The congregation is the "House" that God built. It is Oikos because it is corporate, grouped, like a family. This household of God should be given to hospitality, for brotherly love means the entertaining of strangers. It also means the sharing of suffering. The fourth chapter of 1 Peter talks equally about hospitality, witness, service and sharing in Christ's sufferings.

Suffering is described as being nothing strange to the Christian community, but a part of the Christian's involvement in Christ—existing as community. This group lives for others and suffers for them. It is an open society, hospitable to every kind of person, accepting them in Christ. This lovable society called Christian ought to be as reckless as Christ was in befriending the outcast, and as prodigal as he was in bestowing love.

The Church of Jesus must combine all its resources to accomplish the end goal of ushering in the coming of the King. To combine all our talents to this end is genuine stewardship. Stewardship in this "House" cannot be twisted into a mere challenging of members to support the local institution, to care for the plant as an end in itself. It is the mission that provides the test. When we unite for mission to the community, local and worldwide, we can justify spending money on ourselves as a group only if it aids in our preparation for mission.

The "House" is not an absolute end in itself, as if our task were to get the whole community inside. It is the charge of the "House" to enrich the community, to become poor that it can become rich, to meet all human needs, finding new ways to serve and spread the good word of the Master's love. It involves witness and proclamation and helping all to love as Jesus loved. The "House" must be structured for this kind of service. All its activity must be a training in service, a preparation for spiritual warfare and instruction in the broadness of the love of Jesus. Otherwise it slips back into the sociologist's picture, blends into the community background and becomes only a sign of its human nature.

The "House" cannot afford for this to happen. It should celebrate the Gospel by its joy in service and show its freedom by ordering its activities to meet the total needs of all mankind. It can then be said of the "House" that it is a true steward and the influence of the wounded body of the Master is the prevailing influence in this place.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Waiting for the Lord

by Dan Houghton

Charlie Carnahan is a man of unique accomplishments. He has been keeping the Sabbath and looking for the return of Jesus for 82 years! Charlie is now a resident of the Colonial House of Colby and recently shared with me some of the highlights from his experience as a member of the Adventist church.

The year was 1897 and the Carnahan family was convicted of Bible truth and joined the group of people in Galesburg, Iowa, who called themselves Seventh-day Adventists. One of the sons, Charlie, age 10, remembers well keeping his first Sabbath. He also remembers his father saying, "I don't see how time can last more than a few years, and I don't think you boys will reach manhood before the Lord comes."

At age 21, Charlie enrolled in the nursing program at the Iowa Sanitarium, then located in Des Moines.

One of Charlie's fondest memories was having the opportunity to hear Ellen White speak at Iowa camp meeting. He recalls: "I had just finished my work at the sanitarium and rushed over to the tent where Sister White was to speak. Her son helped her to the podium and she began to speak. At first, she could hardly be heard, but within a few moments her voice could be heard easily by everyone sitting in the tent as well as by those standing outside. Her sermon text was one of my favorites, John 3:16."

Soon after graduating from the nursing curriculum, Charlie married one of his classmates, Jessie Mills.

Dan Houghton is administrator of the Colonial House of Colby in Wisconsin, an affiliate of Mid American Health Services.

Shortly thereafter, both were forced to give up their nursing careers because of Jessie's poor health. Farming became their way of life.

The inflationary period following World War I was hard on the small midwestern farmer, and the Carnahans were no exception. After his father-in-law died of flu, Charlie moved his family to Wisconsin where they reside today. Charlie says: "The land was untamed when we arrived. A lot of time was spent clearing the forest with a team of horses."

Eighty-two years have passed since Charlie's father told him Jesus would surely come before he reached manhood. And time still marches on.

I asked Charlie how long he thought Jesus could wait. I'll never forget his reply. He said: "It can't be much longer. In my lifetime the foundation for spreading the Gospel has been completed and our message has gone to the farthest corners of the earth. What we need now is individuals who will lead a surrendered life, totally consecrated to the Lord. The wickedness of the world is rapidly filling up the cup of God's wrath. Very soon, God will put out the latter rain on those who are consecrated and surrendered to Him and power will be given to swell the loud cry."

Why don't we have more consecration and total surrender? Charlie says: "People do not take Jesus seriously when He says, 'If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.' Matthew 16:24. Many of our people have become too concerned with providing for the cares of this life and spend a great deal of money for things they don't need."

Friends and fellow believers, Charlie sees where we are, do you?

13TH SABBATH OFFERING, JUNE 30—

It's Our Turn

An assembly hall at the Stanborough Park Secondary School, a medical center for the Togo-Benin Mission in West Africa, and a gymnasium/assembly hall for Ekebyholm Junior College in Sweden—these are the projects which will benefit from your liberal offering on Sabbath, June 30.

Church members in the Northern-Europe West-Africa Division—the location of these special projects—have given to other projects around the world. It's our turn to share with them. Give generously on June 30.

MALCOLM RUSSELL NAMED TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Malcolm Russell

Dr. Malcolm Russell has been named Andrews University's Teacher of the Year by the student association.

Dr. Russell, who joined the university faculty in 1977, is an assistant professor of history. He was presented with a check for $100 by Mark Ringwelski, chairman of the S.A.'s educational standards committee.

Dr. Russell's specialty is Middle East history and politics. His doctoral dissertation at Johns Hopkins University was entitled "The Birth of Modern Syria."

His wife is the former Sharon Brophy.

WOMEN'S CLUB MAKES DONATIONS

The Central County Center for senior citizens and Your Story Hour radio program have received $150 donations from the Campus and Community Women's Club at Andrews.

Also known as the Berrien Springs Senior Center, the Central County Center serves six townships in Berrien County, serving primarily as a community focal point, according to Barbara Williams, the center's director.

Not all aid is available for senior citizens at the center, but clients are given referral information. Some of the services are transportation, health screening, legal aid, housing repair, and handyman services provided by volunteers from Andrews.

Presently the center serves almost 200 meals a day at five locations.

Your Story Hour conducts a wide range of programs and services and has been in operation as a nonprofit corporation for three decades.

The corporation produces story tapes, publishes a club magazine, operates a Bible correspondence school and prepares related material.

Since 1949, Your Story Hour has aired almost 1,600 broadcasts. More than 500 tapes are duplicated each week for distribution to radio stations across the United States, including several 100,000-watt facilities.

English broadcasts are also heard in the Netherlands Antilles, South America, Australia, the Philippines and Canada.

A token gift was also presented to Andrews' dean of women for needs at Lamson Hall, the women's dormitory.

The funds became available through membership fees and admission charges for programs presented by the club.

The club's 1979-80 officers are

Esther Chalmers, president; Pat Mauro, vice president; Jean Graham, secretary; Charlene Kuebler, treasurer; Lorraine Ford, prayer group director; Dianne Jarrard, religious activities coordinator, and Judy Patterson, public relations director.

ANDREWS ACADEMY GRADUATES 87

Andrews Academy's class of 87 seniors received their diplomas in commencement exercises at the Pioneer Memorial Church Sunday, June 3.

Jon Schuster, superintendent of Berrien Springs Public Schools, delivered the commencement address.

Other speakers for the academy's graduation weekend were Dr. Ruth

WIND ENSEMBLE PLAYS AT TIGER STADIUM

Andrews Academy's 47-piece Wind Ensemble played the national anthem at Tiger Stadium in Detroit, May 27, prior to doubleheader baseball games between the Detroit Tigers and the Baltimore Orioles. They played before more than 27,000 fans in the stadium as well as television viewers and radio listeners in the Baltimore-Washington area and most of the state of Michigan. Karlton K. Keller is the director.

NEW MEMBERS OF NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

HEARTBEAT SUCCESSFUL AT TRI-COUNTY

EDMORE, MICHIGAN—The first coronary-risk evaluation program, Heartbeat, brought a tremendous response of 190 participants to Tri-County Community Hospital on May 6 and 7.

The screening consisted of a blood pressure check; height and weight; skin-fold measurement to ascertain percent of body fat; laboratory work to check serum glucose, serum cholesterol, serum triglycerides and lipoprotein; and pulse taken before and after exercise.

A follow-up held May 14 informed participants of their results in relation to the normal values for a person of their sex and age.

Educational programs are planned for the future dealing with such areas as nutrition, scientific weight control, physical fitness, stress management, and vegetarian cooking in addition to periodic repetition of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, the first of which was held March 5 to 9, 1979.

"The hospital is appreciative of the many volunteers who assisted with the evaluation," said Michael Bildner, administrator. "They helped us to run the program smoothly and efficiently."

NEWS NOTE

• At an impromptu luncheon, four birthdays were celebrated at the Adventist community center on Monday, May 21, with Elsie Wiemerslage as hostess. Lola Woorhis, 79, a native of Hannibal, but a resident of Quincy since 1917, is the seamstress for the center and has been working there since its opening in 1971. Elizabeth Webster, 76, former treasurer; Roy Parrott, 75, and George Wiemerslage, 73, were also guests. Their combined ages total 303 years. Also attending were June Branstetter, Hazel Wright and Marilyn Webster.

HINSDALE JUNIOR ACADEMY WEEK OF PRAYER

Spring Week of Prayer was held at Hinsdale Junior Academy, April 23 to 27. Josephine Cunnington Edwards, noted author and storyteller was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Edwards, a native of Indiana, has written 38 books and traveled extensively to schools and churches around the world telling stories of her experiences and those of others.

Mrs. Edwards donates her service as a teacher for Laurel Brook Academy, a self-supporting school in Tennessee. She has been a teacher for almost 50 years.

During the Week of Prayer she spoke of her experience as a missionary in Africa. She also told interesting stories from her early childhood and how Gem State Academy in Idaho came into being.

Her stories had a spiritual context which taught the students of God's love for them. Both students and faculty said that this was the best Week of Prayer ever at Hinsdale Junior Academy.

At the end of the week the students presented a special gift of $545 to help a mission project that Mrs. Edwards is working on. Visibly impressed by the students' devotion to God's work, Mrs. Edwards made an appointment to meet them on the sea of glass in heaven.

'JOGRAPHY' TRIP TO WASHINGTON, D.C.

Jim McCorkle, principal of the Rockford Day School, and teachers Betty McCorkle and James Ott think their students had quite a long winter.

"The kids felt all cooped up during the winter," Jim McCorkle said.

He decided the best way to get the students motivated and keep their bodies healthy was to take them on a long trip. Not an ordinary trip—but a "jography" trip—to the capital, Washington, D.C., 1,400 miles roundtrip from Rockford.

Eight times around the school parking lot is a mile, and when the teachers told the students on Friday, May 4, that they would be "jogging" round trip to Washington, D.C., the students got busy during recess and the noon hour and jogged up 70 miles for the trip. They "arrived" near Chicago, Illinois!

The students, teachers and several parents ran before school, during recess and lunch periods.

Any families wishing to join the program could run in their own neighborhoods and report to the teachers.

WATER-SKIING THIS SUMMER AT LITTLE GRASSY

Little Grassy Lake Adventist Camp ranger David Roosenberg, right, discusses some of the features of the new Galaxy ski-boat purchased this winter with Ray Rouse, conference treasurer. The 180-horse power boat will add a great deal to the water-skiing program at camp this summer. It was purchased wholesale through a special arrangement and will be used for two years, then sold for the purchase price. The men are also modeling new camp T-shirts and caps which will be available this summer. Camps are planned for children of all ages this summer. Send your reservation now for a fun-filled week at Little Grassy. See your pastor or school teacher, or write to Camp, Box 89, Brookfield, IL 60513, for an application blank.

The teachers kept a running total of mileage and marked the cumulative progress on a big U.S. map that hangs next to the principal's office at school.

The students planned to finish the "jography trip" before school was out.

MOTHERS HONORED AT ELDORADO

Two mothers received special recognition in a Mother's Day program presented recently at the Eldorado Church.

While Pastor John Carpenter gave a special tribute to all mothers from the Word of God, two women were singled out. These two each have five generations in their families.

Florence Hobbs is 95 years old. She has 9 children, 10 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren, and 19 great-great-grandchildren. She is also the oldest charter member of the church. Mrs. Hobbs was baptized in 1927.

Gwen Waltz is 85 years old and has 11 children, 27 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren, and 2 great-great-grandchildren.

It was through Mrs. Hobbs that Mrs. Waltz first learned of Seventh-day Adventists and was baptized in 1933. They have been special friends ever since.

MABEL TRUBEY CELEBRATES 94TH BIRTHDAY

Mabel Trubey, faithful member of the Noblesville Church, has a book containing Ingathering ribbons and pins dating back to 1926. She began Ingathering in 1908 but no pins or ribbons were given until 1926.

Mabel, who celebrated her 94th birthday on March 21, still makes sure she has a minuteman goal each year.

Mabel was born on March 21, 1885, in Mankato, Kansas. Some of her earliest memories were of riding around the country in a covered wagon as the family followed her father's work as a horsetrader.

Once, she recalls, her father went on a business trip and left her mother and the children alone. When the Indians started on the warpath near them, her mother bundled them all up and put them in a covered wagon and traveled until they reached the town where her father was.

She married J. F. Trubey on October 8, 1906, and remembers living in sod homes and houses dug into the side of banks. J. F. and Mabel spent most of their lives farming and then moved to Gainesville, Georgia, to retire. Mabel has lived with her son, Lester, since 1975.

Mabel Trubey displays the Ingathering ribbons and pins she has earned since 1926.

Mabel's father was a Dunkard, but he recalled that his mother had told him that Saturday was really the true Sabbath. When Mabel was 10 years old her family met some Seventh-day Adventists and her father joined the Adventist Church.

Mabel was baptized when she was 21 and has been a faithful member ever since. She was active in Dorcas work and gave of her time and resources to help others who were in need.

ACADEMY STUDENTS HELP CONDUCT 5-DAY PLAN

The thrill of seeing a child of God find her way back to His church belonged to those who took part in a recent Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at the Riverview Hospital in Noblesville, Indiana.

Marguerite Winders, who smoked cigarettes for more than 40 years, was one of many people who were able to stop smoking. She is now preparing for membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Mrs. Winders grew up in a Seventh-day Adventist home and has longed for the day when she could return to the church of her childhood.

Al Williams, Bible teacher, and Elwin Shull, science teacher, both from Indiana Academy, were the principal speakers and directors in the program.

Students from the academy and members from the Cicero Church Community Services Center had a very active part in working out the details of each evening's activities.

INDIANA LITERATURE EVANGELISTS VISIT ANDERSON

On Sabbath, March 17, literature evangelists and publishing leaders converged on Anderson, Indiana, at the request of the pastor, Don English, and Lester Carney, Indiana Conference ministerial secretary.

The literature evangelists had come to the Anderson Church from all over Indiana to help in preparation for evangelistic meetings.

After a fellowship dinner the group of literature evangelists and Anderson church members met in the church for territory assignments and instruction. After prayer eight cars went to different parts of the city to witness.

Sixty-five non-Adventists were signed up for Bible studies and several other people have since mailed in the reply card requesting Bible studies.

During the past four years the Indiana literature evangelists have visited more than 25 cities in Indiana on Sabbath afternoons to work with local churches. In two instances these cities were in unentered counties.

This is the group of 35 people who worked for the Lord in Anderson on Sabbath afternoon.

Glen Walker, literature evangelist, and Debbie Brown, Anderson church member, visit at a home.

Glen Walker stops a pickup truck and offers the women free Bible study guides.

Dick Tanner, publishing director, hands a tract and Bible study request card to man washing his car.

The churches have been strengthened and encouraged, and the two previously unentered counties now have companies of believers meeting each Sabbath.

Thousands of copies of Steps to Christ, tracts and Bible study-guide cards have gone into thousands of homes.

Many people will be in the kingdom because of this labor of love which takes literature evangelists long distances to witness in all kinds of weather.

ROBERTS INVEST THEIR SON

As Master Guides and proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts had the privilege of investing their son, Todd, as a Helping Hand at the Cicero

Investiture service on Tuesday, May 1.

Conference youth director Cliff Hoffman officiated at the service after the church school children put on a program. They recited memory work done in the M.V. class and sang special music.

Several honors had been earned in the Pathfinder club as the members worked on various crafts and skills throughout the year.

After the investiture service, Elder Hoffman showed slides from last year's youth camps at Timber Ridge. He encouraged everyone in the audience to take advantage of the summer camping opportunities for all ages.

NEWS NOTES

• The South Haven and other area churches met together for a weekend of camping and outdoor worship at nearby Moon Lake Campground. Students from Andrews University helped with the meetings held during the first weekend of May.

• The Berrien Springs Spanish Church had a baptism on May 26 when five people were scheduled for the church rite. They have also organized their Sabbath School classes into missionary units to help in their goal of reaching every Spanish home from Benton Harbor to Niles. Luis Leonor is the pastor directing these efforts.

• The Berrien Springs Village Church has planned an evangelistic series for October 13 to 20 with Smuts van Rooyen, assistant professor of religion at Andrews University, as the guest speaker.

• Preservation of God's creation is united with the hobby of scuba diving by Rhonda DeLong, a veterinary technologist of Kalamazoo. She recently told the local Sabbath School of her studies of the manatee, a sea mammal found along the shores of Florida. The manatee is considered a vanishing species of God's underwater kingdom.

• Wendell Graham, a teacher more than 15 years at the Kalamazoo Church School and head deacon for the church, was honored in a special service on May 12. The family is moving to Arkansas. A social evening was held in their honor during which they were presented with a book of memories and a money tree.

• A series of five talks on health, fitness and nutritional diseases was recently presented to Kalamazoo Church members. Coordinated by Donna Voth, health educator, talks and demonstrations were presented by Joyce Combes and Steve Lehman of Battle Creek, Dr. Robert DeLong, Dr. Frank Harrell, Ona Holman and Elder Roy Lemon of Kalamazoo.

• Pontiac Church members are involved in a health-emphasis program in their area. A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was conducted May 6 to 10 at a local hospital, and nutrition classes were scheduled for May 15 to 24 at the community services center.

• A cooking school held recently by the Alpena Church drew a "very interested" group, according to Betty Harris, instructor. Requests were also made for literature on the beliefs of the church. A follow-up meeting is planned because some of the participants want to share some of their own recipes and ideas with the rest of the class.

• Members of the Munising Church recently conducted a Heartbeat and nutrition seminar for which Adventists were requested to stay home! Up to 100 non-Adventists jammed the church's activity room for the meetings.

• The Plymouth Church, with Norman Yeager as pastor, has an "Operation Light" program which has established several ways to make members more aware of first-time visitors. Plans are also being made for a large public endeavor this fall, Elder Yeager reports.

• Bob Collar and Arnold Kraner, conference evangelists, are currently engaged in campaigns at L'Anse and Alpena. Elder Collar is working with Jim Hopkins in the Upper Peninsula city, and they are excited about the progress of the series. There have been 20 to 25 non-Adventists at most meetings. Elder Kraner, working with Richard Dickens at Alpena, had 30 guests and nearly 100 percent of the church membership present on their opening night, May 12.

• A new vegetarian restaurant, operated by Nola Bowen of the Pontiac Church, recently opened its doors at 64 North Williams Lake Road, just north of Elizabeth Lake Road. Known as Taco-V-Pizza, the restaurant uses T.V.P., a textured vegetable protein instead of meat.

• Pathfinder clubs throughout the state are witnessing to others with sunshine bands. Among them are the following clubs, Berrien Springs Village, Grand Ledge, Gladwin, Pinedale, South Oakland (Troy), Marshall, Owosso, Stevensville and Urbandale.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION FOR 93-YEAR-OLD MOTHER

A 93-year-old member of the Jackson Church received special recognition at services honoring Mother's Day.

Lucile Hills has been a member of the congregation since 1927 and still takes an active interest in the church. She has served as head deaconess and clerk for many years.

She was director of the community services center for 16 years and regularly calls the center to give names of people who need to be remembered in prayer. Mrs. Hills still orders flowers for sick people and for funerals, a job she has handled for 24 years.

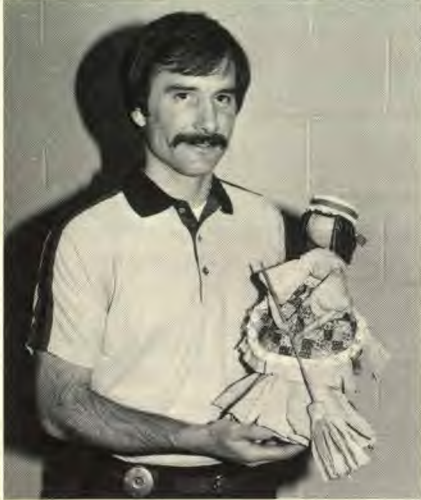

JUNIOR ACADEMY AYBL SPEAK-OUT HELD

Greg Szykowski, above, of Northfield Junior Academy in Troy, represented his school at the recent Adventist Youth For Better Living speak-out in the Troy Church. Other school representatives who gave their speeches were: Marcia Armstrong of Kalamazoo, Holly K. Bailey of Cadillac and Joseph House of Southfield, Detroit. Each participant received $20.

Nathan Greene works on an illustration while M. W. Schultz, principal, watches.

Some of the art creations displayed were the work of faculty members such as this cornhusk doll shown by Bob Burton who teaches science. He and his wife, Verlin, have been making and selling them for several years.

Patricia Coon received first prize for a photograph of her dog.

Tom Turner, art instructor and organizer of the art festival, checks over the program with his student coordinator, Kathy Hainault. Also assisting was Heidi Otis.

The string-art panda created by Deb Schultz catches the interest of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brower of Bauer. They later learned that their son, Steve, had won a prize for one of his photographs.

SPRING ART FESTIVAL AT CEDAR LAKE ACADEMY

Nearly 125 students from Cedar Lake Academy participated in a Spring Art Festival held on the campus Sunday afternoon, April 29.

The program originated in 1973 when Tom Turner, at the end of his first year of teaching at the academy, made plans to show his students' creations.

This year's program, called "Design 7," displayed a wide variety of art from decoupage and stained glass to oil paintings and photography.

Most of this work was taught by Mr. Turner, although the exhibit of ceramics was directed by Diane Castle who teaches that subject. Her husband, Chuck, is the graphics teacher.

The home economics department, directed by Pat Denslow, conducted a fashion show in which students modeled the clothes they had made during the school year. In addition to clothing there were exhibits of crocheting, knitting and embroidery.

All together 100 craft objects were displayed, 115 photos and 160 fine art objects. Winners in the different categories were: Lynn Larson of Cedar Lake, crafts; Patricia Coon of Lansing, photography, and Richard Pickett of Onaway, fine arts.

A special "best of show" award went to Nathan Greene, a senior of Edmore, whose work is so far ahead of other students that he wasn't allowed to compete in the regular categories.

Just recently Nathan visited New York seeking advice from leading illustrators. They found it hard to believe that the quality of work they saw came from a high school student. Nathan already has a representative on the West Coast selling his works for him.

Elder and Mrs. Byron Churchill of Three Rivers admire some of the macrame exhibits.

RETIRED TEACHERS BECOME VOLUNTEER TEACHERS

What happens to a husband and wife teaching team when they retire?

For Maurice and Lenna Wright, former Michigan teachers, retirement brought the challenge of mission service in Honduras.

For several years parents of the English-speaking children of the "Valle de Angeles" (Valley of the Angels) Adventist Hospital in Honduras had been praying and searching for a volunteer teacher to instruct their children.

Three retired couples from Michigan have been serving this self-supporting medical institution. Henry and Lillian Widing of Holly knew the Wrights. They carried the challenge of the teaching need to them and the Wrights consented to spend a year at the school. Lenna would teach the four children in grades 1, 2, 6 and 7, while Maurice would assist Mr. Widing with maintenance and repair.

The Wrights and their grandson, Peter John, arrived at Valley of the Angels with the Widings on Thanksgiving Day, 1978. The following Monday morning classes began in the unfinished central service room of the hospital.

Here Lenna teaches from 7:30 until 12 noon and enjoys every minute of it. In fact she and her husband have committed themselves to at least another year at what is now called "The Wright School" in this mission outpost.

Henry and Lillian Widing have just completed their fifth winter at the hospital. Mrs. Widing and Evelyn Soule are active in Dorcas work and wherever else they can be of service.

Oscar Soule and his wife are from Berrien Springs. He and his son, Duane, have set up the communication system between the nurses' station and the patients' rooms.

Although the hospital is still being developed, and has been operating only as a clinic, word from the Widings says it is known "very favorably throughout the country."

Retirement for some folk brings greater rewards than the work they did during their so called "productive years." For some it is the joy of service in foreign lands. For others it is in productive service in the missionary challenge of their neighborhood.

But, wherever they may be, many of God's retired children are still active in service, for though retired they are not tired. They are willing to continue to give of their vast experience and of their lifetime dedication to God's work for they know that "it is harvest time" in Michigan.

HEALTH SERIES TO BE GIVEN AT CAMP MEETING

Steve Lehman

A varied diet of health subjects will be served at the health emphasis lectures at this year's camp meeting at Grand Ledge.

The 9:30 to 10:30 A.M. series beginning Friday,

July 20, will stress the eight principles of health as outlined by Ellen G. White.

Guest lecturers representing Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc., (GLAHS), Life and Health magazine, Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital, and a physical-fitness consultant to the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, will stress these principles.

William Gvoich, a non-Adventist physical-fitness expert from Hamilton,

Ontario, will talk about exercise Sunday morning, July 22.

He is involved in many phases of physical fitness, both privately and with government, and operates a well-known sport and fitness academy in the suburbs of Hamilton. His basic philosophy of good health is very close to the principles outlined by Mrs. White.

Also serving as guest lecturers will be Joyce McClintock, associate editor of Life and Health; Roy Wightman, health educator for GLAHS, and the director and associate director of Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital's department of health education, Steve Lehman and Joyce Combes.

Mr. Lehman has worked closely with Dr. Nathan Pritikin of the Pritikin Longevity Research Institute in Santa Barbara, California. He hopes to open a health-conditioning center at the San, which will stress a program similar to Dr. Pritikin's low fat and cholesterol diet.

Afternoon health sessions will consist of workshop classes. These will include: How to Conduct a Successful Stop-Smoking Plan, How to Conduct a Successful Cooking School, a bread-making demonstration and question-and-answer sessions.

BETTER LIVING SEMINAR LEADS COUPLE INTO CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

The Better Living Seminars in the Detroit area are having an impact on the community. But more importantly, they are bringing people like Larry and Kathy Pykkonen to the Adventist church.

Larry and Kathy attended some of Dr. Arthur Weaver and Elder John Swanson's health and exercise classes.

When they heard that the church also offered a Marriage Enrichment Seminar (they had previously attended one with another group) they thought that these Adventists must "have it together," and decided to investigate.

Larry called Kenneth Lee, pastor of the East Detroit congregation, and asked about "Sunday School."

Elder and Mrs. Lee began studies with the Pykkonnens, and they began attending services with their two children.

Shortly after their baptism, Larry and Kathy moved to the Port Huron area, where they are now actively engaged in church activities, and especially in working toward having a church school next year so that their children can have a Christian education.

Others like them are beginning to see that since Adventists have so much to offer on good health and fitness, maybe there is more to the message that should be investigated.

Shep, a faithful family pet, attends church.

THE DOG WHO ATTENDS CHURCH

Shep, you may think, is just like any other dog except for one thing—she attends church faithfully. The only time Shep may not be there is when her owners, Leon and Dolores Slikkers, are gone.

How does Shep know what day to go? Is she there all the time? According to Mrs. Slikkers, her husband walks to church and one day Shep followed him. After trying unsuccessfully to make her stay home, Mr. Slikkers decided to drive—but Shep was at the church waiting for him.

The Slikkers tried going to church via different routes, but the dog always arrived before them. She never goes any other day than Saturday, or occasionally Wednesday mornings when Mrs. Slikkers goes to the community services center next to the church.

Church members have enjoyed seeing Shep sitting by the church doors for the past 10 months, week after week. She is even considered one of the official greeters.

So if you happen to visit the Holland Church some time, you'll be greeted by Shep, wagging her tail to welcome you to worship on Sabbath morning.

ARTISTIC TALENT IS A GIFT OF GOD

What do two Seventh-day Adventist artists do about participating in fine art shows when most of the events are on Sabbath?

June DeWind and Judy Drooger, members of the Holland Church, are looking forward to their own art showing, June 25 to July 11, at the Community Center Building in Grand Haven.

June DeWind

Judy Drooger

Judy feels her talent is God-given and has dedicated her painting abilities to the Lord.

June, who trained to be a nurse, also studied to fulfill her hobby of drawing and painting and now gives chalk talks for church programs for children.

June left New York State for studies at Andrews and ended up as the wife of Theo DeWind of Jenison. Her friend Judy moved from California to Holland in 1952 when she met her husband, Jim.

Both artists have had their work recognized in the past and have sold many of their paintings. They are looking forward to their public showing and the opportunity to continue using the God-given talents they have.

A CENTURY OF LIVING HEALTHFULLY

One more Michigan Adventist has reached the 100 birthday mark. The latest to be reported is Alice Ives of Holly who was 100 on April 23. Mrs. Ives came to America at the age of 18 to live with four brothers in Wisconsin. Two years later she married James Ives, a man who had been a neighbor in her hometown in England. Today Grandma Ives, as her close friends call her, is more healthy and more active than most women half her age. She still does handiwork and keeps her room immaculate. Church members celebrated her birthday, and a few days later she took her first plane ride to visit a grandson in California. Watchful of her health she stays away from sweets and thanks the Lord for her good health. Her secret for long life is, "Healthy living, good pure food and digging in the soil in the fresh air and sunshine whenever you can."

MAKING RIGHT CHOICES

The children of the Victory School in Coleman, Wisconsin, presented their annual school program during the months of April and May. The program is performed in each of the churches in the district: Lena, Oconto, Gillett and Pound. This year the program was also presented to the Menominee, Michigan, Church. The theme of the program was "Making Right Choices in Life." The program focused on the idea that choices should be heaven-centered. Participating in the program were the following students: back row, from left, Mike Natske, Kurt Gillen, Tanya Gillen, Roland Swanson and Richard Swanson, principal. Second row, from left, Scott Sanford, Dawn Dockham, Andy Sanford and Chipper Zeisner. Front row, from left, Richy Sanford, Bobbi Zeisner, Kathy Natske, Shari Dockham, Susan Natske, Annette Leisner and Shane Harry.

New Releases

MY UNFORGETTABLE PARENTS, by Kay Kuzma. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $2.50.

This book contains 25 insights into the successful early training of children—people who have largely imprinted their footmarks on the sands of life. Backgrounds differ, and methods of training differ, but one fact remains—"a character formed according to the divine likeness" makes its mark on eternity.

FOOTPRINTS OF FAITH, by Dr. David Paulson. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $2.50.

Those who knew the author and came under the spell of his remarkable life of faith and prayer will again be inspired as they read this book. Those who never met this man of God will find in their own hearts a longing for a deeper spiritual experience and more power, more faith in God.

TEST YOUR "WORD" POWER, by Richard H. Utt. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $.75.

This is a book of fascinating quizzes on a wide variety of Bible topics that will help everyone, young people and adults, know the Bible better.

SALVATION BY FAITH AND YOUR WILL, by Morris Venden. Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, Tennessee. $3.95.

How to properly utilize the will in the Christian experience is perhaps one of the most complex problems facing the heaven-bound mortal. In his new book, Pastor Venden guides the reader through thought processes which help to establish a firm basis of faith to meet today's problems.

MY SON DAN, by Lettie Wheeler Moore. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $3.50.

This is the story of Dan—impetuous, strong-willed, rebellious, and an alcoholic—who by the influence of Christain friends gained an insight of what God is like and what He can do for anyone who lays self aside.

NO FORTY-HOUR WEEK, by Goldie Down. Southern Publishing Association, Nashville, Tennessee. $3.50.

The Downs spent twenty years as missionaries in India, two of these in close contact with a mission hospital. From these years Mrs. Down brings together several experiences that portray very vividly the daily life at a mission hospital.

The doctors and nurses must work in limited space with the most meager equipment. They rarely have just a 12-hour workday and no 40-hour week. Through all their work they reveal the dedication and spirit of the Great Physician.

HOW TO BECOME A SUCCESSFUL CHRISTIAN LEADER, by R. H. Pierson. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $3.95, paper; $5.95, cloth.

The second in Elder Pierson's leadership series, this book is addressed to any member who aspires to a position of leadership at any level within the ranks of Seventh-day Adventists.

LORD, GIVE ME PATIENCE--But Hurry Up About It! by Keith Knoche. Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. $1.95.

If something can go wrong, it will; but the real challenge comes in learning how to handle these unsettling situations, and this requires patience. These experiences from the life of the author, related in his own unique style, will prove interesting and helpful to you.

'BORN AGAIN' MOVEMENT BATTLING TAX COLLECTORS

Protestant evangelicals are battling with Federal tax collectors over tax exemptions for "born again" schools. The Internal Revenue Service's latest attempt to crack down on tax breaks for segregated private schools has produced a firestorm of protest from religious groups.

The reason for the protests is that the net the I.R.S. would like to throw out to catch private "segregation academies" could end up drawing in some of the Christian school movement as well.

At the heart of the controversy is a provision that would automatically question the tax-exempt status of any school which does not enroll significant numbers of minority students. The I.R.S. has received more than 100,000 complaints about the new guidelines since it proposed them in August.

BIBLE STUDY IN THE UNITED STATES

A national survey by the interdenominational Christian Bible Society shows that 98 percent of all United States homes have at least one Bible. About 30 percent of all families said they had at least one member engaged in regular Bible study. However, according to the survey, more than 50 percent of Roman Catholics and Jews, and 25 percent of Protestants don't read the Bible at all.

MAN WHO TESTED SHROUD BELIEVES IT SHOWS CHRIST'S FACE

Infrared specialist Tom Haverty was one of 36 scientists who went to Turin, Italy, last October to conduct tests on the Shroud of Turin. Today, he says, "There is no scientific way to prove that the man in the shroud was Christ. But right now I have no reason to doubt that it was." Just why he thinks so, he won't elaborate on. The investigation was to study and test the shroud and come to some conclusion. But the team has agreed not to publicly discuss its findings at length until after the 36 members meet again this month.

W.C.C. REPORTS ON ETHIOPIAN SITUATION

A World Council of Churches team has reported there is "no evidence of a systematic, nationally sanctioned persecution of Christians because of their faith" in Ethiopia. At the same time, the group acknowledged there is evidence of imprisonment without trial, and torture of individuals. While describing these actions as serious, the W.C.C. team said there are no mass executions. Reports that all Orthodox churches in the city of Kaffa were closed down are "completely untrue."

INDIAN CHRISTIANS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST BILL ON CONVERSIONS

Christians in India have taken to the streets to protest against a parliamentary bill relating to religious conversions. Thousands of Christians took part in demonstrations in several parts of India. They say a proposed law would discriminate against minority religions in India. The controversial bill now before the federal legislature would outlaw conversions to a faith effected by "force, fraud, inducement or deceit." Roman Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox critics of the bill say it is a subtle measure aimed at preventing any religious conversions whatsoever. So-called anti-conversion laws are already in force in three Indian states. This bill would extend the laws to the whole of India.

RUSSIA PERMITS IMPORTATION OF BIBLES

According to the United Bible Societies, Soviet authorities have given permission for the importation of 25,000 Russian Bibles. It will be the largest shipment of Bibles to the Soviet Union in history. The import permit was granted to the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christian-Baptists in the Soviet Union. It is asking the European Region of the United Bible Societies to supply the Bibles.

"Prayer is the breath of the soul."—Gospel Workers, p. 254.

People In Transition

FREBERIN P. BAERG, will be the new pastor of the Dowagiac and Decatur-Glenwood, Michigan, churches. He has been pastoring the churches in Ithaca and Carson City, Michigan. He and his wife, Betty Jo, have six children.

ROCKY DAVIS, literature evangelist in the Mountain View Conference, will be moving to Michigan this month. He will be the publishing assistant for the northwestern part of the lower peninsula. He and his wife, Heidi, have a small daughter, Lisa.
