NEA—SECOND LARGEST LABOR UNION

by Gordon Engen
Religious Liberty Director

"Unification of Texas, the NEA's second largest affiliate, was expected to bring NEA membership close to 1.9 million members this month. This would bring the NEA near the membership of the country's largest union, the Teamsters."

This was the boast of the National Education Association in the September 1 issue of the Teacher's Voice, published by the Michigan Education Association.

Terry E. Herndon, executive secretary of NEA, noted that the record-breaking growth of the NEA "is occurring while membership in many unions remains relatively static." The article went on to compare the NEA with several other teacher unions, the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) in particular. It cites the merger in Hawaii between the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the NEA, which took it out of the AFT camp. "In Minnesota, NEA won over an AFT-AAUP representative which had merged in a last-ditch effort to defeat NEA."

"NEA already represents the three largest higher education bargaining units—through merger with AFT in the two largest units, the New York State and New York City university systems, and independently represents the third largest unit, the Pennsylvania state college system."

Those who continue to insist that the NEA and its local state and school district affiliates are not labor unions are burying their heads in the sand, failing to listen to or read what the NEA itself is saying. The NEA claims to be the second largest labor union, it performs all of the functions of any other labor union organization, and it is taking over other labor unions into its organization. There is no basic difference in membership in this teacher's union and any other labor union in the country.

An editorial in the Cincinnati Enquirer by Robert Clerc this summer said:

"Let's face it, the days of professional societies for teachers at the state and national levels are over, in purpose, methods and aspirations, these societies have become unions."

"Those who claim to be the children of God are in no case to bind up with the labor unions that are formed or that shall be formed. This the Lord forbids. Cannot those who study the prophecies see and understand what is before us? The transgressors of the law of God have taken sides with their leader, the general of rebellion. He understands how to devise his satanic schemes and through whom to work for the carrying out of them. He is striving to lead every soul to take sides with him, and under the influence of his temptations, thousands are binding themselves up in bundles, ready to be consumed by the fires of the last day. Those who yield to his temptation become in their turn tempters, standing among the ablest of his helpers."

"In the time of the harvest the Lord will say to His reapers, 'Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn' (Matthew 13:30). God has a people on the earth who will see the evil of every phase of oppression, and will refuse to unite with the enemy in carrying out his plans."—Counsels from the Spirit of Prophecy on Labor Unions and Confederacies, prepared by the Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty, General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

"As the seed sown produces a harvest, and this in turn is sown, the harvest is multiplied. In our relation to others, this law holds true. Every act, every word, is a seed that will bear fruit. Every deed of thoughtful kindness, of obedience, or of self-denial, will reproduce itself in others, and through them in still others."—Christ's Object Lessons, page 85.

FORD'S LIFE SAVED BY ANGELS ACCORDING TO GRAHAM

God's angels have been credited with saving President Ford's life in the unsuccessful assassination attempt against him in California. Addressing some 30,000 persons at the West Texas Billy Graham Crusade on the evening of the attempt, the evangelist claimed God had angels there for Ford. This was not the day President Ford was to die, Graham said.

UNFAIR GOVERNMENT AID SHOULD BE REMEDIED BY NO GOVERNMENT AID

Professor of communications at Central Baptist Seminary in Toronto says the Ontario government has used $2.2 million of taxpayers' money to educate students for the priesthood and ministry. The Reverend Leslie Tarr says the money is being used to train clergy for the Roman Catholic, Anglican, United Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Convention Baptist churches. Tarr says five other theological institutions don't qualify for a penny's aid, including his own. Rather than pleading for per-capita operating grants for more schools, Tarr says he believes "there should be government grants to no theological schools."

GIFT BIBLES AT PUBLIC SCHOOL COMMENCEMENTS UNDER ATTACK

Americans United for Separation of Church and State are asking that two small school districts near Grand Rapids be forbidden from handing out Bibles at commencement exercises. The suburban Hudsonville and Zeeland school districts conducted commencement exercises in June which called for "formal presentation" of a King James version of the Bible to each participant. The suit claims the practice of handing out the Bibles to students violates both the U.S. and Michigan constitutions. Presenting "such pervasively sectarian materials... in a public school building," it says, "constitutes government recommendation, approval and support of such material."

MORMON MISSIONARIES—STRICT BUT SUCCESSFUL

Latest figures show some 20,000 Mormon missionaries baptized more than 70,000 converts around the world last year. About one third of all male Mormon members become missionaries at age 19 and are called to serve for two years. Women who wish to serve on missions must wait until age 21 and are called to 18-month missions. All pay their own travel and living expenses. Mormon missionaries are requested to dress conservatively at all times, limit reading to church-authorized books, watch movies and television only with special permission, give up swimming and all other dangerous sports, never be alone with a person of the opposite sex, shun sex, and never be separated from their assigned missionary companion.

CHURCH PARTIALLY RESPONSIBLE FOR ALCOHOLISM

The church must accept its share of the blame for the rising number of alcoholics in Scotland, according to one church official. The Reverend Keith Steven, moral welfare secretary of the national church of Scotland, says the church has failed to be the caring community to which people want to belong. Steven recommended a coordinated program to stem the rise of alcoholism in Scotland. Part of that program includes the church taking a fresh look at its own life—particularly the inconsistency of on one hand the temperance group totally opposed to alcohol, while many others regard heavy drinking as a masculine pursuit.

RAMSEY PREDICTS UNION OF ANGLICANS AND ROMAN CATHOLICS BY THE YEAR 2000

The retired Archbishop of Canterbury predicts that the Anglican Communion and the Roman Catholic Church will be united before the end of the century. That union, according to Dr. Michael Ramsey, will mean full communion with sacraments available to members of both churches, but with their different identities and customs preserved. Ramsey said the "toughest nut to crack" in reaching union is the Catholic teaching on papal infallibility. He predicted that the doctrine of infallibility will give way in Catholicism to the view of the Pope as titular head and spokesman, similar to the role of the Archbishop of Canterbury in the Church of England.

COURT UPHOLDS UNION MEMBER'S RIGHT NOT TO STRIKE

A member of the United Church of Canada no longer has to pay union dues to the Civil Service Association of Ontario. G. R. Anderson told Ontario's division court he believes strikes are morally wrong. He said he cannot, in conscience, support the union's demand for the right to strike. By order of the court his $2-a-week dues will go to charity.

WATCH OUT FOR WEEKEND DRUNKS

A recent study by the Highway Safety Research Institute of the University of Michigan revealed that late on Friday and Saturday nights, one in every 70 drivers you meet will be definitely drunk; one in 20 will be intoxicated beyond the legal limits; and one in 7 will have had enough drinks to impair their driving.

SPECIAL PRICE ON BIBLE READINGS EXTENDED

On October 15, 1975, the special price of 75 cents per copy for which the Bible Readings was selling as the Missionary Book of the Year for 1975 was to expire. However, the publishers have agreed to extend this special mass distribution price until December 31, 1975. After that time the new price of the newsprint edition of Bible Readings will be $1.00 per copy.

Family Life Workshop

by Randy Neall

A family life workshop at Andrews University drew an unexpectedly large number of participants, according to Dr. John Youngberg, assistant professor of education. Attending were some 90 pastors, teachers, church leaders, and their spouses from throughout the U.S. and beyond.

All of those interviewed for this report gave nearly the same reason for coming: their own sense of inadequacy in the face of extensive home problems in the church.

Mrs. Clarence Gruesbeck, wife of the executive and ministerial secretary of the Upper Columbia Conference, said, "We've waited too long. It has taken the statistics to open our eyes."

A course in youth guidance and an occasional sermon is the extent of family life education for most young Adventists, said Ron Ruskjer, assistant pastor of the Lansing SDA church. But, he said, "Tremendous potentialities have been unwrapped here."

Three husband-wife teams directed the workshop. Drs. John and Millie Youngberg, associate professors of education, presented their "Operation Family" program, a discussion of family leadership principles.

Dr. Don Jacobsen, seminary associate professor of evangelism, and his wife Ruth directed a seminar in Christian growth. Pastor Irvin Kurtz, associate pastor at Pioneer Memorial Church and a marriage counselor, with his wife Millie gave their marriage enrichment seminar, one they have presented repeatedly on and off campus.

The instructors handed out over 600 pages of material covering a wide array of topics (nonclinical and preventive), including family communication, finances, marriage enrichment, sex fulfillment, mutual expectations, and from the book Desire of Ages, a line-by-line character analysis of the boy Jesus.

The material was both realistic and spiritual, "a unique blend of the spiritual and pragmatic—by no means a desk chair approach," said Pastor Ruskjer. Several said the multi-authored presentation added balance to the entire workshop. And, said Mrs. Carole Kilcher, wife of the pastor of the Bucks County SDA church, Philadelphia, "I appreciated the flexibility of the Ph.D.'s. They did not push any one idea or approach as the only one."

The workshop was partly an attempt to involve the pastor more in an area often dominated by clinicians. "Too long family counseling has been in the court of the clinician," said John Youngberg. "It's time to bring the pastor into it. The great work of our pastors must be in family building to prepare the parents to meet their responsibility. But our pastors have backed off because they couldn't hang out a shingle."

With the workshop over, those who attended plan to be heavily involved with Adventist family life, shingle or no shingle.

Pastor Ruskjer hopes to begin home family training sessions in each of the ten geographical units constituting the Lansing district.

Mrs. Kilcher is thinking of directing a small group ministry for women in the church.

Howard Pires, principal of Bermuda Institute, plans to begin a home training program in Bermuda after first conducting a pilot program with several families in his own home.

Linda Gage, wife of the pastor of the Walla Walla College church, said, "My burden is young student couples. That's where we need to start."

Mrs. Gruesbeck intends to begin with a program for minister's wives and families. "It has to begin with us," she said.

"Church leaders should have some of the most exciting family lives," another participant added.

Whatever the methods they use, participants seem to have gained a new sense of mission. What they heard, they said, was the Elijah message. Mrs. Gage said that she was "thrilled and excited about the place that this message has in the finishing of the work."

"It's a humbling experience," said Mrs. Gruesbeck, "to think that there is something I can do for someone else."

It is, of course, too early to know what success the participants will have. But the validity of what they learned has already stood its severest test: "My own marriage has been enriched," said one participant. "And I'm not the only one."

EVANGELISTIC AND MEDICAL TEAMS TO COMBINE EFFORTS

The Better World to Come conference evangelistic team met recently with the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Illinois Conference health educators. They are formulating plans for combined endeavors to present health and better living principles to the public.

The plan calls for Heartbeat clinics, classes in nutrition and exercise, and Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking in connection with the conference public evangelistic program throughout Illinois.

Roy Wightman, assistant administrator for health education at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital; Stoy Proctor, conference health secretary; Arnold R. Friedrich, conference evangelist; and Lorraine Hansen, instructor in Biblical sciences and a registered medical technologist, will hold their first combined series of meetings in Rockford, Illinois, beginning October 5, and continuing through November 1.

This Better World to Come and Heartbeat team, believe strongly that a combined effort of preaching the Word of God and educating the people in better health principles is the Lord's method of preparing the world for the soon coming of Jesus.

COUPLE BAPTIZED AT LITTLE GRASSY CAMP MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. David Domzalski were baptized in the lake swimming pool at Little Grassy Lake during the Southern Illinois camp meeting.

When asked during an interview at the Sabbath lay activities period just why they decided to study the Bible and become members of the Seventh-day Adventist church, David was quick to reply, "there is nothing out there in the world."

What a thrill for our new ABC manager, Clyde Best, when David and Brenda were brought by their pastor, Don Lund, to the camp meeting book sale and purchased the entire set of Ellen G. White's writings, including the commentaries.

What a wonderful way for a young family to start out this new Christian life.

David and Brenda are already letting their lights shine before their friends and relatives.

The Indiana disaster van was favorably accepted at two county fairs this summer.

DISASTER VAN AT COUNTY FAIRS

The Indiana Conference disaster van was well received at the local Hamilton and Tipton County fairs in August.

Cicero church members found people in both countries amazed and grateful for the services the church and van provide.

Many people thought the disaster van was simply "a first-aid wagon." Both Mayor Cage of Tipton, and Mayor Robinson of Noblesville, were impressed with the good work provided by the van.

Smoking Sam was demonstrated by church members and Indiana Academy youth. Names were taken for a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Also at a Cicero Fourth of July celebration Smoking Sam was on display. Samples of Worthington foods and literature were given away.

Newspaper coverage helped open many doors for future activities.

ELIZABETH MEMBERS STILL LETTING THEIR LIGHTS SHINE

Macajah and Elma Middleton, charter members of the Elizabeth church, have attended the same church for 40 years.

On November 10, 1935, the church was organized with nine baptized believers meeting in the home of Peter and Fairy Barker under the direction of J. O. Marsh.

Later, meetings were held in the Lottick schoolhouse about a mile from the present church location on State Road 11. Virgil and Georgia Connor helped in the meetings. Neighbors carried in rough planks for seats. Often cars were lined up along the six windows of the building and many sat in and on their cars. It was estimated that between 150 and 200 people were in attendance. Two of these people, Macajah and Elma Middleton, rode together on one bicycle to get to the meetings. The old school building has been removed to the rear of the present grade school at Elizabeth.

In 1937, plans were afoot for a church building. John Hollis donated the scenic spot on which the church is located today. Varied means were used to raise the funds to build. Blackberries were picked. Peter Barker sold blocks among his fellow workers with so much success that a book was inspired titled Bricks for Sale.

The completed church had its deed recorded in the conference office in June of 1939. The church debt was only $98.68. The entire construction had been entirely independent of the conference for financial aid.

In later years, the old theater-type seats were removed and Virgil Connor constructed new pews, a communion table, platform furniture, and the lectern.

The present church body is under the pastoral guidance of Lin Robertson. Twenty-four members keep the gospel light shining in the little white concrete block church on the hill at the bend of the road.

CICERO PATHFINDERS COMPLETE 50-MILE BIKE RIDE

Sunday morning, August 10, at 7:30 sharp, Cicero Pathfinders and leaders left the Cicero SDA church school on the first leg of a 50-mile bike ride.

Trucks followed along to load any riders and bikes who didn't finish the mapped route. Of the 25 riders, only two failed to finish the course, one of which was the youngest, an 8-year-old. Most finished in 7½ hours.

Biking 45 minutes with a periodic 15-minute rest stop assured success for the cyclist. Many who are working toward a biking honor, will learn the parts of a bike by disassembling one.

A grandmother, Mrs. Bonnie Wolfe, of Arcadia, laughed at being named the oldest cyclist. "It's been great and I've never enjoyed myself more," said Mrs. Wolfe.

Mrs. Janet Clear, Pathfinder director, said many other outings are planned for the rest of the year.

OPEN HOUSE AND DISTRICT RALLY AT SEYMOUR

On September 6, the pews were full at the Seymour SDA church. Doors were opened early and members from Madison, Scottsburg, and Seymour, Indiana, began arriving an hour before services began. All were pleased with the evidence of hours spent by a corps of workers painting, remodeling, and cleaning in this small, 30-year-old church. The result is an interior more conducive to reverence and worship. The platform is now enclosed and the paneled rooms at either side can be used for Sabbath school work. Gold draperies at the back of the platform add to the quiet mood.

Officers from all three congregations took part in the church and Sabbath school services. Special music was provided by a quartet from Scottsburg and a trio from Madison. The visiting pastor for the day was Elder William Woodruff, the Indiana Conference Ministerial Secretary. His sermon was "View from the Mountain Peak"—a call for all to see the scope of God's work and the pressing need for service.

During the noon intermission, members gathered in a nearby park for a fellowship dinner. The film, "It's a Great Family" was shown at 1:30 p.m. with a discussion following. Then a group of workers from the three churches went out to distribute tracts. Pastor Joel Underwood and lay activities leader Charles Lawson revealed that Seymour already has nearly half their Ingathering goal for this year. They are hoping to have the total by the end of September.

INDIANA PHILOSDA CLUB HONORED

At the International Philosda Club's Summit Meeting held at Camp Yorktown Bay, Arkansas, over the Labor Day weekend, an Award of Merit was presented to the Indiana Chapter and conference administration for their outstanding efforts on behalf of Philosda during 1975.

The 200 people attending this meeting gave $3,400 for Philosda's two projects—Voice of Prophecy and Amazing Facts.

Mildred Wagner, Indiana Chapter president, was elected to serve as secretary of the International Philosda Club and as regional director of the Lake Union Conference for 1976. Floyd Miller was re-elected to the office of president.

MARTINSVILLE CHURCH DEDICATED

The Martinsville SDA church had a special sparkle and excitement Sabbath morning August 30, 1975.

Many visitors entered the doors. Special music filled the neighborhood as morning services began. At noon a good meal and visiting old and new friends was enjoyed until time to return to the church.

In the afternoon, Lake Union Conference Secretary Frank Jones; Indiana Conference President G. W. Morgan; Indiana Conference Treasurer Ray Rouse; and local district elders, Harry Cutsinger and Jett Adams, were on the rostrum as Pastor Jan Follett welcomed all to the church dedication.

The church history read by clerk Rosemary Stone, reminded us of labors of love, and financial and spiritual aid since the church land and the old building was purchased in 1957. A new building built in 1970 and a mortgage paid in 1975 brought the members to the day of dedication.

The dedication reads in part: "We dedicate this building to the cause and service of God—from those who have tasted the cup of thy salvation and experienced the riches of thy grace."

NEWS NOTES

• Assistant administrator for personnel services and a director of environmental control have been appointed by the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital. Michael P. Bildner, the new assistant administrator comes from Colorado where he held a similar position. He will be responsible for all matters involving personnel management and labor relations. The new director of environmental control is Ronald G. Pletcher who left a similar position in a local hospital to join the San. His wife Barbara is a dental receptionist for Glenn Hahn, D.D.S., of Hastings, while Bildner's wife, also named Barbara, holds a master's degree in special education.

• The 1975 Saginaw County Fair was reported to be the "biggest ever" and the Adventist booth was set up to meet the people's needs. This was the year for passing out literature. People more than ever are asking questions, and it is hoped that the 7,900 pieces of Adventist literature passed out will not only give the answers but will bring the readers closer to Christ.

BICENTENNIAL NOTES

The Bicentennial Committee of the Michigan Conference is proud to present its Bicentennial seal and decal. They are available at both the Lansing and Berrien Springs Adventist Book Centers.

It is the committee's hope that all church members will do what they can to let their communities know through these attractive emblems that Seventh-day Adventists are committed to God and to their country to help preserve the liberties—civil, religious, and educational—this country offers its citizens through its Constitution and Bill of Rights.

At the first Sabbath of camp meeting, over 5,000 Bicentennial calendars were distributed to persons in attendance. These calendars outline the in-church and community outreach programs suggested by the Michigan Conference Bicentennial Committee for the remainder of 1975 and for 1976. Packets of the calendars were also given to each pastor to take to his home church. The time has come to begin in earnest to translate plans into active participation.

Ways and means should be studied now to purchase the library Bicentennial gift-book package to present to community libraries at Christmas time. The books, ten in all, tell about Adventist history and beliefs. The set campgrounds, and most of the campers took shelter in the cabins.

Sabbath school and subsequent services were conducted in the camp dining room.

Lyndon Elliott, assistant Pathfinder leader of the Niles club and seminary student at Andrews University, was the worship hour speaker. Honors were available in cats, dogs, mammals, campcraft, and basketry. Master Guides James and Elnora White spent the Sabbath hours teaching the dogs, cats, and mammals classes.

Following the vesper services conducted by the Youth Director, Fred Williams, an evening of fun and fellowship followed.

Every leader needs to know what camping equipment is available and how to use it. Mrs. Elnora White displayed and demonstrated some of the materials that should be used in camping.

Sunday afternoon was taken up with a class in basketry taught by Edith Robinson of the Sharon Milwaukee club.

Lyndon Elliott, assistant Pathfinder leader of the Niles church, delivers the worship hour message.

Labor Day, the final day of the session saw the sun warm the air and chase away the clouds. As part of the campcraft honor, actual campsites were set up by the leaders. Fires were built and stew, hobo pack, and bread were prepared by the clubs. The reflector fire was built and used in baking the bread.

In spite of the weather, a fruitful experience was gained by all, and it was a pleasure to hand out the honor tokens to all who completed the requirements.

Retailing at over $50, the Michigan Conference is making this set of books available at $33 for this occasion. The conference will pay half of that price. The churches, therefore, may purchase the complete set of books to use as gifts for only $16.50. Giving this package of books to your community library is a wonderful way to witness for your faith.

In preparation also is an attractive four-color Bicentennial booklet, The Cracked Bell; Can Liberty Remain Intact? that will soon be available to churches to distribute in their communities. Its message comes from H. M. S. Richards, Jr. Thanks to the professionals who are preparing the booklet and to the Andrews University Printers who have cut costs as low as possible, the booklet will be available at a low enough price that churches can afford to distribute it widely in their communities. The theme of the 12-page booklet is aimed at helping people understand the blessed heritage of liberty that this country now enjoys and to alert them to possibilities of change.

Elder W. M. Buckman, secretary of the Michigan Conference Lay Activities and Community Services, has told the committee that he believes he can use 75,000 copies of the booklet in Michigan. Other conferences are asking about them.

The Bicentennial year offers a great challenge to Adventists. It is a chance to reaffirm the importance of the church in the lives of the American people; to demonstrate Seventh-day Adventists' love for their country by upholding religious liberty and promoting the democratic way of life; and to educate and inspire the youth of the church to the great heritage of faith, valor, and determination that led to the basic religious, educational, and civil freedoms of America.

In fact, we wish with Benjamin Franklin that not only the love of liberty, but a thorough knowledge of the rights of man, might "pervade all the nations of the earth, so that anybody may set his foot anywhere on its surface and say: 'This is my country!'"

DETROIT FAIR BOOTH

Detroit areawide churches sponsored a booth at the recent Michigan State Fair entitled "It's Your World of Health." The decor carried out the Bicentennial theme in red, white, and blue. It was staffed by 35 volunteers.

Passersby were attracted by free samples of vegetarian food, and stayed to learn about Dr. Arthur and Mrs. Natalie Weaver's popular health classes including stop smoking clinics, vegetarian cooking, weight control, exercise, and Bible study. Nearly five hundred signed up for these classes.

Young people especially enjoyed the Smoking Sam display and Way Out materials. Associate Pastor James Pleasants summarized the week's activities: "We met some very interesting people. People have appreciated the Seventh-day Adventist church, and the community services it brings. It was a real source of encouragement. We have had a great experience."

ADRIAN MEMBERS BREAK GROUND

It was a happy occasion for the Adrian congregation on Sunday, September 7, when ground breaking for the new church took place on Hunt Road. The church will have a seating capacity of approximately 275. Participants photographed at the ground breaking are from left: Lewis Ruesink, Adrian Township supervisor; Jack Mowat, state representative; Charles Keymer, Michigan Conference Secretary; R. D. Moon, Michigan Conference President; Richard Broome, Adrian church pastor; Hubert Brower, chairman of the building committee; and Dr. Jerry Wolf, first elder.

Michigan parade float had a patriotic-religious theme this year.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL SEASON FOR PARADE FLOAT

After being hauled 2,361 miles to appear in a dozen parades throughout Michigan, the conference float has been "retired" for another year.

The float again received a number of awards and the public showed its appreciation by applause, and by personal and media comments.

The float received media mention in Ionia, even though it did not appear. Its participation was cancelled when officials decided to hold the Ionia Fair parade on a Saturday. A news report mentioned the absence of the Adventist float with an explanation regarding Sabbath observance.

Again, as in past years, officials from other cities asked for the Adventist float to appear in their own parades. When the mayor of Manton saw the float at Lake City, he contacted local Adventists to make sure of its appearance in their Labor Day parade.

At another scheduled appearance an official from a different area of the state spoke to Elder Ernest Wendth, conference communications secretary, who was erecting the float, and asked that it appear at their city next June. Already a number of appearances for next year have been promised and because of the many Bicentennial parades planned, a heavy schedule of appearances are anticipated.

NEW EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANTS

Two new assistants in the educational department joined the Michigan Conference office staff during the summer months. Gary Randolph replaces Victor Hilbert, who accepted a call to the Minnesota Conference, and Mrs. Shirley Goodridge fills the vacancy created by Frances Clark's acceptance of the position of elementary supervisor for the Southwestern Union. Randolph came to Michigan from Sandia View Academy, New Mexico, in 1966. He has served at Alpena, Battle Creek Academy, and Flint. Mrs. Goodridge has lived most of her life in California and came to Michigan from a teaching post in the academy at La Sierra.

OPEN HOUSE AT ADELPHIAN ACADEMY

September 21 was open house for Adelpian Academy. Staff members were available for consultation with parents and buildings were opened for their inspection.

The afternoon was designed to provide an opportunity for parents and staff members to become better acquainted with each other and to exchange points of view on goals and aspirations.

Most visitors were pleased with the appearance of the mens' dormitory with its new carpeting and desks. Truman Parrish, the new dean, has made a good impression with dorm residents that is registered in the improvement of the spirit in the dormitory.

Tours through the mill, arranged by the manager Robert Warner, proved of interest. Wren houses, a product of the mill, were presented to all visitors. Most visitors registered amazement at the production capability of the mill. More than one hundred students are employed and their total earnings for the year are expected to exceed $100,000. Sales for the last fiscal year were in excess of $1.5 million, a remarkable achievement in light of the financial crunch experienced in the area.

Students were active in the gymnasium during the open house and parents were able to see their enthusiasm for indoor sports as well as to catch a glimpse of the tumbling team in rehearsal. Some parents remained for the evening meal, composed of a combination of the products produced on the farm and the imaginative culinary artistry of Willard Clevenger.

The womens' dormitory and the industrial arts complex were also a vital part of the open house. The offerings in industrial arts have been expanded to meet the greater need for creativity in both men and women. Miriam Foreman, who rules her dormitory with a hand of love, had prepared for the event and the dorm looked good to visiting friends and residents.

This experiment shall be continued throughout this school year for many have indicated real pleasure at being able to meet with the instructors and the administrative personnel and to view the overall program of Christian education conducted at Adelpian Academy.

MEDICAL MINISTRY IN WISCONSIN

True medical ministry is an objective of the Wisconsin Conference. This important combination, which can hasten the Lord's coming, was the focal point of ministers and health-related people at the recent retreat held at the Portage campgrounds.

Dr. R. T. Walden, the health secretary of the conference, organized the program from Friday evening through Sunday morning. The emphasis was on answering the question as to how our labors can be made more effective and how the "right arm" can be truly used to win souls for Christ.

The program was varied using dialogue, panel, films, and experiences to spark the interest of all in attendance.

Beginning Sunday evening through Tuesday noon, the conference workers remained to study ways of implementing a stronger pastoral-evangelistic emphasis to the Lord's work in Wisconsin.

We do invite your prayers for the medical-ministerial workers in this conference.

5-DAY PLAN FEATURED ON RADIO

Pastor Ralph Wendt and Dr. Wesley McNeal were guests on News Line on WGEE radio, Wednesday, September 17.

Steve Ellingboe, moderator of News Line featured the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. The 45-minute program consisted of talk between moderator and guest and was open to the listening audience to ask questions or make comments.

After one listener questioned the success of the program, two called in to say they were successful after attending the clinics, one 1½ years ago and the other 8 years ago.

APPLETON COUPLE LED TO BAPTISM

The baptism of Gary and Kathy Shukoski of Appleton climaxed an interesting example of how the Lord leads His children into the truth.

Actually the experience began with Gary's brother Bernard who was planning to be a priest. At the time, Bernard was in the Air Force. Doubts were plaguing him. He wanted to find the true church.

One day Bernard was in the religious section of a library. He bowed his head and prayed to the Lord to show him the right religion. Closing his eyes, he picked out a book. It was Daniel and Revelation by Uriah Smith. He and his wife Sue read the book, believed it, and had a burning desire to find the church that put out the book.

Bernard opened the phone book to the yellow section listing churches. Seeking the Lord's help in finding the church that wrote Daniel and Revelation, he blindfolded his eyes and ran his finger down the page. When he looked, he discovered his finger on the Seventh-day Adventist church. Calling the church and receiving affirmation to his question about the book, he knew the Lord was indeed leading him in his search for the truth.

After becoming an Adventist, the Air Force discharged Bernard because he refused to bear arms. Visiting with his parents, brothers, and sisters, he shared his newfound faith with them. They listened with interest, but brother Gary made fun of Bernard.

However, Gary was thinking about the things Bernard said. When he bought a set of the Bible Stories from Bernard, who was now a colporteur, it was a surprise.

Gary and his wife Kathy started taking Bible studies. Bernard took them to church and introduced them to Pastor Bruce Roberts, who began visiting the young couple regularly.

It took time, but the Holy Spirit and the faithfulness of those who shared their love of Jesus with Gary and Kathy, brought them to a quiet County Park near Shiocton to be baptized into the church God had led them to.

SERVICE CLUB APPEARANCE SPARKS INTERESTS

Radio and newspaper coverage resulted from a Rotary program in Marshfield arranged by Walter Schroeder, administrator of Bethel Convalescent Center.

The topic covered was "Trends in Health Care at Mid-American Nursing Homes."

Glenn Aufderhar, president of the company, described current problems faced by extended care and convalescent care hospitals, then outlined the role of health education and preventive medicine in extending a person's productive life span.

The 91-member club, made up of community leaders, took copies of A Quick Look at S.D.A.'s and It Is Written TV logs to find out more about Adventist beliefs and practices.

SOUND OF NOW, slide report

The Sound of Now, a 360-slide report on the evangelistic activities of the twelve departments of the General Conference, was shown at the session in Vienna. It illustrates how the departments at church level—both singly and in concert—are reaching into the community with programs that satisfy peoples' physical, mental, and spiritual needs.

With a 45-minute commentary by Victor H. Cooper (available on reel-to-reel or cassette), the program is useful in alerting ministry and laity to the ways in which their talents may be fruitfully used. It makes a valuable contribution at workers and church officers meetings.

Surely, it is as personnel in all the departments of the church unite their efforts in Spirit-filled and coordinated activity that the greatest soul-winning success may be achieved.

Copies of the program are offered as a service to the churches and conferences and may be purchased from the General Conference department of communication for $75.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Olson of Chicago have given the Andrews biology department an orchid collection worth an estimated $3,200.

BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT RECEIVES $3,200 ORCHID COLLECTION

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Olson of Chicago have given the Andrews biology department an orchid collection worth an estimated $3,200.

The collection consists of at least 350 plants of over 100 species, some of which have been prizewinners in regional contests, said Dr. Leonard Hare, professor of biology.

Dr. Hare estimates that when repotted, the collection will contain nearly 500 plants. Now occupying all three of the department's growth chambers, the collection will be moved to the greenhouse atop the science complex after added shelving is installed, Hare said.

The Olsons also gave the department an eight-year collection of the American Orchid Society Bulletin and orchid textbooks.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES 7TH EUROPEAN STUDY TOUR

During the summer of 1976, the English Department of Andrews University will conduct its seventh European Study Tour. Graduate or undergraduate students, elementary or secondary school teachers, or lovers of travel are invited to join this group from June 13 to August 25. Qualified students may earn 6 to 12 graduate or undergraduate credits in English literature and creative writing, though the tour need not be taken for credit. The director of the tour will be Dr. Merlene A. Ogden, professor of English and director of the six former English European study tours. The associate directors will be Dr. and Mrs. Richard Minesinger of the English and chemistry departments at Andrews University.

Four weeks will be spent in the British Isles and six and a half weeks on the continent visiting places of literary, historic, and cultural importance in Scotland, England, Wales, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, and East and West Germany. Tour members will study in the beautiful English Lake District; see the homes and haunts of famous authors, artists, and musicians; visit the throbbing cities of London, Paris, Rome, and Berlin; and thrill to the magnificent mountain scenery of the Alps. They will enjoy the charm of medieval cities like Rothenburg, the grandeur of great cathedrals and castles, the romance of a gondola ride in Venice, the excitement of mountain trips and skiing near the Matterhorn, the thrill of great music at the Salzburg and Edinburgh Music Festival, and the solemnity of retracing the steps of the Waldenses in Italy and Martin Luther in East Germany.

The tour cost of approximately $2,250 will include tuition, air transportation from Montreal, chartered buses throughout the tour, hotels, two meals a day, and all entrance and guide fees for these 74 days of travel. Anyone wishing further information about this unique learning experience in the areas of literature, fine arts, and historic backgrounds should write Dr. Merlene A. Ogden, European Tour Director, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan 49104.

A.U. CHANGES TO CENTREX PHONE SYSTEM

Andrews University changed over to a centrex telephone system on Monday, August 18.

The new system gives callers direct access to university offices or dormitories, bypassing the switchboard previously required for all incoming calls.

With the centrex 850 new phones are installed in dormitory rooms, and 1,200 additional phone lines to the new $2.8 million phone computer facility in Berrien Springs, built to accommodate A.U.'s centrex system and improve phone service throughout the area.

"We had all but outgrown our previous system," said Kendall Hill, university controller. "Callers were finding it increasingly difficult to reach offices through the crowded switchboard."

Besides, he said, under the previous system, only seven locations could be reached after the switchboard closed at 7 p.m. Centrex will permit 24-hour access to all university phones.

The university phone number will remain 471-7771, but all office extensions will be changed from three-digit to four-digit numbers, which, with the 471 prefix, will serve outside callers.

The switchboard operator will continue to route calls made to the university number, transfer calls from one extension to another, and provide campus directory assistance.
