Gary Cook is a young man who has been searching for truth for several years. He first attended the Baptist Church. Later he was baptized and joined the Assembly of God Church. Then he began to watch a religious program on TV. One Sunday he took strong exception to a message entitled "Is There A Real Hell?" He turned off the television set and would not watch the program for about a year. Then he began to watch again and purchased some reference books, including a Greek lexicon, so that he could compare the sermon texts and their use with the original Greek New Testament.

Gary also learned some very interesting things about the law and the Sabbath in the process of testing this program's doctrine by the Word of God.

Then one day Gary tuned in to the It Is Written program. It came on at the same hour as the other program he had watched, but he liked it enough to split the half hour—during the second 15-minutes he watched It Is Written. At first he thought the two programs were similar in doctrine. But he continued to apply the test of Scripture to what he heard. He began to discover serious discrepancies with the first program but could never find any fault with Elder Vandeman. So he began to watch It Is Written for the entire 30 minutes.

Gary telephoned the Gary, Indiana, Church for the free literature and later began to attend Sabbath services. He sat in the special doctrinal classes taught by Dave Sanders and Pastor Carl Johnson. When Evangelist Lester Carney came to the Gary Church last fall Gary attended every meeting and was baptized after this series. Now Gary has been sharing his faith with two sisters and a friend through Bible studies.

He had reacted vigorously against what he heard about the state of the dead. He checked it out with the Bible and later accepted it. He had tested the teachings of a man who brought him light and found him to be out of harmony with the Word on some points. Then he found a preacher and a church that did ring true to the Scripture on every point. He held fast to that which is good by uniting with the church that he tested by the Word and found to be true. Now with a thankful heart he is sharing the precious truth with others.

There are many hearts like Gary's that are longingly searching for light today. God wants them to hear the blessed truths of His Word through human instruments like you and me. Many will resist at first but, if like Gary Cook, they will test every doctrine by the Word, God will lead them to the fold of safety.

Love Letters from Grandma

by Ernest N. Wendth

Age is no barrier to witnessing for at least one grandmother in Michigan—she witnesses with her letter writing.

According to word received at the conference office, "Grandma" (she prefers to remain anonymous) has been keeping up a correspondence for the past five years with prisoners at various jails. She does this "to encourage them, to teach them, to build up their morale and to be a grandmother to them."

Has it been worthwhile? Last October an inmate of a Florida prison answered one of her letters with the happy news that he had accepted Christ. It was, he wrote, "because a little old grandmother in Michigan had loved him and prayed for him." Letters since then indicate that he is sincere and continuing to love and serve His Lord.

Our letter-writing senior citizen tells of another of her boys "up in Wisconsin" who took courses in counseling while a prisoner and who is now working for others at a half-way house. His mother wrote Grandma to report on his good progress and to give thanks for the influence of the letters of love from this unseen angel of God.

Just recently Grandma received a letter from another prisoner. She had corresponded with him while he was behind bars in Virginia. Now he is free and working for the Lord through a weekly radio program on a Marion, Illinois, station, and meeting speaking appointments in churches. He wrote Grandma that it was her love and encouragement, in part, that helped him create a new life for himself and to be able to witness to others.

These are just three of the prisoners who have been inspired and encouraged by an unknown Christian. Grandma continues to write to others and will do so as long as the Lord gives her strength. She believes that by doing so she is faithful in fulfilling Christ's admonition to visit those who are in prison.

There are others who benefit from the clear handwritten letters of this mother and grandmother. She even writes to "old people," and laughs when she says this, for at her age—88—all of these "old people" are younger than she.

Younger? Maybe physically—but not in heart or spirit. And this unknown but much-loved Grandma will go right on writing to those who need encouragement. As she helps others she helps herself for she feels she is still doing some good in the world.

God richly bless you, Grandma, on this Mother's Day!

Ernest Wendth is communication secretary for the Michigan Conference.

Right: The Seventh-day Adventist School, Lake Titicaca, Peru, was the subject of a Mission Spotlight program. Below: Shipment to the conferences is made via United Parcel Service approximately 2½ weeks before the beginning of each new quarter. At the conference office, the labels are addressed for the mailing cycle.

Mission Spotlight recently celebrated its eighth anniversary.

Mission Spotlight programs are audiovisual presentations on the worldwide work of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. They are designed for showing during Sabbath School to replace the regular mission report once each month.

Motives and goals for production of these 8-to-12-minute programs were based on a conviction that proper communication stimulates interest in the global assignment of the church.

The plan was conceived with a belief that reports on the mission of the church around the world can be made meaningful in pictures, documented music and sounds, and a descriptive script.

Experimental programs were first produced in 1968 when seven films on the Inter-American Division were released in 200 churches. Three of these were movies; four were slide presentations.

The plan to show these programs during Sabbath School involved providing rear-projection screens so the visuals could be seen in daylight. Commercial screens of this type were new in the audiovisual industry, so it was necessary to develop some inexpensive units that could serve the participating churches.

A survey taken after the seven programs had been shown revealed two things: Sabbath School members like the realism of audiovisual reports, and slide presentations carry equal impact with movies.

Using these guidelines, study was given to the possibility of making three slide documentaries each quarter from the world division designated to benefit from the overflow offering.

Because of the concept envisioned by personnel in the special services department of the Southern Union Conference, a request was placed for this department to develop a plan and proceed with production of Mission Spotlight programs.

The first programs under this continuing plan of production were shipped for showing during the fourth quarter of 1970; but the accumulated orders for this shipment fell far short of the number needed to meet expenses.

Only 108 churches initially subscribed to the program; however, during that quarter, many Sabbath Schools were added—enough that it seemed advisable to continue production.

Since then, Mission Spotlight has grown quarter by quarter. During the eighth year of production, the total number of churches being served went beyond 2,200.

The programs are used by hundreds of Sabbath schools in the United States, scores of churches across Canada, all English-speaking churches in Hawaii and Guam. They are produced in the Spanish language to serve the Spanish-speaking churches of North America and the Inter-American Division.

Background soundtracks, and the English soundtracks, are now sent to Paris, France, where the scripts are translated into French and German for use in Europe.

Through Mission Spotlight, new members of the church are exposed to the world church of Seventh-day Adventists—young people find the reports credible, children relate to Sabbath School as extending beyond their own division walls, and long-time members are inspired with the realistic, direct reports.

Mission Spotlight films are current. Often the programs are released within 60 days after the visit to the areas being covered.

Securing the pictures, documentaries and information requires travel by jet, jeep, car, truck, horseback, foot, canoe, motorboat, river launch, amphibian plane, mission plane, bush plane, ox cart, train or bus! From 400 to 500 exposures are made for each program on negative film by Hasselblad cameras.

During the last eight years, Sabbath School members have viewed reports from 53 different countries—from the highest lake in the world, where the church operates a school, to the lowest lake where the Dead Sea scrolls were discovered.

The most recent service developed by the producers of Mission Spotlight is the availability of "back" programs. A library of 27 of the most outstanding programs has been made available to every conference.

Any Sabbath School leaders desiring to use these "back" programs can secure them through the Sabbath School department of their local conference. Evangelists, teachers or any individuals desiring their own copy may direct an inquiry to Special Services, Southern Union Conference, P. O. Box 849, Decatur, GA 30032.

AUGSBURGER AND WARDEN RECEIVE FACULTY AWARDS

Andrews University's prestigious faculty awards were presented April 26 to Dr. Daniel Augsburger and Ivan L. Warden, both of whom teach in the Theological Seminary and the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Augsburger, who has taught at Andrews since 1942, has more continuous service than any other faculty member. For many years he was chairman of the university's modern languages department, later moving to the religion department.

In 1976 he received a joint appointment to the seminary, and now teaches both graduate and undergraduate classes. His specialty is the history of the Reformation.

Mr. Warden came to Andrews in 1976 as assistant professor of religion and received his joint appointment to the seminary in 1978, teaching in the department of church and ministry.

He is a former pastor and also served as chaplain at New York University Hospital and the Bellevue Hospital Center, also in New York. He is also a member of the Volunteers in Probation Advisory Board for Fifth District Court in Berrien County, Michigan.

In reading from Mr. Warden's citation, Dr. Joseph Warren of Andrews English department said, "Ivan, we believe you are a teacher who by force of conviction teaches only that which your life style supports. There is no substantive difference between your classroom presence and your everyday self."

Dr. Augsburger was cited for "his skillfulness in conducting interesting and challenging courses...his concern for the intellectual, spiritual and physical well-being of his fellowmen as evidenced by the many hours spent in counseling and working with his students and other friends...his dedication to learning as seen in his impressive list of six earned academic degrees, including two doctorates..."

His citation was read by Dr. Hans-Jorgen Holman of Andrews' music department.

Two Faculty Awards are presented each spring to a tenured and an untenured Andrews teacher. Candidates are nominated by their colleagues and final selection rests with the faculty awards committee.

KOUNTRY KANTER RUN DESPITE RAIN

Mark Mesler of Grand Blanc, Michigan, finished first in Andrews University's second annual Kountry Kanter, April 29, with a time of 51 minutes and 27 seconds over the 10-mile course.

Second and third places went to Edwin Hurlow of Berrien Springs with 53:56 and Jeff Gansloff of Pleasant Lake, Indiana, with 54:34. Edwin Hurlow is an Andrews student.

Mary Ann Gedritis of Grand Rapids, Michigan, was the first woman to cross the finish line at 1:07:08.

Mavis Lindgren, the 72-year-old marathon runner from Orleans, California, finished in 1:28:30.

Mrs. Lindgren, who only began running 10 years ago, now runs 60 miles a week, and began the day of the Kountry Kanter by running five miles to warm up.

"I run just for the fun of it," she says. "I may be getting older, but I'm improving my time, so I will keep on running."

The temperature was a comfortable 52 degrees at race time, but dropped quickly into the mid-40's as a steady drizzle began falling on the runners. The course began and ended on the Andrews campus, winding through the village of Berrien Springs and the countryside north and west of town.

This year's race featured a new four-mile course. Mike Opulskas of Berrien Springs won the men's division on that course with a time of 23:03. Donna Pfeffer of Elkhart, Indiana, was the winning woman at 26:55.

Attempts are being made to have the Kountry Kanter officially certified as a road race, according to Dr. Dan A. Klein, chairman of the university's physical education department. He expects the 1980 race to be certified, he says.

Richard W. Schwarz, vice president for academic administration.

Roy Naden, assistant professor of religious education, received the Doctor of Education degree from the U.C.L.A. School of Education after successfully defending his dissertation, "The Effectiveness of a Religious Documentary in Modifying Cognitive and Affective Outcomes in Adult Audiences."

Dr. Naden joined the Andrews faculty in January.

Donald R. Sahly, who came to Andrews in 1978 as executive director of the university's alumni association, earned a Doctor of Education degree from the University of the Pacific. His dissertation was entitled, "The Principal and Principalship of Seventh-day Adventist Elementary Schools in the Southwestern United States."

Before he came to Andrews, Dr. Sahly was principal of several church elementary schools, most recently in Lodi, California.

HEALTH LEADERSHIP SEMINAR SCHEDULED

A health leadership seminar will be held at Andrews on May 20, according to Charlotte Hamlin, assistant professor of nursing.

The seminar will meet from 10 A.M. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 P.M. in Room 208, Marsh Hall.

Topics to be covered, says Mrs. Hamlin, are "returning the 'breath of life' to our churches," challenging the youth, making and presenting visual health displays, a simple risk evaluation and follow-up, and how to introduce Christ through health.

Ministers, physicians, nurses and all laymen interested in the church's health programs are invited to attend.

consisting of a professional office building, 965-car parking structure, and nurses residence/educational complex.

The $22-million project had been approved by the Illinois State Health Facilities Planning Board and was in the final review process by the Hinsdale Village Board.

The decision to withdraw was based on several complex factors, according to Irwin Hansen, president. One concern of local residents was increased traffic resulting from the proposed professional office building. "The Christian mission of the hospital and the hospital's history of being a good neighbor in the village were important factors leading to the decision," says Mr. Hansen.

The E.C.P. was proposed to ensure that the hospital would be able to maintain quality health care, and in addition would have the flexibility to keep pace with technological and sociological advances.

The needs still exist, and any alternative plans upon which the hospital and village agree must address these needs.

Much of the research connected with the E.C.P. can now contribute to a new strategy to resolve these problems. A Certificate of Need was issued by the Illinois State Health Facilities Planning Board, and the hospital is carefully evaluating plans that would allow for use of the certificate before it expires early next year. Specific alternative plans have not yet been made.

This is part of the group of 50 people who were baptized recently at Downers Grove.

50 BAPTIZED AT DOWNERS GROVE

The James A. Cress Prophecy Lectures began in Downers Grove during the worst winter weather. The heavy snow prevented the delivery of the bulk of the brochures about the meeting until three weeks after the opening weekend.

Despite these setbacks the membership, directed by Pastor John Baldwin and lay coordinator Marlin Eineke, supported the evangelistic series well and the Holy Spirit was present. Nearly 50 people were baptized.

Joining Jim and Sharon Cress were their associates, Doug and Cindy Higgins; Pastor John Baldwin and his wife, Sylvia, of Downers Grove; Richard Habenicht of Hinsdale; Steve Biro of the Czechoslovakian-Polish-Hungarian churches, and Paul and Nancy Larson from Moline. Tom Shepherd and Wayne Pleasants also shared in the series.

Harold Harrington became a Seventh-day Adventist about four years ago through the ministry of Faith For Today. On the closing Saturday night he saw the fruit of his loving witness, when his wife, mother and son joined him in God's remnant church.

Also included in those joining the Seventh-day Adventist Church were several employees of Hinsdale Hospital, who had responded to a personal invitation extended to all staff members by Chaplain W. C. Graves and the administrative officers.

Attending the series as a result of the brochures and newspaper advertisements were several young couples and families who made decisions to join the church. These interested people and individuals with whom Pastor Baldwin was studying the Bible produced a rich harvest for the Lord.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton are caring for three foster children in addition to their own. They are all working for the Lord in every way they can—handing out literature, visiting, and witnessing to everyone with whom they come in contact.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD PRESENTED IN CICERO

The Cicero Church believes in honoring outstanding citizens of the community. In November 1978

Hamilton County residents were faced with voting on a pari-mutual betting referendum. If it passed, there probably would have been a horse-racing track located within blocks of the Indiana Conference office.

Headquarters for the group opposing the referendum were set up in the Noblesville Friends Church, and the three men who were the most prominent in the organization were honored at the Cicero Church on March 10. Each man received a community service award plaque in recognition of his successful work. The referendum was defeated.

ON THE AIR IN MUNCIE!

In the fall of 1977, Dr. Jim Chase of Andrews University's communication department presented avenues for a radio spot ministry to the ministers of the Indiana Conference. Dr. Chase made available his own "Quest for Meaning" scripts and some theme music which could be used with the radio spots.

One pastor, Lowell Dunston of the Muncie, Indiana, district, recorded some "Quest for Meaning" 60-second spots for a Hartford City FM station and obtained public service time.

In December 1978 Dr. Chase met again to discuss radio ministry with the Indiana ministers. Elder Dunston was convinced that he must try to get on a Muncie station, but the project seemed impossible. First of all, Muncie stations only use 30-second spots. Second, the Muncie Church has only 70 members and very little money.

Elder Dunston says, "The Lord gave me a shove!" His turn came to put on 10 of the 30-second devotional spots sponsored by the local ministerial association. He wrote his own scripts and put his message in a concise form.

When he got started, he couldn't stop. He says, "I woke up at night with 'spots' in my head!" At times he even stopped his car by the side of the road and wrote them out. In three weeks' time he had put together 50 scripts.

In March he was impressed to challenge the church. Instead of preaching a sermon that Sabbath, he challenged his members to get the message into the market place of men.

The church was planning for an evangelistic series in May. For $350 he could go on prime time five days a week for two months before the meetings. He read 10 of his radio spots for a sample. He distributed commitment forms for assistance in the upcoming crusade. The last item on the form was a pledge for radio spots. More than $250 was committed that day.

The next week he went to the conference office to make out his evangelistic budget for the May meetings. He showed his radio spots to the evangelist, Lester Carney, who said, "Great! Only one problem, you should be on twice a day instead of once. We'll match what your church is doing."

Elder Dunston went to the station to record his first week of spots. As he wrote out a check the station manager said, "We've decided to match you. You pay one-half, we'll give you the other half as a public service!"

Elder Dunston says, "This is the most exciting thing that has happened in my 13-year ministry. It is electrifying my church. The Lord's resources are unlimited. The church's original investment has been multiplied by four. That means we can stay on longer!"

Elder Randall Murphy talks to students in the Cicero Church School.

RANDALL MURPHY CONDUCTS WEEK OF PRAYER

"Feed my Lambs," is a commission that keeps the Cicero Church on its toes. The large church school is only one of the many areas where the "lambs" are fed, day by day.

Elder Randall Murphy, Cicero pastor, conducted a Week of Prayer in March. He took time in each room every day to present food for thought that reached the hearts of the young people.

Baptismal classes were formed after the Week of Prayer, and many young people are studying for baptism.

Laurie Benedict receives Exchange Club award from Judge William Scoder.

B.C.A. SENIOR NAMED YOUTH OF THE MONTH BY EXCHANGE CLUB

Laurie Benedict, a senior at Battle Creek Academy, was named Youth of the Month by the Battle Creek Exchange Club. She was given the award at a luncheon held by the Exchange Club and attended by Laurie and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Benedict, and Alvin Astrup, principal of B.C.A., on April 11.

After the luncheon at the Hart Hotel, most of the members of the Exchange Club went to Battle Creek Academy to rededicate the Freedom Shrine which the club presented to the school in 1969.

The Freedom Shrine is a collection of 28 facsimilies of documents that trace the progress of America toward the freedom and peace which we enjoy today.

These documents occupy a prominent place in the school's hallway, and recently the seventh- and eighth-grade students are taking a very active interest in them. The Exchange Club announced a program in which each student in these grades receives a booklet which has the story and a copy of each document.

The students are studying the booklet and will take a test the first of May. The top scorer on the test will receive a $50 bond and an engraved plaque. The next two scorers will each receive a $50 bond from the Exchange Club. The winner will also be honored at a luncheon.

The rededication speech was given by Calhoun County Probate Judge William Scoder, who challenged the students to take a lesson from the past so that our present and future will be worth living.

After the rededication speech, Laurie was introduced to the students as Youth of the Month, and her parents joined her on the stage as Paul Bonney, teacher, listed some of Laurie's accomplishments. She is a member of the National Honor Society, listed in Who's Who in American High School Students, secretary of the student association, and has been band and choir officer for three years.

Recently Laurie has completed a nurses'-aide training course at Calhoun Area Vo-Tech Center while maintaining a high grade point average at Battle Creek Academy. She plans to attend Andrews University next year to begin a course in nursing. At the end of the program Laurie was given a plaque and a $50 bond.

YOUR STORY HOUR ON STATION WNIC-FM

Radio station WNIC-FM, Dearborn, is now broadcasting Your Story Hour each Sunday morning at 7:30.

The station has a powerful 50,000 watt transmitter, and a high listener rating. It can be heard in a large part of southeastern Michigan. It is located at 100.3 on the FM dial.

During the summer of 1978 Your Story Hour sent audition tapes to a large number of radio stations. One day Stanley Hill, Uncle Dan of the broadcast, received a telephone call from Ed Christian, general manager of WNIC-FM. "Stan," he said, "I grew up on the Story Hour programs, and now I want my boys to have the same opportunity. I'll be getting back to you as soon as I can find an opening for the broadcast."

While in Detroit last October Mr. Hill made an appointment to visit Mr. Christian who had not been able to clear a time slot for the children's program. He asked if he could receive the programs so that his boys could hear the stories in their home. The Story Hour staff was glad to accommodate.

As Mr. Hill got up to leave, Mr. Christian said warmly, "Stan, if you will just have patience with me, I promise to clear a Sunday spot at the very first opportunity, and Your Story Hour will be on forever!"

All during the winter months the Story Hour workers made WNIC-FM a special item of prayer. Then a few days ago Uncle Dan determined to telephone Mr. Christian to remind him of his commitment. Before he could place the call, his phone rang. "Mr. Hill," said the voice on the other end of the line, "this is Ed Christian's secretary. He wanted me to tell you he appreciates your patience, and he said to tell you that Your Story Hour will now be heard each week at 7:30 A.M.!"

Friends of Your Story Hour can greatly benefit the broadcast by calling or writing WNIC-FM, Dearborn, MI 48126, to express appreciation for this program which is "making boys and girls of today better men and women tomorrow."

• Members of the Milwaukee Northwest Church were invited to the Milwaukee Journal's Radio City to tape a brief, representative worship hour. This program was shown on TV Sunday morning, December 10. Children from the junior academy sang songs of thanksgiving and joy. Pastor Don Giarrusso presented a sermon on the inspiration of the Bible.

• A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was held at Mercy Hospital, Janesville, Wisconsin, April 1 to 5. Fifty-four smokers attended the program that was conducted by Dr. Donald Knepel and Pastor James Fox.

• On Sunday, March 4, a five-minute radio program began in the LaCrosse, Wisconsin, area. The title of the program, "Focus on Faith," is presented each week by Elder Fred Ellis and Pastor David Gran of the LaCrosse District. The program deals with controversial matters in religion, emphasizing Seventh-day Adventist doctrine.

• The Choralaires, the Chorale, and the Wisconsin Academy Band, directed by George Paul Haynes and accompanied by Gary K. Klemp, presented a concert on April 14 in the Academy Chapel. The Voice of Prophecy offers: Home Bible studies, a neighborhood Bible study group, the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, vegetarian cooking classes, or a visit from the pastor.

As a result of these requests 28 Bible lessons are mailed each week, and studies are being conducted with six people in their homes.

A Five-Day Plan was conducted in Mercy Hospital in Janesville, and James Fox, associate pastor of the district, who worked with Dr. Donald Knepel and is following up the work, reports that at least three-fourths of the 54 people who attended all five days have not smoked again.

Hester Thomsen, wife of district pastor Halvard Thomsen, was assisted by 12 home demonstrators in the presentation of a vegetarian cooking school. Dr. Donald Casebolt and Wesley Olfert of Stevens Point gave illustrated lectures to the large audience. Fifty-three people who attended were non-Adventists. All the women (and there were some men, too) said they received much more than they expected and they learned a great deal about food. Most participants said they did not want the cooking school to end.

Writing the Bible was an unforgettable experience for everyone who participated. Many remarked that it had made their day.

The Mall Merchants' Association has asked that the Old Testament be written this winter. The mall's promotion director wrote a glowing letter, which says in part, "We were most pleased with the entire event, and look forward to working with you again. We are proud to lend sponsorship to such a worthy achievement."

There was a report of the event in the Adventist Review, and a reader who is the secretary to the manager of a mall in a western city showed the article to her employer. Now he wants to duplicate the idea in his mall.

When we plant a seed, who knows how many souls will be reaped in its harvest?

SON-RISE STRIDER CLUB SHAPES UP

In an effort to promote healthful living in the area, the Milwaukee Northwest Church has started a club known as the Son-Rise Striders. Members range in age from 6 to 70.

Every Sunday the club meets at 8:30 P.M. at a home near a park or parkway.

Some of the participants jog or run. Others walk briskly and still others simply meander along enjoying the scenery. In winter the members meet at the gym of the Milwaukee Junior Academy. Activities during the winter include basketball, volleyball and roller skating. Once a month the members of the club enjoy a brunch at one of the homes.

The membership of the Son-Rise Striders is between 15 and 20. On any given Sunday between 7 and 10 active members are present. Many times visitors join the activities.

A young woman became acquainted with Adventists through a friend in Illinois and called the pastor of the Milwaukee Northwest Church, Don Giarrusso. Pastor Giarrusso and elders from the church visited and gave Bible studies.

The local elder discovered he worked with a friend of the young woman and it was easy to establish a cordial relationship as members of Son-Rise Striders Club. The young woman and her friend married and are now members of the Milwaukee Northwest Church.

VOLUNTEERING FOR THE MILITARY

The Seventh-day Adventist Church strongly counsels its members not to voluntarily enlist in the United States military today, for these reasons:

1. In every volunteer program in all the Armed Forces (except one) the basic training program and the advanced individual training program run 5½ days a week, which includes Friday night and Sabbath morning. In some cases the volunteer can get time off to go to Sabbath School and church, but not always. These two periods of time take the first four to eight months in military service, depending on what training you sign up for.

2. In every volunteer program for both men and women in all the Armed Forces (except one) training with weapons is mandatory, as is use of weapons later on active duty.

However, if you decide to go to a recruiter, here are some suggestions:

1. Do not enlist on the first visit. Think it over for awhile. Do not enlist when you are depressed, unemployed, or when pressured by family or other people.

2. Talk to a recently discharged member of the Armed Forces, your minister, or conference youth director before going to the recruiter.

3. Pray about the situation before and after visiting a recruiter.

4. Get a copy of the enlistment certificate you will be asked to sign. Study it well at home.

5. Have the recruiter put all his promises in writing, dated and signed. Even then, understand that he cannot make his promises come true with regard to Sabbath observance or use of weapons.

6. There are no job guarantees in the military, neither is there a "period of adjustment" during which you may request and receive an immediate honorable discharge. The military can change the training you signed up for after you are in.

If an Adventist church member is fully convinced that volunteering for the military is the only way to solve his personal problems, he should know that there is one program for volunteering as a noncombatant. So far people entering this program have been given Sabbath off during training periods.

This is a special program in the Army Medical Department—only the Army. Details can be obtained from your local conference youth director.

The church does not counsel its members to enter this program, but the possibilities of Sabbath observance and the nonbearing of arms are far greater in it than in any other program for voluntary enlistment.

TELL MAGAZINE WINS 2 R.P.R.C. AWARDS

Tell, the monthly communications journal of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, has been awarded the "best of class" first prize in the print division of the annual Religious Public Relations Council competition.

In addition, Tell was also named the best newsletter by judges in R.P.R.C.'s Hinkhouse-DeRose Memorial Awards.

From nearly 2,000 entries representing all major religious denominations, 39 awards were recently given at R.P.R.C.'s 50th anniversary convention at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City.

Tell is an eight-page monthly devoted to communications. DeWitt S. Williams is editor, and James Gallagher is associate editor. Dr. Williams says the $100 prize will be donated to the M. Carol Hetzell Memorial Fund for Adventist World Radio. Miss Hetzell, former director of communications for the Adventist Church who died in September 1978, founded Tell in 1948.

NEW S.S. FILM FEATURES SOUTHEAST ASIA

A new, 12-minute, full-color motion picture, "Doors of Hope," shows how the Seventh-day Adventist Church is making changes in Southeast Asia. This documentary film vividly shows how Christian love and care are opening doors in India, Nepal, Pakistan, Burma and Bangladesh.

For many years the Gospel could not easily penetrate most of these lands. "Doors of Hope" shows fascinating changes and experiences, like that of a young pastor who had just graduated from the seminary. He returned to his home town and within six months he raised up a church of 105 newly baptized members.

"Doors of Hope" is designed to strengthen the Sabbath School member's commitment to the third-quarter Sabbath School overflow offering. This offering is scheduled to be used in Southeast Asia.

Your Sabbath School may reserve a showing of "Doors of Hope" by contacting your conference Sabbath School department. This film is also available for a $98 purchase price.
