Guide Me

COVER

The Michigan Pathfinders shown here are representative of Pathfinder clubs all around the Lake Union who collected food on Halloween to make Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for people in their area. Clockwise, from center left, the clubs are: Escanaba Eagles, Battle Creek Pioneers, Alpena Panthers, Berrien Springs Wolverines, Vassar Cork Pines, Munising Superiors and Pioneer Evergreens. See the conference section for more stories and pictures.

It is fitting that our fourth quarter Sabbath School lessons emphasize the inspiration of the Bible, reminding us that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, . . ." 2 Timothy 3:16.

On Sabbath, November 18, I enjoyed listening to a lively discussion of the lesson and specifically the question, "In seeking to understand eternal values, what comes first, a knowledge of the Scriptures or an acquaintance with Jesus Christ?"

Some individuals held that we must first read the Bible; for didn't Jesus say, ". . . they are they which testify of me." John 5:39. These people reasoned that we cannot know Jesus while not knowing about Him. Others felt mankind must first respond to the love of God which would in turn create a desire to study His Word. A thoughtful expression on the faces of those seated around me gave evidence of keen interest. (It made me wish all of our church members with their families could be in Sabbath School each week!)

With others, I felt myself reaching for the best answer and concluded that we must consider at least two more factors; the first is the omnipresence of God through the gift of the Holy Spirit. At some time in his experience every person must feel the influence of the Holy Spirit who offers the initial and, depending upon the response, sustained presence for good.

A second factor which emphasizes the human role is too often discounted, minimized as unessential or totally disregarded. It seems to me that it is largely for this reason the return of our Lord continues to be delayed. The following mission story from the Book of Acts will explain.

One day the treasurer of Ethiopia was returning from Jerusalem, obviously having an appreciation for God and His Word, but having little or no knowledge of Christ and saving grace. As he rode along he profitably spent his time reading the Scriptures.

At the same time, through the ministry of an angel and the Holy Spirit, a dedicated man by the name of Philip was brought on the scene. In response to the simple question, "Do you understand what you are reading?" Philip heard this heart-appealing reply, "How can I unless I have someone to guide me?" And he invited Philip to get up and sit by his side." Acts 8:31, Phillip's Translation.

How good it was that Philip, an essential element in the story, was ready and willing! For some people this poses a second question: Which comes first, readiness or willingness? And this discussion could delay the coming of Jesus even more.

The simple truth is that in responding to the appeal of the Holy Spirit who invites us to help others, the question of dedication is at the same time also answered. How do you respond to the appeal of thousands within the Lake Union Conference who are asking, "How can I unless I have someone to guide me?"

Pet Rocks and Papier-Mâché

by Rita Waterman

About 270 youngsters now squirming at schoolroom desks have happy memories of their summer, thanks to a unique recreation program at Andrews University.

Pioneer Memorial Church and the university have cosponsored the program before, but this year it was greatly expanded. For $2 a day children ages 4 to 15 could try their hand at everything from tie-dyeing to gardening, and enjoy a hot lunch besides.

Of course they didn't tackle these projects alone. Working with specific age groups—which were given names like Pirates, Bombers, Bananas, Panthers, Cougars and Mustangs—were seven student counselors under the direction of Andrews physical education professor Robert Kalua.

Rita Waterman of Rockford, Illinois, is a senior communication major at Andrews University.

"I did a lot of growing," said counselor Maritza Rivera, a sophomore psychology major at Andrews. "Working with children is a special sort of thing. You grow to respect them as little people."

The little people had very busy days, and it isn't hard to imagine the work the counselors put in to earn their $1,000 scholarships at the end of the eight-week program.

The day started at 9:30 A.M. with worship, followed by an arts and crafts period. This wasn't a time for the typical popsicle-stick creations. The projects included making pet rocks, constructing papier-mâché figures, tie-dyeing shirts and doing sand painting.

Mr. Kalua walked into a store one day and saw a man, woman and little girl all with look-alike shirts that remarkably resembled tie-dye jobs done at Andrews. After a brief introduction the man remarked about his daughter's enthusiasm for the project: "If I don't watch out, everything we own will be tie-dyed."

The morning continued with organized games. These were usually lead-up skills to develop coordination in outdoor sports.

For Jeff Erhard, who like many of his fellow counselors is a physical education major, this part of the daily program was worthwhile not only because of skills the children acquired, but for what he learned.

Although Jeff taught physical education as a student missionary, he felt that working with younger children this summer was a valuable experience for anyone planning a teaching career.

The next item on the daily agenda was a time-out. Hot lunch served by the university cafeteria energized everyone for the afternoon activities.

Part of the action was "wet and wild." The water fun included swimming classes and inner-tubing in the Andrews University Olympic-size pool. The counselors also helped participants develop skills in sports such as ping-pong and gymnastics.

At the end of the day there was always a group get-together. Some times the children were told a simple story; at other times a group put on a skit.

Even this daily program, though, might get a bit routine after a while. So the leaders included special events such as a trip to a blueberry farm that yielded delicious pies, an overnight camp-out on Pathfinder hill, and weekly excursions to garden plots with lots of vegetables.

Every Friday morning the group went to the Kaluas' house where they paired off to tend their 10-by-12-foot gardens. Mr. Kalua said that anticipation was always high before the green-thumbers went to check on the corn, beets, radishes, beans, tomatoes, squash and lettuce.

Mr. Kalua feels that the summer recreation program has great potential as an outreach to the community. The children enjoyed the variety of activities, their parents were pleased with the service, and the counselors had not-so-run-of-the-mill summer jobs with personal dividends besides.

All things considered, Kalua would like to see the program continued. Chances are, so would about 270 youngsters . . . their parents . . . a few counselors . . .

RECRUITING FROM DOWN UNDER

Robert and Rosemary Clarke are experiencing their first Michigan winter this year for a unique reason: The couple, who are from Sydney, Australia, and are members of the Anglican Church, chose Andrews University "sight unseen" as the place where Robert should pursue his education in business administration.

Hoping to earn an M.B.A. degree, Mr. Clarke, who had received a Rotary International scholarship to the United States, checked out a number of the larger American universities, only to find that most of them offered only two-year programs.

THE MICHIGAN TAX CREDIT OPPORTUNITY

Just a reminder as we near the close of 1977 that a gift to the general fund of the university may be taken as a credit against your Michigan State income tax. (In addition, you may use the full amount of your gift as a charitable deduction on your federal income tax return.)

The law allows a single individual to give up to $200 as a gift, and deduct from his state income tax one-half of the amount of the gift, or 20 percent of the taxpayer's state tax liability, or $100, whichever is less. For husband and wife filing jointly, the law allows a gift of up to $400, and a deduction from the state income tax of one-half of the amount of the gift, or 20 percent of the taxpayer's state tax liability, or $200, whichever is less.

A gift to Andrews University, depending upon your income, number of children and other factors, would cost you somewhere between 32 percent and 40 percent of the actual gift. For example a gift of $100 to the university would cost you somewhere between $32 and $40, depending on the above factors.

Please make your check payable to Andrews University, and mail before the end of December to the President of Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

Looking further, in hopes of finding a good one-year program, Mr. Clarke began investigating smaller institutions. While looking through the listings published by the United States government which he found at the American consulate in Sydney, he uncovered a recommendation of Andrews as one of the best small universities in this country.

As matters developed, Mr. Clarke is not sure he will be able to complete his degree at Andrews because of additional undergraduate work that is required. But the Clarks report that they have found the Andrews community "close-knit, but warm and friendly."

"We've made a lot of friends," they said.

LINCOLN LETTER DONATED TO JAMES WHITE LIBRARY

An original letter, handwritten and signed by Abraham Lincoln, has been donated to the James White Library at Andrews by Dr. Robert Wilkins, chairman of Andrews' chemistry department.

Marley Soper, head of reader services at the library, said that Mrs. Wilkins found the letter recently in a stamp collection that her husband had purchased last spring.

The letter was dated October 17, 1861, with the typical signature, "A Lincoln."

"I have studied thousands of documents of the Civil War period and I immediately recognized the familiar Lincoln signature, expression and form," commented Dr. Gerald G.

Herdman, Civil War historian and chairman of the history department to whom Dr. Wilkins took the letter to be checked for authenticity.

"I checked against reprinted collections of Lincoln's writings where I found the letter listed," he said.

Dr. Herdman found that the letter once belonged to the Oliver R. Barrett Collection in Chicago, which was sold at auction in February 1952. He said there were over two hundred items in the collection and it has been impossible to trace all the new owners of those items.

"The librarians are happy that at least one of those letters found its way to Andrews University," said Mr. Soper.

The letter is on display in the library with the Courville Civil War Collection and Lincoln memorabilia near the main lobby.

GRADUATE STUDENT RECEIVES ALTRUSA GRANT

Ada Garcia Marenko, a graduate student in educational psychology at Andrews University, has received a $1,000 grants-in-aid scholarship from Altrusa International, Inc.

Mrs. Marenko applied in early summer for the grants-in-aid scholarship program which is designed to aid foreign graduate women who study in American universities and plan to return to their countries to fill leadership positions.

To be eligible for the scholarship students must be recommended by their major professor.

Altrusa, the first service club for executive and professional women, pledges itself to the development of right attitudes toward work, patriotism, efficiency, and service.

Founded in 1917 the organization currently has more than 19,000 members.

NEWS NOTES

• Broadview Academy students collected $1,935 on a rainy Ingathering Field Day, November 7. More than 10,000 pieces of literature were also distributed, and two Bible studies were started. One student contacted a lady who lives about five miles north of B.V.A. She said that she had just moved there from the East and was thinking of looking for a Seventh-day Adventist Church. One of the teachers, Adan Alcalá, went back and visited with her and found that although she is not an Adventist she is very interested. Mr. Alcalá arranged for Bible studies for her and her family.

• The Downers Grove Church celebrated its 17th birthday with special weekend programs. The film, "The Hiding Place," was shown on Friday evening, November 4. On Sabbath, November 5, Dr. Samuele Bacchiocchi from Andrews University was the speaker.

• Broadview Academy's student association project for this year is a new road bus. Since the transmission is out on their present bus, a new one is greatly needed. The students held a work-a-thon November 1, and are currently selling pecans. The campaign deadline is December 9. If anyone would like to help them in their campaign, it would be greatly appreciated. Send contributions to the Student Association Project, Broadview Academy, Box 7, La Fox, IL 60147.

• A special candlelight communion service was held on Friday evening, October 21, at the North Shore Church. These special communion services are scheduled twice a year by Stanley W. Cottrell, pastor.

• Dr. Joseph Billock and Elder John Martin of the Marion Church were guests on radio station WGGH's program, "Sound Off," November 16 at 9 A.M. They discussed vegetarianism.

• The Blessed Hope Singers of Sweetser, Indiana, and Jerry Page, pastor of the Stewardson District, presented two programs at the St. Elmo Church of God, Sunday, November 20. This is the 10th time that Pastor Page has had the opportunity to speak to this 120-member congregation. They have no pastor at the present time.

Neal C. Wilson, president of the North American Division, addressed the constituents during the special meeting.

CONSTITUENCY DISCUSSES FINISHING THE WORK

Finishing the work was the topic of discussion at the special Illinois Conference Constituency Meeting held at Broadview Academy, Sunday, November 13.

As a result of a motion made by James Barclay of the Brookfield Church last May at the regular conference triennial meeting, this special meeting was called to deal with the implementation of Project: Steps to Christ as it relates to the 1976 annual council action concerning finishing the work by 1980.

More than 450 delegates attended and heard Neal C. Wilson, president of the North American Division, tell how God always gives more than we ask for. He illustrated his challenge with the story of the widow who only had a small vessel of oil, but had faith to believe that God would give her more. (2 Kings 4.)

Following the official call, John L.

Hayward, conference president, stated briefly the reason for the special meeting. Then James Barclay, the organizer and originator of Project: Steps to Christ, mentioned briefly the organization and plan of the project.

He also told about the original pilot program in Joliet and the subsequent mailing of Steps to Christ to more than 1,000,000 homes in Chicago. Desiring to see the work of the Lord finished soon, Mr. Barclay outlined how he felt Project: Steps to Christ could assist in doing this.

After his presentation some material was distributed which surveyed the general feelings of the constituency regarding the document on finishing the work, and how Project: Steps to Christ could help fulfill the plan of this document. In the afternoon the Steps to Christ committee's recommendations were handed out.

Although there was considerable discussion on the work of the pastor and the use of funds in building programs, most of the speeches that were given centered on the proposal to make Project: Steps to Christ the primary object of conference evangelism spending.

The Chicago mailing and its results were discussed. The cost was about $3,000 per person who is now attending church because of the program. Many felt that this was not too high if someone could be saved, but they also felt that other projects have had better results with less money.

However, Robert H. Ammons, conference ministerial and lay activities director, stressed that the Chicago mailing was an experimental part of the project. Now that they had been through a follow-up program of the mailing they would do several things differently.

A motion was made by George Crumley, Lake Union Conference treasurer, and passed. The motion stated that Project: Steps to Christ be referred to the Illinois Conference Executive Committee for a study of a total evangelism program in the Illinois Conference which would include Project: Steps to Christ, public evangelism, radio, television, et cetera, not just for one year, but for two or three years, and this should be accomplished within the framework of the conference budget.

As part of the day's activities, a group of Broadview Academy students and the stewardship department presented a promotional program on the need for the one-percent plan for Broadview Academy.

NEWS NOTE

• One of the newest Indiana Pathfinder Clubs to be organized participated in the annual Halloween can collecting project. In two hours 10 Bedford Pathfinders collected 135 cans of food. Portia Chapman is the director of this new club.

INDIANA ACADEMY NEWS NOTES

• The fall Week of Prayer at Indiana Academy was conducted by Carl Coffman, chairman of the religion department at Andrews University. His theme for the week was developing a closer friendship with Jesus.

• One hundred and thirty-five parents visited the academy on November 13, Parent-Teacher Day. Shortened classes were conducted in the morning so parents could observe the students in their classes. After lunch there was a musical presentation by the Keynotes and a question and answer session with Principal Alan Bohman presiding.

• Indiana Academy is a special testing center for the American College Testing program (A.C.T.). This test is a requirement for entrance at Andrews University and most other S.D.A. post-secondary schools. High school students wishing to be tested on the special test day, Sunday, February 12, 1978, should indicate on their test applications the academy's test center number, 7513. The registration deadline is January 13.

• Officers elected by the seniors of 1978 are: president, Mike Hile; vice president, Rick DeFluiter; secretary, Lisa Hackney; treasurer, Val Schaumburg; pastor, Rick Inglish; parliamentarian, Duane Bolin; S. A. representatives, Tracy Miller and LaMont Kerley.

• Some changes have been made in staff assignments since school started. Jeanette Vasconcellos is assisting in the library. Elsie Worthen is the school nurse. Margaret Anderson has begun teaching two nine-week classes called "Single Living." Anna Gatten is directing the bakery program, and Boyd Hill has assumed directorship of the cafeteria.

• The Harris Pine and American Color industries are currently employing almost half of the dormitory students. This work is a great help to the older students in financing their education. These industries may employ only students 16 years of age and older. Harris Pine has two four-hour shifts a day, and American Color has four four-hour shifts a day.

COLUMBUS CAPTAINS DOUBLE CAN COLLECTIONS

This year grocery sacks were distributed to Columbus residents two days before the pickup date. When compared with last year, twice as many cans were collected. One man called to complain that his sack had not been picked up and when the Pathfinders went to get the sack it contained 17 cans of food. With the large amount of food collected the club distributed about 20 Thanksgiving baskets.

Literature evangelists and leaders who participated in the group canvass.

GROUP CANVASS HELD IN EVANSVILLE

"I need these books for my Bible study class," said the non-Adventist minister.

This was just one of the many unusual experiences which took place during the group canvass, October 17 to 20.

Seven literature evangelists from Indiana and four leaders gathered at Evansville on Sunday evening.

When the week was over the average sales per literature evangelist were more than $800 and a total of more than $6,000 worth of literature had been left in Evansville and the surrounding area.

Many people registered for Voice of Prophecy Bible correspondence courses and many homes were blessed with prayer.

Large copies of The Great Controversy and The Desire of Ages were sold by two literature evangelists in a Catholic monastery near Evansville. The young man who purchased the two books is one of 600 students and monks living and studying at the monastery.

The student priest declared, "These are exactly the books I want."

Is the Lord calling you to join the ranks of the literature evangelists? Ellen White wrote, "...where there is one canvasser in the field, there should be one hundred."—Testimonies to the Church, vol. 6, p. 315.

PATHFINDERS COLLECT 2,083 CANS OF FOOD

"Hello. My name is Darrell. I am a member of the Terre Haute Pathfinder Club. Each Halloween our club members go into the neighborhood to collect canned goods to give to needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. I'm sure you would like to have a part in sharing your food. Won't you add a can or two for this worthy cause?"

Approximately 100 Pathfinders made similar appeals this past Halloween and collected 2,083 cans of food in 30 hours.

They plan to distribute 70 baskets to needy families during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Some of the clubs will add their cans to the food contributions made by church members.

Clubs that participated in the collection were the Terre Haute Sequoia, Capitol City Indianapolis, Independence Telestar, Shiloh Trailblazers, Jackson Summit Climbers, Emanuel Workers and Hyde Park Constellation.

Josephine Smith

LIFE BEGINS AT 70

The word retirement is not found in the vocabulary of Josephine Smith of the Sharon Church in Inkster, Michigan. At the age of 74, she is thankful to God for her mental alertness and physical fitness.

Although she did not start swimming until she was 73, she has received two first-place blue ribbons for special interest in this sport.

Staying physically fit is important to Mrs. Smith, so she runs, jumps rope and stays active at home, at church and in the community. She recommends daily Bible study with faith and full trust in God.

She has received a plaque for community service from the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and an award for 13 years of membership in the YWCA.

Each year Mrs. Smith exceeds her Ingathering goal of the previous year. In 1976 she raised $548.47.

If you are sick at home or in the hospital in the Inkster area, you will be sure to receive a visit from Mrs. Smith. Each day she seeks to do more for the Lord and is thankful for His blessings.

FROST CHURCH BEGINS 75TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The first in a series of events celebrating the 75th anniversary of the Frost Church was a special Sabbath service on October 29. Featured speaker of the day was Dr. C. Mervyn Maxwell of Andrews University.

Dr. Maxwell spoke about the disappointment of 1844 and the place God gave the Adventist church in reflecting the image of Jesus Christ to the world.

Dr. Maxwell said, "Those early Adventists did not first find the Sabbath because of creation, but they saw the Sabbath because of Jesus' ministry in the heavenly sanctuary." There they saw Jesus blotting out sin to prove that the law of God was important, and that He would give His people victory over sin in their lives, he said.

He appealed for Adventists to allow the Holy Spirit to enter their lives. For when this happens the latter rain will come to empower us to give the gospel in its fullness to those around us.

George Hallock, the oldest member of the Frost Church, is a brother to Sarah Hallock, a charter member of the church. George and his sisters, Agnes Williams and Lena Johnson, attended the services. George remembers going to school at the age of five in the present church building which at that time was the Frost Public School.

In the afternoon service Dr. Maxwell told of the beginning of Adventist work in Michigan. He began with Joseph Bates's visit to Dan Palmer in Jackson followed by the move of the Review and Herald to Battle Creek in 1855. Included in the story were the organization of the Michigan Conference and the General Conference.

The next in the series of celebrations will be an all-day songfest in the spring. The year will close on the anniversary date, August 5, 1978.

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

C.L.A. STUDENTS ATTEND ENERGY CONFERENCE

At the invitation of Michigan's Governor William Milliken, three students, Victor Thorrez, Ken Breyer and Jamie DeYoung, attended an energy seminar at the Lansing Civic Center on October 26.

The purpose of this seminar was to intensify the students' awareness of the national, and particularly Michigan's, energy crisis. It is hoped that through the delegation of students from schools throughout Michigan, student bodies might be motivated to adopt ways and means to conserve energy.

The theme stressed the "here and now" in all areas of usage. Each individual was urged to address himself to monitoring the usage of our fast-dwindling resources. It was sobering to know that our current rate of usage would exhaust our present resources within 25 years.

In his speech Governor Milliken pointed out that Americans, who represent five percent of the world's population, use 30 percent of the energy. While energy is being made available at an increase of three percent each year, we are consuming available resources at a climbing rate of four and one half percent.

The state of Michigan produces only five percent of its needs, making it necessary to import 95 percent at an understandably greater cost to the consumer.

November is Michigan Energy Conservation Month and students at Cedar Lake Academy were urged to cooperate.

DAILY V.O.P. BROADCASTS IN MARQUETTE

The Voice of Prophecy has announced that its daily broadcast is now being aired in the Marquette area.

The new outlet is part of a program to develop interests for the evangelistic campaign by Joseph Melashenko slated for September 1978.

According to the announcement the daily program can be heard each weekday evening at 6:45 over radio station WDMJ, 1320 on the AM dial.

All friends of the V.O.P. are asked to listen to the 15-minute broadcast and to invite their relatives and friends to do the same.

11,000 CARTONS OF CLOTHING FOR SAWS

Ten 45-foot vans were needed to transport the 11,000 cartons of used clothing collected during Michigan's annual fall clothing pickup. The almost 150 tons of clothing were trucked to the New York City Seventh-day Adventist Welfare Service (SAWS) warehouse where they will be kept until needed for some disaster in America or overseas. Escanaba was one of the pickup points where the conference van stopped. Shown above are Donald Rawls, left, a student at the local church school, assisting Richard McDonald, the van driver, load the 300 cartons from Escanaba. Other school children and their teacher, Robert Willis, also assisted. Approximately 12,000 articles of clothing were included in the Escanaba shipment.

MARIA, DAUGHTER OF SHADOW GUEST AT STEVENSVILLE CHURCH

The central figure in the book Maria, Daughter of Shadow, is to be the guest speaker at special services in the Stevensville Church, 6557 Stevensville-Baroda Road, December 9 and 10.

Maria, who is now employed by Andrews University, will tell of her years as a spiritualist medium and of the events leading up to her giving her life to Christ.

On Friday evening, December 9, at 7:30, she will present her story. On Sabbath at 3 P.M. she will answer questions about her experiences and former life.

The book was recently published by the Pacific Press Publishing Association and is available at the Adventist book centers in the conference.

RETREAT ATTRACTS 164 HOLLY AREA CAMPERS

Church retreats at Au Sable are for all ages. At the retreat for Holly area Adventists the oldest and youngest camper were photographed participating in a necessary camping activity. Warren Bigford, 85, enjoyed feeding Bille, the 2-month-old son of Mr. Bigford's grandniece and her husband, the William Petersons of Park Forest, Illinois. Mrs. Peterson is the former Pamela Vanas of Holly. Elder Charles J. Danforth of Munising was the guest speaker for Sabbath. In the afternoon Gomer Evans of Holly presented an enactment of "The Great Disappointment." The pastors and church members of the Holly, Fenton and Linden churches and their friends made up the group of 164 campers. Nearly every weekend during the fall, winter and spring months some local church or area group uses the Au Sable facilities for a retreat weekend.

TROY PATHFINDERS TAKE WEEKEND TRIP

A late October weekend trip to a Canadian sand dune area afforded many forms of activity for young people of Troy's Pathfinder Club. Jumping off dunes, hiking on the beach and searching for unusual rocks and nature items were among the interesting and instructive activities. Colin Rampton, assistant pastor of the Troy Church, preached a Sabbath sermon about Adventist pioneer William Miller. Richard McConnel is the Pathfinder director.

TRICK OR TREAT CANS FOR BASKETS

Each year at Halloween Pathfinder boys and girls don their uniforms and, armed with containers, trek through local neighborhoods in behalf of needy people. Many Thanksgiving food baskets were delivered because of the efforts of these active youth and their leaders.

A Benton Harbor man offered as much squash to the Harborlights Club of Benton Harbor as they would need for for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets. The offer came as a response to a Herald-Palladium newspaper article.

Ironwood pastor, Phil Hopkins, received an on-the-air phone call from Jerry Cadwell, program director at WJMS, to publicize the Pathfinder can collection.

The following verse was sent in by the Munising Pathfinder Club.

"Smiling faces, uniforms neat and trim,

Many busy hands filling boxes to the rim.

Candy in their pockets? Very little.
Soaping windows? Never!

Enthusiasm dampened by a drizzle?
Why it could rain forever,

As long as good folks on the block
Heap those baskets from their stock

To help some family who's in need,
When Pathfinders do their Halloween good deed."

JUST TREATS, NO TRICKS

"I don't understand! I've heard of trick or treating, but never just treating. What does that mean?"

New members of Pathfinder clubs in Wisconsin must have been asking themselves that question. As Halloween time approached the clubs met and explained to the members just what this "treating" meant. Instead of gathering all the usual "goodies" given out at Halloween, they were to collect canned goods.

"Collecting canned goods? Is that fun?" was the usual comment. Each member was assured that collecting canned goods would indeed be fun.

The Appleton Pathfinder Club had never done this project before. But in the Pathfinder spirit they went out and in one hour's time collected more than 200 cans. The Pathfinders were particularly impressed with the generosity of the people they visited.

"Bigger and better" is the motto for next year's plans.

The Madison Club collected more than 450 cans. A pizza party was held after the can collecting took place, and a highlight of the evening was a pumpkin carving contest.

More than 100 cans were collected by the Milwaukee Northwest Club. After their project was completed a party was held in the school lunchroom. Eric Freeman won a prize for carving the best jack-o'-lantern.

The Raymond Pathfinders collected 75 cans to make baskets. The members said they enjoyed themselves very much.

Fifteen enthusiastic Stevens Point Pointers and their counselors collected 150 cans in two hours. One home gave one dozen items.

Two earliteens met a couple who wished to know more about the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Their names have been referred to the Stevens Point pastor. The Stevens Point Daily Journal carried an invitation for the community to participate in this worthwhile project. Some neighbors sent food to the Pathfinders after reading the newspaper story.

The Pathfinders in Waukesha distributed "Treat Instead of Tricks" pamphlets the day before they did their can collecting. The next day they collected 280 cans, dry goods and money donations. Everyone enjoyed a party afterward. The Pathfinder club distributed Thanksgiving baskets to needy families in the area.

Wisconsin Pathfinders are not only having fun for themselves, but they are also finding happiness in helping others.

Lake Union Conference

A.S.I. FELLOWSHIP

Fred Boothby of Kalamazoo, Michigan, was elected to a two-year term as president of the Lake Union Chapter of the Association of Privately Owned Seventh-day Adventist Services and Industries (A.S.I.) at their fall fellowship, November 18 and 19.

The members also voted to increase the number of individuals on the board of directors by two, and elected a full slate of officers at the weekend meeting held in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Guest speaker for the weekend was Dr. Cedric Ward of Andrews University's history department who reviewed the history of six of the Reformers and their contribution to the Protestant cause and theology.

He appealed to each member of the A.S.I. to have the same dedication as the Reformers had to the cause of truth.

The Lake Union Chapter of the A.S.I., organized in 1973, is one of three in the North American Division.

According to Don Copey, executive secretary of the Lake Union chapter, there are 450 national members of the A.S.I. and they are "working to increase their membership to 1,500 before the end of 1978."

John Freeman of Berrien Springs is the national vice president for the association.

Martin Fishell of Berrien Springs was elected to the newly created post of vice president for promotion for the Lake Union chapter to spearhead the membership drive. Other Lake Union chapter officers are Ray Roberts of Berrien Springs, vice president, and Elsie Butherus of Evansville, Indiana, treasurer.

Elected to the board for the first time was Melvin Brass of Fountain City, Wisconsin.

"Any person who is an Adventist Church member and offers a service or operates an industry qualifies for membership," said Elder Copey. For more information, contact Don Copey, Lake Union Conference, Box C, Berrien Springs, MI 49103.

A spring fellowship is schedule by the Lake Union chapter for the weekend of April 22, 1978.

World Church News

FAITH FOR TODAY BIBLE SCHOOL RESULTS

"Where would we get names of interested people without those generated by our church's radio and TV ministries?"

These words were spoken by a pastor who has had a very fruitful ministry. By following up radio and telecast interest names, he has discovered that our church media programs provide excellent assistance in local witnessing. Faith for Today is pleased to have a part in these evangelistic efforts.

Faith for Today's Bible School, directed by Virginia Fagal, offers 11 different Bible correspondence courses appealing to a variety of age groups and interests. Mrs. Fagal reports the following figures for the first nine months of this year in North America: applications, 77,153; enrollments, 15,007; lessons graded, 192,140; active students, 16,665; graduates, 4,718; nonmember graduates, 3,381; interest reports sent, 2,844; interests reports returned, 1,119, and baptisms, 573.

Unfortunately an average of 65 percent of the names supplied by our radio and television ministries are not followed up by the local churches. Faith for Today requests that our members not only do their part, but encourage entire church participation in this matter.

A specialist in gerontology has joined the department of health administration in the Loma Linda University School of Health. Isao Horinouchi, Ph.D., associate professor of gerontology, comes to Loma Linda from the School of Public Health of the University of Hawaii at Manoa, where he was involved with the gerontology program of the department of community health development.

In addition to teaching, Dr. Horinouchi will be developing a gerontology program for the school.

Gerontology—the scientific study of the process of aging and of the problems of aged people—is an area that has been largely ignored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Dr. Horionouchi says. He feels that with people living longer, this is a subject to which the church must give consideration.

Dr. Horinouchi believes that the church needs to confirm and support its unique health message by having a gerontology center where research can be done with elderly Adventist church members.

He stresses that the whole theme of gerontology should be preventive health care for the elderly. "We should have not only the idea of dealing with the elderly," he explains, "but also of educating younger people to live a temperate life."
