Heartbeat in Rockford, Illinois

Left, Roy Wightman, Mayor Robert McGaw, and his wife, Peggy, welcome Rockford citizens to the Heartbeat Clinic. Below, Mayor McGaw has his blood pressure recorded by Mrs. Nichols, R.N. Bottom, The Heartbeat testing team was made up mostly of Rockford Church members.

A Heartbeat Clinic was recently held in the Rockford area under the direction of Roy Wightman, assistant administrator for health education and rehabilitation at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. He was assisted by Arnold R. Friedrich, conference evangelist, and a large group of Rockford Church members which included professional medical workers. Collette Gulke and Pastor John Ford coordinated the program.

The clinical testing program was held one week before the Better World to Come series of meetings began. Almost two hundred persons were tested on Sunday and Monday. Among them was the mayor of Rockford, Robert W. McGaw and his wife, Peggy. All participants were invited to return on Friday night to receive the results of their tests and instructions on a new life style.

At this meeting Roy Wightman and physicians Walter C. Thompson and Duane Dodd gave detailed explanations and recommendations based on the results of the heartbeat tests.

The public series of Better World meetings began on October 11. Many attended the opening night when Evangelist Friedrich presented "The Open Space in the Constellation of Orion." A nightly feature of the meetings was a 30-minute presentation on health education by Roy Wightman and Stoy Proctor, conference health director.

The program was well received by the Rockford citizens.

Have You Any Fuel for the Fire?

Bonfires will be lit across the U.S. to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the American Temperance Society on Friday, February 13, 1976. Fuel will consist of magazines and newspapers that contain liquor and cigarette advertising, pornographic literature, drug paraphernalia, rock records, tobacco pipes and pouches, and any flammable object that contributes to the pollution of body or mind.

Churches, schools, colleges, hospitals, and youth groups are invited to sponsor fires in association with the local fire department, in an effort to promote the value of clean air and clean living to the health of the nation.

Ernest Steed, executive director of ATS, will light a fire on Boston Common, Massachusetts, where the Society was established in 1826. Steed is to call for a moral clean-up of American life-style as part of the Adventist's 4-C Bicentennial beautification program involving church, camp, campus, and character.

"While people are superstitious about Friday 13," said Steed at the Society's headquarters in Washington, D.C., "a healthy nation is not a product of ignorance. Magic and chance are no foundation for a fulfilled life."

"So great," he said, "are the inroads on society made by tobacco, drink, and drugs, that determined efforts must be made by the public to eradicate the social evils that threaten to eat out our nation's vitals."

Steed, who has been executive director of ATS since 1966, claims that the Society's representatives both in the U.S. and abroad have been responsible for helping some 11 million people to give up smoking, through the Five-Day Plan.

The ATS educational program is intended to help prevent the new generation of American's youth from entering lives of addiction.

Church members are invited to help temperance department directors promote the clean-up program in their area by giving invitations to individuals and organizations to provide fuel for the fire.

Editor's Note: Last week when you looked at your Herald, you undoubtedly noticed something different about it. This Bicentennial year has given inspiration to a great many projects of historical importance. In this spirit the Lake Union Herald will be offering to its readers features of special interest.

Through this year of 1976, Emmett K. Vande Vere will be presenting a weekly look at the people and events that make up the history of this Great Lake Union. There will also be articles on the Christian life that will be both helpful and inspirational. Our regular conference news sections will remain as before.

The "new" look of the Herald is a bow to the heritage of the printed page. The type style of the column headings and of the flag on the front cover, and even the body type style, was inspired by the work of the earliest typographers.

It is our hope that the Herald will be a bright spot in your week.

The Heart of Lake Union

In 1600 if an historian could have viewed Earth from space, he would have guessed that the New World would soon be claimed totally for the Catholic faith. Beginning in 1607, however, English and other European Protestants began to plant settlements in shoestring fashion along the Atlantic coast and rivers. About 170 years later, in 1776, these settlements developed a new nation. The story is well known.

But our spatial historian probably would not have bet favorably on Colonial success in their War for Independence. Nonetheless, independence was achieved in 1783—with real disappointment on one hand (the failure to obtain Catholic Canada)—and sweet accomplishment on the other (the acquisition of the land stretching to the Mississippi River). A Protestant nation had begun its march across the continent to the Pacific. So withal for American eyes the sun rose in the West!

The westering settlers tackled no part of this vast land more intelligently and idealistically than that part known as the Northwest: Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, as the Yankee breed envisioned “their” West and “saw” a finer and greater “New England.” Accordingly one of their lobbyists, the Reverend Manasseh Cutler, Congregationalist, insinuated his ideas and convictions among the congressional politicians, land speculators, and homemakers of the East to help shape the famous Northwest Ordinance of 1787. Their “land of promise” was to be free of slaves, education minded, and churchly free.

Soon the most important migration in United States history developed, that is, a notable “Yankee Exodus” into the West, especially into the Old Northwest. Settlers toiled westward over the National Road through Columbus (Ohio), Indianapolis, and Vandalia (Illinois), or sailed westward on the Erie Canal (opened in 1825) and the Great Lakes to Detroit, St. Joseph, Chicago, Milwaukee, Green Bay, and Superior. From trail junctions and lake ports they courageously fanned out to the “settlements.”

But lumbermen and land dealers, town promoters and road builders, stage companies and canal diggers, were not the only ones to advantage themselves in this vast green paradise. The sects and denominations of the day likewise determined to “exploit” the region around the Lakes. Actually town boomers wanted churches and schools as symbols of the culture they hoped to reproduce and to improve upon. Simply said, every town sought water power from the numerous streams, intellectual power from schools and colleges, and power from on High.

How natural, then, that the fast-acting Millerites in the early 1840s won a scattering of believers in the Old Northwest, and that their most successful successors—the Seventh-day Adventists—later persuaded thousands of people to accept “their” Bible-based, heaven-sent, final message to mankind. In 1875, there were 3,933 members of this young denomination in the four states; 15,588 in 1925; 28,978 in 1950; 50,309 in 1975. Hence the organization of state conferences: Michigan (1861); Illinois (1862); Wisconsin (1870); Indiana (1872); Lake Region (1945).

Doubtless the historian marveled that so quickly from vast forests and swamps a pulsating group of religionists—the pumping heart of a young denomination—was fashioned. All the same, that is the way it happened.

“How remarkable! What an amazing thing the Lord has done.” (Matt. 21:42, The Living Bible)

THE INDIANA CONFERENCE HOLDS . . .

Open House in Carmel

by Cliff Hoffman

On U.S. Highway 31, approximately ten miles north of Indianapolis, on a beautiful hillside is the new Indiana Conference office.

On December 7, 1975, an open house was held for the new colonial styled one-story office building. In more than one hundred years of Indiana Conference history, this is the eleventh time the conference has changed its headquarters office.

The new office is one mile north of Carmel, Indiana, on 17 acres of land. In front of the office are a number of beautiful trees that enhance its rural setting.

Elder Lowell Bock, Lake Union president, cut the ribbon, and approximately three hundred people filed in through the attractively decorated front lobby to the fellowship room for the dedication service.

The Indiana Academy Keynotes, the touring choir for the school, sang

several patriotic songs to begin the service. Elder Bock gave a short address honoring the occasion. James D. Garretson, former aid of Governor Otis Bowen, presented an address in behalf of the governor.

A history of events leading up to the construction of the new office was given by Elder Robert Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference. The idea of a new office and preliminary plans were drawn up while he was still serving as the Indiana Conference president.

Elder G. W. Morgan, Indiana Conference president, expressed his gratitude to Elder Ray Rouse, Conference treasurer, for his faithful work in overseeing the construction of the building. Elder Rouse in turn paid tribute to Harold Zacharias for his untiring efforts while serving as general contractor for the project. From the time construction began, it took only four and a half months for its completion. Mr. Zacharias likewise paid tribute to approximately 150 men who served on the different crews that worked on the building.

Elders F. L. Jones and W. L. Murrill, officers in the Lake Union Conference, were also present and took part in the program. There were representatives from several of the sister conferences in the Lake Union.

At the conclusion of the dedication service, the conference departmental directors served as guides showing the people through the new facility.

There are several new additions in the building that will greatly facilitate the work flow. One is a new Xerox 9200 machine with unlimited sorting and stacking capability. It has the ability to reduce copy to three different sizes. It automatically adjusts to different weights of paper and some card stock. It will also run various sizes of paper down to five by eight inches. It produces copies at the rate of 120 per minute.

The new telephone system installed in the building includes a built-in intercom in each phone, music which is played while a party is on hold, capability to dial the phone without lifting the receiver, and a conference call feature.

This office will be functional and will facilitate the directing of God's work in the 71 churches, 18 elementary church schools, and 1 academy in the conference.

The new address for the Indiana Conference is: 15250 N. Meridan Street, Carmel, Indiana 46032 (P.O. Box 1950). Phone: (317) 844-6201.

SMOKING CESSATION CLINICS REORGANIZED IN DUPAGE COUNTY

Eight smoking cessation clinics are being coordinated throughout DuPage County by the San in observance of National Education Week on Smoking, January 11 to 17.

DuPage County, located just west of Chicago, is one of 102 counties in Illinois.

The seven Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking and one seminar are sponsored by the DuPage Chapter of the Illinois Interagency Council on Smoking and Disease.

This is one of the first times that such a concentrated effort has been made in the Chicago area to help individuals win the battle over cigarettes. "We are promoting these clinics as a good time for a person to make a New Year's resolution to quit smoking," says Donna Meyer, health educator at the hospital.

Since the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking first began in 1959, thousands of smokers across the nation have overcome the habit through this plan. Since the hospital began offering the plan in 1963, more than 11,000 persons have kicked the habit as a result of attending the clinics at the hospital.

The plan begins with a core of 90-minute sessions in one week and continues with additional meetings following the opening phase of the clinic.

Throughout the plan, a team of physicians, chaplains, former smokers, and professional health counselors guide participants through the experience of quitting smoking.

Other organizations involved in the planning of the eight smoking cessation clinics are the DuPage unit of the American Cancer Society, DuPage County Health Department, DuPage County Heart Association, DuPage branch of the American Heart Association, and DuPage Lung Association.

LAURA BARBER HONORED

On a recent Sabbath at the Broadview Church, Laura Barber was presented with one dozen red roses as a surprise to celebrate her 86th birthday. Following the church service, she was surprised with a dinner.

Laura has been a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church for about forty years. She now attends the Decatur Church.

Laura was born with a heart condition. She has suffered all her life with it as doctors in earlier days didn't do much open-heart surgery.

While playing out under the trees and spending much time in the fresh air, little Laura read her Bible as all strict Methodists taught their children to do.

One day she hurried into the house to ask her mother why they didn't keep the seventh-day Sabbath as Exodus 20:8-11 asked them to do. And as all faithful Methodists could answer, her mother said, "It was done away with at the cross and we keep Sunday in honor of Jesus' resurrection."

As she continued to search the Bible, she found many more questions, and many more Methodist answers came from the family. Somehow she knew God must have someone somewhere that would solve the problems.

Nearly half a century later in Idaho, someone invited her to Bible tent meetings, and as she studied her Bible, she followed the things that the preacher spoke about and learned that here were the people that kept the seventh-day Sabbath. Three weeks later Laura was baptized. She has been a faithful member ever since.

OCTOGENARIAN COUPLE CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Thomas and Josephine Bilik, long-standing members of the Czechoslovakian SDA Church in Berwyn, recently celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary. The octogenarian couple have always been active in the church—Mrs. Bilik says she's held nearly every church office, and Mr. Bilik is serving as head deacon. The Czech Church has a high percentage of active senior citizens.

NEW CAMP CARETAKER FOR LITTLE GRASSY LAKE

Dean and Marcia Minett

Dean Minett has accepted the invitation of the Illinois Conference to serve as camp caretaker at Little Grassy Lake. He has an excellent background of preparatory experience for this responsibility.

Dean graduated from Andrews University, where he received a bachelor of science degree, with a major in industrial education and a minor in religion. He has had experience in construction, forestry, aviation instruction, and for the past several years has been working in summer camping programs. During the past nine months, he has assisted in the development and expansion plans of Camp Au Sable.

Marcia, Dean's wife, is the daughter of Elder and Mrs. Jess Nephew, caretaker of Camp Au Sable. She has spent every summer of her life in the camping program, either as a camper or staff member.

Dean and Marcia love to work with young people and feel that SDA camps can be a place of physical and spiritual refreshing for young and old alike. They will strive to make Little Grassy Lake just such a place, with God's help.

We welcome this fine, Christian couple to Illinois. May God's choicest blessings be seen bearing much fruit in their ministry as they work with the youth at Little Grassy Lake Camp.

INDIANAPOLIS GLENDALE NEWS NOTES

• Glendale Pathfinders were featured in a WLWI, Channel 13, television news film clip during the 6 p.m. news on November 24. A TV film crew came to the church to film the Pathfinders as they helped to pack the Thanksgiving food baskets that would be delivered to area families in financial distress. Canned goods collected by the Pathfinders made up a large portion of the food baskets. At the end of their work the film clip featured the Pathfinders in full uniform gathered around the piano singing "Pass It On." The club is under the direction of Phillip and Cynthia Prime.

• During Thanksgiving week, 30 food baskets were delivered by members of the Glendale Church. The baskets contained fresh produce, bread stuffs, and canned goods. In addition to the more than five hundred cans collected by Pathfinders, the Kroger Grocery headquarters in Indianapolis contributed 350 cans of food to the project. Names of deserving families were given to the church by the Washington Township Trustee's Office. Mrs. Alice Danford was coordinator of the project.

• Indianapolis Junior Academy children in the third and fourth grades were featured in a special Thanksgiving program on WNTS radio. Cynthia Prime, director of the "Newsmaker" program, visited the classroom of Mrs. Vivian Combes and taped the third and fourth graders reading original poems on the meaning of Thanksgiving. The poems were then set to a musical background and aired during the regular "Newsmaker" program time the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. The program was so warmly received by the public that the station managers decided to run the poems as features before and after news reports, weather reports, commercials, and various other time slots throughout Thanksgiving Day.

I.A. TOY PROGRAM

Students of Elder Duane Ferguson, head of Indiana Academy's Bible department, have volunteered their Sunday mornings during the past few months for the purpose of repairing and restoring toys donated by interested individuals.

The work involved in the renovation of these toys has filled many hours of the students' time. After wrapping the toys individually in bright holiday paper, the students were privileged to view the wonder and delight reflected on each child's face as their Christmas was brightened by the gifts.

This program is just one of many such projects instituted in Elder Ferguson's Bible classes. Commenting on the value of these programs, Elder Ferguson says, "The spiritual growth of each student is dependent on much more than just attending Bible classes; these students are, in a very real way, learning true Christian witnessing and the sharing of their time and talents with others."

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROGRAMS IN SOUTH BEND

One hundred persons, many of them non-Adventists, attended a recent series of nutrition classes sponsored by the South Bend SDA Church.

The classes, with emphasis on preparing delicious yet healthful meals, were held nightly, December 2 to 4. The program presented by Mrs. Dickie Martin and Mrs. Tootie Teeter included a discussion of the types of foods and requirements for a balanced diet, vegetarian cooking ideas, healthful desserts, breadmaking, and nutrition ideas for tots and teens. Tempting dishes were prepared and given to class members to sample. Also included on the program were slide presentations and films.

Alice Marsh, of Andrews University, was the guest speaker for the closing session. A question-and-answer period followed her interesting and informative presentation.

The three-day nutrition series was the first of several community service programs planned by the South Bend Church. Other programs planned are: Wa-Rite, a series of reducing classes to be held January through March; a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking to be held in February; and Heartbeat, a coronary risk screening to be held in February.

NATIVE SON GOES TO AFRICA

At the beginning of 1976, a native son and daughter left Indiana for Africa to serve the Lord.

Elder and Mrs. Leslie Speer have accepted a call to Solusi College in Bulawayo, Rhodesia, where Elder Speer will serve as a Bible teacher. Both Elder and Mrs. Speer are native Hoosiers and have been in the Lord's work all their years in the Indiana Conference. Both attended Indiana Academy.

Elder Speer decided to be a minister at Timber Ridge Camp one summer as a youth.

In September 1970, Pastor Speer began his ministerial internship in the Gary, Glen Park Church. His first district in which he served as pastor was Scottsburg, and in August of 1973, he became the pastor of the Terre Haute district.

We will miss this dedicated couple and assure them of our prayers as they go to Africa.

CICERO CHURCH HOLDS COMMUNITY SERVICE

"The more you practice thankfulness, the more you have to be thankful for." So said Rev. Stephen Bard, pastor of the Cicero Wesleyan Church, November 23, during the annual Cicero Thanksgiving community service. The service was held at the Cicero SDA Church.

One of the largest turnouts for the services was brought about by the cooperation of several church groups.

- Pastor Byron Hill, seminarian, was given a returning son's welcome home December 13, 1975. Son of a former pastor of the Burns Avenue Church, Byron addressed the congregation with a Sabbath message peering into the humble, total dedication of the widow who gave her last two mites. Other special guests included the Angelic Choir from the Niles, Michigan, Church.

PATHFINDER CLUB ORGANIZED AT MARQUETTE

4 PERSONS BAPTIZED AT SAULT STE. MARIE

Recently four persons were baptized in the newly remodeled baptistry of the Sault Ste. Marie Church. They are pictured with their pastor, Daniel A. #### TRAVERSE CITY HOLDS SMOKING CESSATION CLINIC

Out of 43 people attending Traverse City's latest Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, 33 are now non-smokers. This brings the total to 271 participants for the six smoking cessation clinics held in the Traverse City, Kalkaska, and Elk Rapids area within the past year.

"Other programs such as cooking school classes, a new Wa-Rite program, and an exercise program, have not only helped tie these people into specific patterns of healthful living, but have also broken down prejudice and opened doors to other avenues of church involvement," states Pastor John Swanson.

Following the June Five-Day Plan, Pastor and Mrs.

Swanson were invited to WWTV in Cadillac for a live 15-minute interview to discuss the community health programs. Donna Smith, the moderator of the program, expressed her appreciation to the TV audience for the work the Seventh-day Adventist church is doing for better community health.

A local owner of a sport's equipment store in Traverse City became interested in health-related programs after observing the Five-Day Plan and the Slim Line Program in Ohio at the Kettering Hospital. When he returned to Traverse City, he contacted Pastor Swanson, extended his appreciation for these programs, and offered his support. Currently, he is helping Pastor Swanson conduct an exercise program to follow up the Five-Day Plan.

The efficient organization of the leaders, the help of every available member of the church and school, and community advertisement made it a success with approximately 36,000 yards of fabric sold. The fabrics were furnished by Dale Munson of Williamston, Michigan.

There are 42 students enrolled this year at the school with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eager as teachers.

• Mid-American Nursing Homes, Inc., became Mid-American Health Services, Inc., on January 1, 1976. "The new name will better express our interest in other areas of health services, as health education and physical therapy," Glenn Aufderhar, president, said in announcing the revision. Mid-American operates live-in Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking at River Pines Community Health Center, Stevens Point, during the summer. The company recently contracted with the Clark County Hospital in Owen to provide physical therapy and rehabilitative services. Mid-American operates eight nursing homes in Wisconsin with 938 beds and more than seven hundred employees.

• The Baraboo Church conducted a successful Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at the hospital in November. Twenty smokers "kicked the habit." Participants in the Five-Day Plan were very appreciative of this health service of the church. Cosponsor of the Five-Day Plan was the County Mental Health Association.

• The Baraboo Valley Community Services Center was opened December 16. Elder E. E. Wheeler, conference lay activities director, officiated at the ribbon-cutting ceremony. The center's opening was made possible by the diligent efforts of many members of the church. Mrs. Leoma Yngsdal is the Community Services leader. The center occupies the former church school building.

CHERUB CHOIR FORMED

Grades one, two, and three of the Madison Junior Academy have been formed into a Cherub Choir by their teacher, Mrs. Florence Kurtz. The group presented the special music for a recent worship service in the new Madison Church. Student director was Elton Smith, third grade. The song they presented was "How Great Thou Art."

ADVENTIST PHYSICIAN RECEIVES FAMILY PRACTICE DEGREE

Joseph W. Weber, M.D., of New London has been named a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians. Dr. Weber has practiced family medicine in New London for the past 16 years. He attained the degree of fellowship by the successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, and by achieving diplomate status in the specialty of family practice as a result of passing a comprehensive certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice. Dr. and Mrs. Weber have been faithful members of the New London Church for many years.

William Sabin was the guest speaker at the Bethel Church on November 29.

SABIN SPEAKS AT BETHEL

William Sabin, formerly of Bethel, was guest speaker at the Bethel Church on November 29. Addressing the congregation during the worship service, he lectured on the cleansing of the sanctuary of Leviticus 16.

Sabin, 28, finished college at Walla Walla College, Washington, in 1975, and is now a ministerial student at Andrews University Theological Seminary. He received his elementary education at Bethel Junior Academy. He has pastored churches in Spokane and Yakima, Washington, and has experienced one year in a public lecture program.

He and his wife, Shirley, and children, James and Kerry, were visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sabin, who reside at Bethel.

MADISON STUDENTS LEARN DENTAL CARE

Stanley Sterling, D.D.S., an Adventist dentist in Madison, was the special guest speaker at a chapel program at the Madison Junior Academy.

His topic was "Dental Health." After a talk about teeth and their care, he demonstrated the proper way for teeth to be brushed. His visit caused a lot of discussion later regarding eating between meals and the effect on the acid level in the mouth.

Dr. Sterling presented a film about dental health put out by the Wisconsin Dental Society. It emphasized the need for constant and careful dental care.

MADISON LAYMEN ACTIVE AGAINST SMOKING

A successful Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was recently sponsored by the lay activities department of the Madison Church under the direction of Dale Bossenberry.

The plan was held in the downtown YMCA where more than twenty smokers registered. At the vegetarian meal held as a graduation banquet, more than twelve individuals said that they had completely stopped smoking and several others indicated that they had almost gained the victory.

One interesting fact about this plan was the way in which the advertising was done. A leaflet was included in the Ingathering material that was distributed by the church members during the house-to-house visitation. Everyone in this Five-Day Plan was there as a direct result of the Ingathering done this fall.

The lectures were presented by Stanley Sterling, D.D.S., an Adventist dentist in Madison, and Ron Cray, an active layman, who is building a vegetarian restaurant which will open soon in Madison.

Madison Church pastor, J. L. Ray, stated, "The program was one of the smoothest held in this area for some time." The lay activities group will hold their next Five-Day Plan in three months in the Metropolitan Bank building in Monona, a suburb of Madison.

World Church News

AGRICULTURAL AID TO CHAD FINALIZED

Seventh-day Adventist World Service (SAWS) has completed an agreement with the African Republic of Chad to begin a four-year program of agricultural training. Howard D. Burbank, SAWS executive director, announced in Washington that $200,000 from SAWS, together with $300,000 more from the U.S. Agency for International Development, will be spent. One hundred fifty French-speaking Moslem families who live in the Sahel region of Chad will participate in the program. Three SAWS workers (an agronomist, an engineer, and a nurse) will train the farmers to irrigate more than 300 acres of dry but fertile land from the nearby Chari River. They will grow sorghum, rice, and corn during the rainy season, and wheat, potatoes, and vegetables during the dry period. After the program is completed, SAWS officials expect to turn the cooperatively run farm over to the families as a self-supporting venture.

CHURCH SHOULD NOT MIX IN GOVERNMENT

A church official in Washington, D.C., has decried the mixing of Christian missions with affairs of government.

Referring to the report that missionaries in many countries have been involved with the CIA, vice president G. Ralph Thompson of the General Conference, declared that religious has no business dabbling in political affairs.

"Church and state," he said, "do not mix well, and the mixture is not only not in harmony with the Constitution of the United States, but tends to blur the real mission of the church."

He said that the church has taken a firm stand on the matter of church and state. "It is our stated policy," he said, "to take no official position regarding any government. Our members stretch around the world, and wherever they live, they live as loyal citizens of that country and equally loyal to their commitment to God as His children and ambassadors here on earth."

The vice president added, "When a church gets into affairs of state and politics, it is neglecting its first allegiance, which is to God. Missionaries have no business serving as intelligence agents in the lands of their mission, and no Adventist would be involved in this kind of activity."

WOMAN NAMED ACADEMIC DEAN

Dr. Helen Evans will become one of the few women academic deans at a coeducational liberal arts college in the United States. Presently chairman of the English department at Walla Walla College in Washington State, Dr. Evans will take up her duties at Southwestern Union College near Dallas, Texas, in June. In addition to her pioneering role in education, Dr. Evans in 1974 became the first woman to be ordained an elder in the Walla Walla Seventh-day Adventist Church.

TWO CLINICIANS JOIN SPEECH AND HEARING CLINIC

Two full-time clinicians and instructors, Dawn Baumgartner and Karen Myers, have joined the staff of the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Andrews University. They replace Stephen Prescod and Lynn B. Scott.

Miss Myers holds a master's degree in audiology from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan; and Mrs. Baumgartner holds a master of science degree in communicative disorders from the University of Redlands, Redlands, California.

Mrs. Baumgartner served as speech therapist at Bridgman Public Schools before joining A.U. this term, and prior to that was a speech therapist at the Lancaster Cleft Palate Clinic, the Loma Linda University Medical Center, the San Bernardino Easter Seals Society, and the Redlands University Speech Clinic.

The two new clinicians and the director of the clinic, Roy Anderson, serve some 40 patients a week, treating such problems as stuttering, profound deafness, articulation disorders, and a range of other speech and hearing impairments. The clinic also provides professional hearing aid evaluations and recommendations and serves, on a regular basis, Memorial Hospital and Berrien General Hospital.

SALESMANSHIP OFFERED IN COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY

Better salesmen and well-trained literature evangelists are the goals of a new occupational education program in salesmanship.

Salesmanship will be a three-quarter program with 12 to 14 credits given each quarter. When the student completes the course, he will be awarded a certificate of attainment.

Steve Young, chairman of the occupational education department, said that although a few people who had never sold before might take the course, he expects that at first the students will mainly be literature evangelists.

However, this course of study is not just for those interested in literature work. William Davidson, dean of the college of technology, said that students taking other programs dealing with selling would also take some of the courses offered under salesmanship.

Details are being worked on, but Davidson said that the lab may involve canvassing locally door-to-door and may also include experience in an Adventist Book Center.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL MUSEUM AND HERITAGE ROOM SLATED FOR EXPANSION

The archaeological museum in the basement of the library will be expanding to five times its present size by next September with the new library addition.

This expansion will enable the museum to display more of its 6,000 objects, which are presently being stored in several different locations on campus, according to Eugenia Nitowski, assistant curator for the museum.

Several features of the new museum will include an exhibition room that will be more than twice as large as the present one; a larger workroom/office, with a new conservation and restoration laboratory; a new scholar's room; and a storage room.

The scholar's room is a new addition idea to accommodate visiting scholars in their study of the museum's objects. Visiting scholars currently engaged in study include some from Harvard, Yale, The Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, Hebrew Union College, and the University of Notre Dame.

Expansion of the library will also allow more space for the Heritage Room Archive.

There will be three times as much room, according to Mrs. Louise Dederen, curator of the Heritage Room. A display room, a study area, and a special room for photographs and chart collections are included in the plans, as well as a large vault.

A large study area will have windows (not existing now) and will be isolated from any noise, a major problem in the present set-up, according to Mrs. Dederen. Carrels for private study will be featured also.

The display room will be located where the archaeological museum presently exists. This will give the department opportunity to display historical documents, manuscripts, and rare books from denominational history of the SDA church.

In the special room for photographs and charts, a large table will be available for patrons to photograph materials they need.

The vault will be 21 by 42 feet in size. It is hoped that electrified compact shelving can be acquired for the vault. This system doubles the holding capacity by electrically moving the stacks to form aisles so that patrons may obtain a certain book or publication.

The archive at present is "inadequate since our goal is eventually to have copies of every SDA publication," said Mrs. Dederen.

OMISSION

The name of a new book compiled and edited by Emmett K. Vande Vere was omitted from the description in the December 16 issue of the Lake Union Herald.
