Bicentennial Kickoff

A Bicentennial flag was presented April 3 to the Seventh-day Adventist Church at its world headquarters in Takoma Park, Washington, D.C., by John W. Warner, administrator for the American Revolution Bicentennial Committee, and secretary of the Navy.

Also present were Captain Harry Allendorfer, Jr., ex-director of special events for the Bicentennial Committee, Mrs. Cherrie Hall, program officer for Horizon '76.

The Adventist 4C program for Century III is the first church-sponsored program approved by the National Bicentennial Committee.

"Already 7,000 events are on our calendar," said Mr. Warner, "and they are being added to at the rate of about 1,000 per month." He said that future generations would look back and bless us because we cared enough about our heritage to celebrate at this time. Fifty overseas nations will celebrate with us, sending groups involved in folk festivals, operas, and other cultural exchanges.

A new Liberty Bell, he said, is to be presented to Philadelphia by the United Kingdom. It will be made in the same foundry as the old bell.

The celebrations will be divided into three categories, emphasizing the past, present, and future under the titles Heritage, Festival, and Horizon.

Lowell Bock, chairman of the Adventist Bicentennial Committee, said the 4C program emphasizes celebration by beautification in four areas—the community, college campus, camp, and character.

In accepting the flag on behalf of Seventh-day Adventists across America, Neal Wilson, president of the North American Division, said that the Bicentennial calls for the facing of serious issues involving attempts to destroy the character of our government and of our people.

"Character beautification is the most basic contribution to the celebration," said Leo Ranzolin of the Youth Department. "Pollution of the mind and heart," he said, "is even graver than that of college campuses and youth camps. America must free itself of pollution on all levels."

1976 also marks the church's golden anniversary of camping. Adventist youth will especially beautify both their campsites and college campuses, as well as public parks and recreation areas.

COVER

The Bicentennial Committee of Michigan has recommended that churches, schools, and other church-owned institutions prepare their grounds and buildings for the American Bicentennial. Landscaping and beautification of the grounds plays a large part in establishing a visual image with the surrounding community. The cover photo is an example of how landscaping can enhance the beauty and dignity of a church building. This is the Pioneer Memorial Church located on the Andrews University campus in Berrien Springs, Michigan. See story on pages 4 and 5. Photo by Dick Dower.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR APPEALS TO TAX AID FOR SECTARIAN COLLEGES

The United States Supreme Court has agreed to hear appeals in two challenges to tax aid for sectarian colleges. The first case involves a ruling from three federal court judges in Maryland that five colleges in question were not sufficiently sectarian to justify a cut-off of state aid. The other involves a Tennessee tuition grant-aid program to church colleges. It was unanimously invalidated in 1974 by a three-judge federal district court on the grounds that the program aided sectarian colleges and contained no safeguards against using public funds for religious purposes.

CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS MARCH FOR PEACE

What would have been considered unheard of just a few short years ago happened in Belfast, January 19. Between 10,000 and 12,000 Protestants and Roman Catholics—men, women, and children—marched to Belfast's city hall in an interdenominational demonstration for peace. The demonstrators prayed and sang hymns together. Leadership was provided by the Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist, and Catholic churches of Ireland. Another crowd of about 15,000 staged a march and prayer service for peace simultaneously in Dublin, the Irish capital.

REDUCED INCOME BELIES "CATASTROPHIC CUTS" FOR L.C.M.S.

Reduced income has forced "catastrophic cuts" for the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. An approximate deficit of $350 thousand for 1974 and a sizeable reduction in projected income leveled the 1975 budget to $24.15 million. That's about $2 million less than what was expended in 1974. Counting inflation, the actual reduction from the amount needed is about $4.5 million. If some way is not found to defray cuts, returned missionaries will probably not be replaced. Possible reduction of personnel and programs from synodical departments and schools may be inevitable.

COUPONS REDEEMED

More than one million Betty Crocker coupon units

worth a total of $5,000 were received at Voice of Prophecy offices during the last six months of the General Mills Club Group Project to raise funds toward new tape duplicator equipment. About half of these arrived during December.

During the entire project, redemption of the coupons by General Mills brought in $24,393 for the Voice of Prophecy.

Broadcast director H.M.S. Richards, Jr., expressed appreciation to friends of the V.O.P. for their contributions of coupons, to volunteer workers at V.O.P. headquarters who trimmed, counted, and packed the coupons for shipping, and to the General Mills Corporation for its aid toward the tape duplicator project.

Total cost of the new tape duplicator master machine and its ten slave units will be $50,000. With a sizable portion of this amount now on hand, V.O.P. engineers have begun construction of some of the components.

KETTERING OFFERS NEW COURSE

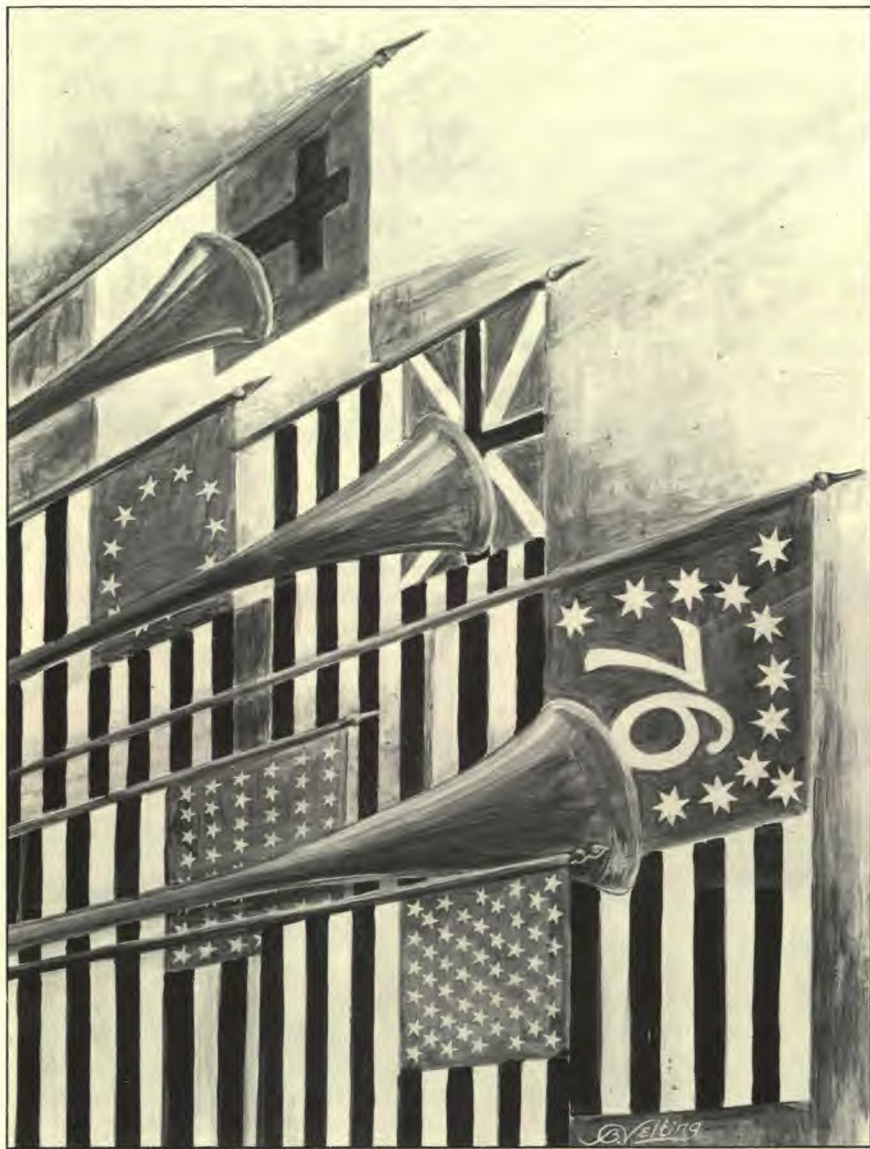

Kettering College is offering a semester in urban studies at Urban Action Institute in Boston, starting in September. The program provides about 16 hours of academic credit that can be transferred into any social science major in most humanities, theology, education, and pre-profession majors. A practical emphasis on learning how to develop and lead urban ministry and service projects is at the core of the program. Only a limited number of students will be accepted into the first class in September. Interested individuals should write for a bulletin and application kit as soon as possible to the Urban Semester, 599 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02118.

SYLVANEERING SEMINAR

Senior youth looking for a real challenge will find it in the Colorado Rockies, July 20 to August 3, as Bob Johnson leads the seventh annual Sylvaneering Seminar. A new feature this year is snow and ice-climbing instruction and practice and a major peak expedition. Backpacking, orienteering day and night, edible wild plant study, shelter building, rescue and Christian leadership will be practiced. The famous solo experience caps two weeks of adventure in the mountains for youth 16 to 30, who will return with memories never to be forgotten.

Sylvaneering, a program of the International Wilderness Club, was developed in 1969 by Elders Don Holland and Jack Darnall. The Wilderness Club operates with the approval of the Youth Department of the General Conference to train Adventist youth in outdoor skills and to develop leadership qualities. Bob Johnson directs the seminar from a background of assisting with Sylvaneering camps from the very beginning. Assisting him are qualified climbing and outdoor instructors from Colorado.

The student pays only $50 for two weeks instruction, insurance, and group equipment, and brings his own carefully loaded backpack. A manual of instruction, required equipment lists, and directions to camp are sent to all registered applicants. Applications may be secured from Bob Johnson, I.W.C. Sylvaneering, 4481 Clay, Boulder, Colorado 80302.

HAPPY

by Elsie Buck

to express appreciation for the freedoms enjoyed in this country as provided in the Bill of Rights, and wish to express that appreciation in several programs and objectives which are to span the period of the celebration of the Bicentennial. The Michigan Conference Bicentennial Committee wants to invite you to become a part of a great plan in which Adventists in Michigan can be counted on to participate in the commemoration of the birth of our nation.

Let us begin now our participation in preparing for the Bicentennial by entering wholeheartedly into Phase I.

VISUAL OUTREACH

Motives: To honor God.

To pay tribute to the 200th birthday of the United States of America.

To worship God in the beauty of holiness.

One of the greatest contributions Adventists can make at this time is to set in order, landscape, paint and beautify every church, school, and church-owned property for this time of celebration. Just as the preparation for any birthday party begins with the readiness of the home, of the premises, our first concern is to make improvements on all church property in order to create a visual impact of people who care about their God and their country.

Our nation is in the great and exciting period of the celebration of the Bicentennial of her birth. Throughout the land people in many places have begun the festivities which will mark one of the most meaningful eras in our history. Many persons were involved in commemorating those historic moments on April 19, when, in Lexington, the re-enactment of the battle of Lexington took place. Again we heard Captain Parker on that chilly April morning tell his "embattled farmers" of Massachusetts, "Stand your ground; do not fire unless fired upon; but if they want a war, let it begin here."

The Bicentennial offers Adventists everywhere a priceless opportunity to reappraise their heritage, to take pride in it, and to renew their hope in the future. We welcome the opportunity

BIRTHDAY, AMERICA!

Right now is the time for church members to work with their Bicentennial coordinator (there is one in every church) and their pastor in forming committees to work on the inside and outside of their church property. Be sure to include a good communication person and a good photographer in committee work. Take before and after pictures of every project that is undertaken, and be sure to place these pictures in a scrapbook which will be shared with the entire membership of the Michigan Conference at the time of camp meeting in 1976. Special awards are to be given to churches and institutions which have done the most in participating in the celebration of the American Bicentennial. Church improvements count heavily.

Guidelines and goals for the visual outreach are in the hands of the Bicentennial coordinator of your church. A special check list can be ordered from the Michigan Conference for church improvement.

- Right now, check your rating:
- Shrubbery and Plantings consult with a landscape architect
 - Lawn
should be the nicest in town
 - Identification Sign is it in a dignified setting?
 - Curbing and Sidewalks
what do yours look like?

- Exterior Painting
now is the time to get busy with plans
- Entrance Doors
clean, freshly painted?
- Exterior Lighting
can people see your church at night?
- Foyer
is it free from clutter, attractive?
- Hymnals and Racks
any torn pages or covers? Enough for all?
- Rostrum Appearance
immaculate, flowers every Sabbath?
- Pulpit Appearance
uncluttered inside, finish good?
- Pastor's Study
attractive, in order, peaceful?
- Supply Rooms
enough shelves for organized supplies?
- Storerooms
equipment in good repair, in proper order?
- Carpet Condition
worn out? dirty? Replace promptly.
- Interior Painting do colors harmonize, are they worshipful?

- Interior Lighting enough lighting everywhere, bulbs replaced?

These suggestions should help get the program started. There is much more detail on which to work. The important thing is to get started now. Do not forget to take before and after pictures of everything that is done, of every project which is undertaken. Place them in chronological order in the scrapbook with any publicity which you share with your community about what you are doing. Keep the church, your community, and the conference informed on all you are doing.

Phase I is already under way in several places in Michigan. Every church (large and small) should be evaluating individual needs this month. Everything should be in readiness for 1976.

In Scripture it says, "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" (Psalm 29:2). If God asked the children of Israel to make the sanctuary in the wilderness with beauty as the keynote to every detail in design and construction, can we do any less?

American Families Vietnamized

The Wong Family

The Johnston Family

A few weeks ago, things weren't nearly as peaceful for Ohnma Lisa Wong, Allen Wong, and Stephani Lin Johnston. The three Vietnamese children were among those refugees flown to the United States. Ohnma and Allen were aboard the first flight of 55 to arrive.

Little Ohnma Lisa's adoptive parents are Lim Wong and his wife Mavis, of Berrien Springs, members of the Pioneer Memorial church. An orphan himself, Mr. Wong left mainland China in 1947.

The Wongs had no children and had been trying to adopt a Vietnamese child for more than a year. A former missionary in Hong Kong, Mrs. Wong said she turned to an old acquaintance, now a minister in Saigon, for assistance. The adoption was made final in about six months.

Lisa was among six Vietnamese babies brought into the country by Mrs. Mary Fisher, a nurse at the S.D.A. hospital in Saigon. When the Wongs flew to Sacramento, California, to pick Lisa up, they learned of a second child also in need of a home, Mrs. Wong said.

With the assistance of an aide in Governor William Milliken's office, the red tape was completed, and the second child arrived in the Wong household a few days later.

The Wongs are both teachers, but

Mrs. Wong plans to ask for a leave of absence to care for the children.

Stephani Lin Johnston, adopted by Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Johnston of Loma Linda, is the new granddaughter of Elder and Mrs. "Ollie" Johnston of Berrien Springs. Elder Johnston is pastor of the Lansing church.

Dr. Johnston and his wife Judy were personally involved in evacuating their adopted daughter, Stephani Lin. They went to Vietnam from Loma Linda University where Oliver was supposed to have a three-and-one-half-month stint as a relief surgeon at the Adventist hospital. As it turned out, they were there six weeks.

When they got to Saigon, they agreed that they might want to adopt a Vietnamese child. "Our son (Jamie, 16 months) is a very vigorous boy, and we thought he should have someone to play with," Oliver said. They began touring the Saigon orphanages.

Then they spotted a little Asian-Caucasian baby, just in from Da Nang. Stephani's natural mother gave her to an orphanage nurse rather than keep her in the city as the communists approached. "We thought she was really special," Judy said. "She was just beautiful." The child was adopted through the Holt Children's Service of Eugene, Oregon.

The Johnstons brought Stephani home on the second Operation Baby-lift flight from threatened Saigon. Dr. Johnston served as head flight physician.

Mrs. Johnston, the former Judy Galbraith of Berrien Springs, said their new daughter was one of the last children evacuated from Da Nang.

Dr. Johnston said during the flight the children in the worst danger were those that were dehydrated. The VIP lounge of the jumbo jet was made into an intensive care unit where four I.V.'s were in use throughout the flight.

The Johnston's plane, with 400 orphans, was set to take off about 4 p.m. Sabbath. It paused briefly on the runway for a last check for any explosives. "We weren't really worried by then," Johnston said.

Now, wishing for more peaceful days there, Dr. Johnston said, "There's nothing I'd like better than to go back. The work there is far from done."

After visiting with their relatives in Berrien Springs, the Johnstons will return to Loma Linda University where he is finishing a residency.

During the 1974-75 season a total of 1,292 persons were tested for signs of glaucoma at the clinic; 55 were referred to an ophthalmologist for further testing and possible diagnosis as glaucoma. The disease leads to irreversible loss of sight if left untreated, but with early detection can be treated successfully in almost every instance. Coordinator of the glaucoma testing is Audrey Mulvey, R.N., outpatient supervisor.

CHAPLAINS OFFER 2-WEEK COURSE FOR PASTORS

An intensive two-week hospital orientation course will be offered for Seventh-day Adventist pastors from September 28 to October 10.

SUMMER CAMP FEES EARNED

Six young people of the Glendale church in Indianapolis earned half of their summer camp fees by raising over $100 for God's work during the 1974 Ingathering season. Pictured are from left, Ron Howell as he presents the awards to Jeff Jewett, Amy Cleveland, Alice Alvey, Kathy Planck, and Frank Schlagel. Dorothy Skinner was not available to be included in this picture. The Sabbath morning devotional and the lesson study will be presented by Elder T. H. Blincoe of the Andrews University Theological Seminary while Elder Fred Stephan, educational secretary of the Lake Union Conference will be the guest speaker for the first meeting of the weekend, Friday evening. Other conference leaders to have a part will be Elders Moon, Keymer, and Carle, conference president, secretary, and treasurer, and Elders Groomer and Rilea of the Sabbath School and Youth Departments. Doug Anderson, of the Adventist Book Center will also be on hand with his bookmobile Saturday evening and all day Sunday.

The youth will not be forgotten for special programs are being planned for them including a presentation by students and teachers from Cedar Lake Academy and an activity program on Sunday which will include a ball game between the youth and the adults.

Of current and special interest will be the mission report which will be brought by Dr. Eugene Hildebrand of Munising who will tell of his experiences with the Saigon Hospital and the orphan airlift.

The conference officers and the Upper Peninsula district superintendent, Elder Jerold Crow are promising a rich and fulfilling weekend and encourage all members to attend this special yearly convocation.

COURSE TAUGHT AT BATTLE CREEK

Kellogg Community College instructor, Roger F. Seymour, outlines management principles in a special 16-hour course tailored for leadership personnel at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital. Each registrant received one hour of college credit. Using case studies, role playing, lectures, and question-and-answer sessions, Seymour covered such topics as improving interdepartmental communication, evaluating both supervisor and employee effectiveness, and assessing employees' desires and expectations.

AU SABLE NEEDS CLEANING, DONATIONS

According to word from Elder Jess Nephew of Camp Au Sable, volunteer workers are needed at the youth camp during the next few weeks. There is work activity of all kinds which could result in an unusual family outing for you.

Camp leaders also suggest that you clean out your garages, barns, attics, etc., for any of the following items to donate to the camp's program: tools for gardening, construction, logging, saw mills, and horse care. Also wood stoves, wagons, cutters, sleds, saddles, light harnesses, plus antiques which could be used to decorate some of the buildings are needed.

If you can give a little time for a family clean-up outing or have items to donate to the camp contact Elder Nephew, P.O. Box 546, Grayling, Michigan 49738 or phone (517) 348-5491.

STUDENTS HOLD WEEK OF PRAYER

This year's Week of Prayer at Cedar Lake Academy held in March was headed by a team of 24 student speakers. Each speaker had a partner and they decided upon the topic they would use. The speakers met together for several weeks in advance to talk and pray for the special week that was to take place.

Participants for the week were: Scot Bentley, Jim Butcher, Debbie Dowling, Randy Drumm, Melanie Fraser, Larry Godsey, Sue Greavu, Rick Harris, Carmen Hays, Rick Heiss, Laurie Joslin, Marsha Keeney, Wendall Laderoot, Mark Lazslo, Larry McPherson, Gwen Oglesby, Mike Orcutt, Terry Rusk, Dan Schoun, Christal Smith, June Smith, Neen Snowden, Jeanette Velting, and Debbie Wery.

Sponsors Robert LeBard and Frank L. Jones as well as Pastor Jim Pleasants assisted the students.

Tedd and Sharon Vlad, center, share their baptismal joys by posing with the two Adventist coworkers who shared with them the three angels' messages. Clinton Jones, left of the Inkster church and Marvin Christner, right, of Troy work with Tedd at Uniroyal in Detroit.

PLANT WORKERS WIN TWO

Witnessing among his coworkers has proved fruitful to Marvin Christner of the Troy church.

Desiring to spread the word of his religious convictions, he distributed 375 Bible Readings for the Home among his colleagues at Uniroyal in Detroit. One of those who received the book was Tedd Vlad who became interested and studied it eagerly. Everyday he had a Bible study with Christner or with another coworker, Clinton Jones of the Sharon Inkster church. Continuing study had its effect and earlier this year Tedd and his wife Sharon visited the Algonac church since they live closer to it than to Troy. Right away they expressed their interest in joining Elder Olav Labianca's baptismal class and on May 10 the couple were baptized.

Christner spent what some would call a "lot of money" for books to give away. Then he and Clinton Jones expended a lot of energy and time in Bible studies. Was it worth it to them? Their answer would most likely be, "Who can estimate the value of one soul, much less two?"

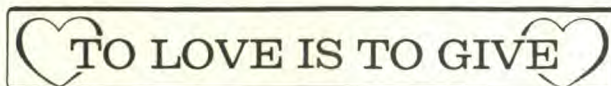

C.S.C. DESTROYED

On April 26 the Boyne City Community Service Center which was in the process of being remodeled was destroyed by fire. Plans are currently being formulated to rebuild as soon as possible. Here Pat Sherwood, Boyne City C.S.C. leader, surveys the scene.

FOOD SEMINAR HELD IN KALAMAZOO

A food and nutrition seminar was presented in the Kalamazoo church for four Sunday evenings beginning April 20. The average attendance of 73 was considered "very good" with many attending who had no background of vegetarianism.

Rosalee Lee, wife of the assistant pastor, Kenneth Lee, led out in the informal seminar. Among the subjects presented were ways to trim the food budget and one's figure; how to satisfy a sweet tooth; use of natural foods; and how to bake nutritious bread. Mrs. Gordon Rhodes of Gobles taught this last class and Mrs. Ona Holman of Kalamazoo also assisted in the seminar which was free and open to the public. Recipes and food samples were handed out at each session.

NEWS NOTES

• The funerals for the wives of two Wisconsin workers were held Tuesday, May 27. Both Mrs. Lyle Litzenberger and Mrs. George Grellmann had waged valiant extended struggles against different forms of cancer. The Grellmann service was in Rhinelander where her husband is pastor. Mrs. Litzenberger's service was in Madison where her husband was Adventist Book Center manager and assistant treasurer before accepting an invitation to become manager of Pennsylvania's Adventist Book Center. Obituaries will appear later.

• Elder Wallace Wellman, retired pastor who served many Wisconsin districts, is making a satisfactory recovery from surgery performed at St. Michael's Hospital in Stevens Point. The Wellmans are back at their home in Tomahawk for the summer.

Kenneth J. Mittleider, former Wisconsin president, presents three decision topics.

MITTLERID CONDUCTS SERIES OF MEETINGS

A three-day evangelistic series conducted in the Menominee Falls East High School auditorium by K. J. Mittleider, Potomac Conference president, resulted in 16 decisions for baptism.

Mittleider was requested to return to hold the mini-campaign because of the unusual events in the area.

Gene Krause, an Adventist contractor living nearby, loaned some tapes of Mittleider's full evangelistic series to several businesses where they were played over the intercom systems and requested by additional individuals.

The set was being used more than 14 hours per day. Additional sets were obtained by Krause and loaned to many others. Interest mushroomed and many of the tape listeners requested a chance to meet and hear the speaker.

Since most of those attending the meetings had listened to the complete tape series, Mittleider preached just three decision meetings and visited personally in the homes of the prospects.

In addition to the 16 who have decided for baptism, many others are continuing to listen to tapes and study toward baptism.

PATHFINDERS BLAZE THE TRAIL

Pathfinders in the truest sense are Connie Cornell, Blanch Kimball, Lorrie MacLaughlin, Danette Gilligan with their sponsor Joyce Tobias who live in Lanoa, Wisconsin, where there is no Adventist church. They are actively blazing spiritual trails through Pathfinder Club projects. All were invested recently in progressive class-work.

CHANGES IN SECRETARIAL ASSIGNMENT

Several office secretaries have been assigned new responsibilities; some because of new efficiencies, others because of vacancies.

In an effort to reduce labor costs an I.B.M. memory typewriter has been rented on a six-month trial basis. Mrs. Barbara Dale, wife of the conference president, has been operating this new equipment. At present she is able to produce two and one half times as much finished copy as on an ordinary electric typewriter.

Connie Schwarz, formerly secretary to Wisconsin Conference president, has transferred to Marshfield, Wisconsin, where she is secretary to the president of Mid-American Nursing Homes.

Hilda Smith, formerly secretary to the Trust and Stewardship Department has started her new responsibilities as secretary to the conference president.

Carleen Gustrowsky, secretary in the publishing department is also assuming responsibilities in Home Health Education Services (H.H.E.S.) handling billings and accounting for books sold by literature evangelists. Early this fall accounting for H.H.E.S. will be done on a computer at Andrews University and managed by a Lake Union Conference staff member for the entire union, reducing some salaries and giving more effective management to the accounts receivable.

Darlene Ceithamer, who has been bookkeeper for H.H.E.S., has moved to Stevens Point and become bookkeeper for Dr. Richard T. Walden, medical secretary for the conference and director for River Pines Health Conditioning Center.

At present a legal secretary is being sought to fill the vacancy in the Trust Department.

new releases

ADULT SABBATH SCHOOL LESSONS on Cassette.

The Sabbath School Department of the General Conference and Audio-Visual Services have cooperated in producing the Adult Sabbath School Lessons on cassette. This new format for the lessons may have appeal especially to commuters and travelers, although anyone with a tape cassette player may find helpful the reinforcement of hearing as well as reading the lesson.

Some problems have accompanied the introduction of this service. The first was a technical problem which was corrected. Then the text for the second question in each daily part was not included, and many felt this materially reduced the usefulness of the cassettes. This has been changed also, and beginning with the third quarter, 1975, the text will be read in answer to every question.

There has also been some misapprehension as to the nature of the material on the cassettes. These recordings are a reading of the Adult Sabbath School Lessons as they appear in the quarterly, with the addition of a brief introduction, about one minute, to each week's lesson.

Narration of the lessons will be by different voices from quarter to quarter.

Adult Lessons on cassette are available from your local Adventist Book Center.

BETTER LATE THAN EARLY, "A New Approach to Your Child's Education," by Dr. Raymond S. Moore and Dorothy N. Moore, Reader's Digest Press.

This month Reader's Digest Press is publishing the book Better Late Than Early, "A New Approach to Your Child's Education" by Dr. Raymond S. Moore and Dorothy N. Moore of the Hewitt Research Foundation and Andrews University.

The book deals specifically with dangers which science say are inherent in premature entrance of children into schools. It is broken down into two sections: Part I, the review of more than 7,000 early childhood education studies; Part II, how parents or day care workers can best work with children up until they are ready to enter school. The forewords are written by research psychiatrists from the University of Michigan and the University of Colorado Medical Schools.

$50,000 EXTENSION PLANNED FOR MARSH HALL

Construction on a $50,000 extension to Marsh Hall is scheduled to begin this fall, A.U. President Richard Hammill has announced.

The extension will come as part of a general expansion of the nursing program, said Dr. Hammill, and is funded in part by a $30,000 unrestricted grant by the Loutit Foundation received recently.

The Loutit Foundation gives primarily to hospitals, public schools and higher education, cultural programs, the handicapped, and community funds in Michigan.

MADGWICK ANNOUNCES NEW M.A.T. DEGREES

Andrews University will offer this summer the master of arts in teaching degree (M.A.T.) in art and physical education, Gordon Madgwick, dean of the School of Graduate Studies, has announced.

This bring to 15 the disciplines available for the degree.

Applicants for the M.A.T. in art education must have had a minor in art. Once accepted they can choose to specialize in photography, print-making, painting, sculpture, ceramics, or design.

Whatever the specialty, the degree is designed to encourage candidates to become "mature, practicing artists," says the department chairman Greg Constantine. "We want art teachers who are artists." A one-man exhibit is required.

For the M.A.T. in physical education, at least 30 undergraduate quarter hours are a prerequisite. Candidates for the degree may take studies in health, recreation, outdoor education, and physiology.

Dan Klein, department chairman, says that M.A.T. students will find more emphasis placed on Christian philosophy than customary and far less on competitive team sports, which are no longer offered to nonmajors.

He believes that people would be far happier and healthier if they worked with, not against, each other in small group activities such as sailing, backpacking, and even modified versions of football and softball.

Richard Hammill, president of the university said, "The careful planning of these new M.A.T. degrees will ensure excellent programs at the graduate level."
