Happy New Year!

At moments after midnight, January 1, 1979, the world will ring with jubilation as people everywhere exchange resolutions and the familiar greeting, "Happy New Year!" It will be as though a new start finally offers true fulfillment and happiness, when too often neither resolution nor happiness lasts for even one day.

What is happiness? We have all read or heard catchy sayings declaring happiness is this or happiness is that, as though it was something to be acquired or received.

Recently I overheard a woman place the responsibility for happiness upon God. It was her earnest and serious deduction that "if we would let Him, God has the power to make us happy." Some erroneously conclude that their partner in marriage owes them happiness or that parents owe happiness to their children, and children to their parents. The truth of the matter is that God does not have the power to make us happy. This being true, we certainly expect too much of loved ones or friends in thinking that they hold that golden key.

Happiness is an attitude, not a feeling. It is not a thing to be given or received or purchased. Happiness is not made. Conditions can be provided, and God amply provides our meaningful needs. Human relationships are also important, for happiness is not found in living for oneself. As with the exercise of the will, so with happiness, the clue to success is within our own hearts.

Unhappiness always seems to be related with selfishness. Satan was unhappy in heaven and he is unhappy on earth. He will always be unhappy because in his heart he desires that which is not for him to have. Born as we are in sin, the issue with us is also one of selfishness, and to the degree we gain against self, to that same degree we gain happiness.

In other words, if selfishness is the antithesis of happiness, then unselfishness must be the key we are looking for.

God set the ultimate example in unselfishness and love by giving His son for our salvation. He is happy when we accept His gift of grace. The law of love as it is expressed in the Ten Commandments is God's way of helping us find the path of happiness. Love for our Creator prompts obedience; obedience yields fulfillment, and fulfillment spells happiness.

Finally, a Seventh-day Adventist simply cannot expect real fulfillment or true happiness without sharing the good news of salvation with others. If we will it to be so, this sharing will become our greatest work and joy, and in every way make 1979 a truly Happy New Year!

creation, we all have been fascinated by these creatures, by their grace, their strength, their color, and their songs. Everything that we study about birds points to one conclusion—God created them.

Evolutionists teach that birds evolved from reptiles. Alligators and snakes have solid, heavy bones. But birds have hollow bones with air sacs extending into the hollow spaces. These fill with air as the bird breathes, and thus the bird is light enough to fly.

Reptiles are cold-blooded creatures. But God made chickadees so they can survive all night at 10 degrees below zero, and still awaken the next morning singing and happy! The only relationship I can recognize between birds and reptiles is their common Creator.

The chickadee is one of my favorite birds. He is very small, with a pert, black cap, and calls "Chickadee, dee, dee! Chickadee, dee, dee!" as he goes about looking for food.

It is heartwarming to welcome him to our birdfeeder on a cold, winter afternoon. He has some suet, then peanut butter, and then he tries some sunflower seeds. After he has eaten all he can hold, he flies to his favorite roost, down over the hill from our house. There is a hollow branch in one of the trees where I suspect he and his mate raised a family last year.

There is real joy in assisting our heavenly Father by feeding our feathered friends which flock in the yard on a cold winter day. If you don't already have a feeder, I'd like to suggest you try placing one outside your window this winter. You will enjoy your own warm house a little more, knowing that the birds have plenty to eat so they may keep warm also.

But if you are going to install a feeder, I would caution you to continue stocking it with food once you have started. The birds will soon find your feeder and become dependent upon it. They will be coming to your house expecting food, so keep it well supplied.

Have you seen woodpeckers near your home? Many different kinds come to our feeder. They are interesting birds, and you often see one scooting along a branch, then stopping, holding on to the bark with his specially designed feet, bracing himself with his very stiff tail feathers, and banging on the branch with his sharp bill.

Then he turns his head and listens. His hearing is so acute that he can actually hear worms or larva that move under the bark. And if he hears one moving, he drives his bill hard under the bark and pushes and prys, moving the bark back and forth until he can get his tongue under the bark.

He has a long, coiled tongue with tiny little barbs on the end, and when he pulls it back from under the bark he has some dinner.

Many of you have seen the tiny, colorful hummingbird drinking the sweet nectar from your petunias or salvia. If you could watch this tiny bird feeding her babies, you would think she is killing them! She sticks her long, sharp bill deep down their throats and pumps in the nectar she has gathered from the flowers. But she is a very affectionate mother, and raises her young in the best way for them.

Many people tell me that they put up a bird feeder and then get discouraged. They say, "What can I do? I put up a feeder, and all the birds that come are just sparrows."

They might be surprised to know that the Bible mentions sparrows more often than any other bird. Jesus spoke of the sparrow with great affection, saying that when one falls to the ground, He takes note of it and is sorry. Jesus used the sparrow to teach important lessons.

He never mentioned the evening grosbeak, the colorful cardinal, the amusing woodpeckers, or the lovely purple finches. If just sparrows come to your feeder, keep it full of food and enjoy them. Perhaps other birds will join them later.

There is another important concept we may learn from the birds. Ellen White reminds us of the Father's love for his creatures, even the sparrows, and then she writes, "Satan's hatred against God leads him to delight in destroying even the dumb creatures. It is only through God's protecting care that the birds are preserved to gladden us with their songs of joy."—Testimonies for the Church, p. 273.

Isn't this wonderful? This means that every morning when you hear the birds singing, God still rules. He hasn't allowed Satan to destroy the birds, and his hand still protects us as well. I hope you will show your love for the Creator by showing kindness to his creatures, the birds.

THE VOICE AT ANDREWS

When they stepped off the plane in South Bend, Indiana, they blended right in with the rest of the passengers.

Nor was there anything particularly striking about them when they came onto the platform for their first program. But when they stepped up to the microphone and began to sing, it was another world!

The King's Heralds quartet and Pastor H.M.S. Richards Jr., had started another Voice of Prophecy evangelistic series, though not on the radio this time. As special guests for the fall Week of Spiritual Emphasis, this broadcast was being presented live for the students and faculty of Andrews University.

With today's news media churning out its daily diet of bad news, it was a real relief to hear someone talk about good news. And no other news could have been better than what Pastor Richards presented. It was "Good News" from beginning to end.

Good news—the Holy Spirit is for you!

Good news—you can win the race!

Good news—you can stay converted!

Good news—we're going home!

Few people would have expected Zacchaeus to come scrambling down out of a sycamore tree right in the middle of Pioneer Memorial Church, or to see blind Bartimaeus receive his sight. But through the power and uniqueness of his well-illustrated sermons, Pastor Richards brought these two Bible characters to life.

There they stood, telling their friends from Andrews of the great change that had taken place in their lives since they met Jesus.

As the messages were presented during the week, and the King's Heralds sang, many other people had the opportunity of meeting Jesus, too. Minds and hearts were impressed and lives took on new meaning as many responded to the invitation of the One who said, "Come unto me."

The importance of getting acquainted with Jesus, not just once, but on a day-to-day basis, was a thought which ran through the entire series of meetings.

The Voice of Prophecy team emphasized the personal daily experience with God, resulting in Spirit-controlled lives and a church on the move, the "good news" of God's Word being spread to the whole world, and finally the second coming of Jesus Christ.

When asked by a student about his own devotional life, Pastor Richards replied, "I realize more than ever my great need for a close walk with God and a deeper, more thorough knowledge of His Word. With greater responsibilities comes a greater need for power from above. People who have more responsibilities need more prayer, and they need to be closer to the Lord. No matter how heavy his schedule, a person must reserve time each day for communion with God."

Concerning his purpose for coming to Andrews, Pastor Richards said, "I've come to the university with a burden on my heart for youth. I love young people, and I have great confidence in the youth of our church. If I can be of any encouragement to the students by sharing what Jesus means to me, and what he has done for me, then I think my efforts have been worthwhile."

And share he did. All through the week, by illustration and through the Word, Jesus was shared. And like Zacchaeus and Bartimaeus, Jesus "became flesh and dwelt among us."

The "amens" which echoed from meeting to meeting, and the nine baptisms at the end of the series were an indication that Pastor Richards' love for youth and his love for Christ were reaching the young people.

But there was much more to the Week of Prayer than just sermons and song. Behind the fine presentations and the professional technique of the musicians, five tall figures could be seen moving across the Andrews campus.

They went everywhere—to the dormitories, the classrooms and the cafeteria. They could even be found in the gymnasium, the bookstore or on the sidewalks, casually chatting with the students.

Some conversations were quite serious, taking the men and their student friends far into the night, but almost always ending on a note of prayer and praise. Other conversations were lighter in nature, but regardless of the subject the results were always positive.

During the morning and evening meetings, students heard the music of the King's Heralds and the sermons of Pastor Richards. Many students had heard these men for years on the radio, but now they had the opportunity of getting acquainted with them. And the students liked what they saw. They found real men with real needs—just like their own. Men who could sympathize with them and their problems. Men who, through their own experience, could show them the way to victory.

A LOAF OF BREAD AND THE BREAD OF LIFE

On Sabbath afternoon, October 28, 1978, Pastor Tim Rosenboom of the Mt. Vernon, Centralia and Noble district baptized Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Strack in the lake at Forbes State Park near Salem, Illinois. Here is the personal testimony of their conversion, written by Mrs. Strack.

"A loaf of bread brought us out of darkness and into the light of God and His truths. We are very health conscious and have been vegetarians for nearly two years. I sent for a brochure on healthful living from Breads for Life, a product in the health food store where I work. They included some literature from the Voice of Prophecy. I sent for the New Life Course and that was the beginning of a new life for us.

"We stopped attending the church we had belonged to for many years because we felt we were just putting in our time and getting nothing from it. Something important was missing in our lives.

"The lessons led us to read the Bible and to accept God's plan of salvation. We prayed to have Him send the Holy Spirit to guide our lives. We were convicted of our sins and worked to overcome them. A Seventh-day Adventist pastor came to our home. We started attending church and weekly Bible studies. We went to southern Illinois camp meeting and took our stand for the Lord. We are grateful to the Voice of Prophecy and the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It's given new meaning to our lives."

EVANGELISM IN ILLINOIS

Many evangelistic meetings are planned for the conference in 1979. The success of these meetings in terms of people won to the everlasting Gospel will depend upon church members' prayers for the Holy Spirit's outpouring, the members' active participation in the series, and in the bringing of friends, relatives and neighbors to the meetings.

The schedule for James Cress, Lake Union Conference evangelist, is:

February and March	Downers Grove
April and May	Decatur
August and September	West Central
October and November	Elmhurst

Conference evangelist Dan Schiffbauer will be holding eight meetings:

January 20 to February 11	Palatine
March 3 to 25	Champaign
April 14 to May 6	Joliet
May 18 to 27	Danville
July 7 to 29	Streator
August 25 to September 16	Sheridan
October 6 to 28	Bloomington
November 10 to December 2	Crystal Lake

If you know of interested people, relatives or former members living in these areas, please send the pertinent information NOW to the Ministerial Department, Illinois Conference, Box 89, Brookfield, IL 60513.

Elders James Cress, Stanley Cottrell, Stephen Biro and Andrew Adamczyk; Pastors Jerry Page and Douglas Higgins, and several wives—Ruth Ann Cottrell, Cindy Higgins and Sharon Cress—participated in the crusade held at the North Shore Church in Chicago in November and December. Seventy-nine baptisms have been reported as a result of the meetings, and more baptisms are planned.

PHILIPPINO CHURCH GROUP PLANNED

Because the Philippino Seventh-day Adventists of the greater Chicago area feel that in order to have a greater outreach to the ever-growing Philippino community, and that a Philippino minister would be more effective in reaching his own people, a group of members from the North Shore, Austin and Hinsdale churches have made plans for the organization of the first Philippino S.D.A. Church in the Midwest.

The nucleus of this organizing force, led by Pedro L. Roda, M.D., of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, met with Illinois Conference President John Hayward on November 21, 1978,

A preamble of the organization was presented, and plans for the establishment of the Philippino Church were discussed. There is a great possibility that a Philippino minister will be serving the community here soon.

The Philippino brethren look eagerly toward the realization of these plans and pray for God's blessings upon the ministry to this minority group in the Chicago area.

A CONCERT ARTIST WITH PIONEER SPIRIT

Steve Borth

In the interest of community service the centennial committee of the Rockford Church invited Steve Borth of Sacramento, California, for a week of concerts recently.

Steve enthusiastically and untiringly visited the community with his message of service for alcoholics for the Christian Loud Cry Mission in California. His original songs with guitar accompaniment were well received.

Steve worked with the zeal of the pioneers that the Rockford Church members have been learning about during the 100th anniversary.

He gave two concerts at the jail for the inmates, visited four nursing homes and presented seven programs. He was interviewed for 25 minutes on WQFL, Rockford's Christian radio station; visited eight private homes with shut-ins from the Rockford Church, and gave a chapel talk for the church school children.

He also assisted with Rockford's first Philodsa meeting, Sabbath School and church service and a public concert on Saturday night.

Before leaving Rockford Steve gave away 60 of his records. The Rockford church members appreciate the zeal of this youth so dedicated to God and Christian work with alcoholics and drug abusers.

PROGRESS MADE AT GLEN ELLYN

Work is progressing on the new Glen Ellyn Church. The building, moved to a six-acre site on North Main Street in Glen Ellyn, is being totally remodeled by church members. Additional work will continue on Sundays through the winter. Meals and babysitters will be provided for any volunteers who might wish to help the church members with the building project.

of the prayers and efforts of three laymen. The woman who made her decision on the opening night for baptism had been coming to church for two years. On the second night two more people made their decisions for Christ. A woman who was a church member had been praying for them and had invited them to the meetings.

On the third night of the meetings a former Adventist decided to be baptized. On the fourth night of the crusade two more decided for baptism.

On the second Saturday night of the crusade another woman decided to rejoin the church. She had not been to church for 40 years. She came to the meetings because her name and address had been given to the evangelist. Evangelist Schiffbauer and pastor Don Lund visited this woman and invited her to the meetings.

On the second Saturday night of the crusade a young woman with three children came forward and took her stand. She said, "I have been closer to the Lord during these last three weeks than during my entire life." She had belonged to a Protestant church.

There was nearly a full church for the baptism on Sabbath, November 4. This was a historic Sabbath for the Paris Church because it was the first time that the newly installed baptistry had been used. Pastor Lund and his congregation worked hard to prepare the church for the crusade.

They insulated the building, repainted the outside, had the entire church carpeted and installed the new baptistry. One of the members painted a sign for the crusade. One woman came to the meetings as a result of the sign.

About 60 or 75 different nonmembers attended during the crusade.

The pastor is planning a pastor's Bible class every Sabbath and will alternate teaching this class with a layman. The pastor has at least 15 more names of people to contact for Bible studies.

We thank the Lord for the people who were baptized during this campaign and give Him all the glory.

NOGGLES TUITION FUND ESTABLISHED

At an open house on Sunday evening, September 24, members of the North Shore Church bid farewell to Dr. and Mrs. Charles Noggle who are retiring to Montana.

Mrs. Noggle was a member of the North Shore Church for more than 40 years; she was choir director and organist for several years. Dr. Noggle, a surgeon, was a staff member of the Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago. He was temperance secretary at the church and director of the New Earth Restaurant, a vegetarian restaurant owned and operated by the local churches, but begun by members of the North Shore Church.

The Paris Voice of Prophecy Bible Crusade was conducted from Saturday night, October 14, through Sunday night, November 5, by Illinois Conference Evangelist Dan W. Schiffbauer in the Paris Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The couple were presented a letter from Pastor S. W. Cottrell mentioning a $1,000 fund given in the couple's honor by the church family. The fund will be called The Noggles Tuition Assistance Fund for Worthy Students.

In accepting the gift, the Noggles expressed their desire that the fund will continue to grow so that many worthy students can have a Christian education.

INDIANA CONDUCTS SECOND CRAFT SEMINAR

The Indiana Youth Department recently held the second Pathfinder Craft Seminar for conference Pathfinder personnel and elementary church school teachers.

The objective of the seminar is to equip youth workers to teach various craft skills and M.V. honors to the Pathfinders and students in their home churches.

On November 19 at Indiana Academy more than 50 people came to receive training in skills such as braiding, bread dough art, candle-making, drilling and marching, Indian lore, leathercraft, macrame, tole painting and wood carving.

At the end of the seminar many participants expressed enthusiasm about what they had learned. The craft instructors also expressed their pleasure in teaching people who are so interested in learning.

Don Scroggs, Pathfinder director for the South Bend club and instructor for the drilling and marching class, brought his club's drill team to assist in demonstration and instruction in various maneuvers.

PARENTS VISIT CLASSES AT INDIANA ACADEMY

The second Sunday in November is scheduled for an annual Parent Visitation Day at Indiana Academy. This year 119 parents took time to participate in the day's activities.

The day began with registration and an opportunity to visit classes in session. There the parents could observe students and teachers in action.

A concert was presented by the Keynotes during the lunch hour, and then there was a meeting directed by Principal Alan Bohman. Items of special interest to the parents were freely discussed.

Teachers were available for conferences with the parents afterward. It was a day of fostering friendship and understanding for an ever-expanding Indiana Academy.

PATHFINDERS AND YOUTH HOLD RALLY AT GLENDALE

On Sabbath, October 28, a rally was held at the Indianapolis Glendale Church for Pathfinders and young people throughout the state.

The rally featured the singing of Lynne and Gwynne Baldrige from Springfield, Illinois, who are now attending Southern Missionary College.

Jim Barley, formerly a basketball coach in Indiana high schools for 21 years, spoke to the youth on physical fitness from a coach's point of view.

The rally concluded with a concert by the Indiana Academy Keynotes directed by Harlen Miller.

There was a night of recreation at the Jewish Community Center where the young people enjoyed swimming, basketball and volleyball.

19 BAPTIZED AFTER NEW LIFE CRUSADE

Elder Lester Carney, ministerial director of the Indiana Conference, held an evangelistic crusade October 20 through November 12 in the Indianapolis South Side Church.

A. E. Hackett, conference secretary-treasurer, assisted Elder Carney as music director. As a result of the crusade, 19 people have been baptized.

In addition to evangelistic presentations, Elder Carney showed many pictures of Europe and the Middle East.

Robert Chase, pastor of the Indianapolis South Side Church; Duane Longfellow, pastor of the Indianapolis Irvington Church; James Vetter, capital pastor, and Ruth Jenks, Bible worker, were associated with Elder Carney in this evangelistic venture.

SEMINAR DOUBLES HUNTINGTON MEMBERSHIP

Huntington, Indiana, population 18,000, has been the home of a 10-member congregation of Seventh-day Adventists since the mid 1930's. In 1935 after meetings by Elder A. L. Beazley, a small church was built, one which tended to grow smaller in number rather than larger.

Then came the summer of 1978. Three students from Andrews University's Theological Seminary—Jim Stevens, David Slee and Ray Phillips—conducted an It Is Written Bible Seminar in Huntington's newly built Heritage Acres Community Center Auditorium. Handbills, an oversized sign, radio spot announcements and personal visitation with people whose names were on the It Is Written list paid off as the meetings opened on June 24.

On July 22 the first people were baptized—Jean Dolby and her son, Jeff (presently attending Indiana Academy). Soon others were ready to unite with the church. Adventists who lived nearby transferred their membership to Huntington.

Church attendance, normally about six to eight, is now averaging about 25 each week, reports head elder Phillip Lutz. "We're looking for a new church location. Funds are coming in, some from as far away as Canada, to help us build or relocate," he added. "We're looking for big things here and its all because of the evangelistic meetings."

One of the first to be baptized in the Huntington Church in 1978 was Fred Bolinger Sr., a former evangelist of another denomination, who had at one time been a Seventh-day Adventist.

Mr. Bolinger, now retired from his engineering profession, had joined the Fort Wayne Church in the mid-1930's, but left about the time World War II began.

He continued to stay in contact with Seventh-day Adventists through Inez Morgan who supplied him with Sabbath School quarterlies and picked up the tithe he continued to pay. Earlier this spring Mr. Bolinger began attending the It Is Written Bible Seminar meetings in Fort Wayne conducted by Elder Don Gray.

He was baptized on May 27, one week after the Fort Wayne meetings began, and joined the Huntington Church. When the July seminar began in Huntington Mr. Bolinger was already involved in church activity.

Another person baptized at the Huntington meetings was Linda Jones, Mr. Bolinger's granddaughter. She and several others who have watched the It Is Written telecast and who came to the seminar have helped double the Huntington Church membership to 20.

"We solicit the prayers of the Lake Union Church members as we anticipate the future of our work in Huntington," says Elder Lutz. "We urgently need another location in which to meet. But the future looks good."

INGATHERING IS MORE THAN MONEY

Ingathering is more than money. It is an integral part of the church program. The student body of Indiana Academy, in training as the future leaders of the church, took an active part in the annual appeal for the worldwide outreach of the church.

On the evenings of November 14 and 15 the student body and faculty members put aside their regular program to visit the nearby communities to witness and share their faith.

The results were very encouraging. Thousands of people became acquainted or reacquainted with the Christ-like concern of Seventh-day Adventists for their neighbors and friends in every country of the world. The response was better than recent years in monetary returns.

BEACON'S FIRST ORATORICAL CONTEST

On October 21, 1978, at 7:30 P.M. the Beacon of Joy Church of Chicago presented their first temperance oratorical contest sponsored by the lay activities leader, Marceline Leon.

There were nine youth participants from four of the local churches. Represented were Independence, Beacon, Straford and Shiloh.

The pastor, Elder C. W. Drake III, was master of ceremonies, and the conference president, Elder C. D. Joseph was one of the five judges.

The contestants spoke about the dangers of alcohol, marijuana, pills, cigarettes and other habit-forming drugs.

Although all of the contestants did a superb job of writing, memorizing and acting out their speeches, first place was awarded to Lisa Taylor of Beacon of Joy, second place to Sharon Wright of Independence, third place to Kip Hazell of Shiloh, fourth place to Rhonda Williams of Beacon of Joy and fifth place to Stephanie Scott of Independence.

The Lord blessed the meeting—the church was full of people, most of whom were young people.

Someone in the audience was overheard saying that he was going to pray to maintain his will power over habit-forming stimulants and get the victory over his weakness of appetite.

May God bless and keep us all from being in bondage to sin.

CITY TEMPLE HONORS OUTSTANDING MEMBERS

On October 28, 1978, City Temple Church in Detroit had a "first." The pastor, Elder R. P. Stafford, conceived the idea of honoring certain persons selected by the church for outstanding contributions to the church over the years.

Marie Church and Oliver Fenison were selected as the "Hardest Working" members. The "Friendliest" persons were Carolyne Jones and Albert Richard.

The "Most Helpful" were Retha Davis and Anna Maycock, and the "Most Supportive" members selected were Deborah Lewis and Esther J. Lowe.

To highlight the evening Ernest Crockett was unanimously voted the "Best All-Around" member of the City Temple Church for 1978.

The huge attendance attested to the approval of the church members for the fine selections.

A delicious banquet dinner was served and everyone expressed gratitude for an evening well spent.

Certificates were presented to those honored. The juniors and earliteens showed great talent and interest in decorating the fellowship hall.

• In preparation for an evangelistic series to be held by Elder Arnold Kraner, conference evangelist, the Fremont Church members are redecorating the interior of their church. The Kraner meetings start the last week of January.

• The Grand Rapids Central Church congregation recently honored two of their members by bestowing the title of Deacon Emeritus on them. Emil Friedli and George Kern served for many years as deacons before advancing years hindered their full participation.

• According to recent information from Elder Paul Howell, superintendent of the Upper Peninsula District, 43 baptisms had been held by the end of October. This puts the membership of the district at 739.

FAMILY CAMP ENJOYED AT AU SABLE

Everyone pitches in to help clean up at family camp at Camp Au Sable including 5-year-old Sheila Hubbell of Holly. The mid-November weekend family camp attracted approximately 100 members of the Holly-Fenton-Linden area. Sabbath morning's guest speaker was Myron Voegele of the Michigan Conference ministerial association. Chuck and Connie Coggins, guests of their Holly neighbors, the Harold Lutzes, presented a testimony in song for Sabbath vespers including some of their original compositions. Mrs. James Patterson brought a mission report featuring Maranatha Flights International's help in building a church in Ireland. Many Michigan church groups take advantage of Au Sable's facilities for weekend retreats. The popularity of the setting is such that reservations have to be made about a year in advance.

JEWELS FOR HIS KINGDOM

The last night had arrived, stormy and with precipitation that challenged the stouthearted. However a faithful group defied the elements to attend the last meeting.

All during the It Is Written series more and more people had come. This series became not only a series of lectures by the evangelistic team composed of Don Gray, Lake Union Conference evangelist; Dan Neergaard, Madison Church pastor, and his associate Frank Bacchus, but an involvement of all church members, who could help in some way to promote this outreach for people.

Now the last evening had come. These comments were heard: "I don't like to see these meetings close. They have done so much for me." "I've never heard the Gospel presented in such an attractive way!"

Each evening Elder Gray presented slides he had taken in the Middle East. His commentary drew attention to many points of interest.

As with any series of meetings the harvest comes after the seed sowing, and 23 people have been baptized. Many others are still studying.

Like the wave upon the shore the influence of these inspiring meetings will continue on and on to help make up the number of jewels for Christ's kingdom.

WITNESSING IN OSHKOSH

As a method of witnessing, Marge Dillon of the Poy Sippi Church gives instruction in natural vegetable cookery at Fox Valley Technical School in Oshkosh.

The classes meet for a three-hour session one evening a week for eight weeks.

Two of the classes deal with protein. The next six lessons and demonstrations are about vegetables, food preserving, breakfast, breads, sugarless or low-sugar desserts, and the making of tofu from soybeans.

At a class conducted last spring, one woman declared that she had never enjoyed any class as much, nor had she ever learned as much.

Some of the students have asked for advanced classes in natural foods. Mrs. Dillon feels she may have to spend an entire evening on one food, or on some particular aspect of a certain food.

The classes taught at Fox Valley Technical are particularly popular and Mrs. Dillon feels this is an excellent avenue for witnessing.

Petersen Elementary students present a dramatization called "Now."

PETERSON ELEMENTARY PRESENTS 'NOW'

The Peterson Elementary School students, directed by Delilah Petersen, principal, and Vaughn Jennings, teacher, presented a special home and school program at the school gymnasium, November 16.

The program was a dramatized version of the story entitled "Now," by Merikay. The story concerns events that might happen during the time of trouble just before Christ's second coming.

Each student in the school took part in the production. The main characters were Kathy Snell, Chuck Biggs, Nancy Snell, John Campbell, Cheryl Anderson, Roland Schwark, Kurt Wery, Maureen Hamel, Greg Hamel, Laurie Anderson, Karen Campbell and Warren Dronen.

Between scenes singing and instrumental music were provided by students and several of the mothers.

The final song, "The King is Coming," was sung as the picture of the second coming of Christ came on the screen. This brought the program to a beautiful, impressive conclusion.

LIBERTY '79

"Let the watchmen now lift up their voices like a trumpet, and give the message which is present truth for this time. Let them know where we are in prophetic history, that the spirit of true protestantism may awaken all the world to a sense of the value of the privileges of religious liberty so long enjoyed." Review and Herald, January 1, 1889.

"The authorities will make laws to restrict religious liberty. They will think they can force the conscience, which God alone should control. . . . God will interpose in behalf of His loyal, commandment-keeping people."—The Desire of Ages, p. 630.

A NEW EMPHASIS ON LOSS CONTROL

Remember as a child when you lost that special toy? You thought the world had come to an end. No matter how much you searched in the places where it wasn't you just couldn't find it. Then under the bed, or behind the chair, or mysteriously hidden in some other place where it shouldn't have been, you found your pride and joy. You were happy once again—the lost had been found!

Losses of one kind or another have plagued the human race throughout the ages. There have been minor losses, such as toys—some recovered, but many never to be seen again. There have been major losses, such as hurricanes, devastating fires—leaving destruction, permanent injury and sorrow.

Each loss has its impact on one life, or many lives. The sad part is that many of the losses could have been prevented or diminished in total consequence by proper planning.

A zero loss possibility is something we are going to have to just dream about until the Lord comes. Toys are going to continue to be lost. We're still going to have storms of various kinds. Fires will break out unexpectedly. Accidents will happen. But the results can be changed if each person gets involved and gives a new emphasis to loss control.

The Lake Union Conference, with the support of the General Conference Risk Management Services, has begun an organized plan to eliminate or minimize losses which take away from our goal of winning souls for Christ. As a first step, the union conference committee voted to implement the following loss control objectives:

1. Provide a safe and healthful work environment for all employees.
2. Minimize the risk of human and economic losses resulting from personal injury and property damage.
3. Maximize the security, protection and well-being of the personnel, property and vehicles of our union conference.
4. Comply with all existing safety and health laws that apply to the work place.

We cannot create a life. Only God can create. But we can save a life. Save a life from premature death. Save a life from the mangling effects of an accident. Or best of all, save a life for eternity with the funds that would have gone for higher insurance premiums, damage repair or paying for other preventable losses.

As we look to the future we can recognize tremendous savings through a total involvement in this program. Future articles will deal with how the individual church member, the church congregation and the other church entities can assist in more effective loss control.

MARANATHA FLIGHTS TEAM BUILDS IN WHITEHORSE

Seventeen persons from the Lake Union Conference joined Maranatha

Flights International last summer to build a church in Whitehorse, Yukon Territory. The new church seats about 125 people and is the only Seventh-day Adventist Church in the Yukon.

The Yukon is a vast area of 207,000 square miles extending from the British Columbia border to the Arctic and has a population of 23,000. The Yukon is the home of the famous Klondike Gold Rush of 1898-99. As many as 260 steam paddle wheelers used to ply the Yukon River.

Men worked hard and sacrificed much, even life itself to find gold. The members of the Yukon church are looking for true gold, the human nuggets for God's kingdom.

On the Thursday before the open house, Maranatha workers and local members knocked on doors to invite the residents of Whitehorse to attend.

The new church was officially opened by A. W. Kaytor, president, British Columbia Conference, who cut the ribbon. Frank Triggs, the priest of the Catholic Church next door, participated in the Sabbath worship service and opened his home for two young people who worked on the project.

About 144 people participated in the project, including three non-Adventists. The Maranatha members came from many professions and from many states and provinces.

Maranatha Flights International is trying to hasten the Lord's coming by building strongholds in unentered areas. You can help them also. For information write to Maranatha Flights International, Box A, Berrien Springs, MI 49103.
