COVER

One recent change in the nursing field is the lack of nurses to meet many hospital needs. (See the article on page 6.) Pictured on the cover is Alane Hinkle, nurse recruiter for Hinsdale Hospital, as she orients Lorna Agboka, R.N., to her new duties.

TEAMWORK is required to meet the health-care needs within the Lake Union. Each health team that serves the hospitals, physician/dental clinics, and nursing homes of the Great Lakes Adventist Health Services requires the coordinated efforts of people with diverse skills.

The concept of the health team, however, extends beyond GLAHS affiliated institutions to include other health-care and service organizations, churches, businesses, industries and government agencies.

As part of this expanded team, GLAHS works to assess a community's health-care needs and determine the best ways to meet them. New services, programs, or facilities may be needed. Changes may be required in existing ones. The system must be flexible to conform to the unique needs of each community.

It would be easy to stop here, placing the entire responsibility for the union's community health outreach on these institutions. Realistically, however, success in meeting community needs depends to a great extent on the responsiveness of people who make up the community. The teamwork of the health ministry is not limited to hospitals, clinics and nursing homes; it includes everyone. Each church member, whether a part of the organized health team as a nurse, dentist, health educator, physician, secretary or housekeeper, has an individual responsibility to community health. A portion of this issue of the Lake Union Herald is dedicated to the medical work of the Lake Union Conference.

As you read about this work you can share in the responsibility of the health-care professionals by being alert to new developments. Also, by following a life style that gives you a positive outlook on life, you are able to set a good example for others to follow.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

The Nursing Crisis

by Keith Lundquist

AN unsettling revolution within hospitals and other health-care facilities in this country is sweeping more and more nurses off nursing floors and away from the more traditional roles within these institutions. What can Seventh-day Adventist health-care institutions within the Lake Union do about the shortage of nurses?

Although the severity of the nursing shortage varies from one institution to the next, GLAHS facilities are apparently not immune to this shortage. "I am alarmed at the nurse shortage," says Esther Oldham, director of nurses at Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital. "I am not sure where they are going."

"There are not enough people entering nursing today that want to stay by hospital nursing," says Grace Scheresky, vice president for nursing at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. "Yet nurses often spend the greatest amount of time with patients and are a prime influencing factor to that person."

Miss Oldham feels that nurses can act as agents to effect life-style changes such as dietary, coping with stresses, and other health-related factors. In addition, nurses often have the most direct opportunities to meet the spiritual needs of the patients.

Perhaps in this way Adventist-operated institutions are better able to attract quality professionals because of the unique hospital and nursing philosophy. The goal of nursing care at Hinsdale Hospital is to help people through the stressful experience of illness to find a way of life as nearly whole as is possible for them.

"I feel we have something more to offer patients and staff than other similar nursing homes," says John Conway, director of nursing at Mineral Point, an 89-bed nursing home in Wisconsin. "A Christian-owned organization encourages its employees to identify and meet the spiritual needs of its patients."

This type of philosophy does appeal to many Christian nurses who might not otherwise be attracted to a particular institution. "Because a patient is considered real and important the nurse is able to inject an element of personal interest and concern into her care," says Miss Oldham. "Our patients and others who associate with the hospital often tell us that we have a more personal concern for the patient here at Battle Creek."

Because of this opportunity to integrate the nurse's own personal beliefs within work responsibilities, the job can be more fulfilling to the employee. "In nursing personnel orientation we emphasize identifying and finding ways to meet the spiritual needs of the residents and their families," says Mr. Conway. "We feel good about putting in extra work for a Christian organization."

Specific efforts are made at all GLAHS institutions to reinforce these extra efforts by consciously being aware of the individual needs of each nurse and attempting to meet these needs. This awareness may take an educational slant with provisions made for an L.P.N. or a two-year nurse to upgrade her degree to an associate degree or a four-year registered nurse degree. At Hinsdale Hospital and Battle Creek Hospital several nurses have already taken advantage of this option. Classes held on the Hinsdale campus through Andrews University allow a nurse to receive a baccalaureate degree with qualifications.

More flexibility in scheduling, a listening ear, and support when needed lend to a more satisfying nursing position. Expanding the continuing education programs at Battle Creek Hospital is just one example of how Battle Creek Hospital has intensified and strengthened some of these areas.

To attract new nurses to the hospital, a full-time nurse recruiter was recently hired by Hinsdale in 1979 to initiate and follow up contacts with prospective nurses.

Has the Florence Nightingale image been tarnished? No one knows for sure, but Adventist health facilities in the Lake Union feel that a unique nursing philosophy has made nursing more attractive at their institutions.

Family Practitioners

by Donna Willard

Donald Prouty, M.D.

Bruce Lee Jr., M.D.

THE Family Practice Residency at Hinsdale Hospital was initiated in January 1976 in response to the national and local need for more family-oriented physicians. Among its goals is that of reinforcing the "whole-person" concept in medicine whereby the patient is viewed and treated as a biological, social and spiritual being.

Through the residency program, therefore, the hospital is not only channeling more physicians into family medicine, but is ensuring that these physicians are equipped to provide total care.

The impact of the residency program upon the Lake Union is particularly strong because many graduates opt to set up practice within the four-state region.

Among these are Bruce Lee Jr. and Donald Prouty who completed their residencies in July 1979 and are now practicing in Michigan; Rick Hill and John Hoch, who graduated in December 1978, joined Family Practice Associates in Hinsdale, and Brian Bruckner, who finished in August 1978, joined a group practice in Joliet, Illinois.

A rural community and a hospital in need of Adventist physicians convinced Dr. Prouty to begin a solo practice in Blanchard, Michigan, 12 miles from Tri-County Community Hospital in Edmore.

Reminiscent of the general practitioner of bygone days, Dr. Prouty gives needed health care to a small, quiet community, making house calls on occasion to isolated farmhouses and traveling over miles of dirt roads to visit patients in the community hospital.

"I feel that the spiritual aspect of our lives plays a part in everything we do," says Dr. Prouty.

A concern for the whole person prompts advice in line with the health counsel of the church, influences the atmosphere and scope of community health-education classes, and enables a physician to build upon the existing spiritual strengths that a patient has.

Dr. Lee, who has joined a group practice in Ithaca, Michigan, sees 30 or more patients per day. "I try to remind the patients of a Supreme Being who designed them and wants them to be happy and healthy," says Dr. Lee.

Beyond his practice, Lee serves as the physician for health services at the college in nearby Alma, participates in numerous health-education programs, and fills a variety of posts in the local Seventh-day Adventist Church.

"A physician has the obligation, not just the opportunity, to help patients beyond their physical needs," says Dr. Lee. "We can tell them to stop smoking, exercise regularly and eat right, but that's not enough. We see patients when they're vulnerable, often suffering extreme stress or guilt. Though this is not the time for a sermon, we can put God in perspective."

The mission of the residency program is finding expression through the practices of these Christian doctors. Although the impact of their skills upon the quality of health care is being felt immediately, the effect their services have upon the lives of many people cannot now be measured.

Alcoholism Unit Opens

by Steve Guthrie

MORE than 100 people attended the open house of the alcoholism rehabilitation services on February 14 at Tri-County Community Hospital, an affiliate of Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, when Michigan State Congressman Gary L. Randall cut the ribbon.

Dan Richardson, program director of alcoholism rehabilitation services; Don Prouty, M.D., medical director of the program, and staff members Steve Guthrie and Laura Ferneyhough talked with visitors, who also toured the newly remodeled facility and viewed the film, "Father Martin's Guidelines."

The new service is the only inpatient alcoholism treatment facility within a 60-mile radius of Edmore.

Steve Guthrie is a counselor for Tri-County Hospital's alcoholism rehabilitation services in Edmore, Michigan.

Patterned after a similar service at Hinsdale Hospital, the 10-bed treatment unit is also the only residential model alcoholism-treatment facility located in an acute-care hospital.

This allows Tri-County Community Hospital Alcoholism Services to combine the low cost of residential treatment with the advantages of available emergency medical care and close medical supervision throughout the treatment program.

The treatment offered for alcoholism is multifaceted. Lectures, films, and selected reading assignments acquaint the residents with the characteristics of the "disease of alcoholism."

The heart of the treatment process is group therapy designed to break through the defense built by the alcoholic to deal with the effects of his addiction.

Through the support and experience of other recovering alcoholics, each individual confronts the reality of alcohol's effect on his life and the lives of his family and friends. In the recognition of reality lies the beginning of recovery.

Treatment further affords the patient an opportunity to acquire and practice the skills needed for sobriety in the safe setting of the treatment facility. One-to-one counseling, relaxation therapy and exercise classes all contribute to recovery.

Because recovery is a process extending beyond the approximately 28 days of treatment, residents are encouraged to participate actively in Alcoholics Anonymous during and after their treatment program. Family members are referred to Alanon, Alateen, and to other family services as needed.

Since the opening of the Alcoholism Rehabilitation Services at Tri-County Community Hospital, eight residents have entered the program. Pictured is Michigan Congressman Gary L. Randall, who was present for the opening ceremonies.

Health Care at Home

by Judith I. Storfjell

THEY must have been angels!" the elderly woman declared with certainty when the community health nurse told her she had come after receiving a telephone call from someone who identified herself as a "friend."

"Two people knocked on my apartment door several days ago," the woman continued. "They said they had heard I was ill and told me they would give my name to a new agency that could help me. I have been waiting for you to come so I could find out who they were!"

The 79-year-old widow was recovering from a stroke and lived alone. She could move only with great difficulty.

The nurse from Health Care at Home (H.C.A.H.) arranged to have a homemaker visit her twice a week to help with housecleaning, meal preparation and bathing. Later she also arranged for physical therapy treatments in the home. The woman's progress has been remarkable.

Ellen White has counseled: "In almost every community there are large numbers who do not listen to the preaching of God's word or attend any religious service. If they are reached by the gospel, it must be carried to the homes. Often the relief of their physical needs is the only avenue by which they can be approached. Missionary nurses who care for the sick . . . will find many opportunities to pray with them, to read to them from God's word, and to speak to them of the Saviour."—The Ministry of Healing, p. 144.

With this in mind, H.C.A.H. was established in Berrien County, Michigan, in the spring of 1979.

Its staff provides family-centered services on a part-time basis to ill or

Each Health Care at Home nurse offers medical support and encouragement, as well as spiritual comfort, to meet the total needs of each person.

disabled people who can be maintained or rehabilitated in their home.

Various staff members are welcomed into homes, working with the total family in their own environment. They can provide a smooth transition between the institution and the home, and become a liason with other resources in the community.

The influence of a nurse, therapist, or aide may go well beyond the immediate family into the community, if resources are mobilized and contacts made to maximize the client's ability for independent functioning.

There are many individuals who are discharged from a hospital or nursing home who need assistance in transferring what they have been taught to the home setting.

Others require skilled observation or treatment on a daily or intermittent basis, and can be cared for in the familiar environment of their home.

In addition, there are those who can stay at home if they only have someone to check on them periodically, fix their meals, help with housework or give some personal care.

Success is measured in many ways. Rehabilitation is the goal of many clients. However, learning how to manage and cope with numerous problems and utilizing resources appropriately are also successes.

For those with terminal illness wishing to remain at home, a "good death" may indeed be the goal. In all of these situations, clients and families need support and encouragement.

It is during these periods of need that they reach out for spiritual as well as physical comfort. While caring for clients and helping them cope, the H.C.A.H. staff demonstrates Christ's love. In this way, Christ's love is taken out of the abstract and made concrete.

The Choice Is Yours

by Marietta Deming

MANY years ago this counsel was given: "Pure air, sunlight, abstemiousness, rest, exercise, proper diet, the use of water, trust in divine power—these are the true remedies."—The Ministry of Healing, p. 127.

Today more and more studies are demonstrating the truth of this statement. It has become generally accepted that common habits such as regular meals, the number of hours of sleep, physical exercise, cigarette smoking and alcohol consumption affect health, but there has been very little scientific evidence to confirm this.

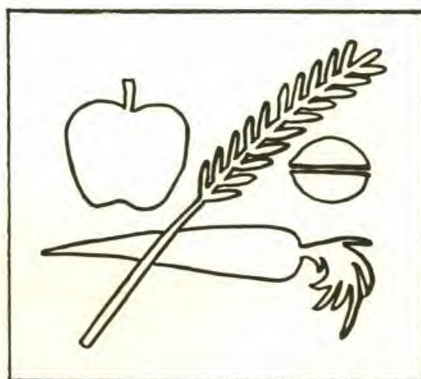

However, a recent study in California has changed this picture. The health habits of nearly 7,000 Californians were studied for 5½ years to determine their effect on the individual's physical health. The study showed that men who followed six or seven of the above mentioned "remedies" had a life expectancy as much as 11 years longer than those who followed fewer than four.

Here are some of the things you can do to be healthier and perhaps prolong your life.

Sleep Seven to eight hours sleep are needed each day. Those who sleep significantly more or less are less healthy. "The importance of regularity in the time for eating and sleeping should not be overlooked."—Education, p. 205.

Eating A regular breakfast is an important factor in good health. Added to this is not eating between meals. This study showed better health in those who ate no more than three times a day. "Regularity in eating should be carefully observed. Nothing should be eaten between meals, no confectionary, nuts, fruits, or food of any kind."—Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 180.

Weight There is a close relationship between overweight and poor health. Those in the best health were within 10 percent of their normal weight.

Physical Activity This study showed that people who participate in activity of any type have better physical health than those who are inactive. "Those whose habits are sedentary should, when the weather permits, exercise in the open air every day, summer or winter.... Such exercise would in many cases be better for the health than medicine."—The Ministry of Healing, p. 240.

The last two health habits studied were smoking and alcohol consumption. Both were closely related to physical health. Less was better, with none the best course to pursue.

So there you have it: Adequate sleep, regular meals, near average weight, physical activity and avoidance of smoking and alcohol drinking are the components of a do-it-yourself health kit.

In the study, those who follow all seven good health habits are in better health throughout life than those who follow none or few of them.

Changing your life style to adopt good health habits can only benefit you, regardless of the age at which you make the changes.

Dr. Lester Breslow, the leading investigator in this study states, "It appears that, within certain biological limits, each individual can determine his own risk of death." So the choice is yours.

Marietta Deming is patient education coordinator at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

In June 1979 an exciting milestone was reached in Inter-America: 25 young people graduated from the Montemorelos University School of Medicine in Montemorelos, Mexico.

The School of Medicine draws students from 33 countries around the world. However, most of them come from the Inter-American Division and from Mexico itself.

Sixteen percent of the students do not belong to the Adventist Church.

Montemorelos received university status on May 5, 1973, after operating as a small coeducational preparatory school for 49 years, 37 years on the present piece of property.

This change of status permitted the school to offer advanced degrees in medicine and theology and 12 other specialty fields of the educational sciences. The university was also granted permission to begin a School of Dentistry.

Of all degrees permitted, the one which has generated the most interest has been that of medicine. To conceive the vision, appoint officers, write aims and purposes, collect faculty, and produce the complete medical program has been a challenge.

Today Montemorelos' campus has been transformed from the two-teacher school of the 1930's and 40's to a modern campus with a multi-million-dollar building program.

Development has top priority at the fledgling university.

Mario Collins is working with students, university personnel, and Mexican foundations and business concerns to develop interest in the school's aggressive capital improvement plan.

The Seventh-day Adventist Church is also assisting in the development program.

The first phase of the next six-year development program calls for finishing and equipping the new medical center, scheduled for completion this year.

We want the readers of the Herald to know that the Thirteenth Sabbath Overflow Offering on March 29, 1980, will help Montemorelos. There has been a promise of matching funds for all the funds the denomination can raise. Please give generously for Montemorelos University.

CAMPUS HIGHLIGHTS

● A series of lectures held each Wednesday during winter quarter dealt with ethical decisions of daily life. Included in the seminary chapel meetings were such topics as the ethics of love, tolerance and teaching. Moral decisions and value clarification were also discussed.

● Black History Week, held February 10 to 16, featured presentations by R. P. Stafford, pastor of the Linwood Boulevard Seventh-day Adventist Church in Kansas City, Missouri; Shelton Kilby III, music director for the Breath of Life telecast; Charles Upshaw, vice president for student affairs, and Dr. Norman Miles, associate professor of urban ministry at the seminary and sponsor of the week's events. ● "I Love WAUS Week," which concluded February 19, raised more than $33,000 for the station's operations, according to manager Allen Steele. He said the fund-raising effort received "Very broad support from many cities in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois." He added, "The support of our listeners is vital to our station. Almost half of the station's annual budget must be raised from outside sources."

● Twenty-eight Andrews Academy students have been inducted into the Alma L. Campbell Chapter of the National Honor Society, the largest group ever to join. New members are Darlene Cummings, Larry Brown, Barbara Gallay, Cindy Greenhaw, Gretchen Inocencio, Evangeline James, Margaret Johnston, Keri Eighme, Amy Pulido, Susan Greenhaw and Lisa Perock. Stella Greig, institute director, said the institute is primarily intended for international students who plan to take classes at Andrews.

● It was the women's turn to lead the way as members of the Andrews Girls' Club invited the boys to their annual dinner and reception on February 17. The third institute will be directed by Dr. Gottfried Oosterwal, professor of mission, by special arrangement at Loma Linda University in California, October 27 to December 6.

● The seminary is implementing a new field school program to better prepare seminary students for their ministry. Each student of the North American Division, after eight quarters of instruction at the seminary, will return to his sponsoring union for a quarter of field training. Although some students will be involved in field schools this summer, the program will actually begin next fall.

STUDENTS TAKE BREAK AT AU SABLE

Andrews' winter break took place from January 31 to February 3. Many of the students, such as Marek Jantos and his wife, Dana, spent the short vacation at Camp Au Sable in Grayling, Michigan, skiing, hiking, singing and going on evening hayrides.

Gwen Kossick, right, a 1977 graduate of Andrews' dietetics program, is the only dietitian at Unity Hospital in Buchanan, Michigan.

DIETETICS CURRICULUM OFFERS ADVANTAGES

Patricia Mutch, dietetics program director at Andrews University, has no problem helping her students locate career positions. In fact, when the personnel director of an East Coast hospital called her last month looking for a dietitian, she had to turn him down. "All of our graduates had already been placed," she explains simply.

What is it about Andrews' dietetics curriculum that gives the members of each graduating class the flexibility to fit into any of several job openings?

"Our generalist approach to the coordinated undergraduate program in dietetics is what does it," says Dr. Mutch. "We train our students to be prepared for entry-level jobs in several professional areas—food systems, management, patient care, or community nutrition education."

The generalist training featured at Andrews is the first dietetics program in Michigan to hold full accreditation status by the American Dietetic Association.

And the dietetic students at Andrews express a great deal of enthusiasm with their work. "When I first began, I wasn't sure what area of dietetics I was most interested in," comments one senior. "But the generalist approach helped me to decide."

"In a generalist program, you're being prepared to go on and become a specialist in many areas," comments another. "Right now my goals are to continue in administration, get my master's and work as a food service director. Later I hope to set up my own practice, counseling clients for weight management."

The generalist approach is a must, adds Dr. Mutch, for those planning to work in small hospitals or overseas. "About half of the hospital dietitians in Michigan practice alone or with one other person," she says. "That makes it pretty essential for the dietitian-in-training to pick up skills related to all aspects of the profession. In mission service, one must be prepared to handle anything."

And from "Demonstration Techniques" to "Food Systems Analysis," Andrews' courses are designed to meet the needs of today's dietitian.

Held on three campuses, Hinsdale, Illinois; Kettering, Ohio, and Berrien Springs, the curriculum offers unique insights into the profession. One class that many students term "extremely valuable" is "Interpersonal Skills in Dietetics."

"Very few programs put as much emphasis on developing good counseling techniques as we do," says Dr. Mutch. "But dietetics demands much more than knowing food charts. Much of it is relating to people, working with them on a day-to-day basis."

Several new areas of practice are opening up which require skills in both clinical dietetics and management, she goes on.

Consultant dietitians, for example, are needed since the government ruling that each patient in a skilled nursing-home facility must have his nutritional health monitored monthly. The growth of private practice among dietitians in America also calls for expertise in counseling.

The varied specialties in the field of dietetics generally represent salaried positions, with starting rates of $12,000 to $14,000 per year. The highest paying jobs are for experienced managers, with salaries in the mid- to upper twenties.

If you are interested in learning more about Andrews' unique professional training in dietetics, contact Dr. Patricia Mutch, Director, Coordinated Undergraduate Program in Dietetics; Andrews University; Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

An economizer designed to reclaim escaping combustion heat was recently installed in Hinsdale Hospital's power plant. This is one of the first units to be installed in the suburban area.

HOSPITAL SAVES DOLLARS WITH ECONOMIZER

HINSDALE—A recently installed waste-heat reclamation system in Hinsdale Hospital's powerhouse is expected to save a minimum of $20,000 per year.

Installed at the base of the smokestack, the economizer heats incoming boiler water an additional 100 degrees as it passes through a series of pipes warmed by escaping combustion heat.

Generated by the power plant, this heat would normally be lost through the stack. By preheating this water, which is used in generating steam for heating the hospital, the economizer reduces overall energy consumption.

At a cost of $16,000, the economizer will pay for itself within a year and a half. An installation bid of $45,000 was pared to $15,000 by having hospital plant operations personnel install it.

"The economizer is one of several steps the hospital is taking to cut energy consumption," says Marshall Lopez, hospital special projects engineer. "Projects planned for 1980 include an energy computer system, a waste-heat boiler and the installation of double-glazed windows."

A hospitalwide energy computer system designed to monitor and control the ventilation system, both heating and cooling, will cut energy consumption by enabling specific areas of the hospital to reduce heating and cooling when these areas are not in use.

A waste-heat boiler will recycle hospital-generated refuse, producing steam by burning trash in an incinerator.

This unit will save more than $15,000 a year alone by eliminating the need for an outside refuse pickup service.

Last November the hospital installed a reverse osmosis unit to treat and purify incoming water to the boiler, which in turn reduces operating expenses by more than $1,000 per month.

"The hospital's goal is to reduce energy consumption by 20 percent in 1980 and by an additional 10 percent during the next two years," says Mr. Lopez. During 1979 energy consumption was reduced 10 percent over 1978.

HEALTH FOUNDATION PROVIDES FUNDS FOR NEW EQUIPMENT

MID AMERICAN—In 1979 Mid American's River Pines Community Health Center, a 238-bed nursing home located in Stevens Point, Wisconsin, received a $2,260 donation from the Central Wisconsin Health Foundation.

With this donation, the facility was able to purchase four Gomco suction machines to replace machines that had long outlived their usefulness.

The Central Wisconsin Health Foundation is a nonprofit organization that provides money to various health-care institutions for the purchase of capital equipment. Its main source of revenue is memorial gifts and the Portage County United Way.

During the past three years River Pines has received more than $6,000 from the health foundation, and with this money, the facility has been able to purchase a Burdick electrocardiograph machine, a Nova I sodium/potassium analyzer, a water hydraulic bath tub lift, and the Gomco suction machines.

River Pines is grateful for the support of the Central Wisconsin Health Foundation. Their interest and concern have enabled the facility to upgrade its medical equipment which directly benefits the residents.

HOSPITAL INITIATES PRAYER BREAKFAST

HINSDALE—Monthly employee prayer breakfasts began February 28 at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. Coordinated by the department of pastoral care, these breakfasts will bring together representatives from all hospital departments during a period of four months.

To keep attendance close to 20 people per meeting, the hospital departments have been divided into four groups. Department heads and representatives from the various departments will be invited to attend one of the monthly meetings held the fourth Thursday of every month from 7 to 7:45 A.M.

A buffet breakfast will be provided for participants by the hospital. A special speaker will address the group after which 10 minutes will be allotted for prayers.

According to Willis Graves, chaplain, the purpose of these meetings is to enhance the spiritual health of every employee and to provide a forum where specific needs or problems facing the hospital can be addressed through prayer.

HINSDALE MED TECH HEADS LOCAL NPA

HINSDALE—Ben Burton, above, supervisor of specimen procurement, department of pathology at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, was recently elected president of the newly organized Chicago Chapter of the National Phlebotomy Association (N.P.A.). The N.P.A. was organized in 1968 for the purpose of developing a code of ethics for phlebotomists, setting standards and guidelines for members of the association, promoting phlebotomy as a profession, establishing an educational program and encouraging discussion of techniques and common problems of the profession through interaction with institutions. Sixteen Chicago area hospitals sent representatives to the local meeting. The chapter's goal is to gain the support of a majority of the more than 100 hospitals in the greater Chicago area.

DIAL SERVICE ATTRACTS RECORD NUMBER OF CALLERS

HINSDALE—During 1979 a record number of 57,543 people called Hinsdale Hospital's phone numbers which give prerecorded messages on such topics as smoking, nutrition, weight control and inspiration.

Callers learn about the numbers through newspaper ads or radio. Hosts of several radio programs, such as Wally Phillips of WGN-Chicago, occasionally refer to this service at Hinsdale Hospital, and give one or more of the numbers on the air.

People who attend classes at the hospital's health education center are given the numbers to call when they need some immediate encouragement or an added stimulus to continue in their new life style.

For example, Smoker's Dial, which elicited 26,118 calls last year, gives practical tips that will aid the new nonsmoker when he is tempted by his former habit.

Likewise, Slimline, which received 22,058 calls, gives individuals who have problems with weight control some advice about nutrition and diet.

In addition to the practical tips, the messages always refer callers to the number of the health education department at the hospital for further information.

According to Gerard McLane, health education director, people find the messages valuable, and they express their appreciation for them.

Although it is difficult to estimate the impact that this service has, Mr. McLane feels that the numbers testify to their success.

In addition to Slimline and Smoker's Dial, the hospital offers Inspiration and Nutrition Dials, which received 5,540 and 3,827 calls respectively.

The total number of calls in 1979 was up 8,046 from the 1978 total.

Numbers for these services are: Inspiration, (312) 654-8910; Nutrition, 654-8915; Slimline, 654-8905; Smoker's Dial, 654-8900.

• During February the Downers Grove Church celebrated an Ingathering victory banquet at the David Paulson gym. The church realized more than $500 over its regular goal. Also in February the church held a talent night program and arts and crafts exhibit at the gym. More than 25 members participated in the presentation.

• Through an invitation from the student body, Mark Fox, a Bible worker for the West Central Church, is holding an evangelistic series on the campus of Rosary College in River Forest. The Wednesday night series, which will continue for five weeks, deals with Bible prophecy.

4 PEOPLE BAPTIZED AT DANVILLE

Wayne Pleasants, left, is shown with four people who were baptized in the Danville Church on January 26, 1980. They are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gallatin, Bruce Davis and Jackie Dean. John Hayward, Illinois Conference president, was guest speaker that day.

CHRISTMAS FOR OTHERS

Fourteen fifth- and sixth-graders in Marjorie Schiffbauer's class at the Aurora school shared their Christmas spirit with two families last December. The class heard about a family of six with four children under eight years of age who were facing difficult circumstances. The other family had an unemployed father who took care of his children while the mother recovered from a brain tumor operation. Money, furniture, clothing, toys and food came in to the church for the two families. With the help of parents and the pastor of the Aurora Spanish Church, these school children loaded a van, a pick-up truck and cars, then delivered gifts and food to the two families. The children also raked leaves to earn $46 for the families. Mrs. Schiffbauer said she couldn't tell who was having the best Christmas, the families or the students.

14 BAPTISMS AT SPANISH CHURCH

December 29, 1979, was a great day for the Spanish Central Church, in Chicago, Illinois. Fourteen people were baptized. This happened as a result of many weeks of Bible studies conducted by Luis Perez, Ramon Perez, Roberto Reyes and other laymen. After the baptism a call was made, and 35 people responded. The Spanish church has planned with God's help to work toward a goal of 120 baptisms this year.

GARRISONS CELEBRATE 64TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Garrison of Bluffton celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary on December 4, 1979. They were baptized in 1916. They have been members of the Jackson, Lansing, and Lake City, Michigan churches. For the past 18 years they have lived in Indiana. Currently they reside at Cooper's Rest Home in Bluffton. The Garrisons have a son, Homer of Phoenix, Arizona; a daughter, Ruth of Bluffton; seven grandchildren; two great-grandchildren, and two step-granddaughters.

NEW CASTLE SERIES RESULTS IN 9 BAPTISMS

From July 14 through August 21, 1979, Larry Cansler, conference evangelist, held a series of meetings in New Castle, Indiana.

Ministerial intern Chuck Hanlon had established a strong Bible study program in the church.

Elder Cansler's meetings were a culmination of the work done in New Castle by Pastor Hanlon and the members.

At the conclusion of the meetings, three separate baptisms were held. Pastor Don Dronen baptized four people in the first baptism: Orville Johnson, Vera Grim, Cora Thurman and Joanna Hunt.

Three days later Pearl Land was baptized.

On December 1, four more people were baptized: Larry, Michael and Gena Jeffries and Rosemond Moreno.

Pastor Hanlon has returned to Andrews to finish seminary training.

Hal Greer, one of the New Communion Singers, is now serving as local pastor for the New Castle Church.

Recently the church became a part of the Muncie district where Anibal Rivera serves as district pastor.

BARBER BAPTIZED IN ROCKFORD

When is the last time you witnessed to your hairdresser or barber? A recent Rockford baptism was a direct result of Mike LaBoy talking to his barber on his favorite subject, the love of God. His barber, Betty Downey, attended Mike and Norma LaBoy's church, and Pastor Harold Flynt followed up with a series of Bible studies. Photo courtesy of Joyce Friestad, communication secretary.

SACRED CANTATA SCHEDULED AT ELMHURST

The Elmhurst church choir, directed by Esther T. Munroe, will present "The Seven Last Words of Christ," a sacred cantata by Theodore Dubois, during the worship service on Sabbath, April 5.

The cantata is a descriptive musical setting of Christ's crucifixion and His words from the cross as recorded in the Gospels.

Soloists will be sopranos Shirley Ann Munroe and Kathy Fillmore, baritones Anthony DeMarco and Bill Fillmore, tenors Henry Hagner and Mike Haney, bases Ronn Harris and Frank Macri Jr. Accompanists are Marie Lindsay, pianist, and Debi Frey and Fran Kellogg, organists.

FIRST-TIME INGATHERER TOPS LIST IN CICERO

Sherry Cain, left, is congratulated by Martha Murphy, the Cicero pastor's wife, for her outstanding record in Ingathering solicitation. This was her first experience at Ingathering. She brought in $428.80, the highest amount in the Cicero Church. Millie Logan raised $366.48, the second highest. Seven Jasper Wayne Awards were presented and five youth received camp scholarship certificates for soliciting more than $100. One of the thrilling results of this year's campaign was two Bible studies. On January 19 the Cicero Church members celebrated their Ingathering victory with a social and recreation in the Indiana Academy gym.

BAPTISM IN MUNCIE

For some time Diana Lykins attended weekly Bible studies with her sister and brother-in-law, Sharon and Larry Wise. In the spring of 1979 she also attended evangelistic meetings held by Lake Union Conference Stewardship Director Don Copey. While she was contemplating baptism, she and her husband began bowling on Friday night. Shortly after this Diana noticed a cyst on her wrist. The physician who examined it told her not to bowl anymore. This influenced her to make her decision to be baptized. Elder Chico Rivera baptized Diana recently and she joined the Muncie Church.

NEW COMPANY IN DUBOIS COUNTY

On Sabbath, February 9, a company of nine believers was organized in DuBois County. Up to this time there has been no organized work of Seventh-day Adventists in this county.

Recently the Helzerman family moved into Huntingburg from the Indianapolis area. The Norman Moore family has lived in the area for several years. These two families and several others have united in the Huntingburg Company. They will be meeting in the Helzerman home for Sabbath services until a more suitable meeting place can be found.

The Indiana Conference is planning to send a ministerial graduate, Ron Olney, to spend a year as Bible worker and pastor in the Huntingburg area beginning in August 1980.

Pastor Olney will be working to build up the work in this area and to strengthen the newly-formed company of believers. Plans for an aggressive outreach program are being made.

Serving as the leader of the Huntingburg Company is Richard Helzerman. The treasurer is Carolyn Moore. Other officers will be elected as needed by the group.

Carroll Lawson, leader of the Evansville district, will supervise the work in Huntingburg. Please pray that God will enlarge His work in a mighty way in prosperous DuBois County.

LOVE FEAST AT FORT WAYNE

The Indiana Academy Keynotes presented a Sabbath vesper concert, January 19, in the Fort Wayne Church. During the service three people were baptized by the pastor, Norman McCauley. After the program a Love Feast was held in the fellowship hall. The candlelight supper featured loaves of homemade bread shaped into letters which spelled love. Large mounds of fresh fruit, nuts, and grains decorated the tables. Bible verses shared at each table reminded the guests of Christ's love for them.

The Fort Wayne Church was recently redecorated.

HOOSIER HOSPITALITY AT FORT WAYNE

First impressions are important. I wish you could have visited the Fort Wayne Church on February 23 with me. Hoosier hospitality was no accident in that church. Two smiling hostesses greeted everyone and the newly wallpapered foyer and lovely carpet made the welcome more complete.

Recent renovations in the sanctuary include a paneled platform and baptistry, platform furniture and new pews, placed on a patterned carpet.

The church members had also purchased a new Yamaha piano and Allen electronic organ to enhance the opportunity for everyone to make a joyful noise unto the Lord.

A happy spirit was present during Sabbath School. Pastor Norman McCauley drew lessons from Nehemiah during the worship hour, and asked the worshipers in a loving manner to restore and rebuild the walls of prayer, purity and devotion.

Perhaps the most outstanding demonstration of this evangelistic congregation was their warm hospitality. I received eight invitations to dinner from members during the 165 minutes I spent with them.

Hospitality is a part of their outreach program and of their stewardship. No wonder many visitors were present that Sabbath.

How would you like to worship in a church like Fort Wayne? Could this be the key to their evangelistic growth? What might happen if every church in Indiana practiced Hoosier hospitality?

CITY TEMPLE MEMBER WINS ART AWARD

Hollis Harris, a member of the City Temple Church in Detroit, Michigan, was recently selected as a Gold Key Winner in the 1980 Southeastern Michigan Regional Scholastic Art Awards.

The winning entry was on display at the Tel-Twelve Mall from February 2 through February 17.

Hollis, 18, is the son of Barbara J. Harris. He is a former student of the Frank L. Peterson School, Inkster, Michigan.

Hollis is an 11th-grade student presently enrolled in the Learning Disabled Program at Chadsey High School of the Detroit Public School System. His studies include fine arts, graphics, industrial arts and ceramics.

From the fall of 1977 to late 1979 Hollis attended the Center of Creative Studies, formerly the College of Arts and Design of Detroit, as a result of scholarship awards.

Other achievements include: a gold and blue ribbon in the state Fair Art Contest, in 1972; Regional Third Prize Winner, Gold Ribbon, sponsored by the Michigan Education Awards and co-sponsored by the Michigan Industrial Education Society and the Detroit News, 1974; a certificate for the best design appearance in the Science Club Aerodynamic Contest sponsored by the Detroit Public Schools in 1974, and third place in the Chrysler High School Design Contest in the State of Michigan in 1978.

This award resulted in Hollis's working as a drafting trainee in the Chrysler Design Department the summer of 1978.

He also received an honor award from the Detroit Public Schools for outstanding achievement in the Michigan Industrial Education Society Fair in 1979.

Hollis is a lover of animals and insects. He likes to live close to nature. At one time he thought of becoming a forest ranger. Presently he is involved in animation and ceramics.

$1,000 FOR INVESTMENT AT REID MEMORIAL

The Reid Memorial Church members of East St. Louis, Illinois, have continued to increase their investment funds during the last three years because of faithful leadership.

Mary Bradley, investment leader, led the way by investing a dollar for each of the 68 years of life with which God has blessed her. She also gave funds she received from babysitting and baking.

Donna Brown, Darren Combs and Charlene Hill, teachers in the children's division, collected food labels and pennies.

Mrs. Bradley attributes the successful outcome of the investment program to the way in which the members took hold of God's promises and gave sacrificially.

ADOPTION AGENCY PLANNED FOR ADVENTISTS

A local Adventist adoption agency is in the final stages of organization, according to Ronnie Rosado, church secretary of the All Nations Church in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

"The agency has completed four of the five steps required by the state," she says, "and the last step will probably be the hardest."

The final requirement is that the agency have in hand the funds for one year of operation before it opens. Mrs. Rosado estimates that the first year's budget will be more than $75,000.

State requirements which have been met thus far are incorporation, acquiring a tax exemption number and a license to solicit funds, and showing that a genuine need exists for the agency.

The new organization will be called Wee Wil-Care Christian Children's Services.

There is presently only one adoption agency for Adventists, located in Pasco, Washington. Its location on the West Coast is not always convenient for people living in the East.

It is felt that this agency is needed because the number of babies needing placement in Adventist homes is significant. In addition, Michigan does not allow for private adoptions except within the immediate family.

A mother's request for placement of her child in an Adventist home is not always guaranteed by state adoption agencies.

A fund-raising program will begin soon to help raise the monies needed to begin the agency.

A public meeting of the agency will be held in Berrien Springs on March 30. If you are interested in helping in the fund-raising, watch for specific details of the meeting in your church bulletin.

The Monsenor Church was built with the help of funds raised by Berrien Springs Village church members.

A CHALLENGE ACCEPTED A NEED FULFILLED

Last May, Berrien Springs Village church members accepted the challenge presented by Maranatha Flights International: "Adopt" a sister church in Nicaragua and aid the members in building a church home.

A committee was established to organize the project. Originally about 40 people planned to go to Nicaragua and help build the church, but as unrest grew in the country, it became evident that this would be unwise.

So the $16,000 that church members contributed was sent to Nicaragua, and an Adventist builder there supervised the construction.

On January 19, 1980, the church at Monsenor Lezcono was dedicated.

Representing the Berrien Springs Village Church were Phil Riess and Wayne Vallieres. They paid their own expenses from Berrien Springs to Nicaragua and joined the 60 members and almost 250 guests at the dedicatory services.

That afternoon 22 people were baptized.

While in Nicaragua, Mr. Vallieres and Mr. Riess visited 15 sites where new churches are being constructed. Mission president Bob Eubanks explained that their goal is to build a total of 26 churches.

After visiting Nicaragua, Mr. Vallieres says he senses an urgency

The Monsenor Church was filled for the dedication.

in completing this work: "It is possible that the doors will close in this field within the next 18 months. Not only did our assistance bring a blessing to the church family, but to the Monsenor congregation as well."

DR. LEFFLER RECEIVES SPECIAL AWARD

Dr. Emil Leffler received special recognition from the lay activities department of the Michigan Conference during the 11 o'clock service in Pioneer Memorial Church on Sabbath, January 26. Pastor John A. Kroncke and Robert Little, lay activities director of the church, made the presentation to Dr. Leffler in recognition of his many years of personal involvement in community services. Dr. Leffler has served as a counselor of the Michigan Conference lay activities department, according to Arthur Covell, conference lay activities director. "Dr. Leffler's humanitarian concerns have added to the church's evangelistic outreach in the state of Michigan," Elder Covell said.

NEWS NOTE

• In 1978 the Superior church members doubled their Investment offering. In 1979 they nearly doubled the 1978 total, turning in almost $1,000. Carl Carlson sold hand-crafted birdhouses and reported several hundred dollars in sales. Gladys Chapman turned in about $90 from refunds. Nita Launderville, Investment secretary, sold throw pillows.

MITTLEIDER CONDUCTS MEETINGS IN MEMONOMIE

Kenneth Mittleider, former president of the Wisconsin Conference, went to Menomonie on December 8, to present a five-day series of evangelistic meetings. The first two meetings were held at the University of Wisconsin Stout Student Center. The last three meetings were held at the new Menomonie Church. As a result of the meetings, one person was baptized, and local pastor Jim Morris is conducting 16 Bible studies. Other people have expressed a desire to be baptized. The members also received a spiritual blessing from the meetings.

Kenny Knudsen raised $100 for Ingathering at the Bethel Church.

BETHEL CELEBRATES INGATHERING VICTORY

It was a very happy day on Sunday, February 24, when the Bethel Church celebrated a successful Ingathering campaign.

Because February is Valentine's month, the celebration was a "Sweetheart Banquet."

The Bethel Junior Academy gym was decorated in red and white for the occasion. A potluck dinner was served and dessert was a heart-shaped cake.

"Besides going over the church's goal of $3,000, more territory was covered this year than ever before," said Pastor Larry Grahn.

The dedicated young people were a big factor in the program's success. Going out almost every night was Kenny Knudsen, who raised more than $100 by himself.

As a major evangelistic outreach of the Adventist Church, it is hoped many people will learn to know Jesus because of the 1979-80 Ingathering campaign.

AYBL ACTIVE AT WISCONSIN ACADEMY

The Adventist Youth For Better Living Club (AYBL) has been very active at Wisconsin Academy this year.

Health emphasis days have been conducted featuring natural remedies such as proper deep breathing, exercise, proper sleep, and oral hygiene.

To emphasize the programs even further, skits and talks are given and posters displayed concerning the topic that will be discussed.

The club helped conduct a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at the Divine Saviour Hospital in Portage, in October. Follow-up programs are being conducted.

The first follow-up focused on nutrition and vegetarianism. Samples of vegetarian food were distributed.

The second follow-up stressed the importance of exercise, and the third meeting included a talk on how to control stress with emphasis on exercise.

On November 29, the AYBL group traveled to Stevens Point, for a "Wellness Day." About 300 high school students and sponsors from throughout the state attended.

The entire group of students met in a general meeting and then formed groups. The AYBL group conducted physical fitness testing, nutrition, and stress sessions. A skit was presented.

The AYBL group has also presented programs at schools in the Columbus area. They visited the Fall River grade school and performed a skit. Byron Chalker, group advisor, talked about "The Great American Smoke Out."

Buttons and iron-ons were awarded to the children who could get the most people to sign a pledge not to smoke that day. A similar program was presented to the Petersen Elementary School.

The officers of AYBL are Cheri Knutson, president; Carmie Cox, vice president; Kris Coffin, secretary, and Kim Flood, treasurer. The group is planning more activities during the coming months.

BLIND CAMP '79 FEATURED ON TV

A blind boy skiing? It happened often at Camp Wahdoon in 1979. Frequently all of the campers in a tent went skiing or watersledding in the same morning or afternoon period.

Others delighted in speedboat rides and paddleboating.

Todd DeFries was so adroit on a slalom ski that TV camera crews from Eau Claire filmed activities at Wahdoon.

Chris Ethridge, one of the campers in the first blind camp in Florida, was on the Wahdoon staff for a week and a half. Chris traces his conversion to Christ directly to the influence of the lives of staff at camp.

Campers were delighted as Chris produced a series of unusual sounds, from the sound of crickets on a summer evening to computers and old Ford tractors.

Included in the special staff for blind camp 1979 were representatives of Christian Record Braille Foundation.

Exciting changes and experiences were daily occurrences. Teenagers Kevin and Scott ran for the first time as smiles engulfed their faces.

Campers caught scores of blue gill fish by hand on a daily basis.

Blind campers learn to love Jesus through the models provided in a staff of dedicated Christian youth.

EMILY EMERSON HONORED IN EAU CLAIRE

On January 28 the Eau Claire Dorcas Society honored Emily Emerson on the occasion of her 87th birthday, according to Jessie Loken, church clerk. Mrs. Emerson joined the church in 1949 and has been a faithful member ever since, active especially in Dorcas work and in the welfare center for many years. She is home missionary secretary and frequently visits hospital patients and shut-ins.

53 BAPTIZED IN MILWAUKEE IN 1979

Fifty-three persons were baptized by Elder Cesar A. Puesan in 1979 in Milwaukee. These new church members are now working in the Spanish community in Milwaukee and Racine, telling others about their new church, their new Christian experience, and their new hope. Many people are receiving Bible studies in their homes, and others are meeting with the Spanish congregations each Sabbath. As a result of this intensive missionary work nine more persons were baptized on January 19, 1980, in Milwaukee.

Not All External Degree Programs Are Alike!

AUC's Adult Degree Program Has Unique Advantages:

1. You can get college credit for experiential learning.
2. You can study in areas not included in conventional courses.
For example, you might structure a unit's work around the work you are currently doing, or around travel plans.
3. You do not work in isolation, as in correspondence school programs. You have a study supervisor whom you know well, and who is always within reach of your telephone, willing to give you any help you need.

The Areas You Can Get a Degree In:

An accredited B.A. or B.S. is possible in most areas of college study. Among the many degrees already granted in the ADP have been majors in the following areas: Behavioral Science, Elementary Education, Religion, Theology, Business Administration, Health Science, English, Mathematics, Interior Design, Humanities, Art Education, and others.

The Seminar Experience:

The Seminar, a two-week session at the beginning of each unit's work, gives you an intense group experience. Mini-courses, presentations by students finishing units, library work, the preparing of a proposal and getting started on the unit's work are all part of the two-week program. The Seminar experience, say students in the program, carries them through the months of working in a more individual way off-campus.

Requirements:

8 units required for graduation; a unit equals one semester's work. Students must be 25 or over. Some previous college work is desirable, though exceptions are sometimes made.
