President Appeals for Funds for Project Great Controversy

LAKE UNION—In just a few weeks the Seventh-day Adventist Church will launch the most aggressive soul-winning drive in its history. It is the plan of the world church to baptize at least one thousand souls per day for one thousand days.

This drive will be culminated with the presentation of one million new converts to the church at the first Sabbath service of the 1985 General Conference Session to be held in New Orleans, Louisiana.

During the One Thousand Days of Reaping every member and every unit of the church has been exhorted to become personally involved. The enthusiastic response has been encouraging.

One project that has caught the imagination of our people and is gaining momentum throughout North America was conceived in the Lake Union. It has been designated "Project Great Controversy."

This project calls for the mass distribution of the book The Great Controversy during the One Thousand Days of Reaping.

According to John Bernet, publishing director of the Lake Union Conference, "The literature evangelists of North America have set their goal to sell 1,000,000 copies of a special paperback edition," during this period.

R. H. Carter

The publishing houses of North America have already agreed to produce the book at no profit to themselves. The Home Health Education Service and Adventist Book Centers are likewise willing to distribute the books to literature evangelists, church members, and institutions.

Because these entities are willing to support this project on a nonprofit basis, The Great Controversy will be available to literature evangelists and church members for 60 cents per copy.

At this price, I feel confident that church members will be willing to purchase and distribute free of charge hundreds of thousands of copies of The Great Controversy to friends and relatives.

Ellen G. White made the following appeal concerning this book: "The Great Controversy should be widely circulated. It contains the story of the past, the present, and the future. In its outline of the closing scenes of this earth's history, it bears powerful testimony in behalf of the truth. I am more anxious to see a wide circulation for this book than for any others I have written; for in The Great Controversy the last message of warning to the world is given more distinctly than in any of my other books."—Colporteur Ministry, p. 127.

The success of this project will depend not alone on the efforts of our publishing houses, Home Health Education Service and Adventist Books Centers. The cooperation and support of every faithful Seventh-day Adventist is needed. There may be individuals who will be willing to donate funds for the free distribution of these books. Others might wish to make interest-free loans to the Lake Union Conference to help pay for the original order. We desire to make no profit whatsoever on this project. We see this as a unique opportunity to rescue precious souls from the grip of Satan. May the Holy Spirit show you how you may be a part of this great soul-winning effort.

Robert H. Carter, President
Lake Union Conference

Fil-Am Members Break Ground for Church

ILLINOIS—The American independence day, July 4, is also celebrated by the Republic of the Philippines as Filipino-American Friendship Day. For the Fil-Am Adventist Church in Hinsdale, July 4, 1982, had an added significance. A ground-breaking ceremony was held to formally start the building of a new church. The present congregation, comprised of the former Austin Filipino Church in Chicago and members from other Chicago area churches, purchased a one-acre piece of property at 59th and Garfield in Hinsdale, with the proceeds from the sale of the building in Austin. A program led by Carmelito Galang, church pastor, and Pedro Roda, building committee chairman, included a message from Everett Cumbo, Illinois Conference president, and a dedicatory prayer by John Hayward, former president of the Illinois Conference and now secretary of the Lake Union Conference. Veneracion Cabana, church clerk, presented a history of the church. A potluck lunch was served after the ceremony. Actual building is scheduled to start in a few weeks and inauguration is tentatively set for December 25, 1982, according to Veneracion Cabana, communication secretary.

60 People Baptized at North Shore

ILLINOIS—Sixty people were baptized recently as the result of the portrayal of Bible truths in a simple and direct manner during recent evangelistic meetings.

The meetings were conducted by Mark Finley at the North Shore Church in Chicago.

Further Prophecy Seminars are being conducted by Pastor Stanley Cottrell on Wednesday and Friday evenings and Sabbath mornings during the Sabbath School class period.

These meetings help to nurture and educate the new members and other interested individuals still attending.

At the conclusion of these seminars on July 16, a special candlelight service was held, according to Bernace Kirschenbauer, communication secretary.

A Christian Living Service is being conducted on Wednesday evenings and during the Pastor's Bible class on Sabbath, ending August 28.

Mission Extension Offering Will Provide New Books for Europe

No Adventist in Europe is willing to roll over and play dead. New methods emerge with the push for evangelistic success always at the front of endeavours.

Now comes an exciting new project. Northern Europe (the Nordic nations, Poland, Holland, the British Isles) is creating a brand new approach in literature. With the whole Gospel message, this literature will meet secular man at his own level.

It will introduce him to Bible truths in a way that will captivate, because it will have the kind of illustrations and writing style that will match his interests.

Full-message books written to attract the ordinary man in the street are already appearing in a few European countries. Now we in Northern Europe plan to create even more attractive literature. Both literature evangelists and newsstands will sell these books and magazines.

Often the special offerings of the church focus on institutions. This year the Missions Extension Offering will zero in on a specific evangelistic project—literature for the masses of Europe.

We can promise you that this project will put the message of Christ in front of the people of Europe in a new and challenging way. We can also promise you that evangelistic contacts and results will multiply over and over.

September 11 is the date, and the Missions Extension Offering is the opportunity. Literature for the masses of Europe is the project. Forty-five thousand Adventists in Northern Europe face the prospect of evangelizing 126 million people. It doesn't daunt us.

God has given us a message. He has given us His Son. He has given us the brothers and sisters of His church. He has given us the Spirit.

He has given us books and magazines. We are going forward to give what we have in Europe. And your gifts will stand beside those God has given and what we in Europe will also contribute.

Northern European Division

M.P.H. Classes To Begin Here

LAKE UNION—Approval has been received by the Lake Union Health Department to co-sponsor a Master of Public Health (M.P.H.) degree program for the Lake Union.

The first classes will be September 13 to 16, 1982. "Philosophy of Health" will be taught by James Crawford, D.D.S., and "Principles of Administration in Public Health" will be taught by Harold Phillips, Ph.D. Both instructors are from Loma Linda University.

The program is a four-year course of study. Classes will be offered each quarter for four years; each quarter's classes will be different.

Many applications have been received already.

If you are interested in the M.P.H. degree, contact Charles C. Case, Health/Temperance Director, P.O. Box C, Berrien Springs, MI 49103. Please write immediately, because assignments need to be finished before classes begin September 13.

ST. ALBANS, England—A list of issues confronting people who want to spread the Gospel in Europe would contain this item: The hold of secular thinking on the minds of Europeans.

It shows in several ways: Church attendance has fallen to single figure percentages in many countries. The ministers of the dominant churches question such fundamental beliefs as the incarnation of Jesus, His resurrection, the divinity of Jesus Christ and the need for church attendance.

What should the Adventist church do to meet this challenge?

Andrews Will Help You Stretch Your College Dollars

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—"It's not too late to find the money to attend college this fall, and anyone who thinks otherwise probably hasn't talked to us."

That's the message coming from Terry Newmyer, manager of student finance, and Esther Hare, financial aid officer at Andrews University.

Mr. Newmyer and Mrs. Hare say that some potential college students in the Lake Union believe it's too late to make financial arrangements to attend Andrews for the 1982-83 school year.

"There are five weeks left before registration," Mr. Newmyer says. "That's enough time for us to come up with a viable plan for any student who is serious about coming to Andrews this fall."

"We are flexible," he stresses. "We're willing to go to great lengths to help students."

Andrews has committed itself to what Mr. Newmyer calls the "stretch concept."

"That means that when a family has stretched as far as it can in meeting the cost of college, Andrews will stretch whatever distance necessary to make up the difference," he says. "And we do that through scholarship grants and flexible payment plans that make the arrangement workable for both the family and the university."

Mr. Newmyer urges parents and potential students in the Lake Union to call Andrews on the IN-LINE, the university's toll-free telephone number, and ask for a financial aid advisor to work out the details.

"We can do a lot in the five weeks that are left before registration," Mr. Newmyer says. "I would be sorry to see someone miss out on college this year merely because they didn't call us."

In Michigan, call (800) 632-2248. Outside Michigan, call (800) 253-2874.

New Curriculum Approved for Seminarians

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The seminary at Andrews has announced a major change in its curriculum for the Master of Divinity program, according to Gerhard F. Hasel, seminary dean.

The new curriculum is characterized by a strong emphasis upon a holistic and integrated understanding of salvation and of Seventh-day Adventist heritage.

Also emphasized are a clear commitment to the training of a dynamic, soul-winning ministry and the integration of the entire seminary faculty in training students for pastoral-evangelistic ministry, according to Dr. Hasel.

The Master of Divinity degree program is the primary academic program to provide professional training for ministers in the Seventh-day Adventist Church in North America. The new curriculum will be effective for all incoming students beginning in September this year.

"One of the innovative elements of the new curriculum is that each student will belong to a small group assigned to a local church," says Dr. Hasel. "Each group will be led by the church pastor and a seminary professor. It will serve as a pastoral-evangelistic team involved in the local church setting. In addition to allowing for professional growth, these groups will offer the student spiritual support as well."

The new curriculum is the result of a three-year process involving several committees composed of representatives from all seminary departments and a student spokesman.

The Ministerial Training Advisory Committee of the North American Division recently examined the new curriculum, and with minor suggestions, approved it with enthusiasm, according to Dr. Hasel.

Andrews Surveys Illinois Conference Ministers on Continuing Ed

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—More than 400 randomly selected North American Division Adventist ministers will be surveyed regarding life-long ministerial education this summer.

Pastors' opinions on subject matter, learning situations, and problems and benefits connected with continuing education will be sought by mailed questionnaires. Opinions will be solicited also from local conference presidents and conference ministerial directors.

Special attention is being given to the views of each union, of particular age groups, and of ethnic groups.

This information will be used by the Andrews University Center of Continuing Education for Ministry to develop on-campus and extension programs.

Shared Faith Results in Baptism in Burbank

ILLINOIS—For Dave Rittenhouse, his baptism into the Adventist faith on March 27, 1982, was a never-expected release from living in something of a suspended limbo. For his wife, Lavenna, an Adventist, it was an answer to many prayers.

A few years ago Dave's first marriage ended in divorce. But his later marriage to Lavenna was not accepted by the church the two of them were attending, even though the reason for the divorce was biblical.

The Rittenhouses, frustrated and confused, were unhappy with the church, but Lavenna felt a need for God and began to study various religions. She read the Bible, which she came to believe was truly the Word of God.

After attending a prophecy lecture at an Adventist church in the winter of 1979, Lavenna was convinced her search had finally led her to God's remnant church, and she was baptized in December 1979 in the Burbank/Oaklawn Church. She and her children began attending church and keeping the Sabbath.

Through Lavenna's persistence, Dave attended a few church socials and finally a stress management seminar conducted by Mark Finley.

Though Dave thought their religious beliefs were strange, he liked the people and was impress-

Members have been meeting one evening a week at the church for a practical approach to giving Bible studies. The class is divided into three half-hour segments. First the members share with each other the study of the previous week. Then Pastor Fore presents a new study to the class. The last half hour is devoted to discussing problems that may be encountered during witnessing activities.

● Patti Rigden was baptized at the Elmhurst Church by Pastor Jerry Fore on April 10 as a result of the working of the Holy Spirit in her life. Patti's life-long next-door neighbor, Joe Castalano, gave Patti a brochure for the prophecy lectures Elder Fore conducted in Glen Ellyn in the fall of 1981. Joe and Patti traveled 12 miles together to each of the 21 meetings. Pastors Jerry Fore and Bob Schiefer then studied the Bible with Patti in her home, according to Barbara Karth, communication secretary.

When Mark conducted another prophecy series in the Burbank area, Dave agreed to listen to the tapes Lavenna brought home and, soon, he too, was convinced that this was indeed a church that actually followed the Bible.

Dave studied with Pastor Mike Sczekan of the Burbank Church and was baptized into a faith and lifestyle that has given him "a sense of peace and confidence."

The Rittenhouses now seek to obey the commission of Christ in Matthew 28:19 and 20 to share their faith with friends, family and neighbors.

49 Children Attend V.B.S. in Monmouth

ILLINOIS—The Prairie View Adventist Church in Monmouth concluded a week-long Vacation Bible School on July 16, with a final program for the parents and friends of the students.

A 15-minute song service led by Gary Judy was followed by crafts and lesson study. Debra Schisler and Ivy McIntyre were co-leaders for the week's activities.

Leaders for the divisions were as follows: kindergarten, Karen Dye, assisted by Ivy McIntyre and Mary Teeters; primary, Zella Steele, assisted by Laura Lee Strong and Bonnie Steele; junior, Pastor Jim Ellis, assisted by Sarah Schisler and Michelle Wright.

Forty-nine children registered during the week. Thirty-three families were represented, from 13 different churches.

After the concluding program, parents and friends were invited to see the children's projects, and have refreshments served by Mrs. Mary Forman, Mrs. John McIntyre and Mrs. Irvin Wright.

Sacrifice Brings Success in Indiana

INDIANA—"Praise the Lord we reached our camp meeting evangelistic offering goal," announced Robert Thompson, Indiana Conference president, at a recent office worship.

"Many church members made real sacrifices, and I must thank them, too," Elder Thompson said, as he revealed that the offering totaled $25,160.24.

This offering assures the continuance of the It Is Written program in central Indiana, and Revelation seminars.

Strong financial support for other conference programs is revealed by systematic giving to Indiana Advance. During the first six months, $75,697.15 was received, .56 percent of tithes.

"Working together—building forever" is the theme of Indiana Advance: 40 percent of these funds are used for the academy building program, 35 percent for elementary education, 20 percent for evangelism, and 5 percent for Timber Ridge Youth Camp.

First Woman Elder Ordained at Rockford

ILLINOIS—The Rockford, Illinois, Adventist Church, organized more than a hundred years ago, ordained its first woman elder on Sabbath, June 26, according to Alice Davidson, communication secretary. Fannie Cato, a member since 1959, is a faithful witness, a capable speaker, and has served for 15 years as a leader or teacher in the primary Sabbath School department. When asked why she agreed to serve as an elder, she answered: "My late husband, Frank, was not a church member, and this at times caused problems in our home. Because of this, I feel I can relate to other women with similar problems more easily than could a man. Also, I feel I can more easily visit and encourage women who are living alone."

Rockford Members Raise Money for Community Services

ILLINOIS—Searching for a way to raise money for their local community services center's depleted treasury, Rockford Church members were given the opportunity to conduct an estate sale and have earned, to date, $1,063.

The treasury was low because of heavy use lately to provide food for needy people in the Rockford area, which has an unemployment rate of almost 20 percent.

Harold Carter, a local realtor, told Royce Thompson, community services leader, that an elderly couple named Black had just sold their house and were planning to move to an apartment. They were unable to take care of the sale of their personal possessions. Mr. Carter suggested the church take charge of the sale and use the commission for community services work.

First, the Blacks were assisted in moving into their new home. Then the church members spent several days sorting the accumulated items of many years. Harold and Carol Carter, especially, worked many hours during the entire time of the sale.

Some of the items were quite valuable. Newspapers were found dating back to World War I. Coins, china, old books, jewelry, tools, antique furniture and a mink coat were just a sample. The valuables were appraised professionally, and everything was sorted, priced and displayed on tables. Of particular interest was a copy of a newspaper describing the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln.

A large ad was placed in the local paper, and there was an excellent turnout. By the end of the fourth day most of the items of value were sold.

Then church members moved the remaining articles to the school gym. The Blacks were paid for these articles, and the church will hold a sale soon to dispose of them. Mr. and Mrs. Black expressed their pleasure at the amount of the check they were given.

In addition to the financial help, church members had many opportunities to talk to people about Adventist welfare work. Church members are ready to try another such sale if given the opportunity.

Pinewood Derby Held at Timber Ridge

INDIANA—A new event was added to the Indiana Pathfinder Fair this year, the Pinewood Derby, a miniature soap-box derby, according to Cliff Hoffman, youth director. Pathfinders bought Pinewood Derby Kits from Boy Scout stores. The kits contained a block of wood, a set of wheels and axles, and instructions on how to build the car. Five clubs built tracks which were set up for the Pinewood Derby at the fair. Two trophies were awarded: one for the fastest car and the other for craftsmanship. Donnie Short, left, a Pathfinder from the Gary Glen Park Club, won the trophy for the fastest car. Christi Preston, right, of the Lafayette Club, won the trophy for design and craftsmanship. Bob Gertzen, center, director of the Lafayette Club, won an award for the fastest staff entrant. This coming year study will be given to making the Pinewood Derby a separate event when parents and others can observe.

Fort Wayne Church Participates in Health Program

INDIANA—Television station WPTH, Channel 21 in Fort Wayne, sponsored a health program in various parts of the city last year.

Health booths included blood tests, blood pressure checks, and eye exams. These booths were manned by the local Red Cross, physicians and their staff, and the local Adventist Church. The program was called "Focus On Health."

The Fort Wayne Church was asked to promote the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. Many people came to the booth to ask about Smoking Sam and were given "How To Stop Smoking" booklets.

More than 100 booklets and pamphlets and registration forms for the up-coming Five-Day Plan were given away.

The local Catholic Church asked for brochures to hand out at their free health clinic. On the back of each brochure was stamped: "From your friends the Seventh-day Adventists." Many volunteers helped during the time the booth was set up, according to Paul Merrills, communication secretary.

They Stepped Out in Faith

INDIANA—Most Adventists pay tithe, but few give a triple tithe. Here's what happened when two families tried the third tithe in New Albany for two months this year.

When church leaders challenged the members to give a second tithe to meet rising educational costs at their junior academy early this year, one couple decided to give a third tithe, because their giving was already at 20 percent.

They had a son in the academy, they worked on salary and commission and were dependent on the auto industry for business.

"Each week seemed to present a new test," said Doris. "Our son was injured and unable to work in the academy industry. Several weeks I said to Bayard, 'There just isn't any way we can do it this week.' But he would always say, 'Just pay the tithe first, and we'll see what happens.'"

"To our amazement our sales kept increasing. Our home office wondered what was going on, and this gave us opportunity to tell them our story and witness for the Lord.

"Two months were up last Sabbath and we can only say that God's promises are sure and our faith in Him is stronger."

This is Diane's testimony: "When we decided to give an extra 10 percent to the church school debt, we knew it wouldn't be easy. I didn't have a job to help with expenses."

They prayed for God's direction. Diane went out to look for a job to supplement the family income. She went to a company that she knew had been interviewing people for a job. She was met with this sign: "No more applications accepted. Don't waste your time and ours." Diane went in anyway. She was interviewed by three men and was hired that day in a job that provided ideal hours for a mother with a school-age son.

Diane enthusiastically speaks of how the Lord truly poured out a blessing when He was taken at His Word.

Christian stewardship can be an exciting adventure. Praise the Lord and claim the promise. It worked in New Albany. It can work for you!

Colporteurs Conduct Week of Prayer

LAKE REGION—Maurice Berry and his wife Karole have made it their motto to work together, and they put Jesus first in their lives. Maurice and Karole are literature evangelists in the Detroit area. Through this ministry they are able to reach other young people with the Adventist message.

The Berrys recently conducted a Week of Prayer at the Sharon Church in Inkster, Michigan. Maurice says he considered it both an honor and a challenge to be the speaker for the week. His preaching and Karole's ministry through song helped impressed seven people to take their stand for Christ and become baptized members in the Inkster Church.

According to Elsie Knox, communication secretary, the goal of this evangelistic team is "to prepare a people to meet God." They share this thought with others: "Let it be the study of your life to bless and save others."—Messages to Young People, p. 23.

Wilson Students Walk Around the World

MICHIGAN—Grades one through four at Wilson Junior Academy recently completed the equivalent of a five-year walking trip around the world. When Bernice Lunz began teaching at the academy five years ago, she laid out a track around the playground and started a 15-minute track recess every day. The third year, several parents and other church members joined the walking tour. The children were also given credit for walking to and from school. They have walked 24,365 miles so far. The first year they "walked" from Wilson to San Francisco; the second, San Francisco to Hawaii; third, Hawaii to Australia; fourth, Australia to Hunza; and fifth, Hunza to Wilson. During key "stops" along the way, and at the close of each school year, parents gave parties with food representative of the area they had reached. Each child drew a picture and gave an oral report about each city or country they passed through. Geography took on a new meaning as the students charted their route around the world.

Community Services Award Presented

MICHIGAN—At a recent community guest day in the Houghton Lake Church, Anne Purkey presented a 15-year service pin to Mrs. Harold Cook. Mrs. Cook is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and loves to pack cartons for overseas shipment at the community services center, according to communication secretary Carrie Kelly. Mrs. Cook began working at the center when her niece, Ella Kemp, was the director. Mr. Cook has also helped at the center by delivering the cartons to Camp Au Sable for pick-up.

A Library Book Leads to Baptism

WISCONSIN—Another citizen of God's kingdom was baptized in the new Richland Center, Wisconsin, Church on May 15, 1982.

Linda had been looking for something more satisfying in her religious life. In the public library she found The Great Controversy. After thoroughly reading the book, she looked for more books in the library by the same author. Not finding any, she learned that it was a Seventh-day Adventist book, and she called the local Adventist elementary school.

The teacher, Francis Jordan, invited her to visit the school and borrow any of Mrs. White's books she wanted from the library.

After many months and personal Bible studies with literature evangelist Maria Starling, Francis Jordan, and Pastor Ted Green, Linda is now a happy new member of God's family.

Hand Out The Winner at Halloween

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Winner, a 16-page children's magazine, will be available again this year as a Halloween handout.

More than 7,000 copies of The Winner were purchased by churches, Pathfinder clubs, and individuals to give away to trick-or-treaters last fall.

The October 1982 issue of The Winner will feature a cover story on "hidden sugar," sugar which is disguised in foods by using various names.

Also in the issue are stories on how to handle jealousy, tobacco's effect on the lungs, and an introduction to the classic definition of alcoholism.

For more information, contact Narcotics Education, Inc., 6830 Laurel St., NW, Washington, DC 20012, before October 1.

● C. E. Bradford was honored recently at a banquet sponsored by the Breath of Life Committee, Maryland Chapter. Elder Bradford, vice president for the North American Division, was cited for his outstanding contributions to the Seventh-day Adventist Church and to the Breath of Life television ministry. The funds generated by the banquet are being used to support the Breath of Life telecast.

● Loma Linda University has announced that a student loan fund has been established to help students who wish to study public health. While the fund is not a massive one, it is considerable. Interest rates are to be kept low, with reasonable repayment schedules. These funds will be made available to qualified, accepted on-campus students for the fall quarter of 1982. Churches Focus on Spiritual Energy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Spiritual energy is the focus of five exhibits at the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee. Participating church organizations include the Church of Christ, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Baptist Ministries, the Greek Orthodox Church, and a consortium of 15 other Christian denominations.

The Adventists' presentation in Lifestyle and Technology demonstrate man's importance as a resource: his importance to God and his importance to the planet. Computers at the exhibit draw information from visitors and interpret it in terms of health, printing recommendations for a better lifestyle.

Rather than emphasizing new forms of energy, they reinforce the best we have: human energy. The Adventists look to humanity to utilize its own energy in the best possible way.

The Adventists also display archaeological finds which have direct reference to the Old Testament. Visitors see an actual brick from Nebuchadnezzar's Palace and a slingshot similar to the one which David used to slay Goliath. A continuous slide show presents the best utilization of human energy.

The Church's Presence exhibit in the Lifestyle and Technology Center is entitled "The Earth is the Lord's." The belief that men should be caretakers of this world and servants of Christ is portrayed through dramatic three-dimensional multi-media effects.

Viewers have cried and applauded at the dramatization of Christ feeding the hungry, visiting the poor and protecting the needy. The Church's Presence exhibit is sponsored by a consortium of 15 major Christian denominations ranging from the African-Methodist-Episcopalian Church to the United Presbyterian Church.

Another exhibit is the Church of Christ's "Energy for Life" exhibit. Trained workers greet and help visitors while electronic computer "teachers" provide instant answers to guests' Biblical questions.

The Baptist Ministries Pavilion stands at the edge of the Waters of the World Lake where a continuous puppet show delights young and old. Visitors are welcomed by the PowerSource, a group composed of young people who sing about the power from above.

The inside of the pavilion is centered in the theme "The Word Is . . . Energy." A 15-minute film plays continuously. An active missionary service is available for all those who seek help; deaf interpreters are also on call.

A Bible collection is one highlight of the exhibit. Contained in the antique display case are Bibles from 1525 to the present. The prize of the exhibit is one of 3,000 reprints of the Gutenberg Bible, the first Bible ever printed.

Faith For Today Targets 10 Cities

NEWBURY PARK, Calif.—Grand Rapids, Michigan, is one of 10 cities targeted for Faith For Today's new "Target America" campaign this year.

Target America is a brand new plan to get "Westbrook Hospital" and Faith For Today TV specials on 10 new markets in the United States.

"Frankly, it's a big challenge to get new air time," says Dan Matthews, Faith For Today director. "Back 10 or 15 years ago there was public service time available. That means we could get station time without paying. However, today stations want us to pay."

Syndication Manager Don James will be personally visiting television stations in the Grand Rapids area in an effort to secure air time for the program.

He'll be bartering for rock bottom prices, searching out every available public service spot still left in the market, and if necessary, he'll be looking for people who will sponsor the program.

Faith For Today is prepared to offer several mini-packages to stations in addition to the complete "Westbrook Hospital" series of 52 programs. Mini-packages include topics on health, the elderly, teens, children, and women.

Yet another option is the localized telecast, which is just catching on in several other cities. Mr. James will also be seeking air time for TV specials such as "The Harvest," and "Mountain Tops."

With Target America, Faith For Today is setting its sights on these cities: Denver, Grand Rapids, St. Paul, Atlanta, Nashville, Spokane, Baltimore, Providence, and Portland, Oregon.

Cornerstone Connections Provides Total Program for Youth

BERRIEN SPRINGS, Mich.—The Cornerstone Connection lessons are a four-year curriculum to meet the needs of young people with a study of all teachings of the church.

Cornerstone Connections began in January 1982, and is now in its second quarter of usage. The materials are not being prepared several years in advance, but just a few months before they reach the hands of the young people.

But Cornerstone Connections is more than a series of Sabbath School lessons. It is a whole system that has been introduced into the youth program of the church.

Within this system are Sabbath School lessons, cassette tapes, a resource guide for programs outside of Sabbath School time, posters and Sabbath School programs.

All these are coordinated with the Sabbath School lesson topic. While each month has a general theme, there may be only two lessons on the same subject.

The resource magazine has ideas for witnessing, community service, social events, films, special events, Scripture study, and Adventist youth meetings. The program is flexible so that it can be easily adopted for a small or large youth group.

Evaluations are being made twice a year. The first quarter evaluations revealed, as was expected, that some changes needed to be made to strengthen the program. The reactions were generally favorable, however, especially for the youth for whom the program was created.

These evaluations are being considered as new material is prepared.

If your church is not using Cornerstone Connections for the youth in grades 9 through 12, and you would like to try this program, get details from your local conference youth or Sabbath School directors.

Our connection with Jesus, the true Cornerstone, is what the Cornerstone Connections is all about.

'And All Thy Children'

Charles D. Joseph
President
Lake Region Conference

"And all thy children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of thy children." Isaiah 54:13.

The month of August represents the beginning of school activities all over the Lake Region and Lake Union territory. Parents are once again pondering in their conscious and subconscious minds the methods to be used to successfully finance their loved ones through another year of Christian education.

The pressure mounts as the realization of the rising cost of everything continues to be a part of the daily reporting of the news media. Questions begin to arise. Should I or shouldn't I? How? The feeling of helplessness finds its mark and before long depression sets in—unless the mind turns to the source of the command that says, "All thy children shall be taught of the Lord." The same source says, "I will supply all your needs according to my riches." What a promise! His riches include cattle, land and more rolling hillsides than we can imagine. His liberality has been demonstrated to the point of giving His life for His children. His concern has been expressed in words like "Consider the lilies . . . they toil not, neither do they spin; . . . Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Matthew 6:28, 29.

In a matter of days now, we will enter a period of evangelistic promotion called "1,000 Days of Reaping." This concept is designed to create a true sense of urgency in our thinking that really should already exist. Just think what it would be like to move into a high sense of urgency, winning new people to the Kingdom of God without doing our very best to guarantee the endurance and staying power of the ones that we already have. Our children are our "seed corn"—they represent the crop of tomorrow. We will reap exactly what we sow. All farmers know that quality of seed relates directly to the full and mature crop. "That our sons and daughters may be polished palaces" is our plea to all parents of the Lake Union Conference.

The work of Christian education and the work of salvation are the same, says E. G. White in the book Education. Found on page 30, this statement is the most powerful made on behalf of the effort to rightly train our youth. Many dollars will go because of this effort. But let no one regret it. May I challenge all my brothers and sisters to consider it a privilege to respond correctly to the divine mandate to teach "all our children" of the Lord. One thousand days of reaping? Reaping whom? As we reap, we must make sure that the "seed corn" with which God has blessed us will be a part of the harvest.

"All thy children shall be taught of the Lord."
