"Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed."—I Corinthians 15:51, 52.

IN the 17th chapter of the book of John is recorded one of Christ's most urgent prayers. In the first verse John states: "These words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee: . . ."

The hour referred to was the hour of His death. At this time Christ's earnest longing was for unity among the disciples so that His mission could be accomplished on earth. His plea was that his followers would unite in a visible manifestation of His love.

Jesus longed for unity in the church. He desired that His earthly followers be as intimately related to one another as He was with the Father.

The greatest testimony that Jesus has been born again in the hearts of his believers is the love and unity that they manifest for each other. This unity was not prevalent before the cross.

In This Day with God, page 135, Ellen White comments on Christ's prayer in John 17:21-23: "Christ's prayer was for unity among His followers. This unity is the evidence that is to convince the world that God sent His son to save sinners." Unity is the evidence of the powerful love of God.

If God's people are in disharmony over the method of conducting His work, they fail to be part of the answer to Christ's prayer.

In Testimonies to the Church, vol. 5, p. 279, Ellen White admonishes, "The harmony and unity of the church are the credentials that they present to the world that Jesus is the Son of God. Genuine conversion will ever lead to genuine love for Jesus and for all those for whom He died."

The credentials are not well-thought-through plans. They are not beautiful church buildings, hospitals, or schools. The credentials that Christ's followers are to present to the world are harmony and unity. As the love of Christ was manifest on Calvary's cross, the hearts of His followers were broken.

The Scripture states, "And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place." Acts 2:1.

It was this harmony and unity of earnest prayer and the commitment to the task of evangelism that enabled the Holy Spirit to be poured out through the disciples. By placing aside their petty differences, they became instruments in God's hands.

In this time of intense conflict in the world and ferment in the church, let us link hands in all-out evangelism. Can we, in good conscience, dissipate our energy, funds and manpower in debate while millions die not knowing Christ? Shall we not utilize our funds, our administrative expertise, pastoral and evangelistic skills, the talents of our health professionals and laymen to win people to Jesus? To this end we earnestly appeal and petition our Heavenly Father.

Gold Medals for Good Health

by Becky Frost

THERE are those people who seem to become younger as they get older—and others who become old and tired when, in reality, they are very young." So says 62-year-old Charlotte Hamlin, winner of seven medals in the Senior Olympics held in Springfield, Illinois, September 26 to 28, 1980.

Featured were many sports, including golf, bowling, swimming, badminton, tennis, bicycle racing, and track and field events.

Mrs. Hamlin cannot overemphasize the importance of a daily health program. Whether in the classroom as assistant professor of nursing at Andrews University or on the track in competition, she is a living example of the health message that has been prescribed for Seventh-day Adventists.

"The laws of nature are the laws of God," she said. "The closer we harmonize our life style with the basic laws of nature, the more likely we are able to attain high levels of health and vitality."

Competing against more than 600 participants in the 60-to-64 age group, Mrs. Hamlin received gold medals in the 50-meter run, 100-meter run, standing broad jump, running broad jump and badminton. Two silver medals represent her efforts in the one-mile walk and the 200-meter run. She was defeated only by Ernestine Yeomans, 16-time national award winner for long runs.

Mrs. Hamlin ranked second in the total number of points in her age group. Because the swimming competition was held on Sabbath she was unable to enter that event.

How does she do it? "It's so simple," she said, "just plenty of water, rest, exercise and sunshine. God has revealed to us the basic conditions on which our lives depend. We must adjust our living habits so we are in harmony with these conditions and also show others by our example. In this way it is possible for almost everyone to improve his total health."

As screening director of the 3 Cs Risk Evaluation program for the prevention of coronary disease, cancer, and cardiovascular accident (stroke), Mrs. Hamlin is also dedicated to preventive health care through education. Approaching its eighth year, 3 Cs has been scheduled to meet the needs of those in the Andrews community and surrounding residential areas every three months since January 1973.

In an evaluative rather than a clinical setting, more than 20 different laboratory tests are performed to determine such factors as cholesterol, triglyceride, and blood-sugar levels. While revealing medical histories, participants are given blood pressure and pulse tests that will aid in evaluating the possible risk of developing the three common diseases found in Americans.

"I believe that God created people to live forever," said Mrs. Hamlin. "He has shown us how to make eternal life a reality, scientifically. Excellent health is one way we as Christians can experience a taste of heaven on this earth."

What's her favorite sport? "Ice-skating," she laughs as she closes the box containing the Olympic medals.

Why Sacrifice?

by Neal C. Wilson

THE annual Week of Sacrifice offering will be received on November 1, and church members in the Lake Union are asking themselves, What shall be our response this year to this appeal?

There is no doubt about the need for the offering. As the church's program expands, challenges and opportunities multiply. Even now, new countries are being entered for the first time with the third angel's message.

The Week of Sacrifice offering amounts to nearly a million dollars each year. From a purely financial point of view, this hardly represents a "sacrifice" offering—and yet without these funds, many schools and mission projects would be faced with curtailment or retrenchment. This is unthinkable!

But carrying forward the world work of the church is not the only reason for a Week of Sacrifice.

There is a valid purpose in scheduling the Week of Sacrifice to coincide with the annual Week of Prayer. Each is a very spiritual experience. In the Week of Prayer we concentrate our attention in praying for a special outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

There is something wonderful about an entire church simultaneously asking for the same blessing. In churches, in small community groups, in isolated homes, thousands of Seventh-day Adventists are, in the words of Scripture, afflicting their souls, not in penance, but in heart-searching submission to the will of God.

That they should, at the same time, be joining in a Week of Sacrifice is meaningful, indeed. When we give our hearts to the Lord we give Him all there is of us.

We acknowledge Him as Ruler of our lives; we recognize that we are totally in His care. It follows, then, that to give the Lord a sacrificial offering is but to demonstrate that we are not concerned for our own livelihood—we are in His hands and trusting in His provision.

A "sacrifice," then, is a purely personal matter. While it is suggested that the Week of Sacrifice offering equal the amount of our earnings for that week, for some that may not demonstrate much of a dependence on the Lord for their sustenance, and they will want to give more.

For others, one day's wages may cut a large hole in their economic picture. I can think of some who are sacrificing every day of the year. This includes some young people and older members who are donating, as volunteers, months and years of their lives to some particular church project overseas or in their homeland.

Let me emphasize that we do not do this for merit or as penance. Love for our Saviour, who has sacrificed so much for us, is our driving force. The earnest desire to see His kingdom advanced to the ends of the globe, and His coming hastened—that is another very real motive.

I know that church members throughout the Lake Union will want to make this Week of Sacrifice a prayerful experience, when in a special way they commit themselves to the Lord.

“Love for our Saviour, who has sacrificed so much for us, is our driving force.”

Neal C. Wilson is president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

A man talking recently to a minister friend of mine in a restaurant remarked: "You know, I have to marvel at you Seventh-day Adventists. You kick people out of the church because they smoke and drink, but you do nothing about all the fat people in your church. You encourage your members to abstain from eating meat, but you folk go heavy on the desserts loaded with sugar, and sugar is more harmful to the body than meat!"

My friend gulped a little bit; he had ordered a vegetarian meal, and topped it off with a large piece of lemon-meringue pie. And he was already overweight. When he told me the story, he said, "Others look at us in an interesting way."

We have heard much through the years about better living, but too many of us don't want to give up the things we like.

We talk about people who have a hard time giving up the cigarette habit, but we often have a hard time giving up other things that are harmful. And we have a hard time being moderate in those things which are good.

I believe that Seventh-day Adventist Christians need to take inventory of their life style.

We hear the word temperance, and we say, "That doesn't pertain to me, because I don't take drugs, drink alcoholic beverages or use any kind of tobacco."

Reading from the book, Temperance, by Ellen White, I came across these statements on pages 16 through 21.

"Many are so devoted to intemperance that they will not change their course of indulging in gluttony under any considerations. They would sooner sacrifice health, and die prematurely, than to restrain their intemperate appetite."

"It is impossible for those who indulge the appetite to attain to Christian perfection."

"Let none who profess godliness

Temperance: God's Design

regard with indifference the health of the body, and flatter themselves that intemperance is no sin, and will not affect their spirituality. A close sympathy exists between the physical and the moral nature. . . . Wrong habits of eating and drinking lead to errors in thought and action. Indulgence of appetite strengthens the animal propensities, giving them the ascendancy over the mental and spiritual powers."

"Men's natural appetites have been perverted by indulgence. Through unholy gratification they have become 'fleshly lusts, which war against the soul,' unless the Christian watches unto prayer, he gives loose reign to habits which should be overcome."

"Many marvel that the human race have so degenerated, physically, mentally, and morally. They do not understand that it is the violation of God's constitution and laws, and the violation of the laws of health, that has produced this sad degeneracy."

"It was through temptations addressed to the appetite that Satan had overcome a large proportion of the human race, and his success had made him feel that the control of this fallen planet was in his hands."

"Satan knows that he cannot overcome man unless he can control his will. He can do this by deceiving man so that he will cooperate with him in transgressing the laws of nature in eating and drinking, which is transgression of the law of God."

Satan is making inroads into God's family and into the minds of some of God's children as they continue to pour into their systems food and drinks that are harmful.

Many have failed God on this point; I have failed Him many times. Satan has made inroads into my life through appetite; but there is help for all of us.

"Our only hope of regaining Eden is through firm self-control. If the power of indulged appetite was so strong upon the race, that, in order to break its hold, the divine Son of God, in man's behalf, had to endure a fast of nearly six weeks, what a work is before the Christian! Yet, however great the struggle, he may overcome. By the help of that divine power which withstood the fiercest temptations that Satan could invent, he too, may be entirely successful in his warfare with evil, and at last may wear the victor's crown in the kingdom of God."

Temperance—the right use of the good things, and total abstinence from those things which are harmful—is a fruit of the Spirit. (Galatians 5:23)

God grant that we may put our lives in His hands, let Him guide our paths, and lead us into a sanctified life.

introductory course on soils. Classwork covers the properties, formation, and origin of soils and various nutrients essential for plant growth.

Others may be attracted to a course in landscape design and development. Basic points of landscaping including balance, overall plan, and the use of proper plant materials are presented. Much of the practical training comes from working directly with the university grounds team.

Vegetable gardening is offered in the spring. Students familiarize themselves with different types of gardening procedures with emphasis on the preparation, cultivation and fertilization of garden soils.

"What is so special about our program is the mixture of classroom and practical experience to develop marketable skills," Mr. Andersen said. "We teach in the classroom part of the day and find ourselves beside the same students in the field, dairy, or flower beds."

Students in the vegetable gardening course must be responsible for planting their own gardens and tending them during the quarter. Book knowledge and lecture notes apply directly toward a finished product.

"It's probably the most satisfying way to master a trade," he said. "You can see the results while you are learning."

In addition, courses in indoor plants and flowers, weed control, and floral design are available. The newest course offered is "Turfgrass Management," helpful for students with summer lawn-care jobs. Study includes the characteristics and uses of turf grasses, and management principles applied to the establishment and maintenance of turf for lawns, athletic fields, golf courses, cemeteries, parks, highways, and airfields.

For students interested in a major study of agriculture, two- and four-year programs are available in both the College of Arts and Sciences and the College of Technology. A one-year diploma course is also offered in occupational education.

Much of the practical training is done on the farm, one of Andrews' largest on-campus industries. The complex includes a dairy and field of marketable produce such as corn and alfalfa.

"Our whole operation could be set up on any farm," said Mr. Andersen. "The training our students get is standard in organization and technique."

Student employees also oversee and manage a large portion of the work on the complex. They run farm machinery, tend crops in the fields, and milk with minimum supervision. Landscaping students may train in a work program with the direction of the grounds department on campus.

Mr. Andersen is assisted by David Hodge, dairy manager, and LaVern Rice, nutrition specialist, and William Zehm, horticulturist.

If you are interested in learning more about the agricultural program at Andrews, call (616) 471-3299, or write to Mr. Andersen at the Andrews Agricultural Department, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

CAMPUS HIGHLIGHTS

● The Berrien Broadcasting Corporation has submitted an application to the F.C.C. for license to operate a new AM radio station in Berrien Springs. If the license is granted, the management of WAUS-FM, the present campus station, would operate the new venture. Robert Carter, president of the Lake Union Conference, will serve as president of the new organization. Programming would include more items for Spanish-speaking and black audiences in addition to the station's current mostly music format.

● A political rally, sponsored by the communication, history and pre-law departments on October 2, showed presidential-hopeful John Anderson the favorite among a sample of 200 Andrews students. Students Dana Fox, Mike Hile and Joe Rago spoke for candidates Anderson, Carter and Reagan, respectively, presenting each one's political stand on the election issues. Pamphlets were given to those attending to acquaint them with the candidates and their positions. A straw vote was taken indicating students' choices for the man they would vote for. The

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT ATTRACTS NON-MAJORS

The Andrews department of agriculture isn't just for "farmers" anymore. According to Bernard Andersen, chairman of the program and farm manager, many classes offered may be an interesting and practical way to fulfill general education or elective course requirements.

"We have classes that involve a variety of specialties in the field that appeal to non-majors as well," he said.

Students may choose from three areas that comprise the total program: animal science, crops and soils, and horticulture. Some of the classes are only offered on alternate years.

"Animal lovers might enjoy our course in horse husbandry," said Mr. Andersen. "It gives an overview helpful for maintaining a riding horse."

Instruction in adaptability, general maintenance and care of horses emphasizes skills in proper grooming and feeding. The study of breed characteristics and their uses is also taught.

Those interested in botany and plant science may enjoy an completed poll showed Mr. Anderson receiving 73 votes, President Carter with 56 votes, and Ronald Reagan with 46 votes. Approximately 100 students were sworn in as registered voters during the meeting.

HINSDALE HOSPITAL NEWS NOTES

- Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital's Medical Distaff organization of doctors' wives sponsored its 25th Annual Ice Cream Social on September 3 to raise funds for a radiant-heat receiving crib and a Halogen lamp for the hospital's labor and delivery examination room. Proceeds also helped to provide scholarships for the hospital-based Schools of Radiography, Practical Nursing and Medical Technology.

PRAYER ALERT FEATURES HINSDALE INTERVIEWS

HINSDALE—"Prayer Alert," a new feature of the television broadcast, It Is Written, will be launched after two specials devoted entirely to the subject of prayer, November 2 and 9.

With Lonnie Melashenko, It Is Written associate director, as host, the two- to three-minute spots are being videotaped on location and center on personal testimonies of dramatic answers to prayer.

"God really does hear and answer prayer. Thousands of people are discovering this truth every day," says Elder Melashenko.

"These short segments highlighting all new programs will introduce listeners to a new ministry—the prayer ministry. At the same time they will give the Seventh-day Adventist work a wider dimension by acquainting viewers with our colleges and medical centers."

Segments recently taped at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital featured patients and employees of different faiths who had witnessed the power of prayer in a crisis.

"Adventists don't have the corner on prayer," says Elder Melashenko. "People identify with the Roman Catholic, the Presbyterian or the Baptist. You cannot beat personal testimony for stimulating people to start building this resource into their own lives."

One such interview is with Donna Hukill of Elmhurst, Illinois: "I prayed 24 hours a day that God would spare my husband so we could share our lives and raise the family we both wanted," says Donna.

Donna's husband suffered severe head injuries as the result of a motorcycle accident during the first year of their marriage. Recovery has been slow but miraculous.

Donna knows that God heard and answered her prayers. The concept of prayer becomes a reality in daily living.

"By talking with the Russian delegation at the General Conference session in Dallas or with the heart team from Loma Linda University Medical Center, we are seeking to show that prayer touches every phase of life," says Elder Melashenko. Personal problems as well as professional needs can be addressed.

This new outreach of the denomination grew out of the desire to not only offer a meaningful service to viewers, but to portray the worldwide scope of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

It Is Written credits Portland Adventist Medical Center for the name "Prayer Alert" which signifies a hospitalwide pause for prayer when a Code 99 (medical emergency) is sounded over the public address system.

Those listening to the weekly broadcast will be invited at the close of each program to request a compilation of promises entitled Unlocking Heaven's Storehouse.

GROUND BROKEN FOR OFFICE BUILDING

HINSDALE—Ground-breaking ceremonies took place September 17 for the professional office building to be constructed beside the Bolingbrook Medical Center (B.M.C.).

Scheduled to open in January 1981, the center is an ambulatory/emergency-care affiliate facility of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, located 15 miles southwest of Hinsdale.

The center will emphasize diagnostic testing, health education, and emergency care for residents in the Bolingbrook/Romeoville area.

The professional office building, with a total of 16,000 net square feet, will accommodate 16 to 20 physicians. A 10-foot wide tunnel will connect the B.M.C. with the office building.

June 1981 is the scheduled completion date for the professional office building.

The new program allows the father to join the mother in the operating room when adequate anesthesia has been established. There he serves as a support person just as in a natural birth.

After the cesarean birth, the father leaves the operative suite with the nurse and accompanies the infant to the newborn nursery.

When mother and child are in stable condition, the mother joins the father and the child in the obstetrics recovery room.

NORTHBROOK MEMBERS DEDICATE THEIR CHURCH

Since the Northbrook Church's beginning 40 years ago, the members have looked forward to the day the church would be dedicated. That day finally came on July 19, 1980, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Former members and friends came from as far away as Florida to witness the fulfillment of a long cherished dream.

Everett E. Cumbo, the new Illinois Conference president, preached his first service since arriving in Illinois for the sermon of dedication.

Robert H. Carter, Lake Union Conference president, gave the prayer of dedication. Members reminisced on the progress in the building of the church.

The Northbrook Church was begun in Wilmette in the 1930's when two nurses, Mildred Belden and Mildred Knowles, started a branch Sabbath School in their treatment rooms.

From these small beginnings, the church has grown to 75 members, with a beautiful building in an excellent location.

3 BAPTIZED IN HINSDALE

Mike Heaver and Ed Wainwright were baptized July 26 in the Hinsdale Church.

When Mike and his wife moved to the area, she looked in the phone book and found someone with her maiden name, Kim.

She became acquainted with Mrs. Bok Nam Kim, wife of the pastor of the Korean Seventh-day Adventist Church, and began attending church. Surprised that his wife was going to church on Saturday, Mike questioned, "What kind of Korean religion is this?"

"It's not just Korean," replied his wife. "There's a big American church in Hinsdale, too."

While she went to the Korean congregation, Mike became a regular worshiper at the Hinsdale Church. One Sabbath he saw the film, "It's a Great Family," which illustrates active witnessing by laymen and the resulting baptisms. Mike turned in a card that day requesting baptism.

Ed, a custodial supervisor at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, began asking questions of his fellow workers. His wife, Judy, attended a Revelation Seminar. Both studied with Pastor Dick Habenicht, and Judy was baptized August 30.

Sabbath School was conducted by the past president who also taught the lesson study.

Martin Feldbush, chaplain at Hinsdale Hospital, gave a sermon on the three circles of God's love: the world, the church, and the individual.

The potluck dinner was enjoyed by 31 people who spent at least part of the day at the park, including two families from the Rockford Church.

He also visits the hospital and the psychiatric wards of the institution.

Elder Wright offers inmates a copy of Life and Health or Listen magazine. These are rarely refused.

About 18 of the men (who range in age from 18 to 70) are studying or have completed courses from the Voice of Prophecy, Faith For Today or It Is Written.

CICERO CHURCH DESTROYED BY AN EXPLOSION

On Tuesday morning, September 30, 1980, the Cicero Seventh-day Adventist Church was destroyed by an explosion and fire.

Only the outside wall facing the highway was left standing. The cause of the explosion has still not been confirmed although it is believed a natural-gas line may have been ruptured.

The explosion was so great that Ken Blanton, Indiana Academy alumni president, who was traveling from Andrews University to the academy, saw a column of smoke in the sky from Kokomo, 30 miles away.

Randall Murphy, church pastor, and his secretary, Ann Humphrey, were working in offices in the basement of the church at the time of the explosion. They were knocked over and had to crawl out from the debris.

The force knocked off Elder Murphy's shoes and pushed his wallet out of his pocket. Those who saw the results of the explosion felt it was a miracle that Elder Murphy and Mrs. Humphrey were uninjured.

At the time of the explosion, John Ward, an excavating contractor, was working on a ditch with to solve a drainage problem in the church's basement. He was taken to a nearby hospital for treatment of an injured hand.

The only other injury was to Cicero firefighter Robert Gunn, who suffered smoke inhalation.

A fire started after the explosion. The heat of the fire was so intense that the siding and window shutters on Principal Alan Bohman's house, 100 feet away, were warped.

The firetrucks doused water on the houses nearest the church. In less than an hour all of the church was leveled except for one wall.

Several television and newspaper reporters from Indianapolis and other nearby towns were on the scene covering the story. Elder Murphy was kept busy with interviews for more than an hour.

The Hamilton County Sheriff's Department closed Highway 19 to traffic on each side of the academy while the blaze was being fought.

The members of the Cicero Church had been renovating the interior of the church during the last two weeks. The sanctuary platform had been reconstructed. New carpet had been laid in the sanctuary, in most of the Sabbath School rooms, and in the downstairs hallway.

Eighteen years ago, almost to the day, the church had held an open house celebrating the opening of the new church.

With tears in their eyes, some of the members picked up pieces of stained-glass window as mementos.

At the same time, everyone was overjoyed at God's protection. Earlier that morning a women's prayer group had met in the church. Had the explosion happened then, it could have been a day of real tragedy.

Twenty-five day campers enjoyed activities on the church lawn in Elwood.

ELWOOD CHURCH WELCOMES DAY CAMPERS

For several years Timber Ridge Camp staff members have conducted a day camp in Elwood, Indiana. According to Elder Randall Murphy, much good will has resulted from this project.

This year seven youth and Elder Murphy conducted the camp from August 4 through 8 on the Elwood Church lawn.

In previous years this camp has been held in the city park, but because of previous commitments the city was unable to let the church use it this year. About 25 children participated in this year's day camp.

Some of the staff felt it was good that the camp was near the church so the children would associate their activities with the church.

On Sabbath, August 9, a special program was held for the parents, church members and friends to demonstrate what the children had learned throughout the week.

was developed at Andrews University with the purpose of fighting the three major causes of death in the United States: coronary disease, cancer and C.V.A. (stroke).

Directed by Judy Haas, a senior health major at Andrews, and Pastor Mercado, the fair was held on the weekend of May 9 to 11. The steps in the screening included registration and a life-style questionnaire which helped participants analyze their risk category for the 3 C's; a blood-pressure check by nurses and nurses' aides; an overall check for body weight, posture and flexion; breast cancer information, including a film and free materials from the American Cancer Society; sickle-cell anemia screening (manned by the Northwest Indiana Sickle Cell Anemia Association).

Also featured were a demonstration of Smoking Sam and materials concerning the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking; a slide presentation sponsored by the American Heart Association on the hazards of poor diet and high blood pressure, and free samples and information on the protein meat substitute products made by Worthington and Loma Linda Foods.

The last step was an examination of the life-style questionnaire and, with the help of a counselor, basic health guidelines on lowering risks for heart attacks, cancer and stroke.

Personal contact with the participants was made, free Adventist health material was provided, and surveys were filled out to evaluate interest in participation in future health programs.

God blessed the results of the health fair: More than 400 people were screened. Many participants took their entire families through the screening.

Many people came from other cities and towns for the sole purpose of being screened. One teacher invited the personnel at the stop-smoking station to provide a program featuring Smoking Sam at a local elementary school.

Carmen Rivera, a dietetics student from Andrews, said one woman exclaimed to her, "Oh, God bless you Seventh-day Adventists—this is the best program I've ever seen."

Another person, a member of the committee directing an upcoming teachers convention in Gary, Indiana, invited the pastor to provide the same program at their teachers' convention in October, a project which would involve systematic screening of hundreds of teachers.

Pastor Mercado states: "The project was successful far beyond our expectations—we were screening so many people that at times we had to ask some to come back later. The mall management was very appreciative, and is insisting that we provide the program for them next year."

The mall management paid for the expenses of the fair, provided the advertising and sent the church a generous donation and a thank you letter.

What next? More than 60 people signed up for a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking to be held at Purdue University/Calumet in August.

A 3 C's health seminar in conjunction with a Daniel and Revelation Seminar is being held at the Hammond Church.

A blood donation unit was provided for the community and church members, and a 3 C's seminar will soon be held at the local public library for the 3 C's participants.

Says Pastor Mercado, "We have touched the city with something which has caught their interest, and we can expect great things to occur as we try to focus this interest toward an awareness of Jesus Christ."

The Hammond Church has not been the same since the development of the programs and interest they caused. The members believe that their outreach can result in baptisms in the future.

Timo Saarinen, an Andrews University health major, counsels a participant on proper posture.

A WITNESSING MIRACLE

A miracle of witnessing occurred recently involving the Adventist Church in Hammond, Indiana.

With cooperation of students from Andrews University and members of the Hammond Seventh-day Adventist Church, a 3 C's Health Fair was presented in the largest shopping mall in the city.

It all began when the pastor of the church, Carmelo Mercado, contacted the mall manager concerning the possibility of providing a health program at the mall. The manager wanted to provide a community project during Mother's Day weekend and immediately accepted the idea of providing the 3 C's program, which

INDIANA ADVANCE FUNDS BUILD DORM

Construction of the third mini-dorm for the young men of Indiana Academy moves forward as Indiana Advance funds flow into the project.

Overcrowding in the other two mini-dorms necessitated the building program.

The new dormitory will be a two-story structure for 36 young men, and is being built near the wooden camp-meeting cabins on Bunker Hill.

The Indiana Advance Two Percent Plus Plan has raised $112,044.40 through August, or a total of .65 of one percent of tithe. One half of this amount pays for the new building program at Indiana Academy.

Fourteen conference churches give more than one percent for this plan.

Your systematic giving to the Indiana Advance Two Percent Plus Plan when returning your tithe to the Lord will help many projects like the mini-dorm.

GOD ANSWERS PRAYER

The pastor's life was threatened. The summer's sun warred against the workers as they went from door to door. It was said the tent would never go up. And when it was up, it was said it would never open.

On July 19, 1980, with the leadership of Philip C. Willis Sr., pastor of the Peoria, Illinois, Church, the Pavilion of Hope opened its doors. It was a joyous but solemn time as the workers waited for individuals to enter the tent.

One day after workers meeting the piano was stolen.

The pastor and his wife, Edith, prayed for help. They felt sure that God would not allow this incident to hamper His work and were thanking God for answering their prayer when Elder Higgins, a volunteer worker from another Adventist church in Peoria, came into the tent.

He had left earlier but was impressed to return to the tent because he felt something had gone wrong. He encouraged the Willises and offered his truck to carry the piano that he was sure the Lord would provide.

Not only did the Lord provide a piano but also an organ. Members of the Knoxville Adventist Church donated the instruments.

Many of the Knoxville members supported the Pavilion of Hope both financially and with their presence.

"I believe this message, and after 30 years of being fooled by the devil, no matter who gets in the way I must follow Jesus," said a woman who was beaten and had to fight her way out of her house to attend the meetings.

One young teenager loved the meetings so much she arrived hours before they began. She was filled with Bible questions.

Evidently she was being harrassed about attending the series, and her absence from the meetings was soon noticed. It was learned that her family had moved across town.

A few days passed and once again she was seen in the audience. She was eager to know how to find the Ten Commandments and other Scripture references.

She asked if the devil sometimes works through parents. She also wanted to know about the protection of angels and if it was a sin to run away from home.

This young woman was almost in tears as a worker told her of miracles happening everyday, not just in past times. At that moment a car pulled up in front of the tent. Several people rushed in and took her away and she was never seen at the tent again.

Another woman explained that when she was 12 the Lord showed her the seventh-day Sabbath. She questioned her father, who was a religious man, but he could not respond satisfactorily. When she saw the tent go up she felt it was just for her. She accepted the message and is now praying for her children.

Storms raged during the crusade, especially on nights when key subjects were presented. On the evening in which the topic of baptism was presented, the storm was so fierce that Pastor Willis had to stop his message and pray for calm weather. Shortly thereafter the storm subsided.

On another occasion lightning struck and completely destroyed a nearby tree, but the tent was not damaged.

Thirteen changed people buried their sins in baptism as a result of God's blessings through the Pavilion of Hope in Peoria.

Pastor Jerome Davis baptized Terry James.

DEAD AT 30, ALIVE AT 31

"Young man, at the rate you're going I don't think you will see your 30th birthday."

These were the solemn words spoken to Terry James by his physician, who counseled him that he had the worst form of cirrhosis of the liver.

Terry knew that his heavy drinking was the reason for his liver being in such a bad state. However, like many others, Terry thought, "You've got to die from something, why not alcohol?" He continued to drink and smoke as before.

One Sunday morning he woke up early and turned on the television. On the screen appeared the broadcast "The Breath of Life." The speaker was talking about last-day events and how this world is soon to be destroyed.

Terry believed the Lord was speaking directly to him. He contacted a friend, Larry Johnson, whom he knew to be a Christian, and asked for Bible studies. He wanted to know what he could do to get ready for the final destruction.

Larry explained that he could not give him studies that week because camp meeting had started, but he invited Terry to attend with him.

Terry did attend that Friday evening and returned to South Bend the same night with Larry's brother Ron.

Ron invited Terry to join him the next day at the campgrounds. Terry said he would.

That Sabbath morning he thought of every possible excuse for not going to camp. He didn't know Ron's telephone number, but he was able to find it with the operator's assistance. Ron said he would be right over.

Terry then thought that he just didn't have enough money to make a trip out of the city, but a friend handed him some money as he walked toward the door to greet Ron.

Terry went back to camp meeting and listened attentively throughout the morning service. The speaker made his appeal and no one moved.

Terry said, "I couldn't be still, the Lord was calling me, but no one told me what I had to do. The next thing I knew I was standing in front of the minister. What a day of rejoicing for me!"

Terry was instructed in the doctrines of the Adventist Church by Jerome L. Davis, pastor of the South Bend Church, and has since been baptized.

Terry says: "I'm sure the Lord has preserved my life to be a source of help to someone else. He will keep me until I'm 31, maybe until 41, however long He decides. I'm going to do my best to serve Him fully until He comes."

The Lapeer Church operated a booth during the recent "Lapeer Days" held August 22 to 24. The downtown promotion is held every five years, and the Lapeer Church was the only church with a booth. Members gave away a variety of literature.

MICHIGAN STRESSES SUMMER FAIR EVANGELISM

Summer evangelism for many people meant daily trips to the county fair.

Booths were sponsored by several churches, and literature evangelists had displays in five locations.

The Calhoun County churches, including Battle Creek, Marshall and Urandale, cooperated with the Battle Creek Sanitarium Hospital to operate a booth.

Louise Drake, communication director of the Marshall Church, helped direct the program, and she said the plan involved about 60 people. Careful planning resulted in few problems, Mrs. Drake said.

By working together the churches found that they could afford a larger booth, and there were more people available to work in the project. A preliminary training session was held for the helpers so they would know exactly what to do.

Churches sponsoring fair booths are subsidized by the Michigan Conference for their expenses if they submit a budget at the beginning of the summer and receipts at the end of the project.

Sabbath School displays brought ribbons to children at the Jackson County fair. Back issues of Our Little Friend were available free.

The Jackson County booth featured a display of food models. Visitors were invited to choose their food for the day and figure the calories, fats and carbohydrates.

A corner of the tent at the Berrien County fair featured an old-fashioned kitchen complete with wood stove and an old pump. Samples of vegetarian food, served free, added the final touch.

The Saginaw Church fair booth emphasized community services and health.

Berrien County Youth Fair participants could hardly miss the large striped tent on the main thoroughfare sponsored by area churches.

For this beautiful display of nature, a group of Jackson children received not only a blue ribbon but a cash award for their efforts.

GREEN BAY SCHOOL INITIATES PRACTICAL ARTS PROGRAM

A new Practical Arts program was presented at the first Home and School meeting at the Green Bay School.

Home and School Leader Mavis Armstrong introduced and welcomed the two new pastoral families, the Bill Wilsons and the Frank Bacchuses, and then turned the program over to Steve Aust, principal, who explained the new program. The practical arts program, which is family centered, will guide parents in the teaching and grading of their children in the everyday tasks of home improvement and maintenance and other vital areas.

The Green Bay School has an enrollment of 45 students, a 20-percent increase over last year. The three teachers are Steve Aust, Roland Bruntz, and Judy Crawford.

Many of the members have contributed to the school this summer by voluntarily helping to spruce up the school plant.

4 FAMILIES DEDICATE CHILDREN IN POUND

A baby dedication was recently conducted at the Pound Church. Dan Towar, pastor, officiated as the following babies were dedicated to the Lord: Tiffany April, daughter of Cecil and Bonnie Howard; Jessica Rose, daughter of Ed and Diane Dyer; Delcy Rolanda, daughter of Dan and Kim Gillen, and Virginia Elaine, daughter of Barb and Larry Wilmot.

CHRISTIAN LIFE STYLE FOR THE 80's

Dr. Ezbon Jen and his wife, the former Sue Champion, Wisconsin Academy alumni of 1971, were guest speakers from September 15 to 20 at Wisconsin Academy for a special series entitled "Christian Life Style for the 80's."

Each day a presentation was given by Dr. and Mrs. Jen to illustrate how man can be restored to the image of God.

Included in the presentations were the basic health principles of a well-balanced diet and exercise. The keeping of a strong relationship with God in all avenues of life was also emphasized.

On Sabbath morning the Jens concluded the series with the challenge that all things are possible when a person gives himself entirely to God.

These Cuban refugees were baptized recently at Fort McCoy, Wisconsin.

19 CUBANS FIND FREEDOM

Nineteen Cuban refugees were baptized on August 16, 1980, at Fort McCoy, Wisconsin. Cesar Puesan, pastor of the Milwaukee Spanish Church, conducted the service. Assisting Elder Puesan was Elder Ismael Rojas.

Also sharing in the occasion was Robert Dale, Wisconsin Conference president, and Daniel Cristancho of Andrews University. Both men had spent many weeks studying with the refugees.

Efforts to reach the Cubans were begun before their arrival at Fort McCoy, when Seventh-day Adventist Community Service Volunteers worked for days packaging new-clothing packets to assist the American Red Cross.

"Many Spanish Bibles were also distributed," says Daniel Cristancho. "Many of the refugees had never seen a Bible, and many were atheists."

Becoming candidates for baptism was not an easy matter. For some it meant victories over smoking and other habits, but there were expressions of joy and gratitude as the Cubans took their stand and received their baptismal certificates.

One of the candidates, Benedicto Zapata Ricardo, has been instrumental in involving most of the refugees in his barracks in intensive Bible study.

He says: "I have never been so busy and happy doing something good! At first I was like most of the other refugees hanging by the fence, dying to go out. Now I don't care even if I am the last to go out."

For Benedicto, being able to embrace the principles of the Bible is one of the greatest freedoms of the United States.

After the baptism, the candidates celebrated the ordinance of humility and the Lord's Supper.

Eighty-three other individuals have indicated a desire to be baptized.

GREEN BAY SCHEDULES FAMILY NIGHT

In an effort to make more time for its members to spend with their families, the Green Bay Church has introduced Wednesday evening as family prayer meeting night.

Beginning at 7 P.M., the congregation meets for a short family-oriented devotional. At 7:30, the choir rehearses, the Pathfinders meet, the Pastor conducts a Bible Study group, and the Prayer and Praise Hour convenes.

At 8:30 on the four alternating Wednesday nights, the church and school boards and the finance, lay activities, and Sabbath School committees conduct their meetings.

Babysitting is provided, and the gym is open for volleyball.

Added to the members' enthusiastic response is Pastor Bill Wilson's hope that "this special church evening will bring us closer together as a church family and to the Lord as individuals."

TASKFORCE WORKERS AT WISCONSIN ACADEMY

Wisconsin Academy opened the week of August 25 with 188 students. Helping to carry out the school program are seven Taskforce workers.

Rhonda Clark from Walla Walla College and Cindy Guptill from Union College are assisting the girls' dean.

Dean Edwards from Southern Missionary College, Eric Emerson from Union College, and Scott Spies from Walla Walla College are assisting the men's dean.

Tom Trichinotis, a graduate of Milton College with a B.A. in business administration, is assisting in the business office.

Ben Dale of Walla Walla College and a graduate of Wisconsin Academy, is assisting Academy Pastor Lester Merklin.

CLEARWATER LAKE NEWS NOTES

● On September 20, Paul and Carol Spencer, Gina Klemp, and Michelle Evans became the first persons to be baptized in the Clearwater Lake Church since the early 1900's. Through the years baptisms for Clearwater Lake membership have been in a lake or, more recently, in the Rhinelander Church. The Clearwater Lake Church recently purchased and installed a baptistry. District Pastor Jack Henderson officiated.

● A baby dedication was conducted at the Clearwater Lake Church on September 20. Jack Henderson, pastor, dedicated Melissa Klemp, daughter of Ron and Lynn Klemp.

Edward and Shirley Barnett

EDWARD BARNETT is the new associate pastor of the Cicero, Noblesville and Elwood, Indiana churches. He and his wife, Shirley, are both graduates of Atlantic Union College. They served as student missionaries in Hong Kong where Ed taught seventh- and eight-grade in the Adventist school, and Shirley worked in the Adventist hospital as a registered nurse. Ed's first assignment was in Crawfordsville where he spent a year contacting interested people who were first visited during the Festival of the Word.

GARY BEAGLES of Missouri, taught two years at Blue Mountain Academy in Pennsylvania, and one year in public high school. He now teaches mathematics at Grand Ledge Academy in Michigan.

ROBERT CANGELOSI, a native of Illinois, taught one year at Pioneer Valley Academy in Massachusetts and is now teaching choir and band at Grand Ledge Academy in Michigan.

BECKY FROST, a 1980 Andrews University graduate from Springfield, Virginia, has been selected by the General Conference as a communication intern for the university's public relations department. The two-year position is one of 12 authorized in the continental United States and is jointly sponsored by Andrews and the General Conference communication department. Miss Frost received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and communication in June. She will serve as feature editor of the university's Focus magazine, and assist in a wide number of public relations activities under Chris Robinson, director of the department. She plans to pursue graduate study in English in addition to her new duties.

DAVID HENDERSON of Illinois, a graduate of Andrews University, is teaching physical education and history at Grand Ledge Academy in Michigan.

RON HESSEL is the new dean of men and freshman Bible instructor for Wisconsin Academy. Ron, originally from British Columbia, graduated from Walla Walla College with a B.A. in theology and a minor in health. He taught Bible at Upper Columbia Academy. Ron and his wife, Barbara, have two daughters, Mabelle and Malinda.

JEFFREY LAURITZEN is directing the choir and band and teaching private lessons in voice and musical instruments at Wisconsin Academy. Jeffrey and his wife, Vicky, and daughter, Rebecca Lynn, are from Kansas City, Missouri, where Jeffrey taught at Cedarvale Junior Academy. He graduated from Union College with a B.S. in music.

SID LLOYD is in charge of health, physical education and recreation at Wisconsin Academy. Sid graduated from Walla Walla College with a B.S. in health and physical education. He taught one year at Lake City Junior Academy, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. In 1975 he went to Bangladesh for a year as a surgical assistant and scrub nurse. He also worked in youth summer camps in Idaho and Oregon.

RUBEN DARIO SANCHEZ, pastor of several Spanish Adventist churches in Chicago from 1972 to 1977, has been appointed director of the Bible school, public relations, and development for La Voz de la Esperanza, the Spanish Voice of Prophecy.

JAN SORENSEN is the new dean of girls at Wisconsin Academy. Mrs. Sorensen and her son, Andy, came from Maryland where she had been working for Amazing Facts Radiobroadcast. She graduated from Union College, Lincoln, Nebraska, with a B.S. in social work and worked for three years in the Nebraska State Welfare department in Lincoln. She lived for some time in Cuzco and Lima, Peru.
