CHRISTIAN EDUCATION EVERYONE'S BUSINESS

One of the most important concerns of the Seventh-day Adventist Church is the formal education of its children and youth. When put into the framework of evangelistic responsibility, Christian education is the combined effort of the home, church, and school; and it becomes the most effective means of conserving our children for the soon-coming of the kingdom of God. Through a personal relationship with God, the Holy Spirit can effectively appeal to our youth and challenge them to commit their lives in active service to the God they have learned to love.

To assist in the future planning for Christian education, the Lake Union Conference Committee has approved an educational survey which is to be taken May 11 through May 16. It is because of present trends in education, economic conditions, changing birth rates, and rapidly changing world conditions, that an understanding of how to plan for Christian education is becoming ever more important.

Information about every individual under 25 years of age, whether that person is living in the home of parents, relatives, or in the case of the older youth, in their own home, will be gathered. The data from this survey will help provide vital information in making adequate plans for our children and youth as the Spirit of Prophecy has instructed us to do.

This survey will be accomplished through a personal home visitation plan. Under the leadership of the district pastors, church elders, deacons, and deaconesses will visit in the homes at which time a simple information form will be completed. The data will be processed in such a manner that it will be possible to use it in a helpful way for church districts, academies, and college. Your cooperation will be highly valuable and greatly appreciated. "Let the church carry a burden for the lambs of the flock. Let the children be educated and trained to do service for God, for they are the Lord's heritage."—Testimonies, Vol. 6, p. 203.

F. R. Stephan, Secretary of Education

1976 is our country's bicentennial. As part of the nationwide celebrations the Seventh-day Adventist Church has entered into a church identification and beautification program. This sign in front of the Dowagiac, Michigan, Church was designed by the communication department of the Southern Union and may be ordered from the General Conference or the Sign and Design Center, Andrews University. ## UGANDA CRACKS DOWN ON 14 RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

Uganda's president, Idi Amin, has reportedly decided to crack down on a large number of Christian religious groups in his country. According to government-controlled Kampala Radio, General Amin's Minister of Internal Affairs has signed a decree banning 14 "religious societies," declared to be "dangerous to peace and order in Uganda." The organizations listed included four Pentecostal denominations, the Uganda Church of Christ, and the International Bible Students Association. Also included were the Legion of Mary of Africa, the Jehovah's Witnesses, and Spiritualists.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES BACK OFF FROM 1975 END OF WORLD

Jehovah's Witnesses are having to backtrack on their 1975 Armageddon prediction. The sect was expecting the end of the world to occur sometime this year. But now, leaders of Jehovah's Witnesses are saying that Armageddon may not be imminent. A book published by the sect in 1966 indicates that Autumn 1975, would mark the point 6,000 years from the creation of Adam in 4026 B.C.—a date derived by the Witnesses from their own Bible chronology. Now the Watchtower magazine says although it is true that man will have existed for 6,000 years, the world's end would not necessarily take place then.

HIGH COURT TO FACE PAROCHIAL AID AGAIN

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to restrain Ohio from providing aid to nonpublic schools under a state law pending the outcome of a suit challenging the statute.

In a separate action, the High Court agreed to hear a similar Pennsylvania case challenging the constitutionality of that state's provision of "auxiliary services" to students enrolled in nonpublic schools.

The two rulings, which appeared in the Court's first orders of its new term, indicate that the nation's highest tribunal will face head-on sticky constitutional questions raised in several state laws which call for spending public funds in private elementary and secondary schools, most of which are sectarian.

BUDDHIST STATE CHAPLAIN UNDER FIRE

A Buddhist clergyman serving as chaplain for the California State Senate was criticized for not believing in a supreme being. The Reverend Jack Johnson, a Southern Baptist, declared that there is no justification for an idol-worshiper serving as Senate chaplain. Johnson said Senator Albert Rodda, who nominated the Reverend Shoko Masunaga for the chaplaincy, told him the chaplaincy might be abolished if a major controversy arose over the appointment. Johnson contends that "the absence of a chaplain is less offensive to God than the presence of a chaplain who does not believe in God."

PRESIDENT PIERSON VISITS THOUSAND OAKS

General Conference President Robert H. Pierson was a recent visitor to the S.D.A. Radio, Television, and Film Center. Elder Pierson inspected the facility and visited with center officers including Pastor Philip Moores, newly appointed manager of TV operations for the center. At present the center houses offices and joint service facilities for Faith for Today, It Is Written, and Breath of Life.

INSIGHT MAGAZINE LAUNCHES OPERATION COMEBACK

MV Sabbath, March 8, marked the beginning for Operation Comeback, an earnest program to reclaim discouraged and backslidden young people.

For the past year and a half, the staff of Insight magazine and the Review and Herald periodical department have studied, prayed, and planned in order to develop an entire system for presenting Christ again to the disillusioned. Here is how it works:

Church pastors, with help from youth workers and laymen, draw up a list of these youth. In most conferences, the church, the local conference, and the union share equally the cost of a one-year subscription to Insight magazine for each name. Insight has planned a whole series of issues to reach out to their hearts and minds. Then, people who care will visit to listen and discuss—Insight will be a conversation-starter and will provide topical material.

Already in the Southern Union, one church has begun Operation Comeback. As they compiled their list, 42 young people were remembered who they hope to reach, young hearts eager to know that someone is interested in them.

Has Operation Comeback been introduced already in your church? It's the best way we can think of to reach out to those young people who used to sing in the choir, and whose customary places in your church's pews are now empty. If this is the first time you've heard of Operation Comeback, ask your pastor or church youth leader about it. Show the young people of your area that someone cares.

BICENTENNIAL PROJECTS: Church Identification

by Robert Esh
Instructor in the Andrews University College of Technology

1976 is our country's Bicentennial. Large celebrations throughout the country are now being planned that will entice millions to travel all over America. With this in mind the communication department of the General Conference has requested each S.D.A. church in America to make 1975 a year for proper identification and beautification of their church premises.

This identification and beautification can best be described as "the church's visual image to the community." Does the building of a visual image merit concern? Corporations have proven it to be invaluable. The question then arises, Is the church a business, and, if it is, should corporation tactics be applied to it? Jesus referred to it as such in His reply to Mary and Joseph when He said, "Am I not to be about my Father's business?" (Luke 2:49) His and His Father's business is the salvation of mankind. How we present our church to the community indicates the sincerity with which we claim to be about our Father's business. In Evangelism, p. 128, we read, "The character and importance of our work are judged by the efforts made to bring it before the public. When these efforts are so limited, the impression is given that the message we present is not worthy of notice."

A church's visual image is the totality of pictures or ideas in the minds of the people who come in contact with it—it's reputation. Every church has a visual image: the question is whether it is good, lacking, or indifferent; whether it can be improved; and whether it is a true picture of the esteem in which we hold the church.

When we come in contact with someone, for example, we form our opinion of them from the impressions left on our minds. As we get better acquainted with the person, we may find our opinion based on first impressions to be in error. We may even chide ourselves for forming premature opinions, only to find ourselves doing it again with the next person we meet.

Now let us examine how the community judges our church, keeping in mind that they are judging by first impressions. It is estimated that 80 percent of all impressions are received visually. One grows so accustomed to seeing different images appearing before the eyes, that one is hardly aware of it. Ask anyone how they get information. "By means of words" is the reply. People are conscious of word communication. Visual communication is absorbed on a subconscious level. It happens fast. Messages are comprehended without much effort. We hardly know what has hit us.

If we are being judged by first impressions, and 80 percent of these impressions are visual, then we must establish which part of our church is viewed and by what percentage of the population. We can only make an estimate, but we should be safe in saying that 95 percent or more have never seen the inside of our church, though most of them have seen the outside.

From this, we can safely say, "Millions of our fellow Americans are judging us by our church's exterior appearance, on a conscious or subconscious level by the only means available to them—visual impressions." It is true that a church shouldn't be judged by appearance; it should be judged doctrinally. So what is really judged by appearance? It is the sincerity of the people in the church as they go about their Father's business. Let me give you an example. When you are traveling in a strange place, finding a good place to eat that is clean, cheerful, and reasonable is a real problem. You can't stop at each restaurant and ask to see the kitchen and sample the food. Your decision has to be formed from impressions of the sign and exterior only. When you see a restaurant with a homemade sign that just says "Eat," and the building is badly in need of maintenance, you don't find your foot reaching for the brake. Why? You automatically assume that if the people who own it don't care about the outside, they must not be worried about the food they serve inside. When you find a restaurant with a professional sign, a well-maintained building in warm inviting colors, that foot will have no problem finding the brake. The way we present our church's appearance to the community, shows them the sincerity and esteem in which we hold the doctrines we teach inside.

It is important to establish what the advertising media calls "Instant Recognition." Instant recognition occurs when our standardized colors and design are associated with our denomination, even before the viewer is near enough to read the copy.

The Sign and Design Center at Andrews University has become aware of a need for better identification among our churches and church schools in the Lake Union and across America. The Sign and Design Center, which is a small industry at Andrews, is now designing and producing coordinated signage to help create a better visual image for our churches. Our motto is: Researching new ideas for a visual gospel.

YOUTH SING FOR SHUT-INS

The young people of the Hinsdale Church share their faith by singing and talking with shut-ins and helping out in some of the small churches. Pastor Bob Reynolds, the Hinsdale youth pastor, was very pleased when a group of four or five young people came to him and wanted to do something for the Lord. This group decided to try helping some of the surrounding smaller churches with Sabbath School programs. They enjoyed themselves and wanted to do even more. Within a few weeks the group began to grow and Pastor Reynolds says, "I'm receiving calls from other youth who want to know how they can join the group. When you have a small nucleus of youth who really enjoy witnessing for the Lord, it is bound to be contagious!"

Pastor and Mrs. Tyson and son Elbert III bring new leadership to the Broadview Church.

BROADVIEW CHURCH HAS NEW PASTOR

Pastor Elbert Tyson is no stranger to the Illinois Conference and the members of the Broadview Church feel privileged to have him as their new pastor. He came in January and is getting a strong missionary program started.

He was born in North Carolina and was ordained to the ministry in 1939. He has served in Indiana, Nebraska, North Carolina, and in the Illinois Conference in Aurora, Sheridan, and Peoria. More recently he was the conference stewardship secretary. Pastor Tyson has also been a teacher at Indiana Academy in Cicero and at Collegeview Academy in Lincoln, Nebraska.

His wife Martelle is a native of Wisconsin and formerly taught school but for some time has been a medical stenographer at the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

The Tysons are the parents of three girls and one son: Doris Oblander of Kansas, Jean Arndt and Sharon Herdman of California; and Elbert III, who will graduate from Broadview Academy in May.

Welcome Pastor and Mrs. Tyson and family!

project: Steps to Christ

Jim Barclay, layman coordinator for Project: Steps to Christ, explains the outreach program to a special committee, representing the General Conference, Lake Union, and local Illinois Conference. Pictured from left, front row are: F. W. Wernick, Lake Union president; A. W. Bauer, union lay activities secretary; C. C. Weis, General Conference lay activities department; second row: F. L. Jones, Lake Union secretary; M. T. Battle, General Conference lay activities department; back row: Jack Martz, lay activities secretary, Illinois Conference; W. L. Murrill, Lake Union treasurer; and John L. Hayward, Illinois Conference president.

What is Project: Steps to Christ? Is it just something more to do, or is there something different or special about it? The North American Division Lay Evangelism Research and Planning Committee met in Toronto, Canada, on August 26 to 29, 1974. They voted a recommendation to adopt a program to reach every home in North America based on the successful pilot program in the Illinois Conference. We think it's something special.

Q. Is it being realistic to believe that we really must put forth the effort to reach every home in Illinois, much less all of North America?

A. "The church must realize its obligation to carry the gospel of present truth to every creature."—Testimonies, Vol. 6, p. 296. It is obvious that we cannot possibly succeed in reaching every creature without making the effort to reach every home. But, you may say, the task of reaching every creature is a hopeless one and it is futile to even try because we cannot succeed. Are you sure? Read on—"When we give ourselves wholly to God, and in our work follow His directions, He makes Himself responsible for its accomplishments."—Christ's Object Lessons, p. 363.

Q. Is disobedience to divine directives the reason we have largely failed to carry the gospel to the people of the world?

A. "As church leaders at this Annual Council we have faced honestly the fact that there are inconsistencies between the church's preaching and its practices, and to allow these inconsistencies to continue will automatically delay the completion of the church's mission and the coming of Christ.

"God has in love sent to the Seventh-day Adventist Church inspired counsels that illuminate and apply the words of Scripture. These counsels cover about every conceivable facet of Christian experience and witness. As Seventh-day Adventists we cannot plead ignorance of God's will concerning His expectations, either for the individual or for the church. If we ignore or reject God's counsels, this may well be defined as an act of insubordination, which will affect our relation to the coming of the Lord. In the words of God's servant: 'We may have to remain here in this world because of insubordination many more years, as did the children of Israel.'—Evangelism, p. 696."—Annual Council 1973/1974 Appeals, p. 7.

Project: Steps to Christ is different. It is the expression of a theology which says we can proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ to every home in North America, and Illinois is just the beginning. Soon the first million copies of Steps to Christ will be going to the homes. We need your prayers and your financial support now to carry out God's plan.

Please make your check payable to Project: Steps to Christ, P.O. Box 89, Brookfield, Illinois 60513; or, place it in a tithe envelope and deposit in your local church offering.

CHAPEL WEST COMPANY HOLDS CAMPAIGN

An evangelistic campaign located near the west side of Indianapolis convened on April 12 under the support of the Chapel West company. Elder S.D.H. Seltzer will be the speaker during the "Big Issues" lectures.

Strong leadership, dedication, and a growing congregation seem to indicate that soon this company will be added to the family of Indiana churches. Plans now call for the purchase of property for their own church building. At present they are meeting at the United Methodist Church, West Newton, Indiana, in the southwest section of Marion County.

RICHARD HAMMOND RETURNS TO HOME CONFERENCE

Richard J. Hammond

Richard J. Hammond, originally from Marion, Indiana, will be returning to his home conference for a series of afternoon meetings to be held at the Indiana camp meeting.

Since 1971 Elder Hammond has been connected with Loma Linda University's School of Health serving as admission officer and assistant to the dean for student affairs. Prior to this position, he served for 23 years as principal of the Greater Boston Academy.

Elder Hammond is a graduate of Indiana Academy and received his B.A. degree from Marion College in 1940. He received his S.T.B. from Harvard Divinity School in 1943, M.A. degree from Andrews University in 1944, and a C.A.G.S. degree from Boston University in 1969.

Each afternoon at 4 p.m. in the main auditorium, Elder Hammond will speak. His topics are as follows: "He Went Away in a Rage"; "Cut-flower Religion"; "Every Dog is Entitled to One Bite"; "Let Them Eat Cake"; "Keep Running Steadily"; and "We Were Never Their Age."

Plan ahead to attend all of his lectures.

KOKOMO CENTER RECOGNIZED

In an article written by Sandra Holtz, staff reporter for the Kokomo Tribune about the destruction of the Clinton Harris home and contents by fire, the Seventh-day Adventist Community Services Center of Kokomo was given much deserved recognition. Following are quotes from this half-page article.

"And to help people like the Harris family 'get by' are three organizations: the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army and the Seventh-day Adventists.

"All three organizations cooperate with one another, trading information, sharing resources and acting as referral agencies to other community agencies. . . .

"The Seventh-day Adventists provide clothing and furniture through its Community Services Center. As a general rule, the other two agencies refer fire victims to the center for additional assistance. . . .

"Serving referrals from the Red Cross, Salvation Army and county welfare services, the center stores a wide variety of used clothing—all washed, ironed and repaired by church volunteers. . . .

“And fire victims can be assured the clothing fits,” reports Judy Mickels, director of the center. “Someone comes in and says I wear a certain size, and we can put a stack of clothing on the counter and say this is what we have in your size. . . .”

“Importance of the center,” said Miss Sharon Brubaker, Red Cross worker who aids victims of single family fires, ‘is that it frees fire victims, who are given a set allocation of money from the Red Cross to buy shoes, underwear and a set of outer clothing, to perhaps skip the outer clothing and other garments (which can be furnished by the center) and use the money to buy other needed items. . . .’

“A few weeks back, the Marten Hotel burned in Kokomo and 24 persons lost all their belongings. The three services above came to the rescue.”

In closing the article, Miss Brubaker said, “Together, we can do just about anything. Apart, we’re serving only half the people.”

EVANGELISM RALLY HELD IN ANDERSON

On Sabbath, March 1, Elder William Woodruff, conference ministerial secretary and evangelism coordinator, held an evangelism rally in the Anderson S.D.A. Church in preparation for Elder Charles Buursma’s meetings which are to begin April 26.

In the afternoon Elders Charles Buursma, Jerry Lastine, and Cliff Hoffman joined Elder Woodruff for the rally. After a film, Elder Hoffman led out in an exercise to help the folk discover their real priorities in life. Then Elder Woodruff emphasized the importance of living a life of obedience to God’s will and noticing the blessings He pours out on us in return. Elder Lastine talked to the people on our need of developing a strong personal devotional life each day. He gave practical suggestions on how to meditate, pray, and study the Bible. Elder Buursma concluded by sharing the thrilling results of his recent crusade in Bedford and how the Lord worked miracles in the lives of a number of the people who attended.

We know the Lord can use His people to prepare the way for the meetings soon to be held. Let’s all pray for a most successful series in our Anderson Church.

CHURCH HOLDS SERVICES IN REVERSE ON VISITORS’ DAY

The Capitol Avenue Church of Indianapolis, under the leadership of Clarence Hodges, Sabbath School superintendent, was host to 65 visitors on visitors’ day.

Sabbath services were held in reverse with morning worship beginning at 9:30 a.m. replete with a forceful sermonette by Elder Lawrence Shepherd, pastor. This was followed by the lay activities period and Sabbath School. Thus the guests experienced the whole Sabbath day program.

Many visitors expressed their pleasure with the services and were especially touched by the sermonette delivered by the pastor at the close of Sabbath School.

Rev. Ada Collier

A few months ago I had the privilege of meeting Rev. Ada Collier. She discussed her burden for the prisoners in the Joliet prison and suggested a plan in which we could work for them.

MAN ALIVE!

You've probably heard of H. M. S. Richards! He's the clergyman-founder of the "Voice of Prophecy" radiobroadcast. What you may not have heard is that he slept in an orange crate as a baby, once rented a meeting hall by knocking out the owner in a boxing ring, began his career in a chicken coop, and even retired without knowing it.

Now a magnificent, photograph-filled, limited-edition biography prepared by Freedom House and printed by the Southern Publishing Association will bring you the warm, inspiring, surprising, and sometimes humorous story of this private man, H. M. S. Richards: MAN ALIVE! Virginia Cason, the author and daughter of Richards, offers a unique glimpse of her father's eventful life of faith and vision with dramatic perspective.

Rich duotone and full-color photographs complement the story on every one of the 192 pages of this library must. Elegant paper, fine Skivertex binding, a final chapter of poetry written especially for this book by H. M. S. Richards, and dozens of original pieces of photographic art make this heirloom a prized addition in your own home and a treasured gift for a friend.

Steps to Christ. After reading a copy, she declared it to be the best material she has had put in her hand.

Prison authorities would not permit her to personally take the books in, but she could have them shipped from the publisher. I arranged for the Adventist Book Center in Brookfield, Illinois, to ship 300 copies to the prison. These were paid for by Rev. Collier. She next ordered and paid for 500 copies to be distributed personally. She gave a copy to a truck driver, who in turn bought 800 copies to distribute wherever he goes.

Rev. Collier next ordered and paid for 1,500 copies and these she is now distributing. I asked her where she distributes them. Her answer was rest homes, schools, colleges, hospitals, and wherever she finds people who will accept them.

A registered nurse, she tells of an experience with a reader. She left a copy of Steps to Christ in a conspicuous place in the hospital and later observed a patient reading it. She asked him what he was reading and where he got it. He said he had picked it up and that it was an extremely good book and he was not willing to part with it. Rev. Collier concluded that if the book was given to someone who would not read it, it would still reach its objective because where that person leaves it, someone else would pick it up and read it.

Please pray with Rev. Collier that those behind prison bars will find the liberty that Christ gives.

YOUTH HOLD WITNESSING SOCIAL

Teachers for the earliteen and youth Sabbath School classes sponsored and acted as hostesses for a social gathering called "Happy Hearts" at the East St. Louis Church.

The youth were asked to bring one can of food for admission along with at least one guest. Elder Vern Joyner, pastor, lead the group in a discussion followed by a number of games.

To conclude the evening's activities, prizes were given out. Everyone was a winner. Aside from their prizes, the visitors received a copy of Steps to Christ or Bible Readings for the Home.

NEWS NOTES

• Axel Thomsen, who has served as the minister of finance for the 1,047-member Battle Creek Tabernacle since June 1, 1973, has retired. He has served the church in various capacities including positions with the Skodsborg Sanitarium in Denmark for 20 years, the Adventist Danish Publishing House for 10, and 14 years as comptroller of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital. Thomsen and his wife Elva will be visiting Denmark until July when they will return to Battle Creek. Even though formally retired he will be active as he was elected treasurer just recently of the Goodwill Industries of Battle Creek.

• Lansing's young people spoke for Christ during their Voice of Youth evangelistic campaign April 11 to 19. The new Community Service Center was the designated place for the meetings. Plans called for a special health education feature each evening plus a vegetarian dinner for guests. After the closing program visitors attending also received a special invitation to join the pastor's Bible class each Sabbath morning.

• The Kalkaska Church has held two community projects recently, a successful Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking with two-thirds of those attending kicking the habit and nutrition classes as a follow-up to the interests developed. Pastor John Swanson and a non-Adventist local doctor conducted the stop smoking clinic while Mrs. Sheryl Swanson and Mrs. Mary Bielas led out in the cooking classes.

• The University Hospital in Ann Arbor receives patients from all over the state with some of them being Adventists. Elder Roy Lemon, pastor of the Ann Arbor Church, has expressed his willingness to visit any members who may be admitted as patients. He can be contacted by writing to 1381 Pine Valley Court, Ann Arbor 48104 or by phoning (313) 971-5552.

• Recent evangelistic meetings in the conference were conducted in Monroe, Ithaca, Vassar, and Hastings. Other series are currently being held in Holly, Eaton Rapids, and Twin Cities. As follow-up Bible studies are held a number of baptisms will result in each of these areas. According to Elder John Loor, ministerial secretary for the conference, 912 persons were baptized in Michigan in 1974.

• Mrs. Nancy Racine of Ithaca has led out in a cooking school in her area. As many as 50 attended these classes including the Alma Hospital dietitian, two home economics teachers, a Ph.D. in physics, several Mennonites, and some who "knew very little about nutrition." Mrs. Racine reported that they all seemed to be interested in the presentation and have been invited to a vegetarian potluck at the church.

• A new physician and a new dentist have joined the medical team in Michigan. Through the efforts of the Iron County Hospital Board, Dr. Robert Sochar, a graduate of Loma Linda has established a family practice in Iron River. His father is Jim Gilbraith of the Wilson Church. Onaway now has two Dr. Donald Finchs. For over 25 years Dr. Finch has been almost the sole physician serving the area. Now his son, a recent graduate of Loma Linda's School of Dentistry has left his California practice to serve the population of his hometown.

• The Houghton Lake Church was the host church on Friday, March 7, for the annual World Day of Prayer service. According to Carrie Kelley, communications secretary for the church, this was "the first time in about 20 years of participating" that the Adventist Church was used for the service. Reports indicate that the program provided the best World Day of Prayer service Houghton Lakers had ever attended.

The Battle Creek San's display featured the community of Battle Creek and the area's health facilities.

BATTLE CREEK SAN RECRUITS AT L.L.U.

To bring physicians to Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital, Richard A. Collins, M.D., Ph.D., chief of staff; Vernon L. Small, administrator; and Keith J. Waterbrook, director of development and public relations, recently attended the alumni postgraduate convention of the Loma Linda University School of Medicine in California.

Specially designed for the three-day intensive recruitment effort was a display featuring Battle Creek, the community, and the area's health facilities and a brochure We're Running with the Battle Creek Idea.

According to Small, about 12 students expressed interest in practicing in Michigan, some in the Battle Creek area.

Later the unit will be used by personnel services, nursing administration, and the development and public relations departments for employee recruitment and other selected events where the hospital is represented.

The panels are easily changed to meet the particular demands of any occasion.

JABLONSKI CREATING PULPIT DECORATION

It is only a little angel but it is hoped that it will have its impact on those worshipping in the Menominee Church. Jerry Jablonski, a dentist and a local elder is using his talents and dental tools to create the three angels of Revelation 14. The copper angels will be attached to the front of a new pulpit as part of the congregation's updating of the church building and furnishing. Dr. Jablonski is showing his pastor, Elder Jerold B. Craw, the progress he has made on the project.

THOMAS AWARDED FOR DISSERTATION ON ADVENTIST EDUCATION

Cleveland J. Thomas

Cleveland J. Thomas, Ph.D., was honored on March 21, 1975, by the University of Michigan School of Education's Research Committee for his dissertation on the history, philosophy, and administration of Adventist education. His research was done in the academies of the Lake Union Conference.

Members of his doctoral committee displayed unusual interest in his research and asked many questions of personal interest regarding the work and beliefs of the Adventist Church. His dissertation was chosen by the division of educational specialists as the best produced within the division during the past year. The oral defense of his thesis, among other things, served to defend the philosophy of Adventist education.

Dr. Thomas is a graduate and former faculty member of West Indies College, Jamaica, and is presently a member of the Ann Arbor congregation. According to Elder Roy E. Lemon, the local pastor, "He is an outstanding Adventist, one of our elders and a pillar in the church."

Because of the unusual interest his professors took in the philosophy of Adventist education, Dr. Thomas presented each of them with a copy of Ellen G. White's book Education.

6 MEMBERS ADDED TO NILES CHURCH

Mrs. Anderson, who is 81 years old, has been a leader in community service work for 50 years as well as serving the church and the community in many other ways.

In 1930 at Oak Park Academy, Nevada, Iowa, Mrs. Anderson began her Dorcas work. In 1943 the Andersons were called to Adelpian Academy, where Mr. Anderson served as engineer until his retirement in 1970 at the age of 82. Mrs. Anderson has continued her Dorcas work in Holly.

Although she has lost actual count, well over 400 quilts have been lovingly pieced and tied by her nimble fingers, more than half of them going directly to the Holly Community Service Center for distribution to needy families.

Through the years, the Andersons have had over 50 young people stay in their home so they could attend the academy. Many are those who call the Andersons "Ma and Pa" or "Grandpa and Grandma" because of the kindness shown them.

It was for these and many other accomplishments that Mrs. Anderson was chosen as the current Woman of the Year by the Holly service organization. In reporting the selection, the Holly Herald-Advertiser stated, "She is truly an asset to the Holly area."

The Andersons have been members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church since 1916, four years after their marriage.

COMMENTING FOR CHRIST

Shelly Swainston, a Grand Ledge Academy freshman, was a participant on the March 25th teen program "Collage" over Lansing TV Channel 6. The program features music, news reports, and discussions on varied topics. Shelly was one of a five-member panel discussing racial prejudice. She witnessed for Christ in her thoughts on the Christian's attitude to this problem. "Collage" is a taped program for showing on Tuesday evenings at 8.

Mrs. Rose Anderson holds the engraved plaque presented to her when she was selected as the Holly Jaycee Auxilliary's "Woman of the Year." She is shown with one of her handmade quilts. Since last August she and her husband have made 43 quilts which were given to the Holly Community Service Center.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR IS 81-YEAR-OLD S.D.A.

Mrs. Paul P. (Rose) Anderson of Holly has been named Woman of the Year by the Holly Jaycee Auxilliary.

How to cook Mexican style without cholesterol or animal fat. Use Loma Linda Vege•Burger. Sabrozo!

TACOS

- 1 package taco shells
- 2 fresh tomatoes, peeled (or 1 cup solid-packed canned tomatoes, well drained)
- 1 onion, minced
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 teaspoons each paprika and lemon juice
- 3/4 teaspoon each oregano, cumin and salt
- 1 envelope G. Washington Broth, dark
- 1 cup Loma Linda Vege•Burger
- 1 cup cooked red beans
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Mash tomatoes with potato masher. Saute garlic and onion in oil. Stir in Vege•Burger and brown lightly. Add G. Washington Broth, lemon juice, paprika, oregano, salt and cook slightly. Add beans and tomatoes. Place approximately 1/3 cup of mixture in each taco shell. If desired, top with shredded lettuce, grated cheese and tomato wedges. Serve plain or with tomato sauce.

Another easy way to serve Loma Linda foods—all vegetable protein, contains no meat, no cholesterol, no animal fat. It's tomorrow's food today.

"I choose not to smoke," says Jane Hamilton, Green Bay Press Gazette staff writer as she tosses her package in the waste basket.

I CHOOSE NOT TO SMOKE

Jane Hamilton, a staff writer for the Green Bay Press Gazette reported daily her personal experience and reactions of quitting smoking during the recent Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking held in the Bellin Memorial Hospital auditorium by Pastor Ralph Wendt and Dr. Wesley McNeal.

Press Gazette readers read of her psychological and physical responses of giving up ten years of smoking. Often humorous in her reporting, she wrote of trying to quit by switching to a pipe. "When it fell out of my mouth onto a dinner table surrounded by guests, that put an end to that endeavor."

Her husband, a nonsmoker, disliked her habit. He tried good-natured teasing to threats, but that didn't resolve her smoking either. The clinic's method of flushing out the nicotine in your system with fruit, fruit juices, and water gave her the idea that "you're so busy in the bathroom, you don't have time to smoke."

Jane experienced irritability the second day without cigarettes, but the third day found her feeling better and without a stale tobacco taste in her mouth upon waking in the morning. The fourth day her lungs seemed clearer, mind more alert, and the craving subsiding.

Publicizing her participation in the No Smoking Clinic put greater pressure on her to be successful in her obligation to quit, and a number of Press Gazette readers called or wrote "Good luck," "Stick with it," "You can do it," and other words of encouragement.

She reported the importance of deep breathing, fresh air, vitamins, and to seek spiritual help when needed. Refraining from overeating, becoming overly tired and overworked, and avoiding coffee and alcohol were stressed. She described the movies used during the clinic as "a series of movies bent on scaring the daylights out of smokers concerning the use of tobacco and health." She showed a pipe-smoking co-worker a clinic pamphlet on how pipes lead to oral diseases, mouth breathing, and crooked teeth. "Just look at those pictures," she ordered. "Aren't they awful? Just think what that nasty pipe is doing to you. I think he went away and got sick," she wrote.

Jane was counting her blessings of quitting smoking financially and found she would be able to afford a new outfit in two months time. Her husband's happiness was reflected in compliments, and helpfulness in doing the dinner dishes. Jane expressed, "Then there's the factor of cleanliness. Smokers are unaware their hair, hands, and clothes smell like a hobo's favorite cigar butt. Quitting puts one back in the fresh-as-a-daisy group." She would no longer be concerned about dropping a cigarette ash in her lap while driving and being strapped in by a seat belt. "That for a 'driving smoker' is a traumatic experience," she stated.

Jane apologized publicly in her column for forcing her cigarette smoke in the eyes and nose of innocent dinner partners and bystanders.

Receiving an I.Q. (I Quit) button for a graduation diploma was a highlight in her life and she encouraged others to attend a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking clinic.

YOUTH MINISTRY SEMINAR

A Youth Ministry Seminar designed to bring a renewal in the youth ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and a greater outreach to the ever-increasing youth community in the world has been scheduled at Andrews University, September 8 to 18, 1975. The seminar is co-sponsored by Andrews University and the youth department of the General Conference, and those enrolled will receive three seminary credit hours.

Conference youth directors, campus chaplains, youth pastors, and laymen interested in youth ministry are invited to register for the course. Brochures and pre-registration forms are available from union and local conference youth directors, or you may write to the General Conference Youth Department, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20012. A special pre-registration financial package plan has been made available in cooperation with Andrews University, where the cost of registration, tuition, room, and board for the ten days is $185. Those desiring to make their own housing and meal accommodations may pre-register for the seminar for only $85.

Faculty members will include General Conference youth department staff; Dr. George Akers, Dr. Hans La Rondelle, Dr. Ruth Murdoch, and Dr. John Youngberg of Andrews University; Dr. Bailey Gillespie of Loma Linda University; Dr. Delmar Holbrook, president of Home Study Institute; Don Neufeld, associate editor of the Review and Herald; Dr. Robert Brown and staff from the Geo-Science Institute; and many special guests who are currently working in successful youth ministry programs in North America.

The seminar will include lectures, panels, workshops, and research into such areas as: (1) how to understand and work with today's youth; (2) a study of the local church youth ministry concept in the S.D.A. church; (3) youth/parent/family ministry; (4) development and nurture of the religious experience of youth; (5) campus ministry; (6) recreational planning; (7) best methods of youth outreach with practical input from those engaged in successful youth ministry programs at the local church level; (8) music ministry for young people; (9) creative Bible study; (10) the use of the media in youth ministry; (11) gaming and simulation in Christian growth; (12) leadership time management, delegation, and motivation; (13) problems youth face in science and the Bible; and (14) questions youth are asking and their answers.

Persons desiring to attend the seminar must pre-register by July 1, 1975.

TWO NUTRITION WORKSHOPS SET FOR SUMMER

The Andrews University home economics department will offer 35 hours of intensive training this summer for any persons interested in conducting nutrition and cooking classes in the church or community.

The training, a home nutrition instructor's workshop, is scheduled for June 9 to 13. The cost of the course will be $25.

The workshop offers no academic credit but meets the requirements of the Home Nutrition Instructor's Certificate from the department of health of the General Conference. Participants may also receive a certificate of attendance from Andrews University.

Among those conducting the workshop will be five registered dietitians, a physician, a nurse, and a public health specialist.

Topics will range from how to prepare food demonstrations to meals minus meats.

Another workshop, current issues in home economics, will also begin on June 9 but will continue to the 17th. This workshop is designed to train professional dietitians to conduct workshops of the type described above.

The cost is $82 for two quarter credits, and $10 for the workshop fee.

Participants will observe and assist in the home nutrition workshop and study how to adapt the course to various communities and cultures and how to resolve nutrition problems unique to today's society.

More information on both workshops may be obtained by calling A.U.'s home economics department.
