Pilots Fly to Vienna

Robert Seamont and Stan Seery

Chalking up his fifth crossing of the Atlantic in a single-engine airplane, Bob Seamont stopped in Vienna, Austria, to attend the World Congress of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

His 30-year career of flying for God has included flying as a district pastor for Adventist churches on the islands in the Puget Sound, Washington, and directing the flight program at the Adventist air base in Pucallpa, Peru.

Bob's first emergency medical evacuation flight saved his wife's life. At the remote village of Unini in Peru, Bob and his wife Ellen, were about to begin a motorboat trip on the Unini River. When the engine started, gasoline fumes exploded, engulfing Ellen in flames. Bob grabbed her and both went overboard into the water.

"Ellen likely would not have survived the severe third-degree burns to both of her legs if the only means of evacuation had been the normal seven-day river trip to the hospital," Bob said.

But the plane was there and they were soon airborne for Pucallpa. Bob radioed ahead and persuaded an airliner bound for Lima to delay departure till he arrived. Within four hours Ellen was in a Lima hospital.

Co-pilot Stan Seery and two passengers made the trans-Atlantic trip in the Cessna 185. After the congress, Stan will deliver the plane to Zaire, Africa, where it will be used in general mission service. He will then go on to Kanye, Botswana, to a large Adventist hospital where he will fly and maintain a Cessna 185, flying medical personnel out to hold clinics in distant areas.

The trip from Keene, Texas, to Venice, Italy, where they left the plane, took 55 hours. "We saw hundreds of icebergs in the North Atlantic," Bob said. At one point they ran into heavy clear ice and had to descend quickly into warmer air to melt the ice. Another emergency developed when the pump on the auxiliary fuel tank failed. After a brief tense search they found that a seat belt buckle had shorted the wire to the pump. Aside from a brief encounter with hail over the Alps, the trip was uneventful.

COVER

For seventy years Ellen White worked among us. She traveled widely, spoke to audiences large and small, wrote incessantly, and was the author of more than fifty popular volumes in current circulation, as well as hundreds of pamphlets and 4,000 periodical articles. The period of active service she devoted to this denomination began before her marriage to James White, in 1846, and extended to 1915. See story on pages 4 and 5.

FIRST WORLD CONGRESS OF SORCERY HELD IN BOGOTA, COLOMBIA

A theme like a "call for love, peace, and faith," could come from any number of Christian groups. However, it happened to be the theme of what was billed as the first World Congress on Sorcery, held in Bogota, Colombia. Some 2,000 self-styled witches, "occult" buffs, "psychics," and some scientists paid the required fee to participate in 40 seminars conducted by specialists in the occult. Thousands of other people—not enrolled for seminars—attended general sessions and consulted palm-readers, astrologers, and others who offered their services at an accompanying exhibition.

PRESBYTERIANS TERM GOVERNMENT PLAN UNACCEPTABLE

Presbyterian school officials in Wellington, New Zealand, have termed a government education plan "unrealistic and unacceptable." The plan permits independent institutions to integrate into the state educational system. Under the legislation, private schools can come into the public system and still retain their special character. Church authorities say the "plain intention" is that any church school being integrated would be absorbed and its special character extinguished.

SOUTH AFRICAN BAPTIST HOSPITAL TO COME UNDER STATE CONTROL

South African Baptists are accepting without protest a government decision to take over the Jubilee Mission Hospital at Hammanskraal. There are as many as 100 South African hospitals, founded by church and other humanitarian organizations, which are expected to be taken over by the government. The process is seen as irreversible, because the hospitals are now virtually dependent on state funds. South African Baptists say that all missionaries presently on the Jubilee staff have agreed to remain under the new management.

BUDDHISTS BUILD FIRST U.S. COUNTRY RETREAT CENTER

Lewbeach, New York, will be the site of the first Zen Buddhist country retreat center. The center is being constructed on a 1,400-acre wooded site near the Zen Studies Society. Its purpose will be to serve those "who feel the need for longer periods of intensive Zen practice." Included in the zendo are a meditation or "zazen" hall, a Dharma hall for chanting and lectures, a Dokusan room for the tea ceremony, and a separate reception area with an altar and statue of Buddha.

PRIEST FINED FOR VIOLATING ZONING LAW WITH MASS

A Catholic priest was fined $250 in Fairfax County Criminal Court for violating a zoning law. The violation consisted of celebrating mass in a private home which has been converted into a church. The priest's attorney says the ordinance is unconstitutional because it limits the practice of religion and the right of free assembly. "The only type of meetings it specifically refers to," he said, "are religious ones." Various prayer communities associated with the Charismatic Renewal in the Washington, D.C., area are studying the conviction and appeal, since many of them hold prayer meetings in private homes.

SALES TECHNIQUES MAY BAN HARE KRISHNA DEVOTEES FROM JAPAN

Japanese police are cracking down on foreign "missionaries" from the U.S.-based Hare Krishna movement. Several instances have been reported where devotees use overzealous sales techniques in the dispersal of pamphlets. Two were charged with robbing an Osaka jeweler of $2,500 worth of wristwatches. Another was accused of haggling with a junior high school girl because she wouldn't pay a dollar for his magazine. A similar incident was reported in Kyoto, where a young "missionary" was charged with hitting an elderly lady in the eye because she ignored him and refused to buy the literature. The National Police Agency asked the Justice Ministry to refuse an extension of stay for the young people, mostly Americans, and all on tourist visas, on grounds that sales activities by tourists are not allowed.

COUNTRY IN FOR A LACK OF INTEREST IN RELIGION

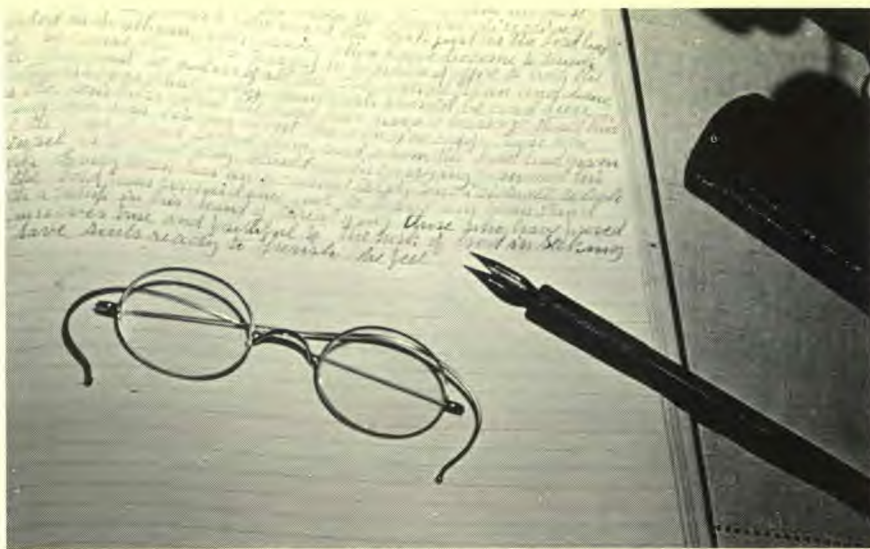

A St. Louis University scholar says that "lack of interest" in religion will probably characterize American Christianity in the future. During a session on futurology at Mount St. Joseph's College, Dr. James Hitchcock compared future attitudes of Christians to the "widespread (religious) infidelity" among colonial Americans. It will be respectable, Hitchcock said, "not to go to church" for the first time in 200 years. Thirty years after the signing of the U.S. Constitution, revivalism had established popular religion among Americans at an unprecedented level. It is his prediction that it may do so again.

A REMINDER

In July a letter, together with some green envelopes, was sent to each Adventist family in North America, inviting them to participate financially in establishing the Seventh-day Adventist Radio, Television, and Film Center here in Thousand Oaks. If everyone would help a little bit, this could be accomplished very quickly. Many are still considering what they can do. Please let us know now what you can do. The green envelopes are yours for just that purpose. Please encourage your relatives, neighbors, and friends to join you in this one-time approach to establish this most important radio and television program production center. May God love and bless you abundantly in your missionary endeavors. Thank you for your help which is so much needed now.

There came a day when Ellen White for the last time laid her pen down. Her writing was finished. What a treasure was left in her writings.

The Ellen G. White Books— Ten Questions and Answers

by W. P. Bradley, Chairman
Ellen G. White Estate Trustees

1. What were the last books Ellen White helped prepare?

The last three books up to 1915, the year of her death, were: Gospel Workers (1915), Life Sketches of Ellen G. White (1915), and The Story of Prophets and Kings (1917), which was in preparation at the time of her death. The three-volume Index to the Writings of E. G. White lists all her books up to 1963. The posthumous books are listed beginning on page 3206 of Volume 3.

2. On what basis have compilations of Mrs. White's writings continued to appear after her death?

Ellen G. White expected that this would be done and made provision for it in her will and in other instructions.

One paragraph of her will said: "Then my said trustees shall use the overplus for the improvement of the books and manuscripts held in trust by them, and herein provide; for the securing and printing of new translations thereof; for the printing of compilations from my manuscripts."

3. What are the sources of the materials in these posthumous books?

In the E. G. W. manuscript vault are over 8,000 separate and distinct documents comprising some 60,000 typewritten pages: Letters, diaries, sermons, and manuscripts. Use is made of material in these documents, as well as her thousands of periodical articles and at times materials from her earlier books. Mrs. White herself followed the practice of lifting sections out of her own manuscripts and earlier books in preparing her later works.

4. Who has the custody of these materials and who authorizes the preparation of new books?

This authority resides in the Board of Trustees of the Ellen G. White Estate who represent the author. This authority is exercised in counsel with the General Conference Committee. The relationship is a cooperative one described in a paragraph from an Autumn Council action of 1972:

Ellen G. White Writings.—The writings of Ellen G. White are, in a special sense, the property of the church. The published writings and the manuscripts were both placed by her in the care of the Ellen G. White Board of Trustees, which is responsible for their safekeeping and for the promotion of their publication in all leading languages. This board is also responsible for the issuance of new books compiled from the E. G. White manuscripts and periodical articles. The board, working in close cooperation with the General Conference Committee, serves as the author's representative in all matters pertaining to the published and unpublished writings, whether these be under copyright or in public domain.—Autumn Council Actions, 1972, p. 116.

5. How is the material for new books prepared?

It is gathered together initially in the Ellen G. White Publications office by experienced researchers and arranged according to the sense of the material itself into chapters, etc. Subheadings, chapter titles, and book titles are selected that fit the material, at times with counsel from the publishing houses.

In selecting and arranging material, painstaking care is exercised to assure that it carries the E. G. White emphasis and that a balanced presentation of Ellen G. White's counsel is given. The manuscript is read by various individuals, some not connected with the E. G. W. office, and the Estate Trustees are responsible for the final release of the manuscript.

6. Who are the publishers of E. G. W. books?

The regular S.D.A. publishing houses are the authorized publishers, and they cooperate fully in the process of print-

W. Paul Bradley, president of the Ellen G. White Trustees, wrote this article in hopes that it will be helpful in acquainting readers with the E. G. White books and answer questions regarding unauthorized private printings of some of her books that are being circulated rather widely these days.

ing and circulating her books under the policy. Their part in the process calls for a considerable investment in the initial cost of preparing books for publication, and it is only fair that their costs be recovered in the process of book distribution. The book and periodical agencies are the channels for the normal distribution of E. G. White books to churches, conferences, workers, and individuals. Our publishing houses are able to supply all the needs of the field and to do so on a cost-saving competitive basis. So actually there is no need or justification to print and circulate E. G. White books privately.

Top, A number of new books have been printed since Mrs. White's death in 1915. Bottom, During the 15 years at Elmshaven, Mrs. White brought out nine books.

7. Is royalty paid on the Ellen G. White books?

In the S.D.A. publishing system provision is made for the payment of a modest royalty to authors. In the case of all Ellen G. White English books, the publishing houses pay a small royalty to the General Conference Corporation. Foreign language printings are royalty-free.

The annual royalty income from E. G. W. books is equivalent to about one half the cost of maintaining the E. G. White Publications office in the General Conference. The full operating budget of that office is provided by the General Conference.

8. What of private printings of Ellen G. White books and other materials?

It is true that several volumes of E.

G. White books have appeared, printed and circulated by private individuals or groups but outside the denominational policy for authorizing and publishing her books. In the Autumn Council of 1972, the General Conference Committee called attention to the existing policy and the need of honoring its provisions:

General Conference Recognition.—The General Conference recognizes the Ellen G. White Estate, Incorporated, established by Ellen G. White herself, as the owner and proprietor of all her writings, thus bearing responsibility for their care, publication, and widest possible distribution. This relates to all Ellen G. White writings whether under copyright or not. Permission for publication of these writings emanates from the Board. The General Conference calls upon organizations and persons, within or without the church, to honor the provisions of the author for the continuing custody of her writings.—Autumn Council Actions, 1972, p. 116.

9. Should policy be allowed to triumph over economy in providing literature to disseminate the message?

Certainly not, and the operation of policy does not make our publishing operations significantly more costly. But we shall have disorder and confusion if we try to publish and circulate E. G. White books through several channels, one a denominational, the other a private channel. What is needed is to present a united front, to work together for the widest possible circulation of the E. G. White books, several of which the author especially noted as being particularly important for these last times.

Our regular publishing houses and distributing agencies offer the books priced at many levels, from a few cents a copy up to the higher priced subscription books. Also, the publishing houses are increasing the number of E. G. White works available in the inexpensive newsprint paperback format. It is apparent that within the policy it is possible to fulfill any need economically in supplying E. G. White literature for the members, the churches, the workers, and the conferences and missions.

10. What is the significance of the publishing system in the church's total task?

The publishing work was born right with the church. In a sense they were twins. The written word taught the message and it held the scattered fragments of the infant church together. It fostered a sense of belonging among the members, and it has always been at work out on the growing edge of the church. Ellen G. White put it this way:

Our publishing work was established by the direction of God and under His special supervision. It was designed to accomplish a specific purpose. Seventh-day Adventists have been chosen by God as a peculiar people, separate from the world. By the great cleaver of truth He has cut them out from the quarry of the world and brought them into connection with Himself. He has made them His representatives and has called them to be ambassadors for Him in the last work of salvation. The greatest wealth of truth ever entrusted to mortals, the most solemn and fearful warnings ever sent by God to man, have been committed to them to be given to the world; and in the accomplishment of this work our publishing houses are among the most effective agencies.—Testimonies, Vol. 7, p. 138.

Elder Arthur White stands beside the tall stack of E. G. White books in the White Estate vault.

We urge all our members to join in the widest possible distribution of the Ellen G. White books, using and supporting the facilities provided by the church, the publishing houses, and book and periodical agencies.

NEWS NOTES FROM JOLIET

• In August, the church members greatly enjoyed and were blessed by the church service and vesper program presented by Elder and Mrs. Paul Cannon. The vesper program was also attended by members of the Downers Grove church, and was followed by a gym night and social hour. Fund-raising refreshments were planned by assistant pastor Roland Friedrich and his wife Pam. A corn roast was provided by sweet corn raised by the Ronald VanArsdell family as a part of their Investment project for the year.

• Church members and some nonmembers have rented small garden plots located on the church property. The Lord has blessed and many members have benefited from a successful gardening year.

PASTOR BAPTIZES HIS MOTHER

Pastor Wayne Pleasants of the Glen Ellyn church was raised in a Christian home. His father knew of the Adventist truth but did not practice the teachings, and his mother was a Baptist.

His mother, Nancy, sent her children to Sabbath school and church in Pontiac, Illinois. For eleven years the children attended the little Sabbath school which was held in the upper story of the court house in a corner behind the piano. It was here in this tiny class that the Pleasants children learned of Jesus, and many precious seeds of truth were sown in their young minds that later would help them in their decisions. Nancy prayed with her family and taught them to live by the Ten Commandments.

During their teenage years the children stopped going to church. At the close of World War II, however, they began diligently studying their Bibles and all the beautiful lessons they had learned as children came back to their minds. Four of the five children were baptized as Seventh-day Adventists. Richard and Wayne attended

Those participating in the baptism at Glen Ellyn are from left, Tim Westfall, Vicky Morakis, Mrs. Nancy Pleasants, and Pastor Wayne Pleasants.

Emmanuel Missionary College, Lloyd went to Southern Missionary College, and the oldest sister went to La Sierra College.

The children prayed earnestly for their mother and sent her These Times, Signs of the Times, and other literature and books. For nearly 30 years their prayers ascended to God, and their loving, consistent Christian lives had their influence on Nancy Pleasants.

In 1974, the youngest sister was baptized, and on July 26, 1975, Nancy was led into the waters of baptism by her son, Wayne. Richard, Sabbath school secretary of the Florida Conference, preached the sermon that Sabbath. Lloyd, who now lives in Indianapolis, offered a thanksgiving prayer. Also baptized were Tim Westfall and Vicky Morakis.

The Pleasants family and the members of the Glen Ellyn church rejoice that another family is united in Christ.

WEST CENTRAL'S FLEA MARKET

Who remembers July 20, 1975? The Investment leaders of West Central do and so do about two dozen faithful workers. It was Sunday, the day of the Flea Market and it was 90 degrees. After preparing for months gathering things, cleaning, sorting, and pricing items, the day was getting close. Saturday evening after the Sabbath, some members got started. They worked until 2 a.m. and were back again at 6 a.m.

Those who took part had a prayer circle, thanking God for the nice day, the willing workers, and a chance to do His work.

Sixteen spaces were rented out at $5 apiece. A couple of nurses took people's blood pressure for $1, which brought in another $33.

The Dorcas ladies sold odds and ends plus canned goods for Dorcas. The primary department sold house plants; another member sold gift items made of pine cones. Another couple had furniture and household items. There were baby buggies, play pens, bathroom sinks, light fixtures, a hot water heater, cameras, and even a toboggan.

Members served refreshments—vegetarian Sloppy Joe's, hot dogs, popcorn, goods baked by members, and hot and cold drinks.

It all started at 8 a.m. and ran until 5 p.m. The young people walked the streets with large signs telling of the sale, and others passed out leaflets in the neighborhood prior to the sale.

Total profit for the day was $1,070. God was good. Other vendors were very satisfied and asked to be notified of a future sale. The next sale will be Sunday, October 5, 1975, in the church parking lot, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. In case of bad weather, it will be held the following week. If you missed the first sale, don't miss the next one and get in on the blessings of Investment. Anyone wishing to donate things to sell or wishing to rent a spot, please call (312) 736-6618. Thanks again to everyone!

GALESBURG FAIR BOOTH FOLLOWED BY COOKING CLASSES

An "Unmeat Corner" fair booth was operated at the Knox County Fair, July 29 to August 3, by a few lay members of the Galesburg church. Vegetarian samples were distributed. Vegeburger Sloppy Joes and booklets on vegetarianism were sold. Many applications were filled out for follow-up Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking and a vegetarian cooking class.

John Tuthill, lay activities leader, and his wife Linda, along with Mrs. Mamie Reed, secretary-treasurer of the Community Services Center, planned the booth.

Two days after the fair, a vegetarian cooking class began at the Good Samaritan Retreat. Carol Schoun, wife of Pastor Ben Schoun, and Becky Wang, a Loma Linda medical student, directed the classes. They alternated talks and demonstrations.

One feature of the class was that the participants made their own samples to acquire the feel and look of healthful vegetarian cookery. The class seemed to enjoy and benefit from this demonstration. There were ten students.

HINSDALE EVANGELISTIC SERIES

NEW PASTOR ARRIVES AT GLENDALE AND INGALLS

The Glendale and Ingalls churches welcome Elder Robert Taylor and his family into service as their new pastor.

Elder Taylor's most recent tour of duty has been as ministerial and temperance secretary of the Afro-Mideast Division of the General Conference. Based in Beirut, Lebanon, his term of service was shortened due to political unrest. Previously he had worked in Canada and as a missionary in Brazil.

Elder Taylor and his wife Fay have two daughters, Sharon, a junior at Southern Missionary College studying dietetics, and Bonnie, a college freshman at Pacific Union College, who is planning a career in nursing.

The Taylors have labored in the Pennsylvania, Alabama, and Mississippi conferences where Elder Taylor served as ministerial secretary and evangelist.

DR. LA RONDELLE SPEAKS ON "EXPRESSION"

"Hello, you're on the air."

The voice is that of moderator Clete Helton speaking on the program "Expression" aired nightly over radio station WIOU, Kokomo, Indiana.

"Do you have a question for Dr. La Rondelle?"

The occasion was the appearance of Dr. Hans La Rondelle, associate professor of theology at Andrews University, speaking on Helton's nightly radio program.

The program is such that listeners can phone in their questions, subject to the topic being discussed for the night, and receive immediate answers from guests on the show or from Clete, himself.

Helton indicated there was great interest among his listeners relating to the "rapture" and other religious subjects. By audience demand he felt bound to obtain the assistance of a trained theologian to appear on the program. As he said, "I needed some concrete answers to the many questions that were being asked."

Through the efforts of Pastor David Bissell, Kokomo district pastor, the services of Dr. La Rondelle were obtained, and the program was sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist church of Kokomo.

Dr. La Rondelle received his doctorate from the Reform University of Amsterdam in the Netherlands. After his years of teaching, he was well qualified to field the questions tossed to him on such subjects as: the modern concept of the rapture, the mark of the beast, present-day prophecy, the second coming of Christ, and a host of other controversial subjects of the day.

Dr. La Rondelle retained all his answers within the confines of Seventh-day Adventist interpretations and beliefs, supporting all his answers with Bible scriptures.

Dr. Hans La Rondelle, left, explains a text of scripture to Clete Helton, radio moderator.

Clete Helton, the moderator, was well pleased with the program and intends to have Dr. La Rondelle make a return appearance.

Normally, the program is for one hour, but interest in the discussions ran so high that after an ABC five-minute news break, the program was extended for another half hour.

I.A. CAFETERIA GROUND BREAKING

Ground breaking service for the new cafeteria at Indiana Academy was held Sunday, September 7. The area just east of the gymnasium is the construction site for the new building which is the next step in rebuilding Indiana Academy. The new cafeteria will cover 10,800 square feet, will have a seating capacity of 275, and will include ample refrigeration for commodities, a long-term freezing compartment, and an adequate bakery capable of producing volume-baked items.

Construction will begin on the building as soon as all permits are obtained and hopefully it will be ready for use by the 1976 school year. The $225,000 structure will be under the supervision of Harold Zacharias, Indiana conference contractor.

Ground breaking service included an introduction and welcome by James Nash, principal of Indiana Academy; prayer was offered by Ray Rouse, conference treasurer;

LOT DEDICATED IN INDIANAPOLIS

The lot purchased to build the new Eastside church in Indianapolis was recently dedicated debt free. Elder J. P. Lewis, pastor, was assisted by Elder Lawrence Shepherd, leader for the Illiana area, and a host of elders and deacons. The $32,000 lot is located at 3200 North Sherman Drive. Hopefully a beautiful structure built to the glory of God will soon be there.

CAMP MEETING MUSIC

Camp meeting music was found all over the Michigan campgrounds even within this 11-foot, seven-pound Alpine horn. With this instrument, Andy Ferrer, of California and Switzerland, brought some of the most unusual musical numbers at the camp session. Although the horn has been known to have been heard for 25 miles in the Swiss Alps, Ferrer managed to keep his music within the confines of the place where he was presenting his music.

NEW TEACHERS FOR C.L.A.

Don and Alice Merrill

Cedar Lake Academy has added eight full- and part-time members to its staff for the 1975-76 school year. This includes teachers of Bible, English, home economics, industrial education, keyboards, and ceramics, as well as a boys' dean and an associate food director.

Donald and Alice Merrill, who come to Cedar Lake Academy from the Seventh-day Adventist Mission School in Newfoundland, Canada, are serving as dean of boys and instructor in home economics, respectively. Merrill, a native of Portland, Maine, and former commercial fisherman, holds a B.S. degree in physical education with minors in education and religion from Atlantic Union College. In addition to a year in active mission service in Newfoundland, he spent a year as a student missionary in Indonesia.

Alice Merrill, daughter of Elder Harley Schander, pastor of the Madison, Tennessee, Hospital church teaches all classes in home economics, including a recently initiated and popular course for boys. Mrs. Merrill, who attended Andrews University and Newbold College, received a B.S. degree in home economics with a minor in education from Atlantic Union College.

Chuck and Diane Castle, recent graduates of Pacific Union College, are instructors in industrial education and ceramics. Castle, who holds a B.S. degree in industrial education, teaches printing, automotive mechanics, and drivers' education, all of which are co-educational. He calls the West Coast, and most recently, Southern California, home.

Diane Castle holds an A.S. degree in early childhood education and teaches ceramics. Mrs. Castle, although born in Pennsylvania, refers to Singapore as "home" because of the years she spent there in mission service with her father, Elder Don Roth, recently appointed associate secretary of the General Conference.

Miss Marleen Galvan, instructor in keyboard instruments, is a certified music instructor with a B.A. in music from Andrews University, graduating in 1975. A former resident of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, she has an interest in pre-school child guidance and has worked in a day care center for migrant children in Berrien Springs.

William Cowin, Bible teacher and sponsor of campus seminar, a religious activities organization, holds a B.A. in religion from Walla Walla College, as well as a post-graduate emphasis in English and health. He has been teacher and principal at Central Valley Junior Academy, Wapato, Washington, teacher at Tri-City Junior Academy in Pasco, Washington, as well as summer dean of men at both Upper Columbia and Laurelwood academies. Cowin, a native of Walla Walla, was a member of "The Impacts," a West Coast gospel singing group, with whom he recorded three records. He is assisted in his duties by his wife Nancy. They have two children, Tamara, 7, and Jeremy, 6.

Steve Price, instructor of junior and senior English, and sponsor of the campus newspaper, The Cedar Log, holds a B.A. in English with a minor in German, and an M.A. in English from Andrews University. Mr. Price comes to Cedar Lake from Forest Lake Academy, Maitland, Florida, where he has held similar positions. Mr. Price's family consists of his wife Beverly and son Jason.

Margie Larson, associate food director, has studied food production in the Andrews University School of Occupational Education and spent a year as cook in the A.U. food service department. Mrs. Larson, who has been a Michigan resident since 1946, is mother of seven children, two of whom still reside at home—Jean, 17, and Lynn, 11.

shops on writing parables, inspirational stories, interviewing, and the use of creative techniques.

Sabbath afternoon panel discussions dealing with publishing books and articles will attempt to answer questions from those attending the camp.

Mrs. Reid will have a three-hour workshop session Sunday morning covering creative techniques in writing, analyzing of a published story, and writing on assignment. Time will also be available for individual conferences with the staff.

This workshop is being sponsored jointly by Andrews University and the Christian Scribes, an S.D.A. writers' club based in Michigan.

Cost of the two-day camp (Friday noon to Sunday noon) will be $20 by advance reservation, or $25 if paid upon arrival at the camp. Reservations should be sent to Christian Scribes, Box 280, Gobles, Michigan 49055 before October 20, 1975.

Watch the Lake Union Herald for further announcements and directions to the camp.

SUPPORT THE BICENTENNIAL

Michigan Adventists attending this year's camp meeting learned more about the purpose and plans of their conference bicentennial committee. They were greeted near the entrance to the grounds by a large banner calling attention to each church member's obligation to participate. They also were given a folder listing the calendar of events for the bicentennial year. This calendar listed month-by-month highlights of the official national program and list of opportunities for Adventist cooperation and celebration. A special bicentennial booth was in the departmental building and for the first time the conference bicentennial seal was available for individual use as decals or stickers. The car window decals can still be obtained through the Adventist Book Center at 25 cents each as well as the stickers at $1 a packet. Elsie Buck of Berrien Springs, head of the conference bicentennial committee, urges all Adventists to become participants by displaying the decal and using the stickers on their correspondence.

WRITERS' CAMP SCHEDULED

Both accomplished and neophyte writers will have a chance to improve their abilities at a writers' camp the weekend of November 1 near Battle Creek, Michigan.

The workshop will feature Elder Lowell Litten, editor of Guide magazine; Elder Ernest Wendth, Michigan Conference Communication Secretary; Professor Kermit Netteburg, journalism teacher, Andrews University; and Mildred I. Reid, creative writing teacher who owns and operates a school of writing in New Hampshire.

Scheduled for Friday afternoon are one-hour work-

FIVE MEN ORDAINED AT CAMP MEETING

Four Michigan ministers and a teacher at Andrews University were ordained on Sabbath, August 16, during Michigan's 107th annual camp meeting.

James D. Chase, an instructor of radio broadcasting at Andrews, was ordained at the request of the university administration.

The four Michigan ministers set aside for the work of the ministry were Bennie R. Boggess of the Coldwater and Burlington congregations; Charles H. Cleveland, Houghton and L'Anse; Paul S. Howell, Escanaba and Riverside; and Jerry L. Johns, Petoskey, Boyne City, and Central Lake.

Chase's father, Elder James E. Chase, president of the Washington Conference and a former world leader of Adventist radio and television, offered the ordination prayer. Others who participated in the special service were Elders John Loor, Sr., who presented the special Sabbath morning sermon; R. D. Moon, conference president, who offered the morning prayer and welcomed the newly ordained men into the ranks of the ministry; Charles Keymer, conference secretary, who presented the candidates for ordination to the congregation and also presented them with their official ordination certificates; and Gordon H. Carle, conference treasurer, who offered the benediction.

Four of the five men have returned to their posts of duty. Elder and Mrs. Cleveland are leaving Michigan to accept a call to serve on a medical missionary launch on the Amazon River.

HAND CROCHETED FLAG

A member of the Evert church has crocheted a 36-by-60-inch American flag. Mrs. Kenneth (Katherine) Leyder is shown with the flag which she made in her spare moments within a month. About twenty skeins of yarn were used to make our national banner. Many Adventists saw it displayed in the bicentennial booth at the Michigan camp meeting. The flag has now been returned to its permanent place in the Evert church.

ACADEMY STARTS WITH 230 STUDENTS

Declining birth rates have caused concern among church educational planners wondering if trends experienced by the public school system would be felt in Adventist schools.

This concern has at times caused some schools to offer incentives bordering on bribes to attract students away from competing schools. Other churches have sought governmental support to balance school budgets buffeted by inflation on one side and declining enrollments and lost revenue on the other.

Last February when the 1975-76 budget was voted for Wisconsin Academy, intensive discussion centered around a realistic enrollment projection. Some thought 200 students might be all that would enroll. After lengthy study and discussion, income from 240 students was selected as the budget figures.

Returning and new academy students totaling 230 enrolled August 31 and September 1.

Of the total enrollment there are 124 girls; 106 boys; 40 freshman, 53 sophomores; 77 juniors; and 60 seniors.

"Our students on campus receive the highest wages of any academy student in the Lake Union," said Robert Knutson, "and on an average, pay the lowest food bills. So while our charges may be higher than some, our students can earn a greater percentage of their expenses, and the out-of-the-pocket cost to the parent may be the lowest."

In each of the past five years, Wisconsin Academy has operated within its budget without special grants from the conference.

"If students are faithful in meeting their work assignments and parents are prompt in paying the remainder, I believe it will help us maintain that enviable record again," adds Knutson.

"The work opportunities provided on the 560 acres include: dairy; Harris Pine Mill branch; Dakota Bake-N-Serve frozen bread plant; and on-campus employment, all of which give students experience which may be as valuable in life as the formal education," says Knutson.

Robert Dale, conference president, said, "If it had not been for the frugal academy operation, Wisconsin Conference would still be in debt. If we continue managing carefully and receiving tuition payments regularly, we should be able to fill the needs of the academy for a new cafeteria and gymnasium before those incoming freshman become upperclassmen."

NEW TEACHERS COME TO ANDREWS

Dr. Elden Chalmers, a pastor, psychologist, and professor, has joined the seminary at Andrews University as professor of pastoral care and nurture.

Dr. Chalmers, a licensed clinical psychologist, holds a doctorate in psychology from the University of Tennessee.

Since 1965, Dr. Chalmers has taught psychology at Columbia Union College and Pacific Union College. He has served as a pastor and evangelist in Hawaii, the Carolinas, New York, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Alberta, Canada.

He has written numerous articles for Adventist publications. His research includes studies on "the personality profiles of smokers vs. nonsmokers and the onset of menarche as a function of a vegetarian vs. animal-products diet."

Ronald L. Johnson, an electrical engineer from New Jersey, has joined the industrial and engineering technology department at Andrews University.

He was most recently employed, since 1965, as a research engineer with Bell Telephone Laboratories in Whippany, New Jersey.

Dr. Robert Ludeman, chairman of the department, said, "We're looking toward Johnson for the development of a four-year electronics program." Presently, A.U. offers a two-year associate degree in the field.

Johnson holds a master of science degree in electrical engineering from Oregon State University.

Dr. Franklin L. Lusk, associate professor of voice at Taylor University in Upland, Indiana, will join the Andrews University music department in September.

He will replace Dr. Rudolf Strukoff, associate professor of music, as director of the University Singers and as professor of voice. Strukoff joined the A.U. faculty in 1969.

Dr. Lusk received a doctorate this summer in voice performance with minors in choral conducting and music history from Indiana University, Bloomington.

He has served as assistant professor of music and chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Bethel College, Mishawaka, Indiana, 1955-61; associate professor of voice at Houghton College, Houghton, New York, 1961-64; director of music and associate professor of music at Marion College, Marion, Indiana, 1966-73; and GET-ACQUAINTED WEEK AT A.U.

A Get-Acquainted Week for freshman is planned at Andrews University for Sunday, September 28, through Wednesday, October 1. Registration is September 29, and classes begin October 2.

During the week, freshman will register, take aptitude and placement tests, and meet their personal advisers and A.U. administrators. Library procedures will be explained, campus tours conducted, and freshmen activities outlined.

The students will also meet the officers of the Student Association and learn about the organization and its functions and how they can participate in the activities of the association. Get-acquainted parties will be given and group meetings of various kinds held.

The annual event will close with the traditional picnic supper at Beaver Point.

Parents are invited to attend a reception given by President Richard Hammill to be held from 1:30 to 3 p.m., Sunday, September 28, in the Wolverine Room of the Campus Center. The conference will provide opportunity, said President Hammill, for parents and administrators to become acquainted with each other. "When parents, administrators, and faculty work together, freshmen adjust more successfully to a college program."

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL PARTICIPATES IN STATE-FUNDED MEAL PROGRAM

The Andrews University School is continuing to participate this year in a free meal policy for children in grades 1 to 12 who are unable to pay for meals, according to Richard T. Orrison, director.

Families falling within certain income criteria based on family size or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are eligible for the state-funded program. Applications, available from the director's office, may be submitted at any time during the school year.

Children receiving free meals will be treated in the same manner as full paying students.
