TRUSTS AND THE FUTURE of YOUR Family

"What will happen to my children and how will they receive a Christian education if both of us should be killed?" is one of the most frequently asked questions on the part of parents with minor children. An excellent way to assure your dependent children of a Christian education is to make provision for their future by using an educational trust in combination with what is called a pour-over Will.

All the money in the world changes hands in every generation. The loss of a husband and father by death is always a tragedy which leaves the survivors without the head of the family's counsel and support. Out of consideration for his family, a mature, responsible husband will do everything within his power to make certain that he has well thought out plans which have been legally drafted and signed for the administration of his business affairs in the event of his death.

In most cases, a Will in combination with a revocable trust agreement can provide an economical and simple way to fulfill your obligation for your surviving dependents, and ultimately will help the church fulfill its world mission.

Seventh-day Adventists have a unique service available to them as members of the conference. Your Conference Association can serve as your trustee if they have a beneficial interest in the trust. When trusts are used to distribute property at death, both time and administrative expenses are minimized. In addition to this, you can provide your dependents with management protection and financial counsel. It is reassuring to know that Christian people of integrity will be caring for your business affairs as you have directed in the terms of the trust agreement. Your Conference Association has individuals who are well qualified to assist you and your attorney in planning your affairs to provide future security for those you love and to help the church fulfill the commission of our Lord. Faithful stewardship provides dividends for eternity.

LAKE UNION OFFICE ADDS A NEW STAFF MEMBER

The McKinstry family

James McKinstry has been added to the Lake Union Conference working force as the manager of Home Health Education Service and associate director of the publishing department.

He comes to us from Richardson, Texas, where he served as the HHES manager in the Southwestern Union for three and a half years. He has also served as assistant manager of the Upper Columbia Book and Bible House in Spokane, Washington, and treasurer of the Pacific Union HHES in San Jose, California.

His wife Pearl is an R.N. and they have two children, Laurence, 21, and Annetta, 18, both students.

We welcome the McKinstrys to the Lake Union!

COMMON CATECHISM TO BE PUBLISHED IN U.S.

The first Christian catechism ever written jointly by Roman Catholic and Protestant scholars is ready for publication in English. The 720-page summary of faith, primarily for adults, is the product of 40 theologians and educators who worked quietly in Europe for five years. Differences between Catholic and Protestant traditions have not been cancelled. The Common Catechism: A Book of Christian Faith covers doctrines, church history, biblical interpretation, ethics, ecclesiastical administration, missions, and contemporary issues. Social and religious issues dealt with in the book include birth control, euthanasia, marriage and divorce, and world peace.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL FIRST EXPOSURE TO JAZZ MASS

For the first time in its history the gothic vaults of St. Patrick's Cathedral resounded to the rhythms of a jazz mass. The mass was composed and performed by Mary Lou Williams. The music was justified on the basis that it reflected "the sufferings of a people" and is a look forward "to the promise and hope of Easter." The opportunity for having the jazz mass at the cathedral came when Msgr. James Rigney, rector of the cathedral, asked principals of Catholic high schools for suggestions as to how young people might take part in activities at the cathedral. Rigney described the hour-long mass as "an inspiring, lovely, religious experience."

SALARIED M.D.'S VOTE FOR UNION

Salaried attending physicians have chosen an independent union to represent them at a nonprofit Long Island, New York, hospital. The Attending Physicians Association of the City Hospital Center of Elmhurst, New York, has been certified by the National Labor Relations Board to represent approximately 150 full-time and regular part-time physicians.

ADVENTIST CHURCH GIVING INCREASED

In spite of a troubled economy, mission giving among Seventh-day Adventists during 1974 was up by 11 percent and tithe by 11.5 percent, reports Martin E. Kemmerer, undertreasurer for the General Conference.

According to his report, members in the United States and Canada gave $17,536,385 for missions last year, while the tithe amounted to $142,188,721. These figures do not reflect contributions made to local church building funds, parochial school support, the disaster aid program, or other projects of local nature.

L.L.U. HEART TEAM RETURNS FROM SOUTH VIETNAM

Just returned from their second trip in eight months to Saigon Adventist Hospital in South Vietnam is the Loma Linda University Overseas Heart Surgery Team.

Patients from all walks of life were operated on including orphans, young, old, farmers, policemen, and housewives. The team operated on a total of 42 patients without a single death.

40 JUNGLE CHAPELS FOR BORNEO

With 225 jungle chapels dotting the island of Borneo, appeals for 101 more have come in to the General Conference.

Last year the people of Borneo put up 35 chapels in three weeks, reports Robert L. Grady, SAWS representative in Southeast Asia. This year, in the last two weeks of June, Adventist members in Sarawak, Borneo, plan to build another 40 to 50 chapels if funds for lumber are available.

Transporting building materials proved a mountainous task last year. Grady reports that in a number of villages the lumber had to be hand carried distances of two to five miles.

"We added this up," he says, "and found that in each of these villages the average of 20 to 30 people helping had walked with wet lumber on their backs between 1,000 and 1,500 miles, or 50 to 70 miles each!"

Chapels now cost $1,000 each, the SAWS man says. The mission is hard put to know where to secure the funds for so many chapels. Where chapels have been built attendance has already doubled, he adds.

Ninety villagers signed one chapel request arriving at mission headquarters. Borneo is largely Muslim, and other religions cannot be taught except in a church or chapel.

bread—they are all there, only more of them. My mind, body, and soul were shocked repeatedly. Theirs is not the same world we live in. It is an entirely different place, a different way of life—more accurately, of existence.

I remember the slender girl, perhaps ten, at the railway station. Her hands were outstretched to me in a gesture of want. I was eating lunch at an open window. The remaining vegetable patty on my plate went into her hands, and pocket, as she walked off with a grateful smile. Another passenger passed a banana through the barred window. Those bars seemed to be symbolic—the barrier between their world and ours. Only we, not they, can cross it.

I think of the boy who picked from the dust a discarded banana leaf after its use as a dinner plate. His tongue licked it hungrily for the drops of sauce remaining. A veteran missionary told me that pigs and monkeys are the only animals who eat banana skins and only once had he seen a cow touch them. Yet he had seen a man pick up banana skins thrown out of a train window and gulp them down. Hunger—unbelievable, desperate, overpowering, gnawing.

“There shall be famines.” They have come to this world in full force, in worldwide dimensions. Never have so many been so hungry, especially in the third world.

What can we do? What must Christians do? Is our Christianity real? Will it work? Is the Seventh-day Adventist belief a faith that works in love? We must be doing something—now.

Adventists may wish to choose one of the following ways of sharing with a hungry world through SAWS (Seventh-day Adventist World Service):

1. Skip one meal each week
2. Eat one meal less, daily
3. Fast one day a month
4. Eliminate desserts

The money thus saved can be deposited in a SAWS bank to enlarge our relief offering.

Jesus said, “If any will come after me, let him deny himself and follow me.” Here is a practical application, test of the Christian religion. SAWS is organized to take, multiply, and deliver your help to the third world, where it is needed most and will do the most good.

WHAT SAWS HAS DONE

What has SAWS done in 1974 and early 1975 to aid the victims of disaster and famine?

An epidemic of meningitis raged in Sao Paulo, Brazil, taking 2,000 lives. A telephone call came to SAWS, Washington, stating that the specific medicine needed for treatment was no longer available. Within 24 hours SAWS had 10,000 capsules of the medicine on the way by air to our hospital. An additional 160,000 doses were subsequently sent by air.

An earthquake shook Lima, Peru, killing 100 persons, leaving 4,000 families homeless. The first cable received by a government agency in Washington (US AID) stated that SAWS (OFASA in Peru) was distributing eight tons of food to victims.

A famine spread through North Central Africa, known as the Sahel area. SAWS sent a specialist to one

For the fifth time in two decades I traveled through Asia. It is the greatest of the continents, with the largest land mass, the most people, and the deepest human need. Asia is a major part of the third world—the world of developing nations, of the poor and sick and hungry.

After four visits one might expect an immunity to sights of suffering. Not so! Families living and dying on city streets, rickshaw men of skin and bones pulling unbelievable loads, aged persons lying prone in the dust gasping for breath, children begging for affected country, Ethiopia, to help organize a food distribution program. It is still under way. A SAWS agricultural scientist was sent to survey the needs of other Sahel countries. The result is an irrigated crop production project in Chad, to extend at least three and a half years and to involve $398,000, the largest share of the funds coming through grants from other agencies.

Many other relief activities are described in a four-page journal, the SAWS Reporter, 1975 edition. Copies will be distributed free, one to each family in every church not later than Sabbath, May 3. A detailed report of 1974 SAWS relief shipments is included. Approximately 50 countries were aided with clothing, bedding, food, and medicines.

It is to the hungry of the world that the church through SAWS must address its efforts in 1975-76.

Man's inhumanity to man is his greatest sin. Man's humanity to man is his greatest virtue. Let all Seventh-day Adventist Christians join on Sabbath, May 10, to demonstrate in one great hour of sharing, we are good neighbors of the world in hunger and need. A million dollars is not too much when millions are hungry and starving.

Lake Union Leadership Seminar

by Frank L. Jones, Secretary

Thirty-five leaders met in the Ramada Inn in Elkhart, Indiana, for a four-day Christian Leadership Seminar, April 6 to 10. The group included the local conference officers, educational directors, academy principals, Andrews University administrators, Battle Creek and Hinsdale Hospitals administrators, and the Lake Union officers and educational directors.

R. R. Bietz, retired former vice president of the General Conference, was the director of the seminar. D. W. Holbrook, president of the Home Study Institute, and Dr. J. W. Crawford of the Loma Linda University School of Health ably assisted. This seminar was a unique experience for the leadership group of the Lake Union. It was a Christian management seminar developed for and delivered by well-prepared Seventh-day Adventist leaders.

It was clear from the first devotional message by R. R. Bietz that this was to be a memorable occasion. Dr. Crawford gave outstanding help in the physical fitness area. Dr. Holbrook dealt with the management area. From the rising bell at 6:30 a.m. until the final word at 9 p.m. this seminar was a fast pace of special presentations, overhead projection illustrations, films on management, and concise lectures. A very special notebook was developed for each administrator, as well as a new book of principles of church leadership from the pen of Ellen G. White. R. R. Bietz joined A. L. White of the E. G. White Estate and put together this priceless 77-page document. It is amazing to notice that the instruction in the Spirit of Prophecy is so very up-to-date.

The fellowship of this seminar was superb. The class participation was very good. Each worker left the seminar with a pledge to God to make his ministry a more effective one. Lake Union was number nine in a year-long series of Christian Leadership Seminars conducted in each Union Conference territory in the North American Division.

The 13-member group, Heritage II, is coming to Hinsdale on May 3.

HERITAGE II GOSPEL SINGERS COMING TO HINSDALE

Heritage II, one of the newest groups in gospel music, will be in Hinsdale on May 3, at the Seventh-day Adventist Church, 201 N. Oak, at 6:30 p.m.

Heritage II is one of the widest traveling full-time gospel singing groups in the country today. Based in Placerville, California, this self-supporting group spends ten months of the year traveling. This season they will present over 240 concerts mainly in the eastern and southern parts of the United States.

Their director, Richard Lange, says that the "purpose of the 13-member group is summed up in John 12:32, to lift Christ up so that He will draw all men to Him." Heritage II hopes to help many see and understand Christ in a new way and to encourage them in a closer walk with Jesus Christ.

CHURCH SCHOOL FOLLOWS BLUEPRINT

The Beverly Hills church school is happy for another good year. The teachers and the school board working together are trying to provide a school such as is spoken of in Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students, pp. 166, 167, where it says that the Lord would have His children gathered out from those schools where worldly influences prevail and into those where God's Word is made the foundation of education.

The Beverly Hills school is located on the far south side of Chicago. It is a half block from the city bus line. It has a gymnasium and a large enclosed playground. Each classroom has its own library and is carpeted. Beverly Hills is a small school with a big aim—To provide its students with a high quality education within a Christian context. Under the North American Division Policy it was given an "A" rating among the Lake Union smaller schools.

They are now planning to open a third room next fall so that the classes may be kept small in order to better serve the students.

For further information you may call: William Jemison, school board chairman, (312) 238-0376; Robert Warren principal, (312) 779-5158; or Elder Hampton White, (312) 560-0503.

Spring registration will be in May. Applications are now available at the school.

to the Czechoslovakian S.D.A. Church at the close of their Ingathering campaign this past year.

Tim, who left parents and friends behind the Iron Curtain in 1969, told how his first thoughts in the free world were, "Where is my home," thinking of those same words in the title of the national anthem of Czechoslovakia.

In December 1973, Tim was residing in Berwyn. He was surprised on Christmas Eve when a lady rang his doorbell, speaking English, and asking for an offering. She was Vera Prokop, a member of the Czechoslovakian S.D.A. Church, herself having only recently come from Czechoslovakia. Grateful for the American privilege of doing missionary work, Vera had learned a few English phrases and had entered into the "new experience" of Ingathering. After attempting to communicate with Tim, Vera learned to her delight that they both spoke the same Bohemian language, and she then told him about the Sabbath-keeping, Bohemian-speaking church not far from his apartment.

Tim was baptized in July after many Bible study sessions and question-answer sessions with his faithful Christian friend, Vera Prokop and other members of the Czechoslovakian Church. As he came to the end of his conversion story, Tim stated that finally after four years he found out where his home is, and his desire is that others like him will discover that "heaven is my home." He is now giving Bible studies too.

INDIANA CAMP MEETING 1975

R. R. Bietz

It is now time to begin to make plans for attending camp meeting. For spiritual renewal and a little glimpse of what heaven will be like, plan to come and spend the whole week.

A portion of the spiritual blessing for the Indiana camp meeting this year will be provided by Elder R. R. Bietz. He will be the evening speaker for the first half of the week and you must not miss his messages on the Christian home.

Elder Bietz comes to us from California where he has ably served as an administrator for many years, more recently as a vice president of the General Conference. He is well known on the West Coast for his inspiring messages on ways the family can prepare for heaven. We are happy that he can share this counsel with us.

Also coming from the West Coast is the Voice of Prophecy group. Their messages and reports are always an inspiration. This year two of the Voice of Prophecy evangelists will be here on Wednesday. They are Elder Fordyce Detamore and Elder Bill Hoffman. Also coming with them is Organist Norm Nelson. Their visit will be a highlight of the camp meeting session.

Remember the date for camp meeting in Indiana is June 13 to 21. Come and spend the week with the family.

William L. Woodruff Ministerial Secretary

JOHN LOOR TO SPEAK TO YOUTH AT CAMP MEETING

John Loor

We're happy to inform our youth that Elder John Loor, ministerial secretary of the Michigan Conference, will be our nightly speaker at the youth tent, June 16 to 21.

Elder Loor is an outstanding youth speaker having held weeks of prayer in many of our academies and colleges. For a number of years he was the pastor of the college church at Southern Missionary College. He also was a pastor in Virginia, Maryland, Texas, and California.

The Loors have two children, a son who is a ministerial intern in central California, and a daughter who is married to a ministerial intern in Michigan.

The youth meetings will begin at 7:30 each evening. We know our youth will not want to miss Elder Loor's messages.

I.A. PLANS FOR ACADEMY DAY

Monday, May 5, is the day set aside for young people interested in attending Indiana Academy to become acquainted with the school's faculty, campus, and school program.

The day's activities will begin with tours of the campus at 9:30 a.m. followed by an Achievement Fair in the gym, as well as various other activities throughout the day.

It is according to God's plan that all of our youth should receive the best possible Christian education. Indiana Academy is striving to prepare young people physically, mentally, and above all, spiritually for lives of service. We would like to invite and encourage all Indiana eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders from

AUCTION BENEFITS PROPOSED CHURCH SCHOOL

Adventists and their friends gathered that afternoon in the Roosevelt Homes Center. Hopefully they would be able to find something at the auction they would be able to bid upon. As members in the audience anxiously eyed and waited for the items they wanted to come up for bid, the gavel sounded and the auctioneer shouted, "Going once! Going twice! Gone!"

Marion Kirk, supervisor for the department of public aid for the State of Illinois, added appeal for the items being auctioned for the East St. Louis church school benefit program.

Members brought toasters, radios, tape recorders, and miscellaneous items. One parent was so determined that the goal be realized she took away one of the family's favorite pastime items, their television set.

Roberta Simpson strolled away wrapped in a very beautiful item that was up for bids—a hand-crocheted bedspread. Elder Vern Joyner, pastor, was right by distributing a tract along with the purchase to each nonmember.

The members of the Reid Memorial Church in East St. Louis are hopeful that God will bless their efforts and that a church school will be evident in the fall.

It was 1947 when Ann Broughton became treasurer of her church on the east side of Detroit. She had no idea she would assume that office for 27 consecutive years.

On March 15, Mrs. Broughton was honored for her years of faithful service at the Burns Avenue Church. On behalf of the church, Pastor T. M. Kelly presented her with a plaque. Isaac R. Palmer, treasurer for the Lake Region Conference, presented her with a plaque and a monetary gift. Her successor, Mrs. Emma Harrington, gave her a corsage.

PATHFINDERS GO ON TV

Several Pathfinder members of the City Temple Planets and the Burns Avenue Falcons made their television debut on Channel 56 in Detroit on March 3. Serving as moderator was Pastor Norman Miles, pastor of the Ecorse-Belleville district. They discussed the philosophy of the Pathfinder organization and displayed some of the items made in their arts and crafts classes. ## THE VOICES OF PRAISE

The Voices of Praise, a 14-member singing group from Andrews University, will have programs in the Hinsdale, Illinois, and Detroit, Michigan, areas.

A vesper program will be at the Hinsdale Church, Friday, May 9 at 7:45 p.m. The following weekend, May 17, the group will have the 11 a.m. worship service at the Detroit Metropolitan Church and an area-wide vesper program at 7 p.m. also at the Metropolitan Church. All are welcome.

The programs include such well known favorites as "How Great Thou Art," "Near the Cross," and "Surely Goodness and Mercy." Also included will be newer and less familiar pieces, such as, "I Wonder Why He Should Love Me," "Lost in the Night," and "Like a Wanderin' Sheep."

Begun in the fall of 1973, the Voices of Praise perform under the auspices of the A.U. Campus Ministry Center. Currently the group is directed by Jim and Donna Reinking.

Since its founding the group has sung for Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Church of God, United Methodist, Reformed, and our own Seventh-day Adventist churches. Programming has extended into all four states in the Lake Union.

VAN KNAUSS TO PLAY FOR TROY DEDICATION

Van Knauss, a former organist for Faith for Today and presently with Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Maryland, will be one of the special guests invited to the dedication services of the Troy Church, May 16 and 17.

Van Knauss, as guest organist, will participate in a special vesper service Sabbath the 17th. Area musicians and the Troy Church choir, directed by Mrs. Flora Sherman, will also have parts during the two-day celebration.

Elder Robert D. Moon, Michigan Conference president, will present a special consecration service Friday evening. Elder Francis W. Wernick, Lake Union Conference president, is slated to speak for the morning service, and a former Detroit area pastor, Elder N. R. Dower, secretary of the General Conference Ministerial Association will have the 4 p.m. dedication service Sabbath afternoon.

The Troy Church, built at a cost of $750,000 six years ago, is a "wonderful memorial to God's glory and honor," Paul M. Matacio, its current pastor reports. He invites all former members and friends within driving distance to share in the "inspiration and blessing the occasion will afford."

Upper Peninsula District, gave the worship hour message. After a fellowship dinner he officiated at the baptismal service.

The laity had joined with the local pastor, Phil Hopkins, in working to contact and give studies which brought three people to make decisions to join the Ironwood Church.

Other studies are being given in the same manner and Sabbath morning finds these interested persons attending Sabbath School and church services. Pastor Hopkins finds that it helps to set a date for baptism near the end of each quarter so that as the laity and pastor work together they have a common objective to reach and a goal in sight to work toward.

Hopkins reports that the Ironwood members "praise the Lord" for the current success and look forward to more members entering into the soul-winning program.

CONTEST EARNINGS GO TO BUILD CHURCH

A long range program to build a new church for the Long Lake congregation was voted recently by the membership to enable them "to expand and grow." The building fund received a big boost when Catherine DeMoss turned in $500. This was the prize of a promotional contest of a local grocery store and was awarded to her just one week after the action by the church to build. Mrs. DeMoss is shown in the center of the above picture with the five one hundred dollar bills she won.

Sabbath, March 22, was a high day for the Ironwood Church because of the baptism of three new members. Elder Jerold Crow of Wilson, superintendent of the

LAY COMMITTEE PROBES CHURCH OPERATION

The Michigan Conference Advisory Committee for 1975 met at Grand Ledge Academy on March 16 to study ways of speeding up the work of the church.

For the first time since the Advisory Committee was organized the members were divided into subcommittees to study specific items, then reconvened to report on their discussion and to make recommendations.

The subjects studied by the subcommittees were: 1) kinds of local church training programs for lay members, 2) church membership growth and losses, 3) church-operated schools, and 4) proper and effective relations between the church board and the pastor. During the discussions the three conference officers, Elders Moon, Keymer, and Carle visited the various groups to listen and to give counsel and suggestions when needed.

The Advisory Committee is composed of members of the conference committee, five departmental secretaries, district superintendents, and leading lay members of each district.

Elder Moon meets with the Advisory Committee to discover what suggestions they have regarding the improvement of the work of the church in Michigan.

The 47 lay members who served on this 68-member committee and the districts from which they come are: 1) Dr. J. B. Jablonski and Dr. D. A. Fahrback; 2) Dr. D. Page Cook and Bruce Jenkins; 3) Jack Nash, Arthur Haynor, and Theron Hosford; 4) Jim Orrison and Vann Grimley; 5) Harold Moll, Dr. E. Elmendorf, and Joe Fraser; 6) Dr. O. Steward Erhard, Dale Manning, Ronald Gruesbeck, and Fred Scheuneman; 7) Kenneth Cole, Dr. Harley Anderson, and Naim Mashni; 8) Mrs. Edwin

The subcommittee on "Kinds of Local Church Training Programs for Lay Members" with Elder Victor Brown, superintendent of the Grand Rapids District listens as Steve Bielas, a layman from Traverse City makes a comment.

The subcommittee on "Proper and Effective Relations Between Church Board and Pastor" with Elder James Hayward, superintendent of the Battle Creek District, pauses while Elder Moon, seated with his back to the camera, makes a comment based on his experience as a pastor and an administrator.

Buck, Harold Cowell, Mrs. Claire Luke, Dr. Richard Macri, Dr. Robert Pierson, and Adrian Roosenberg; 9) Dr. Frank Harrell, Dale Lamb, Kenneth Tozer; 10) Larry Crandall, Herbert Keller, Wilbur Grimes, Bob Shaffer, and Dr. A. Patt; 11) Allen Breakie and Kent Bermingham; 12) Bernard Beard, Robert Carson, William Meek, Michael Wiener, Dr. Arthur Weaver, and Jack Chaffin.

Lay persons serving on the conference committee who were not listed in the above but who are members of the lay advisory committee are: Steve Bielas, Leon Slikkers, Wilma Mayor, Dr. E. Hildebrand, Dr. C. Omans, and Dr. J. Smoot.

Dialoguing with "quitters" after the program, Dr. Guild fields questions and enthusiastic reports of success.

HOSPITAL BACKS "STOP SMOKING" FOR EMPLOYEES

When administrators of the Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton heard that one of their interns was helping people to stop smoking in Adrian, more than 50 miles to the west, they invited him to bring his help closer to home.

Dr. Gordon Guild had been asked by Elder Richard Broome to assist him with the clinic. When he was discussing some of his experiences with the staff of the Riverside Hospital the administrators wondered if the doctor wouldn't hold one for the hospital's staff.

Twenty-five signed up when the announcement was made, but the hospital's public relations department, with approval, opened the clinic to the general public. As a result about 100 persons attended. Many of them were directed to the clinic by their physicians who had heard about it at the hospital.

Friendly banter among the participants helped to tie the group together. Upon entering the cafeteria where the sessions were held members would greet each other with: "Well, how many did you smoke?" Sometimes humor was injected into the answers such as: "None, but I have a pack." Generally participants reported at least some measure of success with the encouragement to "hang in there" coming from all around.

People reported different ways of fighting their cravings. One man who had smoked two packs a day for more than 50 years was depending largely on lollypops to help him out. Three of the ladies present admitted they were using pacifiers to help them overcome.

Hospital guards would gather at the door to watch the slides and movies. Some gradually slipped into the room to hear more clearly.

A poll was taken the first night to see how many packs a day were being smoked and for how long people had been smoking. When the results were tabulated and translated into dollars and cents, people were shocked to learn that they had sent up in smoke over $400,000.

Jim Hanaway beams with pride as Sharon Vanden Heuvel admires his model ship.

70 CLUB AT WORK

Jim Hanaway was recently baptized in the Green Bay Church. His wife Katie joined by profession of faith. The Hanaways and their ten children became acquainted with the Adventist Church through Sharon and Marvin Vanden Heuvel, members of the 70 Club (see Luke 10:1).

Bible studies also led to discussions on healthful living and Sharon helped Katie learn to bake bread.

The Hanaways are interested in having their friends learn what they have learned and have formed a Bible study group with the Vanden Heuvels and Pastor Wendt as well as attending the Tuesday evening study at the office of Drs. Crawford and McNeal.

Having an interest in building model ships, Jim Hanaway was encouraged to enter his models in a recent hobby fair conducted by the church school.

Cindy Wangard assists cerebral palsy youth in water therapy.

GREEN BAY YOUTH VOLUNTEERS HER TIME TO HELP OTHERS

Cindy Wangard, a senior at Preble High and a member of the Green Bay Church, volunteers a portion of time each week to assist in the swimming therapy for cerebral palsy children as part of her sociology class.

With an interest in physical therapy, Cindy plans to begin her college education at Andrews University this fall.

Learning to swim when she was six years old, she works part time as a swimming instructor and lifeguard at the Y.M.C.A. Cindy is also a member of the Y.M.C.A. swim team and holds records for the 500-yard freestyle and the 1,650-yard freestyle events. She has participated in the national swim meets for the last six years usually held at the Swimming Hall of Fame pool in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

At Preble High, Cindy is a member of the Quill and Scroll, the National Honor Society; Christian Athletes; and is the editorial assistant on the school newspaper and on the staff of the school yearbook.

PHILOSDA ORGANIZES IN WISCONSIN

Wisconsin S.D.A. single adults attended Philosda Club organizing activities at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, March 14 to 16.

Dave Masterjohn, conference youth leader, and Esther Larson, president of the Minnesota Philosda Club, headed the spiritual and social activities scheduled for the weekend. Although some Philosda acquaintances grow into marriage, Esther Larson emphasized that Philosda is not a matchmaking organization. Philosda provides spiritual and recreational fellowship for single

S.D.A. adults along with the understanding and empathy appreciated by those experiencing the circumstances and feelings of being single.

Officers elect for the Wisconsin Chapter of Philosda were Lydia Naylor, treasurer, Milwaukee; Conrad Wallington, chaplain, Fond du Lac; Evelyn Pierce, secretary, Milwaukee; Jack Atkinson, president, Janesville; and Jackie Feltman, vice president, Janesville.

The group is currently part of the Minnesota club, but will become a full-fledged Wisconsin chapter when the membership of 25 is reached. The age for membership is 18 and up.

Wisconsin Conference President Robert Dale spoke on factors in Daniel's (and the Christian's) "excellent spirit," during services held Sabbath morning in the Plover Methodist Church.

Sabbath School was presented by Jerry Montelious and Glen Wintermeyer, physical therapist and health educator, respectively, River Pines Community Health Center.

Other activities were held at the River Pines Community Health Center during the weekend which included an inspirational talk by Ernest Wheeler, local pastor, the Philosda Club organization, games, movies, snowmobiling, hiking, and meals.

The Philosda Club has planned activities each month through August and would encourage anyone interested to contact Jack Atkinson, 624 Prairie Avenue, Janesville, Wisconsin 53545.

WHAT'S IN YOUR CLOTHES CLOSET? (Paperback), by D. A. Delafield, Review and Herald Publishing Association, 6856 Eastern Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20012.

A perennial problem for many believers is the dress dilemma. When the Lord takes His saints to heaven, will they go sweeping through the gates of the New Jerusalem dressed in mini-skirts, wearing exaggerated coiffures, robed in jackets and trousers of many colors and gaudy combinations that bewilder the beholder and perched atop shoes of unusual styling?

Not that clothes are the important thing—even mod clothes—but doesn't a Christian have some principles that control his dress as well as his diet, his money management, his time, his social life, his business conduct, et cetera? What are these principles?

In this 96-page paperback book, Elder D. A. Delafield develops the fundamental guidelines in a disarming manner. This brings pleasant relief. Instead of hammering away on the subject and forcing the reader to a private view of the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy, he presents "the truth as it is in Jesus"—in His lovely life and example. This is the standard—for women and for men.

Three chapters are especially interesting dealing with the historical phase of the dress question through the centuries, particularly in Christian times, not to forget the dress styles of the ancient Israelites and the Adventist dress picture a century ago. The chapter, "Ornaments, Jewelry, and the Wedding Ring," will bring help to many people. But don't expect that this book will lower any standards; it will elevate them. The author moves with grace and makes the dress subject attractive.

Every church member should have it, and pastors can go far toward securing help for their people if they will encourage them to purchase and read this attractive little volume, What's In Your Clothes Closet? Young people and young married couples, particularly, will find it helpful.

General Conference*

Arthur Edquid, the new flight director at A.U., tows the university's Cessna 150, a trainer plane. "If we're going to get the gospel to the world, we'll have to do some flying," he said.

A.U. AIRPORT HAS NEW FLIGHT DIRECTOR

Arthur Edquid, a certified airline transport pilot and retired army major, has replaced Melvin Krause as flight director at the Andrews University airport.

He is a veteran of both the Korean and Vietnam wars and has flown and serviced every type of helicopter and plane used by the U.S. Army.

Viet Cong gunners shot him down in 1966, 18 miles from Saigon with 74 troops aboard his Chinook helicopter. Only one person was killed.

Edquid gives every appearance of having made his new job a crusade. "Twenty-two years in the army is good," he said, "but for the rest of my life, I'll be in God's army. I want the Lord to come, and if we're going to get the gospel to the world, we've got to do some flying."

NEW PROGRAMS TO BE OFFERED NEXT YEAR

Andrews University will offer new majors in health and geography next school year and five new technical concentrations, including industrial management and aviation technology.

The health major, for a bachelor of science degree, will require course work in physical education, biology, home economics, and nursing.

Dr. Dwain Ford, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences said the major will be good preparation for secondary teachers and any persons planning to take graduate work in public health or medicine.

Not many schools in the state have a health program specifically designed for teacher preparation, Ford said. And with Michigan stiffening its health requirements for secondary teachers, this program will meet a growing need in the state, he said.

The geography department will offer a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of science in general geography. Till now, only a minor has been available.

Geography majors will be trained for employment in education, government, or industry, said Dr. Robert Pierson, the department chairman.

The College of Technology will offer new concentrations (equivalent to majors, only more specialized) in agriculture equipment technology, computer technology, and computer information systems in addition to industrial management and aviation technology.

Industrial management is to be a four-year, bachelor of science degree program. The others will lead to either a two-year associate degree or a four-year bachelor's degree.

The associate degree offers a saleable skill; the bachelor's, additional technical training and an emphasis in business administration.

The agriculture equipment program is designed for the needs of mechanized farms and related industries that require business and technological skills.

Dr. Bill Davidson, dean of the College of Technology, said that the number of jobs for persons with such training is increasing even as the total number of farm jobs in the U.S. is dropping.

The aviation technology concentration will train students in four years to be professional pilots and licensed mechanics with enough knowledge of business administration to handle the average fixed base operation.

The two-year associate program, now in effect, has options in both flight and maintenance.

The computer technology concentration involves computer hardware and software system development and maintenance for the bachelor degree. The associate degree provides job entry skills in scientific programming.

The content of the computer information systems concentration is business programming, rather than scientific.

The industrial management program will require course work in business administration, math, and industrial engineering technology. This program is intended to train students for efficient plant management.
