Consider the Lilies

Ellen G. White

"The hillsides and the fields were bright with flowers, and, pointing to them in the dewy freshness of the morning, Jesus said, 'Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow.' . . . Through all created things thrills one pulse of life from the great heart of God. The flowers of the field are clothed by His hand in richer robes than have ever graced the forms of earthly kings. . . . In the loveliness of the things of nature you may learn more of the wisdom of God than the schoolmen know. On the lily's petals, God has written a message for you, written in language that your heart can read only as it unlearns the lessons of distrust and selfishness and corroding care. . . .

" 'Consider the lilies.' Every flower that opens its petals to the sunshine obeys the same great laws that guide the stars, and how simple and beautiful and how sweet its life! Through the flowers, God would call our attention to the loveliness of Christlike character. He who has given such beauty to the blossoms desires far more that the soul should be clothed with the beauty of the character of Christ. . . .

"Fathers and mothers, let your children learn from the flowers. Take them with you into garden and field and under the leafy trees, and teach them to read in nature the message of God's love. . . . Lead the children to see in every pleasant and beautiful thing an expression of God's love for them. Recommend your religion to them by its pleasantness. . . .

"Teach the children that . . . He would have their lives beautiful with the graces of the flowers. Teach them, as they gather the sweet blossoms, that He who made the flowers is more beautiful than they. . . . He who is 'altogether lovely' will become to them as a daily companion and familiar friend, and their lives will be transformed into the image of His purity."

A forklift truck that was backing up crushed Ken Whittington against a metal pole while he worked at his job at the Hyster Company.

When he awoke from surgery the doctor told him he might never walk again. Ken felt his world had come to an end. He didn't know the experience would bring him the greatest happiness he had ever found in life!

Although Ken's wife, Cathy, had been a dedicated Adventist for several years, Ken had expressed no interest in her religion. He wanted to live his own life.

During Ken's second very critical surgery Cathy increased her prayers—not only for Ken's physical healing, but also his eternal salvation.

She brought a copy of Steps to Christ to him and this time, though his mind was numbed with pain and medication, he read the book from cover to cover. He said later that he "instantaneously fell in love with Jesus Christ." He was baptized in September 1978 by Elder Don Lund in the Danville, Illinois, Church.

Ken is still in pain physically, but spiritually he is at peace. He is unable to work at his factory job, but it hasn't stopped him from working for the Lord.

Ken and Cathy keep personal records about 50 people to whom they are giving Bible studies. Ken is also interest coordinator for the Danville Church.

Literature plays an important part in their witnessing. In addition, their four nearest neighbors are taking Bible studies.

Ken has a series of literature racks all over town that he keeps well stocked.

Pastor Lund and Ken have made four trips to Andrews University where Dr. James Chase assisted them in making a total of 78 one-minute radio spots entitled "Quest for Meaning." One station plays the spots 36 times a week, another four times, and a third station five times a week.

We have figured that so far we have received more than $4,000 worth of free air time," says Ken. "All it cost us was $17 for the recording tape!"

As a result of the spots almost everyone in Danville is becoming aware of Ken and the Adventist message. When Ken and his 5-year-old daughter, Amber, knock on doors in town to distribute literature and give their testimony, people are familiar with his voice and invite them inside.

The program even opened up the courthouse for one of Ken's literature racks.

"When I took a literature rack to the courthouse, the chief custodian and eight deputy sheriffs lined up to tell me there was no way I could distribute Christian literature there," relates Ken. "I was bold or maybe foolish, but I told them, 'If God wants his literature here to help prisoners, neither you nor anyone else can stop it!'"

Later Ken called the Federal judge to ask his permission. The judge told Ken to contact the sheriff of Vermillion County. When Ken called, the sheriff said,

Daily Witnessing for Christ

by Jeffrey K. Wilson

"Are you the Ken Whittington who is on the radio each day? I want to see you. Come to my office tomorrow."

Ken went and waited for 2½ hours. Then he told the secretary he couldn't wait any longer. She apologized and said, "Let me try to reach the sheriff. He is in an important meeting."

In just a moment the sheriff rushed out to apologize to Ken: "I was in a meeting with the mayor. I'm sorry I forgot our appointment."

When Ken related his need to get literature into the courthouse, the sheriff said, "Put your rack up anywhere, and don't limit it to one, put several on each floor. We need more religion in this courthouse!"

Ken isn't sure what the future holds; his physician and some church members have suggested that he enter the ministry. Until the Lord definitely points the way, Ken will continue finding happiness in daily witnessing for Christ.

I Am Beginning to Feel Whole Again

by Larry Yeagley

"I have a strange loneliness that I cannot understand nor describe with words," said a widow of three months. Her faraway look and sad eyes tugged at the feelings of the 15 people sitting around the table.

"When my husband was dying I lost my voice. I could not utter the softest whisper in his ear," said a woman across the table from me. "I so wanted to tell him one more time that I loved him, but I couldn't."

"My boy wouldn't come around so I could tell him I loved him," recalled a weeping mother. "He shot himself at 23. My self-esteem really took a blow. I wonder what kind of a mother I must have been."

These comments were made during a conversation that took place at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital's Grief Recovery Program.

Designed to create an atmosphere in which it is safe to express feelings of grief, this bereavement follow-up service evokes a lot of painful emotions that are frequently hidden.

Participants in the recovery program are taught what to expect during the time of adjustment. The normal range of feelings is explained so that unwarranted fears are avoided.

Grieving people are encouraged to think, write, talk and cry about their losses. This process has proven to be effective with the most difficult groups.

One group included a woman who had cancer, several people who had lost spouses within the past six months, several newly divorced people, and a 15-year-old boy whose sister had died of leukemia, whose older brother had run away from home and whose mother was murdered by his father—all within a four-year period.

A warm spirit of love and support developed in this particular group. After the fifth and last meeting of the program, one person commented, "I am amazed at how much love I feel in this group. I know I never could have talked about these things at any other place. It's too bad we can't do this every week."

General comments on post-seminar surveys show a variety of reactions.

"I thought before that I had fully committed everything into the Lord's hands; but these sessions have helped confirm that knowledge."

"I think it's great when we can share with, feel with and reach out to others."

One woman described her feelings about the rest of the group. "I felt like I wanted to hold them in my arms and cry it out."

"I felt like I was standing at the edge of a cliff," said another person, "not knowing what to do next. Now that I have attended the grief-recovery program there is hope in coping with my grief."

Alumni of the program tell about their strides toward recovery. One woman told about driving a car for the first time in her life. Another reported that she jumped a major hurdle when she found a job. And there is less crying and acute pain when people are in places that remind them of their relationship with their loved ones.

Because grief is not over in five weeks, the staff of grief recovery is being expanded to maintain contact with participants for 12 to 15 months.

This contact is made by phone, letter or personal visitation in the home. Some of the people visit the chaplain's office for personal counseling and encouragement.

News of the grief-recovery program is reaching other cities in Michigan. Requests for seminars have increased. Three cities will soon have grief-recovery services provided by local clergy associations.

It is the prayer of the grief-recovery program staff that this type of bereavement support will spread across the United States so that more and more people will be able to say what a Battle Creek widow said, "I am beginning to feel whole again."

Larry Yeagley is chaplain at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital.

At the broadcasters workshop pastors had an opportunity to hear Elder Richards speak and to talk with him in small groups. In addition to lectures the pastors spent time in practical labs.

BROADCASTERS WORKSHOP FEATURES H.M.S. RICHARDS

Radio Witnessing

by Jere Wallack

A broadcasters skillshop featuring Elder and Mrs. H.M.S. Richards was held in early May on the campus of Andrews University for a group of Lake Union pastors.

Elder Richards reviewed with the pastor delegates the great motivating force driving him during his nearly 50 years of broadcasting—"The value of a human soul as demonstrated on the cross of Calvary."

He also reminisced about the many miraculous leadings of God throughout his ministry. In his concluding challenge he stated, "Each of you must return to your district and go on the air. I dream," he said, "of the day when at least 1,000 of our ministers will be broadcasting in the United States."

The two-day skillshop, sponsored by the Lake Union Conference communication department, also provided the pastors with lectures in broadcasting theory.

Subjects covered included voice development, introduction to radio station equipment, writing for broadcasting, Jesus's method of persuasion, program form and content, and follow-up.

Most lectures were presented by Dr. James D. Chase, assistant professor of communication at Andrews University.

Each pastor spent a two-hour laboratory period producing and recording a two-week series of spot announcements. Each spot, complete with a background of music, provided the pastor with an audition tape to use in securing air time.

ANDREWS OBSERVES YEAR OF THE CHILD

Andrews University has formed a Year of the Child Committee in response to the United Nations' declaration of 1979 as International Year of the Child.

With Dr. Thesba N. Johnston, professor of counselor education at Andrews as chairman, the committee has planned several events with the objective of informing the community on the unmet needs of children and exploring resources for meeting those needs.

The first event was the presentation of two videotapes produced by Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, director of the human development and family studies department at Cornell University.

Dr. Bronfenbrenner is a recognized authority and well-known author who has conducted extensive research on children and families and has lectured around the world.

A film seminar and panel discussion on children from birth to puberty is planned for Andrews' summer quarter.

A community advisory committee, with representatives from child-oriented organizations in Berrien County, is working in conjunction with the Andrews committee.

Plans are also in progress for a jamboree on the Andrews campus for all the children in Berrien County.

CLASS OF 1949 ESTABLISHES $5,000 SCHOLARSHIP

Wilson Trickett, treasurer of Andrews University's class of 1949, recently reported that the class had reached their goal of establishing a $5,000 scholarship for "needy and worthy" students.

The idea for such a scholarship was conceived five years ago, Mr. Trickett says, when the forty-niners were honored as the silver class. All donations came from class members themselves, and not from funds solicited from other sources.

Dr. Hugh C. Love, president of the class, provided a strong link of communication for class members, sending out letters encouraging support of the project.

The final thousand dollars was raised in less than a week, as class members made donations ranging from $5 to $150 to reach the goal by alumni weekend. The final figure reached was $5,300—three hundred dollars over the goal.

Class members present at the 30th anniversary of their class this year expressed an interest in starting a new scholarship fund. "We believe that this could be a precedent for other classes to follow," Mr. Trickett says. "We've decided to name our second scholarship fund after an individual associated with the class, but we have not decided who it will be yet."

Funds will be disbursed beginning with the 1980-81 school year.

BEVERLY HESSEL NAMED SECRETARY OF THE YEAR

Beverly Hessel

Coetzee, director of the university's affiliated and extension programs.

According to Karen Tomlinson, president of the chapter, the honor given Mrs. Hessel is based on performance in her job as well as her contribution to the chapter.

"Mrs. Hessel has been very generous in giving her time to the chapter," said Mrs. Tomlinson.

A member of the Fruitland Chapter since 1977, Mrs. Hessel serves as correspondence secretary and is chairman of the planning committee for the 14th biennial seminar to be held in November.

Mrs. Hessel graduated with a bachelor's degree in secretarial science from Union College in 1952. She has worked for Andrews since 1978. She has also worked for the Lake Union Conference, and Grand Ledge Academy, where she taught business and education courses.

She conducts in-service secretarial training workshops, and is a member of both the National Business Education Association and the Seventh-day Adventist Business Education Association.

As chapter Secretary of the Year, Mrs. Hessel is eligible to compete for the title at the regional level.

CANADA'S MANY FACES 'SMILE' IN TRAVEL SPECTACULAR

Canada's diversity and enduring splendor will fill the wide screen at the Johnson Auditorium on the Andrews University campus, Tuesday, May 22 at 8 P.M. when Andrews Academy presents Eastman Kodak Company's newest travel spectacular.

"Canada—A Holiday in Pictures" is a 75-minute visual vacation north of the border. Viewers meet the igloo builders of Baffin Island, the "hot dog" skiers of Banff and the fabled Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The multi-media family show tours all ten provinces and two territories of the world's second largest country in land size.

Interviews and ethnic music, recorded on location, alternate with spirited songs composed especially for the show. An on-stage narrator serves as guide and interpreter in the land of many cultures.

Kodak is showing the program without charge to the academy. All proceeds from ticket sales will be used for development of outdoor playing fields at Andrews Academy.

NEW ADMISSION RECORD SET

HINSDALE—Monday, April 16, was a record-setting day in Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital's 75-year history.

A total of 96 persons were admitted to the hospital. This sets a new one-day record, according to Taylor Ransone, director of admitting.

He attributes the abnormally high 24-hour admission total to the Easter holiday of April 15. As on other holidays, elective surgery and hospitalization are delayed by patients who want to spend the holiday at home with their families.

The previous high was 88 admissions on February 23, 1976, although there have been six days in the past five years when 80 or more people were admitted to the hospital.

COLUMBUS CHURCH OPENS NEW CENTER

The new Columbus, Indiana, Community Services building was officially opened at a brief afternoon ceremony on March 25, 1979. Local city and conference officials took part in the ceremony.

Henry Blessing of the local county welfare department commended the church for the excellent building and services made available for the care of those in need.

He cited the cooperation between the Seventh-day Adventist welfare and his department as one of the areas in which church and state combine to function effectually for the common good of the community.

Representing the Red Cross, Mrs. K. Griner praised the cooperation and support given her organization by Seventh-day Adventist welfare workers during past disasters in Indiana. She spoke of the confidence with which Red Cross officials send people to Adventist centers because they can be assured of cleanliness and efficiency.

G. W. Morgan, Indiana Conference president, and Edward Skoretz, conference lay activities director, outlined aspects of local and world community services and welfare work.

Ron Reinking, fourth district councilman, concluded the ceremony by cutting the ribbon at the entrance and officially declaring the building open.

For the church's welfare co-leaders, Flossie Compton and Agatha Herold, and the secretary, Gladys Deck, the event marked the culmination of the hopes of many years.

The spacious 2,400-square-foot facility provides ample room for the storage, display and dispersal of clothing. As a result of the local newspaper's featured article about the opening, more than 1,000 articles of clothing were distributed on the first day open to the public.

AFTER 11 YEARS

After buying The Bible Story and The Bedtime Stories, Great Controversy and The Desire of Ages without her husband's consent, Bonnie Gregory remarked, "How will I explain this to Claude?"

This was in 1967 and Mrs. Gregory was speaking to Bonnie Wolfe, the literature evangelist who had sold the books to her. The three Gregory children enjoyed the books but Mrs. Gregory did not read them very much.

Five years later an Adventist visiting from Chicago was Ingathering with the Frankfort Church and knocked at the Gregorys' door. Noticing the books, this church member encouraged Mrs. Gregory to read them and she did.

Literature evangelist Bonnie Wolfe, left, stands with the Claude Gregory family.

At the same time the local pastor was trying to give the family Bible studies, but Mrs. Gregory says, "I hid when I saw him coming."

However, the family attended meetings at the Frankfort Church and four members of the family—Claude; his wife, Bonnie; Rosemary, 14, and Sandra, 13—were baptized.

More recently four others have been baptized and two more family members are studying. The circle grows.

Bonnie Wolfe didn't realize that this family had joined the church until one Sabbath morning early this year when she was introduced to them. Bonnie says, "Praise the Lord! You don't have to wait till heaven to begin receiving your reward."

PETERSON/WARREN HOLDS CORONATION

February 24 was a busy day for the faculty and students of Peterson/Warren School in Detroit. Joyce Bone, a member of the faculty, spearheaded the day.

Students and teachers worked together to emphasize Christian education at its best. The Sabbath services carried this theme. Sabbath School was conducted by teachers Alvin Barnes and Ruth Cantrell. The lesson study was conducted by students from grades 9 through 12.

The divine worship service followed and included a full 60-voice choir from the academy and a team of ushers from the middle school. Platform guests included Principal Carlyle Miller, and School Board Chairman Hudie Davis.

The day was highlighted by a scholarship fund program held at the Peterson building, where students participated in the crowning of Miss Peterson/Warren.

Five young women from grades 8 through 12 were involved.

They were judged on wit, talent and poise. The judges selected Deane Phillpotts, a senior, to be Miss Peterson/Warren. First and second runners-up were Jacqueline Goree and Alice Wideman, respectively.

Then there was a coronation for king and queen for monies raised in a fund-raising drive. Lynette Deloach, a sixth-grader, earned the title of queen, and Robert Johnson II, a first-grader, earned the title of king.

Other royal members were Kenyatta Jones, princess; Robert Jackson, prince, and Yolanda Turner, countess. All the winners received trophies and cash prizes.

N. C. WILSON TO SPEAK AT 111TH CAMP MEETING

Neal C. Wilson

N. C. Wilson, president of the General Conference, will be the guest speaker for the morning and afternoon services of the 111th Michigan Conference camp meeting, Sabbath July 28.

Elder Wilson was a guest at the 1966 camp meeting soon after he was elected president of the North American Division by the General Conference session held in Detroit. Now, not too long after assuming the leadership of the world church, he will again be one of the main speakers of the July 19 to 28 encampment.

The first weekend will feature Adventist leaders of radio and television. W. A. Fagal of Faith For Today and H.M.S. Richards Jr. of the Voice of Prophecy will bring their reports of progress and spiritual messages. Mrs. Fagal will also be present, as will Del Delker, soloist of the V.O.P. radiobroadcast.

Elder Fagal will have the opening address Thursday evening, July 19, and the early morning devotionals Friday and Sabbath mornings. Elder Richards will preach Friday and Sabbath evenings and will have the Sabbath morning service of that first weekend.

On the first Sabbath afternoon several workers will be ordained to the gospel ministry. Watch the Herald for further information regarding other aspects of the 1979 camp meeting at Grand Ledge.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION HAS NEW RESPONSIBILITIES

Two items of special interest to Michigan Adventists were voted on April 22 at the annual constituency business meeting at Grand Ledge.

The 475 delegates of the 156 churches approved of a plan for the department of education to expand its emphasis to include kindergarten through grade 12 instead of the former kindergarten through grade 10. Up to this time regular academy programs were not included in the direct sponsorship of the conference department of education.

For about four years the General Conference department of education, with its counterpart on the union level, has been studying this realignment of responsibilities before recommending it to local conferences. It will allow local superintendents of education to develop a stronger program of coordination in the entire conference-sponsored educational program.

Kenneth Hutchins, the conference's superintendent of education, sees "a lot of potential" in the new arrangement, and feels it will enhance every aspect of the education of Adventist youth. He will be supported by a board of education which will include, in part, nine laymen.

At the afternoon program the final adaptation of the Michigan Advance Program was presented. Time was given for questions, answers and other suggestions and then MAP was put to a vote.

The multitude of hands that went up indicated the positive feelings of the large majority of the delegates who were in favor of developing the work in Michigan through MAP.

Only a few hands were raised when the call for the "no" vote was taken. The program was thus adopted by an almost unanimous vote.

Plans are being made for a full report to go to each Adventist home in the conference with more precise details. A regular newsletter will also be developed to keep church members informed about the various aspects of MAP as it progresses.

If you have questions regarding the program, you can have them answered by writing to MAP, in care of the conference office.

GOWELLS CELEBRATE 65TH ANNIVERSARY

The 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ebbie Gowell was observed during Sabbath services at the Muskegon Church, April 7. The hymn "Where We'll Never Grow Old" was sung by a quartet in honor of the Gowells.

Carrie Holmes and Ebbie Gowell have been members of the Muskegon Church for 56 years. They were married April 9, 1914, at Fountain, Michigan.

The couple have two daughters and four sons, 16 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren. The Gowell children worshipped as a group with their parents on April 7 and in the evening celebrated the anniversary at the Gowell's home.

CAREER EXPERIENCES AT WISCONSIN ACADEMY

On March 27 Wisconsin Academy had a special Career Day. All the students left the daily class routine and learned more about different careers.

Visitors from Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Andrews University, and surrounding communities spent the day with Wisconsin Academy students.

Thirty-four professions were represented. Each student chose five areas of interest.

The most popular area seemed to be the medical careers. Rochelle Swanson thought Career Day was beneficial and said, "I know I want to choose a profession from the medical field, but I am not sure which one. Visiting with people who represented various careers helped me get a better idea about each profession."

Sue Byrd thought it definitely helped her choose a career. She said, "It gave me a chance to personally question an x-ray technician who really enjoyed his job. After talking to him I know a lot more about the profession so I can adequately decide whether I would like to be an x-ray technician."

In order to give the seniors even more insight about careers, arrangements were made for each student to spend a day working with someone in a profession of the student's choosing.

Students chose various careers including child day care, legal secretary work, speech pathology, veterinary medicine, law, farming and aviation.

Students who chose to observe a veterinarian had quite an exciting experience. They witnessed a stomach operation on a cow. Dan Clark, a student, was quite shocked that the cow just stood there while the doctor cut her side open and straightened her twisted stomach.

Some students saw how much they still need to learn. One future farmer, Sterling Nelson, said, "At the Harvester seminar I learned about crop management and how to build up farm estates. It was very detailed and very good, but it was way over my head. It taught me that successful farmers need to know a great deal about the business world, which I need to learn yet."

Two young men thought it was "over their heads" in a different way. Bill Wolf and Scott Grady actually were allowed to fly an airplane—the instructor was sitting behind the extra set of controls.

When asked how they felt after flying, they said, "It was as if we were on top of the world."

Three students watched a dental hygienist. Mark Doneel and Daryl Sinnett spent the entire day with Howard Gustrowsky, a carpenter who works in the Madison area.

Other students visited an optometrist, a TV station in Madison, an elementary teacher, and a newspaper office.

These career experiences were very enlightening. As the students worked with professional people, they were able to see what is involved in various jobs and how much they still need to learn. Thus the students can make more intelligent decisions about their life work.

WAUKESHA CHURCH PARTICIPATES IN FESTIVAL OF CHURCHES

On Palm Sunday, the first of April, the Cooperating Churches of Waukesha held their second annual Festival of Churches. Thirty-three churches, including the Waukesha Seventh-day Adventist Church, participated in this event.

The display was supervised by Arnold Kind, local church elder. Several church members, Pathfinders, and literature evangelist, James Duquaine, manned the booth from 1 to 8 P.M. The theme of the booth was the spiritual, mental and physical outreach and concerns of the church.

Features included a display of The Bible Story, cookbooks and food products, Bible study literature and information concerning the health club of the Milwaukee Northwest district, the Son-Rise Striders.

Many people signed up for a drawing on a family Bible. For several people this was an incentive to stop and ask questions about the local church, the membership and teachings of the church.

Hundreds attended the festival and everyone who was involved looks forward to next year. Plans are already underway to better demonstrate the teachings of the church.

PATHFINDERS HELP NEIGHBOR

The Fond du Lac Pathfinder Club undertook a missionary/community service project on January 28, 1979, which resulted in a $100 contribution to the club fund.

The roof of a metal 40-by-60-foot building attached to the main barn on the farm of Fond du Lac church member Terrance Nennich had collapsed sometime during the night of January 24.

Twenty Pathfinders, parents, leaders, and younger children went to the site with shovels and pry-bars. About four hours were spent in moving snow.

The twisted, fallen metal roofing was removed, and finally, shattered studding and wooden framework was cleared.

The Pathfinders spent another three hours restoring the barn cleaner to operation and cleaning the main barn.

On March 6, Pathfinder Director Clifford Sweet accepted a $100 check from Mr. Nennich for the Fond du Lac club.

OAKWOOD COLLEGE PUBLISHING INDUSTRY

Oakwood College is the only educational institution in the denomination that operates a publishing industry.

S. C. Robinson is the coordinator and director of this very successful soul-winning department. The industry operates 11 vans for students to travel into the major cities of North America to distribute gospel and health literature to earn scholarships.

There are more than 150 students enrolled in the sales classes at Oakwood. They receive college credits in salesmanship. S. C. Robinson teaches sales instruction with emphasis on evangelism.

The recent spring publishing institute conducted at Oakwood College was one of the most successful and exciting since the beginning of the industry.

C. M. Willis, associate publishing director of the General Conference and advisor to the publishing industry, organized and conducted a productive and inspiring workshop which was beneficial to all regional directors and their associates.

Elder Willis also preached the Sabbath sermon and urged everyone to keep the spotlight on the Man of Calvary as they move ahead to greater achievement in literature evangelism. When the appeal was made for recruits, more than 50 young people joined the regular forces to go out to canvass this summer.

T. S. Barber of the Lake Region Conference and George Dronen of the Lake Union Conference gave valuable assistance to the success of the institute.

The industry provides a means of financial assistance and gives students the benefits of spiritual stability and growth.

S. C. Robinson, Oakwood College

F.F.T. CIRCLES THE GLOBE VIA SATELLITE

When David wrote "The heavens declare the glory of God," he had no idea how literal that verse would someday be. Faith For Today is now being broadcast worldwide by satellites orbiting the earth.

Faith For Today's Westbrook Hospital series was recently chosen to be among programs broadcast on the International Satellite Network—a newly developed network capable of worldwide coverage.

The broadcasts begin on a Canadian satellite and are then relayed to four international satellites over Europe, the Far East, and South America.

Also telecasting F.F.T.'s Westbrook Hospital series is the PTL (Praise The Lord) Satellite Network. The programs are beamed to more than 190 cable stations throughout the United States with more being added weekly. PTL's goal and Faith For Today's prayer is to soon reach a high percentage, if not all, of the 4,000 total U.S. cable stations.

Faith For Today is excited and thankful that through the miracle of space technology, the miracle of Christ's salvation may soon be preached to all the world.

STUDENT WINS NETWORK AWARD

Mike Baptist, former student at Andrews University, has been honored by the Adventist Radio Network for his contribution to network programming. Mr. Baptist produced a series of inspirational radio spots called "Something to Think About."

The spots were aired originally on Adventist Radio Network member station WAUS, and have now been distributed to all 11 North American ARN stations. The "Something to Think About" spots were voted the top spot of the year by the Adventist Radio Network Board of Directors.

PAUL HARVEY CITES THESE TIMES

ABC news commentator Paul Harvey dedicated a weekly newspaper column, a television broadcast, and the first five minutes of his noon radio program on April 21 to an article published in the March issue of These Times.

The article disproved the claims of modern-day psychics and astrologers about knowledge of future events.

In his three-page news release, which went out to some 300 newspapers, and was read on 800 radio and 400 television stations, Paul Harvey quoted several times from the article which appeared as the feature story on the cover of the March issue.

The author of the article, Paul Harvey said, "collected all the predictions of our nation's 30 leading psychics and astrologers for the year 1978. Then he carefully compared what they predicted with what happened."

After listing many of the unfulfilled predictions given in the article, Paul Harvey added: "Out of 250 specific published predictions for 1978 only six came to pass. That's less than 3-percent accuracy. They were 97-percent dead wrong!"

Paul Harvey concluded his five-minute discussion of the article by stating: "Before Ralph Blodgett began his research he believed that psychics had to be led either by God or by the devil. Since his research he has concluded that they are led by no one at all."

This year as you order your missionary magazine subscriptions from the four journals available nationwide (These Times, Signs, Message, and El Centinela), remember that people all over the world may be influenced toward heaven by what they read in these publications each month. Only eternity will reveal the full impact the magazines have had on their lives.
