Faith For Today Moves Ahead: New Programs and New Markets

Dan Matthews, director/speaker of Faith For Today since 1980, is the new host of Westbrook Hospital and will soon begin a new TV program.

NEWBURY PARK, Calif.—Cameras will roll on Faith For Today's newest program venture in mid-February. However, according to Director/Speaker Dan Matthews, "Westbrook Hospital" won't be sitting on a shelf gathering dust.

The Faith For Today staff has selected and packaged 52 Westbrook Hospital programs for ongoing syndication.

This collection of programs represents an investment of $2.5 million in religious television ministry. To make the same programs today would cost $5 million.

"Stories about people last forever, and as long as our programs continue to air, they are a good investment that will help people through the trials and triumphs of life for many years to come," says Pastor Matthews, who now hosts the series.

The Westbrook series is presently seen on 110 broadcast stations in North America, reaching a weekly audience of approximately 300,000 people.

This figure does not include a large number of cable and satellite viewers for which no official audience data is available. This is because more than half of Faith For Today's audience is reached by stations giving free air time.

With satellite and cable coverage, Faith For Today's "Westbrook Hospital" series can now be seen by more than 40 percent of the total United States population.

At present five religious satellite networks broadcast the series at least once a week. These satellite broadcasts are carried by several thousand cable systems across the country that are wired into some 20 million homes.

Faith For Today is feeling the growth of the cable audience with a large number of responses coming from places where the program is not available on regular broadcast television.

And what do viewers say about "Westbrook Hospital"?

A typical letter comes from a Presbyterian woman in Tennessee who writes:

"I find your program to be very pertinent to daily living. It has been a great comfort to me at times of stress and also has made me examine some of my own beliefs. [Westbrook Hospital] transcends denominational barriers and offers insights to all. I hope that the excellent quality of your program continues into the future for many years."

Another letter comes from a woman who found some very practical help from watching "Westbrook Hospital":

"About a month ago a program was on TV about kids getting their parents to stop smoking ["The Quitters"]. I watched it and wrote down the suggestions they gave. I never wrote for the booklet but I stopped smoking. I feel just great and my husband is thrilled. I drank gallons of water and prayed and did everything you said, and I quit."

Some local pastors are beginning to get this kind of response from their own communities where they are going on TV with the localized Westbrook Hospital program, now available to qualified pastors and church members.

The localized Westbrook series consists of 26 specially edited programs with "holes" for the local host to present a brief message. In addition to video tapes, the local host also receives a complete guidebook of instructions.

One advantage of the localized program is that story topics may be selected to coincide with local church events such as Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking, prophecy seminars, or cooking schools. It also gives the host an opportunity to invite people to special church services.

In the past year, four pastors have been hosts for the localized program in Georgia, New Mexico, Virginia and West Virginia. Pastor Matthews hopes to interest several more people in the local TV ministry this year.

Because Faith For Today also wants to assist the church's overseas television ministry, 26 "Westbrook Hospital" programs are now available for foreign language translation. Japan has already translated 13 programs and is discovering that the story format is well-accepted in a non-Christian country.

Faith For Today is also carried in English in 11 countries and islands outside North America.

As we near Annual Offering Day on February 12 and the taping of the new TV series in mid-February, Faith For Today asks you to remember the needs of the television ministry as we continue a strong outreach for the glory of God.

For Today programs offer practical help to the TV viewer. "The Quitters," winner of a Silver Award at the Houston International Film Festival, has helped thousands of people in their battle to stop smoking.

Community Service is Part of Witnessing at Adelpian

MICHIGAN—A new elective class called "Witnessing" is now offered at Adelpian Academy to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who desire to work actively for God.

Every Tuesday in good weather the class sells Adventist literature door-to-door. Materials sold include "How to Stop Smoking," Steps to Christ, The Bible Story, or Bedtime Stories.

Of this venture class member Norman Bean states: "This has really been a great experience for me. I've gained a lot of confidence in my ability to meet people and converse with them about spiritual things."

Sherri Glass and Esther Trecartin speak with enthusiasm about the woman who listened to their canvass and then told the girls, "God must have sent you to me. I recently lost my child and this book Steps to Christ is an answer to prayer." The girls were happy to pray with the woman, and talk with her about Jesus, the great Comforter.

Currently, the students are compiling a booklet for the residents of a local nursing home, based on the stories the students gained from interviews with the elderly persons.

Also, the Witnessing class recently wrapped literature for overseas mission requests, and invited local church members to mail the packages.

In one of the most stimulating class projects, students team up to give Bible studies in class to ministers of various denominations. The visiting minister takes the last half of the class to discuss his point of view, or ask questions.

The clergy are made aware that the purpose of the visit is not to debate, but for the students to learn to defend their faith with confidence and courtesy, as well as hear another's viewpoint.

Representatives of many denominations have visited the classes, including Episcopalians, Latter-day Saints, Baptists, Methodists, Mennonites, Jehovah's Witnesses, Presbyterians, and a Jewish Rabbi.

The churches of Bad Axe, Morris, Otter Lake, Fenton, Long Lake and Towas have had the Adelpian Witnessing class as Sabbath guests, with the students providing the 11 o'clock service.

Financial Aid Application Deadline Is February 14 at Andrews

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—February 14 is a critical deadline for Michigan students applying for financial aid as freshmen for the 1983-84 school year, according to Esther Hare, Andrews' financial aid officer.

Mrs. Hare said that the deadline for Michigan students comes one month earlier than for other students in the Lake Union, who must apply by March 15.

"These are crucial dates for next year's freshmen who need financial aid," said Mrs. Hare. "Each year, thousands and thousands of dollars are missed by Andrews students merely because they don't let us help them file the necessary papers on time."

According to Mrs. Hare, the Financial Aid Form (F.A.F.) is the key document that must be filed by the deadline in order to make the student eligible for a variety of aid sources, including state and federal grants and certain loan programs.

"We're here to help anyone that needs help on this," says Mrs. Hare. "If the F.A.F. seems complicated, give us a call and we'll help you in every way we can. We don't want anyone to miss out."

For help or information concerning financial aid at Andrews, call 616-471-3334.

Adventists Aid Tornado Victims in New Baden

ILLINOIS—A tornado in New Baden, Illinois, on Thursday, December 2 at 3 A.M. left many people dead, injured or homeless.

Rodney Dale, conference personal ministries director, and William Stewart, district pastor, set up a center to distribute clothes and bedding.

In Ingathering solicitation, people were informed that the church's community services and disaster relief services were at the New Baden tornado scene.

People contacted for donations seemed pleased to know that Adventists were actively reaching out to others during the disaster.

"This is what Ingathering is all about," said Elder Dale, "building bridges to people."

'You Are The One'

"You Are the One," the third quarter NO ONE BUT YOU program, introduced you to Sam and Elsie Zelms and some of the 15 to 20 people they routinely invite for Sabbath dinner.

NO ONE BUT YOU

The Zelms' beautiful attitude and willingness to serve is contagious, and can be seen reflecting from their daughter, Tami, and son, Scott. Both Tami and Scott were baptized, along with their parents, three years ago.

Scott has since married and is now the personal ministries direcand Helen have conducted as many as eight Bible studies a week. Though Tim is 94 percent blind, his spiritual vision is in full focus, for as Gary says, "Tom emphasized Jesus in our Bible studies, and gave me counsel on how to put the Christian life into practice."

No doubt you will also remember Jim Keene who four years ago thought he was useless and tried to take his own life. Today Jim witnesses through his changed life to fellow workers at the forest preserve.

About four months ago Jim was driving with two co-workers in a forest preserve truck when they passed a woman whose car was stuck in a ditch at the end of her driveway. At Jim's suggestion the men stopped to assist her.

The woman, Barbara Hoffman, was so touched by their stopping to help that, after her car was freed, she began to cry as she thanked them. "I wish there was something I could do for you," she said.

Jim quickly responded, "There is! I'm a Christian, and I wish you would read something for me." He handed her the books Steps to Christ and You Can Trust the Bible. A week later Jim stopped by Mrs. Hoffman's home again to give her an invitation to a Daniel Seminar.

Though she did not attend the Daniel Seminar, she attended all but one of the subsequent Revelation Lectures, and Jim continued to encourage her. One month ago Mrs. Hoffman was baptized.

These are just a few of the many people in the Lake Union who are giving a gift to those closest to them—a gift which can make a difference where they live—a gift which they alone can give.

You too have a gift that can be given. No one but you can give that gift, for it is the gift of your uniqueness. Only you can give it—"You Are the One."

Andrews Offers Weekend Adventure to Parents of Prospective Students

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews held its first Weekend Adventure for Parents January 14 to 16. Ten couples from around the Lake Union, all parents of prospective Andrews students, accepted the invitation to spend an entire weekend on campus as guests of the university.

"We think Weekend Adventure has great value for Lake Union parents who want to find out more about Andrews," says David Bauer, vice president for development and public relations. "Many parents never have a chance to get a good first-hand look at what Andrews life is all about before they send their children here. Weekend Adventure is their chance to do that."

The new program, designed primarily for parents of prospective students who have already applied to Andrews, will run for 12 weekends this spring, according to Garth Christoffel, field representative and coordinator of the program.

"We're trying to make Weekend Adventure an enjoyable and informative time for parents."

Mr. Christoffel said that the weekend schedule begins on Friday afternoon when parents arrive and get settled in a reserved floor of Meier Hall, the men's dormitory. All meals for the weekend are at the university food service in the Campus Center. Guests are encouraged to enjoy weekend religious services on Friday night and Sabbath, as well as tour special university exhibits on Sabbath afternoon.

On Saturday night, the university entertainment program is free to guests, and they meet with Andrews personnel at a reception immediately following the program.

The Sunday morning program includes a multi-media show, a buffet brunch and presentations by Andrews faculty and staff concerning academic opportunities, student life and financing an Andrews education.

Parents who wish to participate in Weekend Adventure should call the university toll free: in Michigan, 800-632-2248; outside Michigan, 800-253-2874.

School of Business to Award M.B.A. Scholarships

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The School of Business has announced the availability of four scholarships in the master of business administration (M.B.A.) degree program, according to Dale Twomley, dean of the school.

The scholarships will provide $4,000 each toward tuition in the 1983-1984 M.B.A. program. Dr. Twomley said the scholarships will provide approximately 80 percent of the student's tuition, with work opportunities provided to cover the remaining tuition and living expenses.

Anyone seeking the M.B.A. degree may apply for one of the scholarships, regardless of undergraduate college preparation. Students without a bachelor's degree in business administration will need to take three quarters of preparatory work before beginning the regular M.B.A. program.

Applications will be accepted by the Dean of the School of Business until May 1, 1983. Students will be notified of the results by May 15. The applications will be evaluated primarily on the basis of undergraduate grade point average and scores on the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT). Dr. Twomley said financial need will receive minimal consideration in awarding the scholarships.

Dr. Twomley urges potential applicants to register for the next GMAT, if they have not already taken it. Students must register for the test before January 26 to take the test administered in March, or register by April 25 for the test in June. For the student who takes the test in June, the application for scholarship and other information must be completed by May 1, but consideration for the scholarship may be held until GMAT scores arrive if other scores are high.

Graham Resigns as Provost, Returns to Classroom

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Dr. Roy E. Graham, Andrews' provost since 1979, has resigned his position and requested to return to full-time teaching as professor of theology in the Seminary. His resignation, effective-December 31, was for health reasons, according to President Joseph Smoot, who made the announcement on December 17. "Dr. Graham has given outstanding service as provost," said Dr. Smoot. "He has won the deep respect of faculty and students in that position. We are sorry to see him step down, but we are pleased that he will continue as a teacher in the Seminary."

Students may contact the nearest college or university or write Educational Testing Services for the location of the nearest testing center for the GMAT.

For further information regarding the scholarships, contact: Dean of the School of Business, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

Oncology Unit Opens in Hinsdale

HINSDALE, Ill.—Hinsdale Hospital recently opened an official 20-bed oncology unit. The opening of the unit marks the halfway point in making the hospital a full-scale cancer center, according to Eugene Krasnow, M.D., one of 10 staff physicians specializing in cancer treatment.

The oncology unit provides active cancer treatment in the form of chemotherapy, radiation therapy and medical management. It is viewed as a natural complement to the extensive diagnostic and therapeutic services already offered by the hospital, which include nuclear medicine studies and linear accelerator therapy. "The unit pools resources to meet the total needs of cancer patients," says Lynda Timothy, R.N., medical nursing coordinator.

Illinois Conference News Notes

● The Broadview Academy boy's dorm is taking on a new look this winter. The exterior is being remodeled for energy conservation. With metal walls only 3/4 of an inch thick, it was difficult and expensive to keep dorm rooms warm. Walls are being expanded to 8" with insulation and windows being replaced with thermopanes. The girl's dorm and then other campus buildings will also receive the treatment.

● The Springfield Church School has a new set of Funk and Wagnalls Encyclopedias, purchased for the school by church members who agreed to buy one book a piece through a local grocery store special. The first volume cost only 99 cents; the others were $3.74 each. The plan was presented to the church by members Arnold and Marjorie Miller after they saw the encyclopedia display and bought the first two volumes, according to Lucille Trumbo, communication secretary. Two dictionaries and two atlases were included in the set.

● The LaSalle/Peru Church was organized on Sabbath, December 12, 1982, by Conference President Everett Cumbo. A total of 20 individuals signed their names to become charter members. ● Food boxes were distributed just before Christmas to 16 needy families by the Springfield Church as a community services outreach. Church members had been donating food staples on a weekly basis for nearly three months. Food was also collected by the Pathfinders. Besides canned and packaged food staples, each family received a gallon of milk, fresh fruit, bread, personal care items and a copy of Steps to Christ. Esther McDevitt, community services director, and Arnold Miller were in charge of the project and several members participated in distributing the food.

● A baby dedication service was held on Christmas Day in the Springfield Church with Pastor Gus Scheuneman presiding. As the parents reconsecrated their lives to Christ, Karen Melissa, daughter of Charles and Sharon Lindsay, and Edward Tyson, son of Eddie and Debi Skinner, were presented before the congregation and dedicated to training and service for the Lord, reports Lucille Trumbo, communication secretary.

The highlight of the service was the baptism of Mrs. Michael Jacobs; Debbie Howell, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howell; Valerie Hurt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hurt, and Katie Marner, 10, daughter of Mrs. Susan Courtois.

● Joseph Allison, the teacher of the Galesburg Church School, assisted by Linda Tuthill, aide, are engaged in a job training enterprise at the school. Each week the young people bake bread in an oven installed in their one-room school. They also assist in the delivery of the bread each week to a local health food store. The young people are also selling sugar-free natural fruit candies, according to George Lloyd, superintendent of schools.

● In December the Downers Grove Chiefs held a church service during Pathfinder Day. Opening the program with scripture and prayer was Mike Chaney followed by Penny Kelley giving a reading on "Why Join Pathfinders." Several Chiefs were participants in a skit entitled the "Good Samaritan," and Rickie Strong and Craig Havel gave news of Pathfinders worldwide. Concluding the program were speeches on CARE—compassion, attention, responsibility, esteem—by Greg Snell, Roger Worrell, Stephen Schuetz and Dottie Worrell. An offering for the club was taken, reports Richard Cook, communication secretary.

● Waukegan Church School children and their teachers, Linda and Loren Taber, brought Christmas cheer to shut-ins Edna and Louise Mattausch just before Christmas.

● Members of the North Shore Church celebrated the New Year by prayer and Bible reading on New Year's Eve, December 31, 1982. Beginning with Genesis, portions of the Bible were read nonstop daily from 8 A.M. until 9 P.M. Individual members alternated each half hour. Before each reading, prayer was offered. On January 5 at 7 P.M., Pastor Stanley Cottrell read the last chapters of Revelation. A Revelation Seminar began at 7:30 P.M. Children from all the divisions participated in the program. At the conclusion, the congregation placed gifts on the Christmas tree. The children then left the sanctuary singing, "Silent Night," reports Richard Cook, communication secretary.

● Made up almost entirely of new Adventists, the Chicago Spanish Little Village Church of 44 members meets each week at 2434 South Albany in Chicago. Little Village is one of five Spanish churches organized during 1982 through the efforts of conference evangelist Sergio Ortiz and his team of Bible workers. Adalberto Alarcon is the pastor.

Waukegan Children Share Their Toys

ILLINOIS—As a special Christmas witnessing project the Waukegan church school children collected used toys to distribute to 10 needy families at Christmas. At their school Christmas program they also raised $50.33 to purchase new toys to include with their gifts. Eleven-year-old Bryan McGhee brought seven of his own stuffed toys to give to others. "I couldn't keep them at home knowing how some other children had nothing," he explained. Charlene Roxborough, 12, brought some of her own things because "I have all I need and it makes me happy inside to give to others." Teachers Loren and Linda Taber say the project brought a beautiful spirit of Christmas to the classroom.

Burbank Hosts Prophecy Series

ILLINOIS—As part of the Theater of Prophecy lecture series now in session at the Burbank Church, a Revelation Panorama program was held on Sabbath, November 13, 1982. The program was presented by Evangelist Mark Finley and Burbank Pastor Michael Sczekan. More than 250 people attended.

The early morning program began with a presentation by Elder Finley on Revelation's outline of end events. Elder Finley summarized the contents of each chapter in Revelation and gave principles for understanding its prophetic symbols and contrasts.

Then a multimedia presentation on the Second Coming of Christ was shown. Also, Bill Knott presented a special musical.

A worship service then followed in which Pastor Sczekan brought the group a message entitled "The Battle For Worship." Pastor Sczekan's sermon discussed the devil's "last desperate attempt to obtain worship in the coming crisis soon to break on the world," and why we worship the true God.

The worship service ended with three individuals committing their lives to Christ in baptism.

The service was followed by a vegetarian dinner and Christian fellowship.

Participants of the Revelation Panorama program then attended the Theater of Prophecy mid-afternoon lecture at a nearby hall. The lecture, "The Biblical Formula To Add Seven Happy Years To Your Life," was presented by Mark Finley, director of the Lake Union Soul-winning Institute, who described the Adventist health message.

For many participants this was the first Sabbath they had celebrated. Some remarked that it was a "day they would long remember."

Canton Members Aid Flood Victims

ILLINOIS—The Canton church members were active in assisting flood victims along the Illinois River recently, according to Judy Hutton and Dottie Johnson, communication secretaries.

They distributed blankets, jackets and other clothing as well as food baskets to hundreds who had to flee their homes.

A local skating rink advertised a free afternoon of skating to each person who would bring two cans of food for the church to use in its relief efforts. Young skaters brought 270 cans through this generous offer.

Springfield Mails Signs of Times

ILLINOIS—After an evangelistic crusade last May, various possibilities of sharing the Gospel in the local area were considered by the Springfield Church.

John Jagitsch, interest coordinator, made inquiries regarding literature mailing plans, and the program sponsored by the Signs of the Times was selected.

When the plan was presented to the church, pledges and cash in the amount of $2,284 were received.

Presently 3,575 households on five city and three rural routes in the area near the church are receiving a free issue of the Signs.

Enclosed with each copy is an application for a free subscription to the Signs, and a Bible study enrollment offer.

The church will subsidize the cost of any free subscription offers.

In anticipation of a good response to the Bible study offer, volunteers meet weekly to learn how to give Bible studies.

Plans are also being made for an evangelist to conduct a crusade in Springfield next September to reap the harvest of the Signs program and to generate new interest.

Indiana Conference News Notes

● Indianapolis Southside Church members recently held a farewell dinner and social hour honoring Elder and Mrs. Robert Chase, their pastor for more than six years. The Chase's have moved to the Burlington, Iowa, district, according to Nancy Schwer.

● December found the Kokomo Church and School focusing on consecration and devotion. Studies from Hosea by Pastor Lou Toscana, Bible marking classes, musical programs and a New Year's evening communion service prepared the members for 1983. Maureen Plumb's church school children presented a Christmas program entitled, "Led By a Star." Stick puppets, made by the church school children, represented the leading characters in the story of the wise men.

● Nine couples grew closer together at Vincennes through the weekend ministry of Elder and Mrs. C. E. Banks of Berrien Springs, Michigan, and their Marriage Enrichment seminar. Some people attending were not Adventists. The concluding session was a communion service. Husbands and wives vowed to each other that Jesus would be the center of their home. "It was exciting finding real meaning for our lives," says Debbie Fish, who reported on the seminar.

● Six people were baptized in Vincennes in November after an evangelistic crusade conducted by Norman Bassett, pastor of the Southside Indianapolis district. Pastor David Fish coordinated the program. Music for the series was arranged for by Helen Stevens.

● Marriage Enrichment was enjoyed by 12 couples in Fort Wayne during the weekend of December 3 to 5. Elder and Mrs. Ed Banks of Berrien Springs conducted the seminar in the Roy Ursin home. "We all left desiring more than anything to share love with our spouses, our church friends and our neighbors," declared Paul Merrills, communication secretary.

These churches gave above the average: Indianapolis Glendale, .63; South Bend, .61; and Cicero, .59.

Systematically giving one percent for Indiana Advance builds up God's work in Indiana. Your faithfulness is appreciated.

Music is Ministry at Academy

INDIANA—At Indiana Academy we have made music a part of our lives, because we realize the importance of quality music that would please God. The school has several music organizations.

The Chorolanas, or large choir, sing for church and Sabbath School. Its membership includes more than half of the student body.

Another group of singers, a smaller group chosen from the Chorolanas, is called the Keynotes. These singers travel all over Indiana, bringing God's Good News to other believers. In the past, they have traveled to nearly every town in the state.

This year David Grams, the chaplain, has brought to our campus in his energetic style a new concept in outreach. He has set up a recording studio in his office. With this, he will soon be recording sermons, songs and other outreach programs produced by the students.

Mr. Grams has free time given to him on three religious stations in different parts of the United States. He is working on finding a local station.

Finally, there are the personal testimonies to God: the special music given by individuals to their fellow students during church, Sabbath School and vespers.

God gave us music, and I believe we should return it to him in the form of praise and witness.

Roy Perry, Student

Eastern Federated King's Daughters Attend Convention

LAKE REGION—The 14th Annual Eastern Division Federated King's Daughters Convention was recently hosted by the Federated King's Daughters Detroit-Chapter I in the Westin Hotel at the Renaissance Center, Detroit.

Sister clubs from states east of the Rocky Mountains attended. Also, Maudester George, president of the Western Division, and several local club presidents were present.

Registration began on Thursday when Marion Quisenberry, the Eastern Division Federation president, opened the convention with a welcome speech.

Activities on Friday began with a buffet breakfast. Morning devotions were presented by Federation Chaplain Beverly English. The day was full of activities such as a business session and workshops on prison ministry, assertiveness and money making ideas.

These sessions help to broaden the participants' sense of purpose and strengthen their resolve to continue their community outreach programs and their support of students in scholastic endeavors.

Pastor Joseph Lewis and his congregation welcomed the conventioners to the Sharon Church in Inkster, Michigan, on Sabbath. Sabbath School services were superintended by Julia Lewis. The 11 o'clock hour speaker was Dr. Betty Davis, psychologist affiliated with the University of Michigan. Her message dealt with the Federation's annual theme:

Marion Quisenberry is the Eastern Division Federation president.

"Working It Out—Together We Can."

Dinner, at the Frank L. Peterson School, was catered by Josephine Taylor.

In the afternoon, the members of the King's Daughters shared their faith in a nursing home in the community. The day of worship was brought to a close with an evening meeting and vesper service.

The guest speaker for the scholarship banquet was Andita White, an educator from Chicago. The Federation's annual scholarship of $500 was given to Angela Gardner.

On Sunday the participants attended four "mini labs." They discussed how they could assimilate what they had learned into their homes, work, community and church.

Many participants expressed the feeling that the convention was "a time for Christian fellowship and mental and spiritual growth."

Lake Region Tops 1 Million Dollars in Book Sales

LAKE REGION—The Family Health Education Service literature evangelists recently held their annual incentive retreat at the Holiday Inn at the International Airport in Tampa, Florida.

Literature evangelists were represented from each of the nine regional conferences. Elder T. Samuel Barber, publishing director for the Lake Region Conference, reported the sales for Lake Region during 1982 to be $1,077,232.37

This is the first time that a regional conference has reached one million dollars in book sales, and was the highest amount of sales of the regional conferences.

In addition to making an overwhelming number of deliveries, the leaders, students, and literature evangelists made the following report of their missionary activities: 77,987 pieces of literature distributed; 5,503 Bible correspondence school enrollments; 1,756 persons taken to church; 1,130 former members contacted and invited to church; 39,626 homes in which prayer was offered; 1,996 Bible studies given; and 260 baptisms from literature evangelists contacts.

During the summer of 1982, Lake Region witnessed the largest participation from students ever: 230 students worked along with eight student leaders, three assistants, and Elder and Mrs. Barber.

Total deliveries by students in magazines and small books was $236,182. According to Elder Barber, this is a real blessing from God.

The highest number of deliveries was by Willie Mae Cooper who reported total sales of $42,700. The second highest was made by Brent H. Ellis with total sales of $35,272.65.

District 1, with the leadership of Arthur Suttle, reported the highest district sales for Lake Region. Mary G. Jones, student leader, reported the highest sales for students under her leadership.

The grand total in deliveries for the eight conferences reporting was $3,939,673.98. Most important was the report of 1,024 baptisms that were the result of contacts made by the literature evangelists in the regional conferences.

Lake Region Conference News Notes

● On Visitors Day at the Hyde Park Church, James C. Wray, personal ministries director for Lake Region, was the guest speaker. Fifty guests were present to enjoy the day. The guest of honor, Pastor Joseph Wells from the Mt. Pisgah Baptist Church in Chicago, is fulfilling God's command to "feed my lambs." His church is responsible for feeding more than 5,000 people each week who are without food. During the holiday season this number was doubled. Copies of the Conflict of the Ages Series were presented to him by the Hyde Park Church.

● The Shalem Church in Waukegan is engaged in a building fund drive. They are hoping to have a new church home soon.

● Nancy Lorraine Moore, a senior at Oakwood College, Huntsville, Alabama, has been elected to appear in Whose Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1983, according to Elsie Knox communication secretary of the City Temple Church in Detroit. She is also listed in the 1983 edition of the National Register of Outstanding College Graduates. Nancy attributes her success first of all to the goodness of the Lord, secondly, to her mother, Martha Moore, and to her brother, Benjamin Coe.

● Ethel Griffin was honored at a testimonial and farewell program by the departments and members of Shalem Church in Waukegan, Illinois. Shalem Church is giving her a set of the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary. Sister Griffin is one of a group of people who made plans for organizing a church on the southside of Waukegan. She wrote to Charles Joseph, president of the Lake Region Conference, asking him to send someone to be in charge of the group. Benjamin Browne, who was then pastor of the Sharon Church in Milwaukee, became the first pastor for the Waukegan group. The Shalem members are thankful to Ethel Griffin for the part she had in establishing the church. She is moving to Alabama, according to Roxie A. Ivy, communication secretary.

● The City Temple Chancel Choir recently presented a musical in memory of Frances B. Stanton. Frances shall long be remembered for her devotion to her family, friends and church. As a member of City Temple Church she held the offices of church secretary, was a member of the Circle Debonte Club, teacher and pianist of the Sabbath School, and a member and assistant director of the Chancel Choir.

● According to Linda Delock, the Adventist Youth leader at the Detroit Center Church, the recent Youth Day program was a big success. The youth of the church from ages eight and up participated in the services. The speaker for the worship service was one of Detroit's young literature evangelists, Maurice Berry. Special music was presented by Mrs. Berry and the children's choir from the Conant Gardens Church. After the service, dinner was served to visitors and members at the Better Living Center. Musical talent from the Belleville, Inkster, City Temple, Burns Avenue and Conant Garden churches participated in the evening musical program, according to Marlene Swift, communication secretary.

● Charlotte Michele Crawford, an 11th grade student at Adelphian Academy, has been placed on the honor roll for the first marking period. Charlotte is a member of the Southside Church in Pontiac, Michigan.

Chicagoland Youth Meet in Milwaukee

LAKE REGION—"Plant a Good Seed—Reap a Plentiful Harvest" was the theme of the Chicagoland Youth Fall Federation held recently at the Sharon Church in Milwaukee.

The Federation meeting opened on Friday evening with David Peay, federation president, and Michael Beale, federation chaplain, welcoming those who had come to worship.

The guest speaker for the evening was Victor Brooks from the South Central Conference. He admonished the youth to be prepared to leave this troubled world and go to that special place that God has prepared for those who love Him. He closed his sermon by singing "It Is No Secret."

On Sabbath the Sharon Church directed in the Sabbath School program. Special music was provided by representatives from the Minnesota and Sharon churches.

The lesson study was presented by representatives from the Shiloh, Maywood, Chicago Heights, Independence and Straford Memorial churches.

The essential point given by all representatives was that God's law indicates the manner of life in which we are to live within the covenant bond.

Referring to the Thousand Days of Reaping, James Wray, personal ministries director of the Lake Region Conference, said that everyone must be involved in this special time of witnessing.

For the worship service Elder Brooks preached on the "Language of the Holy Ghost."

The highlight for Sabbath afternoon was the Adventist Youth program which opened with a mini-concert given by Chapter One and True Victory singing groups from Andrews University.

A special program was given by the youth from the Maywood Church. Pamela Wright, assistant secretary/treasurer of the federation, lead the teams in a quiz on the history of Adventism. The Hyde Park and Independence churches won the first and second place trophies.

Sabbath's program ended with vespers by Conrad Gill, youth director of the Lake Region Conference.

Saturday evening recreation was held at the University of Wisconsin, where the youth enjoyed bowling and ping pong.

The coordinators for the A.Y. program were Marguerite Byrd, federation vice president, and LaTanya Beale from Maywood.

The goal of the federation was to make all the youth aware of their responsibility to witness for Christ.

The A.Y. leaders and the officers of the Chicagoland Youth Federation are already making plans for the 1983 Spring Youth Emphasis Week.

Bread Baking Taught in Escanaba

MICHIGAN—A "breadmake" and nutrition seminar was held recently in Escanaba by Earl and Dottie Allen of Weimar Institute. About 40 people attended each class, the majority non-Adventists. Emphasis was placed on the use of natural ingredients because of the possible adverse relationship between refined foods and many diseases. Church members attending felt they had much to learn about God's original diet for man. They realize that many people in the community are waiting for this information to be shared, according to communication secretary, Della Rodman. Questions were asked and comments made by several people after the classes, she said.

Prayer Requests Enrich Worship

MICHIGAN—Monday morning worship services in the Michigan Conference office have been enriched by the prayer vigil at camp meeting last July, says Charles Keymer, president of the conference.

More than 200 requests for prayer or expressions of praise and thankfulness were written down by Michigan members who visited the prayer tent during the nine days of camp meeting.

Since then, these prayer requests have been shared where appropriate with the conference staff, and prayed for by the group. Names are not usually read.

Here are some samples of requests and praise statements from the list: "Please pray for me and my family to stay close to the Lord and care about people like Jesus does." "Please pray that I will have a forgiving spirit." "Praise God! I have found the key to joyous living, the secret of successful living in Christ, as a result of a daily devotional life." "Please pray that I will have more zeal and boldness to go to my neighbors with this wonderful message."

Shared prayer and praise enrich us all.

60 People Kick the Smoking Habit

MICHIGAN—About 80 people attended a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking in Escanaba recently. Sixty of the 80 were successful in overcoming the habit. Instructors for the plan were Pastor John Glass and Dr. Eugene Hildebrand of Munising. One woman was so enthusiastic about kicking the habit that she called Pastor Glass early on Sabbath morning to tell him how good she felt—"I never had so much energy!"—and how good everything smelled and tasted. Two persons who attended did not have a smoking problem but had heard of the principles taught. They believed if they could understand them they could encourage and understand their friends who had problems quitting. They commented that they had found the principles useful in overcoming other habits in their lives. Also assisting in the program were John and Bonnie Jacques who graduated from the Five-Day Plan three years ago. They assisted with the advertising and registration. They have expressed an interest in Bible studies.

In his final talk on Sunday morning, Elder Wheeling emphasized the need for God's people to unite in purpose, mission and confidence through the Holy Spirit.

He challenged the A.S.I. members present to make time for communion with God; to settle their priorities and make Christ first.

A.S.I. members shared with others the various ways they were witnessing in their business.

Art Moffit, who owns a construction business is currently giving Bible studies to a woman who inquired about personal salvation while Art was bricking her house.

A.S.I. members in attendance commented that they were thrilled with the message and wanted to "go all out for God in their business and personal lives."

A.S.I. is a group of laymen who own their own businesses, and their purpose is to hasten the soon coming of Christ by witnessing in their own unique way.

A.S.I. Helps Build Danville Church

LAKE UNION—Twenty members and friends of the Lake Union Conference's Adventist-Laymen's Services and Industries (A.S.I.) donated a week of time out of their busy schedules, September 26 to October 1, to help the 29-member Danville, Illinois, Gethsemane group build a new church.

In preparing for this work week several miracles occurred in securing food and accommodations for the out-of-town helpers. The pastor, Alfonso Greene Jr., had contacted several motels in the area to find reasonable rates. Each contact he made was met with a negative response.

However, one motel manager, after hearing the story, agreed to reduce his room rates to one-half—just $19 per night.

Pastor Greene was optimistic that he could get an even better deal. So he contacted the manager of the local Ramada Inn who agreed to let the group have five double rooms, free, for the entire week.

A.S.I. members donated funds for food and several helped cook and serve the meals every day.

Members of the church were thrilled that people who did not know them would leave their busy places of work and volunteer to help build a church.

One young man who helped during the week became good friends with several of the men with whom he was working. As the group left on Friday, the boy was encouraged to stand firm until Christ's soon return. "I will," he assured them.

The non-Adventist electrician working on the project spoke to Jack Crabtree, A.S.I. project coordinator and vice president. He asked, "Do these people actually drive here at their own expense and donate their time for this church?" He remarked on several occasions how well the members worked together. At the end of the week he asked Jack, "Would you please leave me your address and telephone number?"

The A.S.I. members who helped went home better able to understand the joy Christ must have felt as He ministered to others.

Computer Games Answer Questions about Military Draft

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Since the appeal of military service with its benefits attract many young people, Seventh-day Adventist youth should be aware of all that is involved.

To help church members become aware, the National Service Organization (N.S.O.) has introduced The Conscience Project. This project includes a training program for draft-age youth that will be available in each local conference by January 1983.

One phase of this training is an N.S.O. computer game called "Pick and Choose" featuring a two-track system. First, a student can follow a computerized military draft scenario, and by punching the "help" button, find available options for possible problems.

Or the user can use the data and get from the computer specific Selective Service information which has been previously programmed and indexed.

The "Pick and Choose" program will be supplied to all requesting academies and colleges having TRS-80 I or III, or Apple-II computers.

A new series of N.S.O. leaflets is also being developed, according to Charles Martin, the director of the National Service Organization. The leaflet titles are "What Can I Expect If I Join?" "What If Uncle Sam Orders Me to Work on the Sabbath?" and "What an Adventist Should Know About the Military."

For further information about military service contact your local conference youth director.

Review Has New Editor

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Editorship of the Adventist Review passed to William G. Johnsson, 48, when Kenneth H. Wood, 65, retired December 1, 1982.

Dr. Wood served on the Review staff for 26 years—10 as an associate editor, and the last 16 as editor-in-chief.

Dr. Johnsson, who says there will be no immediate change in the paper's policies, pledges to "give the news quickly, fairly, openly, fully, and responsibly." He added, "The Review is not simply a newspaper. Because it is a church paper, it must ever remain sensitive to its pastoral role.

"The editors aim to make the Review the preeminent source of information for Adventists, so that members will find it indispensable."

Dr. Johnsson was associate dean of the Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University before joining the Review as an associate editor two years ago.

Let's Make Satan Tremble

Robert A. Thompson
President
Indiana Conference

"In every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." Philippians 4:6. Our personal lives, our churches, our communities, and our nation would be different if God's people around the world would spend more time in prayer. We are told that "Prayer is the opening of the heart to God as to a friend."—Steps to Christ, p. 93. When we meet with true friends, we never tire of talking. We eagerly share news, ideas, and hopes with one another. Why then are we so reluctant to commune with the One we often say is our Best Friend?

"God is ready and willing to hear the sincere prayer of the humblest of His children."—Steps to Christ, p. 94. We all know what happens when we do not pray. We begin depending upon our own strength, and we fail miserably. It must hurt our Heavenly Father terribly when we do not want to speak to Him.

Also Satan rejoices, because when God is shut out the evil forces move in. "The darkness of the evil one encloses those who neglect to pray. The whispered temptations of the enemy entice them to sin; . . ."—Steps to Christ, p. 94.

Let's think a few moments about our prayer life:

1. We should spend some time every day in thanks and praise to God for all of His wonderful blessings to us. "The angels . . . regard communion with God as their highest joy; . . ."—Steps to Christ, p. 94.

2. A portion of our daily prayer life should be in secret personal prayer. "Secret prayer is to be heard only by the prayer-hearing God. No curious ear is to receive the burdens of such petitions."—Steps to Christ, p. 98.

3. We should seek to pray with our families before parting for the day. We need the protection of God's Holy angels every moment and should ask for it.

4. We may in confidence place both our physical and spiritual needs before God. "Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." Hebrews 4:16.

5. Every week as we worship with fellow believers we may share in the blessing of public prayer. As we enter God's house, may we bow in prayer, seeking His blessing upon the Sabbath School and worship hours.

Someone once said: "The one concern of the devil is to keep the saints from praying. He fears nothing from prayerless studies, prayerless works or prayerless religion. He laughs at our toil, mocks at our wisdom, but trembles when we pray." Let's make Satan tremble every day.
