Just Like the Olden Days

COVER

"Who hath divided a watercourse for the overflowing of waters, or a way for the lightning of thunder;

"To cause it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderness, wherein there is no man;

"To satisfy the desolate and waste ground; and to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth?" Job 38: 25-27.

On Friday evening, July 28, Dr. Grady Smoot, Andrews University president; Dr. Steven Vitrano, director of field education and professor of preaching at the Theological Seminary; Mrs. Bock, and I made a special trip to Huntington, Indiana.

This typical midwestern town has a very small congregation of faithful members. For two months, three seminarians and their wives—David and Barbara Slee, Jim and Rita Stevens, and David and Ruth Phillips—have been visiting in the homes, and in recent weeks have been conducting a full-scale evangelistic campaign. Since this was to be the final weekend, we were eager to witness their efforts.

When we arrived nearly every seat had been taken. We found four chairs in the back row. Immediately, and without realizing the transition, we were no longer observers, but a part of the audience. The announcements, the inviting insights into the special Sabbath program to follow the next day, including a baptismal service, the special music, the visual aids, the preaching was all in order.

And the preaching! It was Jim's turn, and the subject—Revelation 13, on the papacy and mark of the beast—a delicate subject, was beautifully handled with both clarity and love. Our hearts were stirred as this important message was so ably reviewed again in our own minds.

After the benediction and a warm "good night," I noticed the people were cordial as they passed toward the door, but their eyes were for the young evangelists who waited to shake their hands.

A number of folk spoke to Drs. Smoot and Vitrano, indicating their interest in the school which emphasizes the scriptures and trains its students to preach them. For me, the whole scene was a moving experience.

The district pastor and his wife, Elder and Mrs. Michael Petricko, were also there with strong support and encouragement. They were radiant over the happenings in the churches they have been called to serve. A spring evangelistic series had been held at nearby Fort Wayne which continues with regular Wednesday night Bible classes in the church. The Fort Wayne church has enjoyed a baptismal service nearly every Sabbath during the last two months.

One of the women attending the Huntington meetings—she had been baptized the week before—told us that sometime earlier she had purchased the book Planet in Rebellion at a garage sale. She had been looking for someone who believed like that book! Our young seminarians, God bless them, found her and led her to her Savior.

Years ago, all ministerial graduates were expected to hold at least one evangelistic campaign or Bible seminar on their own before graduation. Plans are afoot at the seminary to renew this practice. We believe it is a vital step in the church's move to finish the work now.

For me, the meeting last Friday evening was just like the olden days.

HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Mother Nature

by Leonard McMillan

If you speak to three generations of Wisconsin campers, inevitably they will mention Eva Brown.

An educator all her life and a graduate from Emmanuel Missionary College in 1929, Mrs. Brown moved to Wisconsin in 1937 and has been involved with the youth of that state ever since.

As a recently baptized Christian, I was working with the Madison Pathfinder Club when I first met Mrs. Brown. She volunteered to direct several nature outings and helped establish programs in the Madison Church.

Some years later, as youth director of the Wisconsin Conference, I had the distinct privilege of working two summers with Mrs. Brown at Camp Wahdoon. There I received a new appreciation for God's creation from her seemingly endless supply of nature stories.

The nature museum at Camp Wahdoon is a donation from Mrs. Brown and her husband, Wilbur. Mr. Brown is a builder by trade. They not only built the museum, but through their contacts it has been literally filled to overflowing. As members of the Audubon Society, Wisconsin Ornithology Club and Four Lakes Camping Club, they were able to supply the museum with many beautifully mounted specimens of wild life.

On almost any given day during the camping season, you will find young people flocking around Mrs. Brown and receiving answers to innumerable nature questions.

"What is that, Mrs. Brown?"

"That's a maple leaf viburnum, dear."

"What is that, Mrs. Brown?"

"That's a great blue heron. Notice the 'S' shape of its neck while it flies."

"What is that, Mrs. Brown?"

"Why, that is a shelf fungus. If you draw on it, your picture will remain when it dries."

To show appreciation for all her years of dedication, Pathfinder fair day was designated "Eva Brown Day." A plaque was presented to Mrs. Brown on that day.

For the Camp Wahdoon nature program and the many other programs she has developed, the Wisconsin youth say, "Thank you, Mrs. Brown!"

Today We Prayed for Elsie

by Don and Ruth Jacobsen

Today we prayed for Elsie. Let us tell you why . . .

Elsie and Al have been worrying for months about their son, Joey. At 14, Joey has been giving them cause for concern: At times he is uncommunicative, uncooperative, sullen; at other times openly hostile and rude. He is still attending church with them—reluctantly—but more and more of his spare time is being spent with the “service station crowd.”

When Elsie called several weeks ago to talk to us she confided that there had just been a heated argument and that Joey had walked out and slammed the door, threatening never to return. That was the beginning of several long hours we spent with Elsie. Here is what we learned.

Elsie grew up in a broken home. Her mother worked to make a living for both of them and Elsie was alone much of the time. Her mother was a demanding woman—a perfectionist, and exacting as a Christian. Elsie lived under a constant barrage of criticism.

She married Al, partly to get away from her mother’s influence, and now found herself dealing in the same way with Joey—even though she didn’t want to. We talked about why, and about what it does to us when we live with criticism.

We talked about how we learn to think about ourselves from what others tell us about ourselves. We learn we are acceptable and worthwhile, or that we are unacceptable and of little value.

And what we think about ourselves determines to a large extent how we act. That's why Jesus taught that we should love our neighbors as we love ourselves. A healthy attitude about ourselves gives us the security and the motivation to reach out in love to others.

Appreciating our own value gives us strong motivation to live noble lives. That is why an inspired pen has counseled parents to "teach the children and youth to respect themselves." We tend to live up to the reputation people give us.

If we allow the people around us to convince us that we are ugly or ignorant or "bad" we tend to act that way. If we see ourselves as friendly, strong, dependable, then we tend to act that way.

That must be why Jesus so often spoke as He did. Of Nathanael He said, "Behold, an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile." John 1:47. To an anonymous centurion He said, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Luke 7:9.

As we talked, Elsie began to see what her attitude had been doing to Joey. She saw how she had communicated to him nonacceptance. She had about convinced him that he could do nothing right, that he was "bad."

So the vicious circle tightened. The more she criticized the more he rebelled. The more he rebelled the more she found to criticize.

So Elsie began to look for creative ways as a Christian mother to step out of the circle. She began to look for things to commend, to compliment, to affirm. And an interesting thing happened. The more she searched the more she found.

It was not an easy trek; old habit patterns stick to us like our skin. Often she backslid. When she did she had the grace to ask Joey's forgiveness.

In the months that followed Joey began to see himself through different eyes. At first he was puzzled, confused, surprised. He thought his mother was just fooling him, playing games.

But eventually she was able to convince him that she was sincere. As he felt her affirmation he began to feel differently about himself. As he did, his conduct changed. And as his conduct changed he felt differently about himself.

Now it would be an oversimplification to say that because Joey's mother began to compliment him, he had a conversion experience. Yet there is a healing that comes from genuine acceptance. Just as God wishes to communicate to us that we are accepted even before we are acceptable, so He wishes us to pass that good news on to each other.

So today we prayed for Elsie. We prayed that God would give her the inner security from an appreciation of her own worth, so she could move away from a critical, demeaning spirit, and give Joey the freedom to change that the security of her love can provide.

Concerning Discipline

1. The root of the word discipline and the word disciple are the same. The purpose then is education, to make a follower of, and not retaliation.

2. No discipline should ever be administered in anger. If you are angry, declare a cooling-off period and come back to the issue later, even the next day.

3. Don't store up grievances. No one likes to be reminded of things done in the long ago. Deal with a problem when it arises and then forget it.

4. Make sure he understands the rule he has broken. An admission of guilt from the child is an important factor in his being able to accept the punishment rather than rebel against it. A good question here is "What have you done?" rather than "Why?" His identifying and admitting the wrong is more important than trying to explain why he did it—which he may not even understand.

5. Be consistent. Make sure that the punishment given is administered on the basis of the wrong done and not on the basis of your feelings.

6. In administering punishment use the "sandwich method." That is, show why your love for him makes the punishment necessary, then after the punishment demonstrate that your acceptance and forgiveness are complete. In other words, the punishing is bounded on both sides by affirmations of love. And both the punishment and the assurance must be given by the same parent.

7. Do not discipline in public. Embarrassment should not be part of the punishment.

8. Distinguish between rebellion and an accident. Between irresponsibility and immaturity. Between awkwardness and selfish disregard for others.

9. If a spanking is the method of punishment chosen use a switch or other neutral object. Never should your child learn to cringe in fear from your hand.

10. Even in the punishment affirm your belief in his character. An attitude of, "I know that is not the kind of person you want to be," is better than, "You are a naughty boy."

Clifton Keller works with the computer to prepare the computerized education index.

ANDREWS INSTRUCTOR COMPLETES INDEXES ON EDUCATION

Several indexes to Ellen G. White's writings on Christian education are now available to the public through the Center for Studies and Services in Education at Andrews University, according to Clifton Keller, supervising instructor in education.

Mr. Keller said published indexes of Education and Counsels to Parents, Teachers and Students are now available. He and several Andrews students are working on indexes to Counsels on Education and Fundamentals of Christian Education.

In addition to the published index of Education a search program has been entered into Andrews' computer, making it possible to search for a word in a particular context. The computerized index prints the line containing the word, plus the line immediately before and the line following.

"The published index will give all the pages a particular word is found on," said Mr. Keller, "but the computer prints three lines to show how the word is used."

FIELD SCHOOLS OF EVANGELISM CONDUCTED

Approximately 100 seminary students are involved this summer in field schools of evangelism in seven cities, according to Dr. Don Jacobsen, professor of evangelism and pastoral nurture at Andrews University.

Dr. Jacobsen said approximately 12 students work with an experienced minister during a month-long series of evangelistic meetings. There are usually about eight series per summer. The students receive seven hours of credit for their work in the field school, which is required for graduation.

So far this summer, meetings have been held in Wenatchee, Washington, and Los Angeles, California. Currently, sessions are being conducted in Springfield, Ohio, and Riverside, California. The last session will be August 11 to September 9 in Greeley, Colorado, Grand Rapids, Michigan, and New York.

WHIRLPOOL DONATES INCUBATOR

The Whirlpool Corporation of Benton Harbor, Michigan, has donated a laboratory incubator to the biology department at Andrews, says Dr. Asa C. Thoresen, department chairman.

When school resumes in the fall, the machine, a 32-cubic-foot controlled environment chamber, will incubate bacteria for studies for nursing students.

According to a Whirlpool spokesman, the incubator had been used in a program of microbiological testing of food samples. When the project was discontinued, the incubator was given to Andrews.

TUITION DIFFERENTIAL GRANT VOTED BY LEGISLATURE

The Michigan state legislature has voted to make a tuition differential grant available to all college freshmen whose legal residence is in Michigan and who are enrolling in a Michigan college or university.

A total of $6.2 million was appropriated for the grants, according to Esther Hare, Andrews University's financial aid officer.

The funds will be available "across the board" to all freshmen regardless of academic standing or financial need, said Mrs. Hare. Theology majors, however, are ineligible for the grants.

The allotments will probably amount to about $500 per full-time student and $250 per part-time student per year, says a spokesman for the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Michigan. The grants are in addition to and not to be confused with the basic Michigan Grant.

No application for the funds is necessary prior to registration for autumn quarter at Andrews, says Mrs. Hare. All the required paperwork will be done at that time.

NUTRITION AND LONGEVITY SEMINAR SCHEDULED

A one-day seminar, "Clinical Update: Nutrition and Longevity," will be held at Andrews University, Sunday, September 3, according to Dr. Herald A. Habenicht, coordinator of the seminar.

The seminar is part of a week-long workshop featuring health and nutrition specialists, but the Sunday session is designed to benefit persons not attending the full week's activities.

Dr. Denis P. Burkitt of London, England, will present "It's What a Man Eats." Dr. Burkitt is a former missionary to Africa and is best known for his discovery and study of Burkitt's tumor, a malignant growth on the jaw found in children, and his studies of the fiber content of African diets and its relationship to intestinal cancer. He is a member of the Medical Research Council of Great Britain.

Dr. William Castelli of Harvard University and Boston University School of Medicine will speak about cholesterol, fat, triglycerides and high-density lipoproteins. Dr. Castelli is a recognized authority on the relationships of cardiovascular diseases, life style and diet. He is the director of research laboratories for the Framingham studies.

Also lecturing will be Dr. Roland Phillips of the Loma Linda University school of Health, who has done extensive work with the Adventist Health Study, and Dr. Hans Diehl of Pritikin's Longevity Institute in California.

If you are interested in attending the seminar, contact Dr. Rudolf E. Klimes, Director of Special Courses, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

CONFERENCE PURCHASES MOVING VAN

A 350-horsepower Detroit diesel motor, CL 9000 Ford cab and a 40-foot moving van were recently purchased by the Illinois Conference. More than 20,000 miles have already been logged on the van, according to Mike Harris, the driver, shown above. Not only will the van be used by the Illinois Conference to move workers' possessions, but also by Hinsdale Hospital, Broadview Academy, and other nearby conferences. Ray Rouse, conference treasurer, says that a considerable amount of money has already been saved in moving expenses, and the van will more than pay for itself within a very short time.

5-DAY PLAN VIDEOTAPED IN COLUMBUS

Elder Mario Ruf and Dr. Ray Stidd of the Columbus Church tried something new.

From April 24 through 28 they went to the video access center in Columbus and with 25 people in attendance, taped the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking from 7 to 9 P.M. each evening.

As a result two of the TV cameramen and technicians stopped smoking. For the first three months people who call in can see a repeat of the program.

The tapes for the entire plan may be bought for $200.

SHE WAITED 30 YEARS

Edith Nichelson and Rebecca Phelps were baptized in a stream near Salem, Indiana, by Pastor Don Kellogg after the spring series of evangelistic meetings held in Salem by Elder Carroll Lawson. Studies are being continued with other interested people and more baptisms are expected.

In 1944 a young woman sold Mrs. Nichelson a copy of Bible Readings for the Home and gave her the address of the Voice of Prophecy.

During the next two years she completed the entire set of Bible lessons and accepted all that she had learned. However at that time she did not make contact with any local Adventist.

When Mrs. Nichelson received an invitation to the Voice of Prophecy Crusade being held in Salem by Elder Carroll Lawson, she said, "I knew who they were." She attended all the meetings and is now rejoicing in the fellowship of the Salem Company after more than 30 years of waiting.

SEMINARY PRESIDENT FROM RUMANIA SPEAKS IN CICERO

On July 8 the Cicero, Noblesville and Elwood churches had the privilege of hearing Mihail Popa speak for their worship service. Elder Popa is president of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in Rumania. He is presently attending the seminary at Andrews University.

Elder Popa brought greetings from the people in Rumania. He assured the congregation that the faith of the 50,000 believers there is strong, and they are eagerly awaiting the Lord's return.

Although Elder Popa is enjoying his studies at the university and the experience of meeting Christian brothers and sisters in America, he is anxious to return to his country and his family in December when his studies will be completed.

BAPTISM IN KOKOMO

Adventism began in Kokomo, Indiana, several years ago with the baptism of Mr. and Mrs. R. Goudy and family. The Goudys began giving Bible studies to the people in the community and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mays came from Benton Harbor, Michigan, to help. During the past year Paul Bryant has combined his duties as literature evangelist with that of pastoring the church. He has contacted many people and has introduced them to Christ through church publications. On May 20, four persons joined the church after baptism. Shown being baptized by Elder J. P. Lewis, left, and Pastor Bryant, right, are Raymond and Susan Adams. Prior to the baptism, Elder Lewis, pastor of the Conant Garden and Detroit Center churches in Detroit, conducted a week-long revival. The Kokomo congregation is thankful for the new members.

FAMILY CAMP TO BE HELD SEPTEMBER 1 to 4

Plan to spend your Labor Day weekend at Family Camp, September 1 to 4, 1978. The guest lecturer will be Dr. LaCount Butler of Washington, D.C., who has done extensive studies in marriage and family counseling.

Husbands, wives and single adults will not want to miss this weekend. The cost is only $16 per person or $30 for husband and wife. A family rate is available on request.

Come and relax at the campground free from the noise and pollution of urban living. Bring casual clothes and your swimsuit.

Contact your M.V. leader for an application and mail it promptly to Family Camp, 8517 South State Street, Chicago, IL 60619. Please include $5 for the registration fee.

DIMES FOR INVESTMENT

The Eastside Indianapolis Church recently held its first Investment project for the year. It was called Investment Dimes.

Investment leader Cornelia Edwards gave each member a small glass jar for saving dimes.

Each adult was to bring $5 worth of dimes; each youth, $3.50; each junior, $2.50; each primary child, $1; each kindergarten child, 75 cents, and each cradle roll child, 50 cents. On the day the jars were collected, the church reported $89.95 worth of dimes.

In order to increase the investment, a portion of the $89.95 was used to purchase ingredients for a pancake breakfast. The breakfast was held in Mrs. Edwards' front yard; $59.50 was grossed from this occasion.

Another church Investment project is being planned for the near future.

WEEK OF RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS AT EVANSVILLE

The Metropolitan Church in Evansville, Indiana, recently held what they called "the best week of religious emphasis they could remember." The speakers were young people from the Metropolitan Church and other churches. The speakers include, from left, Bertha Turner, M.V. leader; Alice Martin; Fonnetta Lander, and Pastor Larry Alexander. Other speakers not pictured were Ronnie Collins, Marlon Rogers and Floyd Edwards.

BERRIEN SPRINGS AREA CHURCHES REACH OUT

When Elder Keith Burke began afternoon inspirational talks at Berrien General Hospital more than 10 years ago, he did not know his program would grow to be the extensive, cooperative endeavor that it is today.

Each week 20 to 30 volunteers from the Berrien Springs area churches cooperate to present a program that is considerably more than the sunshine bands many Adventists are used to. The format is similar to a regular church service.

However, a 225-patient extended-care hospital does not allow for a church service by any normal definition. The people who attend these afternoon church services range in age from 55 to 98.

Like many church services the program includes a song service, prayer, and sermonette with personal witnessing and encouragement added.

Local groups from Andrews University and area churches also provide special music, readings or talks.

"It is the cooperative nature of this program that makes it so special," Don Blystone, one of the organizers, said recently.

Members from several churches coordinate the activities of this unusual group in order to have maximum effectiveness.

Unlike most churches it is unreasonable to expect that the people who attend these services can even get to them on their own, so on Wednesday evenings and Sabbaths volunteers go throughout the hospital to visit people and invite them to the meetings.

As many as 20 people help patients find their Bibles, get to church or give them a word of encouragement.

Recent innovations include the use of Sabbath School and Bible studies on tape to provide an opportunity for those who cannot attend the services in person.

Church members involved in this hospital program are not content with the current extensive activities. They are planning for a future "foster grandparents" program in which members from participating churches will be invited to adopt one of the patients as a grandparent.

Also planned is a program in which leaders will be assigned to each of the wards. Singing and reading groups are to be included in this area of service.

There is a spirit of excitement in the Berrien General Hospital Sabbath afternoon program. Each participant feels a dedication to the program that will give these senior citizens an opportunity to continue worshiping and loving Christ.

If you wish to have a part in these activities contact Natalie Bullock of the Berrien Springs Church.

ONE SMALL BEGINNING THAT GREW

On June 10 the Berrien Springs Spanish Church bid farewell to the family of Dr. Humberto Rasi, dean of the Graduate School of Andrews University, who has accepted a post as editorial director for Spanish publications at the Pacific Press.

Dr. Rasi arrived in Berrien Springs in 1967 and became a motivating force in continuing the work among the Spanish-speaking people, a work which had been initiated by David and Leslie Rhys of the Andrews University modern languages department.

After overcoming many obstacles, the first Spanish church in Michigan was formed in Berrien Springs on February 10, 1973.

Since that time the church has grown from 50 to 121 members and has been a temporary church home to many Latin students attending Andrews University. In addition, the church members work each summer with the thousands of Spanish-speaking migrant workers who come to the area for agricultural employment.

Today there are organized Spanish churches in Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit with lay evangelism taking place in Niles.

THREE BAPTIZED IN WAUTOMA

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wakeley and their son, Jay, were baptized recently by Pastor Elbert Tyson. They joined the Wautoma Church. (The story of how the Wakeleys joined the Adventist Church appears in the July 18, 1978, issue of the Lake Union Herald, page 2.)

CHURCH RENEWAL IN TOMAHAWK

During the first six months of 1978 the Tomahawk Church has been actively engaged in church renewal.

The process began when the church members spent a Sabbath together to define their purpose or mission. By the end of the day they had formulated a purpose statement that reflected the church's reason for existence in the Tomahawk community, as well as direction for future action in that community.

The ideas generated from this session and material from a church-growth survey were sent to the church members. Each member was asked to identify those ideas or areas of concern that he felt were the most important.

A goal-setting session was scheduled for the members to determine what their major goals would be. These were identified as one-year goals and five-year goals.

During the coming year—which began in July—the members will monitor and evaluate their progress toward the goals they have set so they may be even more effective the next year.

The church renewal process is an ongoing one that is never finished. It is well to remember the words of Zechariah 4:6, "... Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." It is only by God's Spirit that we have true success.

It has been an exciting six months. The Tomahawk Church members anticipate implementation of their goals for this year as part of their endeavor to finish the work soon.

vocal instructor at Wisconsin Academy, was honored during a short ceremony at the commencement exercises, Sunday morning, May 28, 1978.

Robert Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference, presented Miss Larmon with a Citation of Excellence from the General Conference department of Education.

Dr. Robert Murray, associate professor of music at Union College, speaking as a representative of her former students, expressed his appreciation for Miss Larmon as a music teacher and as a person interested in her students.

Robert Knutson, Wisconsin education superintendent, and also a former student and colleague of Miss Larmon, presented a plaque to her which read:

"Citation of Honor presented by Wisconsin Academy to Louise Larmon for outstanding service in secondary education in music, 41 years of service, 39 years at Wisconsin Academy. Louise Larmon, respected and loved by her students and colleagues for the quality of her Christian living, for her dedication and commitment to excellence in music, for the inspiration and challenge to greatness. She is indeed a distinguished woman."

Elder Knutson also presented to Miss Larmon a memory book containing letters and cards of appreciation which had been sent in by former students and teachers.

After the commencement service, a reception was held in Miss Larmon's honor in the garden behind the girls' dormitory.

Although officially retiring this summer, Miss Larmon will continue teaching private lessons on a part-time basis and will direct the Wisconsin Academy Orchestra.

THE CONVERSION OF THE JORGEN STOSS FAMILY

A mailing program by the Wautoma Church was begun between Christmas and New Year's Day, 1976. Amazing Facts folders were used. Folder G, entitled "Don't Be Fooled," was received by the Jorgen Stoss family.

Mr. Stoss was convinced about the Sabbath but did not respond directly to the church. He sent in the Voice of Prophecy card he received in the same mailing.

The Jorgen Stoss family with Elder Tyson, right.

Then the Almond Church conducted a booth at the Waushara County Fair in Wautoma in the late summer of 1977. Literature was distributed, including hundreds of copies of Steps to Christ with the name of the Almond Seventh-day Adventist Church stamped on each one.

Mrs. Stoss picked up a copy at a local motel where she worked and took it home. The family was attracted to its contents and at this point, connected the seventh-day Sabbath which they had learned about in the Amazing Facts folder with the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

They located the church in Wautoma and the entire family attended one Sabbath in October. They were welcomed, and returned the next Sabbath.

On the afternoon of the second visit to the church, local elder Merle Marsh visited them and began Bible studies. He also left literature and lent them tapes by Elder Ken Mittleider.

The Stosses continued to attend Sabbath services regularly, and about a year after receiving the first Amazing Facts folder, they had completely accepted the Seventh-day Adventist message.

Jorgen and Helen Stoss and three of their four children were baptized and joined the church on February 11, 1978.

BROTHER INFLUENCES BROTHER

Emil S. Nielsen, 82, above, of Hancock, Wisconsin, completed a course of Bible studies with Elbert Tyson, pastor of the Almond Church, and was baptized July 1, 1978, in the Oxford Seventh-day Adventist Church. He is a member of the Almond Church. Mr. Nielsen became interested in healthful living, in the Bible, and in becoming a member of the Adventist Church largely from living with and being influenced by his brother, the late Harold Nielsen.

LOUISE LARMON HONORED AT W.A. GRADUATION

Louise Larmon, choir director and

GROUND BREAKING FOR BETHEL SCHOOL

After ground breaking for a new school building for Bethel Junior Academy held in May, work began immediately. Work has progressed with the leadership of builder Leonard Joch. Most of the labor has been donated by Bethel and Marshfield church members.

The building, which will accommodate 80 students, has four classrooms, a principal's office, and a kitchen connected to the existing gymnasium. Plans are for the school to be ready in September.

Bethel Junior Academy is located in a rural community of central Wisconsin, three miles west of Arpin. It is an eighth of a mile from Bethel Convalescent Center, 15 miles from Marshfield Convalescent Center and 32 miles from Colonial House at Colby. Work opportunities are excellent for people seeking a rural atmosphere for their families.

The Bethel Junior Academy staff consists of Pat Dalton, who teaches grades 1 and 2; Dorothy Smith, grades 3, 4, 5 and 6; Dale Smith, principal and teacher for grades 7 and 8, and Pat Whitworth, grades 9 and 10.

PARABLE OF THE HAPPY ANIMALS, by Cynthia Watts. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $1.25.

These are stories of God's happy creation that will be enjoyed by young children.

LOVE'S WAY, by Arthur W. Spalding. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $3.95.

Long before puberty children get their first lessons in sex, and they don't stop with the birds and the bees anymore. Tragically, because of how they are taught, some don't stop at anything and eventually end up learning everything there is to know the hard and tearful way.

Why doesn't somebody do something to stop all this? If you are a parent the "somebody" is you. And to help you with the "something" is the purpose of this book.

World Church News

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

The Adventist Review has little to offer—if you're content to live with little or no knowledge of the news and views of your church in a changing world.

How can the Seventh-day Adventist Christian solve the pyramid of problems present in every family today?

What's the solution to the growing discontent of today's youth with organized religion?

What are the views of church leaders concerning major social and spiritual questions of today?

Where do I fit into the operation of this organization called church?

Important questions? Definitely. Yet they only skim the surface of the sea of problems facing you and me as Christians in this society. The Adventist Review can provide you with the equipment to dive safely into that sea, confident and prepared to meet almost any problem that may arise. What's our equipment? Well, take a look!

Do you want to make new friends? The Review recently created a 32-page "Friendship Edition" specially designed to make friends for Christ, for us, and for our church. Its received a tremendous response!

Do you want to travel? Each week the Review whisks you around the world as it outlines the work God is doing through the church on every continent of the globe. Do you want more harmony in your home? The Review publishes a family column regularly that could get your castle choir singing in tune once again.

Are you battling with baffling biblical beliefs? The Review editors endeavor each week to put you one step closer to victory as they answer questions from you and your fellow fighters.

Do you feel a bit more confident about taking that big "dive"? Good.

Be watching your mail box for a special direct-mail package inviting you to subscribe to the Review.

The changing world—there's a lot to know. The Adventist Review—it has a lot to offer.

WISCONSIN FACES SUIT ON PRAYERS IN LEGISLATURE

Because its legislature opens each session with prayer, the state of Wisconsin faces a lawsuit. The Freedom From Religion Foundation is suing the state for violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution. All but two of the other 50 states open legislative sessions with prayer, and 35 use state funds to pay chaplains or clergy to offer prayer.

PATHFINDERS HAVE A PASSPORT

The General Conference youth department has prepared a "passport" for Pathfinders around the world. The 32-page booklet provides room for identification information and a picture, baptismal record, names of all club members, records of all investitures, participation in summer camps and special club events like Ingathering, Pathfinder day, parades, camp-outs and community service. A special section provides a record of all honors achieved.

INGATHERING ENCOUNTERS

When Debbie D'Amico walked to her car after a day of Christmas shopping, someone gave her an Ingathering leaflet and in turn received a generous offering. Debbie mailed the gift Bible card which she found in the Ingathering leaflet, and Barbara Cheney from the Pawtucket, Rhode Island, Church, offered to give her Bible studies. Her attendance at Mark Finley's evangelistic meetings began a chain reaction that resulted in the baptism of five people. Pictured are Debbie D'Amico, left, and Joseph and Debbie DeAngelis—three of the five baptized. It all started because a faithful member left the comforts of home that cold pre-Christmas night. "It is the privilege of every Christian not only to look for but to hasten the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."—Christ's Object Lessons, p. 69.

ADVENTIST HEALTH STUDY ENTERS NEW PHASE

In Riverside, California, Loma Linda University has begun a new phase in the process of analyzing the health of California Seventh-day Adventists. It has been five years since the university first began the Adventist Health Study, which turned up some interesting facts. For example it was found that California Adventist men live an average of 6.2 years longer than the average California male. Until now the study has been confined mainly to gathering information about the life-style characteristics of Adventists. The study will now concentrate on newly developed diseases in Adventists by surveying hospital records. It is hope the data will give the first clues to links between facets of Adventist life style and the superior health profile of Adventists as compared with the general population.
