The Westmont, Illinois, Korean Church benefited from the Lake Union Conference Revolving Fund.

Revolving Fund Helps Purchase Korean Church

ILLINOIS—The Korean members who have been renting a church in Hinsdale, Illinois, for the past five years have been praying for God's guidance and direction for a meeting house.

When driving on 55th street in Westmont one day, the pastor noticed a for sale sign in front of the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses. Calling the real estate office, a price was agreed upon which was about the price of just the land!

Since the Korean people have come to this new land, where things are done in a different way, many times they have had to accept work in which they were not trained in Korea and, therefore, have had to take reduced incomes. I feel God is letting them know of

His concern for His people by providing a church home at so reasonable a price.

The new Westmont Korean Church could not have been paid for, however, if it had not been for the faithful people who are willing to loan money to the Lake Union Revolving Fund, which in turn was loaned to the Korean Church at a low interest rate.

Why not let God use your funds to see Providence at work? He will work through dedicated people who know their God.

For information on the Revolving Fund, please write to: Revolving fund, Lake Union Conference, Box C, Berrien Springs, MI 49103; 616-473-4541.

Youths Collect Newspapers for Sale

LAKE REGION—The personal ministries department at the Capitol City Church in Indianapolis, Indiana, has organized a youth group in the church known as "youth in training." This group of young people recently collected newspapers for a newspaper sale. Seated on the pile of papers they collected are, from lower front to top: Todd Chapman, Jeffrey Campbell, Winfred Davis, Pasha Robinson and Kirk Chapman.

Michigan Faces Decision On a Constitutional Convention

LAKE UNION—Thomas Jefferson once said, "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Never has this statement had a truer meaning than as it applies to the attempt to call a constitutional convention.

Thirty-two of the necessary 34 states have requested Congress to call a constitutional convention to deal with the issue of a balanced budget. However, many constitutional scholars are of the opinion that a constitutional convention, once convened, cannot be limited. It is, in effect, a body which can rewrite the present Constitution or propose a new one.

At issue would be the civil and religious liberties which we enjoy under our existing Constitution.

Many of the 32 states which have requested the convening of a constitutional convention did so without hearing and with very little public notice. However, this issue has been receiving closer examination, and last year every state that considered the issue refused to be numbered among the states requesting the convention.

Last year in Michigan, although the constitutional convention resolution easily passed the Republican-controlled Senate, it was turned down by the committee to which it was assigned in the House of Representatives.

This year again the resolution calling for a constitutional convention has passed the Senate and is currently at issue in the Michigan State House of Representatives. It appears that this year's fight against the resolution will be even more difficult and that the issue will be decided by a vote of the full House of Representatives.

It is crucial that the representatives hear from each constituent regarding this vital issue.

Write, visit or call your representatives and request them to do all within their power to defeat the resolution calling for a constitutional convention. If you are unsure who your state representative is, please contact your pastor for the address and telephone number.

Andrews Commended for Helping Ethiopia

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Lee Grady, right, director of material resources and refugees for the Adventist Development and Relief Agency (A.D.R.A.) in Washington, D.C., made a presentation to Andrews University during services at Pioneer Memorial Church on Sabbath, February 23. Mr. Grady presented a document for the outstanding response of the university community to a call for relief funds for Ethiopia. The university community donated more than $20,000. The money was the result of private gifts and proceeds saved by the university cafeteria when students fasted. Also, children of Pioneer Memorial Church brought gifts of clothing to the church at Christmas time to aid Ethiopian children. From left are: Dwight Nelson, senior pastor of Pioneer Memorial Church, and Esther Rosado, president of Andrews World Missions Club.

Campaign Results in 12 Baptisms

MICHIGAN—An evangelistic series by the Holley-Woods team in Holland, Michigan, resulted in 12 baptisms. Many who were baptized remarked about their joy at finding Bible truth.

One student from the church school, Amy Wolters, had been in the baptismal class for three years. "I wanted to be baptized, but I didn't feel I was ready," she said. "When the evangelistic series came, I realized that being baptized was what I wanted." Amy is 14 years old.

Throughout the year Holland members have been preparing for the meetings with other outreach programs such as stress seminars, stop smoking plans, and vegetarian cooking classes.

The evangelistic series lasted for

'... Ye Came Unto Me'

"I was in prison, and ye came unto me."

This statement of Christ to His disciples found in Matthew 25:36 has become very real to Virginia Chamberlain, Wilma Rush and Pastor Milton Fish of the Ottawa, Illinois, Church. They have been visiting Illinois State prisoners for more than a year.

You may have already met one of their converts. He is Eugene Hopson, and he was featured in this quarter's NO ONE BUT YOU program entitled "One Tiny Snowflake."

Now three more men from the prison system have accepted Christ as their personal Saviour, and they will be baptized on April 23 in the Pontiac Prison baptistry.

Lamont, one of the men scheduled for baptism, says of the Bible study team, "I'm so thankful that the Lord has sent you to me. You have helped me so much to learn what God wants me to do with my life."

Lamont is studying to be a cosmetologist while he serves four more years of his prison sentence. His sister is already a cosmetologist, and Lamont plans to go into business with her when he is released.

Another man, Michael, is scheduled for release from prison in October of this year. He is currently a cook at the prison and is licensed as such by the state of Illinois.

Upon his release Michael would like to become a cook in an Adventist institution. While working he plans to attend school and become a paramedic.

Michael is a vegetarian, and last November prison officials allowed him to eat his "special" Thanksgiving dinner with Virginia and her husband, Irvin, in the guards' cafeteria.

"We have grown to love Michael," says Virginia. "He calls us Mom and Dad."

Carl, the third man, has been looking forward to baptism since last summer, but he waited patiently until Michael and Lamont made their decisions. Carl's mother is a Christian of another denomination, and, according to Carl, she is happy that he has found God.

Carl is serving a 30-year prison sentence, and he wants to minister for Christ while he is serving his term. He says, "I want to try to help my brothers [fellow inmates] find what I have found."

Each of the three men preparing for baptism have studied the Bible with members of the prison ministry team for more than a year.

Virginia says, "It's a thrill to see how these men have grown spiritually during that time. They respect and accept God's promises." Then she adds with a chuckle, "And they can quote Scripture as well as any Seventh-day Adventist."

Sears Donates Grant to Andrews

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University has received an unrestricted grant of $2,300 from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. The grant check was presented to W. Richard Lesh, Andrews University president, by Richard J. Regan, operations manager for the Orchards Mall Sears store in Benton Harbor, Michigan. The grant was part of $33,100 distributed to 22 privately supported colleges and universities in Michigan. The Michigan colleges and universities are among 942 private, accredited two- and four-year institutions which are sharing in $1,750,000 in Sears Foundation funds for the 1984-85 academic year. According to Mr. Regan, these funds may be used as the colleges and universities deem necessary.

Special Tribute Given to Andrews University Employees

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University paid special tribute to its longtime employees during a dinner hosted by the board of trustees for faculty and staff Sunday evening, February 24. Honored were, from left: Richard Schwarz, 30 years; Marguerite Ross, 35 years; Merlene Ogden, 30 years; John Waller, Sarah Conard, Asa Thoresen, Betty Guthrie and Ingrid Johnson, 25 years.

Church for Blind Established in Chicago

ILLINOIS—Providing services for the visually impaired is Roy Berg's job with Christian Record Braille Foundation, a job he has held for the past six years.

Assisting Roy is his wife, Mary, and together they don't believe in "just doing the job." Having invited blind folk to attend church with them on many occasions and having witnessed the baptism of several of them, the Bergs knew worship services would be an excellent evangelism outreach of the Caring Church.

Convinced God was calling them to initiate worship services for the visually impaired, Roy and Mary set the date; January 12, 1985, at 2:30 P.M. Once the date had been set, Roy and Mary made arrangements for the church service, invited the visually impaired to attend, and arranged for their transportation.

The Bergs obtained permission to use the West Central Church in Chicago. The conference youth van was used to transport blind people to the church, and Adventist friends also provided rides.

Horace Dukes, a layman from Joliet, Illinois, was contacted to preach the message. The Alan Twing family from the Hinsdale Church provided special music, and several visually impaired people took part in the worship service.

Tom Ruth from the Burbank Church led the song service, Marcus A. Reid recited a poem, and Sandy Farrentino from the Hinsdale Church had the Scripture reading. Emily Coleman, a community member, gave the benediction.

Attending the service from Berrien Springs was Odea Sigh, lake area director for Christian Record Braille Foundation.

Following the service, hot and cold cider were served. The visually impaired made new friends and fellowshiped with each other before being taken home.

Forty people attended the first worship service; half were visually impaired. One woman asked if it would be okay to invite her friends to attend future services.

More than 11,000 blind people live in the city of Chicago. In Illinois 3,000 people become blind each year. A work of evangelism must be carried to these individuals.

Worship services for the visually impaired will be held the second and fourth Sabbaths of each month at the West Central Church at 2:30 P.M. Anyone who can assist in transportation or other aspects of this ministry should contact Roy Berg, area representative for Christian Record Braille Foundation, 25W569 Burlington, Naperville, IL 60540; 312-961-3070.

Reynold Koze, left, is one of 30 new members welcomed to the South Bend, Indiana, Church by Pastor Jerry Fore on January 12.

South Bend Honors Newcomers

INDIANA—The South Bend, Indiana, congregation welcomed their new members on Sabbath, January 12, 1985.

Thirty persons were given special welcome during the Sabbath service. In 1984, 12 persons became members by baptism, 18 by transfer of membership.

Pastor Jerry Fore publicly introduced each person. The newly baptized, in turn, told how they became interested in becoming Seventh-day Adventists.

Physical Therapy Program to Begin At Andrews

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University recently announced the beginning of a new physical therapy program.

According to C. William Habenicht, associate professor and chairman of the department, the new program will lead to the master of science degree in physical therapy.

The physical therapy classes start with the junior undergraduate year and continue through one year of graduate study. They begin in July and include 30 weeks of clinical education in affiliated institutions. The required two years of preprofessional courses may be taken at any accredited college or university, said Dr. Habenicht.

Information about the program and application packets may be obtained by contacting the Department of Physical Therapy, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104; 616-471-6011.

Indiana Conference News Notes

● The Indianapolis Southside Sabbath School's Enrichment Program began with five classes on January 5. Classes that meet at 9:15 A.M. are: 1) Cancer Risk Reduction taught by Dr. Jim Morris, 2) Understanding Children by Kay Kuzma, taught by Jon Williams, 3) Health Secrets of the Bible, taught by Louise Suttle, 4) Coming of the Comforter, taught by Pastor Carroll Lawson, 5) Women of the Bible from Joyce Landorf's material, taught by Edith Pleasants. The five classes are 30 minutes long and will meet through March 30. Attendance in Sabbath School has improved and emphasis on Christian growth is fostered, reports Brenda Johnson, church communication secretary.

● On January 9, Pastor Carroll Lawson began a series of studies on the lands of the Bible at the Indianapolis Southside Church. Pastor Lawson traveled in the Holy Land at Christmas time and returned with current pictures. He shares these with the Wednesday evening church family, according to Brenda Johnson, communication secretary.

● Friends and relatives of the Cicero Church School enjoyed the band and choir concert performed in December, according to Ramona Trubey, communication secretary. Teacher Maureen Plumb directed the band, and Jean Thompson played for and conducted the choir. Pete Byers, school board chairman, called for an offering to make improvements in the school plant. Fred Rogers, church pastor, closed the program with prayer.

● The Elwood Church community service: workers made 12 lap robes for residents in the Dickey Nursing Home recently, according to Geneva Groover, communication secretary.

● During 1984 the Greenfield Church celebrated its 100th anniversary in many different ways. In September a special service commemorated the date. Elder Richard Tanner was the speaker. Mrs. Beverly Hoehn, harpist from Bloomington; Cynthia Prime, soloist, and Larry Umbarger, accordionist, provided special music throughout the celebration service. According to David Rock, communication secretary, projects for 1985 include using materials from Concerned Communication to advertise the church and visitation of senior citizens of the community.

● Two students in the Elkhart Church School won awards in the Miles Laboratory Health Fair Children's Essay Contest for Elkhart. Laura Blair won the second-grade category with her essay "What I Do to Stay Healthy," and fifth grader Bob Blair wrote on "Why I Want to Stay Healthy." The health fair was held at the Elkhart headquarters of Miles Laboratories for its more than 3,200 employees and families. Principles of the Seventh-day Adventist philosophy of health were shared in the essays, according to Sharon Earls, Elkhart Church communication secretary.

● The Revelation Seminar conducted in Muncie by Chico Rivera of the Marion district ended with the baptism of eight people during December by Muncie Pastor Steve Rude. Interest in the study of the Bible remained constant throughout the series and others are continuing their study of the Bible, reports Vivian Wake, communication secretary.

● On January 19, 17 members of the sophomore class at Indiana Academy presented a musical program at the Hamilton Heights Health Center in Arcadia, Indiana. The program included a flute solo, a brass trio, group singing, and a recitation of the 23rd Psalm. Visitation followed, reported Lorrie Dana, assistant communication secretary of the Cicero Church.

● Responses to Investment projects had been slow until Barbara Fisher, Investment leader of the Richmond Church, challenged the members with two special projects late in 1984: the Bic shaver idea as shown in the Adventist Review of January 19, 1984, for the men, and store coupons for the women. Commitment to the shaving program was accepted slowly. Then the idea caught on and coupons and close shaves became the topic of church social times. Four men totaled more than 363 shaves from four blades. Nancy Gillem, communication secretary, said, "With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible" (Matthew 19:26).

● To provide an opportunity for more members to get to know one another better, the Kokomo Church has scheduled a "fellowship time" one-half hour before Sabbath School begins each week. A light snack and juice are served. Between 15 and 25 members have been coming to church at 9 A.M. to participate in this special time.

Senior Citizens Honored in Marion

INDIANA—The Marion Church honored their senior citizens with a Sabbath recognition day and dinner. Special recognition was given to the three oldest members: Mr. and Mrs. Homer Adams, ages 92 and 93 respectively, and Florence Thompson, age 90. Hilda Adams has been a member since 1922, and her husband, Homer, since 1945. Mrs. Thompson has been a member since 1926. "The more you serve the Lord, the better off you are," said Mr. Adams when asked if he had any advice to offer the church family. Although there have been some bitter cold Sabbaths, the Adamses are always present at Sabbath worships. They use the special parking place reserved for them next to the rear door. According to Gerry Patterson, communication secretary, the parking place was a special gift of the Marion Church to Mr. and Mrs. Adams.

Chicago Pathfinders Honored

LAKE REGION—Recently the Pathfinder Club of the Bethlehem French Church in Chicago had its first Friday evening investiture ceremony.

The leaders of youth activities, Maurice Gauthier, Margareth Douyon, Anne Alexis and Kethlie Joseph, saw the fulfillment of their efforts as Helping Hands, Sunbeams, and Busy Bees, received their investiture from Conrad Gill. Elder Gill, who is the director of Adventist youth in the Lake Region Conference, also challenged the youth with his sermon on the subject of achieving higher goals.

The guest speaker for the Sabbath Pathfinder Day divine worship service was Charles D. Joseph, president of the Lake Region Conference. He was accompanied by his wife, Vivian.

In his message, Dr. Joseph invited the congregation to trust the Lord and to remember how in the past God had directed His people through difficult circumstances.

After the Sabbath worship service a dinner was served in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph.

In the afternoon, during the Adventist youth hour, Elder Joseph led out in a question and answer period.

Lake Region Conference News Notes

● The South Shore Spanish Church received three new members into church fellowship during the month of December. They are: Benjamin Sanchez, Eliud Gonzalez and Jorge Quintana Jr.

● Capitol City Church in Indianapolis was the host church for the weekend of Illiana Adventist Youth Federation services. The first meeting was held on Friday evening. Richard Washington, pastor of the Eastside Church in Indianapolis was the keynote speaker. On Sabbath, Anthony Lewis, pastor of Reid Memorial Church in East St. Louis, delivered the divine worship message entitled "Gone With the Wind." The hymn of meditation and the appeal song were sung by Paula Irby, a member of the Bible Chapel in Springfield, Illinois. In the afternoon a Bible prophecy workshop was held. It featured Karen Black, a Ph.D. candidate at Notre Dame University. The final Sabbath activities included a mini-concert and Bible Bowl, reported Charli Cartwright, communication secretary.

● Stratford Memorial Church in Chicago has a community services care program that is bringing results. Along with the feeding program and clothing giveaway, a Bible study program is conducted each Wednesday morning. According to Dorothy White, communication secretary, three people have been baptized as a result of the studies.

● December 8 was designated Youth Sabbath at the Conant Gardens Church in Detroit. This was a day set aside for youth involvement. Sabbath School participants were Theresa Brown, superintendent; Vannassa Finley, secretary; Hurbert Buchanan, mission story, and Donna Rapp, Investment report. Sabbath School special music was given by Ladonna and Tanica Willis, daughters of Pastor and Mrs. Philip Willis. The speaker for the divine worship service was Trevor Gardner, a Ph.D. from Detroit, Michigan. His sermon was entitled "Out of the Fire." During the afternoon Adventist youth program the young people were given the opportunity to ask questions and receive answers from Dr. Gardner and Newton Haillette, a Ph.D. from Southfield, Michigan, according to Matilda Martin, communication secretary.

● The Ephesus Church in Hopkins Park, Illinois, recently held its annual Community Guest

Day services. Pastor James Humphreys presented the sermon "Who Is Thy Neighbor?" Special music was provided by Frank McGee, pastor of the Macedonia Baptist Church, and Don McNeal, a member of the Kankakee, Illinois, Adventist Church. A presentation of the Community Services Award was given to Dwayne Purnell, a member of the Hopkins Park community. Certificates were also given to the following church members for community services work: Augusta and Anna Charleston, L. C. and Helen Fleming, Velma Hughes, Victoria Jimerson, and Mose and Bernice Marshall. These certificates were presented by Dollie Williams, president of the Chicagoland Federation.

● The members and visitors of the Hyde Park Church in Chicago welcomed Robert Lee Jones, their new pastor, on Sabbath morning, January 5. R. C. Brown Sr., secretary of the Lake Region Conference, introduced the new pastor. Elder Jones then presented a sermon entitled "Love, the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man." After the divine worship service Elder Jones and his family were guests of honor at a fellowship dinner.

Lake Union Conference News Notes

● The North American Division Committee has allocated $30,000 of Inner City Funds to projects in the Lake Union Conference for 1985. Programs that will benefit include the Chicago Spanish Better Living Center ($5,000), the Chicago Westside Better Living Center ($8,000), the Detroit Better Living Center ($12,000), and the Indianapolis Better Living Center ($5,000). The committee granted a total of $185,000 to 30 projects in the eight United States union conferences.

● Lavonne Fehlhaber of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was active in helping to begin a new church—the Franklin Church—in the southern part of Milwaukee. Lavonne found the literature ministry a good means of finding spiritually interested people, and last November Lavonne attended a Lake Union publishing department training school and became a full-time literature evangelist.

SIGNS Wins Souls

New Member Gives New Life To Irvington

INDIANA—When Sue Lasiter heard about the Revelation Seminar, she attended, for she was searching for answers to life's important questions. Her baptism on April 28, 1984, was the beginning of a busy life in the Indianapolis Irvington Church. Sue collects newspapers and aluminum cans for the church building fund, helps with Vacation Bible School and works with Pathfinders. Her skills in the building program of the new social wing of the church include insulating, hanging drywall and painting.

Michigan Conference News Notes

● Ernest Tarzwell, Sabbath School superintendent of the Benton Harbor Fairplain Church, recently reported that LaDonna Day, Investment leader, challenged the users of safety razors to participate in a safety razor project similar to the one reported in the Adventist Review (January 19, 1984). Using a 19-cent Bic razor, some men had donated 25 cents for each shave they got with the same razor. Members were invited to take home a soft drink can covered with a label identifying it as a Faith Kit. "On February 19, 1984, my first quarter was placed into the Faith Kit," Ernest said. "By November 26, I had 278 shaves, and the razor was still going strong."

● Pathfinders from the Troy and Warren churches collected 828 cans of food for food baskets. The community services centers of both churches donated money for fresh produce, and the Warren Church cooking class made jelly. Roy and Marilyn Cook, directors, helped the Pathfinders deliver 25 baskets to those in need.

● Members of the Buchanan Church placed a small loaf of bread in the homes of more than 1,300 families and gave opportunity for the people who received them to respond with funds for African starving refugees.

● Joyce Yeager, choir director of the Muskegon Church, conducted a Christmas cantata for the combined choirs of the Adventist and Temple United Methodist churches. Joyce is also organist and choir director for the Methodist church. The cantata was given in both churches.

● A Grief Recovery Seminar was held recently at the Hillsdale Church for the Hillsdale and Prattville church members. Eleven women who had gone through the pain of loss (husbands, jobs, health) participated. A bond of friendship has developed in the group and plans have been made for follow-up. Several non-members attended and have indicated an interest in Adventist beliefs.

● John Wolf, a member at Muskegon Church recently conducted a Revelation Seminar. A dinner was served by the Lumberjack Pathfinder Club at the conclusion of the seminar. An advance course is continuing for the group.

● Students in the Farmington Church School recently adopted grandparents from a nursing home near them. Fifteen students took part in the project. One student, Amaris Hyla, said, "When I touched one elderly woman's hand I suddenly had a very special feeling inside of me. I realized that this person was special. . . . On the way back to school I sent up a little thank-you prayer to God for helping me learn new things about myself and other people."

● Adelphian Academy's chapter of Adventist Youth for Better Living (A.Y.B.L.) recently sponsored a cooking school on campus. About 16 non-Adventists attended the four-night session which dealt with fatigue, stress, obesity, vegetarianism, breadmaking, low sugar/low fat desserts, and fomentations. On the last night of the course, Cindy Tutsch, director, gave a demonstration of chest fomentations for use in cases of respiratory problems such as chest colds. Lectures were given by nutritionist Kathy Webster and home economist Natalie DeWind. Adelphian students registered guests, helped with samples and presented audiovisual materials. "I hope we can conduct a number of cooking schools this year," said Alesha Bibler, A.Y.B.L. president. "The community is really interested in the information we share about healthy choices."

● Young people from Northview Junior Academy in Cadillac, Michigan, look forward to visiting the residents at Lakeview Manor Nursing Home once a month. According to Mary Lou Kline, communication secretary of the Cadillac Church, as soon as the children return to school after their visit, they begin planning for the next month. "The children really enjoy talking with the elderly people, shaking hands and getting acquainted," she said. The program has been conducted for six years and was started by Pastor and Mrs. Robert Quillin who have since moved away. Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Buell now direct the program. Pastor Quillin, who is currently pastor of the Lake City, Manton and Marion churches, still conducts a service at the home on Sabbath afternoons. One baptism has resulted and many others have shown an interest.

● Bob Powell, a prisoner at Kinross Correctional Facility, was baptized in the Sault Ste. Marie Church on November 17 by Pastor David Banks. Bob is the second prisoner to be baptized in the past three months. Although Bob had to come to the church in handcuffs and with two guards, this did not deter him. His mother attended the baptism. She is from Menominee, Michigan, and had never attended an Adventist church before. Bob was presented with a Conflict of the Ages set of books by church members, and a fellowship dinner was held. This was only the second time in the history of the prison that an inmate was allowed to leave for any reason.

Induction Held for National Honor Society

MICHIGAN—Induction services for the Alma L. Campbell Chapter of the National Honor Society were held January 28 at Andrews Academy. Admission to the honor society is limited to students who have achieved sophomore status and demonstrate qualities of service, character and leadership, according to Donna Wheeker, faculty sponsor. Sophomore students must have a grade point average of 3.6; juniors, 3.5 and seniors, 3.4 to be selected for membership. The chapter is named in honor of Mrs. Victor Campbell who was an English teacher at the academy from 1946 to 1958. Juniors and seniors who were inducted are, from left, Francis Recalde, Magali Gutekunst, Shelley Peterson, Sandra Araujo, Craig van Rooyen, Ivan Davis, Lynette Simmons and Kim Vance. Parent-Support Network To Form at Spring Meetings

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Two meetings of Seventh-day Adventist parents this spring will lead to the formation of a parent-support network to fight alcohol and drug use among Adventist youth.

The first such meeting, to be chaired by Listen Editor Gary B. Swanson, is scheduled for Sabbath, March 16, at 4 P.M. in the San Diego Central Adventist Church. It will follow a two-day conference held by the California Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth (C.F.P.).

Adventist parents, educators, church administrators, and those interested are urged to attend.

C.F.P. Chairman Carla Lowe and National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth Vice President Carolyn Burns will attend this meeting to discuss how Adventist parents can adapt the parent-support concept to meet the needs of the church.

Dr. Pat Mutch, director of the Institute of Alcoholism and Drug Dependency at Andrews University, will also be on hand.

Attendees will have opportunity to discuss concerns and formulate recommendations to be presented at an organizational meeting on April 27 in Atlanta.

Francis A. Soper, retired editor of Listen magazine; Dr. Mutch, and Gary Swanson will be present at the Atlanta meeting. It is scheduled for 4 P.M. in the Belvedere Adventist Church.

The meetings this spring in San Diego and Atlanta are pivotal in the organization of the parent-support movement in the Adventist Church. They follow one preliminary session in Atlanta and two in Washington, D.C.

Interest has grown from 13 parents at the first meeting to more than 120. Local Adventist parent-support groups have sprung up in half a dozen places in North America.

Ultimately leaders hope to network these localized parent-support groups into a world-wide organization to foster the formation of hundreds of groups of concerned parents who are realizing that they can do something about their children's drug use.

Young Enough To Ingather

MICHIGAN—Leslie and Ella Bridgeman of the Cadillac, Michigan, Church, who are in their 80's, find joy ingathering. They have found that one of the best and easiest ways to witness and share Jesus is going door-to-door. Leslie and Ella have no trouble doing their share of the territory. Along with 80 others from their church, they finished the entire area in two nights and collected $1,028. During the solicitation many experiences were reported and several Bible studies were begun, according to Mary Lou Kline, communication secretary.

Baptism Held at Marshfield

WISCONSIN—Dick Kramer and Mary Pekarske affirmed their vows and were baptized into the body of Christ on January 19 at the Marshfield, Wisconsin, Church.

The baptisms were the result of the Revelation Seminar given by Mike Brusky, his wife, Barb, and Libby Pesek, Bible worker.

This seminar was not the first Dick and Mary had attended. In the autumn of 1983, Dr. Jack Bohannon conducted a Revelation Exposition in Marshfield and they attended faithfully. However, neither were ready to make a decision.

Then last fall, Mary received in the mail a colorful invitation to Mike's seminar. She registered to attend classes and made a positive decision.

"I don't know how I'm going to break this to my family," confided Mary, a social worker, "I'm third generation Catholic. But, you know, this is the truth or I would not be sitting here."

Dick came to church one Sabbath morning requesting baptism. He was directed to Mike's study group and there a bond of friendship grew between them.

Mike will be starting a second Revelation Seminar in March.

At Andrews a great education is never enough.

Most of our nation's colleges think a great education is good enough.

We don't. Like other Adventist colleges we think there's more. A lot more.

Naturally, we at Andrews take pride in offering some of the finest degree programs in Adventist education.

And of course we're happy with the high percentage of job placement among our graduating students.

But that's just the beginning. Because Andrews is a Seventh-day Adventist university, religious life is central to what an Andrews education is all about.

Throughout your life you may have heard of "higher education—higher values." At Andrews, you experience it.

There's a genuine friendliness that permeates our campus.

It includes people who are willing to reach out and help in all kinds of ways.

People who care about you as a student and a person.

People who work together.

People who pray together.

You see, at Andrews, throughout every activity and every course, you'll be immersed in an educational experience along side people who share your commitment to Christ, and who believe, like you do, in the infinite worth of an Adventist education.

So why go to college and just get a great education when you can attend Andrews University and get a great education... and then some.

Discover Andrews. Call one of our admission counselors toll free: Nationwide call

My attention was instantly drawn to the beautiful owl on the January 29, 1985, cover of the Herald. Those big eyes, the colorful feathers, and the setting in which the photo was taken made me feel as though I were right there. Lorraine Guild-Smith should be commended for her photo entry. I wish, however, that more information had been given. I'd like to know what type of owl it is, where the photo was taken, and under what conditions. Knowing this would add even more interest to this unique shot.

Charles Rasmussen
Berrien Springs, Michigan

The January 29, 1985, Lake Union Herald cover photo is a saw-whet owl taken with a Cannon AE-1, 25 ASA with a 55 mm. macro lens and a 2 X teleconverter on flash setting. Saw-whets are the smallest owls in eastern North America at only seven to eight and a half inches in length; therefore, on the cover the owl is about life size.

One Sabbath afternoon of February 1983, my husband, C. Roy Smith, received a call from one of his academy students, informing us that a small owl was seen in the evergreens at Love Creek Nature Center. (The location is approximately five miles from Andrews University.) To our delight, the owl was there late that afternoon on a limb only six feet up. We didn't leave till I had finished a 36-exposure roll of 200 ASA film. Still being new at photography (only 10 months earlier I had learned how to put film in my birthday gift), uncertain about the results, and very much drawn to this delightful tame little owl, I returned the next morning. He was in the exact spot where he had been the day before.

With just the saw-whet and myself on this rainy morning, I started focusing again. Since the owl seemed to be undisturbed by my presence and the camera flashes, I got the confidence to try a very slow film—25 ASA. This was claimed to be ideal for highlights and detail. However, one major problem existed—a couple of pine needles covered a portion of the little owl's face. There appeared to be only one solution. Slowly I picked up a short dry twig, then carefully reached over to move the pine needles. The saw-whet clicked his bill and moved slightly. Just perfect! I was almost too excited to hold the camera steady. That shot produced the photo which I have had an opportunity to share with the Lake Union Herald.

What God has created is delightful and inspiring, if we would only take the time to appreciate it.

My People

C. D. Joseph
President
Lake Region Conference

This is the time of year when Americans begin to hear words of history that call to one's attention the fact that all ethnic groups have made substantial contributions to the progress of this country. We sing songs, recite poems, and witness plays dedicated to the proposition of producing a common bond among the people of the land.

It was many years ago that a people called the children of Israel experienced deliverance from a land where they, too, contributed much toward its building process. God delivered them into a wilderness struggle, and at times they did not have enough food or water. The journey was strenuous and long. Sometimes they wished for the security of bondage rather than the struggle of freedom. But God in His wisdom continued to urge them forward. He provided them with the resources they needed and rebuked them for their lack of faith.

God wanted a people. He wanted to shape the children of Israel into "His people" by means of a covenant with them. A divine power was to be given to His people as a result of their agreeing to a covenant relationship. And when they strayed away, God sent prophets to call them back. In the midst of strange cultures, God wanted them to remain faithful to Him.

God wanted His people to be different from all others. They were not to allow outside influences to impact change in their relationship to Him. They were always to remember that He was the Lord, their God.

God also asked His people to remember Him in their dealings with one another. All of His people were to have equal access to God and His promises. They were not to be an elite group, but a group through which the promises of God could flow to others. His people were to share their resources with the poor. The care of the needy was not a favor but a must.

I think of the conditions existing in our world today. While we all know that we cannot solve some of the complex problems that cause hunger, poverty and crime, I do feel that God has called us into a covenant relationship with Him. When I see the inner city centers operating at full tilt, the community services centers distributing to the needy, and Bible studies meeting spiritual needs, I am reminded again and again that the root of all this activity is a commission from God and a covenant relationship with Him to be His people.
