centennial edition of conflict of the ages series

A new and special edition of the five volumes of the Conflict of the Ages series has been made available to the field through the Pacific Press.

The first volumes will be in English and will be followed by an edition in Spanish. This new hardcover set will be available at the special low price of $19.95 for all five books, surely a low price in these days of high costs. This has been possible through a mass printing in faith that our members will want to take advantage of this opportunity to place these beautiful red-covered volumes in their libraries.

Of all the writings of Ellen G. White, these five books are perhaps the most beautiful and contain an overview of the great controversy between Christ and Satan. They should be read by all church members, and they will make beautiful gifts to friends.

These books will be featured at camp meeting, and also are available through the Adventist Book Centers.

You will not want to miss this chance to have the Conflict of the Ages set of books at an unusually low price.

PENNSYLVANIA PREPARES TO HANDLE MASS TRANSFER OF PAROCHIAL STUDENTS

A Pennsylvania Senate committee has approved a bill providing $975 million to build or buy new public schools. Fear of a mass transfer of private and parochial school students to public schools prompted the measure. That fear hinges on the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling which struck down as unconstitutional five-sixths of the $33 million worth of state aid for Pennsylvania parochial schools. The bill would provide funds to purchase or build public schools for students now attending the 1,164 largely Catholic nonpublic schools.

CHARISMATICS NOT ADMITTED FOR MINISTRY TO CONCORDIA SEMINARY

A Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod seminary in Springfield, Missouri, has announced it will no longer accept students involved in the Charismatic Renewal movement. In a policy statement, Concordia Seminary said, "Applicants identified as neo-Pentecostal are ineligible for the program leading to certification for a call leading to the ministerium of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Henceforth at the time of admission, students will be asked whether they claim to possess one of the special charismatic gifts referred to in I Corinthians 12." Charismatic teachings, according to the seminary faculty, "are at variance with both the Scriptures and the Lutheran confessions."

AUSTRALIA HOME OF FIRST ABORIGINAL CATHOLIC PRIEST

Australia's first Aboriginal Roman Catholic priest believes that many aspects of Aboriginal traditions and customs are compatible with Christianity. Father Patrick Dodson, a member of the Yaoro tribe of the Kimberleys, told newsmen he hopes to use the traditional values of his people and mesh them with aspects of Christian belief. Australia has about 150,000 Aborigines.

NEW 125-MEMBER CHURCH EVERY 24 HOURS IN CENTRAL AMERICA

A new Seventh-day Adventist church with an average membership of 125 is formed every 24 hours in Central America, according to the head of the Inter-American Division. B. L. Archbold told the 52nd World Congress in Vienna that in the last five years 399 new churches were organized and 4,412 new church homes dedicated in Central America.

IT IS WRITTEN FINISHES 19 NEW TELECASTS

The It Is Written production staff is currently editing 19 new programs that will be aired beginning next fall. The programs feature the familiar format presenting traditional Adventist beliefs in new and interesting ways.

"The thrust of It Is Written has always been to present solid Bible truths by using modern and practical applications of God's eternal laws," states telecast speaker George Vandeman. This format has been responsible for the prominent place It Is Written currently holds among religious telecasts, topping the ratings for May, 1975, in Los Angeles, for example.

One of the recently taped programs, "How to Live with a Tiger," features the appearance of "G. T.," a 500-pound Bengal tiger reclining on the speaker's desk. Although the "tiger" referred to in the message is really an aspect of our human nature, the impressions created by a live tiger on the set are vivid and lasting.

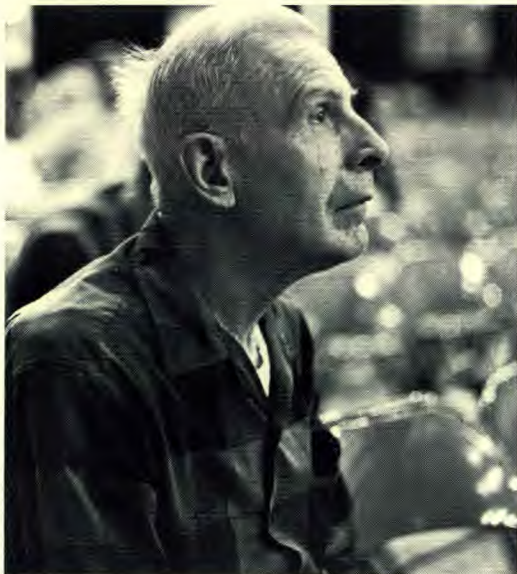

In the Lake Union, It Is Written is currently being telecast by the following stations: WEHT, Evansville, Indiana; WBAY, Green Bay, Wisconsin; and WKOW, Madison, Wisconsin. Check the local listings for the day and time of the telecast in your area.

Unfortunately, air time often becomes less available during the summer months, and several television stations have replaced the telecast during this time. The program will return on most of these stations in the fall, but in order to keep public response high during the summer, personal invitation to view the telecast is essential.

ILLINOIS WELCOMES NEW DOCTOR

S. W. Park, M.D.

The Illinois Conference welcomes another outstanding physician to the Chicago area, S. W. Park, M.D. Dr. Park has been an active member of the Chicago Korean church for several years while continuing his medical education.

After graduating from Woo Suk University Medical School in Korea, Dr. Park came to Chicago to complete his internship in medicine. He then took a residency in internal medicine at Cook County Hospital after which he felt impressed that the Lord was leading him into even more specialized training. So, he began a fellowship in cardiology at Mercy Hospital, which he finished in June of this year.

After these years of special training, Dr. Park is now announcing the opening of his office for internal medicine and cardiology at 211 W. Chicago Ave., Suite 217, Hinsdale, Illinois 60521. Dr. Park is using the most current diagnostic techniques available. He also makes use of special treadmills and monitoring equipment to diagnose and treat the more difficult heart and blood vessel diseases.

He and his wife Wha-Ja have a little daughter, Herine.

As a conference we are particularly excited about Dr. Park offering his training and himself to a statewide stress testing program, which we are developing. We believe it was providential that he was impressed to take further training in cardiology for this work.

Dr. Park and family, may Jesus Christ be your guide in this new medical missionary endeavor.

BAEBLERS TO CELEBRATE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George Baebler are looking forward to August 7, 1975, when they will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary.

It was in the year 1927 when the Baebler family first heard the three angels' messages in East St. Louis, Illinois. They are the only charter members of that early church which is now located in Collinsville.

The Baebler family has a daughter Margaret, and two sons, George Jr. and Paul, all married, and there are six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

George spent 30 or more of his 80 years in the colporteur work in the Illinois Conference using The Great Controversy as his lead book. Many rewarding experiences in soul winning can be recalled from his years of work for the Lord.

Has this witnessing team retired from the Lord's work? Not yet. Mr. Baebler is still teaching a Sabbath school class and they both are still anxious to share their faith with others by leaving beautiful books in the homes of many people.

Friends may write them at Box 77, Hecker, Illinois 62248.

MEETINGS HELD AT NORTH SHORE

The North Shore church in Chicago has completed their second annual evangelistic and medical education meetings. The meetings ran for five Sundays and six Sabbaths, April 5 to May 3. Those who helped prepare the series are pictured from left: Bud Calvert, music director; Roger Fahl, organist; Dr. Charles Noggle, medical lecturer; Pastor Harold Bohr, evangelistic speaker; William Winebrenner, health lecturer; assistant pastor Tim Rosenboom, evangelistic speaker; Ralph Zola, saxophone soloist; and Mary Hobbs, pianist.

ACTIVE LAYMEN REWARDED BY BAPTISM

After attending the Lay Preachers Workshop in Galesburg, Illinois, Elmer Gregory and Rheinhard Gottke, members of the Brookfield church, decided they were going to get together and give Bible studies. The Lord soon opened the way.

As they were passing out literature one afternoon, they called on the home of John Tipescue. Upon talking with him, they realized there was an interest here in studying the Bible. They contacted their pastor, Elder John Holstein, and told him of the interest they had found. Pastor Holstein called on Mr. Tipescue and made arrangements for studies to be given.

Elmer and Rheinhard began the studies, and John was baptized after having Bible studies for one year.

This trio are presently giving approximately ten Bible studies each week and enjoying every minute of their work. If this adventure were multiplied throughout our field and the world, Jesus would soon come.

EVANGELISM PLANNED FOR INDIANAPOLIS

Evangelist J. Reynolds Hoffman from Faith for Today is scheduled to begin an evangelistic series, September 13, in the Indianapolis Convention Center, 100 South Capitol Avenue in downtown Indianapolis.

If you have friends or relatives in this area that you would like us to personally visit or send an invitation to, please send their names and addresses to Elder Robert Taylor, 2900 E. 62nd Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46220. We also invite you to pray for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit through these meetings.

THIS IS A SCHOOL

A Christian school—in it are being trained the future Josephine Cunnington Edwardses, the Orville Scullys, the Thelma (Chew) and Herbert Smiths, the Dr. Robert Rigbys, the George Dunders, the Arling and Marlene (Reynolds) Hacketts, the Tom Massengills, the Kenneth Blantons, the Donald Gettys, the David Allens, the Kelvin Prisers, the Harvey Byrams, the Wayne Byers, the Dr. Frank Fowlers, the Steve Willseys, and the Cliff Hoffmans. These people are all Indiana Academy alumni as are scores of other denominational and lay workers around the world. Will your son or daughter be one of them?

Fred Anderson surveys his empty science classroom in eager anticipation of September when it will be buzzing with activity.

The world with its moral decay, drug abuses, and violence of all kinds is not a safe place for Christian young people today. God has ordained a better way—our Seventh-day Adventist school system. But unless we support it with all of our young people, we are falling short of God's plan.

Indiana Academy is anxious to make its educational program available to all who desire to attend. If there are those who want to come to the academy but who have a financial problem, we have available the Four-Way Scholarship Plan. Where there is a dedicated will, there is usually a discernible way.

We urge all of our prospective students to send in their applications right away so processing and acceptances can be completed prior to registration, which is Sunday, August 31, 8 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. Special community student registration is Thursday evening, August 28.

May God direct and bless our Indiana families as they plan for the education of their children and young people for the 1975-76 school year. May we all endeavor to follow God's divine plan.

JESUS MAKES THE DIFFERENCE

Christian education, Seventh-day Adventist style, is 103 years old. Like all of the other blessings of the Spirit of Prophecy, its value becomes more apparent with the passing of time. The difference between the public school and the church school is Jesus. This was the theme of the education program at the Indiana camp meeting, June 14. Christian education prepares young people to show their love for Christ by taking an active part in His world program.

The Indiana church school record reads like a modern Book of Acts: Over $1,446 raised for Faith for Today, several hundred dollars for publishing Bible textbooks for overseas schools, sponsoring children to Blind Camp, bundling up Bible books to send to English-speaking countries, helping the Quiet Hour send bicycles to the Philippines, missionary visits to nursing homes, money raising projects for Week of Sacrifice and Voice of Prophecy, sharing Jesus with other church groups through music, and presenting the temperance message in public schools.

The education booth at Indiana camp meeting was titled "Are All the Children In?" Jesus does make the difference.

Where else would all these things take place but in the church school where "Jesus makes the difference."

"Do our children receive from the teachers in the public schools ideas that are in harmony with the Word of God? Is sin presented as an offense against God? Is obedience to all the commandments of God taught as the beginning of all wisdom? We send our children to Sabbath school that they may be instructed in regard to the truth, and then as they go to the day school, lessons containing falsehood are given them to learn. These things confuse the mind, and should not be; for if the young receive ideas that pervert the truth, how will the influence of this education be counteracted?"—Child Guidance, p. 305.

HOUGHTON FAREWELL

It was with regrets that the Cicero church said farewell to Elder Don Houghton and family on Sabbath evening, June 7. At the program and supper songs and poems of tribute were given, and a gift of linens was presented to the family who will soon move to Arizona where Elder Houghton will be the ministerial secretary for the Arizona Conference.

Raymond Greer, grandfather of the class president, gave the commencement address.

CICERO SCHOOL GRADUATION

“Forward Ever, Backward Never” was the aim of the graduating class from the Cicero church school which had commencement on Tuesday evening, May 27, at the Cicero church.

The 11 members of the class were: Annette Trubey, president; Larry Ward, Jr., vice president; Lisa Warren, secretary; Wayne Mays, treasurer; Steve Nash, pastor; Kathy Crabtree and Teresa Fruth, historians; Penny Clear, Amy Huyck, Jeff Morgan, and Shelly Roberts.

The class asked Raymond Greer of Aledo, Illinois, to give the commencement address. Tribute to the parents was expressed in the presentation of flowers and a musical selection, “Those Wonderful Parents of Mine,” sung by the girls’ sextet. Principal James Stephan was given a lovely flowering tree to plant in his yard as thanks for the help he gave the class of 1975. Awards for perfect attendance and for scholastic achievement were also given.

The audience was then invited to a reception in the lower auditorium given by the seventh grade class.

GRADUATION HELD AT SHILOH

Elder S. D. Meyers, president of the Central States Conference, gave the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating classes of Shiloh Academy and grade school on June 7.

Meyers emphasized these points: 1) Prayer is always in style; 2) it takes more courage to turn away from a fight than it does to engage in it; 3) Jesus doesn’t ask us to sell Him—Judas sold Him long ago—He asks us to lift Him up; 4) a cheap Christian character works more harm than the character of a worldling.

On Sunday, June 8, Dr. Walter Douglas, assistant professor of church history at Andrews University, delivered the commencement address.

Douglas pointed out that “this service is not a commencement but a commitment. Commitment is knowing there is no hope for you save in God.”

The awarding of diplomas and the presentation of gifts and awards climaxed the graduation exercises. Elder J. R. Wagner, president of the Lake Region Conference, awarded diplomas to 16 seniors; Elder R. D. Barnes, education superintendent, awarded certificates to 42 eighth graders.

Mark Hatchett and Robin Tyson were elected by the faculty as the students who had made the greatest contributions to the school during their four years.

Two eighth graders, Stanton Reed and Andre Scaife, and four seniors, Patricia Burns, Helen Chornes, Markham Hatchett, and Robin Tyson, received a total of approximately $3,920 in scholarships, gifts, and awards. Andre and Stanton will return to Shiloh; Helen and Robin will attend Andrews; and Patricia and Markham will wend their way to Oakwood.

NEWS NOTES

- John Wolfe, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolfe of Muskegon, has received his bachelor of theology degree from Southern Missionary College.

- The Marshall Seventh-day Adventist church was one of four selected for the beginnings of the Bicentennial year celebration by the city of Marshall. These opening ceremonies recognized the "combined witness for religious freedom and heritage" according to the local Evening Chronicle.

- Members of the Ithaca church are collecting scrap metals. Copper, aluminum, brass, zinc, lead, batteries, radiators, sheet iron, etc., are all being collected to raise funds for mission work.

- Members of the Burlington church formed a work bee to put new roofing on the residence of a local citizen. They also sponsored the conference parade float and conducted special religious services in the town square for the annual homecoming. Pastor Ben Boggess used the occasion to point out that an Adventist was an original founder of the town. The Eternity Singers from Otsego and local Adventists furnished the special music at the open-air service.

- As part of its Bicentennial program the local Algonac Courier-Journal is running a series on the history of the churches in the area. Local church communications secretary, Mrs. Dana Richardson, was asked to write up the history of the church. Her story with a large picture of the church building occupied the full top quarter of a page in the paper's first section.

- Children of the Burlington church recently staged a walk-a-thon to raise funds for postage to send packages to Kenya in Africa. A local member was carrying on this mailing project but when rising postage costs became too expensive for one person to handle, the children raised $120 to help.

- A recent baptism at Muskegon saw three persons added to the church. Jamile Jacobs is the pastor there.

- The Grand Rapids Central church has established a smoker's dial. The entire Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking is presented in capsule form. A smoker's dial business card is also being prepared for circulation and small ads will be carried by local papers.

100-YEAR-OLD DREAM NEARS FULFILLMENT

The first step in fulfilling a dream almost 100 years old took place at Cedar Lake, Sunday evening, June 29.

At that time representatives from the academy, the community, and the conference office dug into the ground to officially mark the beginnings of a separate church building for the Cedar Lake congregation.

The new 800-seat structure will cost an estimated

Twelve academy, community, and conference officials "dug in" at Cedar Lake recently to make a separate church building possible for the congregation. Headed by conference president Robert D. Moon and local pastor Donald Eckenroth, the interested spectators gathered on land across from the academy administration building for the ceremonies which included speeches, the reading of scripture, singing and special music, and the spoken act of dedication.

$425,000. It will feature Indiana limestone and a hexagon shape sanctuary.

Before the turn of the century, when lumbering was a major industry in Michigan, many people came to Cedar Lake seeking employment in the lumber camps. Among them were a few Seventh-day Adventists who settled in the area and began the history of the church at Cedar Lake.

On July 3, 1879, a church was organized with 13 charter members meeting regularly in private homes. A need was soon felt for a church building but at about the same time the members saw the value of Christian education and deferred their plans in favor of a school which was opened in 1898.

Education priorities postponed time and time again the building of a separate sanctuary for Sabbath worship. But now this 100-year-old dream is taking shape with the possibility of worshiping in a proper church building before the end of this coming school year.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM AT BATTLE CREEK SAN

With the crane ready to raise building materials to the fourth floor of the Jeffrey Building, the $3.8 million construction program at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital is in full swing.

Forty-one mental health unit beds will bring the total hospital bed capacity to 155 when the fourth floor is finished by the end of this year. Patients are scheduled to occupy the new unit early in 1976.

This new unit, according to Vernon L. Small, administrator, will give the hospital 80 mental health unit beds; the other 75 on the second and third floors are reserved for medical and surgical patients.

Along with the new addition will be an expansion of the present alcoholism and drug rehabilitation programs. In broadening the substance abuse program, Thomas K. Williams, Ed.D., director of the hospital's special services for substance abuse, pointed out that more emphasis will be placed on supportive services that care for patients after they are discharged from the hospital. The department is currently licensed by the state and is preparing for a November accreditation for both inpatient and outpatient substance abuse services.

While expanding the substance abuse program, the hospital is also strongly considering the incorporation of an adolescent psychiatric service for persons ranging in age from 11 to 18. This program, according to Anne F. Norgan, M.D., chief of psychiatry at the hospital, will require a younger, specially trained staff and will also call for slight modifications in decor.

"This doesn't mean we'll have psychedelic furnishings," Dr. Norgan said. Rather, she continued, we may have beanbag chairs in the therapy rooms and incorporate other similar modifications in the physical makeup of the unit. The recreational program for this age group will be more active, focusing on such activities as ball games rather than on entertainment type activities.

An adolescent unit would also have its own therapy sessions, with parents sometimes attending, Dr. Norgan said. Other differences in adult and adolescent mental health care are reflected in the lengths of stay. Whereas the average stay for the adult patient in an acute care mental health unit is 16 to 18 days, the average stay for an adolescent is 30 to 45 days, according to Dr. Norgan.

The new unit will have a combined recreation and dining room, a snack bar, lounge, and private baths for each room. There may also be a study and classroom area. Arrangements will be worked out with one of the area schools where student-patients can attend daytime classes, said Elizabeth Ingle, R.N., head nurse in the mental health unit.

TAWAS INCREASES 110 PERCENT

A baptism on June 14 in Lake Huron added five new members to the Tawas church. Pictured with Pastor Russell Booth, back, are back row: Mrs. Josepha McGray and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Graves. In the front row are Audrey Newsom and Connie Stahl. These new members bring the Tawas membership to 69 which is, Booth reports, a 110 percent increase in the past three years. Tawas church members are "praising God" for this increase.

The cast of "The Sound of Music" takes a bow.

SOUTHFIELD STUDENTS ENTERTAIN FRIENDS AND FAMILIES

Friends and families of students attending Southfield Junior Academy were treated to two fine programs recently.

On May 18, the students presented "The Sound of Music," the world famous musical of the Trapp family singers. This was directed by Mrs. Vada Dunifer.

On June 3, the newly formed gymnastics team performed feats of strength, agility, and coordination in a fascinating two-hour program coached by Pastor James Pleasants. Wally Strickland, physical education teacher at the academy, also worked with the group. Felix Lorenz, Jr., entertained the audience during the intermission.

Over the months of preparation the student interest remained high. Those who participated benefited from practical lessons which were an important by-product of these projects, and according to a school spokesman, they will "treasure the memories of shared experiences."

MISS CLARK GUEST AT EDENVILLE

Eight years ago Frances Clark began her work as Michigan's elementary supervisor. At the same time Kim Rau, Dawn Jones, and Mary Thomas (from right) started in the first grade at Edenville's church school. When the three girls heard that Miss Clark was leaving to accept a post in the Education Department of the Southwestern Union Conference office they felt it was fitting to invite her to be the guest speaker for their graduation. She accepted the challenge as her last official act for the conference. Mark Gernsey, joined the three girls in showing their diplomas to Miss Clark as proof that they made the grade.

Two years later he was made manager, and this phase of church work was his calling for the following 29 years. All of his service took place in the Lake Union territory.

At the time of his retirement, he was public relations director and assistant auditor for the Illinois conference. Two years later he accepted the position of assistant auditor for the Michigan Conference and continued in this work for the following six years.

Mrs. Burgess has been active in the welfare program of the church and has taught in the children's departments of the Sabbath school for nearly 50 years.

PROFESSOR PUBLISHES BOOK ON PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Ingrid C. Johnson

An Andrews University professor has written a book on elementary school physical education outlining a method that has improved classroom performance of pupils at the Seventh-day Adventist church school in Berrien Springs.

The book, entitled Happiness is Physical Education in the Elementary School, is scheduled to be off the press at the Andrews University Printers in June. The author is Ingrid Johnson, associate professor of physical education and health and a registered nurse.

She outlines a program that minimizes competition by deferring regular sports to grades seven or eight and devoting the first six grades to general skill activities.

F.S.C. TO MANAGE CAMP MEETING FOOD SERVICE

Clinton Wall, director of Food Systems Consultants (F.S.C.), Andrews University, will manage the camp meeting food service program again this year. He will be assisted in management by Mrs. Millie Kurtz and Mrs. Paula Chapman, members of the F.S.C. team. Mrs. Ella Petricko, dietary management consultant, will run the home office while they are away.

Key supervisory personnel from Grand Ledge Academy and Andrews University Food Service, along with students from the Michigan Conference, will assist the management team in this important aspect of camp life.

Methods are being implemented to speed up service and provide nutritious meals at reasonable rates. A la carte pricing, throw-away dishes, self-busing, and pre-served foods are some of the features planned.

MISSION INSTITUTE HELD AT A.U.

Some 65 prospective and veteran missionaries on assignment throughout the world attended the Institute of World Missions at Andrews University, June 16 to July 3.

The institute, held semi-annually, is designed to help the Seventh-day Adventist missionary adapt to service overseas and face intelligently changing conditions of the post-colonial era.

During the three-week institute, the instructors discussed obstacles and opportunities for Seventh-day Adventist mission today and ways of communicating the gospel across boundaries of culture, nations, languages, economies, and religions.

Other topics included health and hygiene, missionary family, government aid, philosophy of medical work, and mission organization.

Nearly without exception, returning missionaries said they found the institute as valuable as did the new appointees, if not more so. "Having been missionaries, we knew the significance of what was being said," commented one missionary wife.

Dr. Gottfried Oosterwal, director of the institute and chairman of the mission department of the seminary, said that some 500 missionaries have attended the institute since it began in 1966.

A special institute will be held at Newbold College, England, from July 23 to August 20 this summer, to coincide with the General Conference in Vienna.

The instructors at the A.U. institute this summer were Dr. Oosterwal; William L. Pascoe, assistant treasurer at the General Conference; Russell L. Staples, associate professor of mission at A.U.; Demetrio Hechanova, M.D.; A.U. President Richard Hammill; M. S. Nigri, a general vice president of the General Conference; R. Fadeley, assistant professor of psychology; and Reese Jenkins, director of trust services at A.U.

ANDREWS RECEIVES GRANT FROM NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

The National Science Foundation has awarded Andrews University an $11,400 grant for equipment for a new fluid mechanics laboratory. The laboratory, to be ready for use within two years, will be housed on the third floor of the Haughey Hall section of the science complex.

A.U. will match the N.S.F. grant, for a total project cost of $22,800. Space for the facility was allowed for when the science complex was under construction.

The class in applied fluid mechanics in the department of industrial and engineering technology will use the lab.

Harold H. Lang, chairman of the engineering department, has charge of setting up the new facility.

The N.S.F. grant was awarded under the Instructional Equipment Program, set up to improve undergraduate science instruction.
