

SUPPLEMENT TO REVIEW and HERALD

NOVEMBER 23, 1897.

—The university librarian at Ann Arbor has asked the board of regents to favor the erection of an addition to the university library building, which is proving inadequate to the requirements of the institution. The alumni are to be requested to contribute $100,800 for this purpose.

—The number of fatal accidents resulting from various sports during the past year is as follows: 1,350 fatal accidents from swimming; 986 from boating; 654 from hunting; 264 from bicycling; 333 from horseback riding; 22 from ice-boating; 6 from base-ball; 4 from tennis; 2 from golf; 11 from football.

—A great fire has occurred in London, destroying property to the estimated value of from ten to twenty million dollars. The burned district lies east of Aldersgate street, between that and Red Cross street. The ancient and historic Church of St. Giles has been much injured; it contained an interesting old baptismal font and a statue of Milton.

—A decision of the Wyoming Supreme Court makes it imperative that all voters be able to read the Constitution in English, or forfeit their suffrage. This is a decision upon the educational requirements of the State Constitution; heretofore foreigners have been admitted to citizenship on their ability to read the Constitution as printed in their own language.

—A fundamental proof of the universality of the Lord's prayer was given at the weekly meeting of the Chicago Commons kindergarten the other day. The women were asked to repeat any verses learned in childhood, which they still remembered. A German, a Polish, and an Italian woman responded, each in her native language, and it was found that each woman had repeated the Lord's prayer.

—John M. Langston, colored orator and former congressman, died November 15. Mr. Langston was born a slave, emancipated at six years of age, educated at Oberlin, became a lawyer, held some small public offices in Ohio, became professor of law at Howard University, Washington, D. C., minister and consul-general to Hayti, president of an educational institution at Petersburg, Va., and member of the Fifty-first Congress.

—The Agricultural Department has established grass gardens, for the purpose of cultivating and experimenting with different kinds of grass. There are at present two gardens under cultivation,—one on the grounds of the department, and one at Knoxville, Tenn. In one of these gardens nearly five hundred varieties of grass and forage plants have been grown and experimented with the past year; and in the other, two hundred.

—While on the voyage from Aden to Sydney, Australia, lately, a steamship was wrecked; and although the sea was comparatively smooth, in the absence of life-saving facilities the passengers were in considerable danger. As a last resort, lines were attached to some pigs, and the animals thrown overboard. They swam successfully to land. Communication with the shore was thus gained, and by means of a traveling-cage all were saved. The ship was a total loss.

—One of the vice-presidents of the French Senate has written an open letter to the newspapers, in which he claims to be able to show the innocence of Alfred Dreyfus, the French officer condemned to life imprisonment on a Pacific island, for selling plans of French fortification to the German military authorities. The letter declares that the necessary documents have been submitted to the government, and have been in its possession for two weeks without anything having been done. The publication is made to force action.

—The investment of the United States government in reindeer for the Alaskan region has proved profitable. This year's increase of the herd has been five hundred; it aggregates now about fifteen hundred. A considerable number are to be taken across the ice from Point Barrow to serve as food for several hundred whalers who are imprisoned in the ice somewhere in the North Pacific. The government has detailed Lieutenant Bartholf and Lieutenant Jarvis, of the United States service, with a company of men, for this arduous enterprise.

GENERAL MEETING.

A GENERAL meeting will be held at Atalissa, Iowa, for those who live in the eastern part of the State, November 30 to December 5.

We are assured that there will be room for all who come. Bring bedding, and come prepared to care for yourselves as far as possible. We shall look for a full attendance. This meeting will take the place of the local meeting that it was expected would be held near this place earlier in the season. We expect to have assistance from away at this gathering.

God has richly blessed us in these meetings this year, and I know that he will bless at this one.

HOME-SCHOOL LESSON.—NO. 3.

[CONTINUED from the Christian Educator. Mrs. Henry's absence, in attending the W. C. T. U. convention in Toronto, prevented her from sending this lesson in, in time for the November Educator. It is printed here, in order not to delay or disappoint those who are using this series in the home instruction of their children.—EDITOR Christian Educator.]

FOR THE BLACKBOARD.

"God said, Let there be light." Gen. 1:3.
"Light is sown for the righteous." Ps. 97:11.
"The seed is the Word of God." Luke 8:11.
"In the beginning was the Word." John 1:1.
"The Word was made flesh." Verse 14.
"The Father,
The Word, } . . . these three are one."
The Holy Ghost, } 1 John 5:7.
"Heaven and earth shall pass away,
but
My words shall not pass away."

In our former lessons we have followed the simplest form of construction by which an idea can be conveyed through nouns and verbs only; but in this one, other forms of speech are introduced. It is well, as early as possible, to teach the little pupil to recognize the qualifying words, which are so constantly on the end of his tongue, as they appear on the printed page. It is a mistake to suppose that articles, conjunctions, adjectives, and adverbs must be suppressed in the first reading-lessons. Used in their natural relations to other parts of speech, they will be just as easily learned as the most common nouns. It is much the better way to combine articles, adverbs, etc., with nouns and verbs, so as to reproduce in the lesson the forms of easy and correct, but common, conversation. The language of the Bible is admirably adapted to a beginner's lessons. The Bible is more a children's book in this one regard, than any other which has ever been produced by all the artists who have attempted to write for little people.

I do not doubt but at first glance this lesson will seem rather solid for a child. But foundations should always be solid; and we are dealing with foundations. If you will look each word and sentence carefully over, you will find that while the truths which they carry are tremendous, the language is so straightforward and common that the child will get enough out of every word and sentence to be interested in it without any explanation. He will ask questions, or make some application of the truth, which will startle you because of the greatness of the thought which is back of it in his little brain. You will need to explain a few points; namely, that "the righteous" means those who know what is right and will do it; that "sown" means planted, as the seed is planted, so that something may grow from it. God planted his Word, and light grew from it, as the corn grows from the seed. The seed was "in the beginning," or first of all; the seed is always before the plant. The Word of God was the seed from which the things mentioned in the other two lessons grew.

Go back and review the former lessons in the light of this one. Combine the truths somewhat after this manner: God planted his Word, and there grew from it heaven, earth, light, water, grass, herbs, trees, man, woman,—all things that ever were, or ever will be. The Word was made heaven, earth, light, flesh of fowls, etc., flesh of man and woman, and Jesus. Heaven and earth shall pass away,—be reaped like a harvest, mown like the grass on the lawn,—but the root (the Word) shall remain, and can always bring more of the same sort, like the roots of the grass, or of a tree that has been cut down and produces new sprouts. This means that the Word of God is true; that it can never fail. Everything will come out just as he says it will.

A great many practical applications can be drawn from this lesson by any earnest, consecrated father and mother. It is capable of great variety. If you do not see it at once, pray over it, study it, give out to the children the very best that you find in it; and in this way it will grow upon you.

The language is within reach of the child; but the wisest man cannot grasp the greatness of the truth it carries.
MRS. S. M. I. HENRY.

A WORD FOR OUR SCANDINAVIAN PAPERS.

A FEW weeks ago we sent out a circular letter to those of our American churches which are in or near Scandinavian localities, as far as we know this to be the case, appealing to our American brethren to aid us in extending the circulation of our Swedish and Danish-Norwegian papers, Zions Vaktare, and Evangeliets Sendebud.

We are gratified to learn, from letters received, that some are giving this matter attention; and already we have received some orders as a response to this appeal. We fear, however, that some have laid the letter aside; and so we would again, in this way, call attention to this important matter.

It is certainly true, as one brother in the distant West announces to the churches under his jurisdiction, that the third angel's message must be proclaimed to the Scandinavians as well as to other nationalities. And while it is natural to feel a special interest in one's own nationality, we should remember that with God there is no such distinction; but that our field to work in is the world, including all nationalities and classes of people. While we feel an interest in foreign missions, and sacrifice means and sometimes ourselves, to help the work in distant lands, we should not forget the foreigners who are living in our own neighborhood. Here is a chance for every one of us to engage in foreign mission work.

We know that our Scandinavian churches have done a noble work in aiding to circulate the Sentinel and the Signs. We know, also, that in years past we have received considerable help from our English brethren in the direction of extending the circulation of our foreign papers; and for this we feel truly thankful. But as our Scandinavian Sabbath-keepers are still few in number, and nearly all limited in means, we hope that our English brethren living in or near Scandinavian localities, will again lend us a helping hand, that the usefulness of the Swedish and Danish-Norwegian papers may be greatly extended.

The two papers mentioned are of uniform size,—12 pages, 9½ x 13 inches in size. They combine the salient features of the Sentinel and the Signs, as well as of our health and educational papers. Many of our readers, even those not of our faith, have testified in letters that these papers are the best preachers they have ever had; and many are to-day rejoicing in the truth as the result of reading these periodicals. When we stop to consider that there are upward of a million Scandinavians in this country, and that as yet only a small fraction of this number have been privileged to learn about the precious Bible truths pertaining to our times, we see the urgent need of taking hold of this branch of our work as never before.

Doubtless there are churches in the Scandinavian localities, which did not receive the appeal referred to. If the elder or leader of every such church will inform us of a willingness to aid us in this matter, we shall be pleased to furnish specimen copies and special club rates.

Beloved brethren, we ask your candid and earnest attention to this appeal. We hope every English church in or near foreign settlements will help to disseminate the light of truth in the foreign languages in their neighborhood, and we know of no means so well suited to this work as our foreign papers, if they only may have your hands and feet and means to enable them to get into thousands of new homes. You sow the seed, with earnest petitions to God that his Spirit and blessing may attend your efforts, and these little silent missionaries will accomplish a work far beyond our expectations.

A. SWEDBERG,
Editor Zions Vaktare.

BATTLE CREEK COLLEGE WINTER SCHOOL.

THE Announcements of the Battle Creek College Winter School are now ready, and will be sent to those interested, on application. As before stated, the school will begin December 8, and continue twelve weeks; all who expect to attend should plan to arrive here by the 7th of December. A favor will be conferred on the managers of the school if those who expect to attend will write and tell us that they are coming, so that plans can be laid for their reception. Please state whether or not you desire rooms in the College Homes.

Instruction in the Bible will be given by Elder A. T. Jones; his theme will be the books of Daniel and Revelation. Professor Sutherland will carry on a line of instruction on education. Dr. J. H. Kellogg will give a series of talks on city mission work among the poor, and plans will be laid to develop a number of workers for this branch of work. Special attention will be given to preparing young men for the ministry and young women for the Bible work. Professor Griggs will devote much of his time to preparing students to enter our country churches as church-school teachers. A good, plain course in bookkeeping and business methods will be conducted by Prof. E. E. Gardner. All the common branches will be taught.

We trust that many will avail themselves of this excellent opportunity to learn the message for this time. It is our prayer that a goodly number will come with the determination to go out into the work as soon as school shall be over. This is the kind of people we especially want.

Write for the Announcement, and it will be mailed to you immediately. Address Battle Creek College, Battle Creek, Mich.

A LIFE SUBSCRIBER.

ONE of our ministers, in writing us concerning the REVIEW, says, "I want it distinctly understood that I am a life subscriber." This brother has sent us thirty subscriptions to the REVIEW since last spring. He says, "I am only too happy to do all I can to help the REVIEW to reach a larger circulation."

"WORDS OF TRUTH SERIES."

How many of the readers of the REVIEW are subscribers to the Words of Truth Series? How many know what it is? How many have seen and read the tracts, "How the Sabbath Came to Me," "Fundamental Principles of Seventh-day Adventists," "Personal Questions and Answers in Regard to the Sabbath," etc.? Would you not like to receive a copy of these publications promptly, as they are issued? They are all published in the Words of Truth Series, and the subscription price is only 10 cents a year. Already there have been seven numbers of the series issued, although the publication was begun only last February; and the next number will soon be ready. Send us your name, with 10 cents, and we will send you the Words of Truth Series for one year. Address REVIEW AND HERALD Publishing Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
