DETROIT CHURCHES HOST

Breath of Life Crusade

As God breathed life into us physically in the garden of Eden to make us living souls, so also He breathes life into us spiritually to make our souls live the abundant life.

For the thousands that attended the Breath of Life Crusade at the Better Living Center in Detroit, God truly breathed the breath of life upon them.

Many months before the Breath of Life came into Detroit, there was fostered in the minds of a few the idea of using the TV medium to reach thousands of Blacks who had not been reached by this message. As this idea was structured, God's blessings were upon it and it materialized into the Breath of Life TV program.

How Beautiful Upon the Mountains

On Sabbath, January 10, our Kalamazoo Church was the scene of a very special meeting. You see, our literature evangelists in the Michigan Conference had joined to rejoice over reaching what at one time seemed an impossible dream—the sale of more than $1 million worth of missionary literature! This is the first time in history that any conference has achieved such a record.

I wish you might have heard their thrilling experiences—true modern-day miracles. One by one the literature evangelists spoke of how they had been led from other positions of employment into the literature ministry and of their determination to faithfully serve God in this way until our Lord returns.

As evidence of this determination, and in spurning the temptation of self-satisfaction, they joined in setting the following goals for 1976. Literature sale, $1,657,000; baptisms, 212; and the influencing of 60 new recruits to join their ranks.

A special branch of the publishing ministry has placed Listen magazines in 200 Michigan public schools and made contact with approximately 20,000 students.

While in this issue we are paying tribute to our literature evangelists in Michigan, we wish to also include their associates throughout the Lake Union who are just as committed to their work. The total picture of the publishing work will appear in a later issue.

I am sure every member of the union conference family will join in praying for our literature evangelists as they set out to claim even greater victories in 1976.

“How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation.” Isaiah 52:7.

sunday OBSERVANCE— By-product of a violent age

by Randolph Neall
Photos by Adam Bujak

The story of a Seventh-day Adventist who was the first non-Catholic to be admitted to the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome was featured in the South Bend Tribune Michiana, a Sunday supplement magazine.

By 135 A.D. Jerusalem had been leveled. In three years Roman forces had slaughtered—without the aid of gas chambers—some 580,000 Jews, the last of well over a million slain throughout the empire during the previous seven decades. Hostilities had simmered, festered, exploded. The Jew had become the empire's bitterest foe.

The story goes unnoticed in most high school history texts. But one by-product of that deadly struggle is with us still: Sunday, the all-time champion over the day Christians first observed, Saturday, "Sabbath of the Jews."

That, in part, is the contention of a section of a doctoral dissertation published this summer with the official sanction (imprimatur) of a top Jesuit university, the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome.

The author, Samuele Bacchiocchi, Ph.D., a religion professor and historian at Andrews University, was the first non-Catholic admitted to a regular doctoral program at the Jesuit university in its 425-year history—a rare ecumenical gesture. Once admitted, he was barred from no honors, including a $1,000 gold medal from Pope Paul VI for attaining the top academic distinction of summa cum laude.

Bacchiocchi's study probes ancient Latin and Greek documents that show how thoroughly Jews were hated throughout the Roman empire during the first centuries after Christ, and how desperately Christians sought to avoid all possible identification with Jews. The story, summarized below from the dissertation, begins with bloodshed of the first century A.D.

By the most conservative tallies, more Jews were killed in violent uprisings between 70 and 135 A.D. than all U.S. troops killed in the Civil War, World War I, World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War. Some observers of the time placed Jewish fatalities near two million. Whatever the figure, portions of Palestine that were once well populated became virtual deserts.

Roman forces under Titus killed some 600,000 Jews to quell a vicious revolt in Jerusalem in 70 A.D. But the Jews, ever chafing under Roman control, continued to stage violent revolts throughout the empire until 135 A.D. Non-Jews responded with anti-Jewish riots in several major cities, and civil authorities clamped a special tax on all Jews and even on any persons who lived like Jews, including, perhaps, Sabbath-keeping Christians.

Violence climaxed in 135 A.D. at Jerusalem with a rebellion instigated by Barkokeba, a self-proclaimed messiah to the Jews. The Romans were ready. After the battles of 132-135 A.D., even the ruins of the city were closed to surviving Jews. Roman authorities then outlawed, throughout the empire, all Jewish religious practices, including Sabbath observance.

Conflicts between Jews and Christians were almost as common as Jewish clashes with the Romans. The dissertation cites New Testament records of chronic strife between Jew and Christian involving riots, stonings, and martyrdoms. Jews driven by nationalistic hatred directed a "massive and cruel" persecution against Christians during the Barkokeba war, Bacchiocchi writes.

Christians never forgave the Jews for promoting Christ's execution, and church leaders blasted Jews constantly in their writings.

Naturally enough, the Christians, driven by their own hatred of Jews and fear of Roman reprisals, sought to rid themselves of even the scent of Judaism. This, Bacchiocchi says, required careful maneuvering, since Christianity, after all, grew out of Judaism. Christ, a Jew, actually sought to strengthen the authority of the Jewish Old Testament law and prophets, according to the study.

Part of that law, at first kept by Jews and Christians alike, was the fourth commandment requirement to observe the Sabbath (Saturday). Bacchiocchi found no evidence that Christians did otherwise until after 100 A.D., when Sabbath observance proved to be an embarrassing and even hazardous trademark for Christians, particularly those in Rome.

The Christians found themselves all too easily identified with the Jews by worshipping on the same day as they observed in an empire that generally reserved Sunday, if any day, for sun worship and holidays. The Sabbath would have to go, and Sunday became an increasingly attractive alternative. Many Christians were former sun worshipers, and Sunday was far more palatable than the Jewish Sabbath to the millions that Christians hoped to convert, or at least live with.

The change from Sabbath to Sunday was an arduous process, but Christian theologians proved equal to the task. They reinterpreted the symbol of the sun to refer to Jesus, "the Sun of Righteousness," and "the Light of the World." Light, they noted, was created on Sunday, the first day of the week, according to Genesis. The clinching argument, based on Christ's Sunday resurrection, did not gain force until the Christian Sunday was well under way, oddly enough.

Early in the second century, Bacchiocchi found, Easter Sunday was instituted, and the weekly Christian observation of Sunday soon followed.

Rome quickly became the champion of the new day. In that city few of the Christians were former Jews. Jewish-Christian-Roman tensions there were at their hottest. Moreover, Rome was the seat of the Roman empire and of the most powerful bishop in Christendom, the only bishop strong enough to initiate such a drastic change.

But even in Rome, Sunday observance did not immediately destroy the sacred significance of the Sabbath. Church leaders there accordingly instituted a fast that may have lasted from Friday noon to early Sunday morning. Even bread of the Eucharist was forbidden.

The fast served to sour the Sabbath and predispose worshipers to greet Sunday with greater relish, to protest the execution of Christ, and, by Jewish custom, to profane the Sabbath. In the eastern Mediterranean, however, veneration of the Sabbath persisted for centuries, Bacchiocchi observes.

When he first proposed the origin of the Christian Sunday for his dissertation topic, his major professor, Father Vincenzo Monachino, said the subject had already been amply treated in dozens of major works over the past 15 years.

Most of these, Bacchiocchi found, tended to trace Sunday observance to Christ and his apostles, a position according well with a Vatican II decision to base church practices as far as possible on Scripture. Bacchiocchi's dissertation, however, dates the change after the death of the last apostle and finds Sunday first observed and enforced in Rome, 2,000 miles west of Jerusalem, the original headquarters of Christianity. And the circumstances were far more grim than Resurrection Sunday.

Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital

Construction is going on in Oak Hall as the building is readied for occupancy by the Hinsdale Family Medicine Center this spring. Drs. W. Duane Dodd, left, and Everet W. Witzel, directors of the center, examine plans for the structure.

FAMILY PRACTICE RESIDENCY BEGINS

Three graduate physicians have arrived from Loma Linda University to begin three-year programs at the hospital's family practice residency.

The residents will be working from headquarters in the Hinsdale Family Medicine Center when remodeling is finished this spring. The center occupies the structure across from the hospital now known as Oak Hall and formerly the Hinsdale Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Accreditation for the San's three-year family practice residency was awarded last year by the Liaison Committee on Graduate Medical Education on a provisional basis. The residency program is accredited for up to seven residents per year.

In July of this year another group of residents will arrive to begin their residency.

"In some ways the center will function like a doctor's office," explains Everet W. Witzel, M.D., director of the family practice residency. Members of families selected to represent a cross section of the community will receive comprehensive medical care at the center.

W. Duane Dodd, M.D., associate director of the family practice residency, will direct the residents in selecting patients and will provide overall guidance and review for decisions affecting patients. "We are emphasizing the family unit," says Dr. Dodd. "We are trying to train the physicians in breadth, not depth."

During the three years while in the residency program the residents will receive training and guidance from the medical staff of the San.

A distinct advantage of the care available through the family practice model unit is that more doctors will be involved with fewer patients, giving them more time to relate to each one.

The three residents now in the program are John Hoch, Rick Hill, and Ken Heinrich.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE ADVENTIST BOOK CENTER EXPANDS

The Illinois Adventist Book Center has expanded their facilities to accommodate glass door frozen food units. Most vegetarian frozen food lines are being stocked in quantities that should accommodate the entire constituency of the conference.

Clyde Best, manager, says that he is buying the frozen foods including fruits and nuts in carload lots in order to give customers a more attractive price.

Bill Morgan, assistant manager, is scheduling trips throughout the field with the van and trailer loaded with food and books. This will make it possible for more people to enjoy the services of the ABC.

Orders are placed with the ABC, and at appointed times these orders are delivered to designated places in the conference.

This is a tremendous service offered by the ever aggressive Illinois Conference ABC.

MRS. FRANK LIPPI HONORED

Mrs. Frank Lippi was honored by the Glen Ellyn SDA Community Services at a fellowship luncheon, December 6, in recognition of the work she has done for others.

Christine Lippi came to America from Czechoslovakia. In 1946, Miss Voigt, a colporteur, sold the family the Conflict Series. Mrs. Lippi and her children started taking Bible studies. In 1947, she was baptized at the old West Central Church. There, because of her great love for children, she worked for many years in both the cradle roll and kindergarten departments.

When the Ingathering campaign begins, Mrs. Lippi always has a head start. In the spring of the year when the weather warms up, she says the Holy Spirit will give her no peace until she does this work. Last year she distributed more than 600 pieces of literature.

Glen Ellyn Community Services recognizes the faithful service of Christine Lippi at a fellowship luncheon. Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lippi, seated, and Pastor Wayne Pleasants of the Glen Ellyn Church.

After being an Adventist for one year, Mrs. Lippi began canvassing one day a week with the book Bible Readings for the Home. Many seeds of truth have been sown in the Glendale Heights area as a result of her faithful work.

She is well known for her work with the Dorcas and Community Services. She has knitted approximately 102 pairs of socks, 30 lap robes, 30 shoulder wraps, and 12 bibs.

Mrs. Lippi was presented with a parchment scroll with beautiful script lettering done by Ricardo Moscatel with the poem entitled "You Cared," written by Betty Heller.

Mr. and Mrs. Lippi have been married 49 years. They will be leaving the Glen Ellyn area and moving to Berrien Springs, Michigan.

RICHMOND WELCOMES NEW PASTOR

Elder Don Dronen recently accepted the call to pastor the Richmond, Indiana, district. The Dronen family comes to Indiana from the Nebraska Conference.

He served as pastor for more than five years there. This will be the second conference in which he has worked.

His family includes his wife, Carol, and two sons, John, age 5, and James, age 3.

Dronen received his B.A. degree from Union College and his master of divinity degree at Andrews University. He was ordained June 8, 1974, in the Nebraska Conference.

McVille, North Dakota, was his birthplace and Mrs. Dronen is from Lincoln, Nebraska.

Elder Dronen follows Elder Michael Nickless as pastor of the Richmond district. Elder Nickless is now pastor of the Gary Church.

Let us pray for the Lord's blessing as this dedicated couple begins their ministry in the conference.

Mrs. Vera Hammack, assistant in the primary department, told of a robbery in her home which resulted in the loss of a watch, coin collection, and many other valuable items. But the Investment jar which was only a few feet from the other items was not taken. Andy Trubey, right, counted his share from the family project of selling liquid manure and pumpkins and turned in $15.

INVESTMENT PROJECTS NET $1,909.19 AT CICERO

Charles Snelling announced during the church services at the Cicero SDA Church the total amount of funds raised for Investment. This year $1,909.19 has been raised to date with other projects not yet completed. Snelling hopes to reach $2,000.

Faithful members gather money all year long using many and varied projects. Some feel this is one of the most important aspects of the church, opening new avenues of spreading the gospel of Jesus.

Some projects used this year are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith of Arcadia raised an Investment garden. Produce sold totaled $62.62. The junior department of the Cicero Sabbath School raised $100 selling five-pound bags of popcorn.

Many people saved coins. One member confined to Riverview Hospital received some money in a piggy bank from her doctor. Turning her confinement into a blessing for others, Naomi Sigler soon had everyone saving pennies for "her" piggy bank. To date she has raised $14.73.

MUNCIE PATHFINDERS RIDE 50 MILES

On September 28, the Muncie Pathfinders went on their 50-mile bicycle ride. A total of 14 riders started out on the ride with 12 finishing. They finished the ride in six and a half hours.

I.A. STUDENTS LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

Students at Indiana Academy under the leadership of their Student Association are launching a sizable campaign for recreational facilities on campus. Efforts by students in the past have produced admirable results. Funds raised have been used to purchase a new touring bus and to build a much needed athletic field for the school.

The goal of $10,000 will be used to install tennis courts, horseshoe pits, an area for volleyball and tether ball, and additional lighting for the athletic field. Kick-off date for the campaign is January 20, 1976. At that time students will make a personal appeal by letter to individuals throughout Indiana and surrounding areas.

Plans are being finalized for an evening program,

February 29, as students return to the campus from weekend leave. A feature length film will be shown following a spaghetti supper and bake sale. On March 11, each class will organize their individual campaigns to aid in the overall project.

The students are eager and optimistic! They have set March 14 as the date for actual construction to begin. Projects such as this which are initiated and carried out by the students for the purpose of achieving better health and happiness are deserving of each person's attention. Don't wait to be asked, send your contribution to the Student Association, Indiana Academy, Cicero, IN 46034.

BETTER TO GIVE THAN TO RECEIVE

Members of the Gary Glen Park Church decided they wouldn't send Christmas cards to fellow church members this year. Instead they gave $5 (the postage money) to their Dorcas Society.

Through their donations many families were helped during the holidays as ten large baskets of food were distributed. Some leads as to appropriate families were from the welfare department and others from personal contacts.

Pastor Michael Nickless in return for the wonderful response had names of those who donated money printed in the church bulletin as a "public" Christmas greeting to everyone.

Under the production and direction of Walter Arties, the program was put together and talent was brought from all over the country for the pilot program.

With Shelton Kilby III, music director, and Elder C. D. Brooks, speaker, 13 weeks of programming was produced for airing in the Detroit area prior to the three-week evangelistic crusade.

Mike Connors was the announcer for the Breath of Life TV program and the three-week crusade.

As a result of the TV program, great interest developed by the churches in Detroit and thousands attended the crusade. The uniqueness of this meeting is the fact that the Breath of Life team not only provided the entire program during the crusade, but made home visits and gave Bible studies.

The enthusiasm and excitement that was created by the quartet and the spoken word led 58 persons to surrender their lives to Christ through baptism with many more waiting to be baptized.

For the first two weeks in November, Elder E. E. Cleveland held a series of meetings in the Shiloh Church for Chicagoland. During the first week, Elder Cleveland conducted the week of prayer for Shiloh Academy along with his evening services.

At the conclusion of the two weeks, 78 backsliders indicated their desire to return to the church and 70 persons requested baptism into the Seventh-day Adventist church. A follow-up plan has been set up to pursue the interests.

NEWS NOTE

- Sixty-three new believers were added to the City Temple Church during 1975. Thirteen of this number were the result of the Breath of Life Crusade held in October at the Better Living Center.

INSIGHT PUBLISHES MICHIGAN WRITER

Insight, the weekly, national magazine for Seventh-day Adventist youth, has printed two articles by a member from the Burns Avenue Church, Elinor Harvin, a journalist and public relations writer.

"Missing All That Fun" printed September 30, 1975, described the effect of television and theater on the spiritual life. "My Angel Dog" was published in the November 18, 1975, issue and told of an encounter with menacing dogs.

BURNS STARTS NEWSLETTER

Keeping in touch can be a problem in a sizable congregation. One church has found that a possible solution is to institute a newsletter.

In September, the Burns Avenue Church in Detroit, pastored by Elder T. M. Kelly, started mailing its 700-plus members a four-page publication called Midnight.

The bi-weekly newsletter contains not only upcoming events, but shares study tips, recipes, poetry, practical advice, interviews with members, and advertisements to help find employment for members.

Midnight is edited and assembled by members Elinor Harvin and Lorraine Rhodes.

NEWS NOTES

- Students of the Grand Haven Church School had a rewarding Christmas experience through sharing. The 14 students gave up their regular gift exchange, and made arrangements for eight underprivileged children, ranging in ages from 2 to 9, to be brought to the school for a delightful time of entertainment and the opening of gifts. John Kantor and Claudia Gene Soper are the teachers at Grand Haven.

- The choir of the Troy Church presented a Christmas concert at two of the largest malls in the Detroit Metropolitan area in December. Mrs. Flora Sherman conducted the choral group.

- The last Sabbath of 1975 was a special day for the Buchanan Church when three new members were baptized. All three made their decisions as the result of personal witnessing on the part of members of the church, and all attended services regularly before asking to be baptized.

- The First Flint and South Flint churches have begun publishing a newsletter serving both congregations. Its editor is Mrs. Merlin Patterson, a former secretary in the conference communications department.

- The South Flint Church has elected a committee to lay plans for the expansion of the present structure to include a kitchen facility, classrooms, and a fellowship area. Jack Shoemaker serves as chairman of the eight-member committee.

JAMES
HAYWARD
SECRETARY

replaces Charles Keymer, who served as secretary from early 1971 until this past December 1 when he assumed the presidency of the conference.

Elder Keymer announced Hayward's appointment with a "great deal of pleasure." He believes the new secretary will make a strong contribution to the work of the church in Michigan because of "his personal spiritual experience, his devotion to the work of the church, and his proven administrative abilities."

This will be the second Hayward to serve as conference secretary. Elder John Hayward, now president for Illinois, was Michigan's first full-time secretary serving from 1969 until 1971. Both of the Haywards, who are identical twins, moved into this key administrative post from their position as pastor of the Battle Creek Tabernacle and superintendent of district ten.

The new secretary is known as one of Michigan's top preachers and also for his "finger-tip" knowledge of the writings of Mrs. White.

Elder Hayward and his wife, Jane, are from the New England area; he from Connecticut and she from Rhode Island. They have two sons, James, Jr., on the faculty at Andrews University, and John in audio-visual work in a Washington, D.C., hospital.

Elder Hayward served in Europe during World War II and returned to study for the ministry at Atlantic Union College in Massachusetts. He began his ministry in 1952 and pastored in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Georgia, and Texas prior to accepting the call to Battle Creek. The conference secretary is currently combining the needs of his new position with his work at the Tabernacle and will assume full-time duties in Lansing as soon as he can turn over the pastoral work of his congregation to another minister.

JUNIORS INVEST DIMES

A wheel of dimes totaling $115 for investment was built by the junior Sabbath School class led by Mrs. Dan Towar and Terry Edwards of the Stevensville Church.

WORKER CHANGES ANNOUNCED

Recent changes of ministerial personnel within the conference has included the calling of three new workers.

Richard Harbour, who has just graduated from the seminary, is now an intern for the Pontiac Church. Elder Gordon A. Frase, new pastor for the Ionia, Belding, and Greenville churches, comes from Monument Valley Hospital where he served as chaplain. The new pastor for the Marshall and Bellevue churches is Elder Graham K. Satchell. His last place of service was at Pago Pago, American Samoa, where he served as president of the Samoan Union Mission.

Changes in pastoral responsibilities within the conference include the moving of Ron Ruskjer, assistant pastor of Lansing, to the East Lansing and Williamston congregations. Kenneth Lee, who has been a Bible instructor in the Kalamazoo area, has been asked to take over the responsibility of the East Detroit Church. Lee and his wife, Rosealee, who has been a Bible instructor for many years, will work as a team to strengthen and build up the membership of this congregation formerly known as the Detroit German Church.

Elder William Hafner is leaving Chesaning and St. Charles for Grand Haven and Wright. He replaces Elder Ed Herr, who accepted a call to Northern California. Herr's son, Ron, the accountant at the conference office, has also left Michigan to become assistant treasurer for the Oklahoma Conference.

Elder William Hafner, far right, stands with the group baptized recently after the Chesaning series.

NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO FIVE CHURCHES

Eleven persons were recently baptized as a result of evangelistic meetings at Chesaning. Elder Robert Collar, conference evangelist, conducted the series and Elder William Hafner, the local pastor, conducted the baptism.

Two of the new members joined the Owosso congregation, two at St. Charles, and seven at Chesaning.

Other recent evangelistic campaigns resulted in four baptisms at Morrice and eight at Lansing. Elder Glenn Hill of the Urbandale Church was the guest speaker at Morrice, and he and Elder Bernard K. Mills, the local pastor, report that six more people are looking forward to baptism in the near future.

Elder Robert Boothby, retired evangelist, conducted the series at Lansing, and five additional persons, besides those already baptized and mentioned above, are continuing studies looking forward to joining the church. Elder Oliver Johnston is the Lansing pastor.

GRAND LEDGE BRIDE GOES TO AFRICA

A new bride, a former member of the Grand Ledge Church, is setting up housekeeping in the heart of Africa.

In September, Kathie Ewald, R.N., a graduate of Grand Ledge Academy and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ewald, was married to Fred Christiansen, an Andrews University graduate and son of the pastor of the Sarnia, Ontario, Canada, Church. In November they were Africa bound where he will teach mathematics and science at Kivu Adventist College in the small village of Butembo, Zaire.

According to a feature article in the Grand Ledge Independent, the couple have "elected to follow a path few newlyweds would consider." They are scheduled to spend the next six years at their African teaching post adapting to an unfamiliar lifestyle. They will, however, be granted a three-month furlough at the end of their first three years.

Mission life for Fred will not be altogether strange as he spent ten years of his childhood in India where his parents served as missionaries. But for Kathie it will be a brand new experience. "Several different African tongues are spoken in the area," but Fred admitted that he and Kathie wouldn't be able to speak any of them. He can, however, speak French quite well, and will be teaching in that language. Kathie has only a background of German.

The couple will be living right on the equator, but since they will be at an elevation of 7,500 feet the temperatures range between 50 and 70 degrees with rainfall nearly everyday. They have been told that their future home, a ranch style brick house, has no running hot water and no electricity except for about three hours in the evening—providing the generator works.

Like most parents whose children are leaving to serve their Master as missionaries, the Ewalds and the Christiansens said goodbye with a sense of pride and happiness but also with a feeling of emptiness. Fred and Kathie also had mixed feelings about their departure but are happy about their “personal commitment” to the cause of Christ.

NEW HIGH FOR RAYMOND INVESTMENT

As you walked into the Raymond Church on Sabbath morning, December 6, you knew this was going to be a special day. This was Investment Sabbath and the front of the church was appropriately decorated with fruits, vegetables, pine cones, and gaily colored leaves representing the harvesttime.

To raise money in the cradle roll and kindergarten division, the children would bring dimes each week and put them in the pouch of a large felt Mother Kangaroo. For every ten dimes the children brought, they would receive a baby kangaroo. They turned in $63. All the children joined in singing “He's Got the Whole World in His Hands.”

Putting fish in their individual fish bowl was the objective of every primary and junior child. For every dollar the children brought, they received an orange fish and a gold one for every $5. Their goal was $300. One of the primary boys, Timmy Otwaska, sold a puppy for $35 and did odd jobs to earn more money. He turned in a total of $44. They closed their part of the program by singing a medley of choruses.

Mrs. Helen Feldbauer, who is 82, still takes an active part in the Investment program every year. She rents her land to a neighbor, Ernest Maranger, and she tells him one acre of this land has been dedicated to the Lord. Each year he has given her $50 for this particular acre, which she turns in for Investment. Through this contact with Mrs. Feldbauer, Mr. Maranger has become interested in church activities and is studying many SDA books.

This year when he came to pay her for this acre, he gave her $100 instead of the usual $50 and because the Lord was so good to him this year, he wanted to give another $100 for himself. This gave Mrs. Feldbauer a total of $200 to turn in for Investment.

Mrs. Kraus related a little of the history of Investment. Mrs. Decker read a poem entitled “Investment at Raymond,” which she wrote about the projects of the members.

When the offering was totaled, everyone was happy and thankful to learn that they had raised $1,648.40, a new all time high for the Raymond Church. The members hope to reach the $2,000 mark.

SENIOR CITIZENS HONORED AT MADISON

More than thirty senior citizens of the Madison Church congregation were honored at a recent vesper program presented by grades seven, eight, and nine of the Madison Junior Academy. Appropriate scripture, songs, poems, and tributes made the short program special. After a brief talk by Pastor J. L. Ray, a gift of two poem booklets was given to each senior citizen. Each of the students had signed the inside cover of each book. The occasion was attended by a fine crowd of well wishers.

CRAWFORD LISTED WITH LEADERS

Chester Crawford, M.D., has been listed with “Leaders for this Generation” at Green Bay's Bellin Hospital.

Three professional men in Green Bay have been cited as the moving force in establishing and maintaining a first-class medical facility in the city. The three men are

M. G. Bush, a business executive, Fred Will, an attorney, and Dr. Chester Crawford, an SDA physician.

Dr. Crawford has been a member of the Green Bay Church for many years and has made numerous contributions to the health of the community. The following paragraph is a quotation from Bel-line, the house organ of the Bellin Hospital.

"Dr. Chester Crawford has brought not only a medical perspective to the board but a hospital perspective to the medical community. For three years he's served as the medical staff's liaison to the board of directors. And in garnering the support of doctors for Bellin's continued expansion of service, his has been a voice of quiet persuasion and respected insight. His perceptions have guided the development of professional medical accountability standards and he serves on that board committee. His feel for the future of Bellin has helped the board balance the growth of medical-surgical services like the heart program."

The Wisconsin Academy Madrigal Singers presented the Sabbath vesper program at the Madison Church on December 13.

W.A. MADRIGALS INSPIRE MADISON CONGREGATION

The Wisconsin Academy Madrigal Singers presented an inspirational program of music at the Madison Church on December 13 for the Sabbath vesper service. Dressed in their matching long dresses and tuxedos they sang a selection of sacred and Christmas music.

A highlight of their concert was the introduction of the string ensemble to Madison members. The ensemble has recently been formed and already has a professional sound. They presented a selection of Christmas carol arrangements.

The Madrigal Singers will be touring Wisconsin in the next few months. You will miss a fine program if you miss the Madrigals. They are directed by Miss Louise Larmon and accompanied by Gary Klemp.

Tim Wieder, right, explains his first days in the Mid-American administrator-in-training program to Jim Dykes. Wieder started in November; Dykes in January. They are the fifth and sixth AIT's hired by Mid-American in 1975.

NEW EMPLOYEES AT MID-AMERICAN

Three new employees have been added to the staff, and one employee has been reassigned at Mid-American Health Services.

New food service director at Marshfield Convalescent Center is Ruth Daunes. Mrs. Daunes was previously food service director at Watkins Memorial Hospital, Ellijay, Georgia. She has two daughters. Mrs. Daunes is accredited with the Hospital Educational Food Service Association.

Two persons entered the administrator-in-training program.

Tim Wieder came to Mid-American from Andrews University where he had earned a master's degree in business administration. He worked for the Internal Revenue Service for two-and-a-half years prior to returning to college for his graduate work.

Jim Dykes began the AIT program January 4. He had been working on a master's degree at Roosevelt University in Chicago. Jim also worked for the Lake Region Conference. He and his wife, Garnette, have one child, Serita Lynn.

Moving to the central office to handle accounts receivable is Larry Lamon, formerly assistant administrator at Lancaster Nursing Home. Lamon earned his B.A. from Andrews University. He replaces Ariel DePrada who joined the Greater New York Conference.

RHODE ISLAND 'BLUES' ARE AT ISSUE

The Rhode Island Bible Society is fighting a trend in that state. Each Sunday, more and more stores are opening up in defiance of state blue laws. W. W. Richardson, president of the society, says he does not believe people should be forced to work on Sunday. While some officials are calling for strict enforcement of the statutes, Governor Phillip Noel says that Rhode Island's 200 state troopers "are busy with law enforcement of a much more serious nature."

TEACHERS SUE IN SCHOOL PRAYER CASE

Teachers in Okaloosa County have filed a $650,000 damage suit against the school superintendent and four of the five school board members. The teachers contend they are being forced to disobey the law because of a board policy requiring prayer and Bible readings. The teachers say they have been "shunned, avoided, and ostracized by their peers" because of their stand against the policy. If the suit is successful, the superintendent could be liable for $150,000 in damages, and board members $125,000 each, which could not be paid out of tax dollars.

AMISH ACQUIRING OLD PENNSYLVANIA SCHOOLS

Old-order Amish in Pennsylvania are not only continuing to operate their traditional schools, but are buying up old schoolhouses as fast as the state can get rid of them. In seven years, the number of schools operated by the Amish has increased from 31 to 62. The Amish still shun electricity, cars, and other "modern conveniences" in their schools. Even the wardrobes of the children remain unchanged. Girls wear ankle-length dresses and boys sport black trousers, long-sleeved shirts, and suspenders.

TWO CONVOCATIONS SET ON RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

The Bicentennial year will see two important meetings on religious liberty, one in the United States and one in Europe. The first, a Bicentennial Conference on Religious Liberty, will take place April 25 to 30 in Philadelphia. Sponsored by the Metropolitan Christian Council of Philadelphia, it is backed by Protestant, Catholic, Orthodox, and Jewish organizations. The second gathering will be the week-long First World Religious Liberty Conference in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, September 19 to 26. It is sponsored by the International Religious Liberty Association, Washington, D.C., and will feature study sessions attempting to define religious liberty problems in various countries as well as awarding outstanding proponents of religious liberty in Spain, Norway, and the United States.

SENATOR SAYS FEW CHRISTIAN CHURCHES REMAIN IN CHINA

Senator Charles Percy of Illinois says only Peking and a few other cities in the People's Republic of China are known to have regular Christian church services. Percy, part of the seventh congressional delegation to China, told his senatorial colleagues that "party membership is not granted to anyone who practices a religious belief. Attendance at a university and certain other privileges also would be denied," he added.

HATFIELD SPONSORS BILL TO CUT CIA-MISSIONARY LINK

Senator Mark Hatfield of Oregon has introduced legislation into the Senate which would prohibit the use of missionaries as contacts for the Central Intelligence Agency. In remarks on the Senate floor Hatfield stated that both the CIA and the White House have admitted that missionaries have been used for intelligence purposes and both refused to stop the practice. Many church leaders deplored the action and stated that their denominations maintained no contact with the CIA.

PRIVATE COLLEGE ENROLLMENT RISES

Enrollment this fall in colleges and universities under private and religious control is up five percent over the preceding year. According to an estimate of the National Center for Education Statistics, institutions under public control have an estimated enrollment rise of 11 percent from a year ago. Of the 11.3 million students in school this year, some 2.38 million attend privately controlled colleges and universities.

PRIVATE HOSPITALS MAY PROHIBIT 'ELECTIVE' ABORTIONS

The U.S. Supreme Court has endorsed a lower court ruling upholding the right of privately operated hospitals to forbid doctors to perform "elective" abortions. That right is confirmed even for government-supported privately operated hospitals. The lower court has ruled that if the hospital was a public institution it would have to allow elective abortions; but a private hospital could constitutionally forbid nontherapeutic abortions.

BOW AND ARROWS PRESENTED TO HERITAGE ROOM

A gift of bow and arrows was recently presented to the Heritage Room of Andrews University by Samuel and Olga Schmidt, former students of the university now teaching college at Montemorelos, Mexico.

The bow and arrows originally belonged to Joaquin

Trujillo, chief of the Mexaboc branch of the diminishing Lacandon Indians of southern Mexico. Chief Trujillo and his wife were among more than twenty baptized in 1975, the firstfruits of almost two years of medical missionary work among these people whom anthropologists have predicted will become extinct. Most responsible for the work among these tribal people are Mr. and Mrs. Saturnino Chan.

PLACEMENT BROCHURE MAILED

A 1975-76 placement brochure for seminary students has been sent to local SDA conference officials, according to Thomas H. Blincoe, assistant dean of the Theological Seminary.

The brochure includes educational records, previous work experience, and a photograph of each student, and is mailed to all North American conference presidents.

The brochure contains only those seminary students who are not sponsored by a conference or are graduating and do not have a church appointment.

Mrs. Dee Elsner, secretary to Elder Blincoe, and compiler of the brochure, said its main function is to bring together students needing placement and conference presidents looking for pastors.

Last year the seminary placement service helped 15 of 47 students find jobs. Many more contacts were made, but as placements were not made immediately, there is no record of further results.

The ambassador, Cyril McIntyre, informed the university of the decision and said that the students may choose whether or not to attend A.U. If they do attend, they need only show academic promise to receive the scholarship.
