Lake Union Office Expansion

In recent years the conferences which make up the Lake Union have requested the centralization of certain programs for the purpose of maximizing service and minimizing costs.

A case in point is Home Health Education Service (H.H.E.S.) which processes sales contracts for our literature evangelists. This operation frees the literature evangelist of the cares involved in collecting accounts so that he can concentrate on contracts and sales. The literature work is growing rapidly. Processed sales for 1978 are expected to exceed $2,700,000 or an increase over last year of $800,000.

At the present time the H.H.E.S. operations are conducted from rented and inadequate quarters in downtown Berrien Springs. The 14 employees in that department are doing their best under difficult working conditions, but anxiously look forward to new working quarters and adequate warehousing for inventory.

In 1977 the General Conference approved a new auditing service for its church operations around the world. Until that time one auditor was expected to cover all Lake Union conferences and institutions. It was an impossible job. Under the new arrangement three auditors are serving the territory and they are also working out of temporary quarters.

Another totally new service, Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc. (GLAHS), which is moving rapidly in the development of new medical and health programs, is in rented quarters. Provision must be made for their needs.

Other departments that are either inadequately housed or without space are education, stewardship and trust services, and ministerial.

With so many needs throughout the Lake Union territory, it was a hard decision to make, but conditions seemed to dictate the expansion of our Lake Union headquarters.

Plans have been underway for the past three years and approximately 50 percent of the funding has already been set aside. We believe a beautiful but economical design has been selected, and the contract for construction was awarded by bid to Poole Construction Company, a Seventh-day Adventist builder. Actual site work began this week and the completion date is set for late next year.

HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Mother of the Year

by Alyce Cervantez

An investiture service was the occasion for the Summit Climbers Pathfinder Club to pay tribute to a person who is responsible for the existence of the Summit Church and thus a Pathfinder club in Jackson, Michigan.

Thirty-one years ago Darius Hibler and her husband came to Jackson from Detroit, Michigan. She began to fellowship with the believers at the Franklin Street Church.

Working with her husband in the mortuary business, Mrs. Hibler had many opportunities to contact people in the black community. She became concerned that there was no Adventist Church in Jackson in the area of the city where black people lived.

This concern was put into action. She contacted a Bible instructor and the two of them visited in the community. Interest in studying the Bible was great and soon a Sabbath afternoon story hour was started in the Hibler's living room. A Friday evening prayer service increased the interest of the community.

Out of this group a company was formed and as the membership continued to grow, conference leaders were summoned to organize the believers into a church. This made it necessary to find larger quarters. A sanctuary was rented in one of the many small churches in the community.

As the years passed the membership increased and the people prayed, planned and dreamed of a place of their own in which to worship. Today a beautiful edifice stands as a testimony of the dedication and hard work of Mrs. Hibler and others.

On May 24 of this year, the Pathfinders of Jackson presented a plaque to Mrs. Hibler naming her their choice for Mother of the Year. Pathfinder leader Sam Cort presented the plaque and spoke of Mrs. Hibler as "having been a great inspiration and support to the youth of the Summit Church.

With God's help Darius Hibler will always exhibit that kind of support, because her interest in young and old people alike has not diminished.

Alyce Cervantez is communication secretary of the Summit Church in Jackson, Michigan.

The Loving Letter

by C. Mervyn Maxwell
illustration by June Nowlin

The story of how the loving letter to Laodicea came to the Adventists in Waukon, Iowa, is deeply moving. Some of it happened in the Lake Union. It will be told in four installments.

In a little house in Rochester, New York, Mary Loughborough greeted her husband as he came home one Friday evening in the fall of 1852.

"I'm so glad to see you!" she squealed. "I missed you terribly all week."

John said the same and hugged her tight. She disentangled herself after a bit and asked, "Did you have another good week?"

"Mary, the Lord surely blessed. Everywhere people were building houses, and almost everyone seemed eager to buy my Arnold's Patent Sash Locks for their windows. But supper's on and Sabbath's coming in. Let's eat."

During the meal Mary asked, "John, have we been able to save anything?"

"Save anything? You wouldn't believe how much."

"I'll try, John."

"We've got $35—think of it! Most people earn only $1 a day. We could live in comfort for almost six weeks even if I sold nothing more."

"Don't you think we ought to celebrate? Let's do something special."

"Yes," answered John soberly. "I think the Lord has been blessing so I could do something special. I think He wants me to become a minister."

"Oh, no, John! Ministers are much too poor. Please don't talk about being a minister."

John agreed—and found he couldn't sell sash locks any more. About six weeks later he was reduced to a single coin. He stayed in the bedroom one morning and committed himself at last to the ministry, trusting God.

As he stepped into the living room, Mary asked for money to go shopping with. He handed her a silver three-cent piece and asked her to spend only two cents so they wouldn't be entirely broke.

"But John," wailed the poor girl, "what are we going to do?"

"I've promised God I'll be a minister."

"But John, then we'll be poor!"

"We can't be any poorer than we are already," John replied. More tenderly he added, "God will help us. You know He will."

Mary cried in the bedroom for an hour. After she went shopping, however, a stranger knocked. He was moving south and wanted an $80 collection of Arnold's Patent Sash Locks to set himself up in business. At a one-third commission, John was suddenly worth $26. The man left. John started to sing. Mary walked in with her one-cent change.

"How can you sing when we're so poor?" she demanded.

"How can I keep from singing when we're so rich?" he countered.

John told Mary what had happened. She returned to the bedroom for a different cry. They entered the ministry, happily. They were not Laodiceans—not yet.

FAMILY LIFE WORKSHOP '78

The Family Life Workshop for 1978 met at Andrews University September 11 to 21. More than 100 people enrolled in the workshop which is jointly sponsored by the university and the Home and Family Service of the General Conference.

The sessions are designed to train people in the concepts and methods of organizing a church-centered family life education program.

The workshops were begun at Andrews in 1975 by Drs. John and Millie Youngberg of the education department. Dr. Delmer Holbrook and his wife, Betty, from the General Conference joined them the following year.

Lectures, discussions, films and group projects are among the learning exercises employed in the sessions.

Noted Adventist author Ruben Hilde lectured on child training and discipline, while Andrews' Dr. Reger C. Smith presented a discussion of trends in families and Loma Linda's Alberta Mazat discussed the different stages of a marriage.

The evangelical family life organization known as Family Concern was represented by Norman Stolpe and Larry Simcox. An inter-denominational group, Family Concern, was founded by J. Allan Petersen.

Dr. Robert A. Williams, dean of Andrews' School of Graduate Studies, dealt with problems encountered in counseling. He said he has found no substitute for prayer in overcoming problems or in helping others to overcome theirs.

Other sessions covered such topics as parent-child relationships and family finance.

The Family Life Workshop has become one of the most successful special courses offered on the Andrews campus, according to Dr. Rudolf E. Klimes, director of special courses.

The number of participants in special courses during 1978 more than doubled when compared to the previous year, says Dr. Klimes. Almost 1,600 people enrolled in a seminar or workshop this year compared to less than 800 last year. More than 2,600 credit hours were taken on both undergraduate and graduate levels.

MEN'S CLUB TO STAGE FALL FEST

Andrews University's men's club will attempt to establish an annual tradition this year with a week-long celebration of Fall Fest, according to Don Murray, associate dean of men.

The week of October 15 to 21 will feature social and athletic activities such as a long-distance run, roller-skating and a try at setting the world's record for the largest game of musical chairs. Other events include an automobile show, a hot-air balloon contest and a hole-in-one contest.

Fall Fest was created, says Mr. Murray, in response to a need for more student-faculty interaction and to help students meet more of their peers early in the school year.

The finale on Saturday night will be a "rip snortin', old-fashioned country fair," says Mr. Murray.

Student coordinators of the events are Ken Hutchins and Dallas Sinnett.

The James White Library, Andrews University

JAMES WHITE LIBRARY TO CELEBRATE

The James White Library at Andrews University will observe a Week of Celebration, October 22 to 29, according to Mary Jane Mitchell, librarian.

The celebration will mark several significant events in the library's history, including an open house and tours of the building's newer sections on Sunday, October 22. Recent construction has doubled the size of the building and tripled its book capacity.

At 2 P.M. on October 22, a special ceremony will be held naming the library's museum in honor of Dr. Siegfried Horn, one of the foremost Seventh-day Adventist archeologists and a former Andrews faculty member. Dr. Horn organized and coordinated most of the university's expeditions to the archeological site at ancient Heshbon in Jordan.

Dr. Horn will also lecture in the Pioneer Memorial Church at 8 P.M.

Distinguished guests during the Week of Celebration will include Dr. John Brinkman, director of Chicago's Oriental Institute, and Kenneth Mull, professor of archeology at Aurora College.

Among other highlights of the observance will be the display of the George B. Suhrie Bible collection recently donated to the library, including copies of the largest and smallest Bibles ever published.

There will be an old-fashioned hymn fest on Friday evening, October 27, at 7:30.

Elder Robert Olson of the White Estate in Washington, D.C., will be the speaker on Sabbath morning, October 28.

On Sunday, October 29, a room in the library will be named in honor of Dr. Kenneth G. Hance of St. Joseph, Michigan, who formerly served as an adjunct professor at Andrews.

identical complexes in Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point which will open in the next few weeks.

"There is a critical need for additional housing for our senior citizens and the handicapped," commented Gary Whitworth, president of Mid-American Health Services. "We hope this project will help to relieve the situation."

The company submitted its original application to build the three complexes 2½ years ago. However, because of procedural delays, final approval for the project was not received until August 5, 1977. Construction began three days later.

The complex will be located adjacent to the Marshfield Convalescent Center. This will provide residents with the opportunity to eat their meals in the convalescent center's dining room if they wish. They may also participate in other activities of the nursing home.

To qualify for an apartment, a resident must be at least 65 years of age or handicapped. In the case of a married couple, at least one of them must meet this criteria. Rent, which includes utilities, will be 25 percent of the resident's income, not to exceed $258 per month.

DODD AND NEUFELD HEAD RESIDENCY PROGRAM

became director of the Hinsdale Family Residency Program at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital on July 1. Timothy Neufeld, M.D., joined the program on July 17 as associate director.

Dr. Neufeld is responsible for directing the Hinsdale Family Medicine Center (H.F.M.C.), the ambulatory care center of the residency program. A graduate of a three-year family practice residency program and former private practitioner, Dr. Neufeld brings an added dimension to the program at Hinsdale.

Since assuming responsibilities as director of the residency program, Dr. Dodd has been involved in reviewing the existing components in determining ways to improve both the clinical and didactic aspects of the family practice residency.

The LaGrange Family Medicine Center (L.F.M.C.), formerly the private practice of Robert LaRue, M.D., is currently being remodeled to better accommodate the eight third-year residents who are practicing in this ambulatory care center.

Similar to the H.F.M.C., this center offers residents the opportunity to practice medicine in circumstances similar to those they will encounter upon completion of the program, while still providing them with the supervision of a senior physician.

Presently 22 graduate physicians are enrolled in the residency program at Hinsdale. In August, Brian Bruckner, M.D., became the second physician to graduate from the Hinsdale Family Practice Residency Program.

Dr. Bruckner will locate in Joliet where he will join a group practice. By January 1979 three more physicians will complete the program. Four new applicants will begin the program at that time.

Patient information booklets were recently printed for both the Hinsdale and LaGrange Family Medicine Centers, giving patients an introduction to the centers by highlighting the philosophy of care, outlining services available, and explaining clinical and billing procedures. The aim is to better inform patients and thereby facilitate the treatment and follow-up services of the centers.

STEPS TO CHRIST CAMPAIGN BRINGS RESULTS

Marcelo Paraoan

Marcelo Paraoan came to the United States with a deep longing to know God.

Born in 1908 at Batak, Ilocos Norte, Philippines, he was raised by deeply religious parents. However the pious rituals could not quench the longing in his soul.

Four years ago he and his wife came to join their children in Chicago. One hot summer day while Marcelo was resting on one of the benches at Humboldt Park, a young person handed him a copy of Steps to Christ.

He read the book with interest. Shortly afterward he came across a copy of El Centinela at a grocery store.

He mailed a request for Bible lessons and finished several series from the Voice of Prophecy. This led to visits by the minister and elders of the Austin S.D.A. Church.

It was a happy occasion for Marcelo to hear H.M.S. Richards Jr. speak during the Illinois camp meeting last June.

In July, three weeks before his 70th birthday, Marcelo was baptized and joined the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

He rejoices greatly in the light of the knowledge of God through the Bible. His greatest hope is for his wife, children and grandchildren to join him in his new found faith.

Also baptized as a direct result of the Voice of Prophecy lessons was Terry Cheser of Chicago.

Terry says he is "very pleased to be a member of the S.D.A. Church." His happy face confirms his statement every Sabbath morning.

Everyone is invited to come and help. Although there will be lots of hard work, food and lodging will be provided.

DAY CAMP AT ELWOOD: A LAMP BURNING BRIGHTLY

Where do you start in a community of 12,000 people? The local church has about five people attending. The last baptism was 23 years ago. Most of the people in town have never heard of Adventists. The answer: You start with children.

The name Vacation Bible School is everywhere. Posters are lined up in store windows all over town. We wanted to do something different. The day camp concept was mentioned. It was a good idea, but where would we get the staff?

Cliff Hoffman, conference youth director, was contacted and agreed to assign some counselors and staff members from Timber Ridge Youth Camp to Elwood for the day camp.

Plans were made and last year the experiment proved a real success. On family night, parents were asking, "Are you going to do it again next summer?" Our answer was, "We don't know, but we want to." And we did. The children were enthusiastic about the program. From 9 A.M. until 3 P.M. the staff kept things moving with stories, crafts, games, singing and nature classes.

On family night, parents again asked, "Are you going to have one again next year?" When asked by the staff, "Would you like us to try again next year?" the applause from the parents was overwhelming.

We must keep the day camp growing. All the children are from non-Adventist homes.

The staff included Doug English, camp director; Trudi Chapman, Jerry Chase, June Driscoll, Bonnie Kellogg, Vicki Simmons and Evelyn Sweeney. Nellie Carter, Bible instructor for the Cicero district, was camp coordinator.

A story hour each Sabbath during the Sabbath School hour is being conducted at Calloway Park, the day-camp site.

As the weather cools, Mrs. Carter plans to move to the church, and for the first time in years, have a Sabbath School program regularly in the Elwood Church.

May God help us keep this lighthouse open, the mirrors polished and the lamp burning brightly.

120 CHILDREN ATTEND ELKHART V.B.S.

The Elkhart Vacation Bible School was held July 19 to 23. From 9:30 A.M. to 11:45 A.M. the scene was a beehive of activity.

The attendance reached a maximum of 120 children with only 17 of them from Seventh-day Adventist homes.

The theme of the Vacation Bible School was "God's Loyal Friends." After a lively song service and prayer, Elder Jan Follett told stories about Bible characters.

A treasure chest of surprises was a feature everyday. One boy or girl was permitted to see what he could draw from the chest. Awards were given for perfect attendance and for those who brought a friend.

There were workbooks and crafts for each age group. Crafts included hanging wall boxes for "sorry-you-weren't-at-home notes" and macrame.

Parents and friends were invited to a program at Sabbath School, June 24, when awards were presented. After the services there was a fellowship dinner at Oxbow Park.

A continuing program was conducted each Tuesday morning through August 1. Crafts, stories, swimming and other outdoor activities were featured.

ANDERSON HOLDS VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Vacation Bible School was held at the Anderson Church, July 17 through 28, with Rose Mary Griffey as the director. The hours were from 6:30 to 9 P.M. for children ages 4 through 16.

There were 144 children enrolled with an average of 80 attending each night. Of these, 104 were non-Adventists.

The church is planning a story as a follow-up. Children who cannot attend the story hour will receive a subscription to Our Little Friend, Primary Treasure or Guide.

Instead of cookies at snack time, this year the children were given crackers with cheese or peanut-butter filling, carrot and celery sticks and juice.

A closing program was held during the church service on July 29. Then the parents were given an opportunity to see their children's crafts and activity books. There was a fellowship dinner that day. Fifty-six children and several parents came for the closing program.

GLENDALE CHURCH CONDUCTS A REVIVAL

Elizabeth Yates said, "The essence of communication is one heart speaking to another heart."

This is what Roscoe G. Brown did during the revival meetings, August 5 to 12, at the Glendale Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Elder Brown is an elder in the Robbins Church, Robbins, Illinois.

Such topics as "Free Love," "Birth Control," "Hell in the Home," "To Dream the Impossible Dream," and "Jesus Included Me" moved the hearts of the members and visiting friends who came nightly to hear the Word of God.

Elder Brown spoke with power and conviction. At the conclusion of his sermon entitled "Jesus Included Me," a graduate student from the University of Minnesota said he was ready to join the church to follow Jesus because he could see how Jesus had included him in the great plan of salvation.

At the conclusion of the meetings, three persons were baptized and two others are preparing for the next baptism.

Odell Napue, head deacon, commented that he appreciated what Elder Brown presented because he had something to say to every age group in the church.

The Remnant Singers and Mrs. Odell Napue provided music for the services. Franklin S. Hill, III, pastor, said that Elder Brown was doing a great service for the church and was practicing the concept of laymen and ministers working together to finish the work so Jesus can come.

Elder Brown has been invited to hold a two-week revival next year at the Glendale Church.

The Glendale Church tape ministry recorded the messages of Elder Brown. For information or a tape order, contact Matthew Austin, Glendale Church, 1138 Glenwood Avenue North, Minneapolis, MN 55405.

KELLOGG COMMUNITY COLLEGE CHANGES COMMENCEMENT FOR ONE STUDENT

The faith of an Adventist was honored by Kellogg Community College of Battle Creek which changed the time of its graduation exercises to allow the Adventist to attend.

In a letter received at the conference office this month, Mrs. Gordon Evans wrote expressing her gratitude that "those in charge of a public college really bent over backwards" to help her.

Mrs. Evans had been attending K.C.C. for the past two years and was looking forward to graduating. For the past few years these exercises had been held on a Thursday evening so she anticipated no Sabbath problems. Much to her dismay she heard the announcement that commencement would be Friday evening.

Completion of college classwork had been delayed 25 years for this staff member of Battle Creek Academy.

Although Mrs. Evans felt the exercises are "more a luxury than a necessity," yet it was a psychological plus to be able to participate in the traditional march and receive the diploma.

A telephone call to the college president was made to see if anything could be done. Mrs. Evans was informed that the date could not be changed, but the time of the exercises might be moved ahead so the program would be finished before sunset. She thanked God for this concession on the part of the administration.

However, when Mrs. Evans went to pick up her graduation announcements she noticed with great disappointment that commencement was to start at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Again she called the president, this time to see if she had misunderstood his earlier statement. When he discovered who was on the phone, he said, "I know why you are calling, but don't worry, the services will be at seven o'clock."

And so, at the expense of the school, a separate card was printed announcing the change in the time of the graduation exercises.

Mrs. Evans felt that Dr. Whitmore, the school's president, "really went beyond the call of duty," in making it possible for her to attend the special services. "He could easily have had a 'that's too bad' attitude," she says, but instead he was gracious and helpful.

A church member's firm stand for principle was thus recognized and rewarded.

COPPER COUNTRY TOURED BY FAMILY CAMPERS

Michigan's traveling family campers, 105 strong, spent an enjoyable week in August in the copper-rich area of the Upper Peninsula. Headquarters were the McLain State Park on Lake Superior.

The first night the families gathered around a campfire to hear Martin Sotala, a teacher at Grand Ledge Academy and a Finnish descendant who grew up in the area, tell of the country rich in history from mining days to the present time.

Finnish, Swedish and other European immigrants who settled in that part of the state were experienced deep-shaft miners and their influence is still apparent throughout the area.

A guided tour through the underground passageways of the historic Delaware Mine, dating back to 1847, gave a realistic picture of the bygone era. A historical museum was visited by the group in Calumet, "Coppertown, U.S.A."

The campers also visited the outstanding rock and mineral museum at Michigan Technological University in Houghton, which was begun to develop Michigan's natural resources.

Traveling Brockway Mountain Drive and enjoying the exquisite beauty of this historic region, the campers arrived at Copper Harbor which is close to the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula. There they visited Fort Wilkins, built in 1844, before going by

EVANGELISM IN WISCONSIN

Adventists throughout the Wisconsin Conference are being asked to give wholehearted support to evangelism during the next several months.

Evangelistic crusades began in Pound, Madison and Marshfield on September 30, and other crusades are scheduled for the following locations:

October 12	Menominee
October 13	Ashland
October 14	Racine
October 14	Richland Center
November 4	Rice Lake
November 11	Oshkosh
November 11	Milwaukee

Several of these crusades will feature speakers from outside Wisconsin.

The speaker for the Marshfield and Milwaukee crusades is Elder Phil Huber who is "on loan" to the Wisconsin Conference from Colorado. He will be featuring multimedia presentations using several projectors simultaneously. The speaker for the Madison crusade is Don Gray, ministerial secretary of the Lake Union. Elder Gray is author of "The Bible Says" Bible study guides which are being used widely throughout America.

The Lake Union Conference is also giving some financial assistance in the public evangelism program for Wisconsin.

The Racine crusade will bring together A. G. Ratcliffe from Northern California and his son, Rodger, who pastors the Racine Church. This crusade will place emphasis on recent archeological discoveries. This approach has been highly successful in reaching the public in other major cities.

Each of the pastors and evangelists involved in these meetings recognizes the importance of the prayers of every church member for these meetings. Even in areas of the conference where no evangelistic meetings will be held this fall, members may join in prayer for the outpouring of God's Spirit. Let us rejoice for these opportunities to share the love of Christ with others!

WISCONSIN EXPANSION FUND

The fund for Wisconsin expansion has now been in existence for one full year in the Wisconsin Conference.

This fund, to which members are encouraged to contribute one percent of their income, is used for the evangelism budget of the conference and for building projects throughout the conference.

Currently the funds are being divided equally between building assistance needs and evangelism. Expansion funds during the past 12 months have equaled less than one-half of one percent of the tithable income of members. This has put additional strain on both evangelism and building needs.

As Wisconsin members see the importance of Wisconsin expansion funds they will want to give prayerful consideration to what the Lord wants them to give from their income to this offering.

TEACHERS ATTEND PRE-SCHOOL SESSION

Forty-one elementary and junior academy teachers from all over Wisconsin joined the academy staff at Wisconsin Academy, August 20 to 23, for the 1978-79 Wisconsin K-12 pre-school session.

R. E. Knutson, superintendent for K-12, organized the session and was chairman of the joint meetings.

Esther Novak, elementary supervisor, directed the elementary sections, and Mildred Summerton, Wisconsin Academy principal, directed the secondary sections.

In the opening devotional, Robert Dale, Wisconsin Conference president, presented a spiritual challenge of teaching in a Christian school.

Dr. George Knight of Andrews University's education department presented devotional and professional talks during the session. Dr. Knight emphasized the spiritual ministry of the teacher and the methods Christ used as a teacher.

Dr. Tom Williams of Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital outlined the problems of drug abuse and gave helpful principles for coping with it among school-age young people.

Earl Peters, M.D., of Green Bay gave a slide presentation on vegetarianism. Thelma Knutson, home economics instructor at Wisconsin Academy, continued with the subject of healthful living, emphasizing temperance in all areas of diet and the relationship of appetite control to the development of Christian character.

F. R. Stephan, Lake Union Conference education director, presented a devotional challenging everyone to develop a more personal fellowship with Jesus Christ every day.

If each teacher has this personal relationship he will be able to communicate the importance of the Christian way of life to his students and help the students prepare their lives for Christ's second coming.

Recreation was also provided. A melon feed and a trip to the Vilas Park Zoo were included in the agenda.

Lake Union Conference

Please pray that if it is God's will, He will perform a miracle to provide this protection for your brothers and sisters.

The great American system should certainly give its citizens the right to work without a conflict of conscience.

Contact your senators today.

URGENT LEGISLATION PENDING

Every week scores of Seventh-day Adventists living within the Lake Union and around the United States are faced with a decision between their consciences and their jobs.

The Adventist Church recommends to its members that they neither join nor financially support labor unions. This counsel is based on Spirit of Prophecy counsel, and many members have strong conscientious convictions in opposition to labor union membership.

Because none of the states of the Lake Union are "right-to-work" states, these people often must decide between conscience and employment.

Legislation is pending in Washington to relieve this conflict. Your help is urgently needed NOW. Urge your senator to have this legislation considered before the current session of Congress ends.

You will recall that last year the Freedom of Conscience bill (H.R. 3384) passed the United States House of Representatives by a vote of 400 for to 7 against. The bill provides that members of a church which has a historical stand against labor union membership may not be forced into membership but may pay a dues-equivalent to a nonchurch, nonunion charity.

Please telephone, telegraph or at least write your two senators today—immediately.

Urge them to contact Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.), chairman of the Labor Sub-Committee, to immediately bring this issue to a vote.

RESTRICTIONS EASED IN EAST GERMANY

East German church leaders and the country's communist leaders have agreed on measures to ease the position of the church. Communist Party Chief Erich Honecker and the country's senior bishop Albrecht Schoenherr came to the agreement at an unprecedented meeting recently. But only now, as the church leadership reports back to the members, are full details becoming apparent about the state's concessions to the religious community. For the first time Protestant pastors will be allowed to minister to inmates in East German prisons. The church has been granted radio airtime once a month, and on special occasions will receive television coverage for religious broadcasts. Authorities will allow the building of churches in new residential areas, and the state will be more generous in allowing import of religious literature.

TOTAL PROHIBITION IS THE GOAL OF INDIA'S PREMIER

To the dismay of India's drinking minority, Prime Minister Morarji Desai has set his country's sights on total prohibition by 1981. Prime Minister Desai has made the banning of alcoholic beverages a major goal of his administration. Although many Hindus drink, it is against the tradition of their religion, and the religious law of the Moslems specifically forbids it. However, drinking has long been part of the diplomatic and business scene in India. New regulations will gradually increase the number of "dry" days in the year until complete prohibition is achieved in 1981.
