

Madlyn Hamblin Elected National A.S.I. Vice President

MICHIGAN—Madlyn Hamblin of Adrian, Michigan, was elected vice president of the national Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries (A.S.I.) during a recent convention in Guntersville, Alabama.

A.S.I. is an organization composed of Adventist professional people and business owners.

Madlyn and her husband, Ray, own Tecumseh Printers, Inc., and are the parents of two children, Kristy, 14, and Mike, 9. They presently are co-vice presidents of public relations and promotion for the Lake Union Chapter of A.S.I.

"Members of A.S.I. believe that witnessing should be done, not only on Sabbath, but every day throughout the week in their businesses and professions," Madlyn said.

A.S.I. activities in the Lake Union include spiritual and educational retreats twice a year and building projects. Churches have been constructed in Warsaw, Indiana, and Danville, Illinois. Last summer members of the Lake Union Chapter built a cabin at Camp Au Sable.

The Lake Union A.S.I. members are now finalizing plans to build a church in Beloit, Wisconsin, the hometown of Nellie Vandeman, wife of George Vandeman, "It Is Written" television speaker. Elder and Mrs. Vandeman will be with the A.S.I. members to help on the project in the summer of 1984. A crew will film the project for a possible future "It Is Written" broadcast.

"Membership in A.S.I. has inspired Ray and me to rededicate our lives and business to God," said Madlyn.

The Hamblins are now holding a Revelation Seminar and have 33 regular members attending, with several good baptismal prospects.

"We would encourage other business and professional people who want to learn how to better witness for God to join A.S.I.," Madlyn said.

For more information on A.S.I., contact Elder William Jones, Lake Union Conference, Box C, Berrien Springs, MI 49103.

West Frankfort Church

A Dream Leads to Church Dedication

ILLINOIS—In 1977 a woman in West Frankfort had a dream. In her dream she was instructed to sell the vacant property next to her home to someone who would build a small chapel on it.

The next day Ronnie Shelton came into the woman's place of business, told her of the needs of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church, and asked if she would consider selling her land. He explained that his church had outgrown its present facility.

Convinced that God had given her the dream, she agreed to sell the land to the Adventists even though others offered her more money for the property.

Ground was broken for the new church on October 9, 1977, when members pulled an old-fashioned plow by means of a long rope.

Members sacrificed to raise money for materials, and members and friends in various building trades donated their labor to construct the new church.

As the finishing touches were put on the construction, evangelistic meetings were held by Elder Jack Carpenter in 1980. Lamont Francisco held a series in 1981, and Elder Lyndon DeWitt held one in 1982.

Sabbath, August 6, 1983, was a day of thanksgiving when the West Frankfort church building was dedicated to God debt free.

Present evaluation of the church is $150,000. Current membership stands at 86.

Madlyn Hamblin was elected national vice president of Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries during a recent convention in Guntersville, Alabama.

Andrews Board Accepts Dr. Smoot's Resignation

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The Andrews University Board of Trustees met Wednesday, November 9, and voted to accept the resignation of President Joseph G. Smoot, effective immediately, according to an announcement by Board Chairman Charles B. Hirsch.

On October 31, Dr. Smoot announced his resignation, "effective December 31, 1983, or at a date determined by the Board of Trustees." According to Dr. Hirsch, the trustees decided to accept the earlier date "in Dr. Smoot's best interest."

Dr. Hirsch also said that Dr. Smoot is being asked to continue as a consultant in specific academic and financial projects.

The university's vice presidents will administer university affairs in the interim period. Richard W. Schwarz, vice president for academic administration and executive vice president, will serve as their chairman.

"During the trustees meeting," said Dr. Hirsch, "many members specifically mentioned their appreciation of Dr. Smoot and his accomplishments at Andrews during his seven years as president. His interests in the business affairs, future growth and overseas affiliations of the university, both within the Seventh-day Adventist Church and outside it, made a great contribution to Andrews University."

A search/screening committee has been set up to look for a new president, according to Dr. Hirsch. He outlined the procedure. The committee is made up of nine members: the chairman, vice chairman and three members of the Board of Trustees, two Andrews faculty members chosen by the faculty, one Andrews student chosen by the Student Senate, and one Andrews alumnus chosen by the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association.

The search/screening committee will consult with various university groups to assist in choosing names for the new president. They will then submit three to seven names to the Board of Trustees who will make the final decision.

During the trustees meeting Wednesday, they chose members Elsie Buck of Berrien Springs, Michigan; Elmer Carreno of Washington, D.C., and Charles Keymer of Lansing, Michigan, as board representatives on the search/screening committee. Dr. Hirsch and Vice Chairman Robert H. Carter will also be members.

Following the trustees meeting the faculty met and named Merlen A. Ogden, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Roy E. Graham, professor of theology and former provost at the university, as its representatives. The Student Senate chose Julie Johnsson, a junior journalism student from Silver Spring, Maryland, as the student representative. The alumni representative is Dale Twomley of Worthington, Ohio.

In other matters, the trustees appointed Herbert W. Pritchard, newly appointed treasurer of the Lake Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, a member of the trustees. Elder Pritchard was formerly treasurer of the Michigan Conference.

Elder Pritchard was also named chairman of the newly created University Management Corporation which will operate the school's independent business operations.

Among faculty and staff appointments Margaret E. Kroncke, director of freshman education and academic advising, was named assistant to the vice president for student affairs. Roland McKenzie, associate professor of education, was named foreign student advisor.

Jason Hix Has a Dream

INDIANA—Nearly a year ago, the Hix family met Hector and Jose Acuna and their seven children when Mr. Acuna reupholstered a love seat for the Hixes' family room.

The friendship deepened, and gradually the needs of the Acuna family appeared. Unemployment, illness, and lack of facilities in this Spanish-speaking family makes life difficult.

Twelve-year-old Jason Hix noticed the family had an old wringer washing machine, but no dryer. Jason thought, Why not use the money I earn from recycling aluminum cans to buy a clothes dryer for the family? Jason's parents have encouraged and supported him in this project.

Classmates in the fifth and sixth grades at Indianapolis Junior Academy, and other friends, are helping fulfill Jason's dream.

"It takes about 25 cans for a pound of aluminum, and I earn 25 cents per pound," says Jason.

Jason's dream is to give the Acuna family a clothes dryer for Christmas, and he's determined that his dream will be fulfilled.

Herald Editor Has Prayer At Michigan House Session

MICHIGAN—Herald Editor Jere Wallack recently opened the Michigan House of Representatives' session with prayer at the invitation of Carl F. Gnodtke, representative of the 43rd District.

This district includes the southwest portion of the state of Michigan.

Elder Wallack, in his prayer, mentioned the brave marines and their families who fought in Beirut and Grenada, and prayed that the Lord would "give to these leaders courage and wisdom as they serve their fellow human beings today, tomorrow and throughout the balance of their lives."

You, Too, Are a People Branch

Carol Busam, featured in "People Branches," this quarter's NO ONE BUT YOU program, became a church member as a result of an Ingathering contact made by Eloise Pirtle and Mabel Sargent last year.

This year Carol went Ingathering. Accompanied by Eloise and another church member, Mildred Swaby, businesses in Dugger, Indiana, were solicited. "Carol did most of the talking," said Eloise, "and she and Mildred collected $64."

Roy and Nancy Good

Nancy and Roy Good of Marion, Indiana, continue to actively witness for their Saviour. You may remember from "People Branches" that Nancy gives Bible studies on a regular basis, and Roy works at the local Fisher Body plant and carries on a cassette tape and literature ministry there.

One of Roy's fellow workers now attends church regularly with his five children and is studying the Bible with Elder Chico Rivera, the church pastor.

The missionary spirit seems to run in the Good family. Son Jason, a junior at Indiana Academy, will accompany a Maranatha Flights International team to Bequia Island in the southern Caribbean in late February 1984. The team will be completing work on a dormitory at a secondary school on the island.

Gary Loster, the former police chief featured in "People Branches," is currently assisting groups of Chemical People which are organizing in Saginaw, Michigan. They are responding to a plea made by Nancy Reagan for citizens to become more involved in preventing teenage drug and alcohol abuse.

Those who have seen this quarter's NO ONE BUT YOU program know that Gary spends

Gary Loster

50 to 60 hours a month informing young people, parents and community leaders about the dangers of drugs and alcohol.

Each of the individuals mentioned above are branches—people branches in God's vineyard—reaching out to other people.

Just like no two branches are exactly alike, so each person is different, too. Each person has been given a unique talent or a special personality by God.

That makes you unique and special. Your specific talent, your specific personality has been given to you by God for a reason.

You, as a people branch, can reach out and touch others nearest you like no one else can. Why not try it?

Three Rachels in Cradle Roll

WISCONSIN—Three baby girls were born to members of the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Northwest Church. One in April, one in May and one in June of 1983. The problem is all of them were named Rachel. From left are 4-month-old Rachel Lee Kurz and her mother Christine; 5-month-old Rachel Arien Sacco and her mother Judy, and 6-month-old Rachel Marie Laudon and her mother Debbie. Says Tami Hausmann, communication secretary, "It's not much of a problem while they're in their mother's arms, but a year from now the leader of the cradle roll department will receive a response from all three little ladies when she calls for Rachel."

Prairie du Chien Members Share Faith at Fair

WISCONSIN—The Prairie du Chien Adventist Church enjoyed sharing their faith at the 1983 Crawford County Fair held at Gays Mills, Wisconsin, according to Nancy Smoke, personal ministries secretary.

A variety of people stopped at the booth. Some to register for the family Bible or the Sam Campbell books of children's stories. As one young woman stopped to register for the Bible she was given a copy of Cosmic Conflict. After hearing what the book was about she requested an additional copy for her mother.

Two hours later she was back by request of the Ferris wheel operator who spotted the books she carried and asked about them. After explaining the books' contents, the man asked if she would get him a copy, "before they're all gone."

This same young woman came back two more times with similar requests from people she met who desired a copy.

Another woman expressed deep appreciation for the stop smoking literature. After a short visit she told of her battle with cancer and the need to stop smoking.

Children, rather than just leafing through the colorful brochures, came with a genuine concern for parents, brothers, sisters, and friends who smoke and drink.

One young boy offered to pay for the material on overcoming alcohol. He explained that his father needed help and he wanted to do something.

Most of these children took the book Steps to Christ home for their parents along with the other literature.

One young boy took some stop smoking literature across the building to his father's booth. The boy's father was the representative of one of the area banks, and later, during an Ingathering contact, this man expressed the desire to help with the Adventist Church's outreach programs.

His gracious offer was received by Chaplain Eric Wrangell who has since been conducting Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking in the basement of this bank.

A woman who had a display in the same building as the Adventist booth took several books and pieces of literature. Each time a new book or piece of literature was placed on display, she would walk across to the booth and ask if she could have a copy. The last day of the fair she told one of the workers that she had stayed up past midnight reading Cosmic Conflict.

The booth was erected by the church members with the theme "Trust In God For Victory." The backdrop for the booth featured a copy of Harry Anderson's painting "A Man In Decision." Four side posters pointed out some of the common problems people face but which can be overcome through Christ. They were: alcoholism, obesity, heart disease and smoking.

Hundreds of pieces of literature were given away. Among the materials distributed were: Cosmic Conflict, Final War, How to Survive the 80's, One World, Steps to Christ, and Amazing Facts.

Members Break Ground for New Church

Wisconsin Conference News Notes

• The Bethel Church had a booth at the Central Wisconsin State Fair at Marshfield and contacted 1,000 people. Headed by Bob Berger, personal ministries leader, the booth displayed a millennium chart depicting the first and second resurrections, and this stimulated many questions. Three simple Bible questions were presented on paper to interested spectators. Those who answered correctly were given a spiritual book, magazine, or miniature loaf of bread. According to Atha Steffen, communication secretary, the 440 miniature loaves of bread, 400 samples of vegetarian meatballs and 450 samples of frozen ice cream made the booth popular.

• Five boys were dedicated to the Lord on October 15, at the Wausau Church by Pastor Paul Scofield who was assisted by local elders. The children were: Seth Albert Beranek, born July 4, 1983, son of Dave and Peggy Beranek; Christopher Edward Kubichek, born May 1, 1983, son of Dean and Vicki Kubichek; Matthew Vincent Ruether, born July 12, 1982, son of Roger and Lorraine Ruether; Lucas William Sachse, born September 1, 1983, son of Bob and Paula Sachse, and Jake Aksel Westman, born

November 28, 1982, son of Ned and Sally Westman.

• Pastor Gerald Waln of the Beloit Church held a special worship service recently at the site of their future church building on Cranston Road to celebrate the final payment on the property. Pastor Waln called the event a landmark in the history of the local Adventist congregation. Music was provided by the Wisconsin Academy Brass Ensemble of Columbus. Beloit Adventists look forward to groundbreaking in June of 1984, according to Walter M. Abbott, communication secretary.

Mental Health Unit Opens In Glendale Heights

GLENDALE HEIGHTS, Ill.—After extensive research and remodeling, a mental health unit has reopened at Glendale Heights Community Hospital.

The comprehensive mental health therapy program includes individual, group, family and occupational therapy focusing on healthful living. Patients are admitted to either the 16-bed closed area or the 10-bed open area.

The staff encourages patients to discuss events so they may gain insight into issues leading to their hospitalization. This is done in either individual counseling sessions or focus groups.

Other areas such as nutrition, assertiveness, stress, relaxation and leisure time management are discussed. Family support groups and a weekly family film night encourage the patient to interact with family members and help the staff to assess family dynamics.

"Patients admitted into the unit typically describe their current life situation as generally unsatisfactory," says Rebecca Laborde, clinical coordinator. "A patient in the closed unit exhibits more severe symptoms such as psychosis, suicidal tendencies and significant depression, which require close supervision."

"The state has set building codes for psychiatric units," said Armando Chacon, vice president for patient services. "However, we have gone over and above what we needed to provide a safe and therapeutic environment."

"Some of the changes made were new bathroom fixtures, breakaway shower bars, plugged electrical sockets, caged sprinklers and acrylic mirrors."

Chippewa Valley Helped By Annual Golf Event

DURAND, WIS.—The Chippewa Valley Hospital and Nursing Home Golf Open, an annual event sponsored by a group of local businessmen as a community effort to benefit the hospital, netted $10,500 this year, according to Garry Donesky, president.

A majority of this year's proceeds will be used to purchase a birthing chair for the obstetrics department.

Sam Bauer, chairman of the golf open, saw more than 300 people pay the entrance fee of $35 to play in the 10th annual tournament.

To encourage participation, local businesses contributed prizes totaling more than $10,000, including $8,000 worth of carmel corn makers from National Presto Industries, Inc. Each entrant received one of the machines.

Seventy of the carmel corn makers were left after the golf open. They were used as premiums in an effort that raised another $1,200 to help buy a new piano for the nursing home.

Medical Schools Accept Andrews Students

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Twenty-three Andrews students have been accepted to medical schools and two have been accepted to dental school this year, according to Robert Wilkins, professor and chairman of the chemistry department.

Dr. Wilkins also said that 71 percent of Andrews' medical school applicants have been accepted over the last six years. This compares to the national average of 45 to 50 percent.

Students accepted to Loma Linda University Medical School for the 1983 entering class are: Margery Chirwa, Berrien Springs, Michigan; Tae-Ho Im, Willowdale, Ontario Canada; Lillian Jardine, Elk Grove Village, Illinois.

Jeffrey Jones, Athens, Pennsylvania; Mark Olson, Munising, Michigan; David Overfield, Hinsdale, Illinois.

Cathy Pak, Willowdale, Ontario Canada; Rhodes Rigsby, Fort Wayne, Indiana; Randy Schell, Hope, Michigan.

Dennis Scranton, Hinsdale, Illinois; Theodore Shea, Berrien Springs, Michigan; Karlene Sinclair, Jamaica, West Indies.

Colleen Tallen, Chicago, Illinois; Glenn Thomas, Middleton, Wisconsin; Smari Thordarson, Berrien Springs, Michigan.

James Twomley, Berrien Springs, Michigan; Kent Van Arsdell, Lockport, Illinois; William Wolf, La Porte, Indiana; and Robert Wood, Mechanicsville, Virginia.

Rhodes Rigsby and William Wolf were also accepted to Indiana University, Robert Wood to the Medical College of Virginia and Glenn Thomas to the University of Wisconsin.

Joseph Patterson of New York City was accepted to the University of South Alabama, and Nicholas Paulos of Wheeling, West Virginia, was accepted to the University of West Virginia.

David Fernandez, Flint, Michigan, was accepted to Michigan State University, and Manuel Dizon, Westmont, Illinois, was accepted to Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Donna Heischober of Jericho, New York, and David Pulido of Berrien Springs, Michigan, were accepted this year to the Loma Linda School of Dentistry.

Listen Crusade And CABL Reaches Young People

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Alfred Munar, an energetic Adventist minister from Berrien Springs, Michigan, blends two organizations into a unique narcotics education program for young people in southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana.

As sponsor of Collegiate Adventists for Better Living (CABL), a part of the Student Association at Andrews University, Elder Munar combines the resources of that organization to help in the Listen Community Crusade Against Drugs of which he is area director.

The Listen Crusade is a division of the Home Health Education Service. This program provides Listen magazine to more than 700 schools in Michigan and 30,000 schools across the country. The magazine deals with the problems of narcotics, alcohol and tobacco.

Also available are films, teaching guides and other classroom aids dealing with drugs, alcohol and tobacco. All of this is free of charge to the school.

CABL is an Andrews student organization that provides programs on healthful living to hundreds of students each year. The group has traveled to public and parochial schools to give talks on healthful living and has had booths on health at local malls. It has also sponsored a health fair at the Berrien County Youth Fairgrounds in conjunction with Andrews University, Berrien General Hospital, and Andrews Academy in Berrien Springs.

Elder Munar and the CABL program have visited schools across Berrien, Cass, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties in Michigan and Elkhart and St. Joseph counties in Indiana. According to Elder Munar, the one- or two-day presentations are being well accepted.

"We spend the entire day at the school, often making presentations to all the health or biology classes," he says. Various topics are covered, including physical fitness, smoking diseases, the poisons in cigarettes, and drug and alcohol abuse.

The presentations include talks by Elder Munar and CABL members, films, demonstrations on the effects of tobacco on the body, and displays on various aspects of drugs and alcohol.

Elder Munar can tell many success stories about his work with CABL and the Listen Crusade. He remembers one 14-year-old who smoked two packs of cigarettes a day.

After the presentation, which included a talk, posters and a movie, the student realized what he was doing to his body and pledged never to smoke again.

On another occasion, a mother called the school office where Elder Munar had just finished a presentation. She thanked the school for the program saying, "My child has given up dealing with drugs."

The program began with the Listen Community Crusade Against Drugs distributing free copies of Listen magazine and giving presentations to area schools with the financial backing of area businesses. "As the demand grew and the area sponsors wanted us to come in closer contact with the students, we began taking more presentations to the schools with the help of CABL," says Elder Munar.

The students that volunteer their time for CABL are the lifeline for Elder Munar's program. "They don't receive credit for their work. I'm not paying them for it, and it isn't mandatory," says Elder Munar. "They're doing it because they want to."

Illinois Conference News Notes

● Since January 1983 there has been a new phone in Eugene Taylor's home in Gurnee, Illinois. Elder Taylor is pastor of the Waukegan Church. Messages from Elder Harold E. Metcalf's book, The Magic of Telephone Evangelism, are used. From three to six calls are received daily. Callers are first greeted with, "Thank you, dear friend, for calling Dial Inspiration." Then they hear the message for that day, and finally are offered the gift of free Bible guides and a free book entitled The Greatest Love. They can obtain the guides and the book by leaving their name and address after the "beep tone," or, if they prefer, they may write to an address given them. One lady who calls quite often told Pastor Taylor that when her son awakens her in the middle of the night, she often calls the number to receive a comforting message.

● Michael E. Fox graduated June 10 from Loma Linda School of Dentistry in Loma Linda, California. Dr. Fox is the son of James and Frances Fox of Washington, Illinois, members of the Peoria Church. Dr. Fox graduated from Broadview Academy, attended two years at Andrews University, and then graduated from Bradley University in Peoria in 1978. Dr. Fox was appointed to Omicron Kappa Upsilon, National Honorary Society as a result of being in the top 10 percent of his graduating class. Future plans include continued education in the field of oral and maxillofacial surgery at Loma Linda Medical Hospital, according to Agnes Moushon, communication secretary.

● On October 22 Elder Rodney Dale presented the concluding session of the Sabbath School Teacher Training and Performance Institute at the Peoria Church. Twenty interested persons attended, and several expressed a desire to become Sabbath School teachers. An attempt to turn three large adult Sabbath School classes into eight or ten smaller classes has necessitated the teacher training classes. Specific outreach goals for each class were discussed, and a clearer understanding of the responsibility of each class member was perceived, according to Agnes Moushon, communication secretary.

● A bike-a-thon was held recently at Galesburg Church. Students in grades one to eight logged 482 miles and earned $378.65. According to Berniece Peterson, communication secretary, Mary Jo Kelso and Amy Wright, both first graders, each cycled 42 miles.

● School children from the Galesburg Church School recently handed out daisies as they gathered. "Daisy Day" has become a tradition in Galesburg, according to Berniece Peterson, communication secretary. At the end of Daisy Day it was found the children had earned $301.

Galesburg Parents Give Worship Talks

ILLINOIS—During October parents of Galesburg church school children presented worship talks for the school for one week.

On Monday, October 17, the first mother faced her audience. Carole Carpenter led off with three songs related to Bible texts and then told, from past history, of attempts to take the Bible away from believers.

On Tuesday Gerrie Wright took the podium and led the students in a "Bible hunt." She divided students into two parts, with easier questions for the lower grades and more complex ones for the older students.

Wednesday found Irene Baker presenting Bible texts and quotes from Mrs. White's writings. Following each reading Mrs. Baker led the students in singing songs that complemented the reading.

Thursday, magic was the subject of Sandy Hull's topic. Mrs. Hull soon had a full class of hands raised to volunteer help as she moved from tricks related to sin and its effects, to knots tied to demonstrate the devil's treatment of many situations.

John Tuthill rounded out the week by leading the singing on the last day. He finished with a personal story about his mother who had suffered an accident which left her with a sliver of glass hidden in her wound.

The sliver remained there for many years before it worked its way to the surface where she could pick it out. John related this sliver to the behavior and effects of hidden sin in one's life. He closed with a prayer as each parent had done during the week.

The children responded to the novelty of each parent's presentation, according to Berniece Peterson, communication secretary.

1,875 People Screened at Du Page Fair

ILLINOIS—Approximately 1,875 people, one every 90 seconds, were screened on two computers for a health profile at the Du Page County Fair recently. Initiated by the personal ministries committee of the Downers Grove Church, the program was planned and assisted by Elmhurst, Hinsdale and All Nations church members. In addition to the health profile, nearly 1,500 pieces of literature and more than 800 books were distributed, according to Richard Cook, communication secretary.

South Bend Members Committed to Witness

INDIANA—The South Bend Church is organizing to prepare friends and loved ones for the second coming of Jesus, according to Edna Jean Trojanowski, personal ministries director.

The church is currently conducting a two-hour Church Growth Workshop every Tuesday evening. The 25 members who attend have committed two hours a week for the next nine months for training and witnessing.

Led by Elder Jerry Fore, the members are also involved in a program to learn listening skills. This is a program designed for working with inactive members.

The Berrien Springs, Michigan,

Village Church, has been invited to participate with the South Bend members in this program.

In addition, Jo Hess and Pam Westphal, two registered nurses, conducted a stop smoking program at the St. Joseph Medical Center. Twelve people attended.

Pam attended a weight control class presented by the church and when she learned about the smoking program she asked if she could help with it. She quit smoking more than a year ago and is currently attending the church.

A Fitness Class is being held by Colleen Bell and Linda Collins on Thursday mornings. About 12 to 15 women attend.

The Crawfordsville Church on the day of its dedication.

Crawfordsville Church Continues to Grow

INDIANA—Five years ago the Crawfordsville, Indiana, Church had nine members with only five able to attend, and thoughts of closing the church were expressed. Today the membership is 19 with 30 people in attendance.

Daniel and Revelation Seminars, public evangelism and Bible studies made this possible.

An addition to their building was completed in October of this year, which provided a place for a church school and children's Sabbath School room. This was largely made possible by members of the Lafayette Church who donated time and materials.

The new addition, valued at $22,000, was dedicated debt free. However, buildings alone do not cause church growth, but people do.

Lewis and Clara Norwood, literature evangelists and Bible instructors in the area, felt growth would be possible if there was a church school, so Mike Gifford, a teacher, was hired. The school opened this fall with six students enrolled.

October 1, Fred A. Mote, retired minister and a charter member of the church, spoke at the consecration services of the new facilities.

Music was provided by Elder Mote, Florence Mote, Hazel Schell and The Kinsmen Gospel Singers.

"Ernest D. Clark, pastor during the growth of the district, has been the man of vision," said Jerry Lastine, Indiana Conference communication director. "With soul-winning flowing in his veins, he has continually been encouraging and educating the Lafayette District in a caring church outreach ministry."

Bloomington Dedicates New Services Center

INDIANA—Dedication services were held on October 27 for the new Bloomington, Indiana, Community Services Center and church additions.

Guest speakers were Tomi Allison, mayor of the city; Mike Broods, director of the Chamber of Commerce; Robert A. Thompson, president of the Indiana Conference; Edward Skoretz, conference director of community services; Katherine Kuzmaul, president of the conference federation of community services, and Sandy Ault, Bloomington community services director.

Built at an actual cost of just over $73,000, the structure is valued in excess of $150,000. The savings was made possible by donated labor and materials.

The addition to the church building includes a large recreation room and classrooms, in addition to the community services rooms. New sidewalks, a paved parking lot, and a church sign are all a part of the new look at the Bloomington Church.

Donor Asks For Return Of Donation

INDIANA—Have you ever received an Ingathering donation and a week later been asked to return the money?

Desi Owens, baptized in the Scottsburg Church December 25, 1982, responded to the Ingathering program with fear, but decided to try to solicit.

His first contact was a businessman he knew. After explaining the nature of the appeal, the man gave $25. Desi thought, Ingathering isn't too bad after all, and continued soliciting.

Nearly a week later the man called Desi to his office and promptly asked that his money be returned. Knowing that the money had already been turned in at church on Sabbath, Desi decided he'd take it out of his own pocket and repay his friend.

As Desi reached into his pocket, his business friend said, "I don't really want my money back, but I do want to exchange it." He then handed Desi two $100 bills and said, "I know it will do a good work in your church."

Indiana Conference News Notes

● Spencer church members invited business people of Spencer to Timber Ridge Camp for an Ingathering appreciation vegetarian dinner. Six guests responded to the dinner on October 30, according to Katye Marlette communication secretary.

● Fall Festival time in Evansville proved an effective time for the Pathfinders to distribute literature and share their faith, according to Richard Johnson, Pathfinder leader. They also collected food and clothing for Thanksgiving baskets during Halloween, reported Sunny Wiedman, communication secretary.

● The Evansville church choir directed by Ron Bolin, presented the worship service in the Bedford Church October 15, and in the Evansville Church early in October.

● The South Bend Junior Academy's Ingathering field day on October 27 raised nearly $300. Nearly 2,000 pieces of literature were distributed. The South Bend Church, directed by Ruby Lushbough Ingathering coordinator reached its goal in October, according to Barbara Hales, school secretary.

● Thirteen women of the LaPorte Church held a retreat in a cabin at Three Rivers, Michigan. "Group discussions on personal and family relationships, walking on the trails, and relaxing by the lake made the weekend a treasured memory. Reflecting on the laughter and tears that we shared, we are looking forward to our next year's retreat," said Peggy Lawery. She and Cheryl Allen were retreat coordinators.

Shiloh Community Services Fulfilling Lord's Command

LAKE REGION—Directed by Jackie Bonner, the Shiloh community services department in Chicago is fulfilling the Lord's command to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, bring in the poor who are cast out, visit the sick and shut-ins, help the widows and orphans and relieve the oppressed. (See Isaiah 58:6, 7.)

The community services department at Shiloh is one of 500 organizations participating in the city's food distribution program.

The Red Cross refers fire victims to this organization when the victims are in need of food, bedding, or other household essentials.

The community services department is active in sending clothing to the Children's Haven Home located in Harvey, Illinois. They also participate in preparing food for the jail program.

The most recent report for this church organization indicates that 3,610 bags of food were distributed during this year; 385 food baskets were sent to the sick and shut-in senior citizens, and the soup kitchen registered 200 people who had been fed meals.

The organization also reports 18,985 pieces of clothing and four quilts given away during the year; 4,000 pieces of literature distributed; 151 Bible studies held, and one person baptized through the efforts of this group.

"There is still a lot to do, and those in the Chicago area are invited to donate food, clothing, bedding, bath and dish towels, dishes, good furniture and electrical appliances," said Frankie Cartwright, community services department secretary.

Shiloh Honors Beulah McHenry

LAKE REGION—Beulah McHenry was recently honored for her 60 years as an active member of the Shiloh Church in Chicago. Mrs. McHenry has served her church in the children's department of the Sabbath School, as a member of the deaconess board, and as a member of the Progressive Guild Club of Shiloh for the past 50 years. Beulah's greatest missionary activity is visiting and caring for the sick. She has five children, 11 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Lake Region Conference News Notes

● The Calvin Center Church in Cassopolis, Michigan, was host to Otis and Teresa Rodgers and Robert and Doris Jackson, members from the Detroit area, when they conducted an instructional workshop. The workshop covered a broad spectrum of child evangelism. The consultants showed how songs, nature, and games can be used to teach children. They also demonstrated the art of storytelling, the importance of visual aids, and how advertisement can be used to attract children.

● Lynn Gray, of the City Temple Church in Detroit, was the guest speaker during the Sabbath worship service at the Berea Church in South Bend, Indiana, recently. He is a family practice physician in Benton Harbor. Dr. Gray stressed adhering to the laws of good health. Roland Chamberlee, also a family practice physician but located in South Bend, spoke at the Adventist youth program on the same Sabbath.

Though not a member of the Adventist Church, his advice for good health principles was closely related to the Adventist health message. The Adventist youth department presented Dr. Chamberlee with books published by the Adventist Church.

● Lacena Rustin Carson, a graduate of Ferndale High School in Detroit, has the gift of playing several musical instruments. The graduate musician from Yale University has played with orchestras in Michigan, and Maryland and has composed and arranged for the Baltimore Adventist Youth Ensemble which accompanied her to Jamaica on a concert tour. Recently she received a master's degree in administrative science from John Hopkins University. Lacena's husband, Dr. Benjamin Solomon Carson, is completing a one-year appointment as senior registrar of the department of neurological surgery of Royal Perth Hospital in Western Australia.

Calvin Center Church Celebrates 50 Years

LAKE REGION—Members of the Calvin Center Church and Emanuel Foxworth, their pastor, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their church with a week of thanksgiving and praise.

Dr. Leroy Hemingway, from the South Central Conference, started the celebration as guest speaker on the first Sabbath. Calvin E. Moseley, retired minister from Oakwood College, presented the divine worship message on the last Sabbath.

Guests from the Lake Region Conference office included Charles Joseph, president, and Dennis C. Keith Sr., treasurer. Elder Keith conducted the final celebration ceremony, a candlelight dedicatory service.

The history of the Calvin Center Church started in 1933 when 10 Seventh-day Adventist believers living in the Cassopolis-Vandalia, Michigan, area were organized into their own church. The church was named Calvin Center Church by J. H. Lawrence who was then a pastor in South Bend, Indiana.

Services were held in the American Legion Hall in Calvin Center for three years. Soon, however, members acquired their own modest church building.

The Calvin Center Church is presently located on the Lake Region Conference campground in Cassopolis, Michigan.

Lake Union A.S.I. Members Attend National Convention

LAKE UNION—More than 330 of the 557 members of the Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries (A.S.I.) from the North American Division attended the annual convention at Lake Guntersville, Alabama, October 19 to 22. Lake Union members and their families numbered approximately 45 of the total group.

A.S.I. members are business and professional people who own their own businesses and are dedicated to uniting their efforts with those of the organized church to hasten the second coming of Christ.

Special guest speakers for the four-day retreat included Neal C. Wilson, president of the General Conference; William Johnson, editor of the Adventist Review, and Carol and Paul Cannon of the Bridge Fellowship, Inc.

Speaking to the group at the 11 A.M. Sabbath service, Elder Wilson reminded those present that the mission of the church is something we can never forget. He said the church was designated a special place in this "end time" to serve the "enormous" needs of humanity. Elder Wilson answered questions in the afternoon.

Dr. Johnson spoke to the group on Friday evening and reminded A.S.I. members that the history of the Christian church shows a church of great need, yet one of great power as it sought the Lord as its banner. He said, "The Lord takes the small and insignificant and works wonders."

Carol and Paul Cannon presented a series of talks on the Spirit-filled family. They pointed out 36 benefits of the indwelling Holy Spirit, some of which were effectiveness in prayer, repentance, cleansing and transformation.

Friday night Phyllis and Don Yohe of Armada, Michigan, shared their story of conversion and told how they have rejoiced in seven baptisms of employees and friends in the past five years.

Ben Parish, Adventist recording artist, presented many musical numbers throughout the weekend.

"Mission," seemed to be the overall theme of the convention. Chapter presidents from across the country related the progress of

A.S.I. in their areas.

Lake Union Chapter President Charles Randall reported an increase in Lake Union membership and told of the chapter's involvement in outreach and service. The chapter has built two churches, a cabin at Camp Au Sable in Michigan and is making plans to help the Beloit, Wisconsin, congregation build a new church during the summer of 1984.

Chessie Harris, a favorite convention speaker from Huntsville, Alabama, was honored on Sabbath morning with a commemorative plaque and letter from President Ronald Reagan. Mrs. Harris and her husband own a home for neglected and abandoned children in Alabama, and in the past 25 years have rehabilitated more than 300 children.

If you are a business or professional person and want to learn how to more effectively witness in your business, plan to join A.S.I. For more information contact William Jones, Lake Union Conference, Box C, Berrier Springs, MI 49103; 616-473-4541.

Adelphian Computer Explosion

MICHIGAN—Adelphian Academy is experiencing a computer explosion caused by a little $1,500 machine called the micro-computer.

"This is something that has happened just recently," explains Cary Corbin, computer and math teacher. "In 1981, when I first came to Adelphian Academy, we had one Ohio Scientific Computer, but now, we have nine Apple computers."

The computer emphasis began when the administration purchased four Apple 2 Plus computers. Three of them were used for classroom instruction purposes, and the other was used in the registrar's office to compute attendance, mail out, and roster lists.

This past summer, however, Adelphian purchased an additional five Apple 2-E computers and two printers. The academy made a further commitment to develop computer programming by hiring Mike Seaman, math and physics teacher, who relieved Mr. Corbin of some teaching responsibilities. This enabled Mr. Corbin to expand the school's computer offerings.

Last year Adelphian offered a one-semester course in basic computer programming. Adelphian now offers two full years of computer training, the first of which introduces the beginner to the computer and its functions and the basic program language.

The second year is an extension of the first. The basic program language is mastered, students become involved in more sophisticated programming, and the Pascal language is featured.

Virtually every statistic of the campus, from attendance and grades to the inventory of choir music, is now being recorded by these micro-machines.

Adelphian Academy even has "computer on wheels." A teacher can sign out an Apple 2 Computer complete with a monitor, keyboard, and color television set for classroom use.

As the teacher demonstrates data on the computer monitor, the information is displayed to the whole class on television.

The computer explosion has afected the general student population, not just those enrolled in computer courses. Explains Mr. Corbin, "On an average day you might find as many as 30 students signing up for computer time. On a heavy day, perhaps as many as 50 students."

What do students do on computers? Everything from typing term papers on the word processor to playing approved games.

According to Mr. Corbin, there are a number of students who are writing their own programs.

"We have enough computer power," says Mr. Corbin, "so that anyone in the school can participate, and we are finding that we have every level of involvement that you would want in the micro-computer field."

Mr. Corbin explained that the school has accumulated computer hardware and software totaling about $15,000.

The computer explosion has definitely hit the Adelphian campus.

David Toma, 20 years a Newark, New Jersey, policeman, now warns high school students about drugs.

Former Policeman Tells It Straight

MICHIGAN—Hundreds of high school and elementary students surrounding Grand Rapids were bussed to the campus of Calvin College recently to hear David Toma "tell it straight."

Paul Adams, representative of the Listen Community Crusade Against Drugs, arranged the mass meeting of students and parents. The program was co-sponsored by the Kent Intermediate School District.

David Toma was a Newark, New Jersey, policeman for almost 20 years. As a detective with the vice, narcotics and gambling divisions of the Newark Police Force, he made more than 7,000 arrests resulting in a conviction rate of 98 percent.

Mr. Toma's personal addiction to drugs, and his subsequent recovery, led him to begin talking to high school students about drug abuse in 1961.

For the next 10 years, Mr. Toma lectured to youth on his time off, and tried to get his story and his views on the problem of drug abuse published.

He succeeded in getting

Hollywood interested in his story, and that resulted in the television series "Baretta," which is based on his life as a policeman.

Substance abuse in high schools is America's number one problem, according to Mr. Toma. He believes most school administrators are not aware of the extent of the problem in their schools.

The purpose of Mr. Toma's visits and talks is to encourage more parents to get involved with what's happening in their children's lives. He believes that more caring homes would solve much of the drug problem in America today.

Mr. Toma said children crave a close relationship with their parents. If they do not get it, they look for substitutes, and the drug scene is attractive to them.

Community Crusade Against Drugs is an effort of the Adventist Church to get temperance programs and literature into the public schools and Adventist church schools. The cost of materials is underwritten by local businessmen who are contacted by Listen representatives.

● Marion church members and their community services center were featured recently in the local newspaper. The article, with three photos, told of the work they are doing to assist community members in need of help, according to Bessie Dunn, communication secretary.

● Holland church school students solicited a total of $313 on their recent Ingathering field day. About 19 students participated with their teacher Ross Salyer and parents.

● Holland members have begun a series of outreach seminars. First in the series was a cooking school. Dr. Tom Burns gave a brief lecture each evening and slide programs were presented. Dolores Slikkers and June DeWind co-directed the school, and ten other members helped. A potluck supper was held at the conclusion of the classes. A total of 65 people attended.

● Muskegon church members co-sponsored a Five-Day Plan To Stop Smoking with Muskegon General Hospital in a room at the hospital. Dr. Mark Smalley and James Clayburn, principal of the church school, conducted the clinic. A total of 24 people attended and 13 received diplomas. Follow-up meetings will be held.

● Traverse City church members recently added another room for their children by erecting a partition in an existing room. Members volunteered labor to complete the project. The new room will house the junior/earliten division.

● Traverse City church members recently sponsored a "winter warm-up" and opened their church doors to anyone in need of warm clothes. They gave away 496

Bike-a-thon Raises $2,200

MICHIGAN—A group of 16 students from the Traverse City church school recently earned $2,200 for their school in a bike-a-thon.

Amanda Martz, the daughter of the teacher Jim Martz, was the youngest rider in the group. She secured pledges of one dollar per mile and completed 12 miles.

Nine students rode 50 miles, including Michael Gluck, who participated in spite of a broken arm. He earned $400 for his school.

Mike Knecht, Jon and Tim Eagan, and Scott Reese were among those completing 50 miles. Others riding 50 miles were: Charles Knecht, Rita Lopez, Stephanie Bielas, and Jason Martz.

The money earned allowed students to purchase library books, science equipment, a public address system, a stereo system, a listening center, athletic equipment, and contribute toward a copy machine. The rest of the money was placed in a savings account until needed for other projects.

articles of clothing, and another 500 articles were packed for Seventh-day Adventist World Service.

● Grand Ledge Academy alumni returned to campus this year to help commemorate the school's 25th anniversary. The weekend of activities honored classes of 1959, 1963, 1964, 1973 and 1974. Sabbath services were addressed by Byron Chalker, former Bible teacher and registrar. Students and alumni presented a musical program for Sabbath vespers. The Alumni Business Meeting was followed by the annual alumni-student basketball game. The students won for the second year in a row; 82 to 61.

● Morris Lewis recently presented a series on the sanctuary at the South Flint Church. He illustrated the messages with a 6- by 12-foot oil painting of the sanctuary and camp of Israel. He also wore a replica of the high priest's robe. Elder Lewis is a retired Bible teacher who now pastors at a church near Fort Worth.

New Easy English Lesson Quarterly

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Designed to make the study of the Sabbath School lessons as easy as possible, a new Easy English Edition of the adult Sabbath School lesson quarterly is available now for the first quarter of 1984.

Printed in large type for

A new Easy English Edition adult Sabbath School lesson quarterly published by Pacific Press, is now available for first quarter 1984.

smooth, trouble-free reading, the Easy English Edition has been produced for those whose first language is not English, for the hearing impaired, and for those who prefer to study the Bible in uncomplicated terms.

The Easy English Edition follows as closely as possible the standard adult quarterly, which will continue to be printed in the regular and large-print editions. The General Conference Sabbath School department and the Christian Record Braille Foundation, which for years has produced a similar quarterly for the hearing impaired, have joined forces to make this new publication possible.

Like the other adult quarterlies, it is published by Pacific Press and can be ordered through a church's personal ministry secretary or through local Adventist Book Centers. Those desiring to use this quarterly for the first quarter 1984 lessons should place their order as soon as possible.

Jere D. Patzer, chairman of Adventist Adoption and Family Services.

Adventist Adoption and Family Services

CLACKAMAS, ORE.—Jere D. Patzer, executive secretary of Upper Columbia Conference, was elected chairman of Adventist Adoption and Family Services at a recent meeting of its executive and national boards.

His election to this post reflects a long standing interest he has maintained in young people and family relationships.

His concern for the salvation of children born to unwed mothers is great, but that concern also extends to those young mothers who he says, "need an extra amount of our Christian love. While we may not see immediate baptisms among the adopted children, we can, as individuals and as an organization, work for the salvation of those unwed mothers who often feel a deep separation from God and their church."

A.A.F.S. has recently expanded its services to cooperate with the Guatemala-based International Children's Care which provides homes for orphaned children in both Guatemala and the Dominican Republic. The agency is assisting in arranging adoptions of some of these Guatemalan children, Elder Patzer reports.

The Lake Union agency is directed by Anita Winn and is located at 125 College Avenue, Berrien Springs, MI 49103; telephone 616-471-2221.

World Church News Notes

● The first Sabbath School picture rolls with pictures adapted to the African scene and the text in Kiswahili, have arrived in eastern Africa, according to Solomon Wolde-Endreas, Sabbath School director for the Eastern Africa Division. While Kiswahili is not the language of any one tribal group, an estimated 50 million east Africans now use it. Even where French is the language of the educated African, Kiswahili is spoken by the masses. The Eastern Africa Division has designated one third of the special projects portion of the Thirteenth Sabbath Offering for fourth quarter 1983, to finance the purchase of these picture rolls for use in child evangelism.

Reach Out and Touch Someone

Robert L. Everett
Secretary
Illinois Conference

A number of years ago, while I was pastor of a large California church, I was impressed to invite the congregation to receive a special blessing during the holiday season. I invited them to reach out and touch someone, to seek out lonely people, invite them home, and share the blessings of food and fellowship for the holidays.

To close my appeal, I said if there was someone in the congregation who did not have a place to go for Christmas dinner they should see me at the end of the service, and my family and I would welcome them to share our Christmas dinner.

A young man in his early 20's, divorced, jobless, with no close friends, sought me out at the close of the service. This young man, who had once been an Adventist, asked if the invitation was meant for him. I assured him it was, and he came to our home for Christmas dinner.

Although I don't know what has happened to him since that dinner, I do know that my family certainly received a blessing as a result of sharing our home with him.

Jesus spent His entire ministry caring for people. He reached the hearts of people by mingling with them as one who desired good for them. He spent His time with people—common people—with felt needs. He sought them on the street, at their homes, on their boats, in the synagogues, and by the lakeshore. He met them at their workplace and was interested in their secular affairs.

Jesus listened to people. He held little children, comforted the bereaved, and placed His healing hand upon the sick.

So, it is through personal contact and association that men are reached by the saving power of the Gospel. This is the emphasis of the Adventist Church for the new year—to become a caring church.

Evangelism is not the task of a few specialists, but the calling of every believer. The result of the Caring Church will be the mingling of Adventist believers with others at their jobs, during their leisure time, in their associations, and through their involvement in secular affairs. To be the church as God's instrument of mission and channel of grace, means to be in the world for the sake of the world.

My challenge to you is to reach out and touch someone during the holiday season. Seize this time as an opportunity for association with those that may be lonely, depressed, or feeling that no one cares.

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matthew 25:40.
