Evangelism in Chicagoland

*John L. Hayward
President
Illinois Conference*

Public evangelism is not dead! Even in a metropolis like Chicago. Hundreds continue coming to the North Shore Church, night after night, to hear the Gospel presented by Elder Jim Cress from Florida.

Elder Cress, a recently appointed Lake Union Conference evangelist, accepted the challenge of Chicago as his first campaign in our union. A young man, he speaks with confidence, in full anticipation of God's blessings. And the blessings come.

The presentation of truth is spoken with earnestness to sometimes overflow crowds. A team of six ministers and two women Bible workers work together in an intensive daytime visitation program and a fast-moving, heart-gripping program in the evening.

A spirit of prayer and enthusiasm prevails in the team and participating church members as they unite in the joy of introducing people to Jesus.

Eight million people in the greater Chicagoland area need to be reached! The Lake Union Conference is planning an aggressive spiritual assault on this, the second largest city in North America.

An exciting, Spirit of Prophecy oriented plan is now unfolding. We earnestly appeal to all the church members in the Lake Union territory to pray that the Holy Spirit's direction and power will be demonstrated in meeting this tremendous challenge.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Side by Side

by Birdie Williams

It all began with a dream. Don't get me wrong, she is not a dreamer nor an interpreter of dreams. But this dream holds special significance.

Mabel Barber and her husband, T. S. Barber, joined the Adventist Church many years ago. Mr. Barber was foreman in a Chrysler plant, but lost his job when he accepted the Sabbath.

The Barbers were living in Chicago. One night Mrs. Barber dreamed that they were standing on the porch of a country house talking to a man. Each of them had "something" in their hands—she in her hand at her side and he under his arm as if carrying a Bible.

The man pointed in the direction of acres and acres of wheat ready for harvest and told Mrs. Barber that as far as her eyes could see, she was to have that field of wheat.

Looking at her husband, he told Mr. Barber that where the wheat ended and black, fertile soil began, he was to work that large area.

Shortly after the dream, a friend invited the Barbers to a colporteur meeting. They went, not knowing what the meeting was all about. Here she recognized the man she had seen in her dream—he was Elder C. M. Willis, presently assistant publishing director of the General Conference. Elder Willis asked those who felt called to the literature ministry to sign up. Mrs. Barber had not "heard" the voice of God so she didn't sign up, but her husband did. Later she joined him.

It was in 1943 that they began as literature evangelists on the southside of Chicago. Shiloh Church was located at St. Lawrence Avenue and 46th Street, and that was the dividing street for their territory. Mr. Barber was assigned the area east of St. Lawrence; Mrs. Barber, the west.

In 1947 Mrs. Barber was asked to serve as magazine leader for the Northeastern Conference. In 1949 she assumed the responsibility of assistant publishing secretary for the same conference. In 1956 her husband was called to serve as assistant publishing secretary of the Allegheny Conference.

In 1960 she joined her husband as assistant publishing secretary. He directed the southern part and she the northern part of Ohio. In 1962 her husband became publishing secretary of the Allegheny Conference and she continued as a literature evangelist.

In 1964 she became the office secretary to the publishing department of that conference.

The Barbers came to Lake Region as a team. Elder Barber served as publishing secretary and Mrs. Barber as office secretary. They never planned that their work would be side by side, but just as the dream showed where the wheat stopped and the black, fertile land began, the Barbers have worked side by side. Even in the office they share a room with desks, side by side.

Today Elder Barber is an ordained minister. They have one daughter, Norma Hazell, who received most of her education in church schools while the Barbers were literature evangelists.

Through the years the Barbers have established several churches. In the Northeastern Conference a church was established in Red Hook, an area in Brooklyn, New York; in the Lake Region Conference, the Chicago Heights and Champaign churches in Illinois.

The Independence Boulevard Church was born as a result of colporteurs, and Elder Barber was the first local elder for the church.

Still active in soul winning, the Barbers conduct a Bible class each Friday night in the annex of the publishing department on 86th and Cottage Grove Avenue. Just three Sabbaths ago, a woman who had been attending the Bible class joined the church.

In 1973 Mrs. Barber received the President's Award from the late J. R. Wagner. It is an honor she prizes highly. A member of the Shiloh Church, she serves as a literature evangelist sponsor.

How much stress is too much? Defined as the sum total of internal and external stimuli, stress can damage organs and tissue and contribute toward disease. Continuous striving for success in a success-oriented society often ruins a man.

However, though normally associated with disease, stress can be beneficial. If not exposed to stress during its lifetime, an immature tree fails to become strong and beautiful. The human body reacts similarly.

Hans Selye, a pioneer in the field of stress, outlines three phases of stress: alarm, adaptation and exhaustion. These three phases are easily identified by measuring hormone levels in the body. The production and excretion of the hormone cortisol by the adrenal gland is directly proportional to stress levels.

Cortisol promotes the formation of carbohydrates, plays a role in fat and water metabolism, affects muscle tone, increases stomach secretion, alters the connective tissue response to injury, and impedes cartilage production. In an instance of alarm, adrenal activity is greatly increased.

An example of adaptation can be seen with strenuous exercise which produces enlarged adrenal glands and therefore increased cortisol output.

Exhaustion is produced when the cortisol level is decreased. Because cortisol levels are low in the afternoon, this time should be reserved for secondary decisions, with important matters of business conducted in the morning.

Low cortisol levels result in a sluggish brain, personality changes, increased sensitivity to smell and taste, and lowered blood pressure. In skeletal muscle, a low cortisol level produces greater fatigue.

On the other hand, an increased amount of cortisol produces extra sensitivity in the smallest vessels of the vascular system, resulting in increased blood pressure and increased permeability of the vessels to fat, thus accelerating atherosclerosis. These facts should emphasize the importance of a balanced diet and appropriate life style.

Equally vital in stress control are interpersonal relationships. Happy homes and satisfying working conditions contribute toward lowering stress levels.

The tension, anxiety, hostility and alienation that often plague city life can usually be alleviated in a peaceful countryside. In a favorable environment free from the noise, clamor and confusion of the city, individuals can often "bring it all back together."

Challenging work and social interaction both contribute toward stress control. By helping others, showing appreciation, cooperating rather than competing, and engaging in stimulating recreation, individuals may reduce their stress level.

I remember a hillside garden of roses in a busy city. A guide showed us how to find the thornless roses. After looking and looking, we found them; they really were roses, but they did not smell as sweet nor look as beautiful as those with thorns.

The stresses of life are a bit like those thorns. Some of the most interesting people are those who have suffered a lot of stress. By putting their trials behind them and lifting their faces toward the Son, they become more beautiful.

When we are in trouble and pressed down with anxieties, the Lord is near, and He bids us cast all our care upon Him because He cares for us. Build a climate of trust. With Heaven's blessing and genuine Christian growth, stress control can be effective.

GYMNICS PERFORM AT LANSING

Brian Curry of Andrews University's Gymnics performs on the steps of the Michigan state capitol in Lansing. The Gymnics were on hand to participate in a demonstration in favor of Proposal D, raising Michigan's legal drinking age to 21. The state's voters approved the proposal on November 7 by a wide margin.

SNOW RECEIVES CONSERVATION AWARD

Gerald E. Snow

Dr. Gerald Snow, associate professor of biology, has received an award for scientific contribution from the board of directors of the Kalamazoo-Black-Macatawa-Paw Paw River Basin Citizens Council, according to Robert W. Kaufman, chairman of the council.

Dr. Snow was recognized for his role in conservation projects at a celebration conference, November 9 in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

He is in charge of Andrews' water testing laboratory which conducts studies of water quality in area lakes and rivers and tests water samples for commercial clients and municipal governments.

These people graduated from the food service supervisors workshop.

FOOD SERVICE WORKSHOP

The 1978 food service supervisors workshop at Andrews University enrolled 54 persons from throughout the United States, Africa, Canada and the West Indies.

The sessions emphasized principles of cost control, personnel management, organization, sanitation, safety, layout and equipment.

Graduates of the workshop from the Lake Union Conference include Janet Hainey, Evelyn Hainey, Arthur Chaffee, Gladys Chavez, Tim Collins, Daniel Harris, Danny Ward and Gerty Wilson, all of Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Other graduates include Ida Beaman of Vicksburg, Michigan; James Downs of Hinsdale, Illinois; Bernice Fecho of Berrien Center, Michigan; Jessie Carrell and Wanda Davis of Benton Harbor, Michigan; Karen Counterman of Otsego, Michigan; Valerie Criswell of Cassopolis, Michigan; Gwen Frank of Princeton, Illinois; Elaine Holley of Cedar Lake, Michigan; Helen Lawrence of South Haven, Michigan; John Lyberg of Rogers City, Michigan; Colleen Stegeman of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and David Thomas of Evansville, Indiana.

The workshop provided training for individuals now employed in food service in hospitals, nursing homes, schools or other institutions, and was designed to prepare them for membership in the Hospital, Institution and Educational Food Service Society, sponsored by the American Dietetic Association.

To graduate from the program, an individual attends two summer sessions at Andrews and is supervised by a registered dietitian while accumulating nine months of experience in his own institution.

During alternate years the session emphasizes principles of food preparation, purchasing and service.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN BONE DENSITY STUDIES

Alice G. Marsh

Preliminary findings have been reported in a study of human bone mineral density being conducted by Andrews University and the medical schools of Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

Dr. Alice Marsh, professor of home economics at Andrews, has done more than 1,200 studies on vegetarians in the Berrien Springs community using photon absorptiometry. The process is a modern, highly accurate testing method, says Dr. Marsh.

Two reports on the project have been made to scientific societies. In June 1978 a paper was submitted to the fourth International Conference on Bone Mineral Measurement meeting in Toronto, and Dr. Marsh presented a paper at the annual meeting of the American Dietetic Association in New Orleans in October.

The reports to date have been on healthy women of Anglo-Saxon origin, right-handed, of similar socioeconomic status, who have not regularly taken vitamins and mineral supplements.

The tests have revealed that lacto-ovo-vegetarian women in their 60's, 70's and 80's lose only half the amount of bone mineral as do those who eat meat.

There does not, however, appear to be a significant difference in bone mineralization between vegetarians and persons whose diet includes meat, with subjects in their 50's or younger.

Dr. Marsh says the studies will continue as more varied groups are tested.

ALTRUSA GRANT AWARDED

Lainee James, a doctoral candidate in educational and counseling psychology at Andrews, has received a $1,000 grants-in-aid scholarship from Altrusa International, Inc.

A native of Tobago, Miss James accepted the scholarship at a November 9 meeting of Altrusa's local chapter. Chapter president Dr. Mercedes Dyer of Andrews' education department presented the award.

GLAHS VICE PRESIDENT BECOMES MEMBER OF PROFESSIONAL SOCIETY

HINSDALE—Lawrence E. Schalk, vice president of finance at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital and vice president and treasurer of Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc., was recently advanced to membership status in the American College of Hospital Administrators, a professional society organized in 1933 for persons in health services administration.

To qualify Mr. Schalk completed both the written and oral portions of the Board of Governors Examination for Advancement to Membership of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

The committee on credentials grants permission to undertake the examination after carefully reviewing the candidate's professional growth as evidenced by, for example, participation in community health affairs and the establishment of a personal program of continuing education.

Mr. Schalk graduated from Indiana Academy and Andrews University, where he received a B.S. in accounting and a master's degree in business administration. He is a certified public accountant who has served at Hinsdale Hospital since 1975.

HINSDALE NEWS NOTE

• An October orientation class for hospital volunteers brings 47 new volunteers to this growing corps of workers. Volunteers currently serve in a variety of positions including receptionist in the laboratory area, patient escort, mailmen to sort and deliver patients' mail, and individuals to assist family members in areas such as emergency and intensive care. By bringing to patients personal services beyond those required for their medical care, volunteers have a feeling of satisfaction in knowing that their talents contribute to the achievement of the hospital's goal of total health care.

AN UNFORGETTABLE SUMMER IN CHICAGO

In Young Cho

The 50,000 Koreans living in Illinois are one of the ethnic groups included in the g o s p e l commission given by Jesus when he said, "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

Early in 1978, as students were being recruited at Andrews University for literature evangelist work, In Young Cho took up the challenge of working among his own Korean people in Chicago and the surrounding suburbs.

Mr. Cho began canvassing in Chicago in August. Since he was determined to reach as many people as possible with the books, he worked long hours.

He visited 265 families, many of them professional people. His record shows that he worked 424 hours and found time to give Bible studies and take non-Adventist young people to church. With the guidance of the Holy Spirit, he was able to place $10,173.90 worth of literature in the homes in five weeks, thus earning a full year's scholarship.

Was this a successful summer? It surely was. "Wake up, wake up, my brethren and sisters, and enter the fields in America that have never been worked. After you have given something for foreign fields, do not think your duty done. There is a work to be done in foreign fields, but there is a work to be done in America that is just as important. In the cities of America there are people of almost every language. These need the light that God has given to His church."—Testimonies for the Church, vol. 8, p. 36.

MARILYN WEBSTER BAPTIZED IN QUINCY

The baptism of Marilyn Webster took place on October 28 at the Quincy Seventh-day Adventist Church. It was the culmination, said Quincy Church pastor Barry Ulloth, of the cooperative attitude of quite a few people during the past 10 years, beginning with Grace Hemphill who began Bible studies with Mrs. Webster. Then Joyce Miller, former teacher in the Quincy School, and her father-in-law, Roy Parrott, gave Amazing Facts Bible studies to Mrs. Webster. She was welcomed into church membership by conference president John Hayward, right, who gave the sermon, and Elder Ulloth, left.

ELGIN CONGREGATION DEDICATES A HOUSE TO GOD

More than 300 people filled the sanctuary, and those who came late could not find seats for the dedication services of the Elgin Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The weekend celebration, September 29 and 30, was attended by several former pastors. Elder and Mrs. Nicholas Leftrook spoke and sang for Friday evening vespers. Elder D. S. Weinberg read the Scripture for the worship service, and Elder Bill Kromminga offered prayer for the dedication service.

Special guest speakers were Don Copsey, Lake Union stewardship director, who spoke for the worship service, and Illinois Conference President John Hayward, who spoke for the dedication service.

Music was provided by the Broadview Academy Motet and the Watchmen Quartet, a faculty group from Adelphian Academy.

The 108-member church was led in the act of dedication by the pastor, Donald Philpott.

leaders representing a dozen clubs from throughout the state attended the three-day affair.

The Friday evening vesper speaker was Stanley Cottrell, pastor of the North Shore Church in Chicago. He reminded the Pathfinders of the way in which youth work was started by two teenagers, Luther Warren and Harry Fenner, in 1879.

On Sabbath morning the Waukegan Cardinals Club was in charge of Sabbath School; Loren McIntyre, deputy director, served as Sabbath School superintendent.

Jeff Wilson, conference youth director, spoke during the worship hour about Pathfinders as modern-day disciples of Christ.

The afternoon was filled with nature activities and hikes. The M.V. meeting directed by Dale and Carol Pittenger of the host Peoria Felidae Club consisted of Bible skits and games.

Sunday morning concluded the camporee with a formal inspection of each club. Camping equipment, neatness of the camp area, personal cleanliness and courtesy were among the items inspected and graded for each club.

Every club scored quite well. The only club with a perfect score was the Marion Shawnee Club which was assigned the worst camping spot at Wokanda—their tents leaned almost 20 degrees on the side of a hill!

JUNIOR ACADEMY STUDENTS ATTEND BIBLE CONFERENCE

James D. Chase

A total of 68 delegates attended the Illinois Conference Junior Academy Bible Conference at Little Grassy Lake Adventist Camp, October 26 to 29.

Students from three junior academies and several public high schools came for fellowship, fun and Bible study at the annual conference sponsored by the youth department.

This year's speaker was James D. Chase Jr., assistant professor of communication at Andrews University. Elder Chase presented a series of topics entitled "Holy Spirit Control vs. Devil Control."

Besides in-depth Bible study, delegates enjoyed recreational activities including cave exploration, canoeing and a Sabbath nature hike at Garden of the Gods Park.

ILLINOIS YOUTH RALLY HELD IN MONMOUTH

More than 200 people attended the Western Illinois Youth Rally held at the Lincoln Elementary School Gym in Monmouth, November 3 to 4.

Witnessing was the theme of the weekend which featured the Broadview Academy Gymnastic Team directed by Coach Robert Vise.

On Friday evening Nicholas Leftrook, host pastor, and Jeff Wilson, conference youth director, introduced the program.

Jerry Jacobsen, senior theology major from Andrews University, described with slides his year as a student missionary in Thailand. The Broadview Academy youth presented a musical program, and Norman Yoeder, senior at Broadview, spoke about the crucifixion of Christ.

The Sabbath morning worship speaker was E. Wayne Shepperd, Lake Union Conference youth director. Ed Culp, an Andrews University senior, told of his experiences as a volunteer task-force worker.

Sabbath afternoon was spent in actual witnessing. Groups went into the city to visit rest homes, hospitals and former Adventists, and from door to door delivering invitations for the evening gymnastic program.

Saturday evening's gymnastic demonstration by Broadview Academy was entertaining as well as inspirational. Between acts, which depicted the various areas of the United States, students testified to the value of attending a Christian high school.

NEWS NOTE

• New officers at the Cicero Church include Albert Weikum, head elder; Peter Byers, lay activities leader; Edith Voss, Sabbath School superintendent and Cathryn Kuszmaul, community services director. Continuing officers are Floyd Possman, treasurer; Janet Clear, Pathfinder leader; Carol Brewer, head deaconess, and Steve Jordan, finance and steering committee. Norman Clear is hard at work organizing an Ingathering campaign to put the Cicero Church over its goal in five days.

ANDERSON PATHFINDER NEWS

On Sunday, September 16, the Anderson, Indiana, Pathfinders and several of the church members participated in a bike-a-thon to raise money for the school. Some rode more than 50 miles, and $800 was raised as a result of the project.

On Sabbath, September 23, the Anderson Church held a Pathfinder Day. The club provided the special music. Club director Carl Whitlow and his assistants gave talks, told stories and read poems. Elder Don English presented a special Pathfinder Day sermonette entitled, "My Jewels."

On the weekend of September 29 to 31, the club spent an enjoyable time at Mamouth Cave in Kentucky. They participated in Sabbath School under the trees, took a nature hike, went to a wildlife animal exhibit in the afternoon and had sundown worship beside the campfire—so they could dry out after a very hard rain. On Sunday they went on a four-mile tour in the cave.

During September at the regular club meetings Carl Whitlow taught the boys wood working and Ruth Whitlow taught the girls knitting. Both boys and girls practiced their marching with Dean Whitlow.

PATHFINDERS ARE BUSY AT CICERO

A busy schedule keeps Cicero Pathfinder leader Janet Clear on her toes. Beginning in August the Pathfinders practiced for the camporee at Camp Timber Ridge on September 8 to 10 where they received six blue ribbons, three red ribbons, six yellow ribbons and two white ribbons for their accomplishments. Pathfinder Julie Steele received a perfect score of 25 points in the field events.

Cooking for the Cicero Pathfinders is much easier with the addition of the new chuck wagon.

On October 1 the club presented the church service for the Cicero Church, and on October 8 they gave the church service at the Noblesville Church.

The new chuck wagon was on display in the church parking lot after the services.

BEDFORD CLUB RECEIVES PATHFINDER TRAINING

On the weekend of November 3 to 4, 13 staff members of the Bedford Stonecutters Pathfinder Club were given the 10-hour Pathfinder Basic Unit Training Course. Elder Cliff Hoffman, conference youth director, coordinated the weekend training session. Assisting him were Hilman Culp, Irvington Pathfinder director, and Ruth Whitlow, deputy director of the Anderson Club.

On Sabbath morning the Pathfinder club participated in an Investiture service. Portia Chapman, the club director, conducted the service.

IT IS WRITTEN REACHES PEOPLE IN FORT WAYNE

"I thought I'd commit suicide. There seemed to be no hope anywhere," said a Fort Wayne viewer recently. "Then I heard Pastor Vandeman, and he seemed to be speaking right to my heart. I was getting nothing at my church, and the other religious television broadcasts seemed shallow. I didn't know what to do. How grateful I am for It Is Written."

"We often hear words of appreciation like these from the viewers," explained Pastor Michael Petricko when asked about the results of three years of It Is Written programming on Fort Wayne television. "Our list is bulging with more than 2,400 names. We cannot get to them fast enough," he added. "What we hear from the viewers is heartwarming," he went on. "Here's another sample."

"I know he is God's messenger to me. I've stopped attending church because his messages mean so much more than what I hear there," said a viewer to someone who called at his home recently. "I've stopped watching all those other religious speakers that just put on a big show and are always asking for money," the viewer added.

Alice Weaver, the Fort Wayne Church telephone answering coordinator, tells an interesting story. "A few months ago the It Is Written tape failed to arrive at the station, and another program was used to fill in. You should have heard our telephone! Some people were furious that the program wasn't on. We know there are thousands out there watching," she added. "It's a real pleasure to take the calls and hear the warm appreciation people express."

People are asking for the books offered, and they are reading them. The very first visit with a viewer recently produced this question, "Would I have to quit working on Saturday to become a member of your church?"

The book A Day to Remember had introduced the full Sabbath message before anyone had called at his home.

"We're delighted with the harvest thus far and we are eager to contact more people whose names have been provided by It Is Written," concluded the pastor.

8 PERSONS JOIN CHURCH AFTER CRUSADE

Eight persons joined the Terre Haute and Lewis churches on October 21 at the conclusion of a week of evangelistic meetings conducted by Don Copey, Lake Union Conference stewardship director. Joseph and Ada Jones, who were also baptized, were not available for the photo.

HORTONS PRESENT PROGRAM IN TERRE HAUTE

The Terre Haute Church recently enjoyed a visit from Pastor and Mrs. Paul Horton and their children, Paul and Debbie. Pastor Horton is now the president of the Iran field and he spent many years of service in East Africa. Mrs. Horton is a alumna of Indiana Academy and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Dugger of Terre Haute. Films of their experiences in East Africa were shown during an evening vesper program which focused on the great needs in the mission fields. The congregation was grateful that this dedicated family visited the church and presented a program.

SPRINGFIELD BIBLE CHAPEL HOSTS HOMECOMING

"Homecoming Experiences" was the theme on Sabbath, October 21, 1978, as the Springfield Bible Chapel held its first annual homecoming. Guests arrived early from Springfield, Decatur, East St. Louis, Peoria and Chicago.

The singing of "Sweet, Sweet Spirit" by Paula Flemons put everyone's mind in a devotional mood for the Sabbath School lesson taught by Elder Hugh Crarey.

Pastor Robert L. Smith presented the message during the worship hour. He told of Jacob's experiences before, during and after his flight from home. Pastor Smith explained that Jacob, during his homecoming experience, went to Bethel, God's house, meaning that we must have an experience with God before the great homecoming when Jesus shall come to take us home with Him.

A potluck dinner was served after the service. Everyone enjoyed the fellowship of friends they don't often see. Strangers got to know each other and new converts were inspired.

At 4 P.M. an outstanding concert was held featuring Paula Flemons and Hugh Crarey of Springfield, and Doris Flemons of East St. Louis.

At the end of the day a visitor from one of the larger city churches was heard to say, "I haven't had such a nice time at church in years." We thank the Lord for the blessed experiences of homecoming, 1978.

2 FAMILIES JOIN GLENDALE CHURCH

Dr. Philip Carey, and his wife, Jean, left, recently transferred their membership to the Glendale Seventh-day Adventist Church. Dr. Carey is an acting local elder and is chairman of the church building committee. He is dedicated to full-time evangelism. This year he has committed himself to introducing at least 10 persons to Jesus. Pictured with the Careys are Cheryl Pete Warren, who also recently transferred with her husband to the Glendale Church, and Franklin Hill, III, church pastor.

GOD'S WORK CONTINUES THROUGH SUMMER SEASON

At the Mizpah Church in Gary, Indiana, the steady leadership during the summer months presented challenges and opportunities to every church member in soul-winning, witnessing, spiritual growth and development.

In soul-winning, the elders of the church held lay evangelistic meetings every Sunday night.

In witnessing, the outreach program of distributing literature in a specific area in the vicinity of the church by the M.V. society took place one hour each Sabbath prior to the M.V. program and vespers.

For spiritual growth and development, mind, character and personality classes were held each Wednesday night. These classes taught general guiding principles for mental and spiritual health. The teachers were

The social aspects were not overlooked. The chancel choir sponsored a social of games, movies and refreshments. A picnic was also held by the Sabbath School at Lemon Lake.

At the end of the summer and prior to school opening, Sacrifice Number One was again in operation. This was the beautification program at Mizpah in which every member is asked to give a fair share in offerings to beautify the exterior and interior of the church.

The classrooms, fellowship hall and vestibule were painted to enhance the decor of the church. Draperies were also made for the fellowship hall and restrooms.

The Michiana Youth Federation was held in Gary on October 7. The guest speaker was Elder James Wray. Three weeks later the youth had another opportunity to express themselves on youth day. Dr. Ivan Warden of Andrews University was the speaker.

To complete the evening on youth day, Margaret Finley, M. V. leader, provided a musical performed by the Harambee Singers of Andrews University. The theme for the day was "Youth for Christ."

The Mizpah church members thank all the churches for their support and excellent attendance on Michiana Youth Federation Day.

NEWS NOTES

• The Pathfinder club of Cedar Lake now has a "big, beautiful," orange, G.M.C. 66-passenger bus! Transportation for club outings has caused problems in the past and club officers were watching for a good buy. Recently an area church had a bus for sale for $400. Club officers offered $250 with a silent prayer that the Lord would guide the decision of that church's leaders and that the club would not end up with a "busload of problems." Word finally came back,

"If $250 is what you can spend, $250 is what we need."

• A hospital at Escanaba has adopted a no-smoking policy and asked the local Adventist church to present a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking in its facilities for those who want to quit the habit. Elder Paul Howell of Escanaba and Dr. Eugene Hildebrand of Munising directed the program assisted by another doctor.

• A 60-year-old invalid of the Holly area, in need of care, and repair of her house, found many people making promises but few keeping them. According to a story in the Fenton News, the woman's sister, who came to help out said, "People made promises, then we never saw them again, but there were a few who were different—they kept their promises." Then she named the Seventh-day Adventist church members who had the furnace fixed and supplied food and clothing. Also, the local Adventist doctor, G. S. Buchanan, and his nurse made many house calls.

CHILDREN SENSE ANGELS' PROTECTION

The youngsters in grades one to four of the Munising Church School believe in angels. Why? Because no one was seriously hurt when the wall of their schoolroom fell in.

It was a dreary day, and the children were looking out the rain-splashed window at a large truck trying to deliver its load of sand to the church building project nearby. It was strange to see a truck climbing the grassy hill behind the school—there are no roads back there—and the children were intrigued.

Dennis Shelton, the teacher, announced recess, but told the children to stay at their desks. "We'll stay inside today," he said.

"Let's play Seven-Up!" someone shouted. Hands shot up, but before anyone could be chosen "It," Jeanie, whose desk is next to the outside wall, suddenly put her head down on her desk. "I don't know why I did," she commented later, "I never put my head on my desk."

Immediately there was a thunderous shock, like a sonic boom, and the wall, flying brick and cement block came tumbling down. The blackboard, with a load of brick and block behind it, crashed on the back of Jeanie's chair. The chair back was crumpled, but it eased the fall enough so she only felt it "come down easy" on her head.

Tina, also next to the wall, says "something" seemed to be pushing her and she scooted out from beneath the wreckage. "Someone," did it, she decided later.

Lori, in the other desk next to the wall, was thrown out of her chair, and a brick landed on her hand still clutching the top of her desk.

Noticing a cement block balancing precariously above Lori, Steve instantly stepped between as it toppled over. The block fell on his shoulder instead of Lori's head.

Mr. Shelton's head was turned when the truck struck. Whirling around in disbelief, he quickly snatched the shocked Lori from the floor, and tried to count heads as he led the frightened children into the hall. Then they found out what had happened.

The truck driver had stepped out of the truck to determine where the load of sand should be dumped. He asked Darryl Herford, who was working nearby, and the father of one of the students inside, if he knew where it should go.

As they were talking, Mr. Herford suddenly cried, "Hey, your truck is rolling!" but not in time for the driver to prevent the accident.

"I can't describe my feelings," he said. "All I could do was stand there and watch in helpless horror." As the brakes gave way, the truck headed straight for the schoolroom, neatly missing the windows on either side and the low roof above before coming to rest just inside the room.

Though the rim of the blackboard had swung wildly across the desk where Mr. Shelton had stood seconds before, the blackboard, which had covered the entire wall, prevented most of the falling brick and block from scattering. And the guardian angels had worked with lightning efficiency to keep each child from serious harm!

A scratched hand, a slight bump on the head, and a scraped shoulder seemed to be the extent of the injuries. Students and parents alike had reason to be thankful!

PATHFINDER CRAFT SEMINAR PRODUCES CREATIVE TEACHERS

More than 200 Pathfinder leaders and church school teachers attended the annual craft seminar held at Grand Ledge Academy in November.

These teacher-training workshops, begun several years ago by Merrill Fleming, conference Pathfinder director, "are intended to benefit the local clubs to increase not only the quantity of what can be taught in the clubs, but also, through the use of experienced instructors, the quality of what the young people learn," he stated.

Twenty nature and craft classes were offered this year. Three classes were new: amphibians and reptiles, archery, and quilling. Each class, taught by an experienced instructor, helped the leaders become proficient in four to five hours.

After leaders have spent a few short hours on their projects in macrame, flower arranging, wood carving, march and drill, or other classes, they realize that some things come more naturally for some people than others.

Some of those who were in the quilling class discovered that it took much dexterity of the fingers to finish a picture to take home at the end of the day, but upon completion there was the satisfaction of accomplishment.

PINEDALE MEMBERS MAKE THINGS HAPPEN

Things are happening in the Pinedale Church. Members from 3 years old and up got together on July 8 to prepare 2,600 copies of The Desire of Ages for mailing. The books were sent to residents of Gobles and the surrounding area. Some of the residents have expressed their appreciation for the book.

Evangelist J. J. Millet of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference brought his Prophecy Panorama Crusade to the Pinedale Church, September 11 to 30. His world travel experiences and color slides of the Holy Land were dramatically interwoven with Bible prophecy.

Seven people were baptized and others have requested baptism in the near future.

WYOMING CHURCH DEDICATED 51 YEARS AFTER BEGINNING

On three different occasions spanning a three-year period, Wyoming Church members were faced with the possibility of closing their church. Now the congregation is worshipping in a lovely debt-free edifice on a beautiful four-acre wooded lot.

In May 1927 a group of believers from the Wyoming Park area met with an Elder White to make plans for the organization of a church. Less than two months later the church was officially organized with 25 charter members, even though the small congregation knew that there was no prospect of having a minister for at least a year.

Five months later the church members began planning for their own church home. Soon they purchased a church building and moved it to the location where it still stands. For several years the building also housed the church school.

In September 1945 thought was given to closing the Wyoming Park Church and uniting with the Grand Rapids Central congregation. But the members persisted, and after redecorating the church, embarked on an evangelistic program.

Two years later the question of disbanding was again raised and again in November 1948. But the faithful group continued where they were.

In 1950 membership was down to 28, but then things began changing—there were 32 members at the end of 1951; 17 months later there were 42; 53 in April 1955, and a new life was felt among the church members.

In 1965 they began talking seriously about a new building with adequate room and proper facilities. Five years later the site for the present church was purchased and in the fall of 1973 ground was broken. The first service was held on Sabbath, November 23, 1974, and early this year the final payment of the loan was made by the congregation—which now numbers 175.

The impressive services on dedication day, September 16, featured Lake Union Conference President Lowell Bock and from the local conference office, Elders Charles Keymer, James Hayward, Herb Pritchard, Arthur Covell and Clyde Groomer.

Elder Robert D. Moon, former superintendent of the Grand Rapids District and conference president at the time of the consecration service, was also present.

The current pastor, Paul Penno Sr., welcomed three former pastors for the occasion: David Lea, George Valentine and Ray Hamstra.

In concluding the history of the church Lorraine Van Duinen told the congregation that God had a purpose for them to finish the work that had begun 51 years, two months and two weeks earlier.

5 BAPTIZED AT BAY CITY CHURCH

On Sabbath, September 23, the Bay City Church was the scene of a baptism. Pictured are the group of five people standing before the baptistry with Elder Jeremia Florea and the church elders. Elder Florea presented them to the church members to be voted into church fellowship; after this they knelt in a prayer of dedication before the baptism. After the baptism Donald and Darrin DeMott, Dianne Allen, Connie Schwerin and Martha Meggers were welcomed into the church. (Photo by Helen Piasecki, Communication Secretary.)

50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED IN INDONESIA

Not many couples spend their 50th wedding anniversary on the other side of the world from where they were married. Charles and Maybelle Crawford were married October 27, 1928. At the time of their 50th anniversary they were in the West Indonesia Union Mission—away from family and old friends.

The Crawfords have spent many years in denominational work. Several years were spent in Michigan working for the conference even after retirement. Now they are spending two years as Sustentation Overseas Service (SOS) workers in the Far East.

They have visited the site of the vocational school in the Southeast Korean Mission which is one of the fourth-quarter 13th Sabbath offering projects, and the academy of the Middle East Korean Mission.

If you would like to write to the Crawfords, their address is Far Eastern Division of Seventh-day Adventists, 800 Thomson Road, Singapore 11, Republic of Singapore.

56 PATHFINDERS PEDAL FOR M.V. HONOR

Fifty-six Battle Creek Pioneer Pathfinder Club members assembled at the Fort Custer recreation area in the early morning hours of October 22, to begin the 50 miles of a bike ride which would complete the requirements for an M.V. honor in cycling. Eight hours later, with frequent juice breaks in the 70-degree weather, all of the Pathfinders had pedaled the 50 miles. "With help and support from the Battle Creek Tabernacle and Berean Church members the Pathfinders had a very successful day," reported their Pathfinder director, Dr. Duane Wacker.

NEWS NOTE

• A bread-making demonstration was held at the Rice Lake School, October 31, 1978. Helen Juhl, from the Natural Way Flour Mill in Middle River, Minnesota, made delicious whole-wheat bread. Also featured was the making of gluten steaks. The public was invited to attend.

WISCONSIN ACADEMY JUNIORS PRESENT PROGRAM

One of the highlights of the year at Wisconsin Academy is the junior presentation program. For the members of the junior class it is a time of uniting their efforts and presenting a program in which the class officers for the year are announced.

For the parents of a member of the junior class it is a time of mixed emotions—a proud feeling that their child has reached the upperclassman status in his academy experience, and a time of reflection that their child is no longer a youngster, but a man or woman.

November 11 was the day chosen for the 1979 junior presentation. A slide program narrated by two of the class sponsors, Dave Mummert, math instructor, and Adrian Nehr, maintenance director, preceded the processional.

Ben Collins, class pastor, presented the devotional message. Prayer was offered by Dan Thompson, men's vice president. An introduction and the story behind the choosing of the class song was given by the women's vice president, Deidre Thomas.

Terry Foster accompanied Carrie and Terri Conquest as they sang the class song "He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother."

Wisconsin Academy Principal Mildred Summerton challenged the class not to try moving mountains but to stand firm in all they believed.

Eric Hartmann, class president, accepted the challenge for the class, and in turn challenged each person in the audience to uphold the standards and to reach for those things in life that are more important than fame and fortune.

An ensemble comprised of Sharon Cole, Lana Kaldahl and Belinda Lamon played the song "You Light Up My Life."

Class treasurer Alan Stotz acknowledged the many people who had helped to make the program a success. Rebecca Severson, class secretary, offered closing prayer.

As each junior marched out of the chapel the aim, "To Serve God and Man with Love," and the motto, "In Deed and In Truth," which had been the backdrop for the stage, stood as reminders of the responsibilities that will be resting not only on the class of 1980, but on all who are Christ's representatives on this earth.

ANNUAL COUNCIL NEWS NOTES

• It was voted to remove the territorial restrictions from the promotion of the church's two missionary magazines, These Times and Signs of the Times. This action abolishes the Mississippi River line that has divided the United States into east and west sections. Now both magazines may freely be sold and distributed divisionwide in North America. These Times will be a 32- to 36-page journal of "high quality and design and format." Signs of the Times will be a 16-page journal, well illustrated, with short articles and produced for mass distribution. Studies will also be made to determine ways in which both journals may be used for mass distribution in the church's radio/TV ministry.

• The council voted "To establish, in consultation with the Adventist Media Center, a commission to study and design a radio and television spot campaign for the church." This action envisions radio and TV spots appearing during prime time across the United States and Canada. Short, crisp, appealing messages designed to win friends, awaken interest and inform residents of the North American Division who Seventh-day Adventists are, and of our care and message for our fellowmen.

• The department of regional affairs was abolished and a new office of ethnic relations was established. The new office will serve all minority groups in the North American Division. By definition the new office "will act as a central planning agency and coordinating council in the area of cultural human relations for all conference, institutional and church structures in North America." Formation of this new office signals a change in the handling of minority affairs within the church.

• Devaluation of the dollar in many major countries of the world is causing serious budgetary problems for the church. Currency fluctuations during the first nine months of 1978 have diminished the effective value of the United States dollars allocated in the world budget by at least 6 million. Funds are desperately needed to support the global mission of God's last-day movement.

Representing the Lake Union at the S.D.A. optometrists convention recently were, from left, Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Omans and Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Howard. Both couples are from Battle Creek, Michigan.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST OPTOMETRISTS MEET

For their 20th annual convention, the Association of Seventh-day Adventist Optometrists (ASDAO) met in New Orleans, Louisiana, this summer. Representatives came from all across the United States and Canada to meet just prior to the national convention of the American Optometrists Association which was also scheduled for New Orleans.

In a concerted outreach project, ASDAO set for itself the objective of purchasing a 21-foot cabin cruiser, at a cost of $10,000, to be manned by Adventist optometrists and used in the Pulao-Guam group of islands.

Donations received before and after the meetings, including $927 in offerings on Sabbath morning, yielded funds to pay for the boat. Another $6,000 was needed for transportation of the launch to its destination. The dealer who sold the cruiser gave $5,000 to hasten the program. A spokesman for the group stated that the boat was scheduled for shipment August 10.

Samuel L. DeShay, M.D., director of the General Conference health department, spoke during the Sabbath worship service.

JAMES CHASE ELECTED COMMUNICATION DIRECTOR FOR ADVENTIST CHURCH

James E. Chase was elected director of the department of communication of the General Conference at the recent Annual Council meeting in Washington, D.C.

Elder Chase is currently president of the church's Washington Conference, with headquarters in Seattle. He has directed other local regions of the church's work since leaving the General Conference radio-TV department, a forerunner of the communication department, as associate director in 1962.

He succeeds M. Carol Hetzell, director of the department since 1975, who died on September 2. Elder Chase will take up his duties in mid-January.

Elder Chase's son, Dr. James Chase, is assistant professor of communication at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan.
