SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

Practice What We Preach

Recently I was shocked to learn that as insurance risks Seventh-day Adventists as a group do not have the best record. The report spoke of inaccurate vital information and dishonest reporting of claims, both calculated to yield for the insured the best possible return. It was further stated that for these reasons, some companies were unwilling to provide coverage for Seventh-day Adventist groups. This really hurt! Now I know there could be inaccuracies and that such criticism should not be generalized. It is also true that those who profess much will be much watched. But is there a lesson here?

Junius observed that "the integrity of men is to be measured by their conduct, not by their professions." A more familiar truism is, "actions speak louder than words." In His sermon on the mount Jesus really labored this point. Rather than getting as much as possible for as little as possible, He spoke of the extra measure or "the second mile." In this I think He was telling us that nothing special should be expected during the first mile, but that true Christian nobility would be recognized during the second.

It could be that in the guise of Christian frugality, and for the sake of a "special cause," the enemy seeks to have us justify the means by which we effect savings. However, I believe prayerful thought will lead us to conclude that for whatever the honorable need, there is no value relationship between frugality and sharp dealing. With money lying around in the mouth of a fish, Jesus demonstrated that finance was not the essential concern. In the accounts of men and in the accounts of heaven, a savings which sacrifices rectitude is of deficit net worth!

Not many people in the world today are willing to listen to a sermon, but there will never be a lack of appreciation for a good sermon that is seen. We can sharpen up that sermon by practicing what we preach.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Five Generations

by Martelle Tyson

In 1850 Jacob Cady came from Lowell, Massachusetts, to Wisconsin. He purchased land from the government in an area south of Poy Sippi which is now known as Fountain Valley. The school, which was in the first school district in Waushara County, became known as Cady School. The first teacher of the Cady School was Miss Vesta Cady, daughter of Philander Cady, and granddaughter of Jacob Cady.

Jacob's wife, Betsy Emeline Coolidge Cady, learned of the advent message through her son, Philander H. Cady. Philander was a young carpenter who was working at his trade south of Berlin, Wisconsin. He attended tent meetings that were held in a nearby area and began observance of the seventh-day Sabbath. Upon returning to Fountain Valley, he talked to his family, friends and neighbors of his newfound belief. He, with his mother, Betsy, and a Mrs. McCoy began holding Saturday services in their home. Gradually others joined the group in the Cady home.

In 1863 John G. Matteson, a Danish Baptist minister preached in Danish and English in various schoolhouses in the Bloomfield area north of Poy Sippi. He built a little log house near Brushville, and, since the church could pay him but little, he taught public school in the winter.

That year he had contact with Seventh-day Adventists for the first time. Elder L. H. Christian in Sons of the North, tells what John Matteson wrote of this experience:

"A man by the name of J. Cady lived near our home. His son, P. H. Cady, kept the Sabbath and invited me to come over and spend a Sabbath with him and study the Scriptures. I was willing to do this, as I felt certain that there was a text in the Bible which read as follows: 'The Jews rested on the last day of the week, but the Christians kept the first day in memory of the resurrection of Christ.' Feeling sure of my ground and desiring to help him see his mistakes I gladly began to talk with Cady on the subject. . . . He didn't seem to notice that I couldn't find the text for which I hunted. But the more I listened to this man, the more I was convinced that he had the Bible on his side. However, I said nothing, but went home to study."—Sons of the North, pp. 118, 119.

Matteson was given a tract against the Sabbath, but later someone gave him several copies of the Review and Herald that answered the arguments in the tract. Soon he was convinced of the Sabbath truth. His church asked for a series of lectures, and six months later all but one family accepted the Bible truth.

Elder Matteson preached to Danish settlers and raised up a company of believers in the Brushville area north of Poy Sippi. The English believers met in an old schoolhouse in Poy Sippi. About 1863 the Poy Sippi Seventh-day Adventist Church was organized with 11 charter members in the Danish congregation and 10 in the English. The combined Danish and English membership rose to 100 and remained there for some time.

The church building was erected in 1874 from materials hauled in by ox teams. All the work was done by the church members with Philander Cady leading out. This church was the first church building in Poy Sippi, and for some time the Lutherans, Congregationalists and Methodists also used it.

In 1876 a dedication service was held. Elder J. G. Matteson was assisted by Elder O. A. Olson, then president of the General Conference.

From 1897 to 1900 school was held in the church. In 1900 a schoolroom was added to the north end. The first church school teacher was Parker Smith, son of Elder Uriah Smith, author of Daniel and the Revelation.

As time went by, the younger generation all spoke English, and in 1918 the Danish and English congregations merged.

In 1927 more than 60 denominational workers had been sent out from this church.

There have been many pastors through the years. The present pastor is Elbert M. Tyson, whose wife, Martelle Nelson Tyson, happens to be a great-great-granddaughter of Betsy Emeline Coolidge Cady, mother of P. H. Cady, who built the church.

Bradford, associate secretary, General Conference; Jesse Wagner, president, Lake Region Conference; and Harold Lindsey, pastor, watch the mortgage burn. Above, Elder Brown and Elder Lindsey rejoice over the church's freedom from debt.

Members of the congregation participated reverently in the act of dedication.

Elder Lindsey receives an award from William Hilliard, local elder.

"Praise the Lord."

"PRAISE THE LORD."

"PRAISE THE LORD!" said Pastor Harold A. Lindsey as the $350,000 note for the Shiloh Church was burned.

The burning of the note was the highlight of special week-long dedication services for the Chicago Shiloh Adventist Church, March 19 through 26.

The history of the Shiloh Church began in 1905 when the J. R. Busters with five other individuals pioneered the establishment of this Adventist church in Chicago.

W. D. Ford was appointed the first pastor in 1910. The next summer he built the first church building, and the 150 members moved from the storefront place of meeting.

By 1921 the congregation had grown to 250 and the first elementary school was established.

In 1925 a new church was constructed for the fast-growing congregation and the church was renamed the Shiloh Church.

The present church structure was constructed in 1969 under the leadership of Pastor Samuel D. Meyers, a son of Shiloh.

Lindsey became pastor in 1969 and under his leadership, with treasurer Cornelius Harris, the principal and interest indebtedness of $487,656 was paid in full two years before schedule.

The current membership of Shiloh is more than 2,100.

19 to 22. The session, designed to train couples to hold marriage enrichment seminars will be conducted by the Family Life Services of the General Conference under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Delmar Holbrook.

Approximately 1,000 people have attended 48 of these seminars throughout the United States.

"Our marriage has been helped. We really learned to communicate and avoid a lot of problems," said a young wife and mother who has attended.

Midge Meyer, another seminar participant says, "These seminars are not primarily for troubled marriages. Their purpose is to make good marriages better. With Satan's attacks on Christian homes causing more divorces and misery than ever, what could be more helpful?"

Persons who have attended at least two marriage enrichment seminars and who would be interested in training for a leadership role should contact Dr. E. C. Banks at (616) 471-3073.

A.U. STUDENTS ACCEPTED TO LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY

Fifteen pre-med students at Andrews have been accepted by the Loma Linda University School of Medicine for the class beginning in September.

Students accepted from the Lake Union were: Kenneth Colburn, Berrien Springs, Michigan; Janice Jensen, Westmont, Illinois; Jeannette Joslin, Edmore, Michigan; Ruth Koch, Bangor, Michigan; Gregory Reiber, Hinsdale, Illinois; John Ritland, Berrien Springs; Wayne Sladek, LaGrange Park, Illinois, and Douglas Teller, Utica, Michigan.

Teller is a religion major, Miss Koch majors in chemistry, and all the others are biology majors.

Two additional applicants from Andrews were encouraged by Loma Linda to reapply for the March 1978 class.

The School of Dentistry at Loma Linda has accepted Glen Middaugh of Dowagiac, Michigan, and Wilmer Hechanova of Berrien Springs.

SMITH TO HEAD AVIATION CENTER

William E. Smith of Berrien Springs has been named director of the Adventist Aviation Training and Service Center. Smith, an ordained minister recently returned from mission service in Borneo and New Guinea, was engaged in graduate study at A.U. at the time of his appointment.

The General Conference voted last fall to establish the church's primary aviation training center at Andrews. The center will serve as a clearinghouse for all denominational purchases of aircraft and aircraft parts. The planes will be serviced and customized to meet the requirements of the location to which they are bound and the type of flying they will have to do.

One of Smith's prime responsibilities will be the recruitment, training and check-out of pilots for the church's numerous mission fields.

"I view this as an extension of my ministry—training others to carry the good news of Jesus Christ to the remote villages and outposts in many parts of the world," said Smith.

Two Andrews Junior Academy students were recipients of statewide essay awards presented by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Margaret Johnston, 13, won first prize awarded to a seventh-grader in Michigan for her essay, "The Battle of Cowpens."

Dantar Oosterwal, 14, took first runner-up prize in eight-grade competition for his essay, "Fight for Redoubt 10."

The awards were presented by Carol Jo Hemingway, regent of the Algonquin Chapter of the D.A.R.

Margaret is the daughter of Elder and Mrs. Robert Johnston.

Her essay dealt with the Revolutionary War Battle of Cowpens in South Carolina in 1781.

Dantar's paper was written from the point of view of a colonial soldier in the Battle of Yorktown. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gottfried Oosterwal.

Both Elder Johnston and Dr. Oosterwal are professors at the theological seminary.

EVANGELISM AT BROADVIEW ACADEMY

Broadview Academy campus was the center of a Better World to Come evangelistic series, February 4 to 23. The conference evangelistic team of Elder Arnold R. Friedrich and Lorraine Hansen were invited by Elder Richard Habenicht, campus pastor, to hold this series of presentations for the campus and surrounding community.

There was a deep interest on the part of the students, faculty and community in the spiritual messages presented. Miss Hansen, Bible instructor and director of the health and better living features, presented to the audience the importance of maintaining good health and physical fitness. A "Heartbeat" testing program was conducted and 114 students and community residents participated.

During the end of the series several baptisms were held and more than 30 were baptized. Another baptism was scheduled for April.

Elder Friedrich says, "Our academies throughout our land can be successful centers for public evangelism. The students attended the meetings on a voluntary basis and the attendance was excellent."

The Witnessing Machine

by Albert W. Bauer, lay activities director

The Lord has entrusted us as His children with the everlasting gospel message of hope. The world is rushing on to certain destruction and upon us is placed the responsibility to share with our fellowmen this good news that will bring salvation, peace, security and hope for the future.

The Bible says, "Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen." Isaiah 43:10. Ellen White wrote, "The heavenly universe is waiting for the members to become channels through which the currents of life shall flow to the world, that many may be converted."—Christian Service, p. 21.

In our busy modern world it is not always easy to find time to study or to explain the Word of God to our neighbors or friends. Too often we miss out on one of the greatest experiences of life—studying the Bible with others in the quietness of their home.

We are happy to introduce to our readers an easy, convenient and effective way to share the good news with others—the new set of 20 audiovisual, full-color Bible studies called ENCOUNTER. In the past the 20th Century Bible Course in color filmstrips has been very effective, but it has become outdated.

ENCOUNTER will make it easier for us to make witnessing a way of life and will help us to lead many people to the same happiness and peace we found when we first met our Lord.

ENCOUNTER in 20 lessons covers the major doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist faith. Every lesson explores today's problems and questions in the light of God's Word. It appeals to the heart and convinces the mind in the light of God's love.

ENCOUNTER is sponsored by the General Conference lay activities department. It was produced by the International Audiovisual Service at the Radio, Television and Film Center at Thousand Oaks, California. It was prepared by communicators experienced in presenting Bible truth to non-Christians. It is graphically vivid with 61 to 80 slides or frames in full color per study. Each has 15 to 20 minutes of narration, heart-appealing music, and sound effects.

ENCOUNTER is ideal for homes, small groups, classrooms, baptismal classes, branch Sabbath Schools, evangelistic meetings, closed-circuit TV for hospitals and nursing home.

Our picture shows ENCOUNTER used with the Dukane Projector, Model 28A1A A-V Matic. General features, automatic threading, with film enclosed during use. Fast forward and rewind of filmstrips with one simple control. Sound and picture can be stopped or started instantly just by pushing pause key. Automatic picture change, manual push buttons advance fast forward or fast rewind. Plays cassette tape up to 30 minutes per side. It has a 10½- by 8-inch high brilliance, nonglare acrylic screen, rear projection. Light weight—18 pounds. In case service is needed there are 18 service areas in Illinois, five in Indiana, eight in Michigan, and five in Wisconsin.

The ABC's in the Lake Union will sell the complete unit, ENCOUNTER filmstrips, cassette tapes, Dukane Projector through August 31 at an introductory offer of $350 cash (on approved credit, $375; after August 31, $395).

ENCOUNTER is also available through the ABC in the following formats:

Single-frame filmstrips with cassettes

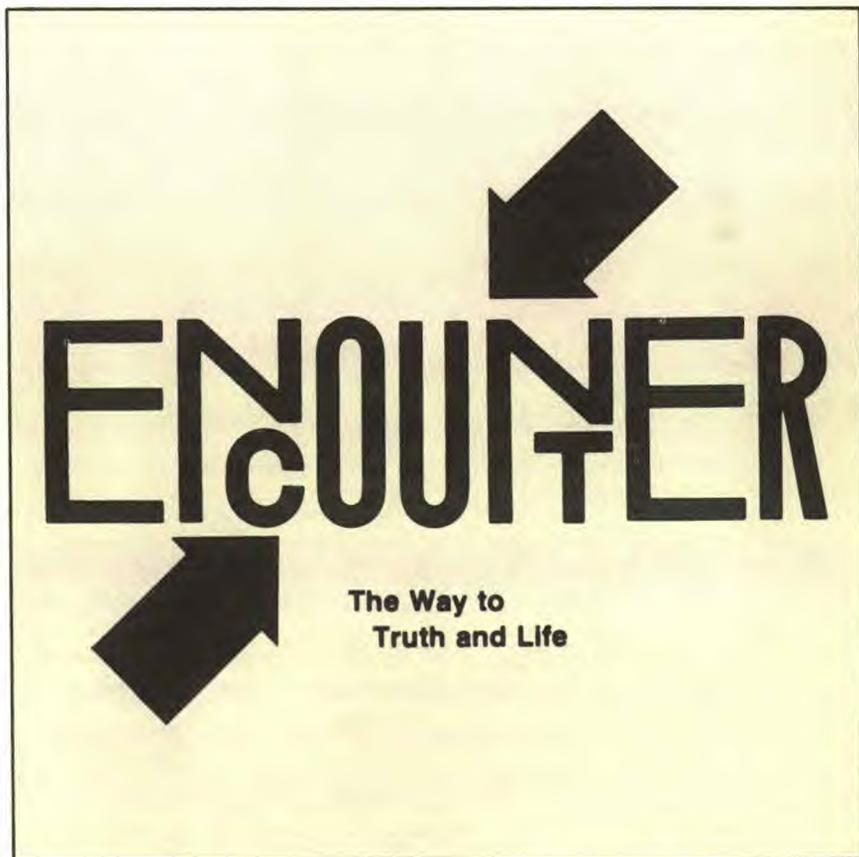

Double-frame filmstrips

Full set of slides (approximately 1,600)

Complete set of LaBelle cartridges (These are used in the LaBelle Duo-16 projector. Also an excellent machine).

For further information and prices check with your ABC.

Now is the time for us to rally to the finishing of God's work in the Lake Union. We must unite our efforts by first totally committing our lives, our time, our talent and our means to God. We can and will finish the work.

CONFERENCE PRESIDENT VISITS KOKOMO

Indiana Conference President G. W. Morgan visited Kokomo and spoke to the congregation on Sabbath morning. His earnest prayer for the day was "that each present would give the kind of priority that Enoch gave to God," and, "learn to walk with God in our daily life as Enoch did during his life here on earth." Elder Morgan's final prayer was "that each should be ready for eternity so He will take us to heaven."

COOKING CLASSES A SUCCESS IN GARY

For the past several weeks the Gary Glen Park Church has been having a series of "never-to-be-forgotten" cooking classes. These nutrition classes were held each Wednesday evening starting on January 26. Despite blizzard conditions that night, there was a very good turnout.

Each night there were door prizes and recipes as well as delicious food samples that would tempt each family member. These classes were geared for wives, husbands and teenagers, all of whom attended enthusiastically.

Topics included "Four Basic Food Groups," "Fats in the Diet," "Vitamins and Minerals" and "Fad Foods." Films were viewed and special speakers lectured and answered questions.

Special speakers included: Dr. Charles W. Rigg, a pediatric dentist from Merrillville; Dr. F. Dale Nelson from South Bend, and Bennett Chilson, director of food services from Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Illinois, as well as health educators and dietitians from local hospitals.

The capable and responsible people in charge of these educational episodes were Lynn Nickless, R.N., wife of Pastor Michael Nickless, and Rosemary Gal. Twenty-four others helped in many different ways from providing aesthetic and beautiful place settings and centerpieces to demonstrating and serving food.

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT FRANK L. PETERSON

Many individuals and charitable organizations from the Lake Union to the local church have seen and still see the importance of Christian education as experienced at Frank L. Peterson Academy. This has been evidenced by the monetary gifts, prayers and support that have been realized.

Since the rally that was held in the new gymnasium one year ago this month, backstops have been installed in the gym, microscopes have been purchased, and books and encyclopedias for the library have been obtained. An intercom system for the school has been obtained and is scheduled for installation in the near future. Desks have been ordered and are on their way.

We are looking forward to receiving our library shelving soon. Altogether approximately $10,500 has been donated. "To God be the glory!"

We the students, faculty, administrators and parents of Frank L. Peterson thank everyone and do humbly ask for your continued prayers and support as we labor in the area of Christian education for the soon return of our Lord.

CITY TEMPLE DAY CARE CENTER MOVES FORWARD

During the years of 1973 to 1976, the City Temple Day Care Center under the direction of Phenicie Thomas has enjoyed many fulfilling times.

With an enrollment of 30 children, supported by six teachers, many exciting trips have been planned. Farms, apple orchards, the zoo, the dog pound and the library were visited. Swimming class at the Y.M.C.A. each Tuesday was an exciting experience.

The majority of the children's parents are not Adventists. On visitation day at City Temple, the parents were invited. They enjoyed hearing their children sing during Sabbath School. We consider this an opportunity to introduce the parents to our church.

The latest outing was a visit to the New Light Nursing Home where children ages 2½ to 5 sang for the shut-ins. They also passed out Valentine cards that they had made.

The mini-bus has added to the outreach success in meeting the needs of the community. The school has given several thousand dollars to the church and Peterson School in the past four years.

NEWS STORY REVEALS ACTIVE SERVICES CENTER WORK

The program at the Frankfort Community Services Center is much like that of other centers around the state. But for a non-Adventist just becoming acquainted with the program it is something special.

The work of the center and recent publicity given to it and other facets of the church program were responsible, Elder W. M. Buckman, conference lay activities director, believes, for the Frankfort members raising the second highest per capita amount for Ingathering of any church in the state. It reached $61.59!

The following is condensed from a feature story with pictures entitled, "For People in Need From People Who Care," by Mabel Fick which appeared in the Benzie County Patriot. It appeared in the same issue which carried a story on the start of the World Service Appeal.

Packing boxes of clothes for emergency use is a standing order for the women of the Frankfort Center. They are from left, Marge Worthington, Virginia Young and Waneta Holmes.

"The nine women who were busily mending, pressing, folding and packing women's clothing answered questions amiably but did not pause in their tasks even when the camera was aimed at them.

"They were volunteers at the Community Center at 113 Leelanau in Frankfort which is operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Most of the volunteers were Adventists but some were not. This was a larger group than usual, Eileen Smith, director of the center said, but volunteers are always needed to sort, launder, mend and pack and anyone is welcome to help.

"Usually the clothing which is sent away is outerwear only, but on this particular day they were packing clothing to be sent to the women's prison in Detroit, DEHOCO (Detroit House of Correction). 'It is very important,' they said, 'for these women to have clean, attractive clothing when they leave the prison. It is much easier to find a job if they are nicely dressed.'

"Twenty large boxes were sent, every item cleaned, laundered and mended if needed. One seamstress was observed cutting the buttons off an attractive winter coat. She explained that there was one missing and she couldn't find an exact match in their collection of buttons, so she put a whole new set on. It looked like a new coat when she had finished with it.

"The clothing and other goods are given by local people and sometimes good items left over from rummage sales are given to them. 'Good, clean clothes are always welcome, even if they need mending,' Marge Worthington, assistant director remarked. 'Bedding, dishes and small household items are needed, too.'

"'And we can always use help,' Lela Reimer stressed. One woman, who does not belong to the Seventh-day Adventist Church, comes all the way from Thompsonville to help.

"An astonishing amount of clothing and bedding is sent from this small center. There now are 65 of the large boxes packed and ready for shipping.

"Seventh-day Adventists believe, as a part of their Christian philosophy, in serving those in need. They seek to help those plagued with misfortune, and since survival in time of disaster often depends upon immediate service, they lend their full support and cooperation to Civil Defense and the American Red Cross whenever a natural or war-caused disaster may strike."

CHRIST-CENTERED DOCTRINE BEING PRESENTED BY ANDREWS PASTOR

During the present school year at Andrews University those worshipping on Sabbath at the Pioneer Memorial Church have been hearing a series of 22 sermons based on the 22 statements of fundamental beliefs of Adventists as published in The Church Manual. Dr. John A. Kroncke, pastor of the church, is presenting this series.

The objective of this series is to present these messages in a worshipful rather than evangelistic setting. Yet the purpose is evangelistic. They emphasize the Christ-centeredness of Adventist doctrine and aid in cementing the truth in the hearts and minds of those in attendance by reviewing the biblical reasons for their faith.

The series is also an evangelistic outreach to those worshipers who are non-Adventists and to the non-Adventist radio audience who might not be reached by Adventist teachings in any other way. (The Pioneer Memorial Church service is broadcast live each Sabbath morning at 11 A.M. over radio station WAUS-FM, 91.9 MgH.)

Both the Adventist and non-Adventist response has been favorable thus far. Nine more such services in the series are to be presented. These services are currently available on cassette tape through WAUS-FM, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104. If audience response warrants it, the cassettes may be developed into a complete set of 22 tapes covering the full range of Adventist beliefs.

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM BRINGS TWO COUPLES TO CHRIST

Shortly after they were baptized last year, Silvio and Rosa Bulnes, a dedicated husband and wife team of the Grand Rapids Spanish Church, set out to share their newly acquired faith. They wanted to work "together for a finished work."

Soon their witnessing to their friends and fellow workers started to yield fruit. Quick to recognize their interests Silvio and Rosa arranged for Elder Jose Guillen, their pastor, to give Bible studies with two couples they had interested in their new faith.

The studies were reinforced by the prayers and constant loving care of the Bulneses who were always available to assure their friends a smooth transition to the proposed new faith and lifestyle.

Finally on Sabbath the 12th of March, Silvio and Rosa enjoyed the thrill of witnessing the baptism of Johnny and Elsa de Leon and Rene and Maria Moncadea, two young and promising couples.

Now that the Bulneses have found the joys in witnessing they have pledged to keep on sharing their light. Already their attention is directed to other friends for whom they have been praying and working.

The baptism of the de Leons and the Moncadeas was the high point of continuing activities in this thriving Spanish church.

WINTER FELLOWSHIP SERVICES AT CLEARWATER LAKE

Elder Lowell Bock, president of the Lake Union Conference, and R. T. Walden, M.D., medical consultant from Stevens Point, were featured speakers for the winter fellowship services at the Clearwater Lake Church, Friday evening and Sabbath, February 18 and 19.

Elder Bock spoke three times and emphasized the Christian's need to keep grace and law, faith and works, and love and obedience balanced and active in Christ. He also said that Christ's way is the only way out of the mess humanity is in. The light of God's immortal word will lead the Christian to the Holy City, provided he believes it completely.

Dr. Walden's talk on "How to Die Younger" revealed that snacking often, overeating, eating lots of high-cholesterol foods, never exercising, never having a check-up, and stressful living without practicing Matthew 11:28-30 will substantially decrease one's life expectancy and efficiency.

His study of 57,000 Adventists in California found they have a life expectancy of six more years than their non-Adventist neighbors. Adhering to the Bible-based health and diet principles taught by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination results in productive, happy, substantially longer lives than people would otherwise have, Dr. Walden explained.

He also talked about honor between the sexes. God intended sex in marriage to be beautiful, tender and all good. Fulfilling the Christian principle of first thinking of the other's needs helps make it that way, Dr. Walden said.

Jeff Helsius, Bruce States, Bruce Rasmussen and Darrel Kasner from Wisconsin Academy, Mrs. Walden and John Walden of Stevens Point and Sandy Toms of Rhinelander provided special music.

New Releases

MRS. WHITE AND MUSIC, by Paul Hamel. Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C.

A new book, Mrs. White and Music, has recently been released by the Review and Herald Publishing Association. Written by Paul Hamel, chairman of the music department at Andrews University, the book considers the instruction given by Mrs. E. G. White regarding the use of music by the Christian. It reviews the influence of music on the individual, the home and the church.

Hamel seeks out the type of music used during the lifetime of Mrs. White, against which she warns, and finds its counterparts in certain modern music trends.

Concluding the analysis of music author Hamel has a chapter on music in the life of Christ and closes the book with a chapter on the music of the redeemed of heaven. These two chapters alone make the book outstanding as an inspirational volume.

Mrs. White and Music comes in paperback and can be purchased from Adventist Book Centers.

TEST TUBES AND CHALK DUST, by Barbara Phipps. University Printers, Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Off the press at the University Printers at Berrien Springs, Michigan, is Barbara Phipps' book telling the life story of Burton H. Phipps, long-time teacher of science in Seventh-day Adventist academies and at Emmanuel Missionary College (Andrews University). Miss Phipps, librarian at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, has captured the determination that brought Burton from a frail child to a professor's chair; the understanding humor and sympathy that molded his handling of students of all ages; his search for truth in books and in the open field that helped make his classes live. Bonuses of the book include the revealing glimpses into "the way it was" in the emerging educational system of Seventh-day Adventists.

The book is stocked by some Adventist Book Centers, or it may be ordered from the University Printers: Paperback, $3.95; cloth, $5.95. Any profits from the sale of the book at the Printers has been designated by the author as a donation to the Andrews University Alumni Association.

'FRIEND OF THE COURT' BRIEF FILED ON SABBATARIAN CASE

An amicus curiae ("friend of the court") brief has been filed with the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Trans World Airlines et al., v. Hardison. The brief was filed by the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

"This could be the most significant case to Adventists since the Supreme Court ruled on Sunday-closing laws in 1961," said Warren L. Johns, attorney for the General Conference and a co-author of the brief. T.W.A. v. Hardison involves a member of the World Wide Church of God, whose members observe a seventh-day Sabbath from Friday sundown to Saturday sundown.

Larry Hardison, the respondent, was employed by T.W.A. at its overhaul base in Kansas City, Missouri. He was fired after refusing to work on Friday nights or Saturdays.

Hardison brought suit against T.W.A. and several units of the International Association of Machinists and Aero-space Workers union in federal district court, which ruled against him. An appeals court ruled in his favor, and the Supreme Court is expected to decide the issue later this spring.

According to Johns, a crucial question in the T.W.A. case is whether Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits religious discrimination, could be construed as an "establishment of religion" (which is prohibited by the First Amendment to the Constitution). If the high court says the "establishment" rule is violated, there could be a radical impact on the "free exercise" of religious rights in the United States, said Johns.

A similar case last year, Cummins v. Parker Seal Co., resulted in a 4-4 split by the Supreme Court. Paul Cummins, another World Wide Church member dismissed from his job because he could not conscientiously work on Sabbath, was upheld and reinstated to his old position by the high court tie. Justice John Paul Stevens absented himself from that decision; observers expect a more definitive ruling in the current case.

THEME SONG NEEDED FOR FESTIVALS OF FAITH

Plans for the five Festivals of Faith scheduled for the spring of 1978 in North America are developing nicely as sectional planning committees work on witnessing activities, logistics and programming. We expect that there will be 10,000 young people actively engaged in witnessing activities during these festivals and that scores of baptisms will result in the evangelistic efforts that follow each festival.

We are desirous of having a special theme song written by one of our young people. The theme song selected would be used nationally at all five festivals.

We are inviting our young people to submit an original composition according to the following guidelines:

1. Song is to be written by a youth under 35 years of age.
2. Theme song is to have a minimum of eight bars and a maximum of 16.
3. Theme of words for song are to be on faith, importance of the Word, power from God, and Holy Spirit for witnessing, dedication to a finished task or similar theme.
4. Song is to be arranged in four-part harmony, not just melody line.
5. Finished song is to be sent to the union conference youth director where composer is a member, not later than November 1, 1977.

GREECE'S STEP TOWARD SEPARATION CITED AT CHURCH-STATE MEETING

An associate justice of Greece's Supreme Court told the World Congress on Religious Liberty in Amsterdam that his nation's 1975 constitution "is a step in the direction of separation of church and state." Justice Anastase Marinos added that the significance of the new constitution is that it "contains the seed of the secular state." Although it permits "known" religions to exist, Justice Marinos acknowledged that some still have problems because of their teachings. Pointing out that the constitution states that "no one can refuse fulfillment of his duties toward the state or expect protection from laws because of his religious beliefs," the jurist commented, "this provision means that Jehovah's Witnesses cannot refuse military service, nor are Jews or Seventh-day Adventists exempted from attending school on Saturday." Justice Marinos suggested that Greece could enact special legislation to overcome these problems.

SAWS SENDS AID TO RUMANIA

The people of earthquake-stricken Rumania have been presented with $50,000 in cash by Saws, Seventh-day Adventist World Service. In a ceremony at the Rumanian Embassy in the United States, executive director of Saws Howard Burbank presented a check to Rumanian Ambassador Nicolae Nicolae. According to Burbank, the money will go toward the purchase of medical and surgical supplies, as well as other needs determined by local relief officials.

ADVENTISTS ASK ITALIAN PARLIAMENT TO ALLOW SATURDAY-SABBATH

A group of Italian Seventh-day Adventists has asked Parliament to enact a law recognizing Saturday as a day of rest. About 800 of the nation's 4,000 Adventists met in Rome to adopt a resolution calling on Parliament to approve the measure. The Adventists marched through downtown Rome, carrying placards calling for Italy to follow the practice of other West European countries in recognizing their right to celebrate Sabbath.
