in Twin Cities on March 23. Local pastor Dean Burns is the speaker, William Brown of Mt. Pleasant the song leader, and Elder Freberin P. Baerg of Ithaca will coordinate the campaign.

- The Clare Church is in the process of covering the city of Clare with the book Steps to Christ.

- Big Rapids is planning on having a church school this fall. Any interested persons with children should contact Elder Roscoe Nelson at (616) 796-3012.

Elder Richard Broome, left, pastor of the Coldwater-Quincy Church, and Dr. John Heffelfinger, share a Stop-Smoking manual used in the recent five-day program in Coldwater. The Lutheran doctor likes sharing billing in the Adventist-sponsored clinics.

GUENTHER WILL ADDRESS FEDERATIONS

Carl E. Guenther

Guest speaker for this spring's Community Service Federation meetings will be Elder Carl E. Guenther of the General Conference. He is the world leader of this phase of the church's Christian service.

The federation meetings will be held from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., April 20 to 29. All will be held in the local church of the cities listed below except at Holly and Bay City. The Adelpian Academy chapel will be the meeting place at Holly and the Community Service Center for Bay City.

Luncheon will immediately follow the morning meeting. Host churches in lower Michigan will supply drink and dessert for the meal but persons attending will be expected to supply their own lunch. In the Upper Peninsula potluck meals are planned. All participating in these meetings are asked to bring a dish of food to share plus their own table service.

The dates and places for the various federation meetings are as follows: Southeastern—April 20, Holly. Eastern—April 21, Bay City. Central—April 22, Grand Ledge. Southwestern—April 23, Berrien Springs Village. Western—April 24, Grand Rapids. Upper Peninsula—April 27, Escanaba. Northern—April 28, Frankfort. Midwestern—April 29, Mt. Pleasant.

NON-S.D.A. PHYSICIAN ASSISTS WITH 5-DAY PLAN

Dr. John Heffelfinger, M.D., a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Coldwater, finds the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking a worthwhile part of practicing medicine. A local pediatrician, he has given of his time for the five nightly presentations and for the three follow-up meetings to the Five-Day Plans conducted in Coldwater.

Last fall Ben Boggess, the local pastor, invited the doctor to assist with the stop-smoking clinic he was planning. The doctor agreed and so far has assisted at two of them. At the last program, held February 17 to 21, 75 came for the first night, 50 completed the course and of that number, 43 had quit smoking. A number of church members have also assisted the pastor and the doctor in these plans.

In the follow-up meetings which were held the three Monday nights following the regular session, the "Weighing What You Want to Weigh" program was presented to give tips on weight control to those who were getting heavier after stopping smoking.

Dr. Heffelfinger will again assist in the next Five-Day Plan scheduled for June 9 to 13. He is also considering what part he might have in the new General Conference-designed health-evangelistic program "Century 21."

12 BAPTIZED AT END OF MEETINGS

The above 12 persons were baptized at the end of meetings recently held in Wilson by conference evangelist Bob Collar and Jerold B. Crow, the local pastor. The two ministers, back right, report that additional baptisms are expected as a continuing follow-up program develops.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Larabee

ACTIVE PAIR CELEBRATE 60TH

In celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Larabee of Muskegon were honored recently at an open house held in their home.

For 59 years, the couple have been active members in the Muskegon Church and in charge of distributing health foods for the church. In appreciation of their faithful service the church presented a special vesper slide program on animals in their honor. The Larabees were given a camera and a book to commemorate the occasion.

The Larabees have two daughters, Mrs. Arlene Loree of Barryton, Michigan, and Mrs. Evelyn Allen of Ketchikan, Alaska; nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Carl Cofield and his dog team of Siberian huskies take a run around a practice track across from the Cofield's home. He used five of the dogs and a sled to pull students around the school playground.

HUSKIES AT CHURCH SCHOOL

When Carl Cofield, principal of the eight-grade church school in Holland, brought five Siberian huskies to school with him, a reporter from the Evening Sentinel newspaper was on hand to take pictures.

Cofield, his wife Mary, and daughter Dawn enjoy dog sledding as a family hobby. The Cofields raise Siberian huskies at their home. On weekends they like to use the dogs and camp out. "Sled dogs are a family sport," said Cofield, "we work together to get them ready."

Cofield started dog sledding several years ago when he was attending Atlantic Union College in Massachusetts. He met some people who had sled dogs and started with one dog. "One dog wasn't enough to pull a sled," said Cofield, so he raised more.

At the present time he has nine Siberian huskies and uses seven on his team to pull the sled.

Members of the Great Lakes Sled Dog Association, Cofield and his wife often race on Sundays. The races are held all over Michigan and the persons that race come from all walks of life and have a great variety of occupations from lawyers and doctors to truck drivers.

Youngsters and women also race. Cofield's wife Mary took first place honors with the team in a race last year in Baldwin.

Cofield begins training his dogs in the fall when the weather cools with a three-wheeled gig. When the snows come, he uses the sled in Allegan woods where he also enjoys just running the dogs.

The newspaper photographed the dogs pulling Cofield on just such a run and printed the picture with a sizable story on his hobby. Another photo showed Cofield and his lead dog, Grey Wolf, with school children. Both articles linked him with the Seventh-day Adventist school.

Cofield brought the dogs to school to give the children rides and acquaint them with the eagerness and discipline of the team. The children quickly made friends with the dogs and both students and principal seemed to enjoy their educational instruction.

NEWS NOTES

- Dr. C. W. Crawford, a Green Bay family physician and Dr. Robert Carlson, cardiovascular surgeon, were interviewed on two WBAY radio "News Line" programs during February's Heart Month. Program moderator Jim Marshall interviewed the doctors and then opened the lines for phoned-in questions from the listening audience. The phones were still ringing after the first program, so the doctors were asked to return for a second program.

- Dr. Wesley McNeal, a member of the Green Bay Church and president of the church school board, was named to a 13-member committee formed by the Green Bay School Board to study drug, alcohol, and smoking problems in the school district.

EVERY MEMBER EVANGELISM

"To spread the gospel, every member of the church is needed. The world is dying while waiting for help in this hour of darkness. We should be asking ourselves, 'What am I doing for Jesus?'" said Robert Dale, conference president.

Dale issued that challenge to pastors and lay pastors gathered at Wisconsin Academy to review the Every Member Evangelism program which Wisconsin is using.

Derek Mustow from Southern Publishing Association described the uses of missionary journals in personal evangelism.

"The angel in the third angel's message represents the Seventh-day Adventist Church," Dale continued. "Note that it is flying through the heavens, not creeping along.

"Unless we are out working, what good are we? You and I need to become involved. We can begin on our knees. We can't just tell people about Jesus, it must come because He means so much to us," Dale said.

The Every Member Evangelism program is an organizational system to involve every willing member in active training and evangelism.

Consisting of the pastor and leaders from every department, the evangelism council meets for long range planning. The pastor is the director of all phases of church work.

The lay pastor is appointed by the local church to be the assistant to the pastor.

The lay activities leader/interest file secretary receives every interest name and gives them to section leaders for visiting. He is the general director of the total witnessing program under close direction of the pastor and lay pastor.

Section leaders serve as captains over the areas they are assigned. They will visit each name they receive or give it to a visiting team in their section. After the visit is made, a report will be made to the lay activities leader.

The district interest file secretaries will gather at least quarterly to plan and coordinate the total evangelistic thrust of the church. A smaller group called the pastoral staff, will meet monthly or more often to assist the total membership in becoming ready for and active in service.

After a brief review of the plan, discussion groups enlarged and refined the suggestions, then reported back to the main assembly.

The reporters brought out many strong points in the plan and offered suggestions for implementing it.

"Unity in the church is necessary," said one. "We discussed using prayer meeting or the Sabbath School class for the council to organize evangelistic outreach. The lay pastor should not depend on the pastor to get this program going."

Pastors and lay pastors left the meeting with the conference president's remarks ringing in their ears, "If someone asks for another chance, the Lord will say, 'My Church was the agency through which it was to be extended.' The Lord is ready to come. He's waiting for the church to get ready."

NEW CHAIRMEN APPOINTED FOR TWO DEPARTMENTS

The religion and communication departments at Andrews University will have new chairmen this summer according to Dr. Joseph Smoot, A.U. vice president for academic affairs.

With the religion department will be Carl Coffman from Pacific Union College, California; and with the communication department, William E. Garber, former journalism instructor at Southern Missionary College, Collegedale, Tennessee.

Both will assume positions now held by the acting chairmen, Dr. W. L. Richards, religion, and Dr. Robert Yingst, communication.

In California, Coffman was both a full professor and a member of a committee responsible for coordinating the screening and training of young ministers throughout California, Nevada, Utah, and Arizona.

Coffman was a pastor in northern California for ten years before joining Pacific Union College in 1960. He received both his master of arts and master of divinity degrees at Andrews.

William Garber is currently completing his dissertation for a doctor of philosophy degree in journalism at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. He holds a master of arts degree from Michigan State and a bachelor of arts from Andrews.

Garber taught English at Monterey Bay Academy, an Adventist academy in California, before teaching in Tennessee.

A.U. GYMNICS PERFORM

Andrews University's touring tumbling team, the Gymnics, gave a home performance of "Physical Panorama 1975," a matinee and an evening performance of intricate acrobatics, in Johnson Auditorium, Sunday, April 6.

So far this season, their seventh, the team has made a dozen appearances in Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan, including most high schools in this area.

During their performance, the Gymnics use uneven bars, a teeter board, a trampoline, and—for handstands—blocks and chairs. Semiclassical music goes with the bounding and balancing; and costumes, skits, and humor vary the program.

Of the 200 students who tried for the team this year, 38 were chosen. Even these will have to face the same screening next year if they choose to join again, says the coach, Dr. Dan Klein, chairman of the physical education department.

Tryouts are limited to those with passing grades in all subjects and good citizenship records. Once on, there is no pay, no academic credit. They practice four nights a week for three months before starting performances in mid-winter.

On the road, the Gymnics spend more time off the stage for Christian witness than for on-stage performance. "We don't go just to give a show," Klein says.

The Gymnics, dressed for the formal part of their program of acrobatics, singing, and speaking, are a full team of witnessing young people.

Even on stage, team members pause to tell how they keep fit and maintain the high level of unity and cooperation required to perform well as a team.

The Gymnics endeavor to represent all-round physical, mental, spiritual, and social growth—"the total being," says the coach. Their motto is "Living Temples for God."
