North Shore Pathfinders Enjoy Educational Day In Battle Creek

ILLINOIS—Forty Pathfinders, and 20 adults from the North Shore Church in Chicago, Illinois, traveled to Battle Creek, Michigan, on October 5 to begin an educational weekend.

Roberta Gosling, counselor, said the group enjoyed the weekend which focused on the history of Ellen White.

After attending the Battle Creek Tabernacle on Sabbath, they joined the weekly traditional two-hour tour which included a visit to Ellen White's home. They also viewed the White family gravesite.

At sundown the group attended vespers held in the Battle Creek Tabernacle.

Later in the evening they attended the Battle Creek Academy Band Concert.

Work in China Moves Forward

WASHINGTON, D.C.—In one large city in China, between 300 and 400 new believers wait to join the church. But there is no baptism.

Prayers are requested that soon a church building will be made available to Adventist believers so regular services can be conducted by an Adventist minister.

In one province, nearly 4,000 people have been baptized since 1979, and five or six new chapels have been built.

A pastor visited a relative and was asked to speak to the believers. He spoke for more than an hour, but believers wanted more.

He spoke for so long that he became hoarse and was forced to play a cassette in order to satisfy the listeners. While there he baptized 60 persons.

In a section of south China, 250 candidates were baptized at one service as the result of the work of just one dedicated sister.

Faith for Today Special To Air on Chicago Station

NEWBURY PARK, CALIF.—How God can heal broken family relationships will be the subject of a one-hour "Faith for Today" presentation to air in Chicago, Wednesday, December 26, at 7 P.M., on WGN, Channel 9.

WGN is a "superstation," meaning that through cable and satellite connections, the program can be seen from coast to coast. Many people in Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and other parts of the United States can see the program.

"So Near, So Far" is the story of two families that finally face up to long-time misunderstandings and through faith and love learn to forgive and forget.

Dan Matthews, Faith for Today director, says: "The purpose of the prime-time special is to reach the large television audience in major metropolitan areas. 'Prime time' is a term used in television to describe the hours between 7 P.M. and 10:30 P.M., when the largest number of people are watching television.

"In other large cities, this program has drawn an audience up to 20 times that of the typical religious preaching program," adds Elder Matthews.

Within the program will be several commercials featuring the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and Christian Record Braille Foundation blind camps.

There will also be commercials offering the viewer a free book entitled, How You Can Live With Stress. Viewers will have the option of calling a toll-free Andrews University number or writing for the book.

As a follow-up, they will be invited to attend stress management seminars arranged by area Adventist churches in preparation for evangelistic series.

Mark Finley, director of the North American Evangelism Institute, will be following up interests and holding stress seminars in several suburbs of Chicago. Jerry Fore, pastor of the South Bend, Indiana, Church is planning similar follow-up in his area.

Robert Tolson, pastor of the Robbins Church, and Robert Douglas, pastor of the Independence Church, prepare to baptize one of the candidates who accepted Christ during the Time for Truth Revival.

Revival Leads to Baptisms

LAKE REGION—Jerry Lee, pastor of the Straford Memorial Church in Chicago, was the evangelist in the Time for Truth Revival.

Pastor Lee was assisted by Ronald Bell, Claude Shaw Jr., Robert Tolson, Robert L. Douglas, Jerome L. Davis, Fred White, and Tyrone A. Boyd, Chicago area pastors.

They managed the nightly services and showed slide presentations which coordinated with the evangelist's sermons.

The Time for Truth Revival was conducted nightly for six weeks. In addition to the preaching, special prayer was made for the sick and handicapped, the jobless and hungry.

On Monday nights, following the preaching services, food bags were given to guests who needed food. The bags of food were prepared by the ushers.

Sometimes the associate ministers and deacons would assist the ushers in delivering food to the homes of people who were handicapped and had sent in a request for food.

Counseling services were available to the guests who came to the meetings needing help, and Bible questions were answered.

Bible workers for the revival were Shirley Daniels, Catherine Bland, and Georgia McMillan. These three ladies are Lake Region Bible workers.

Ellen Tolson, the wife of Elder Tolson, also served as a Bible worker.

Deacons and deaconesses from the six Chicago area churches assisted the baptismal candidates during the baptismal service. Fifty-three candidates were baptized.

The ushers who served nightly during the six weeks of meetings were also from the six area churches.

John Bernet, left, Lake Union publishing director, and Lake Union President Robert H. Carter are urging church members to pray earnestly that many souls will be won to Christ through the distribution of the new condensed set of the Conflict of the Ages.

Conflict of the Ages Condensed Set Welcomed

LAKE UNION—Delegates to the 1984 Annual Council of the General Conference hailed the advent of the newly published condensed set of the Conflict of the Ages.

The Pacific Press Publishing Association gave each delegate a complimentary five-volume set.

The titles of each book in the new set have been changed. For example, the condensed edition of the Desire of Ages is renamed, From Heaven With Love, and The Great Controversy is called From Here to Forever.

Promoters of these condensed books give assurance that no vital teachings contained in the full edition of this set are omitted or altered in the compact volumes. The attractively bound paperback set totals a little more than 2,200 pages compared to more than 3,600 pages in the full set.

It is felt that busy people will more readily read a condensed book than a large one. Crowded agendas in today's society prevent many individuals from reading as much as they would like.

Literature evangelists will be selling the new set for $29.95. They believe this modest price will enable them to place many sets into the homes of candidates for the kingdom.

Every member of the Lake Union Conference is urged to pray earnestly that many souls will be won to Christ through the wide distribution of these new books.

No, It's Not a Mass Holdup

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Delegates to the 1984 Annual Council stand and reach as part of the Vascular Invigoration Program for VIP's, an exercise plan developed by the General Conference health and temperance department. "Sitting in long meetings causes participants to become physically and mentally sluggish," explained Stoy Proctor, an associate in the General Conference health and temperance department. "These exercises stimulate circulation of oxygenated blood and improve alertness and intellectual performance." Physical education professors Robert Kalua of Andrews University and James Burns of Columbia Union College directed the exercise activities, assisted by Andrews University and Columbia Union College students. To the tune of "Rise, My Soul, and Stretch Thy Wings," delegates participated in the program as a test for possible use of an exercise program at the 1985 General Conference Session in New Orleans.

Always on Guard to Witness

Last month the story of Michael Williams was brought to your attention in the NO ONE BUT YOU column.

Through the witness of Howard Bryant, a Flint, Michigan, realtor, and his family, Michael was baptized.

Howard and his wife, Juanita, were featured in "The Love Song," last quarter's NO ONE BUT YOU slide tape program.

Prior to his June 1984 baptism, Michael's acceptance of the Sabbath message cost him his job at a shoe store. Michael's commitment to follow the Lord, even at the expense of his livelihood, made a deep impression on Howard.

He was not only impressed by Michael's dedication, but he was inspired to help people who have, or will have, problems because of work conflicts on the Sabbath.

Howard says, "I am working on a plan I hope will encourage other church members to keep their ears to the ground listening for available jobs for fellow church brothers and sisters. Our young people can't always get jobs as easily as others because so many opportunities require a person to work on Saturday."

Juanita and Howard Bryant

Howard doesn't just say, "We have to think of ways to help our young people"; he practices what he preaches.

He has invited young people—and older ones as well—in the Flint area to prepare resumes for him. Then, as appropriate opportunities present themselves, Howard recommends fellow church members to his business associates who are looking for good employees. And whenever possible, Howard invites one of these young people to join his 35-member office staff.

From years of experience in hiring employees, Howard says: "I advise young people to put their best foot forward. When they fill out employment applications, I tell them to include a good photo.

Howard's dedication to witnessing has given him the thrill of seeing nearly 100 people baptized.

A picture of a neatly dressed, well-groomed applicant may separate their application from all the others."

Howard feels it his responsibility and privilege to share the knowledge God has allowed him to gain from nearly 25 years of operating The Home and Suburban Realty Company. That's why he is always available to counsel—free of charge—fellow church members who have a problem with real estate.

Howard, a Flint, Michigan, realtor, often plays videotapes for clients and employees.

Though Howard is expanding his outreach to those who need help within the church family, he has not pulled back any of his efforts to reach nonmembers.

Recently Howard and Juanita actively participated in a Revelation Seminar conducted at the First Flint Church. Every evening the Bryants faithfully brought several guests to the seminar and studied the Bible with them between meetings.

This type of dedication to witnessing has given Howard the thrill of seeing nearly 100 people baptized.

Howard firmly believes in using every avenue possible to win people to Christ. "I'm always on guard for an opportunity to say something for the Lord," he explains.

One of his most effective tools for sharing is the use of videotapes. Howard says, "I've had people give me every excuse in the book as to why they can't accept an invitation to attend church. But when I play them a sermon tape as they sit in my office or in our home, their attitudes change.

"In these neutral settings they can see what the service is actually like. At this point the invitation to attend church becomes much easier to accept."

Howard is convinced that Adventist churches, institutions, and church members would benefit greatly by building up their videotape libraries.

"I'll play a tape for anyone who'll sit and listen," he says. "I think we could use this method to reach shut-ins and people in hospitals. We could really extend ourselves more to tell other people about the church."

For one moment imagine what would happen if every church member came to attention and stood on guard for every opportunity "to say something for the Lord." What an army we would see!

During the Federation Officers Seminar held in October, those present were encouraged to plan ahead and be prepared for emergencies.

Seminar Challenges Federation Officers

LAKE UNION—"Working for Outcasts" was the theme of the keynote address by Don A. Copey, community services director for the Lake Union Conference, during the Federation Officers Seminar.

The seminar was held October 19 to 21 in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Elder Copey said: "Many, if informed of truth, could not comprehend it. Their lives are so filled with personal challenge and tragedy that their greatest need is for food, clothing and shelter—not doctrine."

"When they have been fed, washed and decently clothed in the context of Christian love, they can respond to the story of salvation."

This was the challenge that guided the workshop.

Perry Pedersen from the General Conference community services department conducted two workshops and gave the Sabbath sermon.

He emphasized that, in the many faceted ministries of community services, being prepared to respond is the key to most successful programs, for disasters and emergencies seldom happen at convenient times.

He challenged those present to make plans ahead of time so that emergencies can be met with carefully prepared materials and procedures.

Adventist community services centers are not only to respond to emergencies, they are also encouraged to be alert for ways in which they can be of more service. It was suggested that seminars and workshops on subjects that will meet the felt needs of people should be conducted.

Elder John Swanson, community services director for the Michigan Conference, shared with attendees the types of health programs that can be incorporated into their ministries: Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking, stress control seminars, screening programs for high blood pressure and glaucoma.

Many of the Federations expressed an interest in these concepts of service, and commented:

"I am so glad I attended this seminar." "Now I understand my work better." "We should have this type of seminar more often."

Many experiences of God's blessings were shared from throughout the union.

Adalon Turner of the Detroit City Temple Church reported on the support of the community for the soup kitchen and shelter house being run by her church. More than $70,000 has been donated by various agencies and others to make the program a success.

The Illinois Conference has just received 29,000 pounds of dried fruit, donated to help those in need. And the Adventist Spanish Better Living Center has received hundreds of new men's suits to distribute to those in need.

Community services personnel look forward to even greater achievements for God in 1985.

Perry Pedersen from the General Conference community services department conducted two workshops and gave the Sabbath sermon.

Lake Union Conference News Note

● Lake Union literature evangelists sold $521,856.64 during the month of August. This represents the highest month in sales ever. In a 10-day period, one book worker sold $6,500. Within that same period of time, one Listen worker sold $16,000. Illinois Conference sales for the month totaled $172,000. All this occurred despite colporteurs losing three work days during August in order to attend the yearly Literature Evangelist Institute which was held at Camp Go-Seek in Wisconsin.

Court Rules In Favor Of Adventist

LAKE UNION—On November 5, 1974, the Michigan Court of Appeals in a two-to-one decision ruled that unemployment benefits cannot be denied an employee who becomes a Seventh-day Adventist, and then is fired for not working on Saturday.

This is one of the first appellate court decisions on this issue since the United States Supreme Court addressed the subject of religion and unemployment compensation in the case of Thomas v. Review Board of the Indiana Employment Security Division.

In Thomas, the Court held that a Jehovah's Witness who refused to work in a process manufacturing armaments, which was contrary to his religious beliefs, was entitled to unemployment compensation benefits.

The Supreme Court said: "... the termination flowed from the fact that employment, once acceptable, became religiously objectionable because of changed conditions."

Georganne Adams of Flint, Michigan, became a Seventh-day Adventist while employed by the Key State Bank. Because she would not thereafter work on Saturdays, she was fired.

The bank claimed the principle of the Thomas case did not apply because Mrs. Adams changed her religion after she became an employee, whereas in Thomas the employer was the one who changed the employment conditions.

The Court of Appeals disagreed, stating: "We do not accept the view that the First Amendment provides the right to adhere to religious beliefs, but not the right to adopt such beliefs in the first instance or to convert from one faith to another."

It is not known whether Key State Bank will attempt to appeal this case to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Michigan Conference News Notes

● The Buchanan Church recently celebrated a homecoming service. Former members and friends filled the church. Special music was provided by a quartet and Pastor Brian Stevenson from Berrien Springs, Michigan. Pastor John Kroncke presented a sermon titled "Three Space Travelers Speak of God." Harold Leffler, church elder, coordinated the day's activities. A fellowship meal completed the celebration.

● Curriculum changes this year at Andrews Academy "affect the social studies, music and history departments," said Dr. Richard Orrison, principal. The music department has added a bell choir. The social studies department is conducting a new program. Students involved spend a week in Washington and visit Capitol Hill, the White House, the Pentagon and the Smithsonian museums. The English and history department is offering an advanced placement program. It enables students to receive college credit or skip college introductory level courses if they score three or higher on a scale from one to five. The tests are provided by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey.

● C. Warren Becker of Andrews University presented a sacred organ concert on November 3 at the dedication service for the new Rogers Kent 705 organ recently purchased by members of the Hastings Church. Dr. Becker also presented the church worship service using the theme "Hymns of the Second Advent." Conference President Charles Keymer officiated at the act of dedication, and District Superintendent Elmer Malcolm of Battle Creek, Michigan, gave the dedication prayer. Pastor Paul Howell welcomed the many guests who attended.

● The third quarter of 1984 was "kindness quarter" in the St. Charles Sabbath School. When someone remembered to do something kind for another member, the member who had the kindness done wrote it on a large poster in the foyer. At the end of the quarter a king and queen of kindness were chosen. Rachel Grattop and Jerry Fraser received the honor and received a corsage and boutonniere on Thirteenth Sabbath. Kindness quarter was initiated by Audrey Burns, superintendent, to encourage members to be more caring.

Craft Seminar Conducted at Grand Ledge

MICHIGAN—More than 230 Pathfinders and their club directors, representing 58 churches, attended the 1984 Craft Seminar at Grand Ledge Adventist Academy on Sunday, November 4. Classes were offered in 19 areas of nature study and artistic expression, including quilting (above), woodcarving, photography, orienteering, fire building and camp cookery. Charles Case, Lake Union Conference youth director, taught a camping skills and techniques class to a large group in preparation for the camporee to be held July 31 to August 6, 1985, in Colorado. Pan African Club Is Available For Services

MICHIGAN—Denford Musvosvi, an African student attending Michigan State University in East Lansing, was asked to present a mission story for the Williamston, Michigan, Church.

He mentioned the Pan African Club from Andrews University and ultimately arranged for them to present the entire Sabbath School and church services.

In addition to the 40 members of the club who could attend the service, another 40 from East Lansing campus also attended. Many of them were not Adventists but were delighted to be a part of the service.

Church growth was the theme of their message, according to Alex Mwakikoti, an Andrews University graduate taking classes in communications at Michigan State University.

"The sheep, not the shepherd, are responsible for reproduction in the flock," said the club members. Thus they stressed that the laymen in Africa are responsible for the rapid church growth there. The club members believe the same could happen in North America.

Pastor Don Marsh recommends that other churches invite the Pan African Club to bring programs to them. He believes it would: 1) stimulate members to arouse and do something, and 2) show them they are a part of a world church that is on the move.

The Pan African Club was organized on the Andrews University campus in 1976 with three members. Now they number more than 100. They are willing to go to other churches if financial help can be provided to assist with transportation costs.

Andrews Student Is Awarded Dow Scholarship

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Roger H. Pak, a graduate of Westmont, Illinois, High School, has been awarded a $5,000 Dow Company Foundation Undergraduate Scholarship at Andrews University for the 1984-85 school year.

Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chan Il Pak of Westmont, Illinois, and a freshman chemistry major at Andrews.

To continue to receive this award for future years, Roger must maintain a 3.0 grade point average in credited courses and continue studying at Andrews toward a career in chemistry, said Robert A. Wilkins, chairman of the chemistry department.

Roger was valedictorian of his high school class, a National Merit finalist, an Illinois State Scholar and has participated in the Argonne National Laboratory Program studying heterogeneous catalysis on zeolites.

Dr. Wilkins explained that Andrews is one of 20 colleges and universities nationwide to be awarded the Dow scholarships in 1984.

The program actually provided $24,000; $6,000 per year for four years to each institution. Of this amount, $5,000 is designated for a scholarship and $1,000 for the

Andrews Alumni Increase Giving

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Alumni of Andrews University gave $207,390 to the annual alumni fund for unrestricted use during the 1983-84 fiscal year.

This is a 12 percent increase in giving over the previous year and more than two times the amount given in 1979-80.

These increases can be attributed largely to the incentives provided by the Business Executives' Challenge to Alumni (B.E.C.A.) program.

The five-year, $2 million B.E.C.A. effort was started in 1979 by a group of Adventist business people who wanted to see alumni support increase from its then 6.5 percent.

After four years of B.E.C.A. challenges, 25.4 percent of the alumni from the 11 colleges and universities in North America are supporting their alma maters through the annual fund. This makes it appear possible to reach a collective level of one-third participation in the coming years.

Last year 25.7 percent of Andrews' alumni contributed to the annual fund.

In addition to their unrestricted support, Andrews' alumni contributed $117,309 in restricted gifts for specific projects.

B.E.C.A. challenges to the 11 colleges and universities for 1983-84 totaled $312,000, of which $36,000 was awarded to Andrews at a presentation during the General Conference Annual Council in October.

discretionary use of the chemistry department to assist the educational process.

"With this award," said Dr. Wilkins, "we have been named among some of the top chemistry departments in the country."

Andrews' Enrollment Shows Gain

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University's fall enrollment stands at 3,034, the second highest ever, according to President Richard Leshner.

The official report lists 2,006 students as undergraduates and 1,028 students taking graduate-level work.

Dr. Leshner said that this year's fall enrollment report shows a gain of 156 students from the same time last year. The first-year freshman class, with 478 students, is the second largest ever.

He also reported that all of the university's six schools show an increase in number of students since last autumn, and enrollment in the Theological Seminary and College of Technology are fall quarter records.

Andrews' highest enrollment, 3,083 students, came in the fall of 1981.

Dr. Leshner said, "We have 3,034 students. Of course, some of these students are part time. Our full-time equivalent figure stands at 2,538. This also is up from last year's figure of 2,397, of which we are very pleased."

"I feel that Andrews continues to offer students educational programs that will benefit them in career fields they have chosen and for life as well."

By schools, the College of Arts and Sciences has 1,201 students; College of Technology, 506; School of Graduate Studies, 329; School of Business, 302; School of Education, 257, and Theological Seminary, 439.

Among undergraduates, there are 650 first- and second-year freshmen, 383 sophomores, 322 juniors, 463 seniors and 188 students in various other categories.

Among graduate students, there are 768 students taking master's degree programs, 128 in doctoral degree programs, and 132 others.

In addition to the 3,034 students described above, there are 20 students involved in special work and study programs around the world.

Another 310 undergraduate students are enrolled in programs leading to an Andrews degree offered at three affiliated foreign colleges—the Adventist Seminary of West Africa in Nigeria, Helderberg College in South Africa and Newbold College in England.

This adds to an overall total of 3,364 students involved in educational activities related to Andrews University this fall.

Photos Document Life in Hebron

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University presents "Hebron-Community in Crisis," an exhibit of photography by Sarah Hultmark, documenting daily life in Hebron, Jordan.

Dr. Hultmark is a member of Professional Photographers of America and the New Pictorial Society. Her doctorate is in Iranian geography.

The exhibit opened Monday, November 19, with a lecture by the artist in the Andrews Art Gallery.

Hebron was chosen as the "community in crisis" because it is the second most holy city of the three holy cities of Judaism, according to John Hackwell, administrative assistant to the director of the Institute of Archaeology at Andrews.

Hebron is the site of the cave of Machpelah where Abraham buried his wife Sarah. He and his sons and their wives were also buried there. Hebron was also the capital of David's kingdom before he conquered Jerusalem.

"Until 1936 there were always Jews in Hebron. The last Jews were removed by the British in 1936 to protect them during Arab disturbances," Mr. Hackwell noted. During the Jordanian occupation (1950-67) the entire Jewish quarter was demolished, the ancient cemetery vandalized and sewers emptied into the area.

Shortly after the Six-Day War in 1967, Jewish settlers attempted to return to their holy city to rebuild what had been demolished. Eventually the town of Kiryat Arba was built outside Hebron for Jews who could not find homes inside the city.

At present it is against the law for Jews to buy property in the city. In spite of a penalty of death for such a transaction, many Jews are willing to buy and many Muslims would like to sell, according to Dr. Hultmark.

The Jewish settlers and the Hebroni Arabs "have to contend with three 'rulers'—the Israeli military, the Jordanian money dispensers and the P.L.O. [Palestinian Liberation Organization]. Since all three 'rulers' have different and antagonistic goals, the crisis of daily life in Hebron is an unending nightmare," said Dr. Hultmark.

Dr. Hultmark has been a photographer and journalist since she was 17. Currently she specializes in documentaries of communities in crisis and historical documentation for museums, libraries and historical groups.

The Hebron exhibit has been commissioned by the Agape Christian Fellowship Churches of Southwestern Michigan. It will run from November 20 through December 14 and admission is free.

Daily gallery hours are 8 A.M. to noon and 1 to 5 P.M., Monday through Thursday. Friday hours are from 8 A.M. to noon. Weekend viewing is by appointment only.

Illinois Conference News Notes

● At the midway point in a four-week Prophecy Expo Crusade at the Quincy Church, a bus load of 18 persons from an Independent Christian Church came to the meetings. They attended the Tuesday evening Prophecy Expo led by their minister, Robert Cook, who said that his church normally holds Bible study on Tuesday evenings. But a member of his church recommended the Prophecy Expo, so he and his members decided to attend.

Pastor Herman Ottshofski expressed his satisfaction with the attendance figures of the crusade. The meetings were conducted by Art Swinson, evangelist for the Illinois Conference according to George Wiemerslage, communication secretary.

● The St. Elmo Church has become the Vandalia Church. The event coincided with a Prophecy Expo series conducted by Elder Art Swinson, July 21 to August 18 which resulted in seven baptisms. Earlier this summer Pastor David Pancake conducted a Revelation

Seminar at the First National Bank Hospitality Room in Vandalia. This was attended by 30 people, according to Jim Mattiotta, communication secretary.

● The Illinois Pathfinder area coordinators conducted minicamporees on September 21 to 23 and October 13 to 15. The Chicago area camporee was held at Kankakee State Park with an attendance of 255. The Southern/Central Camporee was held at Siloam Springs State Park near Quincy in October with an attendance of 38 Pathfinders and staff. The aim of both camporees was to help the clubs in their preparation for the 1985 camporee in Colorado. Pastor Bob Holbrook and Pastor Stephen Shaw conducted the church services. Two talent programs were conducted by the clubs present at the camporees; a spiritual program and a secular one. Sundays were days of activity and included Pathfinder classwork and physical activities, according to Terry Burg, area coordinator, south Chicago.

Progressive Guild Reaches Milestone

LAKE REGION—October 7 will long be remembered in the Shiloh Church in Chicago. On this date many friends and members gathered to help the Progressive Guild celebrate its 50th anniversary.

The guest speaker for this celebration was Christine Thompson, a former principal of the Shiloh Academy. She now resides in Kansas City.

Mrs. Thompson spoke highly of the Progressive Guild and is well aware of and acquainted with its accomplishments.

At the end of her speech, a check for $500 was presented to Ivan Van Lange, for the Shiloh Academy. Mr. Van Lange is principal.

The Progressive Guild is a church club that was organized for the purpose of assisting the church and other individuals financially.

Members were also interested in creating a deeper interest in the study of the Bible, health, personal hygiene, literature and art.

The founder of the Progressive Guild was Mary Brown, and there were 33 original members in the club.

Seven original members are still actively involved in the club's activities. They are Bessie Redmond, Beulah McHenry, Nettie T. Coile, Inez Weathington, Lou Ella Fuller, Zuela Pollard, and Georgie Clark.

Members Help Jail Inmates

LAKE REGION—For one month during each quarter, the members of the Bethel Church in Lansing, Michigan, conduct the worship service each Sunday at the local county jail.

The format of the service is simple and informal. With the assistance of the pianist, a few songs are sung. The 15 to 20 inmates frequently select the songs; all of the services revolve around the concerns of inmates.

Robert L. Jones, pastor of the Bethel Church, serves as one of the chaplains at the jail.

Burns Avenue Church Celebrates 50 Years

LAKE REGION—Burns Avenue Church in Detroit, Michigan, recently celebrated its 50th anniversary.

Guest speakers for this occasion included the following former pastors: Thomas M. Kelly, Robert Tolson, Franklin Hill Sr., and James D. Parker. Charles D. Joseph, president of Lake Region Conference, was also a guest speaker.

Each of the speakers was presented a souvenir plate which contained the pictures of former pastors.

State Representative Joe Young made a presentation to Elder Zadock Reid for community service during the celebration. And State Representative Jackie Vaughn presented an award to Judge Broughton, a member of the Burns Avenue Church.

The celebration ended with a banquet held at the Book Cadillac Hotel in downtown Detroit. Guest speaker for this affair was Dr. Frank W. Hale Jr., vice provost for minority affairs and professor of communications at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

The anniversary program was spearheaded by Derek Logan and Delores Taylor of the Burns Avenue Church.

The history of the church goes back to George Jordan, a young man in his mid-30's who had a dream in which the Lord instructed him to form a new Adventist Church on the east side of Detroit.

He and several Hartford church members made plans. With the assistance of Elder Louis H. Bland, a small group formed the Eastside Mission.

George, young in the Adventist faith, soon realized that a new home and shepherd were needed to watch over the flock. Thomas Jimerson, a layman from Inkster, Michigan, answered the call.

From the mid-1930's to the mid-1940's this group grew to more than 100 members.

Late in the 1940's, Elder W. D. Forde was sent by the Lake Region Conference to pastor the church. It was during his pastorate that the first Youth for Christ Choir was formed.

Emma Tatum-Harrington served as the first president and Samuel Dent as director.

Early in 1950, church members found a meeting place in a church of another denomination.

A new church home was founded in 1954. This building, now known as the Burns Avenue Church, was purchased for $83,000. Members were able to burn the mortgage within a three-year period.

Elder Forde was succeeded by Elder Clinton F. Warren in 1957. Directed by him, church members purchased and established the Davison Junior Academy (now known as the Warren Campus of Peterson-Warren Academy).

In 1964, Robert Tolson, a local elder, pastored the church for one year.

Elder Franklin S. Hill Sr. arrived in 1965 and remained approximately three years. The church continued its growth and progress.

Elder T. Marshall Kelly, a singing evangelist, came in 1968. His evangelism and radio ministry almost doubled the church membership during the next nine years.

In 1977, Elder J. David Parker was instrumental in consolidating the Peterson-Warren Academy. During his pastorate, the church recognized its need for a new facility.

Elder Reid came in 1983 with the vision and expertise to help the church fulfill its dream of a new building.

With the Lord's guidance, Burns Avenue members believe this dream will become a reality.

New Format for Primary Sabbath School Lessons

BOISE, IDAHO—Pacific Press and the General Conference Sabbath School department have announced a change in the format for the Primary Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly.

Beginning in the first quarter of 1985, the Primary Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly will no longer be inserted in Primary Treasure.

The new quarterly will be a separate piece containing 64 pages of lessons and Sabbath School materials. In addition to the Sabbath School lessons, the reformatting quarterly will contain a mission story, the theme song for the quarter, puzzles and exercises children enjoy.

The covers for these quarterlies are being done by well-known South American artist Heber Pintos.

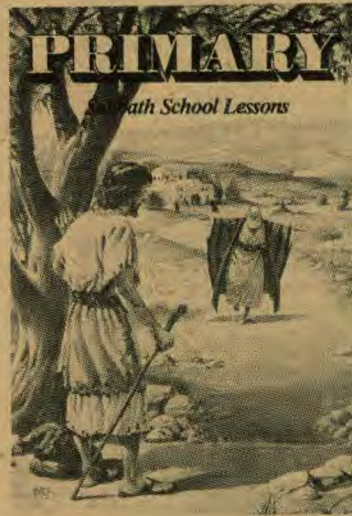

Specially commissioned to do these covers, Mr. Pintos is no stranger to primary-age children; he has been doing much of the illustrating for the children's magazines of Pacific Press, El Amigo and Rainbow Friends.

In addition to the four-color cover, some color will appear in other parts of the quarterly. It is expected that this additional use of color will enhance the quarterly's appearance and appeal.

Set to be trimmed the same size as Signs of the Times, the Primary Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly should be easy to use. The editor will be Helen Craig, an associate director in the General Conference Sabbath School department.

On this year's Sabbath School supply reorder form a line has been added for the Primary Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly.

In order to receive a supply of quarterlies, the amount must be entered on the form. No supply will automatically be sent. Prices have been set at $6.50 for a full year or $1.75 for single copies.

"... All our greatness is like a flower that droops and falls."

World Church News Notes

● The second quarter of 1984 was the largest second quarter for new member increases—107,584—in the church's history. That total represents 1,182 baptisms per day, bringing world membership to 4.26 million, according to William Quigley, coordinator of the 1,000 Days of Reaping. The Inter-American Division leads in total new members with 135,798, South America is close behind with 114,562 and the Australasian Division has added 29.75 souls per day, almost four more than the original goal.

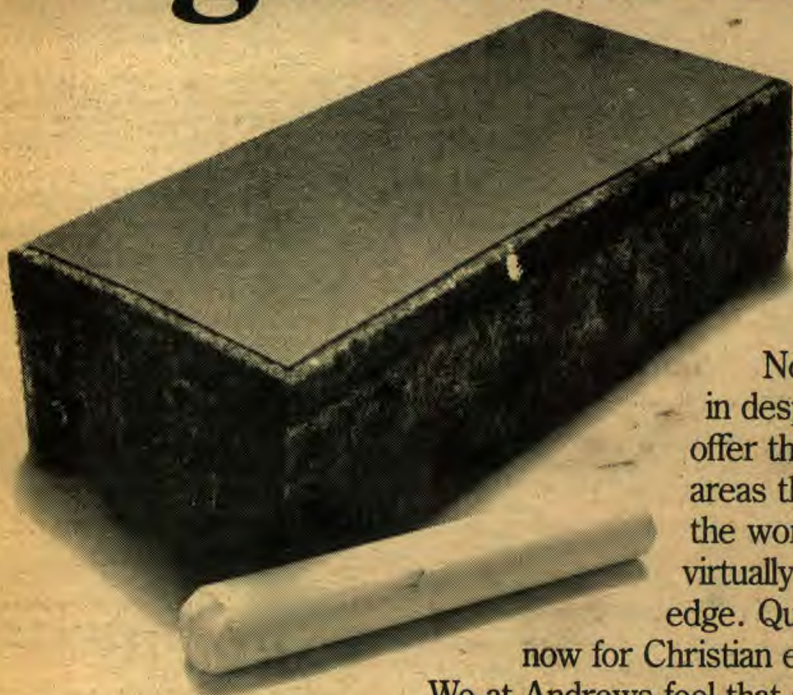

● According to G. Ralph Thompson, secretary of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in his report to the 1984 Annual Council, 1,101 missionaries were sent out by the church in 1983. Regular mission service departures totaled 655; 286 were new missionaries; 369 were those returning to assignments after furlough. An additional 446 volunteer workers brought the total to 1,101.

● Celebration, the Adventist Church's newest journal, is being published by the Review and Herald for the North American Division Sabbath School department. Small group interaction and evangelism in the Sabbath School programs will be the focus of Celebration. Designed as part of the Caring Church program being fostered within North America, the journal will promote new approaches in Sabbath Schools. Harold Baasch, the former public relations, marketing, and development director for the Adventist Health System/Sunbelt Health Care Corporation, has been elected editor of Celebration. Celebration will be used throughout the division beginning the third quarter of 1985.

● In a special Sabbath presentation October 20 during Faith for Today's Advisory Board, Director Dan Matthews presented a gift of 13 "Westbrook Hospital" programs to Adventist church leaders from the Soviet Union. Receiving the videotapes, which will be used by church leaders in Russia, were Elder Michael Kulakov, president of the Association of Seventh-day Adventists in the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic, and Elder N. A. Zhukaluk, co-chairman of the church in the Ukraine.

● Tithe and mission offerings in the North American Division for the first nine months of 1984 increased over comparable 1983 figures, according to statistics released by the General Conference. Tithe in the nine union conferences increased 6 percent to $211.1 million from the 1983 figure of $199.9 million. Contributions to the World Mission Fund totaled $15.5 million, an increase of one percent from the $15.4 given in 1983.

It takes great teachers to make great teachers.

Andrews University's School of Education believes in "total education." Developing our students into the finest teachers is only half of our goal. Developing them into the finest Christian teachers is the other half.

Now more than ever our society is in desperate need of teachers that can offer this "total education." In countless areas throughout this country as well as the world, both children and adults are virtually starving for this complete knowledge. Quite simply, there's more of a need now for Christian education than ever before.

We at Andrews feel that a "regular" teacher just isn't enough.

There's a need for educators who have a strong sense of caring. And loving. And nurturing.

These special teachers are the kind who teach at Andrews.

And these are the kind of teachers who graduate from Andrews.

Evidently, our philosophy is working. Last year alone, every one of Andrews' elementary education majors were hired as teachers right out of college. Every one.

To find out how our great teachers can make you a great teacher, just call one of our admissions counselors toll free.

1000 DAYS OF REAPING

Praise and Thanksgiving

Everett E. Cumbo
President
Illinois Conference

Scripture records God's people stopping their regular activities at certain times each year to praise God for His blessings and to thank Him for His goodness. A great revival usually resulted from this expression of love and gratitude to God.

Today, however, it is felt by many that a whole day spent in praise and thanksgiving could be wasted time.

Every person living enjoys being thanked, and usually the spirit of gratitude results in mutual spiritual and even physical blessing to all parties concerned.

Our God is a great lover. He loves to give to us. All we need to do is look around and we can see all He has given us; health, families, truth, forgiveness, peace of mind, homes, abundant food, and on and on. The best of all, however, was when He gave Himself for each of us on the cross. As a result, heaven is open and available to us.

One time Jesus was confronted with a parade of misery—10 lepers who were crying out for help. People in need always moved Jesus to compassion. He stopped and, because He is such a lover, He reached out and touched the "unclean" lepers and made them all whole. Then Jesus went on about His business. He never waited for accolades or thanks, but His heart of love longed to see some response, a flicker of gratitude. This story is sad yet happy—happy because one did come back to say thank you, and sad because it was only one.

The Illinois Conference has much to be thankful for—1,003 new brothers and sisters baptized as of the end of October. The membership grew 622 in three quarters and, at the end of September, totaled 11,142. Three new groups have been organized into church companies; church buildings have been dedicated; the academy building program (Master Plan) is continuing; new church and school buildings are under construction. Don't you think it's time for praise and thanksgiving?

Sunday, November 18, at 10 A.M. at Broadview Academy is the day for praise and thanksgiving. Jesus is waiting for your thank you in time, energy, offerings—life. I hope He doesn't have to say, "Were there not 10 cleansed? but where are the nine?" (Luke 17:17).

John Bernet, left, Lake Union publishing director, shows Lake Union President Robert H. Carter the new condensed edition of the Conflict of the Ages series. It is believed that the modest price of this paperback edition will enable literature evangelists to place many of these sets in homes they visit. See story on page one.
