Nature is the art of God.

PREACH

Our church has been far too timid in failing to alert ministers of other denominations as to the vital truths contained in the three angels' messages of Revelation 14:6-12. Actually, a special effort is to be made in their behalf.

"Those who belong to the higher ranks of society are to be sought out with tender affection and brotherly regard. Men in business life, in high positions of trust, men with large inventive faculties and scientific insight, men of genius, teachers of the gospel whose minds have not been called to the special truths for this time—these should be the first to hear the call. To them the invitation must be given."—Christ's Object Lesson, p. 230.

Understand, this does not place the above classes in a special relationship with God, but it is God's plan to call leaders of influence who can in turn lead many others to Jesus.

Along with the other territories in North America, the Lake Union Conference is sponsoring Ministry subscriptions to the 39,667 clergymen within our borders who serve other denominations. Ministry is our professional Seventh-day Adventist journal for ministers. To date 622 ministers have responded favorably and many have asked for additional information on the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation and other vital subjects.

The cost of this project is high with the Lake Union share running at $28,625 per year. Plans are being made for seminars to which non-Adventist clergy will be invited. These seminars will feature a vegetarian dinner and lectures by members of the seminary faculty.

Please support this important project with your prayers and a liberal offering. In this way you will help PREACH.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Mission on Wings

by Daryl L. Meyers

Stan Sornberger was just an ordinary boy growing up on a wheat and cattle farm in Jefferson County, Colorado, but he was destined to be a great preacher. At least his mother thought so.

She had often watched him clamber atop the woodbox just behind the old kitchen stove to deliver his morning "sermon." His addresses may not have been well organized, but they were certainly dynamic.

But God's providence seemed to be leading Stan in a different direction. His work would involve some preaching, but his main contribution to the Lord's work would be along another line.

In 1926 when Stan was 9 or 10 years old, he watched the open-cockpit mail planes fly over his house on their way from Denver to Laramie, Wyoming. He was fascinated.

But for Stan it was more than just fascination, it was love at first sight. He was determined to do more than just watch. Someday he, too, would fly one of those machines.

Ten years went by, but in 1936, while working at a logging company in Grays Harbor, Washington, Stan got his first chance to fly. With just a few dollars in his pocket he went to a small, nearby airport and started taking lessons in an old Waco open-cockpit airplane.

All went well for awhile, but then Stan ran into a big problem—World War II. Due to military air regulations on the West Coast, private pilots were grounded.

In August 1945 World War II ended. Stan was not about to waste time. He felt he had been grounded too long and was eager to continue his flight training.

But things were a bit different now. Stan no longer had only himself to care for, but also a wife and children. Was it right to spend money on flying or should he lay it aside for his family?

"I thought it over for quite awhile," Stan says, "and after praying about it decided to continue my flying. I didn't know exactly when or how, but I felt that perhaps someday I might be able to use my flying ability in the Lord's work."

Having made his decision Stan threw all his energy into his flight-training program.

"The more I flew, the more I enjoyed it. Not only did I get a private pilot's license, but I also earned an instructor rating, commercial rating, multi-engine rating and several other ratings which I felt would help prepare me for any service the Lord might have in mind."

In 1953 Stan and his family moved to northern California, where, because of the mountainous terrain, Stan's flying ability really became useful.

They settled in an area where church attendance was difficult simply because there was no church to attend. But for Stan this was no reason for discouragement. The Sornbergers and a few friends organized a small group which became the nucleus of what is now a 100-member Seventh-day Adventist church. They even started a two-room church school.

For about 10 years the growth of Stan's little church was greatly encouraged by his special "operation airlift" maneuvers. During evangelistic meetings his plane became an airbus shuttling church members and other interested people from their homes to the meetings.

Often if there were evangelists nearby, he would fly in and "borrow" them for a few hours so they could hold some meetings in his area, too. He also acted as "air-chauffeur" for the district pastor.

One night Stan was flying home from work when he received an urgent radio message requesting his help in locating a lost student pilot out over the ocean. The weather was quite bad, but Stan responded to the call, found the young pilot and led him to safety through some very treacherous mountain passes. Later that year the Federal Aviation Administration awarded Stan a special plaque naming him pilot of the year for northern California.

In October 1969 a longtime dream came true. Stan and his wife were sent as missionaries to Peru. There Stan worked for 5½ years as a mission pilot caring for the medical and educational needs of 30 villages and 13 schools.

Today Stan Sornberger is an instructor in aviation at Andrews University. It has been largely through his efforts that the new airframe and power plant school has become a part of the Andrews aviation program.

On January 24 the airframe curriculum received approval by the Federal Aviation Administration with the power plant instructional course scheduled for approval during the summer of 1979.

Stan never did find his niche in the pulpit. God gave him wings instead.

Message of Hope, Message of Change

by Pat Horning

If you've ever lived or worked with a teenager who's going through a crisis with drugs or alcohol, you've probably wondered if he would finally get himself turned around. You soon realize there are no simple solutions to complex problems like addiction.

Love, patience, the power of the Spirit—these influences frequently get a person heading his life in a positive direction. And there's one additional thing that can help families cope. Education. Knowing the symptoms and the possible cures.

Listen magazine is considered by many authorities to be the foremost journal in the field of drug abuse. Law enforcement officials, educators and parents have seen its effectiveness. Here's what they say about Listen:

"I have had an opportunity to talk with our health teachers regarding Listen magazine. They indicate to me that it is the most objective and informative publication they have found dealing with drugs, alcohol and tobacco. They were particularly impressed with articles written by prominent people on these subjects. Students seem to relate and identify well with this approach."—Assistant principal, junior high school.

"Throughout our history all people, and especially the young, have had heroes. For the most part those heroes have been men and women worthy of that respect. However, in the last few years the heroes picked have been, in too many instances, connected with the drug scene and loose morals.

"Listen provides the vehicle for changing this course back to heroes who set good examples, not bad. . . .

"As a law enforcement officer for nearly 30 years, I have seen what drugs can do. I certainly support your approach to the drug abuse problem."—Director, state F.B.I. bureau.

"I've been reading the school's copy of Listen for more than a year. I commend what you are doing and especially your approach. I have two sons, ages 14 and 10. We have found many springboards for conversations among the pages of Listen."—Teacher and parent.

"Our high school library has been receiving a complimentary copy of your monthly magazine, Listen. I have found it to be very useful as a reference for my grade-nine guidance program. It is a thought-provoking and eye-catching magazine."—School counselor.

Currently Listen goes into more than 30,000 schools each month, but there are thousands more junior and senior highs across America which could—and would—use the magazine if it were made available to them.

During the campaign this year, you can sponsor Listen at just $4.50 for each subscription ordered and mailed within the United States. An even bigger bargain is the club rate for 10 or more copies mailed to the same address—just $3.95 each!

Turned-around lives are not impossible, but they take some time and effort. Here's your chance to give Listen to a teenager who needs to turn around—he may just find he really wants to.

Here's a letter from a man who describes how the Lord saved him from alcoholism.

"Someone did his good deed for the day by placing several back issues of Listen in the entrance of my apartment house. Fortunately I happened to be the one to pick them up—and I read every one.

"As an alcoholic, I have in the past been a well-known figure on my city's skid row, sleeping in every mission, making every bread line. Occasionally when I was in the chips, I would make cheap flophouses. As an alcoholic I have had every treatment known, including confinement in the state hospital.

"One day several years ago I was sober for the simple reason I was broke. I started walking through a park, feeling unhappy with my life, and finally coming to the conclusion that as far as I was concerned, I had reached the bottom in life, and if I had any desire to keep on going, there was absolutely no place for me to go but up.

"Looking up in the truest sincerity, my exact words were: 'How about You taking over and making something out of the mess I have made?' Our good Lord, knowing my every thought and realizing that I meant just what I said, answered my prayer immediately. Overnight my alcoholic problem was taken away so completely I cannot even imagine how I ever drank in the past.

"My last drink was more than 19 years ago. Today one of my greatest joys is walking by a bar and not going in. Now, in the autumn of my life, I attempt to so live that I can preach a pretty good sermon without saying a word.

"P.S. I am told that 'the good things in life are free.' If such is true, how come I had to stick money in this envelope to make sure I would receive a monthly issue of Listen: Kindly see that my subscription reaches the proper office."

What have you done to share the message of hope that Listen brings?

Turned-around lives pull at heartstrings. Here's the story of a young boy who believes Listen can help his friends:

"I have looked at a lot of your magazines and I think that they are great; they really help change people a lot.

"I used to be into a lot of drugs and do a lot of stupid things, but one day I got caught! I felt awful. And I really got it from my mother and father. But now I have stopped; I haven't been into any trouble for three years now. I am 13, so I did insane things when I was only 10! Wow, what a way to go!

"You know something. I still have a lot of friends who do get into a lot of trouble. Isn't that sad? I would subscribe to your magazine but I don't have much money. So would you kindly help my friends and me by sending me a few copies of your magazine?

"They don't have to be new, it doesn't matter how old they are or how many you send me, but please help if you have the time. I just hope that you continue your magazine. It's great."

Do you have the time—and the money—to help this teenager help his friends?

The First Fruits of the PREACH Project

by Fred Ellis

Dave Gran was an ordained minister of a protestant church located near Sparta, Wisconsin. He and his wife, Debbie, were baptized on December 30, 1978, in the La Crosse, Wisconsin, Church.

Their story began in Massachusetts at the New England Memorial Hospital where Debbie went to have two of her children delivered. Her doctor was Robert Rigsby, one of the Adventist physicians.

The Grans were particularly impressed when, after delivering one of the babies, Dr. Rigsby prayed with both parents in the delivery room. The Grans say that the witness of the nurses in the hospital was also impressive.

Later on Dave mailed a card which offered a free Bible. The free Bible came complete with an Adventist couple and Bible study guides. Debbie says that Dave argued the Bible points introduced by the couple, and in her words, "Dave lost."

But Dave and Debbie were not yet ready to accept the Adventist faith. They either threw away or tore up the Adventist literature that was given them.

But Dave was still not settled in his own religious experience. He had already taken one step from one denomination to a more conservative one and was still not satisfied with a passive, do-nothing faith.

Dave began receiving Ministry magazine at the inception of the PREACH program. He was impressed by the scholarly nature of the magazine, and some of the articles touched him.

Sometime last summer one particular article presented the S.D.A. doctrine of sanctification. Dave recognized this as the next step in his spiritual experience and he wrote a letter to the editor of the magazine.

On the basis of that letter Robert Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference, and the local pastor visited with Dave.

At one point in the conversation Elder Dale said, "What you are trying to tell us, Dave, is that you are essentially a Seventh-day Adventist."

Dave replied, "Yes."

The local minister continued studies with Dave and Debbie, studies which culminated with their baptism on December 30.

The Wisconsin Conference has asked Dave to assist the local La Crosse pastor prior to Dave's attending Andrews University next fall.

WANG SCHOLARSHIP ESTABLISHED

A $5,000 scholarship in memory of the late Wang Ching-Po has been established at Andrews University by his son, Dr. Charles W. C. Wang of Flint, Michigan.

Mr. Wang was a teacher and pastor in the Honan Province of China for many years.

Students of Chinese descent whose homes are in the Orient are eligible for the scholarship, either on the graduate or undergraduate level.

E. L. Longway, a longtime missionary to China, says "Pastor Wang was one of only two Chinese brethren who put aside the old-style Chinese courtesy that feared to cause offense by giving needed counsel, and with genuine concern and great patience, instructed and corrected me when I inadvertently did or said things offensive to Chinese sensibilities.

"As leader, he guided our church work in China through the most difficult times. He had the ability to cross provincial as well as national prejudice boundaries, as he well proved by serving as head master of the Hupeh Mission Training Institute—no small attainment in a land where provincial pride was prevalent.

"He was truly loved and respected by his fellow workers and the members of the church."

A & P SCHOOL GETS APPROVAL

Andrews University's newly established airframe and power-plant school for aircraft mechanics has received approval from the Federal Aviation Administration (F.A.A.) for the airframe portion of its curriculum and its physical facilities, according to Dr. W. W. Davidson, dean of the College of Technology.

The program and the building which houses it were inspected by the F.A.A. January 24, and the certificate of approval was presented to Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, president of Andrews, by Students work on projects in the newly completed airframe and power plant building.

Eli L. Jerome on January 29. Mr. Jerome represents the F.A.A. office in South Bend, Indiana.

Emil C. Hettich of the F.A.A.'s Flight Standards Division in Washington was present for the inspection.

"I found the school in very good condition," said Mr. Hettich. "It fully meets the requirements of the F.A.A."

The school expects to have the power-plant portion of its curriculum approved during the summer, according to Dr. Raymond Swensen, chairman of Andrews' aviation and transportation department.

The F.A.A. will allow a maximum of 50 students in the A & P School, says Dr. Swensen. Current plans call for an enrollment of approximately 25 in each part of the program.

Students will spend the first year of the two-year course dealing with the structure of airplanes and move over to the study of airplane engines or power plants during the second year.

"An A & P student has three options," says Dr. Swensen. "He can simply go for a certificate of completion, which includes an airframe and power plant mechanic's rating, or he can fulfill the general education requirements in the same length of time and earn an Associate of Industrial Technology degree.

"There is also the four-year Bachelor of Industrial Technology degree with a technical concentration in aviation and mechanics available to the A & P student," Dr. Swensen says.

The school is housed in the new Robert Seamount Instructional Building at the Andrews Airpark. Robert Seamount was a pioneer in Seventh-day Adventist mission aviation.

APARTMENT COMPLEX ACQUIRED

Andrews University has entered into a lease agreement with the option to purchase the Rose Hill Manor Apartments in Berrien Springs, according to Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, university president.

Andrews took over the management of the 102-unit apartment complex on February 1 under terms of the agreement with Fred Schaller, the present owner.

"These apartments will meet a critical need for more housing for married students," said Vernon H. Siver, vice president for financial administration.

The university has experienced a shortage of such housing in recent years, creating difficulty for students who are married and have families.

"We are grateful to Mr. Schaller for his assistance in solving this problem," said Mr. Siver, adding that all current tenants in the complex have been notified that their leases will be honored.

The units range from efficiency apartments to three-bedroom units, according to Mr. Siver. The majority are one-and two-bedroom units.

The complex is located in the southwest quadrant of the village of Berrien Springs.

"We are happy that many of our students will now be living right in the village and will feel more a part of the community," said Dr. Smoot.

The apartments are cared for by the university's department of student housing and have a resident manager.

RUTH MURDOCH STUDENTS WIN AGAIN

Four students at Ruth Murdoch Elementary School in Berrien Springs have won the first prize and first runner-up positions for seventh-and eighth-graders in the annual essay competition sponsored by the Algonquin Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The theme for this year's essays is "Travel in the Thirteen Colonies."

Gemma Cabardo took the first prize for seventh-graders with her essay, "His Kind of Courage."

David Hoppe was the first runner-up for the seventh grade.

First-prize winner in eighth-grade competition was Marcia Merkel for her essay, "Lizzie's Trip."

The eighth-grade runner-up was Sydney Williams.

Gemma and Marcia's essays will now be entered in the statewide contest, according to their teacher Dr. Minerva Straman.

Dr. Straman's students are frequent winners in the D.A.R. contests.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE CENTER THRIVING IN CHICAGO

The Chicago Korean S.D.A. Church is located in north Chicago where the majority of the Korean population—approximately 60,000—is residing.

The newly arrived immigrants faced tremendous stress and frustration in confronting the language difficulties and a new cultural environment.

In the spring of 1975 the Korean Church opened a language school, teaching English and U.S. citizenship courses. However, confronted with financial difficulties and other problems, the school was closed after seven months.

The English center was opened again in April 1978. The number of enrolled students has been increasing month by month. About 200 students are presently enrolled.

The center hired five teachers (all Adventists who work 12 hours per week) with aides from the Chicago Urban Skills Institute of the City Colleges of Chicago. The school hours are 9 to 12 A.M. and 6:30 to 9:30 P.M., Monday through Thursday.

The church board assigned Elder Austin Chang Wu Kim as the director of the English center.

Bible study meetings have been held and people have been contacted on an individual basis. About 30 students enrolled in Korean Bible correspondence school courses, and 10 students have attended the church services. Others have attended special meetings and socials at the church.

The Chicago Health Counseling Center was opened last October and presented health lectures to the students periodically. The response was very good.

The Korean community in Chicago really appreciates the church's interest in the community. As an example, when the Ingathering campaign was held this year, the community responded to us with warmhearted support so the Ingathering goal was reached within three weeks.

KOKOMO CHURCH HAS ILLUMINATED STEEPLE

The new steeple atop the Kokomo Church, with its finger pointing upward toward heaven from its crown base, recalls the text from II Timothy 4:8: "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, . . ." Neighbors living in the vicinity of the church laud the steeple, which is lighted nightly from sundown to 10 P.M., saying, "We have a feeling of nighttime security when we look out and see the lighted steeple on the Seventh-day Adventist Church." Church members are happy to have this way of exemplifying the presence of God.

ELDERS HOLD PRAYER BREAKFAST

"Come ye apart and rest awhile," was the invitation which head elder Albert Weikum extended to the other 12 elders and their wives of the Cicero Church recently as they gathered in the Weikum home for a Sunday morning breakfast. A hearty breakfast and fellowship was followed by a season of prayer and a short meeting during which Bill Logan was promoted to associate elder and Sam Zacharias was appointed as a new elder for the church.

30 NEW CONVERTS IN SOUTH BEND

The past year was a good year for the laymen of the Berean Church in South Bend, Indiana.

With the direction of the lay activities department, using primarily the Amazing Facts tracts, 30 persons were added to the church through baptism.

Among those who joined the church were four young men who play on the church's basketball team, the Berean Eagles. Their names are Curtis LeSure, Brent Ellis, Paul Harris and Darrell Pope.

Also baptized were two men who had been serving as associate pastors of other churches in the community. Myron Flenoy of South Bend and Savoil King of Elkhart.

After seeing what God has done for them in 1978, the members pledged themselves by the grace of God to bring at least 60 converts into the church in 1979.

R. L. BROOME DIES

Elder Richard L. Broome, pastor of the Adrian and Monroe churches, died on February 4 after a brief illness. An obituary will follow.

NEWS NOTES

- The Monroe Church has been able to purchase a portable classroom unit to use for a church school in Monroe. A committee is searching for suitable property for the school which church members hope can be in operation by this fall.

- Nine faithful members of the 29-member Reed City Church were responsible for more than doubling their Ingathering goal. Elder Cecil Pomeroy said their aim was $520 but they raised $1,099.92 instead.

- A report from Pastor Jack Nash of the Fremont Church reveals that 80 percent of those attending his December Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking were successful in stopping their smoking habits. Fifteen out of the 19 who enrolled claimed success, writes Pastor Nash, who is scheduling other smoking clinics for this spring at Fremont and Shelby.

- Four persons were added to the Lansing Church by baptism on January 27. This brings to 56 the number of baptisms resulting from the Joe Crews effort of last October. The Wilson Church in the Upper Peninsula also had a recent baptism with two being added to the church membership.

- The redecorating of the front of the Holly Community Welfare Center led to a news article in the local paper with a good report of the work the center is doing. Besides having the front repainted a new red canvas awning has been installed for use during warm weather.

CHURCH TREASURER FOR 36 YEARS

Her 36th year of service as treasurer of the Plymouth Church began January 1 for Mrs. Loren Zimmerman, shown talking to Herb Pritchard, conference treasurer. Serving the church as treasurer is now Mrs. Zimmerman's "hobby." She loves the work and is willing, she says, to serve in that office as long as the church desires her services. With the exception of a short time when the church was first organized, Mrs. Zimmerman has served as Plymouth's only treasurer. She and her husband celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary on February 2, which was also her 76th birthday.

PROGRAM PRESENTED BY C.L.A. MUSIC GROUPS

Two months of hard work were culminated on December 16 when the Cedar Lake Academy music department presented its annual Christmas programs.

Parents and friends from around Michigan filled the chapel for the afternoon sacred concert of the Madrigals, choir, and brass ensemble. Each group presented several selections, and then combined to perform the final piece of music, an arrangement of "Joy to the World."

The evening program featured the 82-member concert band. The choir also sang two selections, one of which was conducted by choir president Tom Sherwin, and the Madrigals gave a musical presentation of "'Twas The Night Before Christmas."

Directors of the choir, brass ensemble and Madrigals are Gail Hall, Steve Hall and Nada Milenkovic, respectively.

SECRETARY AWARD RECEIVED

Alvena M. Evans, secretary to the principal of Battle Creek Academy, recently received the Certified Professional Secretary award.

According to Bonnie Jean Hannah, head of Andrews University's secretarial studies department, this is the "top of the ladder" award in the secretarial field and well respected by business professionals. It is on a par with the Certified Public Accounting (C.P.A.) award earned by accountants, she added.

Mrs. Evans took the two-day C.P.S. test in May 1978, and was notified some months later that she had passed the entire six-part test in the first sitting, an accomplishment achieved nationally by approximately one applicant out of 17.

Mrs. Evans, who is a member of the National Secretaries Association and Phi Beta Lambda, was named the Outstanding Secretarial Graduate of 1978 at Kellogg Community College.

She is in her sixth year at Battle Creek Academy and previously served as secretary to the principal of Cedar Lake Academy.

Mrs. Evans and her husband, Gordon, who teaches at the Battle Creek Church School, are members of the Battle Creek Tabernacle. They have one son, Scott.

SNOW OUTING ENJOYED BY 300 PATHFINDERS

Horseback riding? At a snow outing? For Michigan youth attending the teen snow outing, horseback riding was one of the options of nine different activities planned for the January 5 to 7 weekend at Camp Au Sable.

The other possibilities were downhill and cross-country skiing, ice skating, snowmobiling, sledding, sleigh rides, tobogganing, indoor games and films.

Three hundred teenagers enjoyed this second special annual weekend which had only two restrictions to their attendance. Everyone participating in the program had to be regular supporters of the Pathfinder program, members in good and regular standing, and at least 13 years old by January 7, reports Merrill Fleming, conference director of the Pathfinder program.

In spite of cold weather—temperatures hovered around the zero mark—teenagers kept warm with many activities.

Randy Russell, Bible teacher at Cedar Lake Academy, was in charge of the spiritual presentations of the weekend, and a youth group from the Midland Pathfinder Club conducted the Sabbath School program.

CITY COUNCILMAN SUPPORTS INGATHERING

Fremont City Councilman Dick Silverman has been a strong supporter of the local Ingathering campaign for some time.

Local church member Berendina Wierengo has been making the contact, but recent health problems have prevented her from making her regular door-to-door contacts. So the councilman delivered his contribution to Miss Wierengo this year, and to her surprise, his check was for $500 instead of $200 as in past years.

When asked why he was so generous, Mr. Silverman indicated that he knows that many projects are aided by his one gift and that's the way he wants it.

98th BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

The Saginaw Church honored William Lutenberg during the Sabbath School program, December 16, on his 98th birthday. His daughter, Grace Colburn, with whom he resides, presented him with a boutonniere for the occasion. His mind is still perfectly clear, and his sense of humor continues to be seen in his conversations and letters. Letter writing is his main hobby—he sends at least a dozen letters each week to his three children, 18 grandchildren, 37 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren. Mr. Lutenberg, originally from Germany, was baptized in Jasonville, Indiana, in 1914 and moved to Saginaw in 1947 where he worked until 1969, retiring at age 89. His goal is to be 100 years old, unless the Lord comes first.

SABBATH SCHOOL DEPARTMENT SPRING SEMINAR SCHEDULE

Help is being scheduled for church leaders who feel their Sabbath Schools are "dead" or for others who just want to improve their current "alive and well" schools.

Pastors, Sabbath School

superintendents, teachers and Sabbath School workers are being urged to attend the spring seminars scheduled for their area.

Those who attend are promised a "bushel of ideas and instruction" to make their schools come to life, according to Clyde C. Groomer, director of the Sabbath School department for the Michigan Conference.

Elder Groomer has released this schedule for the Sunday seminars:

CENTENARIAN HAS VIM AND VIGOR

Alverda Grace Clark of Rockford received cards from President Carter and Governor William Milliken to celebrate her 100th birthday on November 9. She is full of vim and vigor and challenged a feature writer from the Grand Rapids Press to compare her "with people 65 years old." This Adventist centenarian attributes her long life to accepting God in her early 20's. She has been a member of the Sparta Church for many years. She and her husband, Bert, were married for 64 years before he died at the age of 83. They had two daughters. One of them, Aelola, 81, is also "as spry as a cricket," according to Mrs. Clark.

Wisconsin Conference

Dale Ziegele, Correspondent

Elder Paul Heubach talked to the workers about personal relationships.

WISCONSIN WORKERS MEETING

Robert Dale, Wisconsin conference president, welcomed workers and their wives to the January 1979 workers meeting.

Wesley Jaster, conference secretary, then introduced Paul Heubach of Loma Linda University. Elder Heubach was the featured speaker.

According to Elder Heubach, a pastor's most important concern is the relationship between people. These relationships include the person of God as well as earthly relationships. It is these relationships that give value and meaning to all aspects of man's life and faith.

Elder Heubach has been a teacher of theology on Adventist campuses throughout his career and is presently serving as professor of applied theology at Loma Linda.

Focusing on pastoral counseling, he guided Wisconsin pastors in considering various case-study exercises and then constructed a theological basis for counseling built around the concept of people in relationships.

"The problems of the human race stem from distrust of God, and can be met and corrected through the reestablishment of trust and faith," said Elder Heubach. "In a restored relationship with God and their fellowmen, disturbed human beings can find release from frustration, guilt and hostility and can experience fellowship and peace of mind."

Elder Heubach emphasized the importance of speaking the layman's language in a forthcoming book, Pastor, Make It Plain!

"Sometimes," he says, "it is more important to emphasize the obvious than to clarify the obscure."

Other presentations during the meeting were made by W. B. Quigley, PREACH coordinator; Jere Wallack, Lake Union Conference communication and religious liberty director, and Dr. George Akers of Andrews University.

Special guest speaker at the closing session was Dr. Mildred Anderson, liaison for private education for the State of Wisconsin. Dr. Anderson conveyed greetings from the state superintendent of education, Dr. Barbara Thompson.

Ingathering reports given amounted to more than $93,000. This figure indicates that this may prove to be a banner year because of the faithful stewardship of Wisconsin members.

New Releases

FOOTPRINTS OF PROVIDENCE, by Jeannie McReynolds. Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, Tennessee. $3.50.

A snowstorm hides a family from an invading army. A ship's captain, driven by a compulsion he cannot explain, sails out to sea despite a mutinous crew and rescues a becalmed vessel. A pet crow brings a fabulous jeweled ring to an impoverished family. Through such true stories Jeannie McReynolds strengthens the readers' faith in God's love and care for His people.

FAITH—SAYING YES TO GOD, by Herbert E. Douglass. Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, Tennessee. $3.95.

What is faith? Is it intellectual assent, a deep conviction, a trust in something or someone, or what? Revelation 14:12 declares that God's people before His return will have the "faith of Jesus." What is the faith of Jesus?

Dr. Douglass presents the true nature of faith and what it involves in the life of the Christian, especially the individual who will have the "faith of Jesus."

REMEMBERING, Harvest Celebration. Chapel/Bridge Records, Mountain View, California. $5.98, album; $6.98, tape.

The Harvest Celebration is directed by Buz Starrett, former director of The New Creation and The Fellowman. The Harvest Celebration is sponsored by a group of S.D.A. businessmen from Lincoln, Nebraska. The members of this group are traveling throughout the United States working full time in their musical ministry.

THE SOJOURNERS, VOL. VII. Chapel/Bridge Records, Mountain View, California. $5.98, album; $6.98, tape.

This is the seventh album of the Sojourners, a well-known quartet from the Northwest. The members of this quartet are all employed by the Portland Adventist Hospital. They have been singing together for several years.

MARK, LEGION AND THE LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE, by Maylan Schurch. Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. $3.50.

Can a hog actually help two children go to church school? Not usually, but Legion is no ordinary hog. Named in honor of the Biblical miracle, he does indeed play a part in persuading Mr. and Mrs. Meadows to let Mark and Brenda attend the small church school. Mark, Legion and the Little Red Schoolhouse is a joyful book of Christian family togetherness that is presented in an entirely unique manner. It will provide fascinating reading for all age groups.

THE IMPERSONATION GAME, by George Vandeman. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $75.

George Vandeman wrote Psychic Roulette—a book that dealt with the revival of the occult, but it did not aim primarily at answering the doctrinal questions that might arise. Now comes The Impersonation Game, that answers the doctrinal questions on the occult.

THE BEST OF THE BARRON BROTHERS, Dick and Henry Barron. Chapel/Bridge Records, Mountain View, California.

The songs on this album were chosen because they were requested by the people who heard the Barron Brothers in concert or from their other albums. The selections include "I'll Never Be Lonely Again," "Where Was I?" and "The Savior Is Waiting."

THE WORLD OF MOSES, by Paul F. Bork, Ph.D. Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, Tennessee. $4.95.

Dr. Paul F. Bork, associate professor of religion at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, recreates the world that Moses walked in. Using the discoveries of archeology, he shows us what ancient Egypt was like. He explains the internal and international politics and the religion of the ancient world power. He discusses the time of the Exodus and the many peoples the Hebrews came into contact with. Dr. Bork shows how the art of writing developed to preserve God's revelation to Moses, and explores the problem of divine inspiration. He makes the Pentateuch come alive against its cultural background.

Through the Bible in 55 H.M.S. Richards, Jr. Minutes

THROUGH THE BIBLE IN 55 MINUTES, by H.M.S. Richards Jr. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $75.

This book gives the reader an overall view of the 66 books of the Bible. A perfect gift for your friends.

Lake Union Conference

9-POINT PROGRAM FOR LITERATURE EVANGELISM

At a joint meeting of the union and conference ministerial, lay activities and publishing department leaders, the following nine-point program for literature evangelists and their leaders was presented and adopted.

Elder L. L. Bock, Lake Union Conference president, was chairman of this second historic meeting. The first meeting was held in Springfield, Illinois, in November 1977.

The publishing leaders and literature evangelists of the Lake Union solemnly pledge to

1. Cooperate with all the departments of the church to help finish God's work now.
2. Look for volunteer Bible workers who will follow up their soul-winning contacts.
3. Give, individually, at least one Bible study per week.
4. Strive to foster a close literature evangelist/pastor team for finishing God's work in the various districts of the conference. It is hoped that the literature evangelists can regularly meet with their pastors and share soul-winning contacts.
5. Keep a constant vigil for people interested in Bible studies and turn their names over to the pastor or his volunteer Bible worker.
6. Sell at least 2,000 sets of the Bible Reference Library (the Conflict of the Ages Series and Bible Readings for the Home) during 1979. It is understood that this will be in addition to the many volumes of B.R.L. that are already being sold singly (one, two or three) or in combination with other sets.
7. Take part in the Sabbath afternoon witness rallies where the literature evangelists and church members team up to visit either people who have expressed an interest in Bible studies or who have paid-out accounts, and to search for other people who might want to study the Bible.

8. Enroll everyone possible in the Bible correspondence courses of the church.

9. Take as many as possible of the people they have contacted to evangelistic meetings being conducted in their area.

With God's blessings this program will produce a marvelous ingathering of people during 1979.

DRAFT RETURNING?

There has been some discussion in Washington, D.C. lately about the possibility of reactivation of the draft six months to a year from now. Not everyone agrees to this.

The Selective Service Act is still in effect. President Gerald Ford directed that registration for the draft be suspended in 1974. To resume registration all that needs to be done is for the President to direct that it be resumed. Authority to actually induct draft registrants would have to come from an act of Congress.

One of the reasons given for possibly resuming the draft is the shortage of personnel in the Army Reserves and the National Guard.

What does this mean for Adventists? Experience in the past has been that Adventist young men registered at 18, were classified at 19, and usually were called for the draft at 20.

In the case of a peacetime draft being resumed, this pattern could continue. In the case of a national emergency there are suggested plans for registering only those who are 20.

In any event those who might be called on to register in case of a draft should be aware of the teachings of the church in this matter. The basic National Service Organization draft information leaflet is presently being revised and reprinted. It will soon be distributed to the conference and the churches. Young people should read it carefully and keep it for future reference.

*Clark Smith, Director
National Service Organization*

DONATE YOUR BOOKS TO G.C. ARCHIVES

Many early Adventist books and pamphlets, recently donated to the General Conference Archives, are now becoming a part of the holdings of several new overseas research centers.

The G.C. Archives serve as a clearinghouse for S.D.A. historical materials. Especially needed are Ellen G. White writings prior to 1890, other published items up to about 1930, and even some specialized historical or doctrinal books of more recent years. Bibles and present Ellen G. White books are not needed.

The Ellen G. White S.D.A. Research Centers being established around the world are stocked with the basic Ellen G. White documents and books as well as other basic books relating to our church's history. Many North American Adventists have copies of these basic books. Their donations help to bring the rich heritage of our denomination to leaders and pastors in other lands where such materials have never before been available.

"No early denominational materials should ever be thrown away," says F. Donald Yost, director of the G.C. Archives. "They must be preserved for the use of a rapidly growing ministry in other parts of the world."

Elder Yost requests that donors write to him describing the materials that are to be donated. Address: Director, Archives, General Conference, 6840 Eastern Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20012.
