"Children . . . may learn to hear His voice in the song of the birds, in the sighing of the trees, in the rolling thunder, and in the music of the sea. . . . To those who thus acquaint themselves with Christ, the earth will nevermore be a lonely and desolate place." Education, p. 120.

"The Lord calls for volunteers who will take their stand firmly on His side, and will pledge themselves to unite with Jesus of Nazareth in doing the very work that needs to be done now, just now."—Fundamentals of Christian Education, p. 488.

One day Karen Fancher, wife of Michigan pastor Robert Fancher and mother of three young children, prayed during her morning devotions that God would lead her to someone in her neighborhood with whom she could study the Bible.

Little did she know that God had started to answer her request several months before she prayed. A few weeks before she made her wants known to Him, a group of senior citizens in a nursing home in Benton Harbor filled envelopes with Steps to Christ and an invitation to receive a free Bible course. These packets, mailed 250 miles north to boxholders in Leelanau County, brought requests for studies.

The interest cards were sent to Pastor Fancher at Traverse City, but Karen got to the mailbox before her husband and discovered that the very first card was an address on their street! Her prayers were answered.

That afternoon she visited her neighbor and offered to study with her. The woman accepted Karen's invitation and she happily made an appointment for later in the week.

Before she had studied with the woman very long, Karen received four other cards. She is now studying in five different locations—all within walking distance of home. Some of these people are starting to make important decisions about their salvation, and Karen is anxiously watching the mail for more cards. Evangelistic meetings scheduled for this fall will no doubt mature the seeds which Karen has been sowing in her neighborhood.

"Even if I never see the results here, I'm sure I'll see some of these people in Heaven," said Karen enthusiastically.

The inspiration Karen is receiving from these studies with her neighbors has fired her with a new resolve. "The next time I move to a new neighborhood I won't wait for help from a nursing home," she stated. "I'll mail a packet to every neighbor on the block as soon as we move in. Anyone can afford enough books and postage for one block!"

We invite housewives all over the Lake Union to unite with Jesus Christ as a "volunteer army," marching to finish the work in the Lake Union.

Being Involved

by Kathy Frost

Editor's Note:

When Ben Beck, principal of Milwaukee Junior Academy, agreed to be a judge for the Wisconsin Pathfinder Fair on May 5, 1979, little did he realize that he was to be the honored guest.

Each year the youth department selects a person who has been outstanding in youth leadership for the conference. This year the youth of Wisconsin honored Mr. Beck by calling the fair Ben Beck Day.

This tribute sums up the total dedication of Mr. Beck.

A sincere Christian dedicated to giving the message of Jesus to the youth, begins to describe Benjamin Beck, principal of Milwaukee Junior Academy. For approximately 25 years Mr. Beck has given his all in working for and with young people from the Dakotas to Wisconsin.

Besides being actively involved as a church elder, senior Sabbath School teacher and church and school board member, Mr. Beck has always found time for the younger generation.

In summers past his spiritual and social guidance has been appreciated at junior, teen and senior camps. I can remember him at Camp Silver Lake organizing the youth in boating- and water-skiing activities, and on the ball diamond hitting a home run for his team. He knows the secret of reaching the youth—being involved.

As a principal and teacher he displays genuine concern and interest in his faculty and students. He willingly takes part in all school functions, giving a helping hand wherever he may be needed, at any time.

For many years he has aided students in Pathfinders, from the beginning instructions through the Investiture program.

As a former student, it is with gratitude and appreciation for all of those who were recipients of Mr. Beck's years of dedicated service that I say, "Thank you."

ADVENTIST WORLD RADIO REACHES OUT

Like Ripples in a Pond

by D. S. Williams

Did Christ entrust us with a mission impossible when He said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel"?

On March 26, 1976, shortly before midnight, the four billionth person was born. How many have heard of and accepted Christ?

In Europe, which has the highest population density in the world, more than 400 million people have never held a Bible in their hands. Approximately 2,500 towns and cities each with more than 10,000 inhabitants are without an evangelical preacher of any denomination, and the situation is worse in East European countries. To complicate the problem, only a small number of missionaries are working in this continent's 34 countries.

When correctly used, radio is the most efficient of all mass media. Little seems to stop its effective penetration. The voice of Adventist World Radio (AWR) is loudly being heard each week. Its waves mysteriously filter over high walls, past watch dogs and security guards, through locked doors, finding receptive hearts in the most restricted, intimate places where, in person, a witness could never go.

Tens of millions of people are shut up in apartment dwellings in huge cities around the world, deaf to all but the subtle, yet power-packed voice of Adventist World Radio, the voice of hope.

Before 1971, Adventist World Radio was little more than a collection of plans and dreams. Today its shortwave and medium wave programs speak in more than 15 languages, including Russian, Ukrainian, Chinese, Serbian, French, German, Telegu, Hindi, Arabic and Greek.

With headquarters in Lisbon, Portugal, AWR rents time from a large privately owned radio corporation. Its 250,000 watts of power transmit to an area extending from Madrid to Moscow and Norway to North Africa.

In eight short years the program has grown from broadcasting a few hours from Portugal to five or six transmitting stations around the world. The network now includes AWR-Europe, AWR-South Asia, AWR-India and AWR-China.

Rental costs are expensive: nearly $1,500 for 15 minutes a month for one year, and approximately $6,000 for 15 minutes a week for one year. In order to continue the European broadcasts for the remainder of 1979, $204,000 is needed.

In the Inter-American Division a shortwave station in Guatemala is being developed. When the power can be increased to 100,000 watts AWR will reach not only the Inter-American Division but the South American Division and part of the North American Division also!

Is AWR getting through? The Europe-based stations alone generate about 500 letters a month from listeners, many requesting religious literature. An average of 20 letters come from Japan each week although it is on the opposite side of the globe from the transmitter.

Just in one day's mail letters arrived from Sweden, England, Russia, France, Greece, Japan, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Italy and Bangladesh. The list is different every day.

One listener from Finland writes, "I'm your regular listener . . . I have listened to your programs almost every Sunday in the English language and really enjoyed them . . . Many thanks for your politeness and your interesting programs with good spiritual music."

A Russian man writes "Thank you very much for your Q.S.L. card, program schedule and Voice of Prophecy news bulletin which I find very interesting. I would like the bulletin regularly."

In Japan, shortwave listening is a very popular hobby among teenagers. A 14-year-old in Nagoya, Japan, wrote, "I received AWR Europe news from Lisbon, and I should be grateful if you would place my name on your permanent mailing list." Another young listener wrote, "Please tell me more about Jesus Christ."

Today the church has the opportunity to reach all men everywhere with the Word. An impossible mission? Not now; not any longer. Now it can be done.

AWR radio friends all over the world want to say "thank you" for your gift which will help enlarge the outreach of Adventist World Radio and bring Christ to the masses.

'If It Had Not Been the Lord'

by Jack Mahon

From September 1977 to April 1979 the government in Uganda closed the doors of every Adventist church in the country and specified that the members should cease religious activities.

Strenuous efforts to get the government to rescind the order were made by church leaders.

All attempts to lift the ban were fruitless, but after 69 Sabbaths in which church members continued to worship in their homes—sometimes as many as 70 people in a group—a change in government took place and universal religious freedom was proclaimed in Kampala by the new president.

Church chroniclers can now begin to write a whole new chapter about this young African church and its response to peril. When the ban came suddenly, the church had been preparing to observe its Golden Jubilee.

In 1928 British pioneer missionary Spencer G. Maxwell, with three African missionary workers from Tanganyika's Pare Mountains, started the first Adventist mission in the country. In the ensuing half century the church has played a significant part in the development of education and health care throughout Uganda.

When the ban came, members made effective ad hoc plans to safeguard church property by forming private syndicates to operate schools and other institutions.

The church's 80-bed hospital at Ishaka, 200 miles south of Kampala, was taken over by the government and has only recently been restored to the church.

Literature evangelists took out salesmen's licenses and carried on "business as usual." They never stopped their door-to-door ministry.

With seven Adventists dead and after scores of members have been beaten, abused and imprisoned, it would be insensitive to suggest that the ban was good for the church. All the same the membership and tithe returns for the first calendar year under the ban show significant gains: In 1977 there were 12,702 members; in 1978 the number had increased to 13,010.

All seven fatalities were male. With the exception of one child they were men of stature who were giving outstanding service to the church. One was senior elder of Kampala's largest church, another a Seventh-day Adventist World Service, Inc. (SAWS) worker in Kampala.

Ishaka Church lost its Sabbath School superintendent. Two colporteur-evangelists in the north lost their lives as did the infant son of one of them.

A 24-year-old member of the staff at Bugema Adventist College, near Kampala, was murdered after the college truck which he was test-driving on campus was hijacked. Full details of this tragedy are well known because an eyewitness survived the same massacre.

A student called Sebuliba was a passenger in the college vehicle. He told how they were forced to drive north to the Malire Barracks at Bombo and were then taken with a truckload of prisoners into the forest nearby. While five soldiers opened fire with machine guns the prisoners were made to leap down from the truck and were immediately shot down.

Sebuliba found himself beneath a pile of corpses with a smashed right arm and other wounds. When he heard the truck drive away he ran off into the forest and was later rescued by advancing Tanzanian troops.

Among the very first Adventists to arrive by air in Kampala after the ban was lifted was Ugandan-born Dennie K. Bazarra, East African Union president. Accompanying him were Dr. Sam Biraro, former medical director of Ishaka Hospital, and M. E. Lind, who voluntarily came out of retirement to act as liaison officer to field president D. I. Isabiriye.

A former president of the Afro-Mideast Division and president of the East African Union, Pastor Lind is busy with coordination of aid programs with SAWS and various other international relief organizations.

The first Adventist help came from the churches of Kenya. Donald C. Swan, manager of Kenya's African

Herald Publishing House, volunteered to drive the press truck to Uganda to test out the route across the newlyopened border. Health and temperance director David Syme, who had already made one sortie by private charter plane into Uganda and knew how desperate was the need for medical supplies, immediately accepted Mr. Swan's offer. The vehicle was loaded with 2½ tons of urgently needed medicines and other emergency supplies.

The joy which greeted the first Adventist vehicle to arrive at the Kireka, Kampala, Adventist headquarters, since the lifting of the ban, was not to be compared with the first Sabbath when the Adventist churches in most of Uganda were re-opened for worship. That "70th Sabbath" will never be forgotten.

None of the churches were big enough to hold all the people who came to give thanks. How those people sang "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"! Choked with emotion and blinded with tears it was difficult to get started, then the great chorus of praise rolled out all through that day.

It is a sadly depleted Ishaka Hospital that has come back into church possession. It was used as a barrack and many things had been taken away by looters.

One of the more serious problems about getting the only Adventist hospital back into operation is the fact that miles of power lines are lying in tangled ruins and it will take many months to restore them.

Since most of the vital services of this modern hospital depend upon electrical power, including the water supply, a good powerful generator tops the list of urgent priorities. When electric lines are restored the generator will act as a stand-by. As soon as it can be installed and the medical stores replenished, Ishaka will once again minister to the community.

The first message to come out of Uganda from the members in Kampala was the request that a message would be sent to Adventist members all over the world thanking everyone who prayed for them during Uganda's time of trouble. The words of Psalm 124 seem peculiarly appropriate to the recent deliverance of God's people.

"Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth." Psalm 124:8.

LUANNE BAUER RECEIVES DEGREE

Luanne Bauer

Her dissertation was entitled, "Moral Reasoning and the Decrease of Dogmatism in the Communication Classroom: Small Group Discussions and Creative Drama as Methods of Instruction."

A native of Jamestown, N.D., Dr. Bauer received a Bachelor of Arts degree in speech from Andrews in 1967 and a Master of Arts in teaching English as a second language from St. Michael's College.

Dr. Bauer, who is a member of the Speech Association of America and Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, joined the Andrews faculty in 1969.

LIFELONG LEARNING OFFERS VARIETY OF CLASSES

D. Ross Campbell

Learning.

Two courses that have been very popular in the past several years are the Orff-Kodaly Elementary Music Education and the Family Life workshops.

This year an advanced music education course has been scheduled for July 30 through August 3 in addition to the elementary course, July 23 through 27.

Both courses will be taught by Grace C. Nash, a leading educator and consultant in child development with music, language and movement, and Jeanne Loudon, music specialist for the Winchester, Massachusetts, Public Schools.

Hilary Robinson, a Fellow of the Trinity College of Music in London, with a master's degree in music education from Andrews University, will assist.

H. Norman Wright and Ross Campbell will be among the guest speakers featured in this year's Family Life Workshop September 10 through 19. Author of more than 12 books, Mr. Wright is the founder and director of Christian Marriage Enrichment.

Mr. Campbell is a noted child psychiatrist and author of the best seller, How to Really Love Your Child.

Designed to "train teams... in concepts and methods for organizing a family life program in the local church," the workshop's emphasis will be nonclinical, with preventive approaches stressed.

Family training, marriage enrichment, family dynamics, communication, child training, and daily devotionals are among the topics to be discussed this year.

Prime Time '79: Youth Ministry Seminar is a new workshop to be taught September 4 through 13 by Des Cummings, assistant professor of youth ministry at Andrews, and John Hancock, world youth director for the Seventh-day Adventist church.

The course, which current enrollment figures show to be very popular, is designed to train youth ministry administrators, educators, youth pastors and local youth leaders in a variety of youth ministry skills.

For further information and registration forms for these or other workshops, call (616) 471-3510, or write: Lifelong Learning, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

NEWS NOTE

• The West Central Church participated in a "Health Fair" on Sunday, June 3. Blood-pressure and lung-capacity testing, samples of vegetarian cooking, and two audiovisuals were part of the program. "Sorry Baby," a film on the hazards of smoking, and "The Spider's Web," a film about the effects of caffeine, were shown. Between 80 and 100 visitors came to the church, making "A Day In Our Village" a successful venture for the Oak Park community.

5TH-GRADER WINS IN SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Carla Thompson, a fifth-grade student in Pontiac, Illinois, participated in the Heart of Illinois Special Olympics at Illinois State University, Normal, Illinois. Carla's team won first place in the 40-yard relay and she won first place in both the 50-yard dash and in the broad jump. The event took place on June 3.

OTTAWA CHURCH JUNIORS RECEIVE BIBLES

Five juniors of the Ottawa Church were awarded Bibles on 13th Sabbath for the following achievements: At least three days of study in the Guide, reverence at all times, participation in Sabbath School, and the earning of 10 bookmarks for learning memory verses.

A plaque was awarded to the junior who did more than required. The plaque, which read "God gives His best to those who leave the choice to Him," was awarded to Angela Creamean.

Next quarter the juniors will be working for cases to match their red Bibles. All of them are working hard.

The award program was begun to improve interest in lesson study.

STREATOR CHURCH HOLDS 5-DAY PLAN

Dr. Gerard McClain, right, director of the health education department of Hinsdale Hospital, presents a certificate to one of the 18 participants in the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking sponsored by the Streator Church. Pastor Edwin Swan coordinated the program and Cleta Lane, center, clinical specialist at the local hospital, assisted. The program was held at the St. Mary's Hospital in Streator.

NEWS NOTES

• Effie Cohee was recently admitted to the Lakeland Nursing Home in Angola, Indiana. She believes her mission field is right where she is. Each week she requests the local communication secretary to bring some literature and the church bulletin so she can share her faith with others.

• An evangelistic crusade was held in the LaPorte Church, May 4 through May 26. Don Klinger, pastor of the Terre Haute District, and Jim Brown, local pastor, conducted the series. Mrs. Don Klinger provided special music for the series. Nine people were baptized on May 26; six joined the LaPorte Church and three joined the Michigan City Church.

• Lake Union Conference President Lowell Bock said, after watching the children listen to a story on Sabbath morning at the Kokomo Church: "Pastor Bill Hawkes believes the church service is for all ages. In addition to his sermon he gathers the youngest at his knee for their Sabbath story, and brings his homilies to all the boys and girls." Although the stories are designed for the very young, the entire congregation receives a great blessing as they observe the enthusiasm with which the little ones listen to the story.

Harold M. Williams addressed the Indiana Academy seniors on the subject of Seventh-day Adventist noncombatancy. Al Williams, Bible teacher, is seated at the desk.

INDIANA ACADEMY SENIORS STUDY NONCOMBATANCY

With the revival of interest in a national draft of young people for the armed services, the historic stand of the Seventh-day Adventist Church on noncombatancy is a live issue on the Indiana Academy campus.

During the week of May 7 to 11, Al Williams, Bible teacher, invited Cliff Hoffman, conference National Service Organization (N.S.O.) secretary, and his father, Harold Williams of the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference, to speak to the senior class about the denominational position on noncombatancy. He advised the youth to be conscientious cooperators in times of national stress, and at the same time to witness to the power and love of the Creator.

The seniors were shown, by various examples, the wisdom of following the guidelines given by early Adventist leaders whose principles are still pertinent to the situation today.

The importance of seeking counsel at all times from N.S.O. leaders, who keep in touch with the latest information on present and future plans for entrance into the service organizations, was stressed.

PATHFINDERS ENJOY BIG WEEKEND AT CICERO

Eight Pathfinder clubs from all over the state of Indiana recently went to the Indiana Conference campgrounds at Cicero, Indiana, for a weekend of inspiration, campfires, field events, marching and fun.

The highlight of the May 19 to 20 weekend was the presence of Leo Ranzolin, associate general conference youth director.

Elder Ranzolin, a native of Brazil, told many stories, and brought objects of interest from the mission field for the Pathfinders to see and touch.

On Sabbath afternoon he donned his native Brazilian gaucho (cowboy) outfit. His most spectacular item was a 20-foot anaconda snake skin from Brazil.

The theme for the weekend fair was "Real Living," and this was based on the 1979 Temperance Year theme, "For Real Life."

Saturday night each club gave a three- to four-minute stage demonstration based on better living. On Sunday, May 20, eight clubs participated in the Pathfinder Fair activities. The grand march began the day's activities.

Each club marched in review before Leo Ranzolin; Cliff Hoffman, Indiana Conference youth director, and the judges. Music was provided by a band directed by Ramona Trubey of Cicero.

On a volunteer basis certain clubs participated in a march-and-drill demonstration. They performed either the regular conventional drill or fancy drill.

The remainder of the morning was spent in five field events. Each Pathfinder had opportunity to try his skill in the football throw, frisbee throw, horseshoe pitch, basketball shoot and jump rope contest.

The fun event of the afternoon was the peanut drop. An airplane flew over the athletic field and dropped 30 pounds of peanuts in the shell. About 27 peanuts were painted different colors. The pathfinders who were able to find the colored peanuts received a prize. Only three of the colored peanuts were not found.

The Pathfinder Fair is the culmination of the year's Pathfinder activities. All of the clubs that have been active throughout the year and have obtained 90 percent of possible points receive a trophy club award.

This year Elder Hoffman presented a unique trophy that he put together of a mounted mule carved out of onyx stone.

The clubs receiving trophy club awards for 1978-79 were the Anderson Indians, South Bend Royal Knights, Cicero Cherokees, Irvington Eagles, Bloomington Frontiersmen, and the Lafayette Silver Eagles. The Bedford Stonecutters were awarded the most-improved club trophy.

The spirit was high, the weather great and everyone felt it was a fun weekend—which is what being a Pathfinder is all about!

CANSLER HOLDS CRUSADE IN RICHMOND

Larry Cansler, who recently moved to the Indiana Conference from Missouri, held his first evangelistic series in Indiana at the Richmond Church. The meetings were held from January 13 through February 16. Elder Cansler, back row, far right, is shown with several of the Richmond Church leaders and 18 of 22 candidates who were baptized on Sabbath, February 17, as a result of the meetings.

BAPTISM AT VALPARAISO

The Valparaiso Church was filled with great rejoicing when Mabel Stanton, left, was baptized. Rosemary Hines, right, and Pastor Carl Johnson, center, had studied with her for some time. Mabel attended several of Evangelist Lester Carney's meetings in Gary and nearly all of Pastor Johnson's "Reach Out For Life" series in the Valparaiso Church. But she didn't go alone. She had been taking a friend, Anne Veal, with her. At the present time Rosemary Hines, Mabel Stanton and another newly baptized member, Dawna Coleman, are conducting a weekly Bible study at the home of Anne Veal. Anne, a former smoker, encouraged Mabel to kick the smoking habit, which she did with the Lord's help.

COMMUNITY GUEST DAY

The Detroit Center Church Sabbath School department recently celebrated Community Guest Day.

Morris Wren of Louisville, Kentucky, was the speaker of the hour. With the church filled to capacity, Elder Wren spoke about the "Missing Link," directing hearts and minds toward the Creator and Redeemer, Jesus Christ.

Elder Wren indicated the importance of knowing who you are and from whence you have come. He further encouraged each person to be faithful to the Master, because "He that will come shall come and will not tarry."

After divine worship, each Sabbath School teacher took his class and visitors home for dinner. Each visitor received Your Adventist Neighbors and The Magnificent Seven.

Those present indicated how much they enjoyed the services and their desire to return.

MOTHERS ARE HONORED

Recently on Sabbath afternoon, the Beacon of Joy Church youth leader, Margree Taylor, and the youth council presented a program dedicated to mothers.

Macon Cooper, 71, and Nurie Winfrey, 81, were surprised with a "This Is Your Life" program.

Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Winfrey were escorted to specially decorated seats of honor and presented with Mother of the Year sashes.

The program proceeded with voices coming over the public address system. The mothers tried to guess which of their many relatives and friends were speaking.

Four generations of Mrs. Cooper's family were present to share this day with her.

Five generations of Mrs. Winfrey's family were present with some coming from Detroit, Michigan, to be with her.

Mrs. Cooper's and Mrs. Winfrey's tear-stained faces were sparkling with joy and laughter as they recalled different incidents which had happened down through the years.

In two short hours they had practically relived their lives.

The church choir sang songs in dedication to these dearly loved women and the members of the congregation and family presented them with gifts.

After the program, there was a joyous fellowship time.

Beacon of Joy members were spiritually filled from sharing in this program.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S DAY

The community services department of the Independence Church in Chicago, directed by Ernestine Rivers, center, held an annual Senior Citizen's Day program which included a challenging message from Herman Davis, pastor. The "Beauty of Golden Years" was his topic. He reminded the church to love and take care of the aged, and he charged the senior citizens with the task of counseling and sharing their wisdom with the young.

NEWS NOTES

• The Otsego Church members have named Wilma Faler as their official Bible worker. She is currently giving 13 regular studies using the DuKane projector. As a result of her work, and that of Carl Riebow, the pastor, two persons were recently baptized and joined the church.

• Eight persons were recently baptized in the Pontiac Church, according to a report from the pastor, Philip Colburn.

• The 17-member church of Newberry in the Upper Peninsula sponsored a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. Phil Hopkins, pastor, and Dr. James Terrian, a local non-Adventist physician, conducted the clinic. A participant who was familiar with the plan said he had been waiting for the group therapy session for "seven years."

• During the month of May eight people were added to the church rolls at Marshall and two at Bellevue. James Hoffer serves these two churches.

• The Cedar Lake Pathfinder Club has retired "Old Jimmy," the bus which has carried them faithfully to many events. A newer vehicle has been obtained because new legislation requires church-operated buses to be inspected in the same way that school buses are.

• The citrus fruit program of the Jackson school has resulted in the installation of carpeting in the building. A total of 1,478 cases of fruit were sold this past school year.

• A story hour has been started by Jackson members for children living in the neighborhood of the community service center. Of the 30 children in attendance the first week, 24 were non-Adventists.

• Two men of the Marquette congregation "helped make things interesting" at the church's recently held cooking school. Delores Williams, who conducted the school, reports that her men assistants "were very good at it, too." The four nightly meetings proved to be fun, interesting and helpful to the 22 people who attended. Many expressed interest in the church. Mrs. Williams says another class is being considered.

• Eight literature evangelists have reported a combined total of 21 baptisms since the first of the year as a result of initial contacts they have made. Ed Pomeroy of Chesaning and Reino Ketola of L'Anse each report five, and Ben Lewis of Benton Harbor knows of three. Two each are reported by Rich Sutton, Bay City; Gwen Harvey, Allegan, and Gary Starlin of Lake City, while Abdul Massey of Berrien Springs and Nina and Jesse Hall, formerly of Mio, know of one each.

THREE NEW LIGHTS IN ITHACA

On Sabbath, June 2, Roberta Williams, left, Pattie DuBois and Addie Hayes were baptized in a Sabbath morning service at the Ithaca Church. All three have been witnessing to their immediate families, neighbors and the community. They were baptized by Elder F. P. Baerg (center, standing at the pulpit).

SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND

A young man was leaving a Protestant church to join the Adventist congregation. One of his friends, seeking answers that would help dissuade him from making this step, turned for help to a literature evangelist who called at his door.

Harold DeWitt, associate director of the Michigan Conference publishing department, was following up on a lead which led to a large home. As Mr. DeWitt was wondering what was in store for him, a middle-aged man and his wife asked him to come in.

After the canvass was given the man wondered if the books Mr. DeWitt had presented would help him find the answers to the question about Sabbath.

He said that every time he went to the Bible to find texts he could use to persuade his friend to stay in the Protestant church the texts only pointed more directly to Saturday as the day of worship.

During the next 2½ hours, at the request of the couple, Mr. DeWitt explained why he was a Seventh-day Adventist. The two eagerly listened to the Bible study Mr. DeWitt gave.

They were so excited with his presentation that they ordered more than $400 worth of books to give them a better understanding of the Bible.

As Mr. DeWitt tells this story he points out that God has a special plan for this family as He does for many others who are seeking truth. "What a privilege," he says, that he and his literature evangelist friends have in sharing this faith through the literature ministry.

EVANGELISTIC PLANS

Five evangelistic campaigns have been set to begin during the third quarter of this year. These feature the three conference evangelists and one invited team from out of state.

Bob Collar begins in Houghton Lake, August 18 to September 22. He will then move to Marshall for a series beginning September 29 and ending November 3.

Leighton Holley, the conference's newest full-time evangelist, will begin his first crusade at Grand Rapids. It

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY FOR PINEDALE CHURCH

The members of the Pinedale congregation conducted a ground-breaking ceremony for a new church, Wednesday, April 25. A steady rainfall stopped long enough for the program to be held.

Charles Keymer, James Hayward and Herbert Pritchard, president, secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the Michigan Conference, assisted in the dedication.

Neal Sherwin, present pastor, conducted the dedicatory service, setting aside "this small portion of earth for God's service." Gordon Rhodes, former pastor, also participated.

Dr. Dan Ekkens, chairman of the building committee, said that for the past three years many Pinedale members had faithfully donated funds and had made plans for the new church. The groundbreaking marked the beginning of the realization of their dreams. The building committee hopes that the new church will be enclosed by late summer.

Among those present from the community were Paul Arnstrom, pastor of the Gobles Presbyterian Church; Karen Slager, pastor of the Gobles Methodist Church, and Mrs. Otis Norman, reporter for the Kalamazoo Gazette.

Martha M. Benton

will run from September 8 through October 20. During this same time period Arnold Kraner will be holding a series in Wilson.

Two retired but still active workers will conduct meetings at Munising, September 28 to October 27. Ben Hassenpflug, whose last full-time position was evangelist for the Central Union, and Ray Turner, bass singer of the early King's Heralds radio quartet, are teaming up for this crusade and talking about other possible appointments in the future.

Stephanie Kendall of Kalamazoo shows the 200 Club trophy to Charles Keymer, president of the Michigan Conference.

PATHFINDER FAIR HAS NATURE THEME

Nature was the theme of this year's Pathfinder Fair held again at the Lansing Civic Center. Of the 64 clubs in the conference, 57 were represented.

One of the highlights of this annual event was the presentation of the 200 Clubs. These are the groups that, by faithful participation in club activities during the previous year, earned 200 or more credits, pointing to a "perfect" club.

By attending the fair and participating in its events, 65 or more of these points could be earned toward the 200 mark.

According to Merrill Fleming, conference Pathfinder director, the goal of achieving membership in the 200 Club is to help make church participation "attractive, life fun, and Jesus Christ real."

Trophies were awarded to each club that manned a booth displaying the work of the Pathfinders and that marched in the closing parade with a float with a nature theme.

Each booth was divided into two sections. An "ingenuity display" included unique projects featuring nature and a working exhibit. The other section was for exhibits of handicrafts, collections, canned and baked goods and other general displays.

IVY REED IS SECRETARY OF THE YEAR

Ivy Reed of the Reed City Church was recently named secretary of the year by members of the Mecosta-Oscelo Legal Secretaries Association. She will be 82 in about three months, reports Shirley Carle of Lansing who recently visited Mrs. Reed and gathered these facts.

Illness prevented Ivy from attending school after finishing the 8th-grade. To prepare herself to earn a livelihood she took typing and shorthand by correspondence from the church-owned Home Study Institute of Washington, D.C.

She did so well in her studies, achieving 99 percent in her final exam, that M. E. Olson, president of the school, asked her to work for him in Washington.

But Washington was too far from Michigan and she declined in favor of a job in Jackson.

For the past 33 years she has been a legal secretary in the law firm of Thompson and Weger in Reed City. At 81 years of age she is still an expert typist and takes dictation faster than her boss can dictate. She assists in preparing wills, deeds and land contracts and is known as the "will expert" in the office.

Mrs. Reed also serves her church as organist for Sabbath School, and has been treasurer since the Reed City Adventists formally organized.

FIVE NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO THE PLYMOUTH CHURCH

A Plymouth Church member's pet was the point of contact which resulted in the baptism of Carol Sutliff, May 5. She was one of five people baptized that day, reports Norman Yeager, pastor.

Natalie Weaver had been taking her dog to Carol's house to be groomed. In the course of time the discussions turned to religious topics and the Better Living Seminars, directed by Natalie's husband, Arthur Weaver, M.D.

Mrs. Sutliff became interested because of the diabetic condition of her nephew. She and her twin sister attended the seminars, then Bible study classes in the Weavers' home, and finally began attending church. After a period of study with the pastor, Carol Sutliff was baptized on her birthday.

Baptized with Carol was Mary Holly, who had accepted the invitation of the John Nix family to attend Vacation Bible School. Afterward she attended church, and when the time came to attend school, she asked her parents to enroll her in the Adventist school.

She was impressed by the difference between it and the public school she had attended, and began to ask questions about what it meant to be a Christian. In January Charles Green, the school principal, invited her to join the family of God, and Mary accepted and soon after was in the baptismal class.

Each Sabbath as the friendship book was passed down his pew, Timothy Goodchild indicated he was looking forward to baptism. When the opportunity presented itself, Tim joined the baptismal class and then sealed his decision to be baptized.

Cirina and Tom Martinez had planned almost a year ago to be baptized, but just before the baptism their mother was involved in an auto accident. They had to go to live with a relative until their mother was home again. When baptismal classes were announced they both joined and have been baptized.

NEWS NOTES

• There was sunshine everywhere as the Sunshine Singers entertained

Sabbath, June 16, at the Heritage Nursing Center and Meadow View Manor nursing homes, Sheboygan. Twenty adults and seventeen children participated in the singing band. This group was organized two years ago as a non denominational, community-service group by the Seventh-day Adventist Church with Henry Fale as leader. Nursing homes, hospitals and private homes have since enjoyed the joyous songs spreading cheer wherever they go.

• Lionel Lange presented a tape on Sabbath afternoon, June 23. Dr. Leach was the commentator. The tape expounded on political negotiations of the latter days. The Sheboygan church members would like to express their appreciation and gratitude to Lionel for sharing this tape with them.

• A series of nutrition classes entitled "Eat Right," in which only natural foods were used, was held in Shawano, Wisconsin. The classes were conducted at two nutrition stores, The Staff of Life and Kohl's Nutrition Center. Mrs. Victor Buettner, who has a master's degree in nutrition from Loma Linda University, conducted the classes. A special feature was a "stir fry" demonstration by Beryl Mamanua, wife of Jim Mamanua, district pastor.

• The members of the Milton, Janesville, Beloit and Delavan churches hosted a farewell potluck dinner for Marshall and Glenda Merklin. Marshall Merklin has served the district as associate pastor and teacher. The Merklins will be taking up new duties in Spokane, Washington, where Marshall will be a teacher/principal.

CAMP MEETING THEME TO BE 'LIFT HIM UP'

Several thousand members and friends are expected to attend the Wisconsin camp meeting in a few days under the banner "Lift Him Up."

The camp meeting is scheduled to open at Wisconsin Academy, Thursday, July 26, at 7:30 P.M. The keynote speaker will be Richard Barron from the General Conference youth department.

Although the location of the annual camp meeting had to be moved from the new campground being developed near Westfield, Wisconsin, to the academy, it is not expected that this change will seriously affect the attendance.

"We are endeavoring to make this one of the finest spiritual camp meetings in the history of Wisconsin," states Robert Dale, conference president.

"We are doing everything possible to meet the accommodation needs of those desiring to stay for the entire camp meeting. It is anticipated that nearly all of the academy dormitory rooms will be filled," said Elder Dale.

"We have also arranged for campers to stay at Silver Springs campground located only 12 miles from the academy site. Sites are still available. It is not too late to plan to stay at this campground and enjoy the full benefits of camp meeting," Elder Dale added.

The camp meeting will continue for a full 10 days through August 4.

The opening weekend will include an ordination service, a special music program, and messages from Lake Union and General Conference personnel.

On Sunday Samuele Bacchiocchi will tell about his attending the Vatican University. Elder Bacchiocchi is the only Adventist to ever graduate from the Vatican. His doctoral study was on the change of the Sabbath.

A tremendous book sale, a tradition on Sunday afternoon at the Wisconsin camp meeting, will take place. "We expect many additional people to attend the opening weekend," says Elder Dale, "but they will miss a great deal if they don't stay for the entire time."

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

The Seventh-day Adventist church members of Sheboygan are delighted and thankful that 95 of His children attended the 1979 Vacation Bible School program, June 11 to 21.

Ages were from 3 to 13. Stories, songs and crafts were enjoyed by the children.

A special nature feature was presented each night by Florence Schacht. Among the animals brought, observed and petted were gold fish, ducks, a crow, a lamb, chickens and owls. The baby calf couldn't make it.

Two guest speakers were the Sheboygan County bird bander, Mr. Brummer, and Terry Andrae, state park naturalist. Larry Kascht showed slides and explained nature's cycles.

All this was accomplished in the new church which is still under construction. The Vacation Bible School leader is Sally Pitman.

Letters

Letters on nontheological topics are welcomed by the editors. Right is reserved to edit for continuity and space limitations. Your name, address and name of home church are required, but will not be published if you request anonymity.

Many friends have indicated to me before what I have felt myself—the Lake Union Herald is too dry, too self-promoting, too congratulatory a publication when you consider the depth of Laodicea we are in as a people. To read it you'd never know we are far behind as a people, you'd never know that the world is fast crumbling around us, you'd never know that the signs of the times are everywhere. Come now, brethren, am I making these things up? Is there no truth in these words?

In the enclosed compilation I am sending you will find the principles Sister White sets down for our publications.

Brethren, I pray that you prayerfully study these counsels; for this is time of change for the Herald, and why not then let it also be a time of reformation?

Trusting that you will take these comments in the spirit in which they are intended, I am

Your brother in Christ,
Larry Pahl

THE HERALD WANTS YOUR PHOTOS

Don't miss this opportunity to have your photos printed in the Herald! Later this year the Lake Union Herald will publish a special nature photo essay issue.

You may send up to 10 black-and-white or color prints or slides to your local conference communication director before August 17.

A panel of judges will select those photos to be included on the basis of composition, creativity and overall technical quality.

Only photos taken in the Lake Union states will be accepted.

The Lake Union Herald reserves the right to publish the photos, and proper credit will be given. Be prepared to provide a release in case your photos are published.

All unused entries will be returned if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your permanent address.

Don't wait until August—send your photos now.

FAMILY LIFE WORKSHOP SCHEDULED

H. Norman Wright and Ross Campbell will be among the guest speakers featured in this year's Family Life Workshop on the Andrews University campus, September 10 to 19.

Author of more than a dozen books, Mr. Wright is the founder and director of Christian Marriage Enrichment.

Ross Campbell is a noted child psychiatrist and author of the best seller, How to Really Love Your Child.

Designed to "train teams... in concepts and methods for organizing a family life program in the local church," the workshop's emphasis will be nonclinical, with preventive approaches stressed.

Family training, marriage enrichment, family dynamics, communication, child training and family worship are among the topics to be discussed this year.

PHILOSDA CAMP MEETING SCHEDULED FOR AUGUST

The Third Annual All Singles Camp Meeting will be conducted at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, August 16 to 25, 1979, by the International Philosda Club.

The club, sponsored by the General Conference Ministerial Association, was established to provide spiritual and social fellowship for single, widowed and divorced Seventh-day Adventists.

At last year's camp meeting, held at Keene, Texas, participants came from 36 states, 5 provinces of Canada, and 2 foreign countries.

For prices, an application, or more information about the camp meeting, write to: Public Relations Secretary, International Philosda Club, P. O. Box 4042, Silver Spring, MD 20904, or call, after 6 P.M. (301) 384-4460.

HAM RADIO OPERATORS OFFERED Q.S.L. CARDS

Personalized Q.S.L. cards are available to ham (amateur) radio operators from the Voice of Prophecy. A tear-off portion is an enrollment card for a Voice of Prophecy Bible course.

Q.S.L. cards are given out or mailed by ham operators to confirm a radio conversation with another person.

"These special personalized cards from the Voice of Prophecy will be an ideal way for Adventist ham operators to reach out to other hams with an invitation to enroll in a Bible course," says Pastor H.M.S. Richards, Jr., a ham operator himself and president of the V.O.P. Amateur Radio Club.

Information about the Q.S.L. cards may be obtained by writing: Amateur Radio Club, Voice of Prophecy, Box 55, Los Angeles, CA 90053. A small fee is charged for the cards to help offset the printing costs.

LLU RECEIVES GRANT FOR HOSPITAL DENTISTRY

In a move to meet a critical need for more available dental care, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has announced a $383,838 grant to Loma Linda University Medical Center for its hospital dentistry program.

L.L.U.M.C. is one of 24 hospitals in the nation selected to receive a total of $9.6 million in grants to strengthen their existing dental services.

Funds from the foundation will be used to expand dental services at the Medical Center.

The expansion will enable the hospital dentistry service to augment its general practice dental residency program, operated in conjunction with the Loma Linda University School of Dentistry.
