In 1963 he accepted the responsibilities of treasurer for the Texico Conference. One year later he was ordained into the ministry at the Texico Camp Meeting in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Treasurer posts took him to the Minnesota and Chesapeake conferences before he joined the

Sacrifice Offering On October 29

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Adventists still are at the top of the list of those church bodies where the per capita giving ranks high. The results of our giving are evidenced in our world outreach for the sake of spreading the Gospel.

Once a year we have a special sacrifice offering which gives a boost to our annual budget. This budget often suffers because of inflation, changes in monetary rates, and increasing interest

Your sacrifice offering on October 29 will greatly enhance our world outreach and will assist in fulfilling the challenge Christ gave to each one of us; "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Matthew 28:19.

H.M.S. Richards Celebrates 89th Birthday

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—H.M.S. Richards is congratulated by Robert R. Frame, chairman of the Voice of Prophecy Board of Directors, at a celebration in honor of Elder Richards' 89th birthday. At left is H.M.S. # Church Membership Passes Four Million

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Responding to the Seventh-day Adventist Church's greatest evangelistic thrust in history, 105,372 people became members during the second quarter of 1983. This report by our world division, which includes figures through June 30, means that during the second quarter 1,158 accessions per day were realized.

Statistics for the first three quarters of the 1,000 Days of Reaping indicate that 278,007 persons have joined the church. This comes to an average of 1,018.34 new members per day.

Through the second quarter of 1983 the world church is ahead of schedule by 26,838 souls, or 12.77 percent.

With 1983's second quarter totaling an 80,114 net increase in world church membership, the 4 million mark has been reached. As of June 30, Adventist church membership totaled 4,005,599.

Don Yost, General Conference archivist, observes: "The first million members required about 107 years (to 1955); the second million, 14.7 years (to 1970); the third million, 7.7 years (to 1978), and the fourth million, 5.2 years (to 1983). The next million will probably require only 4.4 years (to 1987) if time should last."

When Ellen White saw Adventist publications encircling the globe "like streams of light," little did early pioneers realize that such a day as this would come.

Mayor Washington Speaks at Hinsdale Commencement

HINSDALE, III.-Chicago Mayor Harold Washington was the featured speaker for the 1983 graduating class of the School of Practical Nursing at Hinsdale Hospital.

Washington's speech focused on his hopes for health care in the Chicago area. He emphasized the fact that medical and spiritual health care has been gravely lacking, and he called upon the graduating nurses to consider practicing their new profession in Chicago area hospitals.

Mayor Washington also announced the opening of two community health centers to care for pregnant women, infants, and preschool children in poor neighborhoods.

The centers will provide free nutritional information and medical care for high risk, poor and minority women and children referred to the centers by community service agencies.

In conjunction with the announcement, Mayor Washington said, "I hope the graduates will find cause to work in Chicago, and I hope the hospital will help solve some of the problems of the city. The suburbs and the city are like two hands of one body."

Among the 38 nurses receiving their degrees was the Mayor's sister, Elaine Lake, of Harvey, Illinois.

Denomination Opposes Vatican Representative

WASHINGTON, D.C.-"Dispatching an official representative to the Vatican would entangle the United States with a religious entity," stated Neal C. Wilson, president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

"By establishing diplomatic relations with the Vatican in the person of an ambassador, the American Government would be granting preference to one religion over other religions," said Elder Wilson.

Although a number of members of the U.S. Congress would favor the repeal of an 1867 law that prohibits such a diplomatic exchange,

Elder Wilson insists that the Holy See is not a part of the community

As it has done consistently through the years, the Seventhday Adventist denomination adamantly opposes this move.

"Despite engaging in travels and activities that have a political dimension, its [the Vatican's] head, the Pope, is not a sovereign, in the conventional sense, who warrants treatment as such. Sending an ambassador to the Vatican would minimize the United States' embassy already accredited with the Italian Government," says Elder Wilson.

A Real Love Story

Janet Eng, featured in this year's second quarter NO ONE BUT YOU program, "Silently Comes the Night," has a love story to tell.

Janet's love story began when she first accepted Christ as her

but one one

Saviour. She was an advertising executive at the time.

After accepting Christ, Janet prayed that God would lead her to "the right church." She was already a vegetarian, and so she frequented the Adventist-operated New Earth Restaurant in Chicago.

Her love relationship with Jesus led her to accept the Adventist doctrines she learned about from those she became acquainted with at the restaurant, and she was baptized in 1979.

Because Janet wanted to become an effective witness for Jesus, she attended the Lake Union Soul-Winning Institute in 1981. While there she assisted two evangelistic teams, and eventually became a Bible instructor for the North Shore Church in Chicago.

Janet's realization of Christ's love has led her to share His love with others, and sharing has led her to become spiritual friends with many people

One such spiritual friend was Gordon Lui, a young man in family practice residency at Hinsdale Hospital. Janet had been introduced to Gordon by her best friend, who is the wife of another resident.

Since Gordon and Janet were both in love with Jesus, they found it quite natural to share spiritual topics with one another.

As Janet and Gordon developed their spiritual friendship, they gradually fell in love with one another, and are now planning a December wedding. But their love story doesn't end here.

Their love for Jesus has continued to grow as their love for one another has grown, and their combined love has caused them to apply for mission service in the Far East. They expect to leave for mission duty as soon as Gordon completes his residency next June.

"We want to be together so we can work for Jesus as a team," says Janet. "I believe God has brought us together to help meet our needs so we can be more effective for Him, for I discover more of the love of God the more I get to know Gordon."

Now that's a real love story!

Lake Union Optometrists Attend Annual Convention

LAKE UNION—Three Adventist doctors of optometry from the Lake Union joined other Adventist optometrists from throughout the United States and Canada for their annual convention at the Upper Columbia youth facility, Camp MiVoden, near Hayden Lake, Idaho.

A. R. Handysides, health and temperance director of the Trans-Africa Division, was a guest speaker and gave those in attendance a firsthand look at mission work overseas.

The optometrist organization came into being 24 years ago with the stated purpose to foster visual care and missionary service throughout the world.

Many of the doctors of optometry have spent time in Thailand refugee camps. Working with the Seventh-day Adventist World Service, they have fitted thousands of refugees with glasses and provided eye care.

Those in attendance at the convention elected Dr. Wilma Boulieris of Moses Lake, Washington, as their national president.

A.S.I. Conducts Fall Fellowship Weekend Retreat

LAKE UNION—Approximately 100 Lake Union Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries members and their families attended the 1983 Fall Fellowship Weekend held at Madison, Wisconsin, September 2 to 5.

Kenneth Holland, editor of These Times, and his wife were special guests for the weekend.

Elder Holland's message on Friday night encouraged enthusiasm for witnessing. The remainder of the evening was devoted to getting acquainted and sharing witnessing experiences.

Speaking again at 11 A.M. on Sabbath, Elder Holland said Seventh-day Adventists need to "speak up on doctrinal issues, especially the Sabbath and immortality of the soul."

Buffet-style meals served by the Madison church members in the church school gymnasium provided time for nurturing old friendships and making new ones.

Sabbath evening vespers was coordinated by Arthur Nelson, A.S.I. director for the Wisconsin Conference, and featured students from Wisconsin Academy.

The balance of the weekend was spent enjoying the beauty of the Wisconsin Dells recreation area. About 40 members from Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin stayed on Sunday and Monday for a time of fellowship together.

"This is the largest attendance ever at a Fall Fellowship Weekend," said Chuck Randall, Lake Union A.S.I. president.

A.S.I. weekend retreats are for the purpose of bringing business and professional people and other interested lay people together in an atmosphere conducive to spiritual growth.

Needed: Holy Energy and High Hopes to Bring Success

LAKE UNION—It is a thrilling thing to observe the work of one who has a vision, a great objective. Our world is filled with examples of the work of men and women of great vision.

During the first week of August I had the privilege of visiting the world's greatest "fly-in" of hand-crafted personal aircrafts. The array of varied designs, of construction methods, of paint schemes, and of suggested uses was over-

The people who belong to the Experimental Aircraft Association, which sponsors this annual convention, are people with vision. They believe that it is important to preserve the independent spirit of innovation and dedication to personal aviation that was so much a part of early aviation history.

The amount of energy given to preserving this hope is inspiring indeed.

If men and women will dedicate as much as 10 years to the building of one small airplane, if their vision creates such energy and hope that they will persist in the face of almost every obstacle, then surely we with the greater vision of eternity will not shrink from the varied tasks God places before us.

The necessities of a "finished" work require of each one of us the giving of time and personal effort beyond the ordinary requirements of life. This we do not deny. However, the rewards at the end of the vision are beyond our expectations.

On June 5, 1914, Sister White wrote: "To all who are about to take up special missionary work with paper prepared for use in the Harvest Ingathering campaign, I would say: Be diligent in your efforts; . . . work for unbelievers in the high places as well as in the low places of life. Search diligently for perishing souls. . . . Watch for souls as they that must give an account. ... Then let us be diligent in the distribution of literature that has been carefully prepared for use among those not of our faith. ... Let us put literature into every hand that will receive it." Christian Service, p. 169.

Again in the same article this statement is made: "One of the new plans for reaching unbelievers is the Harvest Ingathering campaign for missions. In many places during the past few years, this has proved a success, bringing blessing to many, and increasing the flow of means into the mission treasury." Christian Service, p. 167.

To make our annual Ingathering campaign a success it will take holy energy and high hope. Each of us needs the vision and hope of the task God has placed before us.

Was It Just a Coincidence?

WISCONSIN-Often we hear about evangelistic meetings and the number of people who have been baptized, and we are happy, as we should be. But how often do we realize the extent of the work of the Holy Spirit behind the scenes?

About a year ago Barb Tesser called pastor Steve Shipowick with a question. Barb was concerned about her friend, Tonna Rosa, who was studying with another denomination.

Barb had once been a Seventhday Adventist but had drifted far away from the church over the years. Yet it was the Adventist pastor she called for answers when she saw her friend becoming con-

As a result of Barb's call, Bible studies began in Barb's home, and both Tonna and Barb asked Pastor Shipowick questions. Gradually truth became evident to both

In the meantime, Tonna began to share her new knowledge with her husband. Pete. Pete was skeptical, but the next week Pete was at the Bible study.

He had many questions and later called his priest to ask him which day was the Bible Sabbath. The priest replied, "Saturday is the Bible Sabbath, but we can worship on Sunday if we want

That was enough for Pete. He began to study in earnest and soon Barb and her family, Pete, Tonna and their three children were attending church on a regular basis.

Three months later Pastor Shipowick received a note from Mark Finley, director of the Lake Union Soul-Winning Institute, saying Felix Vanegas, a newly baptized member in Chicago, had several relatives in Wisconsin Rapids and would like someone to visit them.

Pastor Shipowick recognized the names as being Spanish and asked Pete, who is also Spanishspeaking, to go along as interpreter. Pete was happy to do so, and they met with Carmen Perez, Martha Vanegas and several others and began a series of Bible studies.

The Bible studies led into a Revelation Seminar, and as a result of the Lord's leading, nine souls were baptized.

Was it just a coincidence that Tonna asked Barb some questions? Was it just a coincidence that Pete was curious and began to study? Was it just a coincidence that Pete was available to act as translator for Martha, Carmen and their family?

Surely Isaiah was right when he said: "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isaiah 55:8, 9.

Andrews Breaks National Trends as Freshman Enrollment Increases

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University has seen a 45 percent increase in the number of first-time freshman students this fall, according to Terry Newmyer, director of marketing at the university.

He said that 453 freshmen had registered as students for the fall quarter compared with 313 students who had registered at the same time last year. "This is an increase of 140 students or 44.7 percent," Mr. Newmyer said.

"We expect to have a few additonal freshmen by the end of the drop/add period. Last year our final figure was 320 freshmen."

In a statement for the student newspaper, the Student Movement, Mr. Newmyer said, "The growth in the number of new freshmen is a credit to every member of the university family. In the face of decreasing college enrollments nationally and a struggling economy, we have broken the trends in higher education and posted a gain of which we all can be pleased.

"This increase is the direct result of students, teachers, housekeepers, secretaries, cooks and administrators making a special effort to share the Andrews story with people every-

"Our primary market diminished by six percent since a year ago, but we were able to counteract this partly due to more than 12,000 phone calls and 7,000 personal letters to prospective students in the past 12 months," said Mr. Newmyer.

He also attributes the freshman increase to the university's effort to give good service to students.

"Although it is still too early to predict final fall quarter university enrollment," he said, "we believe it will remain about the same as last year's final figure of 2,851. Although freshman enrollment has increased at Andrews, there may be other areas that have fewer students than last year."

Mr. Newmyer noted that final enrollment figures will not be completed until information from Andrews's overseas affiliated schools is received.

By schools, the College of Arts and Sciences is up by 63 freshmen, the College of Technology is up by 65 freshmen and the School of Business has five more freshmen than a year ago.

The number of students who live in the residence halls is up this fall. According to Mr. Newmyer there are about 140 more now than at this time last year; 90 of them are men and 50 are women.

Most of this increase is due to a change in regulations concerning student housing for undergraduates.

New Corporation to Provide Health Promotion Activities

HINSDALE, Ill.—On June 1, Hinsdale Hospital formed a new corporation, The Center for Health Promotion, Inc. This center will provide health promotion activities to business and industries served by Adventist Health System/North facilities in the Chicago area.

The Center for Health Promotion results from the merger of Comprehensive Health Testing formerly owned and operated by Hinsdale Medical Center and Hinsdale Hospital's occupational health promotion activities.

The newly formed corporation offers executive physicals, health screening, and stay-well programs at the business site.

"During the executive physicals, in addition to the history and physical, we analyze the executive's diet and make appropriate recommendations," says Gerald McLane, doctor of health science.

"We also make referrals to our, Stay-Well Seminars when the executive can benefit from them: These seminars teach how to relax, how to stop smoking, good nutrition, how to lose weight, and how to stay fit."

Disaster Van—A Witnessing Tool

INDIANA—The Indiana Conference disaster van was used as a witnessing tool at the Kosciusko County Fair during the first week of August.

Elzo Rogers, head elder of the Warsaw Church, made arrangements to bring the van to Warsaw and also coordinated the staffing of the van by local members throughout the week.

A table was placed adjacent to the van to hold literature, samples of the clothing and bedding packets contained in the van, and a stack of Cosmic Conflict books to be given to interested individuals.

The first of many surprises occurred when the van arrived and Elzo was told that the cost for parking it would be $10 per foot; $400 for the 40-foot van. At the end of the week, after the fair superintendent understood the role of the van, the charge was reduced to $100.

Soon after the van was set up, a man stopped and began to ask many questions. He was given a tour of the van, and he made notes as his questions were answered.

Before leaving, he identified himself as a reporter for the Warsaw Times Union newspaper. A few days later an article appeared in the newspaper which described the van, its contents, its role in disaster relief, and the location and history of the Warsaw Church

Storfjell. "We see future growth Most of the people who visited potential in home health care in the van expressed surprise that a church would provide this kind of support to the public, and some asked if they could make contributions.

Several people were interested in more than just the van. One woman who is a vegetarian was looking for a group to associate with that promotes vegetarianism.

Another woman was interested in Bible studies, and another identified herself as a former Adventist who was unaware that there was a church in town.

Late one evening a couple approached the van and walked directly to the table. The first thing they asked was, "Do you have the book, Daniel and Revelation by Uriah Smith?"

After being told that there were no copies of the book there but that they could be obtained, they asked that three copies of the book be ordered. They explained that they had one copy but were studying with several other people and had been unable to find additional copies.

They said they would pay for the books regardless of the price. When the three copies were delivered two weeks later, they asked for yet another copy.

Warsaw church members are excited about the interested people that have been contacted through the van ministry, and solicit the prayers of the Lake Union Conference family as they make follow-up visits.

Physician Referral Service Begins at Hyde Park

CHICAGO, Ill.—Hyde Park Community Hospital began offering a new physician referral service to the Hyde Park-Kenwood communities in late August.

This free, around-the-clock service is designed to help people find a physician to meet their individual needs.

The physician referral service provides a listing, by specialty, of physicians available. At any hour, a registered nurse will answer incoming calls in order to provide information and offer assistance.

After interviewing the caller and determining what kind of physician is needed, the nurse will supply the names and office phone numbers of two physicians.

"We feel that our new physician referral service will provide a much needed resource for the Hyde Park-Kenwood communities," says Rose Lawrence, supervisor of the Hyde Park Community Hospital PromptCare Center.

The physician referral service is only one of the many services offered through the new Prompt-Care Center. Other free services offered include monthly health screenings in blood pressure and diabetes and the administering of flu vaccine and chest X-rays.

"The agency is here to provide quality health care services to community members in their homes," says Mr. Krieger. "We have recently experienced enough growth to increase our nursing staff."

"With the inception of the Medicare prospective reimbursement system," says Mrs. Storfjell, "it will be essential for health care institutions and home health care agencies to have close relationships.

"The new Chicago branch office, and the Hinsdale branch office, currently comprise our Chicago area network," says Mrs. Storfjell. "We see future growth potential in home health care in this region, and have appointed a regional director of the Chicago network to coordinate the activities of the branch offices."

Coming in the Adventist Review

WASHINGTON, D.C.-J. N. Andrews died 100 years ago this year. He was a man so dedicated to the cause of missions in Europe that it is said he would forego his grocery money to make more printed matter available. To commemorate the centennial of this famous Adventist's death, the October 20 issue of the Adventist Review is dedicated to missions. What were missions like in the past? What are they like now? What is the future of missions. The issue is one that you won't want to miss, as it approaches missions from both a philosophical and human interest angle.

Think on These Things

Martin Butler Managing Editor Lake Union Herald

This truly is a momentous year for the Lake Union Herald. A 75th anniversary is always special—and this is our year to celebrate.

During the past several weeks the Herald staff has asked our readers to help us celebrate by taking "a look back in time by sending thoughts about the Herald that will interest and inspire others." This invitation to share prompted me to do a little reflecting on my own.

While a senior at Cedar Lake Academy, my English teacher asked me if I would consider an independent study project that would include writing news releases about academy activities for the Lake Union Herald.

It sounded like an enjoyable assignment, so I accepted the challenge. My decision was one I'd literally have to live with—the English teacher was my dad.

I had seen the Herald before, but when my articles began appearing I began taking a closer look.

From issue to issue I was inspired to read about people who had dedicated their lives to Christ and to His service. What a blessing it was to learn about church organizations in which dedicated Christians were working together to share the Good News.

As an academy student writing articles for the Herald, never would I have dreamed that 15 years later I would become its managing editor. I'm always amazed and inspired to see how God leads!

Today, while thinking about the Herald and its 75 years of service to church members in the Lake Union, one of my favorite Bible verses came to mind: "... whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." Philippians 4:8.

With every issue the Herald staff is challenged to share good reports. It is our hope that the material presented inspires and challenges our readers to even greater depths of Christian living and service. Through these articles we want to praise God for all He is doing through human vessels.

In this our 75th anniversary year, the Herald staff has recommitted itself to sharing stories that "are of good report" so that you, our reader, will be brought closer to heaven as you "think on these things."
