Seven Students Win Scholastic Awards at Andrews Academy

Adventist Members Encouraged To Support Anti-Smoking Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Comprehensive Smoking Prevention Education Act, if passed by Congress, would require that all cigarette packages contain a statement saying "cigarette smoking causes cancer emphysema, and heart disease; may complicate pregnancy, and is addictive."

Cigarette firms would finally be required to print the level of carbon monoxide, tar and nicotine produced by the cigarette when smoked and list the chemical additives in their cigarettes. The legislation would also call for continuing federal funds toward research and education of the effects of smoking on health.

This bill, introduced in the Senate by Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, has a counter version in the House. The House version provides for three separate warning statements, but does not mention all the hazards of smoking in each statement and is to be used only on a rotating cycle for cigarette packages and in advertising.

The Adventist Health Network whole-heartedly supports the Senate version, S. 772, and asks church members to write to their state senators to push for passage of the Comprehensive Smoking Prevention Education Act. A hearing is scheduled for July 13, so please send your letter immediately.

Annual Offering to Help Christian Record Celebrate 85 Years of Caring Service

LINCOLN, NEB.—In 1874, John Nevins Andrews, pioneer Adventist missionary, sailed to Switzerland armed with the gospel message. Some 25 years later, in 1899, the Adventist Church extended its missionary outreach to the blind.

Thus began the ministry of Christian Record Braille Foundation. Owned and operated by the General Conference of Seventhday Adventists, Christian Record celebrates 85 years of ministering to the blind, and now the deaf also, during 1984.

July 14 has been designated Christian Record Annual Offering Sabbath. Statistics from Christian Record reveal more than 75,000 sight-and hearing-impaired persons were served in 89 countries during 1983; the majority of these were non-Adventists.

Assistance rendered included braille, recorded and large-print books and magazines, Bible correspondence courses, personal visitation, national camps for blind children, lending-library services and full-vision books for blind parents with sighted children. In addition, glaucomascreening clinics were held throughout North America to help save sight.

But many more people need to be reached. Estimates show more than 40 million persons in the world are blind; 14 million persons in the United States alone cannot hear. Introducing Jesus Christ to the blind and deaf has always been at the forefront of the free services provided by Christian

For Charles L. Emmeking, deaf since birth, it was God's Way Bible Lessons, supplied by Christian Record's department of services for the deaf, that introduced him to the Adventist Church. He was baptized in January.

Charles is the first convert baptized as a result of God's Way Bible Lessons since Christian Record began distributing these in 1982.

Charles first became acquainted with the Bible lessons through Elaine, a registered nurse at Kettering Medical Center who has normal hearing.

Elaine became interested in sign language by means of several channels. She finally enrolled in a three-month sign language class offered at Kettering. Fearful that she would forget what she had learned unless she had someone with whom to practice, she was introduced to Charles.

Charles and Elaine were married in October 1983.

Prior to marriage, the subject of religion was discussed thoroughly. Out of fondness for Elaine, Charles agreed to study God's Way Bible Lessons. Elaine received a set of lessons to study with him.

"The lessons were easy to read and comprehend," Charles signs as Elaine speaks for him. "I'm now thankful to be a part of the Adventist Church."

Charles and Elaine are active members at Kettering Adventist Church.

"Because of Charles' lack of the adult vocabulary, I wish the entire Conflict of the Ages Series were written in a simplified language similar to God's Way lessons," Elaine says. "And, above all, I encourage more hearing members to learn sign language."

Your prayers and support of Christian Record's annual offering, July 14, can help make Elaine's wish a reality.

Lake Region Churches Benefit From Revolving Fund

LAKE REGION—The Lake Region Conference of Seventhday Adventists is grateful to the Lake Union Conference for establishing the Revolving Fund to assist in the financial burdens of the churches within their territory.

The Conant Gardens Church in Detroit, Michigan, has been a recipient of the Lake Union Conference Revolving Fund. Two years ago the Conant Gardens Church needed $175,000 to complete their building project until local funding was established.

One year later, they were able to establish local funding, and the loan from the Revolving Fund was repaid. The Conant Gardens members are now worshiping in a beautiful church.

Two other churches received funds from the Revolving Fund. They were the Sharon Church in St. Paul, Minnesota, and the First Church in Evanston, Illinois.

The interest rate on the Evanston Church mortgage was very high; therefore, a request was sent to the Lake Union for a small loan from the Revolving Fund to pay off the mortgage.

The members of the Sharon Church in St. Paul wanted to renovate and do some necessary repair work on their church building. A request was sent to the union for a short-term loan from the Revolving Fund, and it was granted.

The officers of the Lake Region Conference express their deep appreciation to the Lake Union for establishing the Revolving Fund to assist churches in financial need.

Janet was baptized in 1979, after becoming acquainted with Seventh-day Adventists at the then Adventist-operated New Earth Restaurant in Chicago. In 1981 she attended the Lake Union Soul-Winning Institute, and eventually became a Bible instructor at the North Shore Church in Chicago

While serving the church in this capacity, Janet met Gordon, through a mutual friend, and they were married last December.

Gordon has always wanted to serve the Lord in Hong Kong. Since Janet speaks Chinese and also has a strong desire to be of service to God, they applied for mission service.

But applying for mission service and leaving for mission service are two different things! Janet has been involved in a Revelation Seminar at the North Shore Church and couldn't terminate her work there until June 30. Since Janet and Gordon are to begin attending Mission Institute at Andrews University in Berrien

Early in September they will fly to London where Gordon, though a practicing physician here, will be required to serve six months residency as a doctor and pass oral and written examinations in order to receive a British medical license before he will be allowed to serve as a medical doctor in Hong Kong. He will also be receiving basic language training in Chinese.

Uniqueness of Adventist Message Wins Businessman

WISCONSIN-William Zauner, right, an insurance agent, began attending a Revelation Seminar conducted for the Waukesha Community Memorial Church by Evangelist J. J. Millet in 1982. Mr. Zauner was impressed by the unique message founded on Bible truth. After the seminar was completed, he continued Bible studies with Paul Cinquemani, a church member. Mr. Zauner was baptized by Pastor Corbin Pitman, left, on March 3, reported Lola Bryant, communication secretary.

Andrews Receives Dow Scholarship

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The Andrews University department of chemistry has been named the recipient of a $20,000 undergraduate scholarship from the Dow Chemical Company Foundation, according to Robert A. Wilkins, chemistry department chairman.

Dr. Wilkins said that Andrews is one of 20 colleges and universities nationwide to be awarded the scholarships in 1984. The program actually provides $24,000 to each institution; $6,000 a year for four years, designating $5,000 for a scholarship and $1,000 for the use of the chemistry department.

"Andrews is honored to be involved in such a scholarship program," Dr. Wilkins continued. "With this we have been named among some of the top chemistry departments in the country."

David P. Sheetz, the vice president and director of research and development for Dow, stated why Andrews was among the universities chosen for the scholarship. "It is our feeling that the smaller baccalaureate-granting schools in the country are the key to supplying graduate schools with an adequate supply of well-qualified students. These schools also produce a high number of professional chemists.

"We are hopeful that this program will provide some stimulus for recruiting top high school science students and perhaps rekindle an interest in careers in chemistry. It is also a program that could be brought to the attention of chemical companies for their potential interest."

Dr. Wilkins said the single scholarship will be awarded to an incoming Andrews freshman chemistry major this fall and will be determined solely on the basis of academic merit.

According to requirements from Dow, the student must be a United States citizen and, to keep the scholarship, the student must maintain a B average (3.00 on a 4.00 scale). If grade requirements are met and the student continues to study chemistry, the scholarship may be continued for four

Dr. Wilkins said the recipient will be announced later this summer. To qualify students must apply and be accepted as a student at Andrews. A letter of intent must also be sent to the university's chemistry department which includes 1) why he or she wants to study chemistry in college, 2) his or her long-range goals, and 3) a letter of recommendation from the student's high school chemistry teacher.

Students interested should write to Dr. Robert A. Wilkins, Andrews University, Department of Chemistry, Berrien Springs, MI 49104, or call him at 616-471-3247.

Years passed, and Barbara found herself unhappy with her church connections and needing direction, but she wasn't sure where to look. Then Scott Davis, a Seventh-day Adventist, walked into her life.

Scott's life-style intrigued Barbara. He didn't drink alcoholic beverages like her other friends but still could enjoy himself. He was happy to discuss his religion, but never pushed it at her.

He was patient with all of her questions, and after a few months of dating, she decided to attend church with him. The open friendliness of the people immediately impressed her, and she began to attend church regularly.

Barbara's children, from a previous marriage, enjoyed their new Sabbath School, and Scott began to read the weekly Sabbath School lessons to them. As she listened, Barbara became more aware of her personal lack of Bible knowledge. This led her to request Bible studies from Elder Bill Wilson and his wife, Frances, in the fall of 1981.

Barbara began to study her Bible with an unhurried pace. She considered doctrines such as the seventh-day Sabbath until she was convicted of them.

Andrews University Graduates 499

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan, graduated 499 students on June 3 in the first commencement ceremonies led by President W. Richard Lesher, who took his position May 1. Dr. Charles R. Taylor, director of the department of education for the General Conference, presented the commencement address.

Dr. Lesher said that Sunday's ceremonies were the 131st conferring of degrees for the College of Arts and Sciences, the 19th for the College of Technology, the 54th for the School of Graduate Studies, the eighth for the School of Business, the 82nd for the Theological Seminary, and the second for the School of Education.

Mercedes Dyer, professor of educational psychology and counseling emeritus, received the General Conference department of education Medallion of Merit, presented by Dr. Taylor.

Dr. Dyer taught at Andrews for 21 years and was chairman of the university's department of education for four years. She earned her bachelor's degree at Andrews in 1940 and received master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Michigan. She retired from full-time teaching in 1982.

Following her retirement, Mrs. Dyer taught courses in Brazil, Bolivia and Argentina. This year she will travel to England to volunteer her services for Andrews.

Of the 499 students graduating,

18 received doctoral degrees: ten from the School of Education and eight from the Theological Seminary. Master's degrees were received by 203 students, 236 received bachelor's degrees and 42 received associate degrees.

Fifty-one of the students graduating finished courses of study and received Andrews degrees at six schools affiliated with Andrews in other countries.

By schools, 186 graduated from the College of Arts and Sciences, 41 from the College of Technology, 53 from the School of Business, 74 from the School of Graduate Studies, 59 from the School of Education and 86 from the Theological Seminary.

After receiving their diplomas, Dr. Lesher told the graduates, "I charge you, . . . to live lives of sobriety, honesty and integrity in this solemn time; to live lives of devotion to God and concern for your fellow human beings; to be true witnesses in the world to the One who has made and redeemed you; to seek justice, but more importantly, to do justice; to seek friendship and laughter, sharing with others the kindness and sympathy of heaven.

"I charge you to continue the search for truth and to speak, in love and compassion, the truth you find; to strive vigorously to advance your profession; to add to the common store of knowledge; to be diligent in your work, and to strengthen all those with whom you labor."

Bethel Honors Citizen For Helping the Poor

LAKE REGION-The Bethel Church in east Chicago presented the 1984 Community Services Award to Norma Jean Moore during a community worship and fellowship service.

As an active participant of the Welfare Rights Organization of East Chicago, Mrs. Moore is dedicated to helping the poor.

She is employed as a receptionist at a local community center, yet she assists citizens of the community in cases of emergency and crisis. She may help an elderly person fill out a Social Security document; help obtain benefits for someone in need, or help expedite a food stamp application for a single mother.

Often referred to as "an ombudsman for the poor," Mrs. Moore is a native of east Chicago. She is the mother of eight children and grandmother of eleven, yet she finds time to belong to such organizations as the Planned Parenthood Board; the Lake County Office of Economic Council; the Lake County Office of Economic Opportunity Commission; the Gary Area Legal Aid Society, and the East Chicago Human Relations Commission.

R. C. Connor, ministerial director of the Lake Union Conference, was the speaker for the worship hour.

Bethlehem Youth Witness Through M.V. Home Action

LAKE REGION-The young people of the Bethlehem French Church in Chicago had an opportunity this past quarter to witness for the Lord through "M.V. Home Action." Maurice Gauthier, Adventist youth leader, and his staff launched a project, supported by Pastor Jose Joseph, to go into the homes of family and friends and invite them to participate in a witnessing program.

For eight weeks, a selected number of families from the church would invite some of their friends on Friday or Sunday evenings to take part in Bible study classes. The standard format provided an opportunity for visitors to have their questions answered, learn some of the church's hymns, have Scripture readings, and hear a sermonette presented by one of the assigned youth speakers.

The last meeting of the series also served as the beginning of an evangelistic crusade which is being conducted by Pastor Joseph.

Attendance has grown steadily. Thirty non-Adventist visitors were present at the second meeting. Arthur Alexis, communication secretary, said, "We pray that the Lord will add a rich harvest of new souls to His church as a result of the M.V. Home Action."

Ground Broken for New Troy Adventist Academy

MICHIGAN-A rainy day did not keep church members or students away from a groundbreaking ceremony for the new Troy Adventist Academy on Sunday, April 15.

This will be the third location of a school in the area by the Troy congregation.

The first school began in the 30's in the basement of the Ferndale Church. It was a one-room school heated by a coal stove.

Later, desiring a more countrylike atmosphere for the children, members purchased 12 acres of land, and in 1958, directed by Elder Duane Miller, they erected two classrooms and a gymnasium and provided education for children from grades one through eight with two teachers:

When these classrooms overflowed, Elder Victor Brown led out in the move to hire two additional teachers and include classes nine and ten in the program. At this point, the school was renamed Northfield Intermediate School and Later Northfield Junior Academy.

In 1970, the Warren and Troy church schools consolidated.

Realizing their need for a new and larger facility, the members sold Northfield Junior Academy and began working toward the new school. It is anticipated that the academy will be completed by the time school begins.

Members at Troy believe that the children are their first mission field, according to Joyce Wilburn who read the history.

Elder Armour Potter introduced those who participated in the program. Those present from conference headquarters included President Charles Keymer; Arnold Swanson, conference secretary and former pastor; Hubert Moog, conference treasurer; Alvin Astrup, superintendent of education, and Duane Roush, assistant superintendent.

Dr. Omans was presented the Hospital Governance Award at a banquet held May 23 at Boyne Mountain Lodge, Boyne Falls, Michigan.

In announcing the award, Gary L. Pauly, senior director of public affairs for the Michigan Hospital Association, said, "The Hospital Governance Award is a very special honor designed to recognize those hospital trustees who have made exemplary contributions to improve their hospital's service to its patients and community and who have demonstrated constructive involvement in local, state or national health care initiatives."

Dr. Omans began his optometry practice in Battle Creek in 1945. From 1960 through 1973 he served as secretary-treasurer of the Battle Creek Adventist Hospital Board, and is still a full member of the hospital board and the joint conference committee between the board and medical

During his term (1970-79) on the Long-Range Planning Committee of Battle Creek Adventist Hospital, Dr. Omans helped reposition all health care institutions in Battle Creek to reduce service duplication and cost and increase the quality of the community's health care.

From 1975 to 1983 he served on committees which led the hospital to affiliate with Adventist Health System/North and to change its name from Battle Creek Sani-

He has served on the finance and executive committees of Battle Creek Adventist Hospital and is a member of the Southwest Michigan Hospital Council, the Battle Creek Physicians' Guild, the Battle Creek Hospital Fund, the Race Beterment Foundation and the Battle Creek Hospital Commission.

Dr. Omans has been actively involved with the Battle Creek Lions Club since 1945, and has devoted many hours to screening programs which detect and aid individuals with vision problems.

For 30 years he served as member and officer of the Battle Creek Academy School Board and held offices in the Battle Creek Tabernacle. He also served for many years on the Michigan Conference Executive Committee.

Dr. Omans semi-retired from active practice last year, and he and his wife, June, moved to their new home in Hendersonville, North Carolina. He remains president of the Vision Services Corporation of Battle Creek and returns periodically for hospital board meetings, committees and to practice optometry.

Bread-Making Class Helps Investment

MICHIGAN-Viola Carlson of the East Detroit Church is an expert bread maker; she has been perfecting her art for 68 years. Recently Viola chose to apply her talents for spreading the Lord's Word, so she and her husband, Carl, decided to hold a breadmaking class for their Sabbath School Investment project. After advertising in the local newspaper, Viola and Carl held two classes. A total of 20 nonmembers attended, and $90.50 was raised for Investment. Carl is head deacon for the East Detroit Church, and Viola is head deaconess and community services director.

It takes great teachers to make great teachers.

We at Andrews feel that a "regular" teacher just isn't enough. There's a need for educators who have a strong sense of caring. And loving. And nurturing.

These special teachers are the kind who teach at Andrews.

And these are the kind of teachers who graduate from Andrews.

Evidently, our philosophy is working. Last year alone, every one of Andrews' elementary education majors were hired as teachers right out of college. Every one.

To find out how our great teachers can make you a great teacher, just call one of our admissions counselors toll free.

The banquet culminated Battle Creek Excellence in Education Day, a day set aside to recognize the important role that public and private schools play in the life of the Battle Creek community.

Each senior present at the banquet chose a teacher who had been most influential during the student's years in high school. Annette chose Hal Finnell, math and science teacher at Battle Creek Academy, as the teacher she wished to receive honor.

The top two juniors and sophomores from each school served as hosts at the banquet. The junior representatives from Battle Creek Academy were Rick Cook and James Kim, and the sophomore representatives were Sandra Cook and Julie Cruttenden.

Earlier in the day, at a luncheon which was also held at Stouffer's Hotel, public and private educators of Battle Creek met. Dave Eddy, host of WBCK radio's "The Morning Show," was master of ceremonies for the afternoon program which follow-

In his preparatory remarks entitled "Education in Battle Creek: Some Random Thoughts," Mr. Eddy said that in 1856 Seventhday Adventists opened the first school in the area in a private home. He said that when the first public school opened in 1862, the Seventh-day Adventist church school disbanded and parents sent their children to the public school.

Mr. Eddy continued by saying that some years later (1872) Goodloe Bell, a public school teacher recuperating from an illness at Battle Creek Sanitarium, was interviewed about the possibility of starting a church school. John Harvey and W. K. Kellogg were two of the children who attended this church school.

According to Mr. Eddy, this school is the original school mentioned in the history of Seventhday Adventist education, but the church school that met in a home prior to the beginning of public education in Battle Creek was probably the first Adventist school. (Seventh-day Adventists generally consider the Buck's Bridge, New York, home school, begun in 1853, as the first Adventist elementary school)

Reflections on Camp Meeting

Everett E. Cumbo President Illinois Conference

Spiritual lessons taught by speakers endowed with God's love; sharing times on early morning walks while the air is clear of pollution but filled with the songs of birds and the crowing of distant pheasants; an academy student carrying a heavy load and helping to prepare an elderly woman's tent for the Sabbath; finding a young boy lost and crying, taking his hand and walking with him to the location booth so his name can be announced.

A group of "new" friends praying together under the shade of a tree; a pastor carrying trays for a mother with three children going through the cafeteria line; Dr. Sang Lee drawing spiritual lessons from the marvel of creation—our bodies; juniors singing so robustly that their music fills the whole campus; Elder Theodore Carcich preaching sermons which challenge and appeal to each heart; the morning devotionals stressing elements of the Caring Church.

The fellowship with friends not seen for a year or more; sharing a Sabbath lunch; hugs; handshakes; tears of joy; earnest prayers for the sick, the lonely and the fallen.

Camp meeting is all the above and more. It is a new beginning, a new experience with the best of all friends, our Lord Jesus Christ. No one should miss camp meeting, because missing it means you've missed a little taste of heaven.

VOLUME LXXVI, NUMBER 14

Louise Rummery of Carp Lake, Michigan, Faith Memorial Chapel, has chosen for her Investment project the making of stuffed teddy bears with movable joints. Louise uses an original pattern and has sold to individuals and to a fabric store in Petoskey, Michigan. Her stuffed animals have become well-known in the area, and an exclusive gift shop on Mackinac Island has asked her to furnish them with animals for resale. Louise gives a percentage of her sales to the church Investment fund. Since the beginning of the project last November, she has turned in more than $240, according to Judy Ranaville, a church member. Besides caring for her family, her home and her Investment project, Louise holds a full-time job as a licensed practical nurse in a Petoskey hospital. (Photo courtesy of the Rummery family.)
