Autumn is for Harvesting

There is something awesome about autumn. At no other time does the seasonal change distill such a mixture of human moods. Leaves turn to beautiful hues and then fall. Vacations end and more school and work follow.

To be both glad and sad is to be filled with a disturbing exhilaration which in turn stirs our emotions into a real moving force for positive action. When this human experience is connected to Divine power, something tremendous happens.

Along the highways and byways of the Lake Union territory, everywhere these days, I see reapers in action, capitalizing on the land's potential and the remaining time to harvest that potential. It is an exacting formula which allows little latitude if the ultimate good is to be realized. For the farmer during this season "time is of the essence" and the byword is "harvest." The driving force is survival.

No wonder God points us to this life-sustaining routine as an example of how He would have us approach the harvest of earth.

After the flood, and as the earth returned to a new kind of normalcy, God promised, "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, . . . shall not cease." Genesis 8:22.

For us, this promise holds a twofold meaning. By our faithful cooperation in a physical sense, God provides for our human needs. Through our faithful stewardship on a higher plane—seed sowing, cultivating and reaping—our spiritual needs are best served and souls are saved for eternity.

The analogy is not altogether consistent in that for God's church the harvest of earth is to be a year-round experience. Yet it is interesting to note that, for several factors and evangelistically speaking, the last months of the year are especially fruitful. As we continue to follow God's plan for finishing His work, autumn is for harvesting!

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Selling is Her Sideline

by Cliff Hoffman

On any weekday you can go into Paul Harvey Ford in Indianapolis and you will notice a woman seated in one of the sales booths talking to a customer. Seated on a sofa nearby are several more customers waiting to see Shirley Taylor.

Shirley is a unique person. Not only is she involved in the very competitive business of selling automobiles, but she is a faithful Seventh-day Adventist Christian.

For approximately six years Shirley has been in the car sales business. One day the dealer she worked for announced a change in the company's sales program. When Shirley heard about this change she realized there would be a conflict with her religious convictions.

She went immediately to turn in her resignation. While she was there a representative from Ford Motor Company asked her if she was going to attend the important sales meeting the next evening. Shirley informed him that she had just resigned and told him the reason. He asked her if he could call Ford's director for Indiana about the situation and she said yes.

A few minutes later Shirley received a call from the state director. He said he wanted to transfer her to Paul Harvey Ford. Paul Harvey was a man who would honor her convictions and not ask her to work on Sabbaths. In less than an hour she had the job with Paul Harvey Ford.

Shirley was one of the first women in Indianapolis to sell cars. In her first year she became one of the top salesmen of the 23 salesmen in her company. With Paul Harvey Ford she has had consistently high sales and has led in sales many months. She has been asked many times if it isn't hard to be a good car salesman and at the same time a good Seventh-day Adventist Christian. The answer comes back quickly, "No!"

She begins to enumerate all of the opportunities she has each day to witness. She says she has so many opportunities to explain why she doesn't work on Saturday, the biggest day for selling autos. She says she feels her work proves to be a real service to others.

When you get to know Shirley it doesn't take long to find out that selling cars is not the most important thing in her life. She is first of all the mother of six children. The main reason for her job is to finance her children's Christian education. She is active in the church where she is presently serving as assistant Sabbath School superintendent. When asked what her greatest desire is, she said, "To see all of my children saved in God's kingdom."

Shirley has known much sadness in her life. After being a member of the church for 16 years she became discouraged. She discovered that her 11-year-old son had brain cancer. When he was 15 years old he died.

And there were other problems and tragedies in her family.

Several years later, while attending a new-car showing, Harold F. Otis Sr., former publishing director for the Indiana Conference, met Shirley and discovered that she was a former member.

He encouraged her to go back to church and told her that at a certain time each day he would be praying for her. She thought to herself, that's impossible, I'm not at all interested.

In the following years Shirley had three serious operations. While she was in the hospital recovering from one of these operations, Jerry Lastine, Indiana Conference trust services director, visited her. He showed his love and concern for her and her family. When she got home he arranged for Bible studies, and in 1974 Shirley and her sons, Tim and Mike, and daughter, Mary, were all baptized.

To Shirley, selling cars is just a sideline. To hasten Jesus' soon return is her main business and she is not afraid to say so.

banking to assure a supply of blood for hemorrhaging patients."

Where do most medical technologists work?

"They are needed in a wide range of places: hospital laboratories, doctors' offices, reference laboratories, mission hospitals, public health laboratories—to name just a few."

Are there many job openings for the medical technologist?

"I have never seen a competent person go without a position. While many fields of work have suffered unemployment, the opposite is true for medical technology. Government spending for health care and the continued expansion in technical knowledge have produced demands for medical technologists.

There is a continual need in excess of trained people available. We did a survey recently at Hinsdale, and the results indicated that many of our Seventh-day Adventist hospitals have unfilled positions in medical technology."

What must a person study to become a medical technologist?

"The student must have four years of college. During that time the following requirements must be met: 24 quarter credits of chemistry, 24 quarter credits of biology, and 4 quarters in an accredited school of medical technology."

You mentioned some of the advantages of having the program at Andrews. What else, besides discovering during the freshman year

One of Andrews University's practical education opportunities has become even more practical.

Until this fall, Andrews—in cooperation with Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital—has offered a four-year degree in medical technology. It still takes four years to complete the degree requirements.

What's new about the program is that students will now have the chance to get into clinical laboratory classes while they are still at Andrews. Previously they had to wait for their laboratory training until the fourth year at Hinsdale.

Regarding the change, Bill Bradford, director of the program at Andrews, says, "We wanted to give the students—and the medical technology department—an opportunity to see if they have what it takes to be good technologists. Students are now required to take two basic laboratory courses in their first year. If they achieve academic excellence and decide they wish to continue in the program, we accord them acceptance into their declared major. On the basis of continued high performance in medical technology courses, they are then guaranteed admittance to the fourth year of intensive laboratory training at Hinsdale."

Mr. Bradford answered several questions which prospective students might ask:

What are the job responsibilities for the medical technologist?

"They engage in laboratory procedures which help the doctor in the diagnosis of disease. Medical technology is more than just test tubes and laboratory equipment and computer analysis. These elements are also needed: to determine blood sugar levels for diagnosing or treating diabetes; to identify, through the use of the microscope, blood cells in the diagnosis of leukemias; to operate chemistry analyzers in determining blood enzyme levels in the treatment of liver disease; to test antibiotic effectiveness in destroying infectious bacteria, and to supervise blood

OPPORTUNITIES AT ANDREWS UNIVERSITY:

Medical Technology

whether or not medical technology is the future for a student, makes the Andrews campus better?

"What we will be offering is a professional degree designed to meet the specific needs of medical technology. Medical technology science courses will be taught by faculty who are qualified technologists, and these courses will be offered during all four years. What makes this program at Andrews so unique is the opportunity the students have to specialize in areas which accommodate their interests."

What are the areas of specialization?

"We are able to take advantage of cooperation with the other departments in the university to provide concentration in several areas which compliment medical technology.

"Students choosing the premedical option will complete requirements for entrance to medical school while also qualifying for employment as medical technologists, an important factor for those working their way through school.

"Let's say a student might be interested in the business administration part of medical technology. It is possible to concentrate in this area to become a chief medical technologist, a supervisor or an administrator.

"The computer science option enables students to become certified as medical technologists as well as competent computer programmers. The education option qualifies the student to work as an education coordinator for medical technology.

"For the person who has more than a little mechanical aptitude, there is the electronics option which qualifies graduates to maintain and repair laboratory instruments as a part of their work responsibilities."

Mr. Bradford paused, and then added, "I surely wish I had such educational opportunities when I was a student."

If a person wants to enter the medical technology program, what should he do?

"The program is underway now. Anyone interested in more information should call (616) 471-3303, or write to the Director of Admissions, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104."

HEALTH SPECIALISTS CONDUCT NUTRITION SEMINAR

A one-day clinical update on nutrition and longevity was held at Andrews University Sunday, September 3. Physicians and other interested persons from all over the United States attended the seminar coordinated by Dr. Herald A. Habenicht of Andrews' Medical Center.

Dr. Denis P. Burkitt, a leading medical researcher from St. Thomas Medical School in London, England, conducted a discussion of diet and its relationship to hardening of the arteries and certain types of cancer. The most important preventive factor in reducing diverticulosis and cancer of the colon as well as hardening of the arteries, according to Dr. Burkitt, is an adequate intake of fiber in the diet. He recommended the use of whole-grain cereals.

An excess of sugar in the diet is also a factor in promoting arterial disease and cancer of the lower digestive tract, he said.

Dr. Burkitt is a former missionary to Africa and is best known for his studies of cancer of the lower intestine and the effect of fiber in the diet. His studies of a malignant tumor of the jaw sometimes found in children also resulted in the disease being classified as Burkitt's tumor.

Dr. William Castelli of Harvard University and Boston University School of Medicine dealt with fat, triglycerides and high-density lipoproteins. Dr. Castelli is credited with discovering lipoproteins as a risk factor in heart disease.

Perhaps more accurate as a predictor of serious heart disease than other risk factors such as high blood pressure and triglycerides, the high-density lipoproteins are apparently an inherited condition which shows up in blood tests of newborn infants, says Dr. Castelli.

He stated that while only 5 percent of all men nationally have a heart attack before the age of 60, the figure is closer to 20 percent for men who have high-density lipoproteins.

According to Dr. Castelli, infants who are identified as having the condition could be greatly benefited by a preventive program centered around a proper diet.

Also present at the seminar was Dr. Hans Diehl of Pritikin's Longevity Institute in Santa Barbara, California. Using data compiled from the first 1,000 case studies at the institute, Dr. Diehl said that in a period of four weeks patients are able to reverse most symptoms of heart disease.

An important part of their regimen, says Dr. Diehl, is walking several miles each day. In most cases, high blood pressure is lowered and angina symptoms disappear.

A heavy emphasis was placed on the prevention of disease, according to Dr. Donna Habenicht, who participated in the seminar.

"Many physicians in attendance wondered if they were not missing their calling by taking care of acutely ill patients only," she said.

More than 200 people from the seminar attended a vegetarian buffet dinner during the lunch hour at Andrews University's food service. The dinner menu had been planned to follow guidelines for low-fat meals.

The seminar was part of a week-long workshop featuring health and nutrition specialists, but the Sunday session was designed to benefit persons not able to attend the full week's activities.

DEAN'S LIST ANNOUNCED

Dr. Dwain L. Ford, dean of Andrews' College of Arts and Sciences, has announced the dean's list for summer quarter. Those from the Lake Union Conference are as follows:

Karin E. Lundstrom, Eugene B. Young, Basil Warner, Sara Terian, Susan Leyzac, Hans Killius, Carlton Cox, Sharlita M. Rodgers, Janet Esh, Charel J. Anderson, Lise C. Valleray, Lowell Taylor and Eyjolfur Finnsson, all of Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Kenneth Hutchins and Douglas Hearn, both of Lansing, Michigan; Anne Summerton of Endeavor, Wisconsin; Vickie Schwersinski of Kalamazoo, Michigan; Marjorie Schiffbauer of Brookfield, Illinois; Patti McKenney of Allegan, Michigan; Cindy Lord of Watervliet, Michigan; Joyce Webber of Carney, Michigan; Bruce Ward of Sterling, Michigan, Phyllis Jo Henderson of Hinsdale, Illinois, and David J. DeRose of Northbrook, Illinois.

Students must attain a grade-point average of 3.5 to be put on the dean's list.

HINSDALE NEWS NOTES

• Depicting the theme "Hinsdale Hospital Wishes You Well," the hospital's Fourth of July float won first prize and "Pick of the Parade" award in the Hinsdale parade. The float featured a rustic wishing well and garden path surrounded by hundreds of yellow mums, with junior and senior volunteers and people representing various medical-related professions riding on it.

• As of August 1, the average patient's bill at Hinsdale Hospital has shown a decrease of $8. While malpractice insurance premiums in general have increased during the past few years, Hinsdale Hospital has a lowered premium as the result of a better-than-average experience rating when compared to its peers nationwide. In association with 50 other Seventh-day Adventist hospitals in North America, Hinsdale Hospital has combined its malpractice insurance under the General Conference Risk Management Services. As a result of the subsequent reduction, the board of trustees voted unanimously at its July 13 meeting to pass on to patients this savings of $125,000.

PHYSICAL THERAPISTS MEET AT HINSDALE

Physical therapists from throughout the United States attended a week-long "Joint Mobilization Seminar" at Hinsdale Hospital in July. Conducted by Loma Linda University and directed by Bjorn Svendsen, right, registered physical therapist, the seminar introduced a system of treating joints with limited range of motion to increase function and decrease pain. Mr. Svendsen was assisted throughout the course by his wife, Svanhill, left, also a registered physical therapist.

NEWS NOTE

• The fourth annual "Shoe Giveaway" was held Thursday, August 7, at the Quincy Adventist Community Center. The giveaway was publicized in the local paper and on radio and TV. An estimated 415 persons went through and picked up more than 700 pairs of shoes. About 300 pieces of literature were also distributed. Sharon Hurt, director, and Mary Howell and Hazel Wright organized the giveaway. The shoes were accumulated during the year from garage sales, and some new shoes were sent by the Illinois Conference.

REVELATION SEMINAR HELD IN INDIANAPOLIS

The new Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Indianapolis was the location of the Revelation Seminar conducted by Lester Carney, Indiana Conference ministerial secretary.

On Sunday, August 27, about 95 people came to the ballroom for an all-day study seminar on the Book of Revelation from 9:30 A.M. to 4:45 P.M.

Approximately 15 attendees were seminar staff—pastors and medical personnel.

Thirty-one seminar participants were non-Adventists.

To attend the seminar the participants paid for materials and the vegetarian meal prepared by the hotel chefs. The materials included a seminar notebook and a special It Is Written Bible.

Four aspects of the Book of Revelation were studied: first, the historical background of the book; second, the theme of the book brought out in Revelation 12; third, the message of the book for our present time, and last, the book as it relates to future events.

The Indianapolis metropolitan pastors served on a panel to answer questions and were also available to assist any participants with individual questions.

After the noon meal a panel of ministers, Dr. Melvin Lund and Dr. Ray Smith dealt with the subject of healthful living.

During the day there were three Bible chain reference sessions in which the people studied and marked their own Bibles on the topics presented.

Advertising brochures had been distributed in area churches and notices were mailed to people who had expressed interest in It Is Written. For three weeks prior to the seminar, an announcement was made at the end of the It Is Written program promoting the seminar.

The plan to follow up the seminar involved each of the Indianapolis area churches. Each pastor at the seminar announced classes or meetings to be held in his church.

During February, two Revelation seminars will be held in Indiana by Elder George Vandeman. On February 24 he will conduct one for the Fort Wayne area and the following day another one will be conducted in Indianapolis.

LOCAL ELDERS MAKE HISTORY AT TIMBER RIDGE

For the first time in the history of the Indiana Conference a weekend training seminar was held for local church elders.

Timber Ridge Camp provided a pleasant setting for 26 elders and many of their wives as they came together to receive instruction from the conference office staff on the weekend of August 11 to 13.

Lester Carney, ministerial director, and other conference office staff members organized and served as instructors for the weekend sessions.

The main objective for the training was to help the local elders meet their potential in this church office.

At the opening meeting on Friday night, there was a discussion on the importance of the office of elder as seen in the Bible and Spirit of Prophecy.

On Sabbath the seminar took on a practical theme, dealing with such topics as sermon preparation, how to conduct a Sabbath School class, worship and platform decorum, and how to make specific types of visits.

Iona Morgan, wife of the conference president, spoke to the elders' wives about their role in helping their husbands become strong spiritual leaders in the church.

On Saturday night a social was conducted and suggestions were given on specific things that could be done in a local church for socials for young people and senior citizens.

Throughout the weekend an opportunity was given for interaction between the elders and the staff.

What was the response of the elders to such a seminar? The staff was interested to find out since the project was new and the elders paid their own way to attend.

Many participants expressed their enthusiasm and appreciation to the staff for such an experience.

One man, new as an elder and new in the church, said he found out that Adventists could "still have fun and enjoy a good time."

Another elder said that "he recieved more than he had even anticipated."

As stated in the seminar, the better trained the elder becomes, the better he can train the members in his church.

Many local elders who were unable to attend have expressed a desire to attend the next seminar.

FALL EVANGELISM IN INDIANA

On September 8 at 7:15 P.M. in the Gary Adventist Church the fall evangelistic program for Indiana was begun. This is one of many crusades that will be conducted throughout the state before the end of the year.

The Gary campaign is directed by Lester Carney, conference ministerial secretary, and Carl Johnson, pastor of the Gary Church, who also serves as musical director.

Those who live in the Gary area are invited to attend this series. If you have friends or relatives living in Gary whom you would like to be invited to the meetings, please send their names and addresses to the pastor of the Gary Church, West Broadway and 46th Street, Gary.

The following is a list of the locations and speakers for other campaigns scheduled for Indiana this fall.

Jasper	W. A. Kolmodin
Elnora	Al Keiser
Terre Haute	R. W. Taylor
Columbus	Harley Bresee
Plymouth	Glenn Hill
Indianapolis	Lester Carney
Madison	Jack Colclessor
Rochester	David Fish

In addition to these campaigns there are several weekly classes being conducted in the Indianapolis metropolitan area as a follow-up for the It Is Written Revelation Seminar conducted on August 27 by Lester Carney.

Please join the Indiana Conference in praying for a rich outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

SPOTLIGHT ON THE 5-DAY PLAN

To many Adventists the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking is little more than a catch phrase identifying a periodic public service activity highlighting the evils of nicotine and discouraging its use. Many of us, if pressed to give a detailed description of the program, would have to claim ignorance.

Yet a knowledge of the plan would enable us to communicate better with the public when issuing an invitation to attend a Five-Day Plan.

The Glendale Church recently conducted another successful Five-Day Plan. During a mission spotlight segment of the Sabbath School program, Dr. Melvin Lund, one of the program's coordinators, discussed the Five-Day Plan for the benefit of the church members. The following question-and-answer discussion proved to be enlightening to church members as well as those who were unfamiliar with the program.

Why do people smoke?

The 30 million people who smoke do not take smoking lightly. They realize that nicotine is not in any way beneficial to their systems, so therefore smoking must be a reaction to an individual psychological need.

Does the Five-Day Plan make participants stop smoking?

Contrary to some beliefs, a person doesn't simply attend the classes and quit smoking just like that. There is a question of volition. A person must recognize a need, for health or other reasons to discontinue dependence upon tobacco. The Five-Day Plan re-emphasizes the necessity for quitting and provides the necessary assistance for those who wish to do so. For those who do not wish to quit smoking, the program offers little hope.

Why don't we simply use the billboard method of reaching smokers?

Obviously because it doesn't answer such an intimate need. We have to develop a personal relationship with participants. There has to be trust before there is acceptance.

Could you explain how the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking is conducted?

On the first day participants are nervous. They don't know what they are getting in to. So there is a group of people on hand to help the participants feel at ease. It usually helps if a church member accompanies the person he invited on the first night. First there is a film that conveys a message: Smoke, and this is what will happen to your lungs, your cells, your heart, et cetera. The correlation between caffeine and cigarettes is pointed out.

The drinking of fruit juice or water in place of coffee is encouraged, as is temporary disassociation with smoking cronies. Exercises and diet changes are suggested and proper breathing is taught. Many smokers fear they will gain weight if they quit. One lecture therefore deals with calorie intake and distribution.

At the end of the session we do not ask participants to promise not to smoke. Instead, they are asked to make a decision. The results of each program vary. Studies suggest that 37 percent of those who participate stop smoking.

How is the success of the program measured?

There is that minority who quit permanently. Then there are those who stop smoking only temporarily. We have found that even those who do not decide to quit become missionaries for the program.

Look at the Five-Day Plan this way. We do it to help people, and this is the whole emphasis of the ministry of Christ.

A LITERATURE RACK WORTH THE WALL SPACE

The woman waiting in the office of Dr. Donald Ballard, an Adventist physician in Detroit, noticed the tract rack and took a pamphlet home. She gave it to her daughter and son-in-law, Valerie and Bill Campeau.

The Campeaus enjoyed what they read, and mailed the coupon that was a part of the tract. They wanted additional literature and the free Bible study course it offered. The "lead card" reached Jim Lefler, a literature evangelist, who visited the Campeaus. He sensed a deep spiritual desire in the couple. He gave them a copy of The Great Controversy and offered to study the Bible with them. They accepted his offer, not knowing that he was an Adventist.

In the meantime Mrs. Campeau's mother had returned for another visit with Dr. Ballard. She took more literature home to share. One pamphlet was an Amazing Facts tract about the Sabbath.

The Campeaus read it and were convinced that they should start at once to keep the seventh-day Sabbath. They looked in the Yellow Pages for the nearest church with services on Saturday and immediately began attending the Oakwood Seventh-day Adventist Church.

When the literature evangelist returned to conduct his first Bible study with the couple he found that the Campeaus had invited several of their family to join them. ## ELLSWORTHS CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Guy and Irma Ellsworth celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday, September 3, 1978, at their home in St. Louis, Michigan. Lifetime residents of Gratiot County, the Ellsworths were visited by many local friends and relatives during the open house. Other people came from Tennessee, Indiana and Illinois to honor the Ellsworths.

Irma Hicks and Guy Ellsworth were married at the home of her parents, William and Nellie Hicks, in Alma on Christmas Eve, 1928.

Irma completed her normal training at Andrews University in 1925. She taught 33 years, 10 of which were at the St. Louis Church School.

The couple contributed much in time, effort and money to the construction and completion of the Twin Cities Church in Alma where they are members.

The Ellsworths have three children, Doris Collins of Berrien Springs, Keith of Crassville, Tennessee, and Ruth Easlick of Ithaca; 11 grandchildren, and 5 great-grandchildren. They have also been foster grandparents to several other children.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH DEDICATED

Dedication services were held recently for the Plymouth Church.

Elder James Hayward, executive secretary of the Michigan Conference, presented the afternoon dedicatory sermon. He pointed out that the church is not a building, it is a congregation; thus the dedication was not of a building, but of the congregation which meets within its walls. During the regular 11 o'clock worship service, Charles Keymer, conference president, spoke of "God's Plan for His Church."

Other people who participated in the day's activities included G. H. Crumley and Herb Pritchard, treasurers respectively of the Lake Union and the Michigan conferences.

Area ministers who took part included the present pastor, Norman Yeager, and former pastors Robert Wiese and William Dennis. The history of the church was read by Alice Merrifield.

In 1934 Mrs. B. F. Heller moved to the Plymouth area from Illinois. Although confined to a wheelchair she was of a dauntless spirit and found out from the conference that there were two other Adventist families living in the area. This small group grew and in 1935 A. J. Lock, the local elder of the Brightmoor Church, organized it into a Sabbath School.

Other Adventists in the vicinity began to worship with the group. Bible studies were conducted at the weekly prayer meetings and soon people were being baptized. The number of believers grew until they overflowed the two rooms of Mrs. Heller's house which had been set aside for worship services.

For the next two years the group met in a rented hall and after a few months they voted to buy a building. Seven or eight members pledged $750 as a down payment for a store building on the main street. This they converted into a chapel.

On May 13, 1950, Elder G. E. Hutches, then president of the Michigan Conference, organized the group into a church with 16 charter members.

Jennie Zimmerman has been a member of the congregation since that time. She has been the treasurer of the church since 1944 and may hold a record for years of continuous service.

In 1955, with the leadership of Elder Merton Henry, Plymouth's first Seventh-day Adventist Church was built on Ann Arbor Trail. Ground-breaking services for the present building were held on October 22, 1961, on property which was a gift of Mrs. William Yuhas in memory of her husband. The new church was opened for worship on October 12, 1963.

The pastors who have served the Plymouth Church since the present building program was started are

NEWS NOTE

• On Sabbath, August 12, the Pound and Gillett churches were honored to have as their guest speaker Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, president of Andrews University. Dr. Smoot's message, taken from 2 Thessalonians 2:13-17, emphasized the incredible love of God for his children.

MOSQUITOS THWARTED AT CAMP WAHDOON

Mosquitos have been a part of the environment of Camp Wahdoon for years. Campers have always been advised to be prepared for mosquitos.

The camping season of 1978 promised to be no different. In fact with the abnormally high amount of rain, the camp was prepared for a large mosquito population.

However the campers and staff were not bothered by these insects this year. Thanks to the generosity of the S. C. Johnson and Son company of Racine everyone enjoyed camp very much and didn't miss the mosquitos at all. The company donated 13 cases of Yard Guard and seven cases of Off to the camp. The staff and campers are very appreciative of this gift.

WEIGHING THE ADVANTAGES

WA-RITE program benefits continue to accrue for a couple who attended the program that was held in Prairie du Chien last spring. When the 12-week program concluded Meda Weller had lost 10½ pounds, and her husband had lost 20½ pounds. The Wellers decided to continue following the suggestions and instructions they had learned at the program, and set their goal for a weight loss of one to two pounds per week.

To date, Meda has lost 23 pounds and her husband has lost 40½ pounds. They attribute their success to the help they received from the WA-Rite program. New health habits have now become part of their lives.

"I beseech you therefore, brethern, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." Romans 12:1.

Prairie du Chien Convalescent Center*

New Releases

YOUR ADVENTIST NEIGHBORS, by Richard Utt. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $ .75.

This book is not a recital of statistics or of denominational accomplishments. It is a capsule statement of what Adventists believe and why, along with an invitation to join us. The author has employed winsome and tactful language to express the church's beliefs, doing it in such a way as to alleviate prejudice and win confidence.

LAY EVANGELIST'S HANDBOOK, by the Lay Activities Department of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. $1.25.

Laymen and ministers will receive an inspiration and a plan for working in this new 95-page handbook. These 16 chapters cover the best methods of winning souls for Christ.

WHAT ABOUT LIFE AFTER LIFE? by Leo Van Dolson. Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. $ .75.

After hearing himself pronounced dead, a man feels himself moving rapidly through a long dark tunnel. Then he realizes that he is outside his own physical body, looking at it as though he were a spectator, watching the activities of the doctors and nurses around it. Does this describe the experience of a person after he is truly dead? The author of

What About Life After Life? deals with this important question in a way that gives scientific as well as Biblical answers.

YOURS FOR THE ASKING, by Edwin Gallagher. Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. $3.50.

No Christian worthy of the name would deny that prayer is to the spiritual being as protein is to the physical; that is, it is essential to every cell of a living, growing Christian experience.

And yet we falter. We are concerned over "Thee" versus "You." Habit tends to have us praying in a rut. Our public prayers tend to elaborate showiness or thoughtless brevity inspired by self-consciousness.

Yours for the Asking is a small book written for all praying people by a young author whose own prayer life has been keened to joyful anticipation of conversation with—not to—a loving Friend.

Lake Union Conference

This is a scene from the Faith for Today film, "John Hus."

F.F.T. HOLDS RALLIES IN LAKE UNION

"John Hus," the newest Faith for Today film release, will Highlight Faith for Today Educational Rallies beginning this September in the Lake Union.

The rallies are designed to acquaint church members with what Elder William Hull, director of F.F.T. field services and station relations, terms the Four M's: "We want people to understand the ministry, mission, message and method of Faith for Today," he says.

Elder and Mrs. Bernie Paulson, musical team and assistants to Elder Hull, host the rallies. Besides showing the Hus film, they will answer questions concerning Faith for Today and will provide inspirational music.

The schedule below lists the locations for the F.F.T. educational rallies. To learn more about your church-sponsored telecast and to discover its latest approach to reaching the secular man for Christ, be sure to attend. Please encourage your non-Adventist friends to join you.

G.C. COMMUNICATION DIRECTOR DIES

M. Carol Hetzell, director of the General Conference department of communication, died of cancer on Saturday, September 2, in the Washington Adventist Hospital. She was 61.

Her work in public relations and communications has earned her a listing in several biographical volumes including Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who in Public Relations, Foremost Women in Communications, The Two Thousand Women of Achievement, and The World's Who's Who of Women.

A graduate of Columbia Union College, in Takoma Park, Maryland, Miss Hetzell worked her way through school in the proofroom of the school's college press.

In 1951 she became a staff member of the General Conference bureau of public relations, in 1954 an assistant director, and in 1962 an associate director. She became the first woman to direct the Adventist Church's worldwide communication work in 1975.

Miss Hetzell is survived by her brother, Albert of Vineland, New Jersey, and three nephews.

MORE EBLA TABLETS DISCOVERED

An additional 20 thousand clay tablets, called the Ebla Tablets, have been discovered by an archeological team in northern Syria. The records of the Kingdom of Ebla, an ancient Semitic civilization unknown before the discovery of the tablets, have given added hope to unlocking questions of Biblical history.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN PENTAGON RULED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

A federal magistrate has ruled that a series of religious services held in the Pentagon's public concourse area violates Constitutional provisions for separation of church and state. A Pentagon spokesman says the decision will be studied to determine its effect on the Pentagon Pulpit Program which was begun in 1942 by President Franklin Roosevelt. In the past, guest speakers at the Pentagon have included evangelist Billy Graham, Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton Sheen, and speaker of the Voice of Prophecy radiobroadcast H.M.S. Richards.
