On Sabbath, August 19, I attended the unionwide literature evangelist institute held at Adelphian Academy. It was an exhilarating experience. These are the people who most consistently fulfill the counsel of Heaven to visit every home. As usual there was not enough time to hear all of the thrilling stories they had to tell, but I heard enough to reach the following conclusions:

1. No doubt 1978 will be the biggest year for colporteur sales in the history of the Lake Union. To date the record shows an increase in sales compared to last year of $450,000. We believe the final total for the year will surpass $2½ million in processed sales.

2. Many people among the vast population in our union territory are bewildered by the worldly conditions around them and are searching for a way of escape. One of our dedicated literature evangelists called at a home where he was met by a very hostile woman who threatened to call the police if he did not leave immediately. After calling on the neighbor next door, a voice seemed to say, "Go back, go back." He replied, "No, I can't go back there! But the voice persisted. When he returned to the house he was subjected to even greater abuse, to which he replied, "I have come to tell you that Jesus loves you."

With this he was invited into the home and learned the source of the woman's bitterness—she had been beaten by her husband. Shortly, her husband appeared in the room. He was filled with remorse for what he had done. This family was introduced to the Savior who alone could bring happiness and meaning to their lives.

3. The role of the literature evangelist is to make the initial contact and encourage the reading of truth-filled literature. He cannot afford to linger long in an effort to follow what seems to be a good interest.

4. More than anything else, the literature evangelist needs a teammate to handle the follow-up and Bible studies. In fact, for the ultimate in results, a successful literature evangelist may need several follow-up partners.

5. Although it is the responsibility of the pastor to coordinate this work, he is obviously limited in the number of house-to-house visits he can make. Again, ultimately, a much larger source of manpower is needed.

6. The bottom line in soul-winning always comes out the same. The human potential for finishing the work is to be found in the church's laity. Recognizing this, we are encouraging our literature evangelists to recruit at least one volunteer lay Bible worker as a teammate.

If you are approached for this work, please consider it a compliment, and reply with an enthusiastic "yes."

If you have not had the benefit of a Bible work course, your pastor is ready and eager to help you. In this way you may become an important bridge to Heaven for people still wandering in darkness.

For real fulfillment, learn to give Bible studies and become a colporteur teammate.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

The Upturned Face

by Ray Minner

"My name is Carl Weber. I know that none of you know me."

The silence in Minerva Straman's classroom was heavy as the hesitating voice of a middle-aged man came from the cassette recorder on the desk, addressing the group of seventh-graders. It seemed to be a strange presentation at first. No one knew what to make of it.

Mrs. Straman's Christian witnessing class at Andrews Junior Academy began sending handmade greeting cards to people whose names appeared in the newspaper under "hospital admissions." It seemed a nice thing to do—an easy way to spread a little sunshine.

But now here was the first response from a man unable or unwilling to ignore thoughtfulness. They listened as he expressed his gratitude in the form of some original verse, and then it was over—they thought. Suddenly, the voice began again. "On Monday, May 8, I will have heart surgery."

Monday, May 8. Quickly the students realized: That's today!

Mr. Weber might be undergoing heart surgery even as they listened to his voice on the cassette. They had to know.

No record had been kept of where the cards had been sent, but it didn't take long to decide that he must be at Mercy Hospital, Benton Harbor, Michigan, where most of the area's heart surgery is performed.

"Yes," said the nurse, "he's in surgery right now."

It wasn't long before 20 teenagers were kneeling in prayer for a man they had never met.

All through that day as one class replaced another in Mrs. Straman's room, the tape was played for each new group until 100 seventh- and eighth-graders were participating in the drama. Prayer was offered again and again.

"Anyone who wishes to write Mr. Weber a note may do so," said Mrs. Straman, "but it's strictly voluntary." At the end of the day there were 83 notes waiting to be delivered.

On Tuesday the class learned that Mr. Weber was listed in critical condition. More prayers were offered by the students. By now he was their Mr. Weber.

One of the students sparked a movement to buy flowers, and a few days later Mark Constantine and Tom Barrett strode into Mercy Hospital's coronary surgery unit with a large chrysanthemum plant.

"Don't tell me," said Mr. Weber. "You must be from Andrews Junior Academy."

Naturally everyone wanted to know what Mr. Weber was like. Encouraged by Mark and Tom's report of their visit, the students' interest continued to grow. They had more to give.

Everyday five or six students would chat with Mr. Weber by telephone. Calls were limited to one each day so everyone waited for a turn to say a few words to Mr. Weber. The students delivered another plant. A relationship, an affection grew.

Beyond Exercise

by Patrick Lecourt

Our life style has finally caught up with our health. As a result we are suffering from what are called degenerative diseases: heart attacks, strokes, maturity onset diabetes, obesity, et cetera.

By the time I write this article, I am quite sure that most of the readers have been made aware of this fact and have had the chance to read such phrases as this:

"The average young man in this country has a middle-aged body . . . At the age of 26 he has the capacity of a man in his forties. By the time he reaches his early thirties he will have disabilities that are normally associated with men twice his age."*

Patrick Lecourt, a doctor of health sciences, is a member of the Health Education Department Staff, Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois.

While this is true, I do not want to emphasize it. It has been emphasized enough.

Neither do I want to stress what the media, in cooperation with the medical profession, has advertised as a remedy: physical activity of many forms.

As a result parks and streets are full of joggers and cyclists. Tennis, racquet ball and squash courts have to be reserved long in advance. This is a good thing.

But what I want to emphasize is that an imbalance has been created. We are told that our life style is not conducive to health. I agree.

Finally, we are presented an alternative: Let us become more physically active by jogging, cycling, playing tennis, et cetera—now I agree only to a certain extent.

While these activities are generally beneficial, I believe they do not present the whole answer to sedentary living, but only part of it. Because these activities are stressed, we get an imbalanced view of an active life.

To re-establish the balance, we must emphasize a generally more active 16-hour day, not just a strenuous half-hour daily sport activity.

Let us not simply exercise but let us also be more active, let us submit our bodies to more movement all day long.

What would this involve? Let me give you examples.

Who really needs a power mower? Our lawns are not that large.

Do you need a power knife? Bread, vegetables and other foods are not that tough.

Do you need a power tooth brush? Your dental structure is not that of a shark or horse.

What sense (from a physical fitness point of view) is there in playing squash a few times each week when we have to use a power saw to trim off the front yard trees? What sense is there in playing tennis when we drive to the courts which often are a few minutes away?

Let us not just exercise more, let us also move more. Let us live so that we make fullest use of the physical vigor God gave us, using it not just to play but also to satisfy many of the needs of our daily life.

Do not misunderstand; I am not encouraging a return to a primitive life style. I still enjoy my car; I could not do without it. And for some people, what I propose might be highly impractical.

What I am saying is that, with some self-examination, most of us could find out where we could introduce more movement into our total daily life without creating too great a hardship.

Engaging in some sport activity for a half hour a day is fine, but it is by no means a change in life style, only an addition to it.

By life-style change I mean a change of attitude concerning how we are going to carry out our daily activities, how we are going to live our lives.

The half hour of sports hardly fits this definition, but the frequent use of our physical strength to accomplish our life tasks does.

BETTER LIVING CENTER OPENS AT RIVER PINES

MID-AMERICAN—The River Pines Better Living Center, Stevens Point, Wisconsin, held its first 1978 live-in stop smoking program, June 11 through 16. Fourteen people from Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin participated in the intensive five-day program designed to help them kick the smoking habit.

The live-in program is planned for those who have tried other ways to quit smoking but have failed.

The program included medical lectures dealing with the harmful effects of smoking on the heart, lungs and nervous system; an indepth look at motives to stop smoking and a discussion of the essentials of a proper diet. Physical, mental and spiritual fitness were stressed.

At the beginning of the program, each person took a spirometer test to measure his lung capacity. Another test was taken at the end of the session and the two tests were compared and improvement was noted.

Blood tests were also taken at the beginning and end of the program. These tests revealed that six people—in less than a five-day period—experienced a significant drop of more than 15 points in their cholesterol level.

The better living center is located in a lovely setting along the Wisconsin River where activities include walking, canoeing, cycling, tennis and badminton.

The River Pines Better Living Center will hold two more live-in stop smoking programs in 1978: September 17 to 22, and October 8 to 13.

Don E. Casebolt, M.D., medical director of the better living center, has announced that in 1979 the number of live-in stop smoking programs will be increased from three to five. Two live-in programs—three to four weeks each—will be held to deal with complex health problems such as heart disease and weight control.

laymen who received honorable recognition for their accomplishments in the area of lay evangelism.

The laymen were selected by church pastors and board members for their outstanding accomplishments in lay witnessing.

As their names were called and their achievements pointed out by Art Covell, lay activities director, each layman received a personally autographed copy of Robert Pierson's book, How to be a Successful Christian Leader.

Cited as the layman of the year, Ruth Harmon, from the Detroit Metropolitan Church, received a special plaque in addition to Elder Pierson's book.

Mrs. Harmon wanted to witness but like many other church members, she was hesitant. Encouraged by her pastor, she began giving Bible studies and this year a number of people have been baptized as a result of her work.

Mrs. Harmon was the subject of a feature story in the June 20, 1978, issue of the Lake Union Herald.

Other laymen honored were: Tim Fambro and Katherine Hartman from Ann Arbor; Ethel Wise from the Benton Harbor Fairplain Church; Ivan Jones from Central Lake; Blake Briggs from the First Flint Church; Robert Peterson from Elk Rapids; Sherman Cox from Marshall; Marie Roser from Holly; Norman and Edith Luttmann from Jackson, and Betty Graves from the Detroit Oakwood Church.

Also honored were: Rick Howard from Escanaba; Elizabeth Vanderboegh from Covert; Ernestine and Rick Backman from Hartford; David Chavez from the Detroit Spanish Church; Ben Lewis from Berrien Springs; Esther Helton from Charlotte, and Dorothy Thomas from Eaton Rapids.

Elder Covell pointed out that, "By God's design ministers and laymen are knit together for the sole purpose of taking God's message of love and grace to every living soul. Success is promised to those who are willing to be used in fulfilling this task."

EVALENA HIBBERD IS 99 YEARS OLD

"You're a lazy woman, Evalena! Why, just look at your soft, white hands!" This was the greeting neighbor women gave to Evalena Hibberd when she moved to her new home in Isabella County, Michigan. She and her husband, John, had recently married and they had purchased a 60-acre farm there.

A few years later these same women advised her, "Evalena, you're working much too hard. If you don't slow down, you'll kill yourself!"

But Mrs. Hibberd continued her farm chores, mindless of her critics, and she outlived them all. On July 13 she celebrated her 99th birthday.

Born on a farm in Ingham County, Michigan, on July 13, 1879, Mrs. Hibberd is a third cousin to Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The former Evalena Boucher married John Hibberd in Williamston, Michigan, on September 16, 1897. In 1967 John died at the age of 91. They had been married for almost 70 years.

Three of the couple's five children are still living: Mrs. Imogene Forbes of Berrien Springs; Ruth Smith of Las Vegas, Nevada, and Charles of Fremont, California. Mrs. Hibberd resides with each of her children at different times of the year. She has seven grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hibberd has spent most of her life in Michigan, but she has visited 46 other states. During her long lifetime she has made many friends.

Mrs. Hibberd believes it is important to keep busy. She enjoys playing Scrabble and when no one is available as a partner, it's no problem—she just plays both sides of the board.

For 62 years Mrs. Hibberd has been an active member of the Seventh-day Adventist church. She vividly remembers the day she rode in a horse-drawn buggy to her baptism in the Chippewa River near Weidman, Michigan.

She looks forward to her 100th birthday and would like to live to see the second coming of Christ, should He so will. Mrs. Hibberd who has seen a lot of history may very well be around to witness its close.

The event was planned by Reg and Bonnie Smith, youth coordinators of the church.

Safety precautions included a car in the lead with water and quick-energy punch, a second car to keep the group together and a truck with tools for bike repairs and room for tired bikers.

Ten days after surgery Carl Weber went home, released by an amazed physician who had anticipated a somewhat longer hospital stay. Mr. Weber told the doctor, "It was all the attention I got from those kids."

Today, months after his surgery, Mr. Weber, retired junior high school teacher from Sister Lakes, Michigan, receives calls and occasional visits from his new friends.

A beautiful story. A story that carries in it from beginning to the present—for there is no end as yet—the very essence of Christianity. But the best summary came at the beginning in Mr. Weber's tape to the students.

He drew an analogy, comparing himself to a snowflake:

My brothers who walked before me were never to be.

The sun in the morning kissed them into eternity.

*But I was different—I knew
I would be.*

*But lo! What happened to me?
I fell at night—no one to see.*

*In my silence I shouted out,
"Hey! Look at me! I am and I will be!"*

*But lo, it was night—no one to see.
When I accepted the demise of me,
Hey! I brushed an upturned face and mingled in a tear of memory.*

'Twas then I knew I found eternity.

"You," he said to the students, "are the upturned face."

Children looked forward to craft classes during the Shawano Vacation Bible School.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOLS ARE SUCCESSFUL IN WISCONSIN

Vacation Bible Schools held in Wisconsin were large—153 attended in Green Bay—and small—only four attended the one held in Sun Prairie; but large or small, this was one of the best Vacation Bible School seasons.

In Clearwater Lake 170 people from Children enjoyed crafts in Kitty Crary's kitchen.

18 towns in four states attended a program that marked the closing of their Vacation Bible School.

Kitty Crary and a corps of helpers directed a Vacation Bible School in her home in Dane, where there is no Seventh-day Adventist Church. Many of the children were brought to Vacation Bible School by a family who was contacted through a literature evangelist's visit.

Thirty-four children attended the school, and more than 50 people came to the closing program. The Crary home bulged at the seams, but the Vacation Bible School created good will in the community and brought a new respect for Seventh-day Adventists. A weekly story hour in the Crary home brings many of the children together regularly.

The Oconto District held a Vacation Bible School in each of its three churches. Many favorable comments came from parents of children who enjoyed the Bible lessons at Vacation Bible School.

Green Bay's Vacation Bible School featured a special church service on Sabbath between the two, week-long sessions. The pastor arranged a special program for the day and asked the Vacation Bible School students to participate. He preached a sermon especially for the children. Many parents attended the Seventh-day Adventist church for the first time. They were happy to be there. Some of the children who attended are already recruiting friends for Vacation Bible School next year.

The Shawano church, with a limited staff, found it necessary to hire a 14-year-old girl to play the piano. The girl was so pleased with the school that she brought her brother and two sisters and four other children. Another family enjoyed Vacation Bible School so much that the mother asked to be informed of next year's dates so she can take her vacation at that time and help. She asked if it would be all right for her boys to attend Sabbath School.

Chippewa Falls Vacation Bible School had more children than could be accommodated in the church so classes were conducted on the lawn and on the front steps of the church.

At the Evansville closing program the children presented their parents with a copy of Can God Be Trusted?

Shell and plaster crafts were displayed at the Pound V.B.S. graduation.

the 1978 missionary book.

Wisconsin Academy faculty members conducted a Vacation Bible School in August—after most of the faculty had returned from vacations. Almost all of the women in the church helped with Vacation Bible School. There were more staff members than children on opening day, but the children won by inviting their friends and doubling the attendance before the end of Bible School. The church school gym was full for the closing program.

Every Vacation Bible School in Wisconsin generated interesting stories.

Many follow-up story hours are being held and invitations to Pathfinder meetings and Sabbath School were extended. Only the angels have a complete record of the influence of Vacation Bible School.

What a thrill for Vacation Bible School workers to find an unexpected star in their crown and discover it was because of their participation in Vacation Bible School—1978!

Perhaps the author will show you how to make more sense of spending dollars. Or perhaps you'll discover more effective ways of melting the ice of adolescence freezing many parent-child relationships of today. The regular Review column answering Bible questions may give you the victory over a vexing, perplexing spiritual problem. Frequent articles dealing with the marriage relationship may help you to maintain or restore the two-part harmony your dynamic duet began with. This, and much more, is waiting for you in the Review.

Pick up a copy. When you read the Review regularly, you'll realize that it's more than a magazine, it's a message. A message of strength through faith in Jesus. A message of hope in His salvation. A message of peace and happiness for the Christian home.

The thieves. They're out to get your family. The Adventist Review will help you keep it.

(1) THE MAGNIFICENT FURY OF ALASKA

September 23, 1978

by Neil Douglas

Enjoy the many moods of Alaska in this vivid portrayal of the "land of the midnight sun." Watch nature's interpretation of survival of the fittest as 5,000-pound sea lions battle in the ocean. Learn how eskimos at Point Barrow share their catch of muktuk, whale meat, in their sod houses. Explore the arctic wilderness along the 1,000-mile long Alaskan highway. Be a part of the adventure as brown bears whose pelts measure 12' x 10' charge the camera crew in a dramatic chase.

(2) PAN-AMERICAN HIGHWAY

October 21, 1978

by Eric Pavel

Discover the immense variety of people, civilizations and scenery in this adventurous 10,000-mile journey through Mexico, Guatemala, Panama, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Argentina. Travel on the Pan-American Highway at Christmas time and enjoy the holiday celebrations. Visit booming cities, ancient ruins, primitive descendants of once powerful civilizations, windswept mountains, lush tropical valleys, arid deserts and fertile plains.

(3) HAWAII

November 18, 1978

by Don Cooper

Briefly acquainted with the 50th state through this scenic montage of five major islands--Oahu, Kauai, Maui, Lanai and Hawaii, the Big Island. Surf and swim on black sand beaches. Revel in the tropical flora such as orchids, bird of paradise and hibiscus. Help harvest pineapple and sugar cane and come close enough to taste luscious papayas, bread fruit and bananas. Visit historic Pearl Harbor, the Haleakala Crater and Hanalei Valley, the "birthplace of rainbows" during this exotic portrayal of Hawaii.

(4) HUDSON BAY JOURNEY

January 6, 1979

by Fred Keiffer

Take a train north of Winnipeg to the arctic area along Canada's Hudson Bay. Hike on flower-covered tundra: discover that the arctic has more to offer than ice and snow. The stereotyped Eskimo way of life is fast becoming a legend but a classic sequence reveals the secret of igloo-making. Visit this region that is similar and yet so different from Alaska.

(5) THE NEW KOREA

February 3, 1979

by Kenneth Armstrong

Korea translates "high and lovely" but after the ravages of war it was not the "land of the morning calm." In a phoenix-like rise, Korea's economic rebirth is a dramatic success story. Modern cities, vibrant with commerce and construction stand in stark contrast to 1,000 year old temples and the scenic beauty of the rural areas where women prefer traditional voluminous gowns and men their flowing robes and stove-pipe hats.

(6) MY CALIFORNIA

March 3, 1979

by Stan Midgley

California seen through the eyes of a native son reveals its beauty during all four seasons; springtime in the fruit orchards, summertime skiing, autumn in the High Sierras and the Tournament of Roses during the throes of winter. Featured are Sequoia and Yosemite National Parks, Disneyland, Chinatown, Golden Gate Bridge, Spanish missions and so many other picturesque scenes that make California the array of moods it is today.

(7) RAILROADS ARE FUN

April 7, 1979

by Thayer Soule

The fun of American railroads today is mainly in short-line trips. Take a fascinating excursion into yesterday with dozens of whistle-stops: add runs on modern super chiefs for an absorbing coast-to-coast journey across the United States. Rides on an iron horse on the Great Plains, a trolley on the Brooklyn Bridge and the automated, computerized cars of today all add up to an adventurous itinerary.

NEWS NOTES

• The School of Health at Loma Linda University is offering a program to train individuals to do HEALTH EVANGELISM. Students who complete the program will receive a master's degree in health education through the School of Health, and a master's degree in religion from the Graduate School. Many physicians and dentists graduate from school with a vision of their practice becoming a soul-winning endeavor, but "when they get into their practice they find themselves frustrated by an overload of patients who require a great deal of time for their various ailments," says Reuben Hubbard, assistant professor of health education. The physician's problem could be solved if he had someone trained in health education who also knew how to give Bible studies, according to Corinne King, assistant professor of health education. For further information on the program, write to Reuben Hubbard, the School of Health, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, CA 92350.

• The General Conference communication department is anticipating one thousand COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD PLAQUES to be presented during October 1978. The honorees will be chosen from influential non-Adventists who have worked for the welfare of the community in a commendable way. Many churches are planning to begin nutrition classes, weight reduction classes, Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking, or other community-oriented programs on October 14, the official community relations and Sabbath School guest day.

• The Christian Record Braille Foundation supplies BRAILLE ADULT SABBATH SCHOOL LESSONS or records to blind and visually-impaired persons without charge. Large-print adult quarterlies can be requested from local church Sabbath School secretaries or purchased at Adventist Book Centers. Lessons on cassettes can be obtained by ordering from Adventist Audio Visual Ministry, 1100 Rancho Conejo Blvd., Newbury Park, CA 91320. An informal approach to the Sabbath School lessons on cassettes is available from The Spoken Word, P.O. Box 5041, Oxnard, CA 93030.

• Ann Landers is just one feature among several in a special issue of LISTEN MAGAZINE devoted to exploring problems of and solutions to disintegrating family life in America. Love is a decision—in spite of the highs and lows—say Adventist family counselors Betty and Delmer Holbrook in "How to Work Toward a Model Marriage." "A Rare Moment of Truth" is the true story of one family's reaction to a son's drug problem. For parents who wonder if their child is on drugs and for those who already know, "The Parents' Guide to Drug Abuse" outlines things to do—and some things not to do. But it doesn't advocate simplistic answers.

• ADVENTIST COLLEGES ABROAD moved its headquarters recently from Lomda Linda to the Board of Higher Education in Washington, D.C. Students interested in improving their proficiency in French, Spanish or German, and who are ready for the college intermediate level in the language, are invited to write to Adventist Colleges Abroad, Board of Higher Education, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20012.

• Spain's minister of defense has given an order that all Seventh-day Adventist soldiers should be free from service on Sabbath. The notice comes as the result of a case against a soldier who would not stand guard on Sabbath and who was to be brought to trial before the War Council.

• A series of CONTINUING

DENTAL EDUCATION courses called "Loma Linda University Comes to You," begins soon in South Lancaster, Massachusetts, with an update on endodontics and restorative dentistry. Other courses scheduled to be held in cities across the country will include such topics as oral diagnosis and pathology, oral surgery, prosthetics and nutrition. For further information, write to the Division of Continuing Education, School of Dentistry, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, CA 92350.

• THE VOICE OF PROPHECY moved early this summer to new headquarters in Newbury Park, California. However, says Pastor H.M.S. Richards Jr., the mailing address for the church's radiobroadcast is still Box 55, Los Angeles, CA 90053. The new offices are approximately 45 miles northwest of Glendale, where the broadcast had been located since 1938.

BAPTISTS TOP LIST OF A.B.S. SUPPORTERS

The Southern Baptist Convention tops a recent list of more than 80 denominations which support the American Bible Society. Southern Baptist contributions accounted for one out of every six dollars received by the A.B.S. from all churches. In second place was the United Methodist Church. Following in third was the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. The American Lutheran Church was fourth, while the American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A. were fifth. Other leading contributors included the Lutheran Church in America, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Church of the Nazarene, and Seventh-day Adventists. In terms of contribution per church member, the Apostolic Churches of America were the most generous in supporting the American Bible Society.
