Hang in There

F. A. Williams, Director Communication and Youth Departments Lake Region Conference Colloquialisms can be found across our land. Some of them are familiar only to the locale in which they are spoken, others can be equally understood wherever they are heard. There is nothing wrong with many colloquialisms; they make our language colorful and bring home the point we want to emphasize.

One such colloquialism each of us as Christians should adopt is "hang in there." Matthew 24:13 tells us to do just that. It says, "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

There are times when our church leaders, in a moment of despondency, must whisper, "Hang in there." When their motives are misinterpreted and their words are purposely miscomprehended, and it appears that everything they do is scrutinized to disclose deceptive overtures, they need to shout to themselves, "Hang in there!"

Parents need to hang in there, too. On every side there are attractions to draw the minds of our youth away from Christ. The reasons we gave yesterday for going to various places are being challenged today.

Your counsel on proper recreation and deportment is further muddled by the counsel given by the parents of your children's friends who view their standards of recreation and deportment differently from yours.

Without becoming exasperated, ask your children to apply to all things the test John Wesley received from his mother to guide him in his pleasures. "Would you judge in the lawfulness or unlawfulness of pleasure, take this rule: Whatever weakens your reason, impairs the tenderness of your conscience, obscures your sense of God, or takes the relish from spiritual things; whatever increases the authority of your body over your mind—that, to you, is sin."

When this advice is strongly adhered to, you and your children can "hang in there."

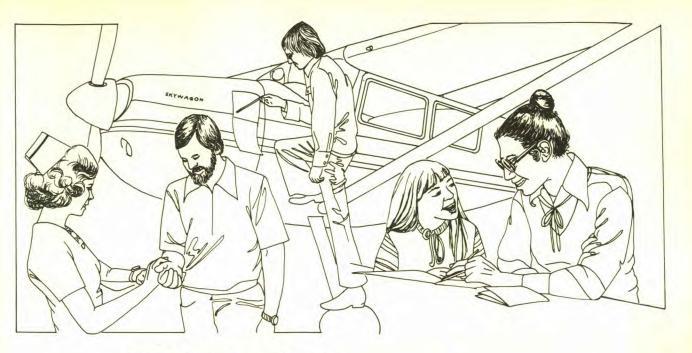

To hang in there means to keep your relationship with God strong. It means to keep the flow of communication open between you and God, and not to let anything or anyone drive you to the decision of giving up and turning your back on God. For this is Satan's plan.

An adamant decision must be made to hang in there long before an experience comes to test your faithfulness. As in all things, conditions must be met in order to reap strong resolution:

- 1. Make God your friend: Surrender all to him and trust him, for he is able to keep you from falling.
- Pray much for yourself and others. No man lives unto himself. "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."
 James 5:16.
- 3. Search the scriptures. (John 5:39.) T. W. Medhurst in the book The Fundamentals said, "The Bible, the whole Bible, nothing but the Bible, is the standard and the rule of Christianity. To know its meaning for ourselves, to rely on its promises, to trust in its redeemer, to obey Him from delight of love and to refuse to follow any other teaching, is Christianity itself."

Drink deeply from the Bible and you will long for it, as the hart panteth after the water brook. Drink deeply, and you will seek for it as the desert traveler seeks the cooling spring. Drink deeply, and you will find a panacea for all your needs.

When you are on good terms with our Saviour each day, you can "hang in there" come what may.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

The Lamplighters

by Rita Waterman illustration by Nadine Dower

At the heart of any institution are its young people—like the 26 Andrews University students leaving school this spring bound for a new home, foreign culture and a totally different life.

They are student missionaries. But that doesn't make them different. More than likely they are very similar to other college-age youth in churches throughout the Lake Union Conference.

But they feel that while they are not completely finished with their education, God has a special place for them this coming year.

That place may be anywhere, doing just about anything: a physical education teacher in Puerto Rico, a nurse in Zaire, a language instructor in Korea, a Bible worker in Guam.

The list could go on—and does. These young people want to represent their church. Their hearts are in their work

For Glenda Coffin and Gordon Hayward that phrase has a very literal interpretation. They are engaged, and had plans for a March 1979 wedding.

But that was before Glenda and Gordon heard of an SOS in Indonesia. Three language schools there were going to have to close if they couldn't find teachers to staff them.

Prayerfully, Glenda and Gordon discussed the possibility of accepting the call while counseling with parents and friends.

"We both felt we wanted to go as student missionaries and were interested in this call," says Gordon. The more the couple thought about it, the more they felt the Lord was leading them to accept it.

On August 20 Glenda and Gordon will be married. By Labor Day they will be on their way to Ambon, East Indonesia. After their year of service there, they plan to return to Andrews where Gordon will complete a mass media degree and Glenda will finish a nursing degree.

When Gordon and Glenda and their fellow student missionaries return to Andrews, they will also work with the campus ministries office to promote the student missionary program.

They will visit churches in the Lake Union to relate their experiences. They will screen applicants for student missionary positions and serve as advisors and friends to students anticipating their year abroad.

Those going out as student missionaries are required to take a course entitled "Preparation for Mission Service."

"Introduction to Teaching English as a Foreign Language" is also required for those accepting a call in that capacity.

During the alumni weekend student missionaries are dedicated for service in the traditional lamp-lighting ceremony. Each one lights a lamp from a single flame and takes that flame out to meet the needs of his fellowmen.

It is that spirit of dedication that these young people, the heart of the Lake Union, take with them around the world.

Rita Waterman graduated from Andrews University on June 4 with a Bachelor of Arts in communication, and she is now employed in the public relations department at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois.

Reaping Time in Africa

by P. A. Parks

The Trans-Africa Division is one of the divisions serving the large and interesting continent of Africa. Its territory stretches from Capetown at the very tip of the continent to northern Zaire in the heart of Africa.

Great and challenging changes have been taking place in nearly all the countries that make up this division. One change is the swing from rural living to city life.

In the large cities in most of the countries there are not enough housing and shopping facilities to accommodate the growing population.

The younger, educated African sees little future in his rural village, so he goes to the city where employment opportunities are greater, and where money seems to come more easily.

This mass exodus of people from the quiet, rural life to the busy, city life presents a new challenge to the church in Africa. The church in many instances has been slow in establishing centers and places of worship in these large cities.

One of the greatest needs in the division at the present time is an evangelistic center in the city of Kinshasa, capital of the vast country of Zaire. Kinshasa is reported to be the second-largest French-speaking city in all the world. Its population is nearly 2½ million.

The 13th Sabbath Offering will be taken on June 24 and will be used to build an evangelistic center, a light for Christ and His truth in Kinshasa.

The people of Zaire are receptive to the special message this church has to bring at this time. The harvest is ready! Your help is needed.

We look to the world Sabbath School, to fellow members in the four corners of the earth, to unite with us in giving one great offering on the last Sabbath of this second quarter. Help us reap the harvest that is waiting in Kinshasa!

Thomas Welsman, an accounting major from Berrien Springs, Michigan, received a scholarship from the Association of Adventist Certified Public Accountants.

'COACH KALUA' NAMED TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Robert Kalua

Robert Kalua, assistant professor of physical education, was named Andrews University's Teacher of the Year, and more than $9,000 was a warded to students on May 25 at the university's annual awards assembly program.

A native of Hawaii, Mr. Kalua taught at Andrews from 1968 to 1974 and returned to the faculty in 1976. He is a graduate of Pacific Union College and received a master's degree from the University of Oregon.

Mr. Kalua is know affectionately on campus as "Coach Kalua" because of his work with the university's well-known gymnastic and Christian witnessing team, the Gymnics.

Mr. Kalua was the originator of the Gymnics and has sponsored their activities for several years, booking performances for them in many parts of the United States, Canada and Europe.

Andrews students are given an opportunity to vote for Teacher of the Year, and the winner is presented an award of $100.

Among the students receiving scholarships was Leonard Taylor, a junior music performance major, who was given the Presser Foundation Scholarship of $1,000. Smaller scholarship awards were given to 37 other students.

Many of the scholarships presented each year at Andrews are established by individuals as gifts to the university, and are presented as named scholarships. Others are awarded by the university's academic departments and outside organizations such as corporations.

SEMINARY STUDENTS HONORED

Larry Mitchel and Myron Widmer, students at Andrews' Theological Seminary, have been selected for inclusion in the 1978 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America."

Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Widmer are being honored for their outstanding civic and professional contributions to their communities, their states and their nation, according to Doug Blankenship, chairman of the organization's board of advisors.

SEMINARY PROFESSOR WRITES BOOK FOR LAYMEN

The chairman of the department of church and ministry at Andrews' Theological Seminary has recently written a lay leader's guide for sermon preparation.

So You're Not a Preacher, published by the Review and Herald Publishing Association, was written by Dr. Steven Vitrano, professor of preaching, who earned his doctorate in religious communication.

The 64-page paperback is dedicated to a "special type of preacher"—the lay leader who is occasionally called on to "take the service," and may need help with anything from the presentation of his idea to proper platform etiquette.

In addition to writing the book and conducting classes in the seminary, Dr. Vitrano held a seminar on lay preaching on March 17 and 18 for the Merrill and Wausau, Wisconsin, churches.

ARCHITECTS VISIT ANDREWS STUDENTS

John D. Latimer and Tom Lawson of John D. Latimer and Associates architectural firm visited Andrews University recently to examine projects by Andrews architectural students, reviewing models and drawings and participating in class discussions.

Mr. Latimer, who practices in Durham, North Carolina, delivered a lecture on licensing of architects and will serve on an advisory committee for Andrews' architecture program when it is formed.

Mr. Lawson, a key designer for the firm and head of the Taunton, Massachusetts, office, presented his approach to designing large buildings such as high schools.

The Latimer firm is a member of the American Institute of Architects.

PSYCHOLOGY HONOR SOCIETY ORGANIZED

A chapter of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology, has been established at Andrews University, according to Dr. Dick Proctor, chapter sponsor.

Psi Chi, now the seventh honor society on Andrews' campus, was officially organized following the acceptance of the behavioral sciences department's application to begin a chapter.

Schools must be approved for membership by the national organization of Psi Chi headquartered in Washington, D.C.

In addition, students must have completed 12 credits of psychology and have a 3.5 grade point average in psychology courses.

The purpose of the society, says Dr. Proctor, is to stimulate and maintain scholarship in psychology.

Activities of Psi Chi include attending conventions concerned with psychology, individual research, social events and other programs to encourage greater interest in and knowledge of human behavior, said Dr. Proctor.

Dr. Proctor is assistant professor of psychology at Andrews.

New officers of the Andrews chapter are Sharon Mannesmann, president; Mark Ringwelski, vice president; Enid Chambers, secretary, and John Beard, treasurer.

Other members are Gary Burlingame, Ivan Carcelen, Vivian Davidovich, Ketsia Dorce, Lucinda Galusha, Darlene Hamann, Janet Kenyon, Marilyn Mahabee, Alane Samarza, Lecia Strunk, Glenn Thede, Larry Washington and Cherie Yarosh.

VICTORY THROUGH TRAGEDY

The Alton Church members rejoiced February 11 with the baptism of three people at their church.

George and Lucille Barker of East Alton are the parents of the late Bob Barker from the Austin Church in Chicago.

Mr. Barker confided recently, "I really became interested in the Seventh-day Adventist faith when half of the Austin Church drove all the way to Alton at the sudden death of my son. I've never seen love and concern like that."

George and Lucille Barker and Ed Kunitz recently joined the Alton Church.

After Bible studies with Pastor Philip Colburn, several visits from local church members, and willing transportation to church provided by Wilford and Roberta Liley, the Barkers asked one day, "How can we become Seventh-day Adventists?"

That question wasn't difficult to answer, and it was a joy to see this fine couple accept Christ as their personal Saviour.

Edward Kunitz, a teacher in the St. Louis public school system for the past 10 years and a Roman Catholic all his life, walked into the Alton Church last November in search of an answer to a haunting question that troubled him because of a crisis in his home.

After the Sabbath School class discussed the anti-Christ and the Catholic system, the Holy Spirit had to work overtime to persuade him to remain and ask his question.

Why did he come to the Adventist pastor instead of going to his priest? Because his wife had an Adventist background and he wanted to know "What makes Adventists tick?"

Mr. Kunitz recalls, "I had no intentions of ever becoming a Seventh-day Adventist. I can't believe what has happened to me."

He praises God daily for the personal relationship with Christ that he has found and for "the warmth and true happiness of Seventh-day Adventist families."

His wife has just recently made the decision to reunite her life with the Adventist Church.

The Alton Church gladly welcomes these vivacious Christians who found victory in Christ through tragedy.

 Pastor George Terrian of the Bloomington district recently dedicated five babies in the Martinsville Church. They were Angela Huffman, Matthew and Marty Hudson, Shawn Kight and Jackie Clephane.

CICERO EIGHTH-GRADERS VISIT WASHINGTON, D.C.

The residents of Washington, D.C. had been praying for rain for several weeks and the eighth-grade class from the Cicero Elementary School arrived there when the prayer was being answered.

Wednesday morning dawned dreary and rainy and the next three days continued that way—delivering the city from the drought and dampening the eighth-graders at every turn until the victims resorted to donning plastic trash bags to shed the water.

Many amused smiles and comments were directed at the group of 19 students and 4 adults as they stood in line to visit the White House, the Washington Monument and other points of interest.

Their first appointment was a meeting with Indiana Senator Birch Bayh for pictures and a tour through the capitol building and the senate chamber. Then they visited the F.B.I. building.

Visiting the General Conference headquarters and going through the White Estate broadened the appreciation of the group for the marvelous work that the church is doing. The students had a delicious meal in the General Conference cafeteria and enjoyed the view from its 10th floor location.

They lodged in rooms at Columbia Union College and attended Sabbath services at Sligo Church.

Returning home on Sunday, May 7, the tired but happy and better-informed class once more appreciated the warmth of home and family.

KOKOMO WELCOMES FOUR NEW MEMBERS

Four new members were recently baptized and joined the Kokomo Church.

In the spring of 1976 Wesley and Ruth Hoogerhyde became members of the Kokomo Church soon after the Voice of Life Crusade conducted in Kokomo by Evangelist Charles Buursma.

Since that time the Hoogerhydes' son, Glen, 16, has been studying with Pastor William Hawkes. Recently when a call was made, Glen responded.

To the complete surprise of everyone, including Mr. and Mrs. Hoogerhyde and the pastor, Kathy Lynn accompanied her brother to the altar.

Kathy, 14, had been listening over her brother's shoulder during the recent months while Pastor Hawkes and Glen had been studying. Kathy had made the big decision to give her life to Jesus on her own.

At the same baptismal service Shirley MacKay, a long-time Adventist who recently moved to Kokomo, renewed her acceptance of Christ as her Saviour by being rebaptized.

The fourth person to be baptized was Sidney Ashe Jr., 17, a junior at Indiana Academy. Sidney had been studying with Pastor Hawkes before attending academy this year. He made the choice on his own, surprising both the pastor and his mother.

Previously a public school student, Sidney contends that the turning point in his life came this year, his first at a Seventh-day Adventist school.

Glen, Kathy Lynn, Shirley and Sidney were baptized in the Kokomo Church by Pastor William Hawkes on March 25, 1978.

- Something new has been added to the prayer meeting program of the Marshall Church. A separate meeting and story hour is being conducted for the children on an experimental basis.
- One of the latest cooking schools to receive good newspaper coverage was recently conducted at the Alpena Church School. The local Alpena News featured the school in a long article accompanied by a picture and several vegetarian recipes.
- The Adrian Church is currently involved in a tract distribution program to reach the homes of 20,000 people in their area. On June 24 a literature evangelist rally will be held in the church, and part of the program of these church workers will be to visit homes to obtain names for possible Bible studies. This is all part of the ongoing program of the local church's growth committee.

- The Coloma Church sponsored two three-hour classes in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, May 18 and 25. These were for the benefit of church members as well as friends in the community.
- Members of the Pathfinder club of the Hillsdale Church have been making baby blankets for the use of their local community services center.
- Thirteen Bible studies are currently being conducted in the Hartford and Covert churches where four members are assisting Pastor Ralph Darrough. One of these members is an 82-year-old woman. Another group are visiting members who no longer attend the church or who have been dropped from church membership. As a result of this project, Pastor Darrough reports, one woman has already been rebaptized.
- The Bellevue Church had a unique opportunity to witness recently when it hosted the area "People Helping People" program. The meeting was held in the church, a vegetarian dinner was served and Wayne Griffith, Dr.H.Sc., head of the preventive care department at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital, talked bout the advantages of a vegetarian diet.
- Eugene Hildebrand, M.D., of Munising assisted Elder Kenneth Williams of the Marquette Church in conducting a Five-Day Plan at Northern Michigan University. Although the clinic was held primarily for students who had requested help to overcome their smoking habits, local residents also attended. It was the second workshop held in Marquette in the past six months by this doctor-pastor team.
- A recently concluded cooking school at Marshall had the "largest attendance" ever of any similar program of the local church. According to a report from those involved with the school, there was an "overwhelming response" to the advertising with more than 90 people registered. Such reports are typical of the increased interest which was shown this past spring by the general public in the numerous schools held by churches throughout the state.

- A recent report from the conference publishing department revealed that 11 literature evangelists have reported baptisms which were the result, in part, of their personal work. Ben Lewis of Berrien Springs reported six; Dale Hughes of Paris, three; Rick Howard of Wilson, Abdul Massey of Berrien Springs and Jim Lefler all reported two. Those who reported one baptism were Ron Silvernail of Flint, Monte DeGrave of Wilson, Pat Bruce of Holly, Ingrid Kincaid of Jeddo, and Nina and Jesse Hall of Mio.
- Regular health education programs are part of the integral program of Jackson's Community Services Center. In April a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was held and was followed by first-aid classes conducted on eight monday evenings. Other programs included four lecture-demonstrations on cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and in late May classes in the techniques of taking pulse, blood pressure and respiration. The center was also used recently for a local Red Cross blood drive.
- Twenty-seven red-pine trees were planted on the property of the Big Rapids Church School by the students as part of their observance of Arbor Day. Each student dug a hole and planted and watered "his own tree" which Jim Shores, a member of the school board, helped provide.

- Pastor Joseph Story of Iron Mountain has been asked to serve as the vice president of his local ministerial association.
- In a recent publication of the Michigan Health Council of East Lansing, a nonprofit state medical recruitment organizaion, it was pointed out that Michigan loses more than half of its young people who go west for their medical training. It was also noted that for every new medical doctor coming to Michigan from the west or southwest, eight or nine of the Michigan graduates have been going west or southwest. The article also pointed out one item which should be of special interest to Adventists. "More than half of the young California graduates currently in Michigan are graduates of Loma Linda Medical School and many Loma Linda medical and dental school graduates who are completing their residency programs in family medicine are coming to Michigan."

- A two-piano benefit recital was presented recently in Three Oaks. Part of the proceeds will be given to the organ fund of the Chikaming Church. Artists for the concert were Donald Smith of Three Oaks and Jacqueline Collins of Bridgman. Both musicians are graduates of Andrews University.

He fills the vacancy created earlier this year by the death of Elder Watson Buckman who held this position for 17 years.

It is perhaps fitting that the conference committee selected someone with Elder Covell's background, because he entered the ministry through extensive personal involvement in Christian witnessing.

Elder Covell and his wife, Mary, were both raised in New Jersey. While working at a steel plant he became active in church work and served as a local church elder for 12 years.

Because of his success in laymen's activities he was asked in August 1959 to serve as a part-time assistant pastor of the Trenton Church. A year and a half later he was given full responsibility for his own church in nearby Burlington.

Elder Covell continued to serve the New Jersey Conference until March 1963 when he was called to Michigan to pastor the Coldwater-Quincy Church.

He was ordained in August 1954, and since then has served the churches at Jackson, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, and for the past year, Lansing.

Elder Covell has also taken extension courses in religion since he began serving churches on a full-time basis.

The Better Living Seminars of the Detroit area held a vegetarian-cooking school in Sterling Heights, April 4, 6, 11 and 13. There were 250 people in attendance, and each one had the privilege of actively participating in the preparation of food.

Dr. Arthur Weaver; his wife, Natalie;

John Swanson, M.P.H., and his wife, Sheryl, organized the program.

The history of vegetarianism and a balanced diet, adequacy of protein and meal planning, and facts and fallacies about fats were a few of the topics presented.

"It was just terrific."

"I never knew vegetarians ate like this."

"I'll be back for your next seminar."

These were just a few of the comments voiced by the participants, according to Mr. Swanson, program coordinator.

DR. RUNNING HONORED BY ADELPHIAN ALUMNI

Dr. Leona Glidden Running, professor of biblical languages at Andrews University's Theological Seminary, was honored as Alumna of the Year by the Adelphian Academy Alumni Association.

On homecoming day a commemorative plaque was presented to Dr. Running by association president Harold Lutz, '41, of Holly, in honor of her "contributions to various phases of denominational work, and especially for the years devoted to Christian education."

Graduating with Adelphian's class of 1933, Dr. Running received a B.A. degree from Emmanuel Missionary College in 1937, an M.A. from the Adventist Theological Seminary in 1955 and a doctorate in Semitic languages from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland.

Dr. Running began her teaching career at Laurelwood Academy, Gaston, Oregon. She has served with the foreign language division of the Voice of Prophecy and as editorial secretary with the ministerial association of the General Conference.

Dr. Running began teaching at the seminary in 1955 when it was in Washington, D.C., and moved with it to Berrien Springs in 1960.

Approximately 750 people attended the homecoming day worship service with Elder J. D. Westfall, '48, speaking on "The Ultimate Homecoming." He is pastor of the Eau Claire and Coloma churches.

One-third of the silver anniversary class of 1953 attended as did four members of the golden anniversary class of 1928; one person flew in from California.

Also present were Elder and Mrs. V.

E. Garber of Berrien Springs. Elder Garber is a former principal of the academy and was sponsor of the class of 1953.

The oldest alumnus present was Hugh Foster, '18. He lives in Mason and attends the Holt Church. A letter was read from Helen Medford Graham, '18, who at the age of 83 is still teaching school in Indiana.

Members of the alumni association and former staff members presented the Sabbath School program and evening vespers, closing with a vesper thought by Stuart Harrison, '60, pastor of the Detroit Oakwood Church in Allen Park.

According to the new alumni president, Jim Owen, '72, of Detroit, a camp meeting get-together in the youth pavilion is being planned. Watch for further information about it.

The 75-voice combined choirs of Delta United Presbyterian Church, the Lansing Seventh-day Adventist Church and Grand Ledge Academy, directed by Carol Hearn, and Martin Sotala of the academy staff, presented Gaul's oratorio, "The Holy City," at the May 20, Sabbath morning service at Lansing, and Sunday for the Presbyterian congregation which holds its services in the Adventist church.

LOCAL NEWSPAPER FEATURES PRESBYTERIANS' USE OF S.D.A. CHURCH

The renting of the Lansing Adventist Church for the past four years to a local Presbyterian group was reported recently in a positive manner by the religion editor of the Lansing State Journal.

The writer pointed out how the Adventist worship of "Sabbath on Saturday" makes this arrangement possible. He added that "the Presbyterians also have the use of the building on Thursday evenings for choir practice, meetings of the Women's Association and other groups."

Carol Hearn, a member of the Adventist church, is choir director for both churches, and her son, Jeff, sings in both choirs. The Presbyterians use the Adventist hymn books and for a time they used the Adventists' choir robes.

On occasion the choirs of the two churches have combined for special selections, and some of the Adventists have joined the Presbyterians for such events as Christmas Eve services.

Each week there is a floral arrangement on the altar and the congregations have taken turns in providing it.

The article also noted that "the Presbyterians respect the Adventists' request that there be no smoking in the building," and that they have assisted in the Adventists' "very active program of community service," as well as making contributions to the annual Ingathering program.

WOODHAMS CHAIRS NON-SMOKERS COMMITTEE IN SAGINAW

Wilbur Woodhams, pastor of the Saginaw Church, is assisting in the area's fight for the rights of non-smokers.

Elder Woodhams is currently chairman of the county's "Rights of the Non-Smoker" Committee and in a news story during Michigan's recent Non-Smokers Week (May 7 to 13) he urged area citizens and committee members to use special cards in their campaign.

These "reaction cards" have been prepared by the Michigan Lung Association for presentation to the managements of restaurants and food stores. They can be presented to express appreciation or disapproval of the way non-smoking privileges are handled.

The message expressing thanks to a restaurant reads, "I am pleased that you provide an adequate dining area for non-smokers."

For food stores not following the state's recommendations about non-smoking the card reads, "I'm disappointed, your food store is not encouraging smokers to refrain from smoking."

Two other statements are also available, according to the situation.

Elder Woodhams is encouraging all concerned individuals to use these cards on a regular basis.

COOKING SCHOOLS SUCCESSFUL IN GREEN BAY

Steven and Debbie Lankford recently completed a second series of four weekly classes on nutrition and vegetarian cooking in the Green Bay Church School.

Approximately 60 people attended, most of whom were non-Adventists.

A few parents attended the cooking class because of a contact made through a class held monthly at the church for the parents of hyperactive children. They were happy to learn about healthy substitutes for foods which their children can not eat.

Each class consisted of a filmstrip on nutrition from Loma Linda University, lectures on diet and health, demonstrations on the art of vegetarian cookery and a complete buffet luncheon with two vegetarian entrees, whole grain breads, salads, sugar-free desserts and healthful beverages.

The buffet is always the highlight of the classes. People are much more inclined to use new health recipes for their families if they have tasted and enjoyed the foods themselves. They discover that vegetarian foods are not only healthful, but also delicious.

All foods were prepared without eggs or dairy products as well as without meat. This was especially interesting to people who are on restricted diets such as low cholesterol, or who are allergic to milk.

Each person who attended received four or five recipe sheets every night and also a Life and Health magazine featuring vegetarianism. Mr. Lankford intends to make a table display of small religious books at future cooking classes.

Sampling was the part of the cooking class that everyone enjoyed the most.

Because of the popularity of the cooking classes, the number of people registering for each series of classes must be limited. The Lankfords are planning to hold classes every spring and fall as long as interest continues.

NORA SAUBY IS 87

Nora Sauby observed her 87th birthday on April 8. She and her twin brother were born on a farm in Winchester, Wisconsin, in 1891. She graduated from the Winneconne Agriculture School—the other nine graduates were boys. In 1912 she married Julius Sauby.

All of her life Mrs. Sauby has devoted time to helping others. For the past 20 years she has lived in Neenah, Wisconsin, and has cared for elderly people in the area.

Ask friends about Mrs. Sauby and they immediately tell of the beautiful handwork she enjoys doing.

She has been late to Sabbath School only once in 30 years.

At 87 Mrs. Sauby still has a sparkle in her eyes. Her mother, who took her first plane ride at the age of 100, instilled in Mrs. Sauby a real joy for life.

59 PEOPLE LEARN VEGETARIAN COOKERY

The Milwaukee Central Church members utilized their talents and conducted a cooking school recently.

Participants learned to prepare simple and healthful breakfasts, meatless proteins, sugarless desserts and breads. Fifty-nine people attended; 49 were nonmembers.

Coordinator and demonstrator for the classes was Linda Welle. Also participating as demonstrators were Ginger Ellison and Judy Thomsen. Janet Schmehl was hostess.

Each class had a special guest speaker. A movie was shown and door prizes were awarded at the conclusion of each session. A tour of the Milwaukee Central Church, a building unique for its architecture and history, was planned for the last session.

Local advertising for the classes was excellent and several local health-food stores donated door prizes.

WINNERS ALL

One of the classes in the Eau Claire School is very special. There are five students in this particular room and all five have been winners in recent contests.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Safety Poster contest was won by Connie Larson, seventh grade, first place; Steve Goss, seventh grade, second place, and Angie Voss, sixth grade, third place.

A first place in the WCTU poster contest was won by Steve Goss, and a first place award in another category was won by David Tompson, sixth grade.

George Wade, the teacher, said: "This surprised all of us. We didn't realize that we had so much artistic talent in our school. The students recognize that the idea or content of a poster is as important as the artistic skill involved."

Steve Goss has been in five poster contests and has placed first, second or third each time.

Connie Larson's poster has been entered in the state V.F.W. contest.

The posters are made during art class. Mary Merickel of Chippewa Falls provided classroom instruction during the school year.

The Raymond Pathfinders slept here.

A CHILLY HONOR

In order to earn an honor in winter camping, the Raymond Pathfinder Club spent seven days this winter camping in the woods. They had to camp out for five of the seven nights in subfreezing weather.

They started out with 12 members, one deputy director and one counselor. They slept in tents and cooked most of their meals over an open fire.

Sometimes the temperature got down to subzero, with a windchill factor of 40 degrees below.

Two snowstorms which left 12 inches of snow, and a rainstorm which left an inch of rain made the adventure complete!

On the last day, four Pathfinders—David Muhlenbeck, Mark Towne, Sharon Hoffman and Kris Hayes—and deputy director Dave Rowe and counselor Kathy Hathaway had completed the chilly ordeal.

Each of the participants had studied intensively before undertaking this adventure.

THEY ARE STILL COUNTING ON YOU

"I would like to thank you for your faithfulness in sending our various church publications. It has been such a precious moment going to mail call knowing you will be there."—Soldier in Germany.

"I'm one of the young Seventh-day Adventist servicemen to whom you have so graciously been sending your publications. I just want to let you know how much I appreciate your thoughtfulness. I'm the only Adventist on my ship and it's always nice to hear what's going on around the various conferences. I think what you're doing for us is just grand."—U.S. Navy.

"Being in the service sometimes I feel alone and far away, but I thank God for a group of people who care about the G.I.'s."—U.S. Air Force.

"It seems that when I've had a problem in my Christian experience an article in either the Review or Insight is there to give me encouragement. I am thankful to you because you have not forgotten the servicemen and women of the church."—Specialist 5th Class, U.S. Army.

The letters keep coming in. Church papers are much appreciated by church members in military service, and they are greatly needed.

But someone says, "It's been six years since Vietnam, and the draft stopped in late 1972. You mean we still have church members in military service?" Right! Here are the facts.

As a result of unemployment problems, the attractive finances offered, the career and training opportunities promised, and other incentives outlined, the enlistment rate has kept up. In fact today we have almost as many Seventh-day

Adventists in uniform as we did during Vietnam days.

This may come as a surprise to some, but we must be realistic. The need is still there. Actually it has an added dimension with the increased number of women now in the service.

Furthermore as a result of active evangelism many conversions are taking place in the various branches of service.

As a church what are we doing for these members in uniform—most of them young and many of them newly baptized? Let's not forget them.

What they need are church papers, books, letters, and above all personal attention and prayers. The church is trying to provide these. Those people on active duty with the U.S. Armed Forces who ask for them will receive the following periodicals: Adventist Review, Insight, Signs of the Times, Message and Listen.

They may also request the Sabbath School lesson quarterly, the missionary book of the year, and the daily devotional book, as well as the newsletter For God and Country.

They are provided with missionary literature to be used for witnessing. The Adventist miliary chaplains, of which there are now 18, and the five V.A. and civilian chaplains are provided with literature for their work.

Where do the funds come from to pay for all this? Every other year an offering is taken across the United States. In 1976 this offering amounted to more than $110,000 and every dollar is needed. More than $60 per serviceman is required to provide supplies for a two-year period.

This is where you can personally be involved. Our men and women in service need your support. Sabbath, June 17, 1978, is your opportunity. Give generously.

RADIO EVANGELISM FOR MINISTERS

Imagine your church giving 3,000 Bible studies a day!

It's possible. Some churches are doing it. Sixty-second radio spots are the way. They work for Coca Cola and General Motors. They could work for your church, too.

Radio spots could make your church heard—every single day—by lots of people. The same people you will contact at Ingathering time. The same people you will invite to Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking, and cooking seminars and evangelistic meetings.

Do you want to see doors swing open in your town? And prejudice diminish? And lay wintessing flourish?

Do you want to do more than imagine?

Then encourage your pastor to attend the Radio Evangelism for Ministers Workshop, June 25 to 30 at Andrews University. It's a practical mini-course in local church evangelism strategy, using radio as an important means of sowing seed.

Your pastor will come back fully prepared with scripts, and tapes and know-how. He'll know how to contact radio stations for free time, how to save time by producing quality programs, how to integrate a radio program series into your church's evangelistic program for maximum results.

Write today to Andrews University Special Courses Office, Administration Building, Room 112, Berrien Springs, MI 49104, or call (616) 471-3286. The course director is Dr. James D. Chase, assistant professor of communication.

DIAL-A-BIBLE-STORY FOR CHILDREN

A Minneapolis congregation has launched a "Dial-a-Story" program to allow children to hear Bible stories over the telephone. By calling an advertised number, children can hear a prerecorded Bible story which lasts three minutes or less. A different Bible story is recorded each week by volunteers from the project's sponsor, Messiah United Methodist Church.
