Lo, the winter is past

An Evangelistic Adventure

*"For, lo, the winter is past, . . . The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land, . . ." Song of Solomon 2:11, 12.

One of the greatest joys of my life came when, as a new Seventh-day Adventist youth, I had the privilege of attending a series of evangelistic meetings held by H.M.S. Richards in the Civic Auditorium in Portland, Oregon.

It was wonderful to see the auditorium packed night after night. People came to hear God's man share His truth-filled message. As the meetings came to a close, more than 100 people made their decision for Christ and joined the Seventh-day Adventist churches in the Portland area. Everyone rejoiced to see the Holy Spirit working in the meetings.

A few nights ago I sat in the Fairplain Church in Benton Harbor and listened to J. J. Millet as he presented God's message in his unique way. The people were thrilled by the simple message of truth. Member after member told me of the blessings they had received by attending the meetings. They told me the church was well filled every night. You could just feel the unity and enthusiasm that was shared by member and guest alike.

By the time you read this article, 44 people will have joined the church as a result of these meetings. Others are studying and will soon be baptized. Lee Grady, pastor of the Fairplain Church, cannot say enough about the way the Lord has used these meetings to help lead precious people to Christ. The church has been revived and the members are marching forward to accomplish great things for the Lord.

A few weeks ago I visited the meetings held in Downers Grove by Jim Cress and Douglas Higgins and their wives. The same spirit of enthusiasm and dedication was evident. Even though most of the advertising was not delivered because of bad weather until the third or fourth week of the meetings, those young people kept preaching, singing and visiting. More than 50 people were baptized or rejoined the church as a result of this campaign.

These young people have started a series of meetings in Decatur, Illinois, and the church has been full. The Holy Spirit is indeed being poured out in the Lake Union. I get excited about what the Lord is doing when I listen to the reports coming in. How much more God can and will do if all of His people in the Lake Union would begin to pray for the meetings and support them by attending and taking their friends to the services. If you don't have a friend to take, perhaps it is time you cultivated the friendship of your neighbors or business acquaintances so that when God sends a meeting to your city you will be ready to become a part of the evangelistic adventure in your community.

On a recent cold, clear Friday evening I was waiting in the parking lot of the Northbrook Seventh-day Adventist Church. Exactly on time the pastor, Earl Simmons, drove up with a smile almost as big as his compact car. I climbed in and we were on our way to a special "picture Bible study."

The reason I rode with Elder Simmons that night was to learn about his method of giving Bible studies.

"I began using picture Bible studies a few years ago when I was pastoring in the Nevada-Utah Conference," Elder Simmons told me. "I found a need in my ministry to catch my Bible students interest and reinforce the Bible truths in their minds by using visual aids along with looking up Bible texts and marking answers on quiz sheets. The first year I used this method 23 persons were baptized."

"I soon found I had more Bible studies than I could handle," he continued, "so I began the Bible studies and then turned them over to laymen in the church whom I had trained. Soon we had scores of Bible studies being given each week."

"Is the method still working as well?" I asked.

"Let me answer by telling you about one of our newest members," he responded. "Zorka Myles is the clerk for our Northbrook Church. Three years ago she was a name on a computer printout. I was visiting the people whose names were on the These Times subscription list when I knocked on Zorka's door. When I introduced myself as a pastor, she flung open the door and invited me in with the words, 'What can you do for my soul?' After we were seated she told me that only last night she had prayed God would send someone to her home to tell her about the plan of salvation. I began the picture Bible studies and she was baptized and lead her sister to baptism. Now Zorka is giving two picture Bible studies a week."

Elder Simmons carries the 20th Century film strips and tapes; a Standard projector, model 333; a Panasonic Cassette tape recorder; extension cord; a 40-by-40 foot Da-Lite Flyer screen; an extra Sylvania bulb and Bible lessons and Bible. Everything except the screen fits into a carrying case.

"It's handy, and usually within five minutes we can have prayer and begin studying the Bible together," he says. He usually sets up the screen in front of the television set.

"What type of people are attracted with picture Bible studies?" I wanted to know.

"Well, Zorka Myles is a top executive secretary for a large company. Dave DeRose is a student at Carlton College in Minnesota. After he was baptized he led his roommate to Christ, and a friend of theirs, Chris Vanney, began coming to church and has been baptized. And you must meet the Penalozas."

By now we had turned the corner on Cherry Street in Morton Grove and pulled up in front of the Penalozas' residence.

A gracious woman, Josephine Penalozas, invited us into their living room. Mrs. Penalozas is a registered nurse with a master's degree. She taught nursing in the Penalozas' native Philippines and is a psychiatric nurse at the Cook County Hospital where she gives away an average of three Bibles and study guides a week. She has already given away more than 375 copies of Steps to Christ to patients and fellow workers.

Next I met Dr. Antonio Penalozas, her husband, and their four children: Tony and Arnie are students at the University of Chicago, Joslyn and Henette are high school students.

After a glass of orange juice and prayer we began our study. The husband, wife and daughters were on the sofa with Elder Simmons, the two boys on the floor in front of the screen listened intently without a word during the entire study.

At the end Elder Simmons distributed quiz sheets and, with their own Bibles, the Penalozas discussed the evening's topic of prayer and answered the questions. There was a lively discussion of the topic and its meaning from Scripture and how it differs from the pagan background the Penalozas have known before.

As we left after a final prayer, Elder Simmons invited the family to a special service at church the next day. The family had begun attending church several weeks before and they had already invited others to visit with them. They are planning for a baptism in the near future.

"Thank you for coming and sharing the Gospel with us," they all said as we went back out into the cold night.

As we put the equipment into the back seat and drove off, I lapsed into deep thought: Tonight I had my questions answered about the value of picture Bible studies.

International Year of the Child 1979

A 16-month-old malnourished baby starkly contrasts with an 11-month-old child who receives nourishment from the SAWS infant feeding program.

DISASTER AND FAMINE RELIEF OFFERING

Give as You Are Blessed

by Howard D. Burbank

A few days ago when I was returning to Washington my seatmates in the airliner were a young couple with their first child, a little 6-month-old girl.

They had brought everything that was necessary to care for this little one. Prepared baby food was placed on the tray—not one, but several different varieties. The stewardess was at their beck and call warming the bottle.

As I watched I could see the love of both parents expressed in all the little things that they were doing to care for this helpless little human being.

This immediately brought to mind the great contrast between this child that had everything and the hundreds, yes, thousands, even millions around the world who have practically nothing.

In this "International Year of the Child" designated by the United Nations and all agencies that are helping children around the world, Seventh-day Adventist World Service, Inc. (SAWS) is putting forth a special effort to help as many additional children as possible.

One of the 48 countries in which SAWS conducts programs is Chile. There, in a maternal-child feeding program, 150,000 malnourished children are fed each day. A transformation takes place in hundreds of these little lives because of your help. When I see this restoration I remember the words of the Saviour when He said, "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethern, ye have done it unto me."

I want to express to you the thankfulness of the parents that you have helped through SAWS around the world in many hundreds and thousands of instances.

The Disaster and Famine Relief Offering which will be taken on May 12 in all North American churches and around the world, is to continue the work of SAWS. In 1978, with God's blessings and sacrificial giving, SAWS actually distributed $8,845,223 in relief around the world. This is the largest amount distributed in our history.

The only church funding that SAWS has is from the Disaster and Famine Relief Offering. Ingathering is not used for this purpose. The Disaster and Famine Relief offering last year amounted to $969,072. For every dollar given in the offering SAWS has received eight more from non-Adventist individuals, the governments of some countries, and commercial and philanthropic organizations.

Surely there is no other investment in the world that can pay such dividends. We trust that Adventist church members will realize how important this offering is to SAWS. Many times SAWS furnishes the first 25 percent in relief monies, then the governments of the countries being helped will provide the 75 percent balance to fund the program.

It is interesting to note that last year's relief shipments overseas weighed more than 20 million pounds and amounted to more than 500 railroad carloads of food, medical supplies and clothing. Contrary to what many people believe, only 9 percent of this tonnage was clothing, most of it was food. Even so, the shipment of clothing last year was one of the largest ever sent from North America.

We are grateful to U.S. AID which has furnished the lion's share of SAWS relief. Last year more than $5 million of U.S. AID was given to SAWS to help in the worldwide program.

Every time you sit down to a meal and give thanks for your food, thank God for the help that He is giving to SAWS to feed those who do not have as much as you do. As you are blessed, may you pass on part of this blessing to world relief on Sabbath, May 12, through the Disaster and Famine Relief Offering for SAWS.

Food Additives— Boon or Bane?

"Food additives are ruining the health of the nation, especially our youth."

"Food doesn't seem the same since they started putting all those chemicals in it."

"The reason everyone is getting cancer these days is that our food is grown, sprayed, treated and processed with chemicals."

Comments like these are heard all around the country today, fueled by news media reports detailing numerous maladies associated with the use of food chemical additives. Are food additives really safe? Are they necessary?

A food additive is defined as a substance or substances present in food as a result of any aspect of production, processing, storage or packaging. The two main categories are: intentional additives—put in food deliberately to achieve a given result, and incidental additives which occur as a result of some phase of production storage or packaging such as trace amounts of metal salts which may leach from the can to the fruit as a result of storage in the can.

Food additives are not a new concept. Food coloring was used in ancient Egypt about the time that the Chinese were ripening fruit with fumes from burning petroleum fuel. Salting, drying and smoking processes have been used for centuries as a means of preserving foods. There are even natural food additives which most of us don't think about. Salt, pepper, vinegar and all other spices and some condiments are additives which occur in nature in one form or another.

This article was provided by the public relations department at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois.

The additive used most frequently and in the greatest amount is sugar—102 pounds per adult per year in this country—followed by salt, 15 pounds per adult per year.

ARE ADDITIVES NECESSARY?

No, additives are not necessary. Food can be grown in many areas of the world with available soil, water and weather conditions, and eaten just as it comes from the ground, vine or tree.

However, most areas cannot grow a variety of food enough of the time to feed even the local residents without some processing. The most important reason to use additives then is to preserve food, to retard spoilage.

Other food additives enhance flavor, improve nutrition (vitamin additives), maintain appearance and palatability, impart color, leavening, maturing and bleaching, and sometimes keep foods soft, moist or free flowing.

HOW SAFE ARE ADDITIVES?

Do food additives cause cancer in humans? First, no one single factor may be said to "cause" cancer, but many things may be involved.

Heredity, host resistance, viruses, and thermal, radiation and chemical irritants have all been implicated at one time or another in the role of the development of cancer.

Cancers have been produced in laboratory animals by very large doses of certain food additives (recent examples are cyclamates, saccharin, and Red No. 2 dye).

However, researchers were trying to simulate the possible cumulative effect of the substance on the human body over a normal life span by using large doses over a shorter time frame. The absolute validity of conclusions drawn from such tests is open for discussion.

The majority of the objective evidence about the safety of food additives fails to show any significant human health hazard with the small amounts used in food today.

There is certainly less evidence to show humans suffering ill effects from the use of saccharin than there is to show ill effects from the use of tobacco and alcohol.

If enough people want the benefits that food additives provide, and the risks are no greater than what has been demonstrated so far, additives will continue to be present in some foods.

INDIVIDUAL DECISION

Each person must decide for himself how much of which additives are acceptable in his diet. The vast majority of food additives occur in items which we could well afford to eliminate or drastically reduce.

There is more of a problem where children are concerned. One concern is expressed by a California pediatrician and allergist who found that many children afflicted with hyperactivity improved dramatically with a simple diet eliminating foods containing artificial coloring, preservatives and salicylates from the diet.

This includes the elimination of naturally occurring salicylates found in some 20 or more fruits and some beverages from fruits or plants. The reaction of the hyperkinetic children to the salicylates and additives seems to be one of allergy or hypersensitivity rather than a separate disease or toxicity.

If parents are consistent in teaching and practice, good eating habits should be no harder to teach than other health habits such as hygiene, avoidance of tobacco and alcohol, and worship practices.

In the opinion of many nutrition experts, the ideal diet would consist of the best and freshest fruits, vegetables, grains and nuts available, eaten raw or very simply prepared with no condiments, and the fewest possible additives.

FOOD FAIR PLANNED FOR MAY 6

Whether you like to play it safe with traditionals such as pizza, egg rolls, and ice cream, or go adventurous with "vegetable waff," "puri tak," or "lamingtons," Andrews University's 18th annual International Food Fair has something for you.

To be held Sunday, May 6, from 1 to 7 P.M. in the Johnson Auditorium on the Andrews campus, the event will center around the theme "Spring Around the World." Admission is 25 cents per person; individual food items vary.

The food fair has been a tradition on campus since 1962, and has been tremendously popular in recent years, with last year's attendance estimated at 5,000. The Taj Mahal, a Chinese pagoda and Dutch windmill are among the booths to be staffed by students in international attire.

Preparations for each annual fair begin up to a year in advance. The Graduate Guild, which sponsors the event, purchases all the necessary food. Most of the dishes are then cooked and served by members of the international student clubs on campus, who also construct the booths in which the food is sold.

Proceeds from the food fair are divided between the Guild and the international student clubs for use in various projects both in this country and overseas.

Part of this year's profit will be used to purchase playground equipment for the Maplewood Apartments, a complex for university married students.

S.D.A. EDUCATORS MEET AT ANDREWS

Teacher evaluation, certification problems and the development of more denominationally published textbooks were among the subjects considered at a meeting of the Association of Seventh-day Adventist Teacher Educators at Andrews University, February 27 to March 1.

Elementary classroom supervisors from across the North American Division met with the college education teachers and also discussed ways in which college education departments can be of more service to teachers.

Meetings were conducted by Dr. Charles B. Hirsch of the General Conference department of education, assisted by Dr. Ruben Hilde and Dr. George Babcock, also of the education department.

NURSE PRACTITIONERS OPEN OFFICE

Dr. Marguerite Pike and Eleanor Allen, both assistant professors of nursing at Andrews University, opened a nurse practitioner's office on April 2 in Marsh Hall, which also houses the university nursing department.

According to Dr. Pike, nurse practitioners must have either an associate or baccalaureate R.N. degree, 14 weeks of specialized courses, and several months of experience working with a doctor.

Nurse practitioners are authorized to do routine check-ups and lab work, blood pressure checks, eye examinations, nutrition, weight-control and stress counseling, well-baby checks and risk-factor analysis.

Dr. Pike said that nurse practitioners do not attempt to treat patients with pathological health problems, but refer them to a doctor.

Dr. Pike, whose doctorate is in health science, obtained her education as a primary care nurse practitioner from U.C.L.A. in 1977. Primary care refers to general health care.

Miss Allen earned her certificate in pediatric nurse practitioners from the University of Michigan in September 1978.

Besides being a health-maintenance service to the community, Dr. Pike named another advantage of the new practice as being an ideal clinical experience for nursing students at Andrews.

Sophomore and junior nursing students will immediately begin to assist in health-care screening and will observe all aspects of the practice.

"Doctors are accepting this new concept," said Dr. Pike, who anticipates that doctors at the Andrews University Medical Center will refer patients needing routine work to them.

"And patients love it. Nurses are taught to be more sympathetic to patients, and to teach them more about how to take care of themselves."

MUSIC PROFESSOR'S COMPOSITION PERFORMED AT FESTIVAL

"Ulalume," a composition by Dr. Charles J. Hall of Andrews University's music department, was performed at Memphis State University's New Music Festival, March 30, according to Don Freund, festival coordinator.

The piece was written for narrator, mezzo-soprano and orchestra.

Dr. Hall, a professor of music, has taught at Andrews since 1969. He holds a bachelor's degree from Andrews, a Master of Music degree from the University of New Mexico and a Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University.

HOSPITAL WING CONSERVES ENERGY AND PRESERVES HISTORY

BATTLE CREEK—Now that spring weather is chasing the frost out of the ground, the Murray Construction Company employees are rapidly preparing to pour the footers for the $3-million administration wing of Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital.

Construction activities during the winter months were confined to the building of a service elevator and to the completion of a fully modernized physical therapy department in the basement of the present Jeffrey Building.

Sarvis Associates had three basic guidelines when designing the addition. First was the conservation of energy, the second was the preservation of history and the third was the beautification of the Washington Heights area.

Energy cost containment has been a concern for the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital because of the high cost of utilities in the old Fieldstone Building. The new building will be tailored to size and will utilize the latest energy conservation techniques.

The new addition is being built on the site of the former Battle Creek College Library.

When the library was demolished a year ago the ornate lintels were carefully removed and stored. They will be selectively used on the new building as reminders to the community of the contribution to the practice of medicine made by Battle Creek College.

When the 28,000-square-foot building is completed early in 1980, special landscaping of the access areas and unique lighting of driveways and parking areas will accent the beauty of the building.

The addition will free facilities of the present patient business offices near the Manchester Street entrance allowing the establishment of a 24-hour crisis intervention center.

This will provide emergency medical care to people experiencing crisis situations related to emotional stress and substance abuse.

STOP SMOKING IN BERRIEN SPRINGS

BERRIEN SPRINGS—A young couple in their early 30's had smoked for 18 years. They signed up for the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking sponsored recently by the Andrews University Medical Center.

They quit smoking and are now involved in a diet and exercise program. "We can hardly believe how much better we feel. We have so much energy we hardly know what to do with it," they commented enthusiastically.

As part of his work with the Berrien County Health Department, a substance abuse counselor advised young people not to smoke. He decided his counseling would be more effective if he himself quit smoking, so he enrolled in the Five-Day Plan.

These are three of the eight people who quit smoking as a result of the Five-Day plan conducted by Herald Habenicht, M.D., medical director, and Ida Mae White, visiting nurse. The meetings were held at Berrien Springs Middle School, February 25 to March 1.

The University Medical Center sponsored another Five-Day Plan, April 8 through 12, in Van Buren State Bank's community room in Sister Lakes, Michigan.

GYMNICS PERFORM AT ROCKFORD

The Gymnics gymnastic team from Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan, were in Rockford on March 31. They were in charge of Sabbath School and the church service on the Seventh-day Adventist Community Guest Day at the church.

On Saturday evening, March 31, the Gymnics presented a program at the Christian Life Center School Gymnasium.

The 50-member team has been inspiring groups all over the country for the past 20 years. They have traveled to many foreign countries and have given a program at the White House in Washington, D.C.

Coach Robert Kalua, from the Hawaiian Island of Molokai, has been leader of the group since its beginning. His goal for the group is not only top performance, but a spiritual presentation to reach other young folk and help them become involved in healthful exercise and meaningful living.

GREEK WORRY BEADS HELP SMOKERS

The Rockford Church added a new concept to its 25th Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Collette Rush, director of the clinic, learned a Greek method of keeping restless hands involved and suggested it to people who are trying to stop smoking—the use of worry beads.

In the Athens Five-Day Plan, directed by Seventh-day Adventist Pastor Nick Germanis, worry beads are used to keep restless fingers busy as a supplement to the regular treatment and program.

The colorful beads have no religious or superstitious belief attached to them, it is a traditional habit to busily flip them back and forth in your hand—a prestigious sign of leisure!

They are carried by every class of people—laborers, university students, businessmen, old and young alike—as part of their dress.

The Five-Day Plan sponsored by the Rockford Church has the support of at least 12 organizations including the heart and cancer associations, the local health department and three hospitals. They work together in the common cause of trying to help people who wish to stop smoking.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

Saul Agosto

This was the task taken up by Saul Agosto, a seminary student at Andrews University: Almost 1½ years after arriving at Andrews, studying on a full-time basis, Saul decided to enter the literature ministry in the greater Chicago area.

From the very beginning it was a challenge. He drove 200 miles round trip to Andrews. At times the bad weather made things quite difficult—there were car breakdowns, which many times forced him to leave his family behind. Even throughout the blizzard of January 1979 Saul Agosto kept working.

Last year, the Lord blessed Saul Agosto with more than $15,000 in deliveries. This was done by working only on weekends.

This year he has already sold more than $8,000 worth of literature.

At the present time two more students are doing the same work.

Saul Agosto graduates this June with a Master of Divinity degree. He will then go to work as a pastor in the New Jersey Conference.

Elder Bill Quigley of Ministry magazine joins a lively discussion with visiting non-Adventist clergy at the Hinsdale PREACH seminar.

PREACH SEMINAR HELD IN HINSDALE

"We have had several ministers who sent a check for $10.95 and requested all 12 issues of Ministry magazine for the year," coordinator Elder Bill Quigley told some of the non-Adventist clergymen and their wives who attended a recent PREACH seminar in Hinsdale.

A total of 86 clergymen and their wives attended the seminar held at the Hinsdale Church and enjoyed a vegetarian lunch prepared by the Hinsdale Hospital food service staff on March 5. Several Adventist ministers joined their colleagues to make a total of 125 participants in the day's activities.

Andrews University theology professor Dr. Raoul Dederen discussed the battle over the inerrancy of the Bible. Roy Wightman, health director for GLAHS, and Dr. Walter Thompson of Hinsdale Hospital discussed the minister's health. The day closed with a lecture by Dr. Robert Brown of the Geoscience Research Institute concerning creation and the Bible.

The participants expressed sincere appreciation to the seminar leaders and to the Adventist pastors they became acquainted with throughout the day.

"We really were blessed by the fellowship, the food, and the study of God's word," was a comment heard most often. Many participants requested additional seminars in the future.

We are in need of other couriers who will hasten the coming of Jesus with the printed page.

One summer during the Reformation 40 students went from Germany to Switzerland to canvass. They awakened interest everywhere and organized churches—the Reformation moved forward.

The reformer Zwingli, writing to Luther, said, "If you could send me 100 students like these next year, we could set the mountains of Switzerland on fire."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the spirit of the Reformation were revived in our lives? Then we could set these big cities "on fire," preparing them for the coming King.

Why don't you join us? Not just in the summer, but all year round. Remember Jesus' words in Mark 10:27, "With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God, all things are possible."

• On July 14 the Muncie Church will have a dedication service for its remodeled church.

Five children were dedicated recently in the Cicero Church.

5 CICERO COUPLES DEDICATE THEIR CHILDREN

The Cicero Church members believe that the life of the church is in its children. The cradle roll department is bulging with 45 members at the present time and plans for enlarging the Sabbath School rooms are being made.

Sabbath, February 17, a dedication service for children was held. Five couples brought their children to be dedicated to the Lord. Elder Randall Murphy and two elders of the church had a short prayer service with each couple. They asked the Lord not only to bless the child, but give the parents wisdom in bringing up the child "in the way he should go."

Those presenting children to the Lord were: Mr. and Mrs. Pat Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Brent Mulley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hockersmith, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Burke and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Dunders.

I.J.A. ACTIVE IN MISSIONARY PROJECTS

The fifth- and sixth-grade class at Indianapolis Junior Academy were thinking of ways they could earn money to send to Faith for Today for a Valentine love offering.

"Let's have a bake sale," Whitney suggested. So the students ordered loaves of bread baked at Indiana Academy and sold them after school each Thursday to parents who came to pick up their children.

Each Thursday during February Mr. and Mrs. Don Stricker brought bread and rolls baked at Indiana Academy to the school for the project.

A total of $50 was earned by the class to send to Faith for Today. The other classes had similar projects. The school raised a total of $178.05.

The students completed a Faith for Today poster which contained 350 covered squares. For each dime that was earned, the students scratched off one square to reveal a portion of a scene taken from the film that Faith for Today is producing concerning family life.

Another project involves Listen magazine. The students are now earning money to send Listen subscriptions to area schools.

As they study the hazards of intemperance and the joys of good health in science class, they want to share their faith with other youth who do not understand God's plan.

The students have already earned $4.50 to send one subscription and are saving to send a second one.

Students of grades seven through ten at Northfield Junior Academy in Troy enjoyed a Valentine's banquet recently with the meal planned by students of the home economics class. Heide Erickson and Randy Blair were photographed by the motif of the occasion.

ABC BOOKMOBILE SCHEDULE

The bookmobile of the Adventist Book Center will be visiting six of the eight spring federation meetings of the community services.

The traveling mobile display and sales unit will not be at the meetings at Buchanan and Munising because of their proximity to the Berrien Springs and Escanaba branch outlets.

According to present plans the bookmobile will meet the following schedule: Shelby, Monday, April 30; Saginaw, Tuesday, May 1; Holly, Thursday, May 3; Mio, Monday, May 7; Bellevue, Tuesday, May 8, and Greenville, Wednesday, May 9.

OPENING SERVICES AT NEW HOLLY CHURCH

Opening services for the new Holly Church on Fish Lake Road will be held May 4, 5 and 9. Friends, neighbors and former members are invited to join the local congregation for these special services.

A consecration service for the church family is scheduled for Friday evening, May 4. Pastor Earl J. Zager will officiate for the first service in the new sanctuary. The Lord's Supper will be served.

"Homecoming" will be the theme for Sabbath School and the worship service on Sabbath, May 5. Donald Macintosh of Walla Walla, Washington, a former Holly pastor, will be the guest speaker. A potluck dinner at the Holly Church School gymnasium will follow.

The church consecration service at 3:30 P.M. will feature Charles Keymer, conference president.

The community will be invited to a prayer service and open house on Wednesday evening, May 9.

PRAYER CHANGES THINGS

The prayers of Reed City church members have been instrumental in changing the lives of David Springer, his wife, Judy, and their baby daughter, Dania.

For some time area Adventists had an interest in the family, and last summer they rejoiced when Judy took her stand for Christ.

A few months later she was rushed to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids, where she gave birth prematurely to Dania, who barely weighed in at 2 pounds, 6 ounces. Exceptional care given the child, and the prayers of church members brought the baby through. Now the 5-month-old child weighs nearly 10 pounds.

In appreciation for God's blessings to them the parents dedicated their daughter to the Lord in special ceremonies held in Reed City's sister church at Big Rapids. To make the home circle complete, David was baptized by Elder Cecil Pomeroy and joined the church.

SPECIAL NIGHT FOR ADRIAN LUZERIOS PATHFINDER CLUB

Recently a special Pathfinder meeting was held in Adrian for the club members, reports the director, Dr. Gordon Guild.

An archery demonstration was presented by Dr. R. E. Dustin, a surgeon and sportsman of the Tecumseh area. Archery has been Dr. Dustin's hobby for many years, and "his equipment and display were fantastic," Dr. Guild commented.

Dr. Gordon Guild, club director, left, helps Dr. R. E. Dustin demonstrate bows and arrows.

During the presentation, Dr. Dustin made an arrow for the group. He showed how it was painted, placed feathers on the arrow and burned them, and demonstrated different types of arrow heads.

He also had numerous types of bows displayed. The presentation ended with a shooting exhibition by the doctor.

Merrill Fleming, Michigan Pathfinder director, stopped by to evaluate the club. Punch and pizza were served.

YOUTH MINISTRY COURSE CAN STRENGTHEN YOUR PROGRAM

On March 23 and 24 at Ithaca the first Youth Ministry Training Course was held by Don Williams Jr. as newly elected youth associate for the conference.

Youth leaders were taught basic principles of conducting religious discussion groups, leadership qualifications, temperance, and how to make youth organizations meet the needs of the local church.

One of the projects scheduled for Elder Williams will be special summer activities for the youth of specific districts. Some of the possibilities are strengthening a failing church, assisting with Vacation Bible School programs, conducting Bible story hours, organizing H.O.P. Clubs (Help Other People), preparing for fall evangelistic meetings and reaching out to youth who no longer attend church.

Local churches interested in strengthening the work for their youth should contact Elder Williams at the conference office.

IT IS WRITTEN SEMINARS WELL ATTENDED

Nearly 1,200 people turned out for the four It Is Written seminars held in Southeastern Michigan, March 22 to 28, by George Vandeman and Lonnie Melashenko of the telecast team.

According to Myron Voegele, conference ministerial secretary coordinator of the seminars, the attendance was as follows: Flint, 356; Detroit, 470; Dearborn, 151; Troy, 213, for a total of 1,190.

Continuing seminars are bringing good results, Elder Voegele reports. Attendance at the First Flint Church series has been 75, 60 have been reported at South Flint, and 120 at the Fenton-Holly meetings. Other churches in the greater Detroit area have scheduled follow-up meetings at other times.

At the South Flint Church, members anticipated about 35 would attend. Much to their pleasant surprise 60 chairs were needed that evening. "This is the greatest thing that ever happened to me," George Renton, pastor, reported.

Other evangelistic campaigns in Michigan are progressing well:

Earl Zager of Holly used a special tabloid flier (prepared by the conference ministerial department) to add to the number of names of interested people from the Revelation Seminars. Bill Dennis of the area has joined Elder Zager to conduct these classes.

At Benton Harbor, Lee Grady reports a strong interest for the series being conducted by J. J. Millett of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference. The meetings, held in the church, had near capacity crowds for the first four nights. Dan Ipes of the Owosso and St. Johns churches is assisting in this series.

Bob Wiese is holding a series in the armory at Cadillac. On the opening night about 300 people—double the number anticipated—poured into the meeting room. Jim Danforth and other area pastors are helping in this crusade.

More than 200 laymen delegates from across the conference attended the lay training seminar meeting at Au Sable, March 30 to April 1. Elder George Knowles of the General Conference lay activities department, Al Bauer of the union conference and Art Covell of the local conference directed the program. Other guest speakers, including conference president Charles Keymer, participated in the highly appreciated weekend program.

82-YEAR-OLD FITNESS BUFF LAUNCHES PROGRAM

Hulda Crooks, an 82-year-old, physical fitness buff from Loma Linda, California, recently climbed the 28 flights of stairs of Detroit's Fisher Building in 15 minutes. She did this prior to meeting an appointment at radio station WJR where she was to be interviewed with Dr. Arthur Weaver on the noon FOCUS broadcast. Mrs. Crooks is well known for her yearly climbs of Mt. Whitney (14,495 feet high) in California and has climbed it 16 times so far. Dr. Weaver brought her to Detroit to help advertise his current Better Living Seminars. The seminars are a regular program of Dr. and Mrs. Weaver and Elder John Swanson of the Plymouth Church as part of an effort in preventive medicine and spiritual strengthening. The New London Church

CENTENNIAL COMMEMORATION AT NEW LONDON

May 12, 1979, will be a special Sabbath for the New London Church. That Sabbath will mark 100 years for the existence of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the vicinity.

This centennial commemoration will be observed by a program to be presented by Henry Westphal. Elder Westphal, a retired minister and former missionary to South America, is a member of the founding families of the New London Church. Elder Westphal was a missionary to South America for many years.

The New London Church began when the Sabbath School was organized in November 1878 at Morgan's residence—with H. W. Decker presiding. Seventeen members attended the meeting.

It was then organized as a church in May 1879. At that time the members met in the Methodist and Baptist churches until the church was built in 1896.

The families that were pioneers in the church were the Westphals, Parfitts, Greys, Morgans, Jacobuses, Cadys, Maases and Menzels.

In 1923 New London organized a church school. Several missionaries have been students of this school.

The May 12 activities will include the Sabbath School lesson given by Robert Dale, Wisconsin Conference president; Dr. Steve Vitrano of Andrews University will be the speaker for the church service, and the program at 2 P.M. will be presented by Elder Westphal.

Looking back in history the people in New London can only say that the Lord has done a great thing. The church still has a responsibility, sparked from the fire of the pioneers a hundred years ago. This spark has enabled the church to function as a witnessing light in the community.

We would like to invite friends and former members to the New London Church to participate in the centennial observance.

Jim Mamanua, Pastor

NORTHERN DISTRICT CAMP MEETING

Set aside May 19 on your calendar for the northern district spring meeting. Churches from northern Wisconsin are invited to this meeting at Camp Wahdoon.

This annual convocation will have as guest speaker, Dr. J. G. Smoot, president of Andrews University, and choral presentations by the Wisconsin Academy Chorale directed by Paul Haynes.

Dr. Smoot's subject will be "The Bible and You."

The morning worship services will be preceded by Sabbath School, and the mission emphasis is entitled "Adventists Across America."

The retreat will be concluded by an afternoon musical program by the chorale and meditations by Robert Dale, Wisconsin Conference president.

The new Sturgeon Bay Church

CELEBRATION SABBATH

Seventh-day Adventists from up and down Wisconsin's peninsula playground joined the church members of Sturgeon Bay in a Celebration Sabbath, March 3, 1979.

The special open-house service was the first Sabbath service held in the new sanctuary. Prior to this the members had been meeting in the Sabbath school. The first portion of the new building was begun in 1976.

Special guest speaker was Robert

Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference. Others participating in the program included Larry A. Roth, pastor of the Green Bay-Sturgeon Bay-Fish Creek District; Steven Charbonneau, associate pastor for the district; Donald Mann, local head elder, and a visiting guest, Myrtle FitzGerald, missionary from Thailand.

The new church has a seating capacity of 125 and is valued at nearly $150,000. Sturgeon Bay, a growing community of 10,000 people, is in the heart of Door County—a summer and winter resort area.

It is a fast growing area—a place where Seventh-day Adventists should be active.

Sturgeon Bay and Fish Creek have united for several outreach projects.

For some years these two churches have sponsored a weekly 15-minute Sabbath morning devotional program on radio station WDOR. Each week books and Bible lessons are made available free of charge over the radio for people who call or write in.

Beginning this summer the churches will provide housing for a team of college student literature evangelists. The plan is for the students to visit every home in the county, place Christian literature in the homes, and find every person who would be interested in taking Bible studies.

The members of the churches in Door County believe in church growth. Not only have the 16 members of Sturgeon Bay completed their new church to seat 125, but the 13 members of Fish Creek have nearly finished a new addition to their historic church to accommodate 100. They also added new rooms for Sabbath School and Vacation Bible School.

Believing that many Adventist families with children will soon be joining the church and expecting church school facilities, the members of Sturgeon Bay are giving comprehensive study to establishing a church school.

Admittedly these are bold plans for a church of only 16 members. But already families are making the move to Door County. There are good opportunities for Adventists in Door County. Write to Door County Adventist Adventure, P. O. Box 332, Sturgeon Bay, WI 54235, or call Pastor Larry Roth, (414) 499-6401.

COME FLY WITH US!

Come fly with us! If you are interested in Seventh-day Adventist aviation, you will want to attend the fly-in (fly or drive) scheduled for the weekend of May 4, at Andrews Airport, Berrien Springs, Michigan.

The weekend activities will begin with registration Friday afternoon in the seminary building, Andrews University. There will be a vesper program Friday evening.

J. L. Tucker of the Quiet Hour will be the Sabbath morning speaker.

A pancake breakfast will be served Sunday morning from 7 to 9. After the breakfast there will be a public air show.

The airport buildings and mission aircraft will be dedicated Sunday afternoon.

On Monday morning there will be a constituency meeting of the Adventist Aviation Association. Anyone who is interested in joining this association is urged to attend.

For more information, contact William Smith, Andrews Airpark, phone: (616) 471-3547.

CAMP MEETING FOR DEAF IN OREGON

Can you imagine a camp meeting where communication for most of the campers is in total silence yet the message shouts the love of Jesus Christ?

That's the way it will be for the annual Oregon camp meeting for the deaf, July 22 to 29.

The only one of its kind in North America, the camp meeting draws people from as far away as Canada and Washington, D.C., says Rex Rolls, who coordinates the meetings with George Belser.

Held at Milo Adventist Academy, the camp meeting will include many features. Among them are seminars in family living and healthful living, family and prayer counseling, a Vacation Bible School, a baptismal class and an adult Bible class as well as plenty of time for recreation.

The cost averages less than $8 a day per person for food and living quarters. No advance applications are necessary.

If you wish to attend, make plans now. If you know of someone who would benefit from this special experience for the deaf, tell him about this camp meeting.

For further information contact Elder Rex Rolls, 307 N. E. 62nd Ave., Portland, OR 97213.

These literature evangelists and their families attended the recent training school.

NEW WORKERS TRAINING SCHOOL

From the snowy pines of northern Wisconsin and Michigan to the balmy edges of southern Indiana and Illinois the new workers came to the literature evangelist training school. All of them had one goal and one desire—to be what the Lord wanted them to be.

Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin each sent 11 new workers. Indiana sent three. With the workers, spouses and children there were more than 75 people at the meetings, with an overflow crowd at the Friday night and Sabbath meetings.

Myron Voegele, ministerial secretary of the Michigan Conference, presented the challenge of involvement on Sabbath.

Each publishing secretary conducted an important part of the training program and they were assisted by the local publishing associates and assistants.

The General Conference training films, entitled "Like A Mighty Army," were used for the main emphasis of the training. Reginald Frood, associate publishing secretary and H.H.E.S. manager, and his associates informed the new workers of the working policies.

With such an army as this, rightly trained, how quickly could the message of Jesus' soon coming be heralded to the ends of the earth.
