Roy Wightman, assistant administrator for rehabilitation and health education, promotes the Five-Day Plan by encouraging TV viewers to "choose not to smoke."

HINSDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL'S

100th Five-Day Plan

Despite record low temperatures, 120 persons attended the recent 100th hospital-sponsored Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. "The turnout was quite good considering the bad weather," says Roger Trubey, Dr.H.Sc., coordinator of the Five-Day Plan.

Special speakers in former Five-Day Plans were featured in the programs, January 9 through 13. Those participating were Chaplain Gordon Hewlett, former chaplain at Hinsdale Hospital; J. Wayne McFarland, M.D., co-ordinator of the Five-Day Plan; Charles L. Dale, M.D., former chief pathologist; Chaplain Willis Graves, assistant at the first Five-Day Plan in 1960, and Roy Wightman, assistant administrator for rehabilitation and health education.

The plan was promoted on several radio and TV stations through interviews with hospital personnel. Radio station WBBM, TV 32, and "Today in Chicago" on TV 5 gave wide coverage in the Chicago area. Additional publicity was achieved by an advertisement run for one week on the four Chicago area Magikist illuminated signs.

This Is Witnessing!

A number of years ago I recall reading about an affluent American who set out to drive his luxury car via the Alcan highway to Alaska. The highway was still very new, and service along the wilderness route was rarely spaced at less than 200-mile intervals. Under these circumstances the unwritten code of the road called for a benevolent spirit. When a fellow traveler experienced car trouble and gave evidence of need, the man in the big car rolled on by leaving only a flurry of flying gravel and dust. News of this independent and selfish act spread rapidly ahead. Finally "Mr. Big" reached the point of need himself, and with "greenbacks" aplenty he approached one of the rare places of service. In response to his confident "fill 'er up" he was first angered and then stunned by the attendant's refusal to help at any price. It was only after much pleading and a promise to practice the "golden rule" that he was finally given enough fuel to reach the next point in his journey.

It is easy for a person to equate independence with self-reliance when in fact may be the grossest sort of selfishness. If inner contentment and satisfaction blinds us to the needs of others, then we are no better than "Mr. Big." If along life's road we fail to hear a plea for help, we by the same token deprive ourselves.

According to the dictionary, independence in a negative sense is "freedom from the influence of others," or "refusing to be under obligation to others." In contrast, the popular song teaches that "no man is an island, no man stands alone." This is true, and certainly a person cannot stand alone without Christ.

In His ministry Jesus gave and gave and gave. He admonished His disciples to follow His example, and in sending them out in a program of witnessing, He said, ". . . freely ye have received, freely give." (Matthew 10:8) Jesus did not primarily have reference to the physical wants of those along the road, or even those shut in by winter snow or deprived of gainful employment. He had reference to the "bread of life."

Today multitudes are hungry and waiting. Jesus has blessed and broken the bread. In a modern setting He has given the bread to His followers for distribution. Will you join your pastor and fellow church members by sharing the bread of life with those of the multitude near you? This is witnessing!

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION PRESENTS

A Witness in Crisis

by Keith Lundquist,
Public Information Officer,
Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital

Sometimes it takes a crisis in one's life to trigger serious thoughts about his relationship with God. Melody Durham, registered nurse at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, sees crisis situations daily and with them many opportunities for witnessing.

For more than a year Melody, 1976 nurse-of-the-year award winner, has been working in the hospital's intensive care unit (I.C.U.), a 10-bed unit for critically ill persons requiring special attention. Why does Melody prefer to work in a unit where life and death swing in the balance?

An opportunity for direct patient contact is the overriding factor. "We are involved in total patient care," says Melody. "On the average there is a one-to-two nurse/patient ratio."

The ability to concentrate all her efforts on one or two patients enables Melody to give the personal care that makes her work fulfilling. "You must be creative in your thinking as you consider the patient's comfort." This creativity involves more than physical care. "You also give emotional, mental and spiritual support to a patient."

Patients in the intensive care unit are aware of the seriousness of their condition, and often through an expression of innermost feelings seek spiritual encouragement. "I have many opportunities to pray with patients," says Melody. A simple, "Would you like me to pray with you?" often brings an urgent reply, "Yes, would you please?"

Because of the personal, daily contact with the patient, the nurse in intensive care is better able to know and meet the needs of each person. "I rarely discuss doctrines with a patient but rather tell of the love of Christ for them," says Melody.

She also enjoys her work because of the professional challenge. The responsibility for accurate judgment in treatment is especially important in I.C.U. "You need to know and practice the most recent procedures and techniques in patient care."

Melody's desire to always provide the best health care is evidenced by her continuing studies through Andrews University. She plans to upgrade her associate degree to a bachelor's degree.

While a member of the Gymnics, an athletic team from Andrews which travels throughout the United States and Europe, Melody met her husband, Bob, also a team member. As a recreational therapist on the mental health unit of Hinsdale Hospital, Bob shares Melody's interest in health care. This interest extends beyond physical care to an awareness of a patient's spiritual needs.

"We both have given Bible studies to several patients," says Melody. Non-Adventist staff members often question both Melody and Bob about their religious beliefs, and they always get an enthusiastic response.

Bob and Melody's future plans include a move to Colorado where they will help establish a work-study program for Adventist and non-Adventist children. Their interest in youth was strengthened by recent work in summer camps in Michigan.

Melody's father, John Freeman, is the founder of Maranatha, a voluntary fly-in missionary service. With a born and cultivated interest in service, Melody and her husband have participated in several trips.

S.D.A. SPECIAL SCHOOLS

Building Boys and Girls of Tomorrow

BOY'S WORLD

American Youth Ranches, Inc., is a nonprofit corporation that provides homes and schools for young people of all races and creeds. Our schools stress quality rather than mere quantity, and ideals as well as ideas. True education involves not only the culture of the mind, but the teaching of responsibility and self-discipline, the setting of goals, of motivation and the desire to achieve.

Agriculture is an integral part of our curriculum as young people work in partnership with the One that sends the sunshine and makes the plants grow. Cultivation of the soil helps to cultivate character, our number one task.

The youth may be short or fat, tall or thin, black or brown, shy or happy, freckled or sad, but we want him to have a productive future, not merely a past.

Boy's World, a ranch-school for elementary-age boys, is located in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. Over the past 10 years Boy's World has served the needs of young men who are unable to function in their homes or their conventional schools.

Nobody chooses to be an orphan, even if he's a Model "A," "B," or "C." That's why we help each boy according to his individual needs.

Model "A's" parents are dead.

Model "B's" parents seem to have more important things to look after besides their son, so he becomes an orphan, too.

Model "C's" parents really love their son but realize that he needs additional help that they cannot provide at home, and they want to give him the very best.

We help in many ways:

1. We stimulate and challenge minds and bodies.
2. We provide love-filled homes for those who need them.
3. We provide guidance and direction for broken young lives.
4. We provide solid foundations on which to build or rebuild.

Remember, nobody chooses to be an orphan, even if he's a Model "A" or Model "B" or Model "C." If you know of an orphan, give him a chance. Let him know about us. We care.

ALPINE COUNTRY VILLAGE

Alpine Country Village, newest member of American Youth Ranches, Inc., offers a solid scholastic program on the secondary level as well as an outstanding program in career training.

Alpine Country Village, an authentic town of the Old West, was founded more than 100 years ago. With the stage coach passing through the village and the "pony express" a short distance away, the village blacksmith became a major wagon repair stop for the gold seekers and the teamsters freighting goods to the Austin gold-fields.

History abounds in the nearby Shoshone Indian Village where unnumbered generations of native Americans lived and died. History is also alive in Alpine's original livery stables, blacksmith shop, ranchhouse and schoolhouse. The village bears

LARIAT BOYS RANCH

Lariat Boys Ranch is located in the rolling hills of central Nebraska on 2,600 acres of land. At present the school is open only to boys whose educational needs are not beyond the eighth-grade level.

The ranch atmosphere of family group living, useful work, active recreation, special schooling, close supervision and good training combine to give unusual success in helping a boy become well-adjusted and self-disciplined.

Lariat Boys Ranch is a residential-care facility providing an atmosphere of love and firm control for boys who for various reasons need help beyond what their parents or school can give them. Six to ten boys live in each group home with their houseparents. In general the youth is provided a home and a special school environment (study is programmed for each student) in a rural ranch setting. Normal farm and ranch activities, household duties such as cleaning, meal preparation, group participation in worship, et cetera, are part of the boys' daily program.

The ranch is staffed and operated entirely by Seventh-day Adventist personnel. Church services are attended in North Platte. Boys who live at the ranch attend with their houseparents. This is an integral part of the ranch program to teach basic Christian moral standards to the boys in residence.

The ranch is starting a new program whose long-range goals include both the special elementary educational program and a program for high school students who need remedial work or vocational training. The master plan calls for housing facilities for more than 200 boys.

The goals of Lariat Boys Ranch fill a need that seems to have no end. Because of this the opportunity for personal evangelism is almost unlimited and as a consequence we have a great need for qualified men and women who can teach, who can be houseparents, and others who can help us love and work for the boys of Lariat.

For information write: LARIAT BOYS RANCH, Stapleton, NB 69163.

At Lariat Boys Ranch the students mix recreation and fun with study and learning.

testimony to the quality of the builders' craftsmanship. Now this same quality is taught to the young people in Alpine's career school.

Young men and women, grades 9 to 12, will benefit from a wide variety of vocational arts including agriculture, auto and diesel mechanics, secretarial and home economics, food services and construction. Courses are structured to meet the individual student's needs, some progressing more rapidly than others, according to each one's initiative and abilities.

Honor and trust are key words in the program at Alpine Country Village. This system of self-regulation places responsible students in major decision-making positions as Mayor or Sheriff of Alpine. In addition, other students with perhaps a bit less experience serve as the blacksmith, clerk at the "general store," sheriff deputies, or other positions in the village. With trust and proper guidance, each young person can learn the dignity of work and the honor of dependability.

Religion to us is more than church attendance and a set of rules. When Christ becomes a very real, personal Friend, His life becomes our lifestyle. Alpine was started on faith and continues to operate in the knowledge that He lives!

Alpine maintains an active foreign mission program for our students and encourages them to spend a year as a "student missionary" upon graduation.

Students attending Alpine enjoy a balanced program of diversified activities. Scholastics and employment are balanced by village sports and wholesome friendships.

In addition many off-village outings are made available such as backpacking, skiing, camp trips, and at times, extended trips into other states and localities. We try to provide all facets of a young person's maturation that will allow each student to realize his own worth and his full potential. Alpine provides the scholastic training as well as a quality trade, thereby offering the graduate an option of college or career!

What Are Your Risk Factors?

For more than four years Andrews University's department of nursing has been offering a risk evaluation for coronary, cancer and C.V.A. (stroke). Every three months during the school year, 75 to 100 people from Berrien County come on a Sunday morning to find out what their blood pressure, weight, cholesterol, triglycerides and blood sugar counts are. A breast self-examination film demonstration is presented, and a Pap test is available.

A weekly follow-up for a period of eight weeks provides opportunity for participants to learn many things about the eight principles of health and how they can help lower risk factors. God has outlined for us a beautiful way to help ourselves and others have good health, thus vindicating Him as a kind, understanding, heavenly Father, said Charlotte Hamlin, director of the program.

Seventy-nine people rescreened showed an average drop in cholesterol, triglycerides, blood sugar, weight and blood pressure. Many have expressed their appreciation for the program and also for the opportunity to learn many new things, Mrs. Hamlin said.

Students, mostly student nurses, give five 10-minute lectures and demonstrations each evening. A short film and question period take about one and a half hours. A text with 45 different 10-minute lectures is now available with overhead masters. (These must be put on transparencies.) Those who attend the 3C's program get new pages each night summarizing materials covered by speakers. Participants are encouraged to tell others what they are learning so that they will remember the instructions better.

A witnessing program is combined with the health program with free Bibles and fill-in subjects uplifting Christ being given to those who would like to study farther. Ministry of Healing and Steps to Christ are often given out during the program. A cookbook featuring recipes with low cholesterol, low fat and sugar content is included in a packet of the above materials costing $15. Also available is a 530-page source book and instruction chart on a five-night nutrition, stress, weight and physical fitness program. This, too, costs $15, making all health education materials available for $30.

In the churches all members can work together to bring Christ to the world, Mrs. Hamlin believes. This program is designed so that no expensive equipment is necessary. By using available medical personnel in the churches with other dedicated laymen all working as a team great things can be accomplished through the church for others.

SEARS GIVES GRANT TO A.U.

BONE DENSITY STUDIES IN PROGRESS AT A.U.

With interest focused on the vegetarian diet, an extensive bone density study is in progress at the home economics department of Andrews University. Cooperating with the department of food science and human nutrition and the School of Medicine at Michigan State University and the School of Medicine at the University of Michigan, bone scans by photon absorptiometry have been made on persons from ages 25 through the 80's. Further studies will soon be made on vegetarians of all ages from school age up with an emphasis on men and women past 60 years.

Of the tests made at Andrews in the fall of 1976 all volunteers above 60 years of age showed bone densities above the established average range.

The hypothesis of the study is that a long-established vegetarian diet may be protective against bone demineralization. There is evidence that some mineral loss takes place soon after young middle age is reached. Any life habit that slows this aging process is vital information to everyone.

Various categories of vegetarians are being studied: lacto-ovo-vegetarian (milk, eggs and vegetable foods), lacto-vegetarian (milk and vegetable foods), ovo-vegetarian (eggs and vegetable foods), and complete vegetarians

(no animal products), as well as those whose dietary habits are in one of these categories but who eat meat on occasion.

Other factors in categorizing will include length of time the person has been a vegetarian and the extent and length of time on an exercise program.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CLASSES SET

A number of continuing education short courses are being conducted under the sponsorship of the continuing education program, Pioneer Memorial Church, on the A.U. campus.

Classes include Income Tax Preparation, Growing Healthy House Plants and Basic Color Photography. Others include Beginning Conversational Spanish, Changing Your Habits and Religion in Overalls. There are also classes in Vegetable Gardening as a Family Project, Miniature Furniture Making and Science: Master or Slave of Society.

EDUCATIONAL LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE HELD AT A.U.

The third annual Southwestern Michigan Conference on Educational Leadership was conducted on January 26 at Andrews University. Meetings were held in the Wolverine Room in the Campus Center.

Talks presented were "How to Lie with Statistics," by Robert Cruise of Andrews; "Administrators with that Keyed-up Feeling," by Edward Stern of Lake Michigan College, and "Managing Management Time," by Robert Wilson of the Whirlpool Corporation. The last session was the regular monthly session of the Berrien-Cass School Administrator's Association.

The conference was sponsored by the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters; the Berrien-Cass School Administrator's Association; the Andrews chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, and the Center for Studies and Services in Education at Andrews.

STEENS TO MARK 90TH BIRTHDAYS THIS YEAR

This spring, Thomas W. Steen, former president of Andrews University will pass another milestone in his long and active life. April 12 will mark his 90th birthday. Remarkably, his wife, Margaret, will celebrate her 90th birthday also in August.

President of Andrews from 1934 to 1937, he saw student enrollment increase from 300 to 408 during his stay. Campus facilities were improved. Griggs Hall, then known as the James White Library, was built, and Berrien Bindery began operating.

After leaving A.U., Dr. Steen earned the Ph.D. degree in psychology and education from the University of Chicago. He served in administrative capacities at Washington Missionary College, River Plate Adventist College (Argentina), Adventist Institute of Uruguay, Inca Union College (Peru) and Madison College.

During the remainder of his career, Dr. Steen worked in the field of psychology as teacher at Southern Missionary College, and as a clinical psychologist in Washington, D.C., and in California.

Mrs. Steen taught German, Latin and piano at Andrews, and English for the Portuguese in Brazil.

Dr. and Mrs. Steen live quietly now in Berrien Springs.

NEWS NOTES

• Hospital employees contributed $8,948 toward the annual Crusade of Mercy campaign. This money helps to support more than 200 volunteer human-care agencies in the Chicagoland area, including 150 suburban communities. Children and young people receive benefits from two-thirds of the funds; the remainder is allocated for the help of elderly and victims of disaster. With the dedicated work of the many volunteer leaders of the Crusade of Mercy for 1976 and the support of the entire staff, we were able to successfully complete the campaign with one of the lowest fund-raising costs in the nation, less than five percent.

• The performance of six graduates of the School of Medical Technology who wrote the National Registry examination placed our school in the 88.6 percentile. Of the 666 schools represented by 5,767 graduates 591 averaged scores lower than the San. We commend these new registrants for their outstanding scholarship: Manuel Dizon, Hinsdale, Illinois; Wilmer Hechanova, Broadview, Illinois; Christine Kobza, Tinley Park, Illinois; Barbara Rottschalk, Villa Park, Illinois; Margaret Sheedy, Seneca, Illinois, and Barbara Warren, Western Springs, Illinois.

• The 40-member graduating class of the School of Practical Nursing received recognition at an evening ceremony, January 15, 1977, at the Hinsdale Seventh-day Adventist Church. L. Earl Laurence, hospital administrator, addressed the graduates.

Presentation of caps and pins, made by Lynn Hodges, director, School of Practical Nursing, signified the successful completion of a three-month course of study. The hospital offers a one-year practical nursing program beginning in the fall of each year.

NATIONAL BLOOD DONOR MONTH

Speaking before the American Association of Blood Banks, President Gerald R. Ford acclaimed blood donations as "the finest American tradition of humanitarian concern," and set aside January 1977 as National Blood Donor Month.

As a member of the American Association of Blood Banks, the San Blood Bank is dedicated to the total use of volunteer blood in providing the highest possible quality of blood for patients of the community.

Through the generosity of community citizens and our employees, we are able to supply more than 2,200 units of blood needed by our patients. Special tribute is paid to each individual who, resolving to start the new year off right, makes this resolution a reality by giving someone else a new start.

Hospital personnel are proud to be a part of this "finest American tradition," as evidenced by the 31 gallons of blood donated by 18 staff members.

BAY CITY MEMBERS PLAN MAILING CAMPAIGN

The Bay City Church is taking seriously the recommendation coming from the Annual Council of working "Together for a Finished Work." Under the leadership of Connie Hankins, left, and Arlyn Doll a program is under way to mail literature to the estimated 30,000 homes in Bay City and its suburbs. The two-year project consists of sending a packet containing a Voice of Prophecy invitation to the New Life Bible Course, a tract briefly dealing with God's plan for man's salvation and a specially prepared log listing all Adventist radio and television programs reaching the area. Plans are being made to mail out 15,000 packets this year.

STUDENTS VOLUNTEER FOR CHURCH GROUP WORK

"What will I say?" "Will the congregation go to sleep?" "What if I forget something?" "Who is going to be there?" "I've never done it before. Would you help me?"

Such are the cries of students who have volunteered to participate in sermon presentations as members of Cedar Lake Academy's church groups. The urgency only felt previously by Bible teachers now becomes a pressing reality.

Each week as many as four church group teams go to nearby churches to give the entire worship service. This provides the church with the added stimulation of having youth involved in the worship service. Academy youth in turn are encouraged by having an outlet for the knowledge and inspiration acquired through Bible classes and personal devotions. Those with musical ability provide the music and others contribute by offering prayer or reading the Scriptures.

Many preachers, teachers and church leaders of today got their first taste of "what it is like" through similar activities. Students say they are "richly blessed" by becoming involved with church groups. A blessing is also gained by the recipient church, and people ask for the group to come back.

Those interested in having a group from Cedar Lake Academy appear at their church should contact Frank Jones or Bill Cowin at the academy.

PASTOR SERVES ON PANEL AT COLLEGE IN DOWAGIAC

G. William Renton, pastor of the Buchanan Adventist Church, was a recent member of a panel of ministers speaking to the students of Southwestern Michigan College in Dowagiac.

Pastor Renton reports that when a problem arose over the subject of whether to condone or condemn men living with men, one of the other ministers reached for his church manual to give the opinion of his church; Renton instead turned to 1 Corinthians 6 and Romans 1 for his answer, and the student body appreciated and accepted the scriptural version.

Renton has been invited to be on the next panel which will consist of five members including a Catholic priest, a rabbi, and ministers to represent the United Methodist, Baptist and Seventh-day Adventist churches.

SPIRITUAL MINISTRY AT B.C. SAN HOSPITAL

The Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital team has experienced metamorphosis in the last two years. No longer do they leave spiritual ministry to patients and employees in the hands of the chaplain.

An L.P.N. who has worked the night shift for the past seven years became a patient. For the first time she was exposed to the healing team on other shifts. "The Advent people are really wonderful people. I have never seen so much love," she said. "I was hoping to attend the Advent Church—and don't you know, the ward secretary is going to take me with her. I think it's wonderful what you're doing here."

The dietician is taking a former patient to her prayer group and to the

STUDENTS GIVE PARTY FOR COMMUNITY CHILDREN

On the evening of December 15, the Student Association of Cedar Lake Academy held a Christmas party for 36 community children, ages 4 through 13. The children were brought to the gymnasium where students were waiting to show them to the cafeteria and to be with them throughout the evening. After dinner they settled down for the program which ended with Santa's appearance and a film entitled "Three Wise Boys." The theme of the story was "it is better to give than to receive" which is the true meaning of Christmas.

Urbandale Church. The medical records director led an employee to Christ and saw her baptized recently. The EKG technician shares his joy with troubled patients. Secretaries gather in a small room to pray for critical patients. A nurse is visiting former patients and studying the Bible with them.

The exciting part about this metamorphosis is that hospital employees make it happen without the chaplain's awareness. "Oh, guess what I did! . . ." is often heard by the chaplain as a member of the healing team anxiously reports a new breakthrough in sharing God's love.

Spiritual ministry is a natural outgrowth of a relationship with Christ. This relationship is the basis for witnessing at the hospital. To see it happening every week convinces the administration that the best days of the medical work in Battle Creek are still ahead.

The Christmas banquet and year-end rally for Wisconsin literature evangelists was held on December 19 at the Portage Church. The banquet meal was prepared by the ladies of the Portage Church.

Special recognition was given to the publishing team who set records during the year. Mike Marta was the sales leader in district one with sales of $43,707.33. James Duquaine led district two with sales of $28,912.42. All the colporteurs combined amassed a grand total of $235,952.58 in sales for the year. Fourteen persons were baptized as the result of contacts by the literature evangelists.

Elder John Bernet, publishing director of the Lake Union Conference, gave a challenging devotional message, and the literature evangelists responded by accepting the challenge to win 70 souls and sell $275,000 worth of literature during 1977.

Elder Robert Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference, urged the literature evangelists to enroll more people in the Bible courses and to increase baptisms.

After the program ended, Harry Hartmann, publishing director for the Wisconsin Conference, was led to comment, "We have a fine growing team of literature evangelist families here in Wisconsin. I believe that the Lord is going to use His literature evangelists in a wonderful way in 1977 to place more truth-filled literature in the homes, and also to win more souls to God's remnant church."

SACRED CHRISTMAS CONCERT AT WISCONSIN ACADEMY

On Friday evening, December 17, the Wisconsin Academy department of music gave a sacred concert for the Christmas season. Many parents and friends joined the students in this most delightful and inspirational service. The chapel was decorated with colorful poinsettias and green and white pine trees.

The program opened with Brass Choir and organ selections. The Brass Choir was organized by Gary K. Klemp and practiced under his leadership. It was directed by Louise Larmon. Selections included: "Alleluia" by Bach/Wolff and "All Glory Be to God on High" by Decius/Wolff.

Carmen Ray, a senior organ student, and Kelvin McNeal, junior piano student, played a duet, "Gesu Bambino." Another highlight of the evening was a duet by Gary Klemp at the piano and Nancy Levens at the organ, "Kammenoi-Ostrow" by Rubinstein/Mason.

The choir processed to "Glory to God" by Henderson. Other selections included: "A Joyful Alleluia," "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming," "Hodie! Emmanuel! Gloria!" The program concluded with selections from Handel's "The Messiah." Soloists were Diana Drygalski, soprano, Brenda Hoppe, alto, and Bruce Rasmussen, bass.

The program was under the direction of Louise Larmon with Gary Klemp as accompanist on the organ.

Baker's Pocket Book of Religious Quotes, by Albert M. Wells Jr., Editor and Compiler. Baker Book House, Grand Rapids, Michigan. 1976.

Albert M. Wells Jr., director of the National Periodical Library in Flint, Michigan, and editor of the Guide to Social Science and Religion in Periodical Literature, has compiled 1,635 profound and pithy paragraphs, packed with wit, wisdom and concise spiritual truth. This pocket-size book of religious quotes is conveniently organized under alphabetically arranged topics from "Abortion" to "Youth."

The quotes are fresh and contemporary, from the best minds the world over. Mr. Wells states his purpose in compiling this little book: It is "to provide brief quotations that bring into sharp focus Christian truths for spiritual edification. While the substance of truth comes from the Word which is paramount, the stimulus for accepting truth often comes from the words which comprise a profound thought."

Baker's Pocket Book of Religious Quotes is available at Christian bookstores for $2.95.

Letters

Letters on nontheological topics are welcomed by the editors. Right is reserved to edit for continuity and space limitations. Your name, address and name of home church are required, but will not be published if you request anonymity.

I completely missed out on your recent reader appraisal survey. I hope I am not too late to make one suggestion. That is, an interview and special tribute to some outstanding person in their area—layman or worker. I would like to see more of this done in all our papers. I think it would be a real positive influence to all readers to realize how much some have done and given. There is so much of the urging type of promotion which seems to fall on deaf ears, but this would be an appeal to the heart and I think it would be good.

Alice Davidson
Rockford, Illinois

Thank you for the suggestion. Please notice on page 3 there is just such an article each week.

UNIVERSITY COOPERATES IN RESEARCH PROJECT

Loma Linda University has been selected as one of five institutions in the United States and Canada to participate in a six-year-long cooperative research project to determine the effectiveness of intermittent positive pressure breathing (I.P.P.B.), according to Dr. John E. Hodgkin, chief, section of medical chest diseases in the School of Medicine, and principal investigator for the project at Loma Linda.

Sponsored by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, a division of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Maryland, the researchers will compare the I.P.P.B. apparatus with the more conventional compressor pump for aerosolizing medication in patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (C.O.P.D.), such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

DONATED CHURCHES ALMOST COMPLETE

In January 1975 General Conference President Robert Pierson made an appeal for money to build 300 churches in India. Now nearly all of the 300 churches for which funds were donated in response to that appeal have either been built or are under construction. In some cases it has taken considerable time to get the necessary authorization from local governments to build the structures. All the churches now complete are already in use by local congregations.

POLL REPORTS ATTENDANCE UP AT CHURCHES, SYNAGOGUES

For the first time since 1958 U.S. church and synagogue attendance rose last year, according to a new Gallup Poll. Asked, "Did you happen to attend church or synagogue in the last seven days?" 42 percent of respondents to the survey said Yes. According to the Gallup analysis, 55 percent of Roman Catholics are in church in a typical week, 40 percent of Protestants. Another question on religion in American life brought a near even division of opinion. Forty-four percent say religion's influence is increasing, 45 percent decreasing, with the rest saying neither or having no opinion.

THOUSANDS GATHER FOR MISSION CONVENTION

During the last week in December, a record 16,000 college students flocked to the frozen University of Illinois campus to investigate foreign mission careers. They came to attend the 11th triennial Missionary Convention held by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Inter-Varsity had to turn away thousands of others because the university's domed Assembly Hall could hold no more. There should be no job shortage for volunteers for mission service. A computer job-matching service at the convention offered 14,000 potential openings.
