Oakwood College - One Of A Kind

Oakwood College is a place where students enter to learn, where the acorn of human potential is nurtured into the oak of knowledge, power, and service, and where students depart to serve.

The worth of a school is determined by the contribution its graduates and former students make to the communities they serve.

Since 1896, Oakwood has been serving Christ, the church, the nation, and the world through education. Its principle objective continues to be that of training and producing black Seventh-day Adventist Christian leaders for the service of the church around the world, for the redemption of men, and the transformation of society.

Presently, 90 percent of the church's black leadership have passed through Oakwood College. The school attempts to fulfill its distinctive role and mission by providing qualified young people with a first-rate liberal arts education in 17 departments of instruction with 33 specific fields of study.

A steady, upward trend in enrollment—over 1,000 this year—indicates that increasing numbers of black young people and their parents see Oakwood as "their college" and are attracted to it because of its fundamental religious philosophy and program, and its determination to maintain high standards that do not fluctuate with the times. Its students are from 40 states and 20 foreign countries.

The college constantly seeks to enrich the quality of its service to the student. This means the strengthening of the present areas of study, the adding of new and essential areas, and the providing of adequate facilities as called for by the quality and nature of instruction undertaken. You can help brighten the future of many young people when you remember to give your Oakwood College offering on August 9.

VIENNA NEWS BULLETIN

Elder Richard Barron, youth director for the Lake Union Conference, has accepted a call to the General Conference Youth Department as an associate secretary. Elder Gordon O. Engen, editor of the Lake Union Herald and director of communications and religious liberty for the Lake Union Conference, will be taking a new position as an associate secretary in the General Conference Religious Liberty Department.

Receipt of $2.5 million was announced at the world congress in Vienna on July 12 for the Adventure in Faith offering. It is anticipated that the total figure will swell to nearer $3 million when offerings of Adventist churches taken at the same time around the world are tallied.

An exhibition of 13 large contemporary paintings on the life of Christ was presented in the main lobby of the Stadthalle where the congress was held. The oils, painted by well-known Miami, Florida, artist, Bill Read, introduce the artist's mood as he attempted to place on canvas the varied high points in Christ's life.

A highlight of the congress was a colorful missions pageant in which nationals and missionaries from some 150 countries marched in costume bearing the flags of their nations. Flags of 28 countries were posted without delegates representing the countries in which the church as yet has no world work.

The congress paused to recognize international women's year giving recognition to a number of women who had made a special contribution to the Adventist church.

The final program of the congress told the story of the great conflict between Christ and Satan climaxing in the second coming of the Lord.

CONFERENCE ON SMOKING AND HEALTH ASKS CHURCHES TO HELP

Delegates from 50 nations assembled at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City for the Third World Conference on Smoking and Health. Seventh-day Adventists submitted a paper on "The Role of Church Groups in Smoking and Health." A resolution adopted by the 300 delegates read "We recognize the value of religious organizations in motivating and changing the lifestyle of individuals. We urge all religious groups to study how they can bring the message of the health hazards of smoking to their members and to the community in which they reside."

LOMA LINDA FOODS MAKES APPOINTMENT

Loma Linda Foods has appointed Ronald McDermott to be director of quality assurance for the company's plants in Riverside, California, and Mount Vernon, Ohio. He moved to the Riverside headquarters from the Mount Vernon plant where he had been in research and quality control since 1973.

FIVE-DAY PLAN FOR BLIND

Another new approach to helping those who desire to quit smoking has been added to the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. It is the Five-Day Plan for the Blind, reports Milo Sawvel, associate temperance director for the General Conference. Cooperately prepared by the General Conference Temperance Department and the Christian Record Braille Foundation, Inc., the plan will provide a braille booklet and loan of cassette or record. # From A Tent It Came

The Troy church, from humble beginnings, has become one of the most beautiful churches in the Lake Union Conference.

Nearly one hundred years ago, Elder J. O. Corliss conducted a series of evangelistic meetings in a large tent set up on the property of Mrs. Rachel Willett in Birmingham, Michigan. At the conclusion of the meetings he baptized the first converts in an old mill pond.

With this nucleus, plans were laid in 1878 to build a church. In a matter of months, on April 27, 1879, the new church was dedicated by Elder E. R. Jones of Battle Creek.

Membership dwindled as members moved away, and the church was closed.

It was not until June of 1926, when after another series of evangelistic meetings in Hazel Park, that the church again came to life, this time with 53 charter members. In 1927, they purchased a building on the corner of Woodward Avenue and Troy Street in Ferndale, until the members outgrew it and built their own church on the corner of Pinecrest and Saratoga.

Construction progressed to the point where the members used the basement in 1930. This was their home during the Depression until they were able to complete the building which was dedicated in 1943.

The Ferndale church continued to grow. Members realized that soon they would need a new house of worship. In 1957, they purchased the site on which the present church now stands, although construction did not begin for another 11 years. The congregation first worshiped in the new church on October 18, 1969.

In recent years the church has grown steadily until the membership at the present time is 370. It is situated in a growing area of Detroit. The members planned for expansion. The church will seat 500 in the main knave and another 100 in the youth sanctuary. There is space in the parking lot for 181 automobiles.

The value of the church has been estimated to be well in excess of $1 million. However, the cost of construction, including the furnishings and the parking lot was three-fourths of that amount.

Elder Charles Hendrixson was the pastor when the land was purchased. Elder James Wilson was pastor when the church was built.

The church also owns a 16-acre stretch of land in a picturesque setting where they plan to construct a new junior academy in the near future.

The Troy church continues as a bright light in its community.

SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Joyce Griffith, Correspondent

NEW IN NURSING

Thomas W. Lant

Newest department head at the hospital is Thomas W. Lant, R.N., M.S., director of nursing development. Lant obtained his nursing degree from Andrews University; his master's degree is from the University of Maryland. After serving in the U.S. Army as assistant head nurse in intensive care/coronary care at Walter Reed Hospital, he taught nursing at Southern Missionary College and, most recently, spent a year in North Carolina as a nurse practitioner. In his new responsibilities, Lant will oversee the inservice education and orientation programs for nursing personnel in the hospital.

NURSES TO STUDY LIFESTYLE CHANGES

The hospital will host a two-day seminar for professional nurses on September 16 and 17 on how to bring the principles of good health into a patient-nurse relationship.

The seminar is entitled "Toward a Healthy Lifestyle: The Nurse as a Change Agent." It is open to any nurses interested in ways to bring about change in the lifestyle of patients to promote better health.

Special guest for the event is Mrs. Kenneth Cooper of Dallas, co-author with her husband of the book, Aerobics for Women. Mrs. Cooper's husband, a physician, wrote the well-known Aerobics book in 1968. The two have been actively involved in promoting physical fitness through exercise since that time.

Keynote speaker for the seminar will be Richard T. Walden, M.D., director of the Adventist-operated River Pines Conditioning Center in Stevens Point, Wisconsin.

A self-evaluation of each nurse's current lifestyle will be led by Roy R. Wightman, M.P.H., assistant administrator for health education and rehabilitation at the hospital. A summary of the collective attitudes of participants toward health topics will be presented at the conclusion of the seminar.

Other topics and speakers include "You Are What You Eat," by Patricia Mutch, Ph.D., assistant professor of home economics, Andrews University; "Loosening the Kinks," by Walter C. Thompson, M.D., general surgeon in Hinsdale; Gordon T. Hewlett, chaplain; and Walter D.

Otten, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church of Hinsdale.

Topics on the second day of the seminar include Mrs. Cooper's presentation; "God's on Duty, Too," by Jean Stallwood, R.N., M.S., assistant professor, Wayne State University College of Nursing; and "Helping the Patient Change," by Alice E. Smith, R.N., M.P.H., chairman of the department of nursing, Andrews University.

Continuing education contact hours have been applied for through the Illinois Nurses Association.

Anyone interested in participating in the seminar should get in touch with Karen Hoover, R.N., nursing development services, Hinsdale San and Hospital, 120 N. Oak Street, Hinsdale, Illinois 60521.

AMBULANCE ENTRANCE FINISHED

The new ambulance entrance to the emergency department has been completed at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. A separate entrance (to the left but not visible in this picture) is provided for patients who can walk to the emergency department.

Twenty-six victorious graduates pose at the conclusion of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking held at the College of DuPage.

FIVE-DAY PLANS ARE NEW EXPERIENCE FOR GLEN ELLYN AREA

A first for the Glen Ellyn area was a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking held at the College of DuPage. It was quickly followed by a second, held at the B. R. Ryal Y.M.C.A.

The seminar held at the College of DuPage was held by Pastor Wayne Pleasants of the Glen Ellyn S.D.A. Church and Dennis Leavelle, pathologist at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Among the 26 registrants, there was one who had smoked for 39 years, another 38 years. The whole group totaled 485 years of smoking or 296,000 packs of cigarettes, having cost the group a total of approximately $103,600.

Among those who assisted were Stoy Proctor, health services director for the Illinois Conference and Roy Wightman from the health education department of the Hinsdale Sanitarium.

Showing the strength of the printed word, most of those attending came through newspaper advertising.

The average attendance at the seminar at the B. R. Ryal Y.M.C.A. was 33. These meetings were conducted by Pastor Wayne Pleasants and Clifford Reiber, pathologist at the Hinsdale San. Assisting in the follow-up which was held one night per week for five weeks were Roy Wightman and Chaplain Gordon Hewlett. Chaplain Hewlett is the voice on Smoker's Dial, originating in Hinsdale.

Films were provided by the Cancer Society, the Lung Association, and the Illinois Conference.

Verne Heller, health secretary of the Glen Ellyn church organized the program, assisted by six church members.

One of the reasons for having another seminar so soon is that many requests were made by the ex-smokers to help their friends and relatives. The next seminar will be held in the early part of August at the B. R. Ryal Y.M.C.A. in Glen Ellyn.

INGATHERING CONTACT RESULTS IN BAPTISMS

Ingathering was almost over that evening. The remaining street was not well lighted, but Mrs. Hosking decided she must contact all the homes before she quit for the day. In one of these homes lived Bob and Cheryl Kacok and their three small boys.

As Mrs. Hosking was visiting the Kacok's, she invited the family to visit the South Suburban church, and they gladly accepted. Bible studies were begun in their home by Mrs. Hosking, and recently the family was baptized. They are now active members of the church.

TRAIN UP A CHILD

"Train up a child in the way he shall go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Prov. 22:6), must be what motivates the lives of Ken and Bow Kirkham of the Broadview church as they take their five-month-old daughter Noelle, with them to pass out literature for free Bibles and lessons.

She was the youngest literature band member and seemed to have a very good time as she was pushed from house to house in her carriage.

Noelle's daddy was the principal of West Suburban Junior Academy and her mother is a physical therapist from Denmark. Noelle is better known at our church as the little Danish princess. We will miss this dedicated family, as they leave this summer to take up duties in the Carolina Conference. Mr. Kirkham will be the principal of Tri-City Junior Academy in High Point, North Carolina.

DOWNERS GROVE ADDS 12 NEW MEMBERS

Twelve new members were added to the Downers Grove church by baptism with Elder Gunnar Sjoren officiating at the sacred rites.

Interesting experiences came to light concerning the conversions of the candidates. Tim Collins was re-baptized after being out of the church for some time. He was contacted by Jehovah Witnesses who wanted to study in the Collins home. As they studied together Mr. Collins recalled his Bible doctrines from academy and college days which helped him defend his faith and at the same time renewed his interest in Adventism. Tim's wife Cathy, who had been a Catholic, became interested and the couple started attending the Adventist church and studying with Elder Sjoren. She was baptized with her husband, and now Tim and Cathy are regular prayer meeting participants and are eager to give Bible studies.

Richard Kwityn joined the church after several years of struggling with alcohol. Helped by AA and his wife's prayers, Richard says these two things aided him in his conversion after studying the 20th Century Bible course with Ben Schoun, the former assistant pastor.

Fourteen-year-old Laura Swartz, a former Catholic, was given studies by her father, who is a recent convert to the Adventist church.

David Ross was invited to church by his friend, Mark Kent and the Blanchard family. At first David's parents strongly objected; however, after much prayer he kept coming to church and after three months was baptized. Being a studious person, he read himself into the church and he plans to attend Andrews University in the near future. David has utilized his musical talents by playing the banjo and bass for the Advent Messengers and the youth Sabbath School.

Other youth who studied with Elder Sjoren in their home were Ruth and Diane Krivka. Nedd Brown, Dina Kelly, Sharon Morrissey, Melissa and Mary Newton completed the youth baptismal class, taught by Roland Friedrich, assistant pastor.

NEW CAFETERIA PLANNED

A portion of the Indiana Academy Board examine the plans for the new cafeteria. The groundbreaking is planned for September 7. The 10,500-square-foot cafeteria will have a seating capacity of 275. It will have a larger bakery than the bakery in the present cafeteria. There will also be a smaller dining area for committees and special groups. The board members are from left, Mrs. Shirley Thomas, lay member; Elder James Nash, principal; Elder G. W. Morgan, conference president; Harry Cutsinger, layman; and Elder Ray Rouse, conference treasurer.

Over fifty students are working this summer at Indiana Academy. Earnings from summer work help substantially with school expenses. Special projects undertaken have been caring for the school garden, building a garage, and refurbishing academy houses. Students are earning

BALL STATE UNIVERSITY RECOGNIZES THREE ANGELS' MESSENGERS

"Three angels' what?" Such was the query posed by a number of Ball State University students last September as they stopped at the colorful table and picked up psychedelic "Way Out" literature.

This annual university event, student activities night, was the beginning of unofficial status for the Three Angels' Messengers, a student, faculty, and staff organization for Seventh-day Adventists and those interested in Adventism on the B.S.U. campus. This was also the working out of a long-time dream of members of the Muncie S.D.A. churches, B.S.U.'s students, and an S.D.A. professor to achieve official campus recognition and a viable witness on this campus of some 17,000 students. After almost a full academic year, this dream has become a reality.

Recently, Elder R. E. Barron, youth leader for the Lake Union Conference, gave a challenging and inspiring keynote address to this now officially recognized campus organization. The Three Angels' Messengers now has the same status and privileges as fraternities, sororities, and other official student organizations. These concessions include literature distribution, representation on the University Religious Council, booth privileges in the Student Center, and the opportunity to do religious counseling and outreach. This fall the Three Angels' Messengers and the Muncie S.D.A. churches, will be listed in Search, the campus religious directory, the B Book, a listing of students, faculty, and staff, and in other official campus publications. The goal of this unique organization is the proclamation of Rev. 14:6-12 on this secular campus. Its purposes also include Christian fellowship, service, and outreach to the 20 or more S.D.A. students on campus each quarter. These students are from all over the U.S. as well as from areas such as Colombia and South Africa. If you know of S.D.A. students who will be attending Ball State University this fall, please contact: Alan Ritchie, president; Paul Harney, religious advisor; or Dr. Frank Wrestler, faculty sponsor, The Three Angels' Messengers, Office of Student Programs, L.A. Pittenger Student Center, Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana 47306.

NUTRITION CLASSES IN SHELBYVILLE

Sampling of delicious, nutritious, and appetizingly prepared foods climaxed the close of each weekly session of the five session cooking classes presented to the Shelbyville members.

Guest lecturers included Dr. Merle Harris, professor at Indiana University School of Dentistry, "Protein and a Balanced Diet"; Mrs. Margaret Anderson, home economist from Indiana Academy, "Vitamins and Minerals"; and Dr. Paul Anderson, physician from Cicero, "Cholesterol and P/S Ratio in Foods."

Thirty different recipes were demonstrated including high protein breakfast menus, vegetarian mustard, cheese prepared from cashew nuts, sugarless cookies and pies, with a grand prize going to the member trying the most recipes at home.

A cooking school is being planned for the general public later in the year.

TAG DAY A HUGE SUCCESS

On the first Sunday of the Indiana camp meeting the Pathfinders raised over $600 on their annual Tag Day. Money received on Tag Day goes for a special Timber Ridge Camp project. This year the money goes to buy a new electronic piano. In the picture Elder Cliff Hoffman, youth director, holds up the arms of the two boys who raised the most money. On the right is Brent Allinder of Indianapolis who raised over $34, the highest amount of the day. Cary Gregory of Madison, on the left, raised over $33. The day's total was the highest ever raised, almost $200 over any previous Tag Day.

GLENDALE LADIES SEW FOR VAN

Did you know that the Glendale ladies have made 68 pairs of girls' slacks for the Indiana disaster van? Vera Gardner tops the list with 17 pair. Uldine Robbins is not far behind with 15 pair. Others who helped were: Nellie Abbott, Ina Ashley, Jean Brillhart, Ruth Bristow, Debbie Fish, Marge Smith, Inez Van Meter, and Marge Earl. Thanks for a big job cheerfully and well done.

BICENTENNIAL ACTIVITIES OF THE MICHIGAN CONFERENCE

Seals and Decals

"Commitment to God and Country—the Seventh-day Adventist Church" is the inscription on the Bicentennial logo for the Michigan Conference.

The colorful red, white and blue logo has been made into seals and decals that may be obtained during camp meeting time at the Book and Bible House.

The seals come 20 to a sheet, gummed, easy to use on letters, gift packages, school material, church work communications, and in many other ways. The decals are larger to make them effective on cars, windows, or wherever wanted. Stock up for your needs during the Bicentennial year. Advertise the commitment of your church to the ideals for which the United States of America stands.

Coordinators Meeting

All Bicentennial coordinators of every church, along with the pastors and assistant pastors, are invited to attend a meeting planned by the Michigan Conference Bicentennial Committee. Time—the first Sunday of camp meeting, August 10, 9:30 a.m., in the academy chapel on the campground at Grand Ledge. Major plans will be discussed and important information presented. Don't miss this very important meeting. Bring your questions for discussion; committee members will be present to help you.

Bicentennial Calendar

Watch for the three-color Bicentennial calendar which will be given to all persons on the campground the first Sabbath of camp meeting. The calendar will serve as a souvenir of the Bicentennial period and will be a guideline for the churches' activities during 1976.

Home Church Activity

Remember your church beautification projects. The Bicentennial Committee recommends that the head deacons in the churches have exchange inspection programs to help the members see their church as others see it.

Elder Henry Mattson conducted a pilot program on this project. He reports that the deacons of the two churches he pastored came up with a list of 19 things needing attention in one church and 27 in the other. Each church is working to get the job done, Mattson said, and he recommends the plan be carried out throughout the Michigan Conference.

What do people see in your church?

Elders A. W. Bauer, of the Lake Union Conference; W. M. Buckman, of the Michigan Conference; and W. F. Woodhams, local pastor, joined in explaining to the guests the world work of Adventists. Elder Woodhams reported that the center aims to do more than to provide clothing and bedding for those in need. He pointed out plans for a health education program, and invited the various public agencies to assist in these programs so that by working together they could make the community a better place in which to live.

A vegetarian luncheon was served to the guests following the official opening.

Samples of featured dishes are tried by those attending the recently held cooking school in Sturgis.

SUCCESSFUL COOKING SCHOOL HELD IN STURGIS

A series of four cooking classes, held each Tuesday in May at the "Health-Hut" in Sturgis, brought a very gratifying response, with many expressing the wish that the series could have lasted longer.

Between 40 and 48 persons attended the classes each evening taught by Mrs. Laura LaRosa, wife of the pastor of the Mendon, Sturgis, and Three Rivers churches. Seventy-five percent of those who attended were non-Adventists.

In addition to the food demonstrations, a film, lecture, and a group dynamics period were part of each session. Once again, this type of health evangelism has proved to be an entering wedge for the gospel. A number expressed a real interest in the beliefs of the church.

At the close of the final class on May 27, Elder LaRosa took an adult education survey for a future health and Bible series. All who were present checked a number of areas in which they were interested, and a definite follow-up program is planned.

The overall response to the cooking classes has inspired a number of lay members to think in terms of conducting future schools in several areas of the district with the help of the pastor and his wife.

MOUNT PLEASANT BAPTISM

When Sandra Brantley of Mount Pleasant was a youngster, she periodically attended an Adventist church with her grandmother. When she married, she attended regularly for a time, but later discontinued. Two years ago Sandra's mother shared some literature with her. She read it and began attending church again. When the Riverdale revival meetings, held by Elder John Loor of the Michigan Conference, took place this spring, Sandra took her stand. She was baptized on May 10 by Elder William R. Brown, pastor of the Mount Pleasant church.

NEW UNDERSHEPHERD PLAN INAUGURATED IN BERRIEN SPRINGS

Recognizing the example of perfect organization in heaven, Pastor E. L. Malcolm of the Berrien Springs church, together with an organization committee, has worked out an "undershepherd" plan to promote a greater degree of fellowship and teamwork among church members.

The plan calls for organizing separate units of four to seven families living near one another. Each group is to have a leader and is to be linked through an elder to the pastoral staff and the other groups.

Included in the plan is the preparation of a detailed map giving the location of each family. Each group of families is to be in a bounded division, also indicated on the map.

The family groups, being small in number, will be truly democratic in their relationship and in their neighborhood outreach work. Each unit can draw on other groups in such activities as giving Bible studies, providing transportation, counselling, and arranging youth activities.

The possibilities for the involvement of each member in witnessing and service activities stagger the imagination.

The church as a whole will be able to draw on the various groups for special programs, lay activity reports, material for newspaper stories, and the uncovering of special talents among the members. It can coordinate the groups for fund raising, community service activities, inviting the public to programs, and organizing youth fellowship and prayer groups.

As an aid to communication among the members and between the members and the pastoral staff, the undershepherd plan promises to be invaluable. Any serious illnesses or problems would be reported, and any need to communicate in a short time with the entire membership would be facilitated.

A simple card index file on each non-Adventist family in a group's territory could be set up showing names, addresses, telephone numbers, religious background, results of any contacts, and any other pertinent information. Other cards could be prepared on individuals living out of the area for other pastors and churches to follow up.

HOSPITAL PERSONNEL PRACTICE LIFE-SAVING TECHNIQUES

A class in the techniques of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation was recently given to all administration and department heads of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital. Using a life-size model, in the above photo, Daniel R. Purple, controller, is practicing cardiac compression. Participants also learned to properly tilt back the head, opening a passageway for air, in order to administer effective mouth-to-mouth ventilation. Future plans will extend the C.P.R. training program to all other hospital personnel and then start a rotating schedule where all employees will be required to take periodic refresher courses.

Several persons acting through the community service organization might be needed to take care of requests for assistance and finding people to do the work.

In expanding participation by members, skilled persons, such as counsellors and psychologists, could be brought into service for interviewing and testing to determine church members' talents and interests.

The undershepherd plan might well herald similar developments in other churches and areas. These, combined with a pending mass evangelism effort across North America, could help bring to rapid fulfillment a prophetic scene: people going from door to door with Bibles under their arms, not making cold calls, but trying to keep up with the requests of those seeking the Truth.

OUTREACH AT HASTINGS

Since the first of the year, the Hastings church has been active in evangelism outreach. Two Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking have been held at the local hospital, with almost 100 persons taking part.

So successful were these that two neighboring communities have requested plans in their own community. Dr. Glenn Hahn, a local Adventist dentist, and Elder E. F. Herzel comprised the team assisted by the church members.

A three-week series of evangelistic meetings has also been held. Those who made decisions for Christ are looking forward to baptism in the near future.

A cooking and nutrition class which was attended by many of those who took the Five-Day Plan has also been completed. The pastor's wife conducted this assisted by Sally Caudill of the Delton church, a registered dietitian and graduate of Loma Linda University.

The first night a guest dietitian from the local hospital talked about a better breakfast. Other subjects presented were, balanced meals, vegetable proteins, bread making, child nutrition and school lunches, simple desserts, and low-fat and low-sugar diets. The Loma Linda Food Company assisted by supplying recipes, fact sheets, and foods which were sampled and used as door prizes each night. The class was also treated each night with films on nutrition supplied by the conference Department of Health Services.

The latest outreach was a Vacation Bible School held in the middle of June with attendance of about 70 students.

NEWS NOTES

- Through the end of June the Adventure in Faith offering totaled more than $31,000. Of this amount, 70 percent will be used for evangelism in Wisconsin and be counted toward the regular camp meeting evangelism offering.

- J. L. Ray, Madison pastor, added five new members to the church July 12, four by baptism. It Is Written played a significant part in several of these and other recent additions. One new member, Dan Flanagan, baptized in April with the help of It Is Written, helped his neighbor, Bill Boehm, understand and accept the message.

- Total expenditures to date for It Is Written air time, advertising, program rental, and interest follow-up for ten months on four stations has amounted to $24,833.48.

- The excellent support of the Wisconsin evangelistic offering has made it possible to sign a contract to continue It Is Written on four channels.

69 YEARS TOGETHER

Frank and Louise Lindsay

Frank and Louise Lindsay celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary on July 5. When they were preparing to join the church five years ago, Frank turned to Louise and said, "Mother, you've worn that wedding ring 64 years, but we wouldn't want to be a stumbling block, would we?"

Their pastor, Joe Ray, says, "May their example spiritually and maritally be followed by many."

EXCUSED FROM BIBLE STUDIES

Many excuses are available for not giving Bible studies. Bertha Korn has a few. She is an arthritic confined to the Juneau County Home, but each evening ten other ladies come to her room to sing and pray before Bertha leads out in a Bible study.

Mrs. Frank Pitchen, Oak Grove lay activities secretary, reports that, "four of those attending the studies are convicted on the Sabbath truth. Two have already started keeping the Sabbath."

If you are looking for an excuse from your need to give Bible studies, don't see Bertha Korn. She will convince you there is no excuse.

One of the nurses was overheard to say, "In spite of her handicap, she is the most cheerful person here. I wish all our patients had her religion."

Warm-up and cool-down exercises play an important part in conditioning the body for hard exercise. About 24 people are engaged in the twice-daily program overseen by the health education personnel at River Pines.

EMPLOYEES HUFF, PUFF TO FITNESS

With the tall, white-barked trees dangling lacy green boughs overhead, ten employees of River Pines Community Health Center mix the shadows of their straining bodies with the cooling shade.

One, two, three, four, puff. . .

It's warm-up time, 10 to 15 minutes of basic calisthenics designed to get the heartbeat from resting to 100 to 120 per minute, to develop the musculoskeletal system and to build up the oxygen supply in the body before beginning 12 to 30 minutes of more strenuous exercise. After warming up, the employees engage in activities such as cycling, jogging, brisk walking, rope skipping, stair climbing, and tennis. Upon finishing, a cool-down period of exercise gets blood redistributed to all parts of the body. Otherwise, shock may result.

One, two, three, four, puff. . .

In all, 24 River Pines employees are in a fitness program which started May 5 and continued, Monday through Thursday of each week, until June 19. There are two sessions daily. The programs began at their request.

"Although this is a fitness program, because of the screening process it can be used to detect heart disease," says Glenn Wintermeyer, executive secretary of the Health Conditioning Center at River Pines. "We found one employee in such a condition when we did our screening this time.

"There are two goals for this employee conditioning program," Wintermeyer says. "We want to demonstrate the scientific importance of cardio-vascular conditioning, and we want to demonstrate that an exercise program can be fun."

The Health Conditioning Center, under the direction of Dr. Richard T. Walden, is serving as a consultant for the fitness program.

Varied speed activity on a treadmill is part of the testing such persons as Sherry Steinwart underwent before beginning an employee fitness program at River Pines. Glenn Wintermeyer, right, is directing the program.

Each employee works under a program tailored to fit his needs. The programs were set up after obtaining a health history and putting each person through a treadmill stress test. While employees walked—or ran, according to the set speed—a 12-lead electrocardiograph machine continuously monitored the heart rate to discover any abnormalities and to make sure the heart received enough oxygen.

When testing was finished, each person received an "exercise heart rate." By using this heart rate, which took into account such factors as resting pulse rate, age, and sex, exercises designed to keep the heart at that level, thus increasing physical fitness, could be chosen by the employee.

"We are using Kenneth Cooper's book Aerobics as a foundation for the exercises," Wintermeyer says. "Some are group functions; others may be done individually."

One, two, three, four, puff. . .

Warm-ups, basic exercises are all done. It's time now to begin cooling down.

NEW COLLEGE PASTOR COMING

Chester H. Damron

Chester H. Damron, a missionary from Singapore, has been appointed new associate pastor for college youth at Andrews University. He will begin responsibilities in August.

Damron will work from offices in Pioneer Memorial Church and in the campus ministry suite of the campus center. He will assist Pastor John Kroncke in overall church activities and work with Pastor Wayne Shepperd in the campus ministry center.

Shepperd and Damron will cosponsor the Adventist Christian Youth Action, the campus youth organization.

Damron began mission service in 1960 as a pastor-evangelist in Thailand. In 1967 he moved to Indonesia, where he served as evangelist, director of Voice of Prophecy schools, and ministerial secretary of the Southeast Asia Union. Last year he was also acting principal of Far Eastern Academy, a high school for missionaries' children.

A.U. TEENAGE STRING QUARTET WINS NATIONAL CONTEST

Four teenage musicians at Andrews University have won first place in a national chamber music competition and a coveted opportunity to study this summer under the Lenox String Quartet, an internationally renowned group now teaching at the State University of New York in Binghamton.

When the Lenox seminar is over on June 27, the young musicians will join the New England Youth Ensemble on a tour of Poland. Early next year they plan to give 52 concerts in 10 weeks under professional management. Those concerts will take them from North Dakota to Florida.

Known as the Taylor String Quartet, the four, Leonard, Lyndon, Lowell, and Lucille, are the children of Dr. and Mrs. Morris Taylor, piano professors in the A.U. music department.

They range in age from 13 to 18. Lyndon the youngest, is finishing seventh grade, and Lucille, the oldest, her freshman year at A.U.

The quartet received a $250 award for winning the junior division of the Joseph Fischhoff National Chamber Music Competition in April at South Bend.

A.U. ACCEPTS 300 MORE

Student acceptances through mid-July for the college were running approximately 300 ahead of last year, according to Norman Roy, associate director of admissions.

The largest gain is in the number of returning students, 200. The remaining gain is divided between new and transfer students with the majority being new students.

The administration thought the recession would hurt enrollment. According to Roy, "A shortage of jobs may have caused some students to attend school."

"More students are realizing they need specialized training in some form," said Dyre Dyresen, director of admissions and records.

"The number of 18-year-olds in the country is not decreasing, and each year more loans and grants become available," he added, indicating that scholarships can help any student be able to afford a college education.

David Bauer, director of public relations, said the increase could be because his department has added a student recruiter to its staff.

Recruiter Mel Anderson has been visiting primarily homes of students in high schools and non-Adventist colleges for the past six months explaining A.U.'s programs and advantages.

Anderson said the university may even have new funds available to help needy students this fall. "We're working on some new money sources never used before." He added, "The total to distribute could be as high as $5,000."

STUDENT ROOMS GET PRIVATE PHONE LINES

"By the time students return to Andrews for the fall quarter, the telephones being installed in each dorm room will be ready for use," reports Mrs. Morna Firth, secretary in charge of the telephones on campus.

Centrex will serve the dorms, the administration, the instructional areas, the auxiliary phones, and the apartments.

The Centrex system is the most modern communications system available to colleges. It is designed to meet A.U.'s immediate needs and to grow as A.U. grows. Its potential is unlimited whether communications are man-to-man, machine-to-machine, or a mix of the two.
