Consultation II

*Robert H. Carter
President
Lake Union Conference*

EARLY last month it was my privilege to attend Consultation II, held at the General Conference headquarters. The purpose of Consultation II was clearly enunciated by the General Conference President, Neal C. Wilson, in his letter mailed before the meetings to the participants. He stated, "We need to keep building bridges and do everything we can to develop an harmonious thrust on the part of our theologians, Bible teachers, and administrative leaders."

The 200 delegates in attendance represented the following levels of church organization:

- General Conference
- World Divisions of the General Conference.
- North American Division and overseas union conferences
- Local conferences
- Institutions of higher learning
- Church pastors
- Laymen

The delegates were assigned to 10 study groups. After a moving devotion, these groups met for several hours each day to exchange convictions and ideas. Each group discussed three general topics:

- Toward unity in the message we hold.
- Terms of employment of pastors and teachers.
- Decision-making in the church.

In the late afternoons plenary sessions were held to receive formal reports of each group's conclusions.

The group discussions afforded the opportunity for administrations, scholars, pastors, and laymen to meet face to face. They studied together and spoke to each other. They spent seasons praying for one another.

While there have been some misunderstanding and over-reactions in the past, it soon became apparent that there is no widespread rift between administrators and scholars. In spite of efforts of some who had been proclaiming that there was suspicion, distrust and division within the ranks of church leadership, Consultation II proved that brotherhood and harmony still prevail.

I wish it were possible for every reader to have been present on Sabbath afternoon when the theologians and Bible teachers stood in response to their spokesman's appeal as an indication of their solid support of the fundamental beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It was a moving and reassuring experience. Those in attendance felt the presence of the Holy Spirit.

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

32 Hens and a Railroad Man

by Glenn H. Hill

When God takes the wheel of your life, things begin to happen.

ELMER and Eunice Peterson are active members of the Bauer, Michigan, Church, but it was not always so.

Elmer had been raised as an Adventist, but dropped out for a time. He didn't see how he could keep the Sabbath and earn a living. The prayers of his mother, his wife, and her mother, followed him. And even the chickens helped restore his faith and commitment to God.

The railroad was his job but he also enjoyed working his little farm. One day he bought 100 chickens, intending to sell their eggs. He fed them the best laying mash and took good care of them. Then he discovered that most of the chickens were roosters. He eliminated those, and continued to nurture the 32 hens. But he only got one or two eggs per day from the entire flock.

Finally his patience was at an end and he decided to put the hens right where the roosters were—in the deep freeze. But his wife, Eunice, asked if he would give them to the Lord instead and see what they could do. Elmer did that, with the definite understanding that Eunice would have to do all the feeding, watering and caring for them. Almost immediately the hens began doing better. One day those 32 hens laid 33 eggs, and Elmer was convinced there is a God. But he wasn't ready to return to church—yet.

Eunice belonged to the Shelby Church and wanted to give something special toward their building program. She asked Elmer about it. He remembered the debt that a drinking man owed him for helping chop corn for silage. Try as he would Elmer could not get that man to pay him. He always had excuses. So Elmer told the Shelby pastor, James Danforth, that he could have the whole amount of that debt for the church program—if they could collect it.

Together Elmer and the pastor headed for the debtor's house. They found him home. He greeted Elmer with a smile and said, "You know, I have been thinking about that debt and have decided to pay you off in full." He wrote out a check for the total. At the bank it proved good, and Elmer realized once again that God is able to care for His children. But Elmer still didn't ask for baptism.

Then one night he dreamed that a bright being spoke to him and said that if he didn't change his ways that Eunice was the only one in the house that was going to heaven. He awoke in a sweat. The dream was repeated on two other occasions, and Elmer promised Eunice and God that he would be baptized and start living according to God's plan.

He went to his boss on the railroad to ask for Sabbath off. He had made up his mind that he would honor God even if he lost that job. To his surprise the boss told Elmer that Sabbath would not be a problem. He could be off from sunset Friday to sunset Saturday. His boss said, "You see, my neighbor is a Seventh-day Adventist. You've got to hand it to those people—they live the way they believe."

Now Elmer and Eunice are united in the faith. They receive less money than before because of the Sabbath railroad runs that are lost. But the Lord has given them enough to meet their needs, and they are still generous in supporting His work. They have never forgotten how the Lord used chickens, a careless drinker and a series of dreams to help call Elmer back to his church.

'Let us come before his presence with Thanksgiving'

by Don Copsey

AS I review the past a great wave of gratitude wells up in my heart toward God for his blessings.

In the far reaches of the Sahara Desert there are a few places where water continually flows, forming an oasis. The memories of God's blessings are an oasis for me.

At this time of year, it seems appropriate to draw from these refreshing waters and review those times when we can most easily recognize the hand of God in our lives. He shows Himself in many ways.

God shows Himself in mercy.

Looking into her face and seeing the ravages of suffering was a never-to-be-forgotten experience. I had been asked by her family to visit her in the hospital during what proved to be her last illness.

The disease had raged for many months and she said she was tired of the struggle. As I tried to give comfort and assurance of God's love, she quickly reaffirmed her faith and confidence. Her only request was that God relieve her suffering. After prayer she seemed more comfortable, and at peace. A short time later she died. Even in their sorrow, her family praised God for His mercies.

God shows Himself by His grace.

He had just been told by the lawyer that his wife was suing for divorce. He was shattered. But as he reviewed the recent months, he could see that he was mostly responsible for his wife's decision.

As he asked for counsel and was directed to the God of forgiveness, a rather dramatic change took place. It was almost as if you could see the heart of the man being filled with God's forgiving love. Praise God for His forgiving grace.

God shows Himself in bountiful gifts.

The family had recently become Christians and brought into their new life all the debts and responsibilities of the old. As they reviewed for me their sad story, I recalled the many promises of God to rebuke the devourer. I shared several Bible texts with the family and appealed to them to put God to the test. After some serious heart searching they timidly agreed to try God's way.

Within a few months joy and thanksgiving were the theme of their every conversation. God had marvelously blessed them, and all things had indeed become new. Praise God for His bountiful blessings.

John the Revelator was shown God's people before the great throne. They were repeatedly shouting praises to God: "And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God." Revelation 19:1. Even the angels join in the chorus of praise and thanksgiving. Revelation 7:12.

And so I am eager to join in the chorus of praise to God. Yes, there has been disappointment, pain, loss and even tragedy, but He has not failed. He still watches over His own.

Won't you join me at this season of the year in thanking God for his bountiful goodness?

BROADVIEW STUDENTS PROMOTE COOKING SCHOOL

Broadview Academy Adventist Youth for Better Living (AYBL) students manned a booth in the St. Charles Mall during September to promote a cooking school. At the mall they gave away 200 meatless meatballs. Several people stated they were "surprised at how good the meatballs tasted," according to Esther Ramharacksingh, academy chaplain. The students offered recipes and an invitation to their cooking school, as well as information on meatless proteins. A condensed version of the film "Vegetables All Around" was shown.

ANDREWS ACADEMY SHARES FEAST WITH COMMUNITY

Part of the first weekend of spiritual emphasis at Andrews Academy included a fellowship feast. Students made sweetbreads and brought fruit and nuts and other symbols of sharing. After the feast, students took fruit plates to households in the community along with the biblical admonition to seek the fruits of the Spirit. A note accompanying each fruit plate encouraged the needy to contact the academy if the school could be of further help.

SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM ACCREDITED

Alfred Winn

The Andrews social work department was recently reaccredited for a full seven-year term by the Council of Social Work Education (C.S.W.E.), according to Alfred V.

Winn, department chairman.

"This means that our program fully meets the standards set by the social work profession for undergraduate social work education," Mr. Winn said.

The social work program at Andrews began in the late 1960's when the behavioral science department started offering social work classes. In 1971 a Bachelor of Social Work degree was offered and the C.S.W.E., which had not yet begun accrediting undergraduate programs, gave official approval to Andrews' program.

The social work department was accredited by C.S.W.E. in 1975. In 1976 the program received separate department status from the behavioral science area.

The department will be due for reaccreditation in 1987. "While that gives us some breathing space, we are already engaged in efforts to improve our current program." Mr. Winn said.

EQUIPMENT DONATED FOR MED TECH PROGRAM

Andrews has received an electrolyte analyzer donated by American Scientific Products of McGraw Park, Illinois, according to William Bradford, chairman of the allied health department.

Berrien General Hospital, the former owner of the analyzer, traded it in on the purchase of a new instrument. Mr. Bradford contacted the chief technologist of the clinical laboratory at Berrien, who was instrumental in making the request to American Scientific Products to donate the analyzer to Andrews for training purposes.

Manufactured by Instrumentation Laboratories, Inc. of Lexington, Massachusetts, the analyzer is a sodium-potassium flame photometer used to measure the concentration of those elements in blood serum and other body fluids.

The new piece of equipment will specifically benefit the medical technology program. Previously, Andrews borrowed an analyzer from Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital for training medical technology students in clinical procedures. The analyzer was returned to the hospital each time after instruction on its use was completed.

"We greatly appreciate this donation by American scientific Products," Mr. Bradford said. "We believe this equipment will be a real asset to our program here."

'ST. MARK'S GOSPEL' SCHEDULED DECEMBER 5

Eric Booth

The widely acclaimed Alec McCowen production of St. Mark's Gospel will be performed at Johnson Auditorium on the Andrews campus on December 5. The performance is sponsored by the Andrews Office of Student Affairs.

Eric Booth, well-known actor and descendent of 19th-century actor John Wilkes Booth, will give his solo interpretive performance of the King James Version of the second New Testament Gospel.

"We see this as a very appropriate way to begin the Christmas season," said Kenneth Blanton, assistant to the vice president for student affairs. "A professional performance of this caliber celebrating the advent of Christ is well worth while."

Dr. Blanton said because a large number of people are expected to attend the performance, free tickets are available in advance at the Office of Student Affairs during regular office hours.

For those outside the Berrien Springs area who plan to attend, tickets should be reserved by calling that office at (616) 471-3215.

The performance at Andrews will begin at 2:30 P.M. Plan to arrive early; the doors will be closed promptly at 2:30. Because of the nature and length of the play, it is requested that preschoolers not be brought to the performance.

Dr. Blanton said that an offering will be taken during the short intermission to help defray expenses and to benefit deserving families with food and gift items during the Christmas season.

ANDREWS STUDENT WINS MUSIC COMPETITION

Elizabeth Ann Johnston, a junior nursing student at Andrews, won the Twin Cities Symphonic Society Young Artist Competition on October 25 at Lake Michigan College in Benton Harbor, Michigan. Miss Johnston performed "Concertino for Flute" by Chaminade. As a winner of the annual contest, she will receive the Robert Thomas Herkner award of $200 and the opportunity to perform this piece with the Twin Cities Symphony in the Young People's Concert, December 13. A 1979 graduate of Andrews Academy, Miss Johnston is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Johnston of Berrien Springs.

Senior nursing student Pamela Sellers attends Oscar Olson of Berrien Springs as part of Andrews' community health screening program.

NURSING DEPARTMENT
AWARDED CONTRACT FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE

Andrews' nursing department has received a $21,600 contract award to provide a preventive health screening program for the elderly in southwestern Michigan.

The contract was awarded by the Region IV Area Agency on Aging (A.A.A.), an intercounty agency formed by the boards of commissioners of Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

According to Patrice Cruise, program director and instructor in nursing at Andrews, the money will be used to provide community outreach health assessment and counseling, referral and follow-up services for the aging in Berrien and Van Buren counties.

The program is designed especially for those who have difficulty making use of other health care services.

The nursing department submitted a contract proposal to the A.A.A. this past summer. It was approved earlier this fall. Monthly funding allocations began October 1 and will continue through September 30, 1982. This is the first time that Andrews has received a contract award from the A.A.A.

The actual health-screening program will take place from January 2 to September 30, 1982, in senior citizens' centers and nutrition agencies throughout Berrien and Van Buren counties.

All persons over the age of 60 who are residents of these counties will be eligible for services. Elderly clients will be given an opportunity to make contributions, but services will be given to all eligible recipients regardless of contribution.

"There is a good working relationship between Andrews' nursing department and the A.A.A. and other community agencies," said Mrs. Cruise. "We were pleased to receive this contract award because it gives us an opportunity to get involved in a major community service program, and it gives our students excellent clinical experience required in their curriculum."

FACULTY MEMBERS RETURN FROM WORLD TOUR

Morris Taylor, professor of music at Andrews, has returned from an around-the-world performance tour. Dr. Taylor performed in concert halls and churches and conducted church pianists' workshops and master classes for pianists in eight countries during the two-month trip which began August 13.

Rilla Taylor, chairman of the nursing department at Andrews, accompanied her husband. She conducted a series of two- and three-day workshops in critical-care nursing.

Nurses from a large number of health care institutions assembled at Adventist hospitals in Korea, Taiwan, the Phillipines and Thailand for these continuing education classes.

In Scotland, Morris Taylor performed at the University of Edinburgh. In Manila, he presented a lecture/demonstration for the Piano Teachers' Guild of the Phillipines. While in Bangkok, Thailand, he gave a benefit concert for the Bangkok Adventist Hospital building program.

He also gave concerts in several public and private colleges and served as a consultant for a new music department at Korean Union College in Seoul.

The Taylors' trip concluded with professional engagements in New England and Florida.

Twenty-five Pathfinder Chiefs collected 467 cans and $12 from about 270 homes and then returned to the Downers Grove Church Tuesday, October 27, to put the food into bags for needy families in the area. According to Dianna Wachenheim, club leader, several supermarkets supplied the bags free of charge. At the annual induction service held in September, 12 new members joined the club to bring the enrollment to a new high of thirty. This year the club members have shared their faith by singing at nursing homes and will participate in Ingathering near the church. The Chiefs have been camping several times, and will go to the Chicago Field Museum this month.

ILLINOIS SCHOOLS INCREASE ENROLLMENT

Enrollment is up this year in the Illinois schools, according to the latest reports, although there are fewer Illinois Conference schools.

From Waukegan to Marion and Danville to Moline there is growth. North Shore School's enrollment is not only up but they have added the 10th grade.

The South Suburban School has added a ninth grade and more than tripled its enrollment. In the south, Marion's new school is bursting at the seams.

Rockford has remodeled its spacious school and has filled another room full of pupils this year. West Suburban School has shown a significant gain in enrollment.

Hinsdale, always large, can boast of increased enrollment again this year. Danville has grown and is purchasing a beautiful school building to insure room for future growth.

One-room schools such as Joliet and Collinsville cannot function without the use of aides this year. Everywhere there is more interest in Christian education in Illinois.

May the Lord continue to bless us as we grow.

SAVANNA MEMBERS BUY A CHURCH

The members of the Savanna Church have recently purchased a church building. For several years they have met in a lower room of the Savanna Library. When the library began an expansion program, the members had to look for another meeting place, and they feel the Lord directed them to the present site. The Savanna Church was organized in 1967 with a membership of 16. The present membership is 20. Having a church home has engendered enthusiasm for missionary work, with a goal of finding more individuals to join the church. Pastor Leonard Marsa is directing visitation, Bible studies and literature distribution work.

SHARED FAITH, SHARED DECISION

In loneliness Sylvia Sanchez had turned to the Friend "that sticketh closer than a brother" and prayed God would send someone to help her understand the Bible better.

About that time Elda Cabrera, a member of the De Kalb Church who had been praying that God would lead her to someone to whom she could be a witness, began studying the Bible with Sylvia's mother.

One day Mrs. Sanchez suggested that Sylvia join them for the Bible study, which she did. Sylvia readily accepted the truth of the Bible, including the Sabbath, which she had already discovered on her own. Soon she was attending church.

Sylvia began talking to her sister, Maria Bandy, about the Lord and the Bible and she, too, began attending church. Both women began studying with Pastor Ashcraft on Sabbath afternoons, four and five hours at a time.

On October 3, Sylvia and Maria's commitment to God was sealed by baptism.

SPRINGFIELD CHURCH GROWS IN 1981

The past six months have been a period of growth for the Springfield Church. Nineteen new members have joined the church in seven baptismal services.

During February and March Evangelist Edwin Brown presented a citywide series of meetings, first at the Masonic Temple and concluding in the church sanctuary.

During the series four baptisms were conducted by Pastor Harold Ashcraft, and 11 persons joined the church.

At one of the services five girls who were pupils in the church school were baptized: Jeannie and Terry Lindsay, Nancy and Teresa Nelson and Celita Scott.

A sixth student was baptized the next week. Other new members baptized during the series were Kerry and Debbie Wilcutt, Larry Hamilton, Vernon Thorne and Howard Canull.

As a result of a second series of evangelistic meetings in Jacksonville during August and September conducted by Elder Art Swinson, two more baptisms followed.

The services were held at the home of the Larry McDevitts on Lake Petersburg. At the first baptism in the lake, Thayne and Linda Logan and two of their children, Amy and Rodney, gave their hearts to the Lord.

A week later at the lake, a former member, Sharon Walden, and Lois Springman were baptized. Elder Swinson conducted both services. Those joining the Jacksonville company are presently official members of the Springfield Church.

In July Arnold Miller, a member of the church about 30 years ago, was baptized after his faith was rekindled by an old copy of These Times that fell out of a stack of model train magazines.

Jean Marie Boggs became a member at the same time after avidly studying all the Bible lessons she could obtain after attending meetings in another city.

Besides growth in church membership the church school has nearly doubled in attendance. From an enrollment of eight last year, there are now thirteen students in six grades. Al Schone is the teacher, assisted by his wife, Bonnie.

Communication Secretary*

ELDORADO/WEST FRANKFORT WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS

Karen Fowler and Dani Cole were baptized in the lake during camp meeting at Little Grassy Lake Adventist Camp by Elder Don Philpott. They joined the Eldorado Church.

Mrs. Fowler had completed the Voice of Prophecy course and studied with Elder Eugene Taylor while living in Zion, Illinois. After moving to southern Illinois she contacted Elder Philpott by letter requesting baptism.

Mrs. Cole met some Eldorado church members who were working in the southern United States. She returned to Illinois with them in the spring and began searching the Bible for herself.

Their baptisms bring to 23 the number of baptisms in the Eldorado/West Frankfort district for this year.

THE EXTRA CARING SCHOOL

Approximately 147,000 residents of Rockford had the opportunity to see the Adventist Day School outdoor sign recently which advertised the type of school they have: "The Extra Caring School." The new staff members stood by the sign for pictures: from left, Debbie Dewey, teacher aide; Eleanor Krogstad; Lou Gruesbeck, principal, and Elaine Poulos. According to Joyce Friestad, communication secretary. Their concern is for every child to show positive growth toward achieving his God-given potential. They want the children to realize they are important.

NEWS NOTES

• Workbees were held on two Sundays in October to add 2½ inches of insulation, and to reshingle the roof of the Bloomington Church. More than 20 church members worked on the project.

• Homework for Sabbath School is not always successfully completed, but Gary Sabbath School Superintendent Rosemary Gal was not discouraged. She encouraged the adult Sabbath School students to list 10 things they were thankful for, and place them in order of importance. Mrs. Gal's own list was on poster board and entitled "My reasons for being thankful." She had written the words "Thank You," and each letter of those words stood for another phrase: The cross of Jesus, His Word, a loving caring family, nature's beauties, kind friends, youthful outlook, opportunities to grow, and an unlimited supply of good books and music. The Gary Sabbath School has a 60 percent perfect lesson study record, according to Jerry Lastine, conference stewardship director.

FIRST DAY CAMP IN CICERO

A new approach to Vacation Bible School was tried this year by the Cicero Church, according to Ramona Trubey, communication secretary. A day camp was conducted in the Cicero Community Park from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M. The children brought their lunches, and were served cookies and punch as refreshments. The successful five-day program interested 45 children. One mother remarked that her children could not wait to get up in the morning so they could go to day camp. Besides the Bible lessons, crafts and stories, the Red Cross gave a first aid demonstration, the Indianapolis Zoo brought animals for observation, and film strips were shown daily. Patty Selzak, left, was the coordinator. She was assisted by seven college students from the Timber Ridge Camp staff as well as volunteers from the church.

HUNTINGBURG NEWS NOTES

• The second annual Story Hour in the Park with "Miss Ruth" as storyteller and Ron and Sandy Olney and Mark and Theresa Adams as helpers was successful. The five-day, one-hour program began with eight children on the first day and built up to 31 by the fifth day. Many parents have inquired about next year's program.

• As a result of Bible studies with Ron Olney, Brian Wilson of Jasper was recently baptized by Elder Carroll Lawson. The Huntingburg Company warmly welcomed Brian into fellowship. Brian is an accountant at Kimball International in Jasper, Indiana.

• A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking for adults at the Huntingburg Middle School resulted in seven people kicking the smoking habit. Another Five-Day Plan is scheduled for students and their parents at Southridge High School in December. The Huntingburg and Jasper Optimist clubs have invited church members to explain the smoking clinics. Church member Brian Wilson, who is community relations director for the Jasper Optimist Club, has arranged for the church to kick off the Cancer Society's "Great American Smoke Out Day." He also plans to recommend to the club that they co-sponsor the Five-Day Plan at Southridge High School.

• The Conference Health Screening Van was recently taken to the Huntingburg and Jasper shopping centers. Nearly 300 people were screened for high blood pressure. A special thanks is owed to nurses Audrey Nowak from the Paoli Church and Barbara Johnson, who was visiting from out of state. They donated their time to take the blood pressures.

• An ice-cream social with yard games and a wiener roast, and sing-a-long with indoor games were special events recently planned by Carolyn Moore, social chairman. These evenings of fun and relaxation help keep the church family close together.

• WBDC of Huntingburg now airs special 60-second "Brite Spots," produced and distributed free to pastors by the Voice of Prophecy. These spots relate to family life. WBDC provides free air time. The station manager says they have had letters from listeners expressing favorable response to the spots.

• The Holland Kiwanis organization has invited Pastor Franke Zollman to become a member of their community service club, and he has also joined the Dubois County Ministerial Association.

● The city of Huntingburg celebrated its first annual German Herbesfest during the month of October. One of the events during the weekend was a community hymn festival. Church member Richard Helzerman and Pastor Franke Zollman and his wife, Kandi, were invited to perform with a 200-voice choir. Ruth Helzerman and her daughter Shelley performed with the Dubois County Orchestra which accompanied the choir. Pastor Zollman was also selected to be one of the Psalm readers between musical selections.

● The community will hold its Harvest Thanksgiving program at St. Mary's Church the Sunday evening before Thanksgiving. Ruth Helzerman will perform with the Huntingburg Music Club Choir and Pastor Zollman will offer the opening prayer and conduct the "Exchange of Thanks for Fellowship." More than 3,000 people attended this program last year.

● The Huntingburg young couples group enjoyed a "cave-out" in October at Henderson Park Caves, owned by the city of Salem. After crawling, climbing and slushing through ancient mud and surviving an unexpected plunge into chest-deep water, group leader Gary Moore admitted the next day that he was acutely aware of muscles he had forgotten he possessed.

● Huntingburg Ingathering is finished! The goal was $475. So far the church has collected $650 with more promised to come.

About 50 ninth- and tenth-graders and their teachers came from the junior academies all over Indiana. Schools represented were Indianapolis Junior Academy, Richmond, New Albany's Southeastern Junior Academy, Evansville's Southwestern Junior Academy, and South Bend Junior Academy.

Fred Fuller, pastor of the Highland Academy Church in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference, was the featured speaker for the weekend. He also directed small group discussions in several sessions.

On Friday afternoon the weather was perfect for the students to enjoy horseback riding, canoeing and field games.

The Bible camp provides an opportunity for students to become better acquainted with other Christian young people, to study and discuss Bible principles and how to apply them to their own lives, and to enjoy wholesome outdoor activities.

The Junior Academy Bible Camp is co-sponsored by the education and youth departments of the Indiana Conference.

at the Bloomington Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The topic of his first lecture was "One World Government—Is It Coming?" More than 100 persons were present.

Also featured almost every night was a visual presentation of some of the most important Biblical, historical and archaeological sites in the world. At the close of each lecture everyone who attended received a picture of one of these sites.

For attending 12 lectures, the book Daniel and the Revelation was presented. Twenty nonmembers have been attending the lectures on a regular basis, and 10 expressed interest in being baptized on October 10.

Although these lectures concluded on the night of October 4, plans for special follow-up Bible studies were set for the following week. Each lecture was made available on cassette tape.

Paul and Sondra Fruth from Arcadia and the New Communion Singers from the Indianapolis Glendale Church presented sacred music concerts.

Other musical selections were presented by Bernice Carney, wife of Elder Carney; Larry Carlson, a member of the Evansville First Church, and his wife and their three sons.

These lectures have truly been a blessing to the Bloomington area.

BOOK AND BIBLE HOUSE HAS NEW NAME

The Indiana Conference Committee voted on October 20 to change the name of the Indiana Book and Bible House to Indiana Adventist Book Center.

Indiana is one of the last conferences to switch to the new name. The committee approved the change because of the confusion that has existed when church members see advertisements in the Lake Union Herald, the Adventist Review or General Conference bulletins to buy certain materials from the "local conference ABC."

In the next few months there will be a change to the use of the new name in stationery and billing.

So when church members are encouraged to buy books from the

JUNIOR ACADEMY STUDENTS ATTEND BIBLE CAMP

The fifth annual Junior Academy Bible Camp was held at Timber Ridge Camp from October 15 to 18.

Indiana ABC, that means the Indiana Adventist Book Center. The location is the same—on the Indiana Academy campus.

Along with the name change, other improvements are being made, according to Lloyd Jacobs, manager. Some new freezers have already been installed for more frozen health foods.

Principal Ron Worrell shares some knowledge with new Cicero seventh-grader Carl Eisle.

CICERO SCHOOL OFF TO A GOOD START

Seventy-one students started school at the Cicero Church School on the first of September this year.

The new principal, Ronald Worrell, and teachers Mark Sargeant, Dorothy Noonan, and Valerie Crabtree greeted the students.

The first Home and School program was held on September 29. At a pitch-in supper the teachers and parents had time to get acquainted. The program of poems and short skits was presented by the first four grades.

The school band played for their first performance of the year. Douglas Gregg, assistant treasurer of the Indiana Conference, sang a special song.

The Home and School held a successful bake sale in front of a store in Noblesville and is currently in the middle of a Tom Wat campaign to raise money for the school.

The church school choir gave their first performance on October 3 at the church.

BLOOMINGTON HOLDS 5-DAY PLAN

The Bloomington Church and Bloomington Hospital co-sponsored a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, October 12 through 16.

Twenty-six people signed up for the program. Eighteen were completely successful in breaking the smoking habit.

Lectures were presented by Terry Zollinger, local church elder; John Seffrin, director of the Indiana University department of health and safety education, and Dwain Illman, emergency department physician. The lectures were held nightly from 7 to 9.

About two weeks before the clinic, Dr. Zollinger and Sue Smith, hospital coordinator, were interviewed for 15 minutes by WTTS radio, a local station, about the Five-Day Plan.

Others from the church who played a part in the success of the program were Elder George Terrian, Laura Burnham, Tammi Grubb and Larry Kane.

BLOOMINGTON REJOICES WITH 6 NEW MEMBERS

The Bloomington Church members rejoiced on Sabbath, October 10, as six new members joined the church as the result of the New Life Crusade Prophecy Lectures and follow-up Bible study. Sondra Ault, Guina Combs, Douglas Morrow, and Vicki Morrow were baptized by Pastor George Terrian on this date, while Arlene Everett and Denise Vernon joined by profession of faith. Four of these new members are shown above, from left, Denise Vernon, Vicki Morrow, Douglas Morrow and Sondra Ault.

SCATTERING LEAVES AT CHRISTMASTIME

As a teenager, Avice H. Graham wondered how the ministers of the church would get the message of Christ to the entire world.

Later she read that in times of great persecution, when churches could not function, everyone, including children, carried the message personally.

Another statement caused her great concern. She learned that church members were responsible for giving the message to their associates and neighbors.

Miss Graham, who lives in a densely populated area, is an assistant principal in a public high school with a staff of more than 250. How could she reach her associates and neighbors?

The staff at her school are a friendly group whose members exchange Christmas cards and gifts. So Avice decided to give inspirational books as Christmas presents to every one of the staff members, and to her neighbors. She planned different books for the staff members each year, and decided to cover a 25-square-block area during the next five years.

Two months before Christmas, the Grahams, assisted by the Fouche and White families, write cards and wrap 1,250 books.

To those who have not known God and the real meaning of the Christmas story, the books serve as an introduction to God's greatest gift to mankind.

At Christmastime, the books for the school staff are passed out at school, and the books for the neighbors are delivered door to door.

The winter of 1979 proved to be a challenge to the door-to-door delivery. A blizzard made the side streets impassable. The Lord provided the family with an alternate delivery plan. A friend, Laura Driver, was working at a hospital. The members of the Graham family put the boxes of gift-wrapped books on a piece of carpet and dragged them over the snow to a place where Mrs. Driver could bring her car. She gave the books to the patients at the hospital.

One patient told her that he was a former Adventist. She then went to work on him with her Bible, prayer, and conversation. Alvin Thigpen and his wife are now faithful members of the Shiloh Church.

The following year, because the schedule for the distribution of the books to the neighbors was a year behind, the family distributed more than 2,000 books. The original five-year plan of distribution should be completed this year. Plans have already been formulated for a multi-year distribution in an adjacent neighborhood.

Miss Graham works with the youth in Sabbath School in Cassopolis, Michigan. Her Christmas gifts to the young people are inspirational books, written especially for young people, to help them handle the problems of today's world. She has also supplied some of the literature for the Shiloh Church laymen's tent meetings for the past two summers.

Some of the books that have been used in these distributions are: Steps to Christ; The Desire of Ages; The Great Controversy; Thoughts from the Mount of Blessings; Christ's Object Lessons; Goodbye, Plane Earth; We and Our Children; Come Alive; Dimensions in Christianity; Project Sunlight; and Bible Readings for the Home.

The response from book recipients has been positive. There have been requests for 30 to 50 more copies for clubs and groups who study the Bible, as well as requests for more books to give as gifts. Thank you cards, letters, phone calls, poetry, and subscriptions to other Christian literature have been received in abundance.

Ellen G. White has said that inspirational literature should be scattered "like the leaves of autumn." She also says that books should be distributed from house to house. (Testimonies for the Church, pages 72 and 127.) Books and papers are sometimes forgotten, but picked up later, ultimately helping the earnest in heart prepare for the coming of the Lord.

Miss Graham says, "I plan to continue this work as long as the Lord gives me strength and money."

NEWS NOTES

• Twice a year since 1978 the Sturgis Church has held a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking in association with Sturgis Memorial Hospital. Church members have taken part each evening, assisting directors Pastor Byron Churchill; Robert Ritzenthaler, chief of respiratory therapy, and Dr. Vincent Cabansag, chief of surgery. One hundred forty-nine people have graduated from the program, including those who finished in October. Follow-up programs after each clinic help members stay in contact with the graduates. Sturgis members have now reached into the Three Rivers area by enlisting the Three Rivers Hospital and Adventist church members. They conducted their first Five-Day Plan in November.

• Lucy Kemper of the Bellevue Church celebrated her 91st birthday on October 1. She has been a member since she was baptized in 1944.

Au Sable Winter Camp

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR WINTER CAMP

The Camp Au Sable staff is planning another super winter camp, according to Lester Rilea, director.

Great food, lodging, and worships conducted by guest speakers Don Pate of Michigan and Paul Cannon, director of the "Bridge," a home for troubled youth, and pastor in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference, will be featured.

The fee includes food, lodging, tobogganing, cross-country skiing, snowmobile rides, ice skating, sleigh-rides, and many other features. (Downhill skiing is not covered by camp insurance.)

Ceramics classes will be available for those who prefer indoor activities, with a small fee to cover materials.

Winter camp begins Tuesday, December 23, and continues through Sunday, January 3. Camp cooks are planning a Christmas banquet for Sunday evening, December 27.

"What a nice way to end the old year and begin the new!" Elder Rilea said.

Whether it's for one day or the whole time, units are available for families, and dorm-style living is planned for academy and college students. Preference is given to full-time, early reservations.

Academy students will have planned activities and supervised housing, and no one below academy age may come without a parent.

For fees and other information, write to the Youth Department, Au Sable Winter Camp, Box 19009, Lansing, MI 48901, or call (517) 485-2226.

2 BAPTIZED AT EDMORE

Alice Campbell of McBride and Lee Oberst of Edmore were baptized in the Cedar Lake Church on September 12 by Pastor Roscoe Nelson, left. They have joined the Edmore Church.

JOYFUL REUNION AT PAW PAW DEDICATION

Sometimes it takes many exposures before the picture of truth focuses into decision. Raymond Smith, a member of the Paw Paw Church, illustrates that.

Ray had a Seventh-day Adventist sister who shared her faith with him. For a time he attended the old Paw Paw Church on Cedar Street but would not join.

Then he moved to Lansing. There he became seriously ill and Pastor Duane Miller visited him and had prayer. They studied the Bible together.

Then Elder Miller was transferred to Flint and lost contact with Ray. Eventually Ray retired and moved to Kalamazoo, and Elder Miller was transferred to Paw Paw where he directed the building program of the new church.

Once again Ray Smith became seriously ill and was not expected to live. Elder Miller heard about it and visited him in the hospital. Once more studies were begun.

When the Paw Paw Church had its first service in the new building, three people were baptized, and Ray Smith was the first one.

When the Paw Paw Church was dedicated on September 12, 1981, Elder Miller and Ray Smith had a joyful reunion.

BATTLE CREEK STUDENTS LEARN TO WORK

A practical arts program that is really practical has been introduced to seventh- and eighth-graders at Battle Creek Academy.

Each Wednesday afternoon seventh-grade students work on campus doing janitor, maintenance and grounds work. They also have a unit in single survival in which they learn skills necessary for meeting problems confronted in daily living.

Boys will learn things generally reserved for girls, and vice versa.

Eighth-grade students are working as volunteers in area businesses to develop career awareness and to gain some hands-on experience in a variety of occupations.

The program is still in its beginning stages but is already being appreciated by students, parents, and the businesses where students are placed.

KELLOGGS WISHES HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO BATTLE CREEK

Seventh-day Adventists could not have paid for all the publicity given the church this year by the Kellogg Company.

A message on each box of Corn Flakes not only wishes Battle Creek a Happy Birthday, it also tells of the involvement of Adventists and the birth of the cereal.

According to box panels, it was in 1831 that Sands McCamly staked a claim at the site in Michigan where two rivers meet. When a skirmish between some Indians and government surveyors took place a little later, one of those rivers was named Battle Creek.

The town itself began when Pioneer McCamly built the area's first flour mill, soon followed by others to start the city on its way.

"The arrival in the mid-1800's of a group of Seventh-day Adventists," says the 12-ounce box, "had an impact on the city's development, for their teachings were concerned with the health of the body as well as the soul, and included adherence to a natural food diet."

It then describes efforts of the "Church's followers," the Kellogg brothers—Will Keith and Dr. John Harvey—to find a way to make good-tasting natural grain foods, and the resultant popular flake.

A recent article in the Washington Post adds that it was during a visit of C. W. Post to the Adventist medical center in Battle Creek that he determined to make his own flakes of a similar nature.

So, while conference budgets could not have devised anything more effective to reach America's breakfast table, the Kellogg company has done it. All constituents are paying for the notice, as the cost of a box of cereal is about 10 times what it was in early days!

CONFERENCE OFFICE WORKERS REACH GOAL

Arthur Covell, left, personal ministries director, and Jean Dickerson, secretary, posed recently for a picture of the Ingathering goal device used in the conference office this year. Elder Covell challenged office personnel to set the pace in Michigan for 1981. The Vanguard goal of $35 per member amounted to $2,205; but by the end of the second week the amount raised and pledged was $2,375. At least another $1,000 should come in through solicitation of businesses with whom the conference works, Elder Covell said. Office workers have demonstrated that they are personally interested in the Ingathering program. They are hoping for 100 percent cooperation from church members in reaching the $398,000 conference goal, he said.

MICHIGAN MEMBER ELECTED A.S.I. VICE PRESIDENT

Barbara Randall of Lawton was elected vice president of the national Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries (A.S.I.) during their recent convention in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Barbara Randall

A.S.I. is an organization comprised of Adventist professional people and people who own their own businesses.

Barbara says, "Its members are laymen strongly dedicated to helping the organized church finish the Gospel commission."

Members of A.S.I. seek to make their office or business an evangelistic outpost witnessing the love of Jesus for all, she says.

Barbara and her husband, Chuck, own a retirement apartment complex in Lawton and are active in the Paw Paw Church.

They have been co-vice presidents of the Lake Chapter of A.S.I. in public relations for two years. The Randalls have three boys who travel with them to camp meetings in the Lake Union to educate others about the benefits of A.S.I.

The membership of the Lake Chapter has doubled in the past three years. Seminars pertinent to Adventist businessmen have been offered. The local organization plans to finish a church in Warsaw, Indiana, in the near future.

Barbara will be working at the national level with Harold Lance, an attorney from Ontario, California, and A.S.I. president, and Elder Ken Livesay, recently elected secretary.

The national A.S.I. holds a yearly convention, supports the local chapters, and dispenses funds to worthy projects.

Reflecting on A.S.I., Barbara says, "It has meant so much to me, I can't help but encourage other business and professional people to participate. We have certainly enjoyed the fellowship and the travel experiences with others who have similar interests and concerns.

The seminars for business people with a definite Christian slant have been very beneficial.

"To me the most exciting part has been learning to witness as business people and make our business an evangelistic outpost. Hearing ideas and experiences of others has helped us become better tools for God to use."

FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS: MORE THAN BAND-AIDS AND MERTHIOLATE

A book to help teachers deal with medical emergencies has been distributed to all Lake Union secondary and elementary schools, according to William Jones, Lake Union loss control director.

Emergency Medical Procedures for the School contains easy-to-follow instructions and clear illustrations, which make it possible for any teacher to take emergency first-aid action.

The book, carefully cross-indexed for ease in locating proper procedures, covers 45 different medical emergencies such as allergies, burns, insect bites, electric shock, sprains and broken bones.

A comprehensive list of inexpensive emergency supplies is also provided.

"Prevention is the key to a strong safety program, but when accidents happen, the next step is to be prepared," says Elder Jones, who provided the books free of charge to the schools.

nonsectarian, each one deals with a great theme in the Bible.

The five-minute tapes, for weekly airing, will help to develop a wider distribution of the missionary journal, El Centinela, for Spanish-speaking people. Nine tapes have been completed for use during the months of November and December.

At the close of each tape an invitation is given to write for a free copy of El Centinela. Pastors may request the tapes—which are free—and supply them to their local radio stations. Write to Perspective, Dr. Humberto Rasi, Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, CA 94042.

STUDENTS WILL FUND JUNIOR BIBLE COURSES

Dad considers them too young to use his power tools and Mom makes them go to bed early, but members of the Voice of Prophecy Children's Christmas Club have several grown-up accomplishments to their credit.

Two years ago, the Adventist elementary school students who constitute the club membership gathered $25,000 for a new antenna at the Adventist World Radio facilities in Guatemala, Central America.

Last year, they funded the updating of radio station DXCR at Mountain View College in the Philippines—the only church-operated station in the Orient. The children amassed more than $28,000 for that project.

"These little tigers are something else," says Dorothy Valcarcel, V.O.P.'s director of ministry growth, who organized the campaigns. "Never underestimate children!"

This year the club will tackle the financial obstacles of producing a Spanish and an English course for juniors.

The elementary students typically show ingenuity in earning the funds for these projects. They pick up aluminum cans, wash cars, enlist for chores around the house, throw benefit parties, and hold bake sales. One class sacrificed some of their toys at the church bazaar.

Think what they could accomplish if their bedtime wasn't so early.

DON'T YOU BELIEVE IT!

by Robert H. Pierson

"There's no use trying again. Both Marge and I come from broken homes. There's no way we can pull our marriage back together. Divorce runs in both our families. There's just no hope."

The young fellow who had come to see me was in his mid-20's. He and Marge had been married three years, and they had two small children. Marge had already pulled out of what she and Ted had resignedly concluded was a divorce-prone family. No hope.

Is it necessarily true that divorces "run in families," and there is no use trying to mend fences and hearts in such doomed homes? Don't you believe it. These situations may require more patience, more tender compassion and more perseverance, but they are not hopeless!

Before you "split," there are some things you should know. Divorce will not settle many of your problems; thousands of divorcees have testified to that.

And divorce is a nightmare for children. Besides, your way of coping with the stresses and strains of marriage will likely be the way your children will cope. You can choose better alternatives than your parents did and break the cycles for your own children.

And for yourself, the anxiety, even regrets, that accompany divorce are not very comfortable "helpmeets" to share your future with.

Think it over a long time. Pray about it. Talk with a minister or counselor that you trust. Keep on trying to make something beautiful within the commitment you have made to each other.
