COVER

Mount Rushmore commemorates in stone four famous Americans two of whom were born during the month of February—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

It Did Happen

A tall, handsome, 20-year-old man refused a cocktail offered him by a beautiful young hostess. Mockingly she said, "You wouldn't spoil my party, would you, by refusing to drink with me?" "I'm afraid I would," he replied. "I thought you loved me," she pouted. "I do—too much to drink with you or any other woman." "But darling, I'm not asking you to get drunk, I only want you to be sociable."

The evening wore on, there were more drinks before the late supper in the lovely dining room where again glasses clinked merrily. One young fellow rose unsteadily from his chair, raised his glass, and mumbled, "Ladies and gentlemen, I give you our hostess and her private bar." He sat down amid cheers and a roar of laughter. Only the glass of the 20-year-old boy remained untouched.

The hostess went up to him and said, "Why are you so opposed to liquor? You must have a reason. Tell me."

"A year ago my mother was having a house remodeled. I begged her to have a private bar installed. She refused. After much argument pro and con, she said, 'Son, you and I are going on a trip and when we return, if you still want your bar, I shall say no more.' Two days later on my 19th birthday, we went out for a long drive and stopped in front of a tall gray building. We were admitted through two heavy doors only after mother gave her name. Then we followed an attendant down a long hallway and stopped before a cell. Behind the bars was a man who cried out, 'Catherine, my dear, what does this mean?' Mother spoke tremulously, 'I have brought our son to see you, dear. Son, this is your father.'

"'Why did you bring him here, Catherine?' 'It seemed the time to let him know, dear. I wanted him to hear from your own lips what put you behind bars,' she replied.

"'It was drink that broke up our home, my boy. When you were but a baby of four, I committed a crime that brought me here and broke your mother's heart. I had built a private bar in our basement.' With trembling voice, I asked my father, 'How long must you stay here?'

"Sobbing in utter hopelessness, he replied, 'For as long as I shall live.'

"I wish I had never seen my father behind the bars, but mother spoke softly, 'I would have continued to spare you, son, had I dared, but I was afraid for myself and for you. You were so insistent and I could not bear another bar in my home, another bar crushing my heart, taking from me the happiness you bring.'

"My story is finished. I know it sounds melodramatic, my friends. I've told it only in the hope that you might understand why I'm sure only sorrow can come from drink.

"Perhaps you no longer will care for my companionship since you know I am the son of a man behind bars for life. But of one thing I am justly proud—I am also the son of the finest mother in the world, and for her as for myself, I am through with drinking forever."

The old adage is still true today, an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. Listen is a journal which tells it like it is and can serve as that ounce of prevention in your home as well as all the other homes on your street. During the current Listen crusade, you can secure a yearly subscription for only $3.50. Kindly process your Listen order through your church lay activities secretary. If you are unable to attend church regularly, then mail your Listen subscriptions directly to Pacific Press, 1350 Villa St., Mountain View, CA 94042.

Abraham Lincoln's birthday!

Are there any compulsive reasons why Seventh-day Adventists should feel indebted to the great emancipator? We think there are, both generally and specifically.

In a general way because Lincoln's administration legally ended chattel slavery in the United States. If the nation was to serve as base for a vast missions outreach, as this people planned, it was very necessary that that blotch be eradicated—and it was.

And specifically. The Civil War produced the first conscription laws in this nation's history, and under their provisions some SDA men were drafted into military service. To pay commutation money for exemption from service as the laws permitted—$300 for each man—would have ruined the young church financially. (You see, many SDAs believed it sinful to kill people.)

What was the solution? The draft early called into service a certain New England Quaker, Hiram Pringle, an exceedingly flinty fellow. He would not do anything for the army except exist and resist—there would be no bearing of arms for him. Officers tried to break him down, but he was adamant. Should the man be executed?

Finally Pringle's case was reviewed by Lincoln himself. Fortunately this unusual man understood -there were Quakers in his ancestry. (The President probably reasoned also that since the armies were composed of volunteers, it was not wise to shoot them.) Pringle was discharged and sent home. Consequently when the SDA denomination approached the government asking for noncombatant status for their members, James B. Fry, then Provost Marshal General, comprehended the matter and granted the request. And thus, happily, a lasting precedent was set.

But why should SDAs in 1864

have adopted a stance so like many Quakers? We do not know all the answers, but may we speculate on a possible one?

HEART

LAKE UNION . THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

When the Adventists populated West End Battle Creek, they moved in among some very important Quaker neighbors whose suburban homes faced Washington Street: wealthy John Meacham, near Champion Street; the anti-slaver Erastus Hussey, opposite the future Health Reform Institute; the tough-minded Elias Manchester, farther out where the fieldstone sanitarium was to rise. These and a dozen other families of Friends attended the local Quaker Meetinghouse.

It is impossible for us to imagine James White, Uriah Smith, and J. N. Andrews not discussing with these folks their mutual perplexities concerning war, conscription, and nonresistance. The Quakers were by no means agreed among themselves. Some would not participate in the war effort at all. And there were those who would help but not kill. Others willingly became fighting Quakers. Apparently most Quakers at the time held the middle position.

However, that is precisely the position most SDAs adopted individually (and churchly), if they really personally made a decision. Could this similarity be mere coincidence? We think not.

(By 1941, Seventh-day Adventists began to describe themselves as "conscientious cooperators" and were usually satisfied with the appellation.)

So, what then? This: Who can with infallibility predict what will develop from backyard, over-thefence conversations—especially when a big-hearted man in the White House is listening—when there is one in authority whose convictions are as high-minded as the Quaker's.

"'How remarkable! What an amazing thing the Lord has done.'" (Matt. 21:42, The Living Bible)

A.U.

Business Administration Program on the Move

graduate from Andrews University's master of business administration (MBA) program is almost assured a position in today's job market, according to Gordon Madgwick, dean of the School of Graduate Studies. Of the 100 graduates from the program so far, nearly all have been placed.

Though applications this year have been carefully reviewed, more than 50 students have been admitted, the largest number ever. Nearly half of these are from outside North America. If past patterns are any guide, these overseas students-even those whose first language is not English-have an excellent chance of success in the program, Madgwick said.

One indication of the quality of the department is that eight undergraduate business majors passed the rugged Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exams this year.

Robert Firth, chairman of the department, said that A.U.'s MBA program offers several marked advantages over similar programs of large universities. Among these are:

- 1. Small classes. The typical class size of 12 to 15 permits much interchange between professor and student, a quality of relationship enhanced by a Christian setting.
- 2. Enriching assignments. Teachers can spend more time evaluating student work. This permits a quality of assignment not possible in other schools. The case method is a prominent teaching technique. Students learn communication skills, how to analyze and solve problems, where to obtain raw data needed in research and decision-making, and how to work on committees. They emerge confident in their ability to do their own work, Firth said.

3. The program is uniquely tailored to meet denominational needs, although graduates are fully qualified to serve in public corporations.

Computer training is available as part of the program. A terminal to A.U.'s large computer facility is located in the business department.

The department is a member of the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business and follows the curriculum standards set by the assembly, the nation's official accrediting body for business schools.

Normally, four quarters are required to complete the 44 credits required for the MBA degree. Required core courses are managerial economics, quantitative methods, theory of organization and administration, human relations, financial management, marketing management, and research and writing. In addition, students may add an emphasis in management, accounting, personnel, and information science.

Each year the department awards a $2,000 Weniger scholarship and several lesser grants. Student employment opportunities are available in the A.U. business office or elsewhere on campus.

The department has five full-time professors and, for specified classes, other instructors from the A.U. business office and local CPA firms, "The members of the business faculty are not merely theoreticians; they're 'hands-on' men with practical experience," Madgwick said.

With specialities in management are Chairman Firth, Harold Phillips, and Wilson Trickett. Phillips and Firth have co-authored a book now being considered for publication entitled, Cases in Denominational Administration: A Management Casebook for Decision Making. Phillips has had experience as credit manager and assistant administrator at two Florida hospitals, as internal auditor for a Florida county school system, and as a consultant to denominational hospitals. Trickett has extensive experience in real estate and insurance.

Specialists in accounting include C. Torben Thomsen and Arthur Klein. Thomsen has passed all exams for the CPA and the CMA. He is now on leave of absence to advise the Tanzanian government on new accounting standards. Klein is an expert in tax law and the securities market. He has been an overseas accountant and treasurer. Also with accounting experience is Firth, who has served as an academy accountant and treasurer.

In economics is Frederick Harder, who has almost completed his Ph.D. at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Among those teaching in the support areas is Larry McNitt, associate professor of mathematics and a specialist in computer use in business information science.

Several books and articles in professional journals have been published by members of the department faculty.

Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital

Dennis Meyers, youth pastor of Hinsdale Church, explains the dangers of smoking to high school students attending a recent student Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking conducted by Hinsdale San.

HOSPITAL HOLDS STUDENT FIVE-DAY PLAN TO STOP SMOKING

Ten high school students registered for a free Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at a local high school, January 26 to 30. This second student Five-Day Plan conducted by the hospital included films, lectures, and demonstrations on the effects of smoking.

In one demonstration a student's blood pressure and pulse were monitored before and during the time he was smoking. Six of the seven students who attended the entire plan quit smoking as a result of the plan. Before the plan, the students, who averaged age 15, smoked about one pack of cigarettes a day.

Also, most of the participants had one or both parents who smoked.

"The plan was basically the same as Five-Day Plans we hold for adults," said Donna Meyer, health educator. "We plan to hold another student plan this summer."

Dennis Meyers, youth pastor at Hinsdale Church, a representive from the American Cancer Society, and an Andrews University nursing student helped with this plan.

The first student Five-Day Plan held at the hospital last June was attended by 13 students.

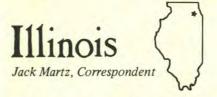

TWO NEW CHAPLAINS JOIN HOSPITAL

Two new chaplains have recently joined the hospital staff. Martin W. Feldbush arrived at the hospital in December as an associate chaplain. Feldbush was a pastor in Jamestown, New York. Previously he was youth pastor at the Hinsdale Church and worked in connection with the hospital at that time.

The other associate chaplain, Robert Laue, began his duties here in January after serving as chaplain at Madison Hospital for the past 12 years. He has taken graduate work in counseling at Vanderbilt University and has completed four quarters of Clinical Pastoral Education.

The chaplain's department is now back to full staff, according to Chaplain Willis Graves, who has been at the hospital for 14 years. The two former associate chaplains, John Erhard and Gordon Hewlett, are at Florida Hospital and Boulder Memorial Hospital, respectively.

STUDENTS AT BROADVIEW ACADEMY WITNESS FOR CHRIST

The youth at Broadview Academy have designated one Sabbath per month as "witnessing day" at which time they visit the sick, sing in nursing homes, and distribute literature.

The literature being used is George Vandeman's Reach Out for Life series plus the It Is Written pamphlet. Their approach has been an invitation to watch a new TV program and to leave the material. There is a warm and favorable response at nearly every home.

Students and staff together have visited nearly half the homes in Geneva and plan to finish the village in the near future. The young people are enjoying the witnessing program and are anxious to become more involved in giving the message of a soon coming Saviour.

BAPTISM AT ROCKFORD CHURCH

A happy group of new believers united with the Rockford Church recently. They are the results of an evangelistic series held by Pastor John Ford, lay activities leader Richard Karp, and the Better World evangelist team, Lorraine Hansen, front left, and Arnold R. Friedrich, right. A number of persons who were introduced to the SDA message during the series of meetings are now receiving further Bible studies and look forward to baptism and church membership.

EUGENE WITZEL HEADS BVA INDUSTRIAL ARTS PROGRAM

Eugene Witzel, a graduate of Andrews University, and his wife, Irene, have come to join the BVA faculty. Their children include Susan, a sophomore, Vickie, a freshman, both at BVA, and Evan, an eighth grader at the Aurora Church School.

Mr. Witzel will be the head of the industrial arts department teaching auto mechanics and building trades. So far this year the building class has constructed a small moveable barn for the horsemanship class and is now working on a two-car garage for the boys' dean.

Plans are being laid to expand into additional areas of industrial education to provide the students with a more basic knowledge of technical skill. This will be a step to guide the academy student toward the occupational programs at Andrews University.

The Witzels came to Broadview Academy from the mission field, where they spent three and a half years at the Adventist College of West Africa, two years in the West African Union as a builder, and three years in Ethiopia where Mr. Witzel taught at Wollega Adventist Academy. While at this academy, Mr. Witzel built two dormitories and a teacher's home.

HINSDALE TEACHER DIES

Jack Zima, teacher at Hinsdale Junior Academy, died the morning of December 5. He had taught at the academy the day before and was in his ninth year of teaching there. He had never missed a single day of teaching.

Jack Zima

An example of Christian education, he went to church school in Minneapolis, to high school at Maplewood Academy, and to college at Union College, Nebraska. He took postgraduate studies at the University of Minnesota and Andrews University receiving his master of arts in education three years ago.

He married Barbara Miles in December 1948. They had three children, Carolyn, David, and Jonathan. Jack served in the United States Navy in World War II. He worked with his father for a time in Minneapolis producing and distributing SAVE Bible study projectors and players. He often remarked that he loved teaching best of all. In the churches he attended he served in various positions, such as elder, treasurer, Sabbath School teacher, and counselor.

His memorial service was attended by a large group of present students as well as dozens of former students, attesting to the distinct and lasting impressions he made on people.

See more details in Obituary column.

Elton Dessain participates in the Ingathering Victory program at Kewanee.

UNCLE ELTON AND HIS CHILDREN

Elton Dessain, retired treasurer of the Illinois Conference now living in Marion, is still actively engaged in doing the thing he loves best. Working with the children throughout the conference has been Elder Dessain's great ambition for the past number of years.

The children readily respond to his kindness and helpfulness and have adopted him as their uncle. Time and eternity will tell the story of this one man's influence upon these little people throughout our conference.

WAUKEGAN INVESTMENT

The Waukegan Church celebrated the Golden Anniversary of Investment with a record offering of $1,577.30 for the year of 1975. The leader, 80-year-old Lola Leech, put a lot of enthusiasm into her work and was an inspiration to all. The various projects included raising vegetables, saving labels, turning in coupons, making pot holders, taking photographs, giving money for weight loss, making toys, sewing, baking, and saving coins.

REAL COMMUNITY SPIRIT

The tremendous outreach of the Community Services Center at the Chicago North Shore Church was demonstrated in a very tangible way just before the Christmas holidays. Two non-Adventist congregations made sizeable donations to the center and expressed their admiration for the wonderful work the SDA ladies are doing.

The Lutheran Memorial Church and the Ezra Synagogue, both located in the North Chicago area, cooperated with the community services in a remarkable way.

The Lutheran congregation gave 450 cans of food to be used in Christmas baskets. The Ezra congregation gave 150 pairs of handknit bedsocks for the elderly people in the nursing home that is visited by the community service group every other Sabbath.

The cooperation of these churches made it possible to give 80 baskets of food as well as food certificates valued at $1,100 at Christmastime. Three hundred eighty-five people were benefited through this program.

Mrs. June Jacobson, director of the North Shore Community Services Center, has been a dynamic leader in this community.

INDIANAPOLIS GLENDALE NEWS NOTES

- Glendale member Kurt McKinley met Jim Johnson, assistant pastor of the First Friends Church of Indianapolis, as they played tennis together. This contact led to an invitation for Kurt and Pastor Robert Taylor to address an adult Sunday School to explain SDA doctrines at the Friends Church. An especially large group of Quakers gathered to hear what these Adventists had to say and they listened with enthusiasm to a thorough study on the Sabbath. A warm letter of thanks was received by Pastor Taylor for addressing this Quaker group.
- The Glendale Church begins a new venture in Christian witnessing on February 1 as they go on the air with a youth-oriented radiobroadcast called the "Way Out" program. It will be heard on WIFE, 1310. The program format consists of an interview designed to help young people deal with moral and emotional decisions in their lives, a "mail-bag" feature where letters from the listening audience are answered, musical selections by the Glendale New Communion Singers, and a special spiritual message by Pastor Taylor. The program is broadcast at 9:30 Sunday mornings and is being written and produced by Mrs. Cynthia Prime and her radio committee. A 52-week contract for $7,000 has been signed and the financial support of this program has already been met through the enthusiastic response of Glendale members and Indiana Conference evangelism
- A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was held February 8 to 12 at the Glendale Church from 7:30 to 9 p.m. This program was under the direction of Melvin Lund, D.D.S., church medical secretary.
- A four-day cooking class will begin March 1 at the Glendale Church under the direction of Ketti Ippisch, nutritionist from Loma Linda Foods. She is a registered dietition with a B.A. from Andrews University and a M.S. in dietetics from Loma Linda University. She has been involved with hospital clinical dietetics, weight control groups on the east and west coasts, and a school of dietetics in France. The class will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. nightly.

MARION HOLDS FIVE-DAY PLAN

The Marion SDA Church combined forces with the Grant County Cancer Society in sponsoring the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Approximately 35 people took part in the clinic. Donna Boys, the sponsor, along with Pastor Norman Bassett, were pleased with the results of the plan. Dr. Paul Anderson handled the physiological aspects of smoking and Pastor Bassett talked on the psychological problems.

The Marion members are looking forward to continuing this program.

WORKERS MEETING HELD IN NEW OFFICE

From January 13 to 15 a workers meeting was held in the new conference office. Elder Carl Coffman, chairman of the Department of Religion at Andrews University, gave a presentation on "Basic Guidelines for a More Successful Experience in Soul Winning."

Other guests from the Lake Union were: Elder Lowell Bock, Elder W. L. Murrill, Elder Frank Jones, Elder A. W. Bauer, and Elder Don Copsey.

Elder John Stevens, religious liberty director of the Pacific Union Conference, gave the pastors some present day information concerning labor unions and other topics relating to the religious liberty question.

Richard Hammill, president of Andrews University, was one of the morning devotional speakers.

One of the highlights of the workers meeting was the Ingathering Victory Banquet. At this banquet a special musical program was presented by the New Communion Singers under the direction of James Barnhart of the Indianapolis Glendale SDA Church. During the program several members of the group challenged the pastors to provide strong leadership so Jesus' coming could be hastened.

At the conclusion of the musical program a final Ingathering report was taken from each district. A number of surprises were in store and a number of thrilling stories were shared as the reports were given.

The Indiana Conference has been blessed by raising more than $150,000 for Ingathering for the first time in its history.

When a conference reaches this type of tremendous collective achievement, the first question asked is, "How did it happen?" The answer is, "A lot of faithful members worked many hard hours because they love their Lord."

Agatha Herold of the Columbus Church is just one example. She had Ingathered through the years and decided it was time to "retire" and let others take over. That's when she received the Southern Tidings, the church paper of the Southern Union. An article immediately caught her attention of a lady 78 years old who had raised more than $1,100 for Ingathering. Mrs. Herold had Ingathered for 43 years, and instead of retiring, she knelt in her living room and said, "Lord, if you'll help me, I'll go!" She and her pastor went and received donations which totaled a little more than $1,100.

This is one story that could be multiplied time and time again. How did the conference reach this new height in Ingathering? Ask the hundreds of workers in our 71 churches—they will tell you!

Harry Sackett Lay Activities Director

GLENDALE BIDS HESS FAMILY FAREWELL

Glendale members found that it is not easy to say farewell to good church friends when they met together on January 17.

Jo and Gary Hess have been members of Glendale for nearly eight years and have given of their time generously in leading and supporting various church programs. Jo has been assistant organist, church clerk, Dorcas leader, cradle roll leader, and a VBS assistant. Gary has been deacon, primary teacher, junior teacher, and general electrician for the church. In fact, he stayed late the night of his farewell party to fix the church chimes.

Gary is employed by Picker X-Ray and has been transferred to South Bend. Jo is a registered nurse. They have two sons, Dahlon and Terry. The Hess family accepted a gift of a card table and four padded folding chairs as a "love gift" from the church members.

SEYMOUR-SCOTTSBURG CHURCHES ADD 16 NEW MEMBERS

A church growing from 37 to 51 members in one day? It happened December 13 in Seymour, Indiana. Fourteen new members were added to the Seymour congregation by baptism and profession of faith. At the same time two new members were baptized into the Scottsburg Church.

This thrilling baptism came at the conclusion of the "Word of Life Crusade" conducted by Elder Charles H. Buursma, Indiana Conference evangelist.

The five-week crusade attendance ranged as high as four times the original membership of the church. Surrounding churches, especially Scottsburg, helped greatly by their faithful attendance.

Of the new members several were not familiar with Seventh-day Adventists before the beginning of the meetings. Several had been studying with members for a few months. A few were former members of the church, and four of them were children who have dedicated their whole future to the Lord.

The crusade was the climax of nearly a year of expectant preparation by the Seymour Church—a year that included a major remodeling of the church. As the members worked they also prayed, and God answered their prayers beyond anything they expected.

In a day when public evangelism sometimes has disappointing results, one asks, "Why do some succeed?"

Paul's statement in 1 Cor. 3:6,7 gives the answer. "I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase."

Joel Underwood District Pastor

Joanne Wexler holds two Canaan puppies.

RARE BREED PUPPIES INVOLVED IN INVESTMENT

The Irving Wexlers of Gary enjoy raising Basenjis and Canaan dogs. Besides paying tithe on the profits from the sale of each puppy, $10 goes for Investment and $10 for the TV program It Is Written.

Canaans and Basenjis, as well as being unique and delightful breeds, are also very rare. Basenjis are the barkless dogs of the Congo and Canaans are from Israel and are bred essentially for guard and sentry duty. Canaans have also been used successfully in Israel for guide dogs for the blind, and for locating land mines during the Middle East wars.

At this time, there are approximately 351 Canaans in the U.S., which includes the fifth generation puppies that the Wexlers have now.

The whole Wexler family cooperates in the work involved in raising these dogs. Carrie Wexler, who is 13 years old, is a successful Junior Handler and the other two younger children help to socialize the puppies. The Wexlers find it both fun and rewarding. God is a very present partner and has certainly blessed the endeavor.

The new lodge will seat 125 in the dining area.

CAMP AU SABLE FACILITIES EXPANDED

Individual church groups will find new facilities available for them at Camp Au Sable next fall. Additional cabins and a lodge have been built which will provide opportunity for more churches, Pathfinder clubs, school groups, and others to use the camp facilities while the main camp area is occupied by other groups.

The camp has been reserved most of the weekends throughout the year for Bible conferences, departmental workshops, district retreats, and the regular camping program sponsored by the conference. During 1975, more than 8,000 persons representing more than 80 different groups used the camp facilities. For some time a need for expansion has been felt to allow more groups to use the camp.

The new lodge includes a dining room serving up to 125 persons, a kitchen, cook's quarters, restrooms, and a ground level basement room for meetings or recreation. A covered porch runs the full length of the building and overlooks the lake. Funds for this building have come from the Michigan Conference.

Three heated cabins, sleeping twelve each, have been built, and funds from this year's Camp Au Sable special offering will help pay for these as well as for additional cabins yet to be built. Current plans call for a total of ten cabins in this area. The lodge and cabins are constructed of white cedar full logs like the Nature Center.

Ten winterized cabins will provide housing for this new area.

Built-in bunks add to the attraction of the cabin interior.

The Camp Au Sable special offering is to be taken in all Michigan churches on February 21. If you miss the opportunity of giving on this date, please place your gift in a tithe envelope marked for Camp Au Sable and turn it in to your local church or send it directly to the Michigan Conference Youth Department, Box 19009, Lansing, MI 48904.

Perhaps you have been planning for some time to do something special for Camp Au Sable. If so, this would be a good time to make that gift for the continuing development of your youth camp.

Conference administrators and youth leaders have appreciated the fine support of Michigan Adventists in the past. Their gifts and their participation in the camp's programs and use of the camp's facilities have been encouraging.

Elder Lester Rilea, conference youth director, urges all church members to give special thought and prayer to the needs of this 'full family facility" in considering their offering for Camp Au Sable.

NEW ACCOUNTANT IN CONFERENCE OFFICE

James Glass of Saginaw has joined the Michigan Conference office staff as accountant. A graduate of Andrews University, he is a Certified Public Accountant and has been serving as a controller of an industrial plant in Saginaw. James and his wife, Sharon, have three children, Brian, 5, Maria, 3, and Lynette, 6 months. He replaces Ron Herr who has become the assistant treasurer of the Oklahoma Conference.

GRADE SCHOOL AIDS AFRICAN COLLEGE

The students and faculty of the Ruth Murdoch Elementary School, Berrien Springs, with the generous help of the parents of the children, raised nearly $900 as a Christmas gift to Gitwe College, Rwanda, Africa.

Richard Jordon, former principal of Andrews Junior Academy, is now president of Gitwe. He first introduced his Berrien Springs friends to the need of his institution during a visit "home" last summer.

Upon his return to Africa, Jordon sent a letter to the principal of the elementary school, Donald Van Duinen, describing more fully their need for a teacher training building. After considering several projects, the faculty decided to accept the challenge of their former colleague and make Gitwe the recipient of the 1975 Christmas fund.

Max Church, a former principal at Gitwe, and Cynthia Burns, a former teacher, both presently at Andrews University, were featured guests at the kick-off assembly program. Their color slides of the students and campus made the project more meaningful to the elementary students.

A number of methods were used to raise this money. Gift exchange between classmates was omitted. Youngsters did odd jobs around their homes. One was paid for working with his dad on a major car repair. When an older brother got sick, one youngster offered to deliver his papers and cash received was added to the growing Christmas gift to Africa.

CHANGES OF MINISTERS IN CONFERENCE

A number of changes of assignments have taken place in the conference ministerial force.

These include the naming of Elder LaRue Cook, who has been treasurer of the Battle Creek Tabernacle, to be the associate pastor. The position of treasurer is being taken by Dan Purple, formerly comptroller of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital.

Elder Henry Musgrave, pastor of the Frost, Howard City, and Lakeview churches has been assigned to St. Charles and Chesaning. Elder Jerry Johns of Boyne City, Central Lake, and Petoskey is the new pastor of the Orion-Oxford congregation. He replaces Elder Loy Foll who will be assisting Arthur Myers in the Fremont, Ludington, and Shelby areas.

Two other items of conference news are the merger of the Belding and Greenville churches and the completion of arrangements for It Is Written to be seen again in the Detroit area. To make this possible Faith for Today is relinquishing its time on Channel 2, Detroit, with the understanding that in about a year's time it will resume telecasting at the same time and the same station. The program has been aired for many years at 10:30 Sunday mornings.

At a Mission '76 commitment service Escanaba Adventists hold on to a rope to signify their unity of witnessing as a church.

ESCANABA ADVENTISTS ARE 'HOLDING THE ROPE'

A Mission '76 commitment had Escanaba Adventists "holding the rope" at the conclusion of the Sabbath morning service, January 31.

Pastor Paul Howell in his morning sermon recalled the story in Acts of the disciples or laymen holding the rope to let Saul down the wall to escape the Jews and go preach Jesus elsewhere.

At the close of the sermon Elder Howell gave one end of a rope to local elder Joe Hainault who walked down the aisle with it. Howell held the other end and invited the church officers and then the church members to commit themselves to service in Mission '76 by holding on to the rope while singing the old favorite hymn, "I Will Follow Thee My Saviour." The congregation responded with a spirit of dedication and willingness to serve in the church's witnessing program.

BICENTENNIAL ART

Harold Oetman, principal of the Lansing Church School, compliments Reggie Curtis on his drawing of the Liberty Bell. Students of the school drew patriotic pictures to use in decorating the walls of their gymnasium. This area was used for a dinner for the ministerial force of the Michigan Conference who were in Lansing for their annual workers meeting. The art work on the wall behind Oetman and Curtis is a children's version of the famous picture "The Spirit of '76." It also formed a part of the unique patriotic decor and was created by another Lansing teacher, John Studley.

DOCTOR AND RECTOR PRAISE FIVE-DAY PLAN

A recent report from Pastor Russell Booth of East Tawas tells of his recent Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking and two special things which happened.

A doctor's wife attended the first meeting and was so impressed that she dragged her husband to the second. A five-pack-a-day smoker, he slouched in his chair looking very skeptical. Then something was said which caused him to sit up and take notice. He came back the third night reporting that he had smoked only three cigarettes and 24 hours later a similar report was given. On the fifth night the doctor was again present and proud that he had had a "clean day."

Booth kept in touch with him for the next few days and found the doctor very happy and still "clean." He admitted that he never thought it could be so easy. Booth then challenged him to assist at the next smoking cessation clinic and the doctor agreed.

A copy of a letter from the rector of Oscoda's Episcopal Church was also enclosed with Booth's report. It was addressed to the "Dear Teacher of the Truth!" and thanked Booth for the help received during the plan. He wrote that he was still a nonsmoker and said, "I just praise God and thank Him for profitable servants like you."

The new look of the Grand Haven Church provides a worshipful atmosphere for the members.

GRAND HAVEN CHURCH RENOVATED

Members of the Grand Haven Second Reformed Congregation could hardly believe their eyes as they participated in an open house of the local Adventist Church.

The church—their former building of worship—had been completely remodeled and former Congregational and Adventist members marveled at the great improvement which had been made. The Congregationalists who saw the "new look" said they were going to tell their own church members so they, too, could visit the church and see the change.

Seventh-day Adventists first organized in Grand Haven in 1907. In 1925, they built a church on Grant and Despelder streets in which they worshiped for 30 years. Then, in 1955, the congregation bought the present church structure on Washington Street, an important thoroughfare of the city. In time the wear and tear of years began to show and a need for work on the structure became apparent. In 1970, the congregation began their major remodeling project. The basement was modernized for children's Sabbath School classes, and later, new siding was put on the outside walls of the church.

Early in 1975, under the leadership of Elder E. E. Herr, the interior changes were started. A new centralized hot-water system was installed to heat the entire building. Walls were insulated. New modern light fixtures, made by a local member, were installed. A new ceiling and a new floor in the sanctuary were completed. This also included the relocation of the pulpit from a corner position to the center of one wall and the change of position of the pews. Carpeting and new church furniture were installed.

The entire church membership invites former members and friends to worship with them soon and enjoy the changes which have been made "to the glory of God."

GREEN BAY CHURCH WOMEN STAFF BLOODMOBILE

When the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited Green Bay recently, more than 40 church women volunteered their services to staff the program. The women served in various capacities, ranging from nursing and secretarial duties to preparing and serving refreshments for the donors. Although the weather was bitterly cold during the Bloodmobile's visit, it was a most successful visit in terms of pints of blood donated.

Two more visits have been scheduled for the Bloodmobile to visit Green Bay in May and July, and the church ladies will help again. Mrs. Becky Dick, wife of the Wisconsin Conference treasurer, is a member of the Red Cross Bloodmobile staff and travels with the Bloodmobile on its visits around the state.

Giving Is A Reflex Of Love

New Releases

STEPS TO CHRIST, THOUGHTS FROM THE MOUNT OF BLESSING, large print editions.

There is a growing interest today in large-print books, not only for older folk and those with impaired vision, but many individuals appreciate the greater reading ease and comfort they provide. The large print reduces eyestrain and tension, and one can read for a longer time and gain more continuity in what is read. For some years large-print Bibles have been available, and more recently the Sabbath School Lessons.

The Review and Herald Publishing Association is producing two Spirit of Prophecy books in large type, Steps to Christ and Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing. It is fitting that these highly inspirational books by Ellen G. White, which have been published in many languages, are now available also to readers of English in this new format in paperback. The price is only $1.65 each.

Maybe you have often wished for an inspirational large-print book that you could give to a friend or relative. Here is your opportunity, and if you would like to see more books like this, please let us know.

Place your order through your church lay activities secretary, local Adventist Book Center, or ABC Mailing Service, P.O. Box 31776, Omaha, Nebraska 68131. Please include state sales tax where necessary, and add five percent or a minimum charge of 40 cents for mailing.

ADVENTIST BOOK CENTER

In conjunction with 1976—Literature Emphasis Year, your local Adventist Book Center is having a "White" sale. All Spirit of Prophecy books will be reduced 10-20% during the month of February. Now is the time to complete your Spirit of Prophecy library. These special prices will be good only through February 29.

BICENTENNIAL CHURCH SERVICE EMPHASIZES GOD IN HISTORY

A Bicentennial program was presented at Pioneer Memorial Church on January 31 at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. It was not merely a celebration of America's 200 years, according to George Akers, professor of education at Andrews and coordinator of the program.

"We were celebrating the blessings of God upon the nation for 200 years," said Akers. "We have to realize that this country is not just coincidental. It was raised up by God to provide religious liberty. It has prophetic significance."

The program was carried by three speakers, each presenting a part of the theme—the past, present, and the future.

Elder Walter Specht, chairman of the seminary's New Testament department, presented the background of our nation's birth in a talk entitled "Our Religious Heritage"; Conrad Gill, supervising instructor in education, talked on "The Threefold Vision."

Elder William McVey, a doctor of ministry candidate at the Andrews seminary, presented the last theme of the trilogy, calling this generation "The Last Generation." He pointed to the great Christian hope—the finished work and the second coming of Christ in our generation.

A special litany was presented by Elaine Giddings.

The University Singers and the Brass Choir under the direction of Franklin Lusk, performed "I'll Praise My Maker"; and the University Chorale, under the direction of James Hanson, performed "Of the Father's Love Begotten."

The closing hymn was "Lo! He Comes." Blythe Owen, professor of music at Andrews had composed an arrangement of the hymn which included special arrangements for the chorale and instrumental sections and a soprano descant.

CABL SHARES HEALTH KNOWLEDGE IN AREA SCHOOLS

The campus Collegiate Action for Better Living (CABL) club gave a program at Galien High School recently.

The Galien program is the fourth in a series of programs at area schools that CABL plans to give. Other programs have been given at the Berrien Springs elementary, junior high, and high schools.

The usual program consists of a film on marijuana, a demonstration of Smoking Sam, and some short, personal experience talks by CABL members. A question-and-answer period follows.

ANDREWS SCHOLARS IN HONORS PROGRAM

The Honors Program at Andrews University is planned to provide special recognition for students of high scholarship and outstanding achievement and who give evidence of their ability to engage in independent study or research. Such students are designated Andrews Scholars. With certain achievements in grades and research at Andrews, the Andrews Scholars may be eligible to graduate with honors.

Words on the honors symbol, Excellence, Commitment, Service, are an integral part of the independent research and studies of more than 27 seniors who are working towards graduation with honors this year.

They are: James Anderson, Edgar Archbold, Terrie Burgess, Tim Cotie, Eileen Ebany, Edward Guthero, Larry Habenicht, Roy Hall, Loren Hamel, Lowell Hamel, Lester Hands, Alta Humphrey, David Johnson, Merrie Jones, Karl Kellawan, Michael Korpman, Daniel Laszlo, Steven Lee, Scott Longacre, Steven Mann, Thomas Mullin, Judy Myers, John Nay, Hiram Palmer, John Ratzlaff, Donald Schietzelt, and Trudy Taggart.

In addition to these students, 20 other Andrews Scholars are working on independent reading projects with professors in their field of interest. Many others are auditing classes. One of the benefits of the Honors Program is that a student may audit classes of his choice at no cost, thus enriching his educational experience.

Director of the Honors Program is Merlene Ogden, professor of English. Members on the committee this year are Robert Firth, Dwain Ford, Gerald Herdman, George Javor, Harold Jones, Marion Merchant, Mary Jane Mitchell, Irma Jean Smoot, John Stout, John Waller, and Douglas Waterhouse.
