"For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land;..." The Song of Solomon 2:11, 12, KJV.

NEARLY a year ago Gordon Frase, a pastor in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, received an It Is Written interest card with the name of Beverly Johnson, who lived 50 miles away from any Adventist churches. Her interest had begun when she heard of the book and cassette narrative on the "Theater of the Universe," being offered by It Is Written. She requested and received the material and began to study the story of the Bible as told in this book.

It Is Written notified Pastor Frase of her interest, and he drove 50 miles to her home in the western part of the Upper Peninsula. Mrs. Johnson was pleased to meet Pastor Frase, and expressed an interest in having Bible studies. These were soon started.

When Pastor Frase gave her the lesson on the Sabbath to be studied for the next visit, he mistakenly left two lessons—the second on the change of the Sabbath. When he discovered what he had done, he prayed that the Holy Spirit would guide her study of the lessons. When Pastor Frase returned to Mrs. Johnson's home, she had already studied both lessons and had decided to keep the Sabbath.

The pastor wanted to invite her family to attend the Adventist Church 50 miles away, but he thought they would think it was too far. He was surprised when Mrs. Johnson asked if they could attend his church. They went the next Sabbath.

As studies continued, Mrs. Johnson's two daughters, Jackie and Vicky, and her husband, Duane, began to listen and became interested. On Sabbath, September 20, 1980, Mrs. Johnson was baptized. Pastor Frase continued the Bible studies with the rest of the family, and step by step they, too, accepted all the teachings of Jesus.

Beverly's daughter Vicky was a star player on the local high school girls' basketball team. She was highly respected by her fellow students and the people in the community. Her team was headed for the Upper Peninsula playoffs. When the playoff games were scheduled on Sabbath, Vicky told her teammates and coaches that she could not play. Pressure was placed on her to change her mind. The others felt they could not win without her. Though severely tested, Vicky held firm to her decision to follow Jesus all the way.

Vicky, like Moses of old, chose that better part: "Esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt" and enduring, "as seeing him who is invisible." Hebrews 11:26, 27. Her faithfulness was a remarkable witness to her friends and the community. On Sabbath, January 31, 1981, Vicky, her sister, Jackie, and her stepfather, Duane, were baptized by Elder Frase, and joined the Houghton-Hancock Church.

'There's always something to be thankful for'

by Grace Green

EDNA Norris likes to look back over the years of her life to see how God has been with her. She was born just before the turn of the century to Olive and Hubert Sweet. Her mother was an Adventist but her father was not. Because of her parents' differences, Edna did not attend church school until the seventh grade. Then she attended Bethel Academy and graduated in 1913.

Still little more than a girl herself, Edna went to Shennington, Wisconsin, in the fall of 1913 to teach Olive, Evelyn and Della Cady in their home. Her wages, besides room and board, were $12 a month. Both church and school were held in this home. The children had homemade "cracker-box" desks. One of Edna's pupils, Olive, married Frank Pitchen, and was held in affectionate esteem by students and friends of Wisconsin Academy.

In 1914 Edna went to La Farge, Wisconsin, where she taught for two years. She had 20 pupils and received $20 a month while boarding in a different home each month. In 1916 Edna met and married Earl Norris of La Farge. They had two children, Virginia and Irene.

Earl was not a healthy man, so the burden of the farm and home were left largely to Edna. But Edna says, "In the worst of times there's always something to be thankful for."

Even though Edna never entered the classroom again, she did not stop teaching—through the years she has taught on every Sabbath School level, as well as holding nearly every office in the church.

Throughout her life, Edna has seen God's consistent help. This is well illustrated in her continued success at Ingathering. For 25 years Edna has gone Ingathering to local businesses. I accompanied her last fall, and it was a pleasure for me to see how the business people enjoyed her visit and were ready to give, some of them increasing their donations over previous years.

In spite of declining health, Edna continues to say, "God will take care of me, just like he has all these years."

Adventist Radio Evangelism in Michiana

ONE million Michiana residents, from Logansport to South Haven and from Michigan City to Kalamazoo, will soon be able to hear the Adventist message in voice and song 18 hours a day. That is, if plans of local Seventh-day Adventists continue as scheduled.

The idea of an AM gospel radio station for southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana originated several years ago. Early last year an investigation into the feasibility of such a station was made. However, no frequencies were available at that time, and the possibility of obtaining one was remote.

Then last spring miracle number one happened. The Federal Communications Commission made its important "clear channel decision." This action, adopted on May 29, 1980, gave protection of up to only 750 miles to the old established clear channel stations in America's larger cities. The commission hoped to encourage local program services, especially for nonprofit and minority groups.

The staff at WAUS, Andrews University's fine arts station, saw the F.C.C. decision as an opportunity to present the possibility of a full-time evangelistic voice for the community. University administrators and Lake Union Conference officials gave the green light to investigate the feasibility of such a project, provided funds could be found to support it.

Allen Steele, WAUS general manager and coordinator of the new AM project, relates "We could see the Lord's leading right from the start." Within 10 days, supportive Adventist laymen in the area provided $3,300 for license preparation. "That was miracle number two," he said. "Miracle number three was when the consulting engineers discovered there was an excellent channel available for a nondirectional facility, thereby permitting use of the existing FM tower for the AM antenna."

With the formation of a legal nonprofit corporation as owner, the application for a license was prepared and submitted to the F.C.C. on September 28. The Berrien Broadcasting Corporation, formed as a minority group with Lake Union Conference President Robert H. Carter as chairman, applied for a 500-watt facility at 640 kHz.

Local Adventist ministers act as an advisory council to the WAUS staff who are planning and will operate the new station. "Although final programming plans are still solidifying," said Mr. Steele, "the main feature of the station will be about 12 hours a day of good gospel music. Care will be taken," he asserts, "to carefully choose music of high standard, in contrast to many so-called gospel stations that actually are a disgrace with their gospel rock and rhythm."

Other program plans call for a possible three hours per day in Spanish, America's number-one minority language, as well as programs for Blacks and a small block of weekly foreign-language broadcasts. A special feature will be Adventist-produced programs on good health, nutrition, Bible doctrines and regular news.

"With the university's resources," said Mr. Steele, "we feel our programming will be of such a quality that it will be in demand for use on other stations around the country."

Michiana Seventh-day Adventists will take part in a special fund-raising campaign for the new station during March, and according to Mr. Steele, it is conceivable that the new station will be on the air by Christmas.

The Key to a Finished Work

by George Dronen

ENDOWED with energy, Empowered with the omnipotence of heaven, and inspired with a zeal to win, Adventist youth hold in their hands the key to a finished work.

The church offers many areas for a young person to minister. And many young people are asking, "Where can I get the most practical experience to prepare me to serve my church effectively?"

Ellen White, speaking of the publishing work, had this to say in the Review and Herald, June 4, 1908: "The Lord has instituted a plan whereby many students in our schools can learn practical lessons needful to success in afterlife."

Many young people have a desire to witness but they lack experience in meeting people. They need to know how to attract and hold their attention, how to be an effective witness.

Mrs. White gives this advice: "In evangelistic canvassing, young men may become better prepared for ministerial labor than by spending many years in school."—Colporteur Ministry, p. 34.

Acting on this advice, publishing leaders in the Lake Union do everything they can to encourage young people in the literature ministry.

From March 30 through April 2 this year, local conference publishing leaders will be interviewing young men and women for the student literature evangelist program at Andrews University.

Publishing directors will also be speaking to the students at the Lake Union academies later this spring.

There are multiple advantages in the literature ministry. Not only do young people gain practical experience in witnessing, but many of them can expect to pay their expenses for an entire school year in 10 weeks of work during the summer.

For example, if a student sells only three sets of The Bible Story, with a large copy of The Great Controversy or The Desire of Ages each week for 10 weeks, his sales will total $8,000.

For this he will receive commissions totaling $2,100; a scholarship bonus from the local conference/H.H.E.S. of $960, and his school will provide an additional $365, for a total of $3,425. These figures may vary according to financing.

What do some of the experienced student evangelists say of their work?

Angela Bevins of Wisconsin Academy says, "This summer's experience is continuing throughout my everyday life."

Karen Koliadko of Andrews University says, "This work is extra special because I am working close to God."

And John Stafford, who is a missionary on study leave at Andrews University, reported $10,000 in sales in just five weeks last summer.

God needs the energy, enthusiasm, and zealous effort of young people in literature evangelism. Why don't you give Him a chance to use you this summer? Contact your local publishing department for more information.

HOSPITAL PAYS EMPLOYEES TO KICK THE HABIT

HINSDALE—Representative of the hospital's commitment to health principles, and because of fire and health hazards associated with smoking, a new program at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital will pay any employee who can quit smoking and remain a nonsmoker.

To participate in the new program, the employee enrolls in one of eight stop-smoking clinics held at the Health Education Center throughout the year. The employee pays half of the usual fee. On successful completion of the four-week course, the employee receives $50.

At the end of one smoke-free year, the initial payment of $50 will be matched by another $50, bringing the first year's total to $100.

For the next three years, employees may again collect after they sign a statement indicating they have remained smoke-free during the year. At the end of the second year, the employee will earn $100.

The third year's payment is $75, and the fourth year's is $50. That is a total of $325, in addition to the invaluable benefit of good health.

Hinsdale Hospital believes that encouraging employees to adopt better health habits will benefit the hospital in the form of less employee sick time. Other employee health incentives include a 50-percent discount on health education programs, and a weight-loss program similar to the stop-smoking plan.

HINSDALE NEWS NOTES

● A recent study comparing employee benefits at Hinsdale Hospital in 1970 and 1980 has shown that the monetary value of benefits has increased by 241 percent in the past 10 years, according to Glen Robinson, public relations assistant. Employee benefits added since 1970 include unemployment insurance, free shuttle-bus service, major medical insurance, weight-loss program, a second mortgage program, employee discounts for community health education classes, and life insurance coverage through the hospital.

● Hinsdale Hospital employees and volunteers donated 2,568 pounds of nonperishable food items and $32.50 in cash during the annual Food Sharing Drive held December 15 to 19. The donations will be distributed to needy families throughout 1981 by Hinsdale Community Service, a non-Adventist service group in the village of Hinsdale.

● Eight students from the four schools on the Hinsdale Hospital campus received a total of $1,600 in scholarships from the hospital's Medical Distaff (doctor's wives). The scholarship money came from proceeds of the ice-cream social held at the hospital on September 3. Recipients of the scholarships were: Janet Foster and Roselyn Adetumbi, Andrews University School of Nursing; Molly Marshall and Suzanne Stone, School of Practical Nursing; Tim Hamstra and Robin Hoyt, School of Radiology; and Marilyn Pang and Willie Posey, School of Medical Technology. Miss Foster and Mrs. Adetumbi received $300 scholarships and the other students received $150 each.

● To help ease the parking shortage at Hinsdale Hospital, an employee parking incentive program was begun on December 22. Employees receive $1 for each day they park their cars at the hospital's Health Education Center, located about a mile north of the hospital. A shuttle-bus transports the employees from their cars to the hospital. This program provides temporary relief for employees, who look forward to the completion of the hospital's new 550-car parking garage, scheduled for early fall.

HAGLE TO BE HONORED DURING FOUNDER'S WEEK

James L. Hagle, former president of Worthington Foods and administrator of Harding Hospital (Ohio), will be honored as part of the university's upcoming Founder's Week celebration on March 8. Mr. Hagle graduated from Emmanuel Missionary College in 1935.

According to Dale E. Twomley, dean of the School of Business and presentation speaker, the story of Jim Hagle's growth as a Christian businessman for more than 35 years is in many ways the story of Worthington Foods.

Mr. Hagle nurtured the Worthington business endeavor in its infancy, lead in its growth and development, and took crucial steps which determined its future maturation.

"Jim Hagle is a businessman with a difference," Dr. Twomley asserts. "He has the uncommon combination of successful board room negotiating and Christian witnessing skills rolled into one."

The honorary program will take place in the university's Seminary Chapel at 8 P.M.

Other Founder's Week highlights include a student assembly program on the history of the campus newspaper, The Student Movement, at 10:30 A.M., March 5, in Johnson Auditorium.

Friday evening vespers, March 6, will consist of music and poetry composed by alumni, faculty and students of Andrews. The program will take place at 7:30 P.M. in Pioneer Memorial Church.

The Sabbath morning services on March 7 will be conducted by Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, university president. That afternoon at 3 P.M., Warren S. Ashworth, professor in the religion department, will give a presentation on E. A. Sutherland, founder of the university.

Chapel on March 9 at 10:30 A.M. will feature Asa C. Thoresen, chairman of the biology department, in a reflection of "What Christian Education Has Meant To Me."

AEOLIANS HIGHLIGHT BLACK HISTORY WEEK

A special evening concert performed by the Oakwood College Aeolians on February 14 was one of the many highlights of the Black History Week celebration held at the university February 9 through 14. Noted black speakers from Adventist institutions and the General Conference spoke during student assembly and chapel periods. Other events included special presentations by on-campus groups such as the Black Student Christian Forum and Chapter I, a dramatic group. The overall theme for 1981's Black History Week at the university was "Black History: Role Model For Youth."

FORD RESUMES TEACHING CAREER

Dwain Ford

Dwain L. Ford, currently dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the university, will be leaving the deanship in June this year to return to teaching, according to Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, university president. Dr. Ford, who was made dean of the college in 1971, will once again instruct in the chemistry department.

Dr. Smoot made the announcement in a meeting of the university's department chairmen last month. "Dwain Ford is one of the most loved and respected teachers on our campus. He is known for his personal interest in the students he works with. I feel that the university has been fortunate to have Dr. Ford as a member of our administration for almost 10 years."

Before coming to Andrews in 1962, Dr. Ford spent nine years as a science teacher at Wisconsin Academy in Columbus. He taught in the Andrews chemistry department for nine years and was chairman of that department before becoming dean of the college.

Many important developments have occurred during his administration. The university has organized the College of Technology, and more recently, the School of Business. Departments of information science and communicative disorders have also been established.

Five departments and their programs have recorded professional recognition from their respective national or state organizations. They include: chemistry, dietetics, home economics, nursing and social work.

Also, under Dr. Ford's direction, a degree in medical technology is awarded to students if they attend a professional school during their clinical year accredited by the Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Ford earned a bachelor's degree from Andrews in 1949 and a Ph.D. from Clark University in 1962. He has held a National Science Foundation Fellowship three times, and was a participant in Clark University's Steroid Training Program sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.

He directed the analytical work on two contracts with the United States Department of Agriculture for nutrition studies in cooperation with the Andrews home economics department, and is currently administrator of the Berrien County Drug Identification Laboratory, where drugs are analyzed on behalf of law-enforcement officials.

"Teaching is my first love," said Dr. Ford. "I look forward to returning to the classroom, to be more closely associated with students. I will be advising freshmen, and doing research, as well as teaching my regular classes, and I am very excited at the thought."

Thirty-two people were baptized after Revelation Seminars in Elmhurst last fall.

1980 EVANGELISM REPORT FROM ELMHURST

As 1980 drew to a close, almost everyone at the Elmhurst Church felt that it had been a year of miracles. When the Sabbath School Investment secretary encouraged each member to take on a money-making project to further the Lord's work, with God as a partner, there were many with faith to give it a try. And then the miracles began to happen.

Penny Sczekan and Georgia Allen presented natural foods cookery classes in September in the Elmhurst Church.

On May 18, the Elmhurst community and church friends enjoyed a spring garden fair in the church fellowship hall. The fair featured crafts, plants and an old-fashioned bake sale.

Individually and collectively the members worked on projects that totaled more than $3,000 as the Investment year ended. That was a miracle.

Various public meeting places throughout Elmhurst were chosen to hold four Daniel seminars. A total of 175 nonmembers came to hear them.

When the team of students from the Lake Union Soul-Winning Institute were invited to help distribute an invitation of coming events at Elmhurst, that was a miracle, too. Before the outreach activities began, these students had reached hundreds of homes in the area, and 80 Bible studies were begun.

On August 24, the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking began. Approximately 24 persons attended each night. The meeting was conducted by Roy Wightman, vice president of Adventist Health System North.

The natural foods cookery class was enjoyed by 116 people continuously for six weeks with the direction of Mark and Ernestine Finley.

Stress management classes were also attended by the community in September. Practical guidelines in learning to cope with the tension and pressures of everyday life were focal points of interest at each session.

In October, Health Fair '80 proved to be a money-saving, well-received project in the area. Designed to offer a free and complete health screening, the number of people registered totaled 175.

The last invitation to be distributed was entitled "The Revelation Lectures" by Mark Finley, director of the institute.

For seven weeks Elder Finley preached the distinctive message of Seventh-day Adventists. A Bible was given to each person who attended every lecture.

Every night the people came—filling the sanctuary and balcony to capacity, and spilling over into the foyer and aisles.

Thirty-two new church members also attended the dinner.

Elmhurst is happy to welcome to the church staff an associate pastor, Richard Peterson and his wife, Beth. Recently from the soul-winning institute, Ardyce Sween has also joined Elmhurst as Bible instructor.

Together we pray that God will continue to be with the Elmhurst Church members as they strive for an even greater miracle in 1981.

Pastor Cottrell presented books and a plaque to Patricia Dwyer during the community service award program at the North Shore Church.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARDS PRESENTED AT NORTH SHORE

On December 13, 1980, the North Shore Church held a special service honoring those people who helped make the 1980 Chicago Health Fair a success. North Shore was one of 40 sites in Chicago that provided free medical testing.

Pastor Stanley W. Cottrell presented community service award plaques commemorating outstanding service to: Don Kumler, director of the 1980 Health Fair Project for Chicago; Patricia Dwyer, director of public relations; Gerard McLain, director of health education at Hinsdale Hospital, and June Jacobson, president of community services for the Illinois Conference and director of community services at the North Shore Church.

In addition, Don Kumler and Pat Dwyer, who are not Adventists, each received the Conflict of the Ages set and a copy of Ministry of Healing by Ellen G. White. Helen Uhlenhuth, director of nursing services, and Agnes Rowen of the Health Fair Project also received awards.

More than 200 people took advantage of the free medical testing offered at North Shore on the weekends of October 5 and 12, 1980.

Pastor Rick Blythe and Nancy and Roy Good demonstrated the Dukane projector at the elders and pastors meeting.

ELDERS ADVISORY MEETS AT CICERO

For the past several years, local church elders and pastors have had an annual meeting to learn of the state of the conference. On Sunday, January 18, 1981, more than 100 attended the meeting held in the Indiana Academy chapel.

G. W. Morgan, president of the Indiana Conference, presented the devotional. In his message he alerted the church elders to the challenges facing the church from within and without. He challenged them to become students of God's Word.

Tom Massengill gave a report of the financial condition of the conference for 1980. He reported a 8.2 percent increase in tithe over the previous year.

Nearly $110,000 went into public evangelism. This includes all public meetings and sponsored It Is Written telecasts.

The elders were pleased to learn that $167,461.22 came in through Indiana Advance offerings. It was encouraging to find out that the first two boys' dormitories and the cafeteria have been paid off.

In the afternoon session Elder

Lester Carney led the elders in a discussion of methods of personal evangelism.

Pastor Rick Blythe, and two recent converts from the Marion Church, Nancy and Roy Good, demonstrated the Dukane Cartridge Projection System and the Encounter series of Bible studies.

This method of Bible study had been very influential in the conversion of this couple. They are now using it to bring God's message to others.

Elder Morgan and Ed Skoretz, conference lay activities director, expressed to the elders the conference's desire for 1981 to reach out and reclaim former Seventh-day Adventists.

At the conclusion of the meeting a bus was waiting outside to take the elders and pastors on a tour of the new boys' dormitory, expected to be completed in just a few weeks.

CICERO NEWS NOTES

• The 1980 Ingathering Victory Social Hour was held January 17 in the Indiana Academy gym for the church and the academy. Since the academy students spent two evenings soliciting for the Cicero goal, the church served refreshments to them in appreciation for their efforts. Ribbons were awarded to those who solicited $25 or more. The top solicitor was Martha Murphy, who solicited $137. Certificates for Camp Timber Ridge were given to three junior youth. This entitles them to go to camp for half price because they raised $100 for Ingathering.

• The Home and School meeting of the Cicero Church School was held in the multi-purpose room of the school on Sunday evening, January 18. A short devotional by Pastor Ed Barnett was followed by the first performance of the newly organized school band, directed by Band Master Paul Haynes. The film "Cipher in the Snow" was shown, and while the children were entertained with games in the gym, the parents were led in discussion by Joyce Rodie, assistant educational superintendent, Indiana Conference. The question of self-esteem was discussed. The seventh- and eighth-grade room was awarded $10 for bringing the most parents and friends to the meeting.

A. C. Humphrey, food service director, and a helper served the participants at the cafeteria dedication.

INDIANA ACADEMY CAFETERIA DEDICATED

"Paid in full," were words spoken by G. W. Morgan, president of the Indiana Conference, at the January 16 Indiana Academy Cafeteria dedication.

"Since 1973 when the boys' dormitory and cafeteria projects were launched, more than a million dollars have been raised to make this dedication service possible," declared Harold Zacharias, conference building superintendent.

Herbert Wrate, director of education for Indiana, praised God in his dedication prayer for providing improved facilities at the academy.

The Indiana church leaders attending the dedication had earlier been thanked for their enthusiastic support of the Indiana Advance Two Percent Plus Plan.

In 1980, the churches gave $172,482.25 or .64 of one percent for the Indiana Advance program. With a trust maturity of $53,000 and two lesser property sales, the cafeteria was paid off.

Not only did the building fund receive $86,241.12 in 1980, but Indiana Advance funds raised $75,029.78 for elementary educational costs and Timber Ridge Camp received 6½ percent, or $11,211.35 for operational needs.

"Everyone in '81" giving to the Indiana Advance Two Percent Plus Plan will pay the building costs on the new north dorm for boys, scheduled for occupancy this month.

Indiana Adventists are focusing on a finished work. The Indiana Advance program releases more money for evangelism. Could it be that this is one reason 1980 was the best year in soul-winning since 1972—331 persons joined the church family!

HUNTINGBURG NEWS NOTES

● In addition to the 68 Bible study request cards received during the colporteur home-to-home survey of Huntingburg last May, another 100 request cards have been received from a direct mailing done in November. Truly there is a hungering and thirsting after the Word of God in this community. Please pray for the small band of 11 Adventist believers here, that we can somehow meet this need by leading them to Jesus.

● The Huntingburg congregation accepted an invitation to participate in the community Thanksgiving celebration sponsored by the city's churches. It has been a long-standing tradition in this agricultural community to have a special service of thanks for the year's harvest. Pastor Ron Olney was asked to have the scripture reading for the program and Ruth Helzerman, church member, performed with the Dubois County orchestra and with the Huntingburg Ladies Music Club Choir. Accompanied on the piano by Sandy Olney, Richard and Ruth Helzerman sang a duet as representatives of the Adventist Church. The annual event was held in the Salem United Church of Christ with most of the city's churches participating.

● The completed outer shell of the new church is in place and work is now being done on the inside, according to Ruth Helzerman, communication secretary. An early spring evangelistic crusade is an incentive for the members to finish the work. A debt of gratitude is sincerely felt by all Huntingburg members to Mr. and Mrs. Otis Rupright of West Lafayette, Indiana, for their generous gift of the completed shell and their dedicated labor in erecting it. A community grand opening is being planned when the church is ready for use in the spring.

COMPUTER POWER AT BURNS AVENUE

In an effort to eliminate some of the tedious, time-consuming work of the church treasurer, the Burns Avenue Seventh-day Adventist Church of Detroit purchased a micro-computer system in March last year. The system will assist in managing the financial records for the church's 30 departments and more than 800 members.

The computer system consists of Radio Shack's TRS-80 Model I Micro-Computer which uses the "plain-english" BASIC programming language, two mini floppy-disk drives, a line printer, and other accessories.

Since March, Sherry Gardner, the church treasurer, and her husband, Timothy Gardner, the programmer, have been developing the programs needed to perform many of the tasks the treasurer would ordinarily perform. Various tasks such as adding, deleting, changing, and updating records are handled quickly and easily.

In addition to helping with the church's financial records, the computer is also being used to maintain a data base for the church membership and to generate church directories and mailing lists.

Other uses being planned for the computer include inventory control of the church property and its health-food store, as an educational tool for Bible studies, and many more.

RANGERS INDUCT NEW MEMBERS

The Rangers Pathfinder Club of the Emmanuel Church, Chicago Heights, Illinois, recently held a candlelight induction ceremony for two new members. Regina Smith and Catherine Washington, both 10½, were administered the Pathfinder pledge and law by Jessica Washington, Stacy Champion and Renae Manson. This dignified and beautiful ceremony began with a precision color-guard drill, and was enjoyed by other Pathfinders, church members and friends.

TEEN SNOW OUTING ATTRACTS 430

The Teen Snow Outing at Camp Au Sable, January 9 to 11, attracted more campers than any winter camp in history according to Merrill Fleming, Michigan Pathfinder director.

About 430 campers spent the weekend skating, snow-mobiling, sledging, skiing, sleigh-riding, tobogganing, playing games, making snow sculptures and benefiting from a spiritual emphasis by Des Cummings Jr. of Andrews University.

The Berrien Springs Wolverine club presented the Sabbath School program, and Pathfinder coordinators from all areas in Michigan directed the activities. These volunteer helpers were a real asset to the camp, Elder Fleming said.

Cooks for the weekend also volunteered their services at no cost to the conference. Mr. and Mrs. William Null of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brower of Bauer, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Willis of Charlotte fed the capacity crowd.

Camp Au Sable offers many acres of trails for cross-country skiing.

LAKEVIEW CHURCH CONSECRATED

George Crumley, Lake Union Conference treasurer, led the Lakeview congregation in the act of consecration at the February 7 opening service of their new church. Pictured, from left, the participants were Norman Yeager, former pastor of Lakeview who delivered the consecration address; Ammi Pierce, builder of the church; Mrs. Glenn Herzog, church treasurer who read the history; Glenn Herzog, chairman of the building committee who, with his wife, donated the land on which the church was built; Elder Crumley, and Roscoe Nelson, present church pastor. In spite of slippery roads and snow, more than 200 people crowded into the 100-seat building for the opening services. Highlights of the day included a music program by the Cedar Lake Academy brass ensemble and the Madrigal singers. Conference President Charles Keymer delivered the morning sermon, and sang "Bless This House," at the consecration service. The estimated value of the new church is $150,000.

PATIENCE BRINGS RESULTS

Katherine Kuerbitz, L.P.N., wife of the elder at the Long Lake Church, attended the Wiese-Danforth evangelistic series in Tawas City in 1979 and purchased a complete set of tapes of the meetings. Katherine took the tapes to work with her at a nursing home in Rose City and played them softly in the nurse's station where she worked. Another nurse, Marjorie Barron, also listened to the tapes. Marjorie was no stranger to Adventism but could never accept the Sabbath doctrine until she listened to the tapes. Marjorie and her two daughters were recently baptized by Elder Jim Danforth and joined the Long Lake Church. Pictured are, from left, Pastor Danforth, Jodi, Marjorie and Marcie Barron, and Katherine Kuerbits in front.

BAPTISMS AT L'ANSE

Gordon Frase, pastor of the L'Anse and Houghton churches in the Upper Peninsula, baptized Vicky Evans, a 6-foot-1-inch high school basketball star, and her sister and father on January 21. For the rest of the story, see Charles Keymer's article on page 2.

LISTEN IN WISCONSIN

"Oh, yes, Listen magazine! I use that all the time in my classroom," said an educator attending a recent health-emphasis fair at the University of Wisconsin, Stevens Point.

Frequently, throughout the day of presentations on better living by Adventist Youth for Better Living teams from Wisconsin Academy, AYBL sponsor Byron Chalker and Dale Ziegele, conference temperance director, heard comments of delight and interest about Listen magazine.

Thoughtful junior high students studied the covers of the free copies of Listen and then smiled as they were encouraged to take a copy for themselves.

Life-styles are changed as young people become aware of the hidden hazards surrounding them. Perhaps most important, youth are able to model their lives after the positive examples of prominent successful youth.

Churches in Wisconsin are among the most faithful in the nation to see that Listen magazine is not missing from public school libraries and classrooms statewide.

Educators and communities are looking to us for answers as they attempt to cope with drugs, alcohol and other substances which warp the lives of their youth.

Thank you for making Listen a priority as you distribute God's treasure in your hand.

WAGER ACCEPTS CALL TO LAKE UNION

Wyman Wager, trust services director of the Michigan Conference, recently accepted the call to head the same department in the Lake Union Conference. He has served in the trust services department in Michigan for the last seven years.

Wyman Wager

Before that his 14 years of denominational employment included hospital administration at Orlando, Florida; Boulder, Colorado, and Loma Linda University hospitals.

Born and reared near Owosso, he attended Emmanuel Missionary College. Elder Wyman counts Michigan his home. Here he spent 11 years in industry before denominational employment.

At the union office he succeeds David Johnston who left February 20 for service in the General Conference trust department. Wyman and his wife, Murna, will make a gradual transition to Berrien Springs.

LISTEN MAGAZINE NEEDS YOUR HELP

In 1954 I interviewed Lawrence Welk for Listen Magazine. He was just starting to become known nationwide, and had been playing at the Venice Pier in Southern California for about 20 years.

He exhibited a love for young people, and a desire to help those who needed help.

He said that he did not prohibit his band members from smoking, drinking or taking drugs, but he encouraged them not to become involved with these vices.

He said that two band members had become alcoholics, and were fired. But Mr. Welk reinstated them when they overcame their habit.

Mr. Welk said, "I am so interested in helping my friends, I'll do about anything to help them give up these vices that are injurious to their health, and if this article helps young people, I'll be happy."

That interview appeared in 1955 in Listen magazine. Since then many hundreds of people like Mr. Welk have cooperated with Listen to bring their stories to the youth of this nation, showing them that you can have a good life, without tobacco, alcohol and drugs.

Listen magazine is trying harder than ever to bring before the families and youth of today the results of these harmful products, and also the happiness one can enjoy without them.

The editorial staff of Listen magazine can produce a quality magazine, but it is up to us to circulate it. In this way people like Lawrence Welk can speak out to those caught up in these vices and say, "There is a better way, try it, and you'll see."

Support Listen magazine and send subscriptions today to schools, friends and the youth who need it most. Every Seventh-day Adventist family should be receiving Listen, because Adventist schools and homes are not immune to some of these problems.

Subscribe today to Listen, a journal of better living.

REVOLVING FUND AT WORK IN ILLINOIS

Are your investments safe?

As you anticipate the future, you will want your assets where they are the most secure. The Bible says in Matthew 6:19 and 20, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, . . ."

If the Lord came tomorrow, we would wish we had let Him have everything we owned to be used in His work.

To help the Lord's work, the church has a plan whereby you can let the church use your money until you need it, and at the same time earn interest.

The Lake Union Revolving Fund loans, to churches or schools, monies sent to them as investments by church members. The church or school is then charged a lower rate of interest. Thus, not as much of the members' contributions go to lending organizations, but are returned to them as investors with the Lord.

The Canton, Chicago Korean, and Prairie View churches are some of those which have borrowed from the Revolving Fund and paid back the loan already.

Current users of revolving funds in Illinois include Bolingbrook, Chicago Spanish North and Danville. The South Suburban and Galesburg Church Schools are also receiving funding. But many more churches are waiting for funds.
