Vacation Bible Schools are over for another year. Do they pay? Are they worth the investment of time, talent and expense? Do Vacation Bible Schools win souls?

The Gospel of Jesus is to go to all the people, including little people—boys and girls. In fact, their tender hearts are more easily touched by the story of Jesus' love.

Several weeks ago, it was my privilege to speak at the Alton, Illinois, Church's Vacation Bible School graduation. Two lovely Christian girls were the graduates. Just two! But it was one of the most rewarding graduations ever for those who conducted a Vacation Bible School in Alton.

The Pastor's daughter, Cheryl Stewart, and her friend, Diane Johnson, were radiant as they walked down the aisle that graduation night. So were the faces of the happy congregation. Vacation Bible School was truly paying off!

Diane and her younger sister Sherry live across from the Alton Seventh-day Adventist Church. They attended Vacation Bible School, loved it and began attending Sabbath School.

Their mother, a hospital administrator, was impressed by the training her daughters were receiving and enrolled Diane and Sherry in the Alton Church School. William Stewart, pastor of the Alton Church, visited the Johnsons and invited the girls to join the baptismal class. Diane and Sherry are now Seventh-day Adventists, all because of Vacation Bible School, Sabbath School and church school!

Andy's Dream

by Kae Jaworski

A beautiful painting portraying a scene from the New Earth hangs behind the baptistry of the North Shore Church in Chicago. The painting was done by Andres Drapiza, artist and Seventh-day Adventist. Andy's love for our Lord prompted this painting which was donated to the church several years ago.

Andy works as a billboard sign painter for an outdoor advertising agency. For several years his work included cigarette and liquor posters.

But Andy was troubled. He decided his work smacked of hypocrisy—he believed in temperance yet his work testified to the opposite.

One day Andy could take his guilt no more. He met with his supervisor and explained his religious convictions and why he could no longer continue to paint these particular posters.

Andy offered his resignation. But his supervisor was pleased to inform him that because his work was outstanding, the company wanted him to remain on the job. Andy was told he could paint any type of billboards that would not conflict with his religious beliefs.

For several years Andy thought about opening a health food store. After months of prayer and preparation Andy opened a shop in Chicago called PLUS Vegetarian Foods and Gift Shop. The store opened on July 18 at 4118 North Western Avenue. It is close to hospitals, schools and not far from Seventh-day Adventist churches.

Featured at the shop are a wide variety of health foods, fine hand-crafted gifts, original paintings by Andy, and Christian literature.

Andy opened his shop because he wants people to be educated in health reform. He also believes that Adventists need to be spiritually, mentally and physically fit to survive the impending crisis which will come sooner than most people expect.

This statement from Ellen White is his motto: "God desires His people to prepare for the soon coming crisis. Prepared or unprepared, they must all meet it. And those only who have brought their lives into conformity to the Divine Standard, will stand firm at that time of test and trial."—Acts of the Apostles, pp. 431-432.

"In my store," says Andy, "people can purchase books like those sold by literature evangelists. We should have these books in our homes—and not only own them, but read them."

Special Services Offers Hope

by Larry Yeagley

If you were an employee of the special services department of Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital you would meet scores of happy, satisfied former patients in stores, shopping centers and on the sidewalks of the city.

The special services department began as an alcoholism program on February 1, 1965, with one patient.

Larry Yeagley is chaplain of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital.

Thomas K. Williams, Ed.D., originated the program and serves as its director. Special services helps about 500 patients each year. The staff consists of six professional therapists, a program coordinator and a secretary. They are assisted by clergy, Alcoholics Anonymous and the local Alcohol Abuse Center.

Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital has kept pace with standards set by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals for treating people with drug-related problems.

The special services staff has expanded services to treat adolescents with problems of substance abuse other than alcohol.

A marriage and family-life program is being developed. Group, individual and family therapy are available now.

A women's therapy workshop is conducted by female therapists. It is designed to help women solve their problems and gain self-confidence. Topics include communication, sexuality, child rearing, decision making, budget management, vocational needs and leisure-time pursuits.

Patients admitted to the programs receive direct therapeutic service from the professional staff and are under the supervision of their personal physician.

Programs are structured in a way that permit former patients to continue participating. Aftercare is built into the treatment plan.

While the program has helped people from 26 states and Canada, 90 percent of the patients live within 30 miles of the hospital.

People suffer a great deal as the result of substance abuse. Meeting their needs is a challenge to the staff. People who come to special services gain hope and many feel that they were providentially led to the "San."

The program is flexible and meets the changing needs of a self-destructing society. Begun 15 years ago by the hospital chaplain, the program still recognizes the need for God's strength in overcoming life-destroying habits.

A patient recently held up his Bible and a copy of Steps to Christ and said, "This is what got me through."

Dean Wilder and Robert Hale will be featured during Andrews' Concert-Picture Series.

ANDREWS ANNOUNCES CONCERT CULTURAL SERIES

Concert pianists, Chinese acrobats, travel films, university musical organizations and noted lecturers will be brought to Andrews students this school year through the Concert-Picture and Chamber Music Series.

CBS news correspondent Charles Kuralt will present "America Behind the Headlines," February 7, 1980, during a student assembly in Johnson Auditorium. Mr. Kuralt is well-known for his "On the Road" series, which began in 1967.

Earlier in the school year, the physician who has designed physical fitness programs for many schools, football teams and the armed forces, Dr. Kenneth Cooper, will outline his noted "aerobics" exercise program.

Two distinctive programs, the Walt Disney film classic "Bambi," and the Chinese Acrobats of Taiwan will be presented during October. The Chinese Acrobats perform such acts as tumbling, juggling, balancing and magic.

Among November's attractions are the Hadden Duo Piano Team and the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago. In December, the Andrews University music department will present its annual Christmas program.

Students returning to school after Christmas break will hear Robert Hale and Dean Wilder in sacred concert. A sacred concert in march will feature the Wheaton College Choir.

The Russian folk group Odessa Balalaikas will perform February 23, featuring the authentic music and dress of Russian peasants and gypsies.

The Chamber Music Series consists of performances by the Taylor String Quartet; the Verdehr Trio; Adrian Bryttan, violinist; Nikolai Messenkoff, bass, and the Chicago Saxophone Quartet.

Most Concert-Picture Series programs will be held in the Alvin Johnson Auditorium on Saturday evenings, with the majority of Chamber Music programs in the Little Auditorium of Nethery Hall.

CLEANSING THE SANCTUARY

A workman is shown sandblasting the stonework on the Pioneer Memorial Church on the campus of Andrews University. Mid-Central Waterproofing Co. contracted to clean and waterproof the outside of the church. After the sandblasting is completed, workmen will fill in cracks and spray on a sealing coat for weatherproofing. The cleaning is part of a $100,000 restoration project.

ANDREWS STUDENTS TO ASSIST WITH JAMBOREE DAY

A volunteer group of music and physical education majors from

Andrews University will be assisting instructors in teaching choir, band, gymnastics and physical fitness to seventh- and eighth-graders on Jamboree Day, October 18.

Planned to emphasize the International Year of the Child, as designated by the General Assembly of the United Nations, the event will feature all-day clinics for the junior high students on the university campus.

More than 200 seventh- and eighth-graders from Berrien County public schools will be selected to form an 80-voice choir, 80-piece band and 80-member team of gymnasts and athletes. A performance by the young people for the general public will take place in the Johnson Gym at 7:30 P.M.

S.D.A. HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATORS MEET AT HINSDALE

HINSDALE—Approximately 80 hospital administrators from throughout the North American Division attended the Seventh-day Adventist Hospital Association's annual meeting, August 24 to 26, at Hinsdale Hospital.

This professional organization, under the direction of immediate past president, Marlowe Schaffner, M.D., met in conjunction with the American Hospital Association convention in Chicago.

In addition to a business session and various presentations related to hospital administration, were special Sabbath programs. Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, Andrews University president, spoke for Friday night vespers; and Samuel DeShay, M.D., director of the General Conference Department of Health, addressed the Hinsdale Seventh-day Adventist Church at the 11 o'clock service.

A panel discussion in the afternoon considered Sabbath work ethics and the special responsibilities a Seventh-day Adventist hospital has to witness.

President elect of the Seventh-day Adventist Hospital Association is T. Henry Scoggins, administrator of Hackettstown Community Hospital, Hackettstown, New Jersey.

OTTAWA AND SHERIDAN CHURCHES

Vacation Bible Schools were held during the month of August at the

Ottawa and Sheridan churches.

More than 75 happy children attended the Vacation Bible Schools for 10 days. The theme, "Blueprint for a Happy Life," provided many practical lessons from the Word of God on building Christian character.

Alma Fahey was the Vacation Bible School director in Ottawa, and Esther Foreman directed the school in Sheridan.

Janell Bradford, a student from Andrews University, assisted in both the Vacation Bible Schools.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS RESULT IN 15 BAPTISMS

Fifteen people were baptized and have joined the Ottawa and Sheridan churches as a result of the prophecy lectures that were conducted by Pastor Doug Higgins, a member of Cress-Higgins evangelistic team. The lectures were presented in the Ottawa Church June 17 to July 28. More than 75 people attended the meetings.

ANNUAL SHOE GIVE-AWAY AT QUINCY

The fifth annual shoe give-away was held at the Quincy Community Center, Tuesday, August 14. Approximately 1,200 pairs of shoes were displayed in the basement of the center. About 160 visitors took 562 pairs of shoes. Hazel Wright, left, Bessie Ricca and Elsie Wiemerslage, Dorcas leader, were in charge of the give-away.

V.B.S. HELD AT COLLINSVILLE

The Collinsville Church held its Vacation Bible School August 6 to '17. Mary Dupree, a junior at Andrews University, was the director. Forty-two children registered. Many of the children who enrolled are planning to attend Sabbath School.

GLENDALE OFFERS CLASSES IN BASIC LIFE SUPPORT TECHNIQUES

In order to extend the outreach of its witness into the community, the Glendale Church conducted a nine-hour training course in basic life-support techniques.

Beth Schmidt, a Glendale church member, taught basic life support techniques.

The course included cardiopulmonary resuscitation for adults and infants, and first-aid procedures for choking victims. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (C.P.R.) provides artificial circulation and respiration to a person whose heart and lungs have stopped functioning.

Two class sessions of four and one-half hours each were conducted on July 15 and July 22 in the lower auditorium of the church. Classes were coordinated and taught by Beth Schmidt, a Glendale church member. She was assisted by Steve Blackburn of Brownsburg Church.

Beth is an assistant professor of the School of Nursing at Indiana University. She is certified by both the American Red Cross and the American Heart Association for instruction in basic life support techniques.

Steve is a respiratory therapist at Indiana University Hospital and is a certified instructor in basic life support techniques.

Lecture, discussion, visual aids and peer practice were the teaching methods used. Manikins (adult and infant) and handout materials were supplied by the American Red Cross.

Martha Dalton, Arlind Hackett, Cecelia Salas Bastos, Karen Sjoln and Inez S. Van Meter satisfactorily completed the training and were officially certified by the American Red Cross.

Any group wanting to conduct a similar program should contact their local American Red Cross or American Heart Association.

PAOLI CHURCH AIDS FLOOD VICTIMS

During the last week of July, torrential rains flooded southern Indiana. Crawford County was one of the hardest hit areas.

Don Kellogg, pastor of the Paoli District, arranged to have the disaster van come from Indianapolis. He and members of the Paoli Church staffed the van for five days. More than 150 families—about 400 people—received bedding, personal care kits and complete clothing packets. Approximately $15,000 worth of supplies were given away.

When supplies were depleted and needs were not met, Pastor Kellogg discussed the problem with Dave Blaich, a store manager in Paoli, and he helped replenish the stock from his store's inventory.

Paoli church members aid flood victims.

Another little town, Marengo, also suffered extensive flood damage. Many residents from that community came to the disaster van for help.

A number of Paoli church members assisted in cleanup work in businesses and homes in English. Young people washed dishes in the emergency kitchen set up at a school.

When Lieutenant Governor Robert Orr inspected the flooded area he praised the work of Seventh-day Adventists.

Those staffing the van were: Esther Flick, Lillian Warren, Mrs. Jim Hall, Nellie Free, Mrs. Don Kellogg, Sheri Hall and several young people from the church.

Elder Lester Rilea baptized Shelley Wright at Camp Au Sable.

TEENAGER IS BAPTIZED AS A RESULT OF CAMP MINISTRY

Shelley Wright, a sixteen-year-old high school student at Grayling, was baptized Sabbath, July 14 in Lake Shellenbarger, Camp Au Sable, by Elder Lester Rilea, Michigan Conference youth director.

She became the first "Graylingite" to join the church as a result of the ministry of Camp Au

Sable, located just outside of town.

The entire group of teen campers witnessed the inspiring service, and a number of teenagers made their decisions for baptism.

Shelley's first contact with the camp came because of her father's interest in fishing. Ken Wright was happy to learn from Jess Nephew, camp manager, that fishermen were welcome on the lake at various times during the year when they would not conflict with the camp programs.

He also assured Mr. Wright that his children would be welcome at summer camp.

It was while attending her first teen camp three summers ago that Shelley began her love affair with Camp Au Sable. During the rest of the summer she came out to the camp from her nearby Au Sable river-front home whenever she could. She particularly enjoyed helping out during the camp for the blind.

Soon after the camping season was over, Shelley began attending the Grayling Church on Sabbath. During the next two years, she helped in the children's Sabbath School division, Vacation Bible School and Pathfinders.

When evangelist Robert Collar came to Grayling for a series of evangelistic meetings this past spring, Shelley attended regularly and made her decision to be baptized. Camp Au Sable's staff members were pleased that they had a part in her conversion.

Shelley became the 34th member of the Grayling Church. The church's membership has nearly tripled since it was officially organized with 12 members in April 1977.

Shelley's prayers were answered when she was accepted as a member of the Camp Au Sable staff and when she was able to attend camp meeting this past summer.

HOLLAND MEMBERS SUPPORT INVESTMENT

Sabbath School Investment promotion is drawing to a close for this year, and word of successful projects involving local churches is beginning to reach the conference office.

John W. Merrills, Investment

secretary of the Holland Church says he is very proud of the fine way church members work on their various projects. For the past two years Holland Sabbath School members averaged about $14 per member or a total of $2,400 for Investment. This year their goal is $3,000.

One man had some mechanical supplies he had been trying to sell without success. He made the supplies his Investment project, sold them, and turned in $150! Another member expects to have about the same amount from the sale of scrap metal.

A church member who had five rows of raspberries that were not doing well turned them over to the Lord. Reports indicate at least $125 for Investment as a result.

Most of the Sabbath School members are supporting the Investment projects of the church, Mr. Merrills says, and he adds that the church members are thankful for the way the Lord has blessed.

FAIR DISPLAY IN JACKSON WINS AWARD

State, county and local fairs are numerous in Michigan during the month of August. Many area churches participate in this fair booth evangelism. In Jackson, as in other areas, school children have the opportunity to display their work. Three classes of the Jackson Church School and three divisions of the Sabbath School took advantage of this opportunity to prepare displays. This one by members of the junior department took a second-place prize which was worth $27.50 in cash. A total of four second places and one third place was achieved for a total of $135.

BAPTISM IS RESULT OF IT IS WRITTEN SEMINAR

As a ten-year-old, Laura Luchenbill had attended the Holly Sabbath School with Mrs. Cynthia Rendell, a local member. As she grew older, she lost contact with the church group. A newspaper ad about the It Is Written seminar caught her eye, and she attended with her husband, Raymond. As Elder Earl Zager studied the Bible with Laura, she made a decision for Christ. Witnessing her baptism were Laura's mother, Mrs. Velna Herrick of Owosso, left, her husband, right, and their two children, Jennifer and Raymond Jr.

ANDREWS STUDENTS EARN SCHOLARSHIPS FOR SUMMER WORK

Four students from Andrews University have spent the summer assisting the conference Sabbath School department. They will receive scholarships for their work.

elementary education major at Andrews.

Kathy says, "I love kids. It's really fun to watch them respond."

Kathy tells of one experience at Sault Ste. Marie where she tried to summarize the whole week's character building lessons in 20 minutes for the V.B.S. graduation exercise.

She felt she hadn't done well but was more than rewarded when she overheard a mother say to her husband, "We really ought to find a church and start taking the kids."

Sophomore Jean Decker of Fremont is majoring in social work. When asked to tell about an outstanding experience of the past few weeks, she could only smile and say, "It's all been outstanding. It's been a wonderful summer."

Terri Merrifield, from the Plymouth Church, is also a sophomore but studying elementary education. She told of one V.B.S. program where many of the children attended without having had breakfast.

"We gave them peanut butter sandwiches and loved them," she said. One little girl came to her afterward and said, "I wish you were my mommy." The child has no mother.

How did these girls get these opportunities? Jean did because Kathy told her about the program.

Clyde Groomer of the Conference Sabbath School department got word of her interest, visited her and checked out her qualifications.

Elder Groomer says he looks for musical and leadership ability shown by past experience in Sabbath Schools, story hours or other work with children.

All four girls are bubbling with enthusiasm about their summer's experience, yet Elder Groomer reports that it is hard to find young people to fill these needs.

If you would like to apply for next summer's program, write now to the conference Sabbath School department.

Pastor Corbin Pitman conducted the service.

● Jean Reinhardt of the Sheboygan Church has accepted a teaching position at St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. She will teach government and work in the library at the Seventh-day Adventist academy there.

● A dedication service was recently held for Albin Rucinski, elder, and Clem Vrandenburg, deacon, at the Wisconsin Rapids Church. Stephen Shipowick, pastor of the church, presided.

● The Eau Claire district members have added a ninth grade to their church school which is located in Altoona, Wisconsin. The school has two classrooms and a gymnasium. District church members gathered August 19 for a work bee to prepare the school for opening on August 27. Roland Miller will be teacher for grades seven to nine, and Myrna Clark, with the help of her husband, Loren, will teach grades one to six.

● The Milwaukee Northwest Church enjoyed a corn roast and hayride recently. A group of 45 people gathered at the Ray Schroeckenthaler home where a vesper program was conducted by Pastor Don Giarrusso.

CAMP MEETING IN PRIMARYLAND

About 60 children of primary age attended the Wisconsin Camp Meeting from July 26 through August 4, with nearly twice as many in attendance during the two weekends.

With the theme, "Footprints to Follow," the children enjoyed worship, stories, songs, nature studies, campfire, recreation, and tours of the academy dairy and Harris Pine Mills.

The high point of those activities was story time because Elder and Mrs. A. L. Davy were the main storytellers.

The Davys spent 27 years as missionaries in central Africa. From 1966 to 1978 Elder Arthur Davy served as a pastor in the Oregon Conference. He is now retired and residing in White Salmon, Washington.

Yvonne Davy is the Author of several books. Her latest, Under His Wings, will be available this fall, and may include some of the stories the children heard at camp meeting. Mrs. Davy is also the author of "Champion of Liberty," a continued story now appearing in the Guide.

Mrs. Davy kept the children on the edge of their seats as she told stories about Africa.

The leaders of the primary division, Pastors Jim Morris and Jim Fox, expressed their thanks to the Davys for the stories, to Deirdre Johnson for providing the crafts, and to all teachers, storytellers and others who helped with the program.

ORDINATION AT WISCONSIN CAMP MEETING

"In a very real sense, the wife of a pastor is ordained along with her husband," said Wisconsin Conference President Robert Dale at the ordination service held at Wisconsin Academy on July 27 during camp meeting.

Jim and Ilona Redfield and Ken and Debbie Wade were presented to the congregation by Elder Dale and conference stewardship director Mart Mooers before the two pastors were ordained in a special prayer led by ministerial secretary, Wesley Jaster. The ordination charge was presented by Lake Union President, Lowell Bock.

Ken Wade, born on the coast of Oregon and educated at Walla Walla College and Andrews University's Theological Seminary, came to his present pastorate in the Fort Atkinson district in August 1976 after a Madison internship.

Jim Redfield, presently serving in the Merrill district, also interned in Wisconsin at Janesville and is a graduate of Pacific Union College and the Theological Seminary.

The Redfields have three children; the Wades, two. Close relatives of both families traveled to Wisconsin from the West Coast to be with them for the once-in-a-lifetime occasion.

Special guest speaker for the ordination was Dr. Edward Heppenstall, evening camp meeting speaker. His theme was "Preaching Christ."

activities and the blessings God has given for success in His work.

There is need to publish honors our young people earned by their faithfulness and that of their consecrated leaders. Without recognition they tend to drift out the back door of the church.

Our faithful workers and laymen study with interested people and God blesses with baptisms—this is a real inspiration for the rest of us to do more.

Officers and workers in the union need this paper for important announcements for all of us.

For help as a Laodicean Church every member should also read the Adventist Review.

Don't change the Lake Union Herald.
Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Webber

I was surprised and saddened to read the letter from Larry Pahl in the July 17 Lake Union Herald. I assume Mr. Pahl realizes that the Herald is composed of numerous articles contributed by members. One of its purposes is that of a newsletter. If such articles are self-promoting and congratulatory, it is not the fault of the editorial staff.

How the Herald can be described as "dry" is beyond me. Its historical features, human interest stories, accounts of evangelism and home missionary work, varied news reports and earnest editorials have appeal for individual interests.

Editors have to have tough skins, I know, but they also deserve some appreciation.

I would like to comment on the cover photo of a dog on last week's Herald [August 14, No. 28]. Too many people today have God spelled backward—dog instead of God. They are spending more on their pets than they give for God's work. I believe in the doctrines of our church, but when I go to church and see people parading around in new clothes and expensive hairdos, I get disgusted and have no desire to give a liberal contribution. I have seen too much in my 81 years to want to give to Judas.

Lake Union Conference

Last year someone who was Ingathering invited Brenda Bryson to church. Brenda is now a baptized member in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

LET GOD USE YOU

A year ago Brenda Bryson of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, had never attended a Seventh-day Adventist church service and knew very little about the Adventist Church.

During the Ingathering crusade, Brenda was invited to make a contribution. She also received an invitation to attend the Milwaukee Central Sabbath School Guest Day.

Brenda and her friend joined 58 other guests at the special services and fellowship dinner.

Recently Brenda wrote: "Visitors Day was in October. I was baptized on December 16, 1978, in the Milwaukee Central Church. By April 1979, I was conducting four Bible study groups. Praise the Lord! I enjoy witnessing for the Lord and I get very excited when I have the opportunity. In June I became a full-time literature evangelist and I love it.

"The Lord has given me a peace and happiness that I have never experienced before. I thank the Lord for my new life."

There are many other people in the Lake Union who have joined God's family because someone cared enough to share with them the Good News.

There are thousands of people in the Lake Union who want a better way of life. Are you willing to let God use you during the Ingathering crusade to share with others the message of God's love?

The General Conference has prepared guidelines for organizing an Ingathering crusade and a slide/cassette program entitled "How to Ingather."

The Ingathering magazine explains the worldwide work of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Last year 26,000 people requested the Bible course offered in the magazine.

There are three main reasons for Ingathering: To find and lead people to Christ, to distribute Adventist literature and to raise funds for the church's worldwide work.

During the past 71 years thousands whose first contact was through Ingathering have joined the church. Each year nearly 17 million pieces of literature are given away.

More than $300 million has been contributed through Ingathering for medical, educational, community services and evangelistic projects around the world.

The Ingathering goal for North America is $10 million—an increase of $138,000 over last year.

This year make every call a contact for Christ. Invite people to enroll in the free Bible course offered in the magazine. Pray with people and invite them to study God's Word. People will be led to Christ and funds will be raised.

Pray about Ingathering and participate in this soulwinning adventure.

ADVENTIST HAS STORY IN READER'S DIGEST

You probably didn't know, but when you picked up your July Reader's Digest and read that lead story, "Sing for Me," you were edified by a Seventh-day Adventist author.

Arthur A. Milward is becoming an increasingly familiar byline, as well it should. For Art is using his gift with words, begun when "I was a kid who inflicted my writing on my sister," to recall events happening around him.

Perhaps it was inspiration from the countryside and the heritage of English authors, for Art was born and reared in Derbyshire in north England. Fascinated by words from those early years when he learned to read at the age of four, he wrote only true stories. "I didn't have time to dabble in fiction," he says.

"Sing for Me" is the first article submitted and accepted by the Digest, but it may well not be the last. He's been invited to submit more material, and this despite the fact the he was able to include the Biblical view of death when he wrote that all but one of the children in that ward are now "sleeping." Digest editors left in that line when he suggested that they leave out the entire paragraph if they felt they could not release his view of death. (He didn't want them reporting that the children had all gone to heaven, you see.)

Church youth have read his byline many times in Insight. He also writes for other religion journals.
